²⁸ And some of them were in charge of the utensils of ministration, for they will carry them in by number and carry them out by number. ²⁹And some of them were appointed over the vessels and over all the holy utensils and over the fine flour, the wine, the oil, the incense and the spices. ³⁰And some of the priests' sons were perfumers of unguents and for the spices. ³¹And Mattathias, one of the Leuites (this one was the firstborn of Salom the Korite), was in a position of trust over the tasks of sacrifice relating to the great priest's frying-pan. ³²And Banaia the Kaathite, one of their brothers, was in charge of the loaves of presentation to prepare them sabbath by sabbath.

³³ And these are the harp-singers, rulers of the Leuites' paternal families—appointed classes, for day and night they were in their posts at their tasks. ³⁴These were rulers of the Leuites' paternal families, chiefs according to their generations; they lived in Ierusalem.

³⁵ And Iiel, father of Gabaon, lived in Gabaon, and his wife's name was Moocha. ³⁶And his firstborn son was Abadon, and Sir and Kis and Baal and Ner and Nadab ³⁷and Gedour and his brother and Zacharia and Makelloth. ³⁸And Makelloth became the father of Samaa. And they lived in Ierusalem in the midst of their brothers with their brothers. ³⁹And Ner became the father of Kis, and Kis became the father of Saoul, and Saoul became the father of Ionathan and Melchisoué and Aminadab and Isbaal. ⁴⁰And Maribaal was Ionathan's son, and Maribaal became the father of Micha. ⁴¹And Micha's sons: Phaithon and Malach and Tharach. ⁴²And Achaz became the father of Iada, and Iada became the father of Galemeth and Gazmoth and Zambri, and Zambri became the father of Masa. ⁴³And Masa became the father of Baana: Raphaia was his son, Eleasa his son, Esel his son. ⁴⁴And Esel had six sons, and these are their names: Esdrikam his firstborn, Ismael and Saria and Abdia and Hanan: these were Esel's sons.

10 And allophytes fought against Israel, and they fled from before allophytes, and casualties fell on Mount Gelboue. ²And allophytes pursued after Saoul and after his sons, and allophytes struck Ionathan and Aminadab and Melchisoué, Saoul's sons. ³And the war was heavy on Saoul, and the archers found him with their arrows and pains, and he was hurt by the arrows. ⁴And Saoul said to the one bearing his arms, "Draw your sword, and stab me with it so that these uncircumcised do not come and make sport of me." But the one carrying his arms was not willing, because he was very afraid, and Saoul took his sword and fell on it. ⁵And the one carrying his arms saw that Saoul was dead, and he too fell on his sword and died. ⁶And Saoul and his three sons died that day, and all his house died together. ⁷And every man of Israel who was in the valley saw that Israel had fled and that Saoul and his sons had died, and they abandoned their cities and fled. And allophyles came and lived in them.

^aPossibly with the names of those ^bPossibly to render (other) service in the temple ^cReferent unclear; possibly day

8 And it happened on the next day, and allophyles came to plunder the casualties, and they found Saoul and his sons fallen on Mount Gelboue. ⁹And they stripped him and took his head and his equipment and sent them to the surrounding land of allophyles, to announce the good news to their idols and the people. ¹⁰And they put his equipment in the house of their god, and they put his head in the house of Dagon. ¹¹And all those living in Galaad heard what allophyles had done to Saoul and Israel. ¹²And every mighty man arose from Galaad and took Saoul's body and the bodies of his sons and carried them to labis, and they buried their bones under the oak in labis, and they fasted seven days.

13 And Saoul died in his acts of lawlessness, which he had done lawlessly against the Lord, according to the Lord's word, since he had not kept it, because Saoul had made inquiries at the ventriloquist to find out, and the prophet Samouel had answered him. ¹⁴And he did not seek the Lord, and he killed him and transferred the kingdom to Dauid son of Iessai.

11 And all Israel came to Dauid in Chebron, saying, "See, we are your bones and your flesh. ²And yesterday and the third day when Saoul was king, you were the one to lead Israel out and in, and the Lord your God said to you, "You will shepherd my people Israel, and you will be a leader over Israel." ³And all elders of Israel came to the king in Chebron, and King Dauid made a covenant with them at Chebron before the Lord. And they anointed Dauid as king over Israel according to the Lord's word through the hand of Samouel.

4 And the king went, and men of Israel, to Ierosalem (that is Iebous), and there were the Iebousites who inhabited the land. ⁵Now the inhabitants of Iebous said to Dauid, "You will not come in here." And Dauid anticipated them by seizing the enclosing of Sion (that is the city of Dauid). ⁶And Dauid said, "Anyone who first strikes a Iebousite will be a commander and a general." And Ioab son of Sarouia went up first and was made a commander. ⁷And Dauid established himself in the enclosing. Therefore he called it the city of Dauid. ⁸And he built the city all around, and he waged war and took the city. ⁹And Dauid kept going as he went and became great, and the Lord Almighty was with him.

10 And these are the chiefs of the mighty men, who were with Dauid, those supporting him in his reign with all of Israel to reign according to the Lord's word for Israel. ¹¹And this is the number of Dauid's mighty men: Iesebaal son of Hachamani, first of the thirty. He drew his sword once against three hundred casualties at one time.

12 And after him was Eleazar son of Dodai the Achochi. He was among the three mighty men. ¹³He was with Dauid in Phasodomin, and the allophyles gathered there for battle. And a part of the field was full of barley, and the people had fled from before allophyles. ¹⁴And he stood in the middle of the plot and saved it and struck down the allophyles, and the Lord brought about a great deliverance.

15 And three of the thirty commanders went down into the rock to reach Dauid in the cave of Odollam, and the allophyles' encampment had been pitched in the valley of the giants. ¹⁶And Dauid was then in the enclosing, and the main body of the allophyles was then in Baithleem. ¹⁷And Dauid desired and said, "Who will bring me water to drink from the cistern in Baithleem by the gate?" ¹⁸And the three broke through the allophyles' encampment and drew water from the cistern in Baithleem by the gate and took it and came to Dauid. But Dauid did not want it, in order to drink it, and poured it out to the Lord. ¹⁹And he said, "May God be merciful to me, to do this thing. Shall I drink these men's blood by means of their lives? For they brought it with their lives." And he declined to drink it. This is what the three mighty men did.

20 And Ioab's brother, Abessa—he was chief of the three—he drew his sword against three hundred casualties at one time, and he was the most famous among the three; ²¹of the three he was more renowned than the two, and he was their chief, and as far as the three he would not come.

22 And Banaias was Iodae's son, son of a mighty man; many are his deeds on behalf of Kabasael. He struck down the two Ariel of Moab, and he went down and struck the lion in the pit on a winter's day. ²³And he struck the Egyptian man, a highly visible man five cubits tall, and in the Egyptian's hand there was a spear like a part of a weavers' loom, and Banaias went down against him with a rod and snatched the spear from the Egyptian's hand and killed him with his spear. ²⁴This Banaias, Iodae's son, did, and by this he has a name among the three mighty ones. ²⁵He was more renowned than the thirty, but he did not gain the stature of the three. And Dauid appointed him over his paternal family.

26 And the mighty ones of the forces: Asael brother of Ioab, Eleanan son of Dodo from Baithlaem, ²⁷Sammoth the Hadi, Chelles the Pheloni, ²⁸Orai son of Ekkes the Thekoi, Abiezer the Anathothi, ²⁹Sobochai the Hasothi, Eli the Achoi, ³⁰Moorai the Netophathi, Cholod son of Nooza the Netophathi, ³¹Aithi son of Ribai from a hill of Benjamin, Banaias the Pharathoni, ³²Houri from Nachaligaas, Abiel the Garabeththi, ³³Azmoth the Beermi, Eliaba the Salaboni, ³⁴Bennaiaas, Hosom the Gennouni, Jonathan son of Sola the Harari, ³⁵Achim son of Sachar the Harari, Elphal son of Our, ³⁶Hophar the Mochorathi, Achia the Pheloni, ³⁷Heserai the Charmali, Naarai son of Azobai, ³⁸Ioel brother of Nathan, Mebaar son of Hagari, ³⁹Selek the Ammoni, Nachor the Berthi, who bore the arms of Ioab son of Sarouia, ⁴⁰Ira the Ietheri, Gareb the Ietheri, ⁴¹Ourias the Chetti, Zabet son of Achlia, ⁴²Adina son of Saiza the one of Rouben, a commander and thirty with him, ⁴³Hanan son of Moocha and Iosaphat the Baithani, ⁴⁴Ozia the Astarothi, Samma and Iel, sons of Chothan the Arari, ⁴⁵Jediel son of Sameri and Ioazae his brother the Ieasi, ⁴⁶Eliel the Mii and Iaribi and Iosia his son, Elnaam and Iethema the Moabite, ⁴⁷Aliel and Obed and Iesiel the Misabia.

12 And these are the ones who came to Daudid at Soklag, while he was still constrained from before Saoul son of Kis, and these were among the mighty men helping him in war ²and with bow, on the right and on the left. And there were slingers with stones and arrows. Of Saoul's brothers from Benjamin: ³the commander was Achiezer, and Ioas son of Asma the Gebothite and Ioel and Iophalet sons of Asmoth and Berchia and Ieoul the Anathothi ⁴and Samaia the Gabaonite, mighty among the thirty and over the thirty, ⁵Iermias and Ieziel and Ioanan and Iozabad the Gadarathi, ⁶(⁵)Eliazai and Iarimouth and Baalia and Samaria and Saphatia the Charaiphi, ⁷(⁶)Elkana and Iesouni and Ozzriel and Ioazar and Iesboam the Korites ⁸(⁷)and Elia and Zabadia sons of Iraam, sons of Gedor.

⁹(⁸) And from Gaddi there split off to join Daudid from the wilderness, strong mighty men in the line of battle, bearing shields and spears, and their faces were a lion's face, and they were swift as gazelles on the mountains in speed. ¹⁰(⁹)Azer was the commander, Abdia the second, Eliab the third, ¹¹(¹⁰)Masemanne the fourth, Iermia the fifth, ¹²(¹¹)Eththi the sixth, Eliab the seventh, ¹³(¹²)Ioanan the eighth, Eliazer the ninth, ¹⁴(¹³)Iermia the tenth, Machabannai the eleventh. ¹⁵(¹⁴)These men from the sons of Gad were commanders in the army: one small one against a hundred and a great one against a thousand. ¹⁶(¹⁵)These are those who crossed the Jordan in the first month, and it was filled to its entire walled edge, and they chased out all the inhabitants of the valleys from east to west.

¹⁷(¹⁶) And some of the sons of Benjamin and of Ioudas came to Daudid's assistance. ¹⁸(¹⁷)And Daudid went out to meet them and said to them, "If you have come to me in peace, may my heart be like itself for you, but if in order to betray me to my enemies, not in ^atruth of hand^a, may the God of our fathers see and decide." ¹⁹(¹⁸)And a spirit invested Amasai, commander of the thirty, and he said:

"Go forward—and your people, Daudid son of Iessai.

Peace, peace to you.

And peace to those who help you, because your God has helped you."

And Daudid received them and appointed them officers of the forces.

²⁰(¹⁹) And some of Manasses came over to Daudid when the allophytes came against Saoul for battle. And he did not help them, because ^bthere happened in council from^b the commanders of the allophytes, saying, "By means of the heads of those men he will return to his master Saoul."

²¹(²⁰)When he went to Soklag, some from Manasses approached him, Edna and Iozabath and Iodiel and Michael and Iosabeth and Elimouth and Selathi; chiefs of a thousand of Manasses they were. ²²(²¹)And they fought with Daudid against Geddour, for they were all mighty in strength and leaders in the army, in the force, ²³(²²)because day by day they would come to Daudid, forming an immense force, like a divine force.

²⁴(²³) And these are the names of the commanders of the army who came to Daudid in Chebron, to turn the kingdom of Saoul over to him according to the word of the Lord. ²⁵(²⁴)Sons of Ioudas, six thousand shield bearers and spear bearers and eight hundred mighty in pitched battle. ²⁶(²⁵)Of the sons of Symeon, seven thousand and one hundred, mighty in strength in pitched battle. ²⁷(²⁶)Of the sons of Leui, four thousand six hundred, ²⁸(²⁷)and Ioadae was leader for Aaron and with him three thousand seven hundred, ²⁹(²⁸)and Sadok was a young man mighty in strength, and there were twenty-two rulers of his ancestral house. ³⁰(²⁹)And out of the sons of Benjamin, the brothers of Saoul, three thousand, even though the majority of them remained loyal to guarding Saoul's house. ³¹(³⁰)And from the sons of Ephraim, twenty thousand eight hundred, mighty in strength, men renowned in their paternal houses. ³²(³¹)And from the half-tribe of Manasses, eighteen thousand, who were selected by name to make Daudid king. ³³(³²)And from the sons of Issachar, knowing understanding regarding the times, knowing what Israel should do regarding their^c magistracies, two hundred and all their brothers with them. ³⁴(³³)And from Zaboulon, proceeding to the battle of war with all their military equipment, fifty thousand to aid Daudid unwaveringly. ³⁵(³⁴)And a thousand rulers from Nephthali and thirty-seven thousand together with them with shields and spears. ³⁶(³⁵)And twenty-eight thousand eight hundred from the Danites, drawn up for war. ³⁷(³⁶)And forty thousand from Aser, coming out to assist in war. ³⁸(³⁷)And one hundred and twenty thousand from Rouben and Gaddi and from the half-tribe of Manasses from the other side of the Jordan with all their military equipment.

³⁹(³⁸) All these were warriors arrayed in battle order with irenic spirit, and they came to Chebron, to make Daudid king over all Israel. And the rest of Israel was of one mind to make Daudid king. ⁴⁰(³⁹)And they were there three days, eating and drinking, for their brothers made provision for them. ⁴¹(⁴⁰)And their neighbors as far away as Issachar and Zaboulon and Nephthali brought them food, flour, fruitcakes, raisins, wine and oil, calves and sheep in abundance on camels and donkeys and mules and on oxen, as there was gladness in Israel.

13 And Daudid consulted with the officers of thousands and officers of hundreds, with every commander. ²And Daudid said to the whole

^aPerhaps fair combat ^bPossibly a council took place among

^cAntecedent unclear, possibly times

assembly of Israel, "If it seems good to you and it finds favor with the Lord, our God, let us send word to those of our brothers who are left all over the land of Israel, and with them are the priests, the Levites in the cities of their possession, and they will come together to us, ³and let us transfer the ark of our God to us, since they have not sought it since the days of Saoul." ⁴And all the assembly stated that this should be done, since the plan seemed right in the view of all the people.

⁵ And Dauid assembled all Israel from the borders of Egypt and as far as the entrance of Hemath, to bring the ark of God from the city of Iarim. ⁶And Dauid brought it up, and all Israel went up to Dauid's city, which was in Ioudas, to bring up from there the ark of God the Lord, sitting on the cherubin, of him^a by whose name it is called. ⁷And they set the ark of God on a new cart from the house of Aminadab, and Oza and his brothers directed the cart. ⁸And Dauid and all Israel were playing^b before God with all their might and with harp-singers and with cinyras^c and with nablas^d, with drums and with cymbals and with trumpets.

⁹ And they came to the threshing floor, and Oza stretched out his hand to hold the ark, because the ox was tilting it. ¹⁰And the Lord raged with anger against Oza and struck him down on the spot for stretching out his hand to the ark, and he died there before God. ¹¹And Dauid was vexed that the Lord had struck a striking out at Oza, and called that place Oza's Striking Out, to this day. ¹²And Dauid was afraid of God that day, saying, "How shall I bring the ark of God closer to me?" ¹³And Dauid did not transfer the ark closer to him to Dauid's city but diverted it to the house of Abeddara the Geththite. ¹⁴And the ark of God sat in Abeddara's house for three months. And God blessed Abeddaram and all that he had.

14 And Chiram, king of Tyre, sent messengers to Dauid and cedar wood and masons for walls and carpenters for woodwork, to build a house for him. ²And Dauid knew that God had established him over Israel, because his kingdom was increased in loftiness for the sake of his people Israel.

³ And Dauid took more wives in Ierousalem, and again sons and daughters were born to Dauid. ⁴And these are the names of them that were born, whom he had in Ierousalem: Maa, Isobaam, Nathan, Salomon ⁵and Ibaar and Elisae and Eliphalet ⁶and Nage and Naphag and Ianouou ⁷and Elisamae and Balebdae and Eliphalet.

⁸ And allophytes heard that Dauid had been anointed king over all Israel, and all the allophytes went up to search out Dauid. And Dauid heard and went out to confront them. ⁹And allophytes came and raided in the valley of the giants. ¹⁰And Dauid inquired of God, saying, "If I go up against the allophytes, will you also give them into my hands?" And the Lord said to him, "Go up, and I will give them into your hands." ¹¹And he went up to Baalpharasin, and Dauid struck them down there. And Dauid said, "God has cut down my enemies by my hand like cutting through water." Therefore he called the name of the place Cutting-through Pharasine^e. ¹²And they abandoned their gods there, and Dauid said that they burn them with fire.

¹³ And allophytes added yet and again raided in the valley of the giants. ¹⁴And Dauid again inquired by God, and God said to him, "You shall not go after them. Turn back from them, and confront them near the pear trees. ¹⁵And it shall be when you hear the sound of the rustling of the tops of the pear trees, then you will go out to battle, for God has gone out before you to strike down the camp of the allophytes." ¹⁶And he did as God had commanded him and struck down the camp of the allophytes from Gabaon to Gazara. ¹⁷And Dauid's name was in all the land, and the Lord put the fear of him into all the nations.

15 And he made houses for himself in Dauid's city. And he prepared the place for the ark of God and made a tent for it. ²Then Dauid said, "It is not fit for anyone to lift the ark of God, save the Levites, as the Lord has chosen them to lift the Lord's ark and to minister to him forever. ³And Dauid assembled all Israel in Ierousalem, to bring up the ark of the Lord to the place he had prepared for it. ⁴And Dauid gathered the sons of Aaron and the Levites. ⁵Of the sons of Kaath: Ouriel the chief and his brothers, one hundred and twenty. ⁶Of the sons of Merari: Asaia the chief and his brothers, two hundred and fifty. ⁷Of the sons of Gersam: Ioel the chief and his brothers, one hundred and fifty. ⁸Of the sons of Elisaphan: Samaia the chief and his brothers, two hundred. ⁹Of the sons of Chebron: Eliel the chief and his brothers, eighty. ¹⁰Of the sons of Oziel: Aminadab the chief and his brothers, one hundred and twelve.

¹¹ And Dauid summoned the priests Sadok and Abiathar and the Levites Ouriel, Asaia, Ioel, Samaia, Eliel, Aminadab. ¹²And he said to them, "You are the rulers of the paternal families of the Levites; be sanctified, you and your brothers, and bring up the ark of the God Israel to where I have prepared for it, ¹³because when you were not around earlier our God cut into us, as we did not seek by means of a ruling." ¹⁴And the priests and Levites were sanctified to bring up the ark of Israel's God. ¹⁵And the sons of the Levites took the ark of God with carrying-poles on them, as Moyses commanded with a divine word according to prescription.

¹⁶ And Dauid said to the rulers of the Levites, "Install their brothers, the harp-singers, with instruments of songs, with nablas^d and cinyras^c and cymbals, to articulate upward with a sound of gladness." ¹⁷And the Levites appointed Ioel's son Haiman; of his brothers there was Asaph son of

^aI.e. the Lord's ^bI.e. sporting ^c = Heb kinnor = lyre ^d = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument

^eHeb = bursting out

Barachia, and from the sons of Merari, his brothers, Aithan son of Kisaïou. ¹⁸And with them were their brothers, the seconds, Zacharias and Oziel and Semiramoth and Iiel and Oni and Eliab and Banaia and Maasaia and Mattathia and Eliphalia and Makenia and Abdedom and Iiel and Ozias, the gatekeepers, ¹⁹and the harp-singers, Haiman, Asaph and Aithan, to produce sound with bronze cymbals, ²⁰Zacharias and Oziel, Semiramoth, Iiel, Oni, Eliab, Masaïas and Banaïas with nablas^a on alaimoth^b, ²¹and Mattathias and Eliphalias and Makenias and Abdedom and Iiel and Ozias to support them with cinyras^c amasenith^b, ²²and Chonenia, chief of the Leuites, chief of the singers, because he was intelligent. ²³And Barachia and Elkana were gatekeepers of the ark, ²⁴and Sobnia and Iosaphat and Nathanael and Amasai and Zacharia and Banai and Eliezer the priests were trumpeting with the trumpets before the ark of God. And Abdedom and Iia were gatekeepers of the ark of God.

²⁵ And there was Daud and the elders of Israel and the officers of thousands, who advanced to lead the ark of the Lord's covenant up from Abdedom's house with gladness. ²⁶And it happened, when God strengthened the Leuites as they were carrying the ark of the Lord's covenant, that they sacrificed seven calves and seven rams. ²⁷And Daud was girded with a linen garment, and all the Leuites, as they carried the ark of the Lord's covenant, and the harp-singers, and Chonenias the chief of the singers that sing, and Daud had on a linen garment. ²⁸And all Israel brought up the ark of the Lord's covenant with declamation and with the sound of sopher^d and with trumpets and with cymbals, sounding with nablas^a and with cinyras^c.

²⁹ And the ark of the Lord's covenant came, and it reached the city of Daud, and Melchol, Saoul's daughter, peeped out of the window and saw King Daud dancing and sporting, and she despised him in her heart.

16 And they brought in the ark of God and set it in the middle of the tent that Daud had pitched for it, and they offered whole burnt offerings and of deliverance before God. ²And Daud finished offering whole burnt offerings and of deliverance and blessed the people in the Lord's name. ³And he distributed to every man in Israel—from man even to woman—one baker's loaf of bread and a sweet cake.

⁴ And he appointed some of the Leuites as ministers before the ark of the Lord's covenant, proclaiming both to acknowledge and to praise the Lord, God of Israel; ⁵Asaph was the leader, and acting as his second was Zacharias, Iiel, Semiramoth, Iiel, Mattathias, Eliab and Banaïas and Abdedom and Iiel, with instruments, nablas^a and cinyras^c and Asaph sounding with cymbals ⁶and the priests Banaïas and Oziel with trumpets continually before the ark of God's covenant.

⁷ On that day at that time Daud at first stipulated that they praise the Lord, by the hand of Asaph and his brothers.

- ⁸ Acknowledge the Lord; call on him by his name;
make known his practices among peoples.
- ⁹ Sing to him, and sing hymns to him;
tell to all his wonderful things, which the Lord has done.
- ¹⁰ Praise in his holy name.
When a heart seeks his good pleasure, it shall be glad.
- ¹¹ Seek the Lord, and be strong;
seek his face continually.
- ¹² Be mindful of his wonderful things, which he did,
miracles and judgments of his mouth,
- ¹³ O offspring of Israel, his servants,
sons of Iakob, his chosen ones.
- ¹⁴ The Lord himself is our God;
in all the earth are his judgments,
- ¹⁵ since he is mindful of his covenant forever,
his word that he commanded for a thousand generations, which he pledged to Abraam,
and his oath to Isaak.
- ¹⁷ He established it^e for Iakob as an ordinance,
for Israel as an everlasting covenant, saying, "To you I will give the land of Chanaan
as a parcel for your inheritance."
- ¹⁹ When they became very few in number, as they were diminished and lived as resident aliens in it, they also advanced from nation to nation and from kingdom to another people.
- ²¹ He allowed no man to dominate them,
and he rebuked kings for their sake:
- ²² "Do not touch my anointed ones,
and among my prophets do no harm."
- ²³ Sing to the Lord, all the earth;
declare his deliverance from day to day,
because great is the Lord and highly praised;
he is terrible to all the gods,
because all the gods of the nations are idols,
but our God made the sky.
- ²⁷ Glory and commendation are before him, strength and boasting in his place.
- ²⁸ Give to the Lord, O paternal families of the nations;
give to the Lord glory and strength.
- ²⁹ Give to the Lord the glory of his name;
take gifts, and bring them before him.
And do obeisance to the Lord in his holy courts.
- ³⁰ Let all the earth fear from before him;

^a = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument ^bHeb = unknown musical term ^c = Heb kinnor = lyre

^dHeb = horn ^ei.e. oath

let the earth be firmly founded and not be shaken.

31 Let the sky be glad and the earth rejoice, and let them say among the nations that the Lord is king.

32 The sea shall roar together with its fullness, and the tree of the field and everything in it.

33 Then the wood of the forest will be glad before the Lord,
because he came to judge the earth.

34 Acknowledge the Lord, for it is good,
because his mercy is forever.

35 And say,

"Save us, O God of our salvation, and deliver us from the nations,
to praise your holy name
and boast in your praises.

36 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting to everlasting."
And all the people shall say, "Amen!"

And they praised the Lord.

37 And they left there Asaph and his brothers before the ark of the Lord's covenant to minister before the ark continually what was required from day to day. 38 And Abdedom and his brothers were sixty-eight, and Abdedom son of Idithon and Hossa became gatekeepers. 39 And they left^a Sadok the priest and his brothers the priests before the Lord's tent in Bama, which is in Gabaon, 40 to offer whole burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar of whole burnt offerings continually in the morning and evening and according to all that is written in the Lord's law, which he commanded upon the sons of Israel by the hand of Moyses, God's attendant. 41 And with him were Haiman and Idithon and the rest chosen by name to praise the Lord, for his mercy is forever. 42 And with them were trumpets and cymbals to sound and instruments for God's songs; Idithon's sons were for the gate.

43 And all the people went, each to his house, and Dauid returned to bless his house.

17 And it happened, when Dauid settled in his house, Dauid also said to the prophet Nathan, "Look, I am living in a house of cedar, and the ark of the Lord's covenant is under skins." 2 And Nathan said to Dauid, "Do all that you have in mind, because God is with you."

3 And it happened in that night, and a word of the Lord came to Nathan, saying: 4 Go, and tell Dauid my servant: Thus said the Lord, You shall not build me a house to live in it, 5 because I have not lived in a house since the day I brought up Israel until this day, and I was in a tent and in a lodging. 6 In all the areas I traversed in all Israel, when speaking did I speak to one tribe of Israel to shepherd my people, saying, You have not built me a house of cedar? 7 And now thus you will say to my slave Dauid: This is what the Lord Almighty says: I took you from the fold from behind the flocks to be a leader over my people Israel. 8 And I was with you in every place to which you went and utterly destroyed all your enemies from before you and made for you a name like the name of the great ones on the earth. 9 And I will appoint a place for my people Israel and will plant them, and they will encamp on their own and will no longer be concerned, and injustice will not add to humiliate them as at the outset. 10 And from the days I appointed judges over my people Israel I also laid low all your enemies.

And I shall make you grow, and the Lord will build you a house. 11 And it shall be, when your days are fulfilled and you lie down with your fathers, also I will raise up your seed after you, he who shall be from your belly, and I will establish his kingdom. 12 It is he who shall build me a house, and I will set up his throne forever. 13 I will be a father to him, and he shall be a son to me. And I will not withdraw my mercy from him as I withdrew it from those before you. 14 And I will confirm him in my house and in his reign forever. And his throne shall be established forever. 15 In accordance with all these words and all that vision Nathan spoke to Dauid, 16 And King Dauid went and sat before the Lord and said, "Who am I, Lord God, and what is my house, that you have loved me forever? 17 And this was a small thing before you, God, and you have spoken about your servant's house from afar, and you looked upon me as a vision of a human being and exalted me, Lord God. 18 What shall Dauid add to you to glorify? And you know your slave. 19 And according to your heart you have done all this greatness. 20 Lord, no one is like you, and there is no one but you according to all that we have heard with our ears. 21 And there is no nation on the earth like your people Israel, as God directed it to redeem it as a people for himself, to place upon it his great and illustrious name to drive out nations from before your people whom you redeemed from Egypt. 22 And you gave your people Israel to yourself as a people forever, and you, Lord, became their God.

23 "And now, Lord, let the word you spoke to your servant and concerning his house be confirmed forever, 24 when they say, 'Lord, Lord Almighty, God of Israel, and the house of your servant Dauid established before you!' 25 For you, Lord, have opened your servant's ear to build him a house. Therefore your servant found it possible to pray in your presence. 26 And now, Lord, you are the selfsame God and have spoken these good things regarding your slave. 27 And now you have begun in order to bless your servant's house for it to be before you forever, because you, Lord, have blessed it. And bless it forever!"

18 And it happened after these things that Dauid struck the allophytes and put them to flight and seized Geth and its villages from the hand of allophytes.

^aLacking in Gk

2 And he struck Moab, and Moab were David's servants, bearing gifts.

3 And David struck Hadraazar, king of Souba Hemath, when he was advancing to put his hand on the river Euphrates. 4And David took in advance of them a thousand chariots and seven thousand horses and twenty thousand infantry men. And David hamstringed all the chariot-horses but left one hundred chariot-horses of them. 5And the Syrian came from Damascus to help Hadraazar, king of Souba. And David struck down twenty-two thousand men of the Syrian. 6And David put a garrison in Syria opposite Damascus, and they became David's servants, bearing gifts. And the Lord kept saving David in all he went through. 7And David took the gold collars, which were on Hadraazar's servants, and brought them to Ierusalem. 8And from the metabecha^a and from Hadraazar's select cities David took very much bronze; with it Salomon made the bronze sea and the pillars and the bronze vessels.

9 And Thoa, king of Hemath, heard that David had struck the whole force of Hadraazar, king of Souba, 10and he sent his son Hidouram to King David to ask him the terms for peace and to bless him for waging war on Hadraazar and striking him, because Thoa had been a man at war with Hadraazar, and ^bhe sent^b all the silver and gold vessels. 11And David dedicated these to the Lord along with the silver and gold that he had taken from all the nations, from Idumea and Moab and from the sons of Ammon and from the allophyles and from Amalek.

12 And Abessa son of Sarouia struck down Idumea in the Valley of Salt, eighteen thousand men. 13And he put garrisons in the valley, and all the Idumeans became David's servants. And the Lord kept saving David in all he went through.

14 And David reigned over all Israel and was executing judgment and justice to all his people. 15And Ioab son of Sarouia was over the army, and Iosaphat son of Achiloud was recorder. 16And Sadok son of Achitob and Achimelech son of Abiathar were priests, and Sousa was scribe, 17and Banaïas son of Iodae was over Chereththi and Pheleththi, and David's sons were the king's foremost deputies.

19 And it happened after these things, Naas, king of Ammon's sons, died, and his son Hanan became king in his stead. 2And David said, "I will do mercy with Naas' son Hanan as his father did mercy with me." And David sent messengers to console him concerning his father. And David's servants came to the land of Ammon's sons to console him. 3And the rulers of Ammon said to Hanan, "Surely not to honor your father before you has David sent to you men to console? Is it not in order to investigate the city to spy out the land that his servants have come to you?" 4And Hanan seized David's servants and shaved them and removed half of their cloaks as far as the mantle and sent them away. 5And they came to report to David concerning the men, and he sent to meet them, because they had been severely dishonored. And the king said, "Sit in Iericho until your beards regrow, and return."

6 And the sons of Ammon saw that David's people had been disgraced, and Hanan and the sons of Ammon sent a thousand silver talents to hire for themselves chariots and cavalry from Mesopotamian Syria and Syrian Moocha and from Soba. 7And they hired thirty-two thousand chariots and the king of Mocha and his people, and they came and encamped before Maidaba, and the sons of Ammon mustered from their cities and came to do battle. 8And David heard and sent Ioab and all his army of mighty men. 9And the sons of Ammon came out and are taking up position for battle by the gateway of the city, and the kings who had come encamped by themselves in the plain.

10 And Ioab saw that they had lined up against him on both sides in the van and at the rear. And he selected from every youth of Israel, and they took up position against the Syrian. 11And he gave the rest of the people in the hand of his brother Abessa, and they formed up opposite the sons of Ammon. 12And he said, "If the Syrian is too strong for me, then you will be my relief, and if the sons of Ammon are too strong for you, then I will save you. 13Be manly, and let us show our strength for our people and for the cities of our God, and the Lord will do what is right in his eyes." 14And Ioab and the people with him lined up for battle against the Syrians, and they fled before him. 15And the sons of Ammon saw that the Syrians had fled; then they too fled from before Ioab and from before Abessa his brother, and they came into the city. And Ioab came into Ierusalem.

16 And the Syrian saw that Israel had routed him, and he sent messengers, and they brought out the Syrian from the other side of the river, and Sophach, commander in chief of Hadraazar's force, was at their head. 17And it was reported to David, and he gathered all Israel and crossed the Jordan and came against them and lined up against them. And the Syrian is in formation opposite David and fought him. 18And the Syrian fled from before David, and David killed seven thousand chariots^c of the Syrian and forty thousand infantry, and he killed Sophach, the commander in chief of the force. 19And Hadraazar's servants saw that they had been defeated from before Israel, and they made terms with David and were subject to him. And the Syrian no longer had the will in order to help the sons of Ammon.

20 And it happened in the following year, at the marching out of the kings, and Ioab led out the entire force of the army, and they ravaged the country of the sons of Ammon. And he came and besieged Rabba, and David sat in Ierusalem. And Ioab struck down Rabba and razed it. 2And David took the crown of Molchol, their king, from his head, and its weight was found to be a gold talent, and in it was a precious stone, and it was on Daudid's head. And he brought out the booty of the city, a very great amount. ³And he led out the people who were in it, and he^a sawed with saws and with iron adzes. And so Daudid did to all the sons of Ammon. And Daudid and all his people returned to Ierousalem.

^aHeb = from Tibhath? ^bLacking in Gk ^ci.e. charioteers

4 And it happened after this, and there was again war in Gazer with the allophyles. Then Sobochai the Housathi struck down Saphou, one of the sons of the giants, and humbled him. ⁵And there was again war with the allophyles. And Ellanan son of Iair struck down Leemi brother of Goliath the Geththite, and the wood of his spear was like part of a loom of weavers. ⁶And there was war again in Geth, and there was a massive man, and his digits were six and six, twenty-four, and he was a descendant of giants. ⁷And he defied Israel and Ionathan son of Samaa, Daudid's brother, struck him down. ⁸These were born to Rapha in Geth. All four were giants, and they fell by the hand of Daudid and by the hand of his servants.

21 And a slanderer stood in Israel and incited Daudid to count Israel. ²And King Daudid said to Ioab and to the commanders of the force, "Go, count Israel from Bersabee and as far as Dan, and bring to me, and I shall know their number." ³And Ioab said, "May the Lord add to his people as they are a hundred fold, and may the eyes of my lord the king see. All servants to my lord! Why does my lord seek this? Lest it be counted as a sin to Israel!" ⁴But the king's word prevailed against Ioab, and Ioab went out and went throughout the territory of Israel and came to Ierousalem. ⁵And Ioab gave the count of the review of the people to Daudid, and all Israel was one million one hundred thousand men having drawn a dagger, and Ioudas was four hundred and eighty thousand men having drawn a dagger. ⁶And he did not count Leui and Benjamin among them, because the king's word overpowered^b Ioab.

7 And it appeared wicked before God concerning this matter, and he struck Israel. ⁸And Daudid said to God, "I have sinned greatly, because I did this deed. And now do take away your servant's evil, for I have gone far astray." ⁹And the Lord spoke to Gad, Daudid's seer, saying: ¹⁰"Go, and speak to Daudid and say, 'Thus says the Lord: Three things I am raising up against you. Choose one of them for yourself, and I will do it to you.'" ¹¹And Gad came to Daudid and said to him, "Thus says the Lord, 'Choose for yourself: ¹²either three years of famine or that you flee three months from before your enemies and that your enemies' dagger destroy utterly, or the Lord's sword and death on the land for three days, while an angel of the Lord is also destroying utterly in all Israel's inheritance.' Now then, consider how I am to answer a word to the one who sent me." ¹³And Daudid said to Gad, "All three are extremely difficult for me. I will indeed fall into the Lord's hands, because his compassion is plentiful. And I will not fall into the hands of men."

14 And the Lord brought on death in Israel, and of Israel seventy thousand men fell. ¹⁵And God sent forth an angel to Ierousalem to destroy it utterly. And as he destroyed it utterly, the Lord saw and relented over the calamity and said to the utterly destroying angel, "Let it be enough for you. Stay your hand." And the angel of the Lord stood in the threshing floor of Orna the Iebousite. ¹⁶And Daudid raised his eyes and saw the angel of the Lord standing between the earth and between the sky, and his sword drawn in his hand, stretched out over Ierousalem. And Daudid and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, fell on their faces. ¹⁷And Daudid said to God, "Was it not I who said that they count among the people? And it is I who was sinning; doing wrong I did wrong. And these sheep, what have they done? Lord God, let your hand be against me and against my father's house and not against your people for destruction, Lord."

18 And an angel of the Lord said to Gad to say to Daudid to go up and erect an altar to the Lord on the threshing floor of Orna the Iebousite. ¹⁹And Daudid went up according to the word of Gad, which he had spoken in the Lord's name. ²⁰And Orna turned and saw the king, and four of his sons were with him methachabin^d. And Orna was winnowing wheat. ²¹And Daudid came to Ornan, and Orna left the threshing floor and did obeisance to Daudid with his face to the ground. ²²And Daudid said to Orna, "Give me your site of the threshing floor, and I will build on it an altar to the Lord. Give it^e to me for goodly silver, and the plague will abate for the people." ²³And Orna said to Daudid, "Take it for yourself, and let my lord the king do what is good before him. See, I have given the oxen as a whole burnt offering and the plough and the carts for wood and the grain for a sacrifice. I have given it all." ²⁴And King Daudid said to Orna, "No, because buying I am buying with goodly silver, because I will not take for the Lord what is yours, to offer a whole burnt offering to the Lord for nothing." ²⁵And Daudid gave Orna six hundred shekels of gold by weight for his site. ²⁶And Daudid built there an altar to the Lord and offered whole burnt offerings and for deliverance. And he shouted to the Lord, and he heeded him with fire from the sky on the altar of the whole burnt offering, and it consumed the whole burnt offering. ²⁷And the Lord spoke to the angel, and he put his sword back into its sheath.

28 At that time, when Daudid saw that the Lord had heeded him on the threshing floor of Orna the Iebousite, he also sacrificed there. ²⁹And the Lord's tent, which Moyses had made in the wilderness, and the altar of whole burnt offerings at that time were in Bama in Gabaon. ³⁰And Daudid was not able to go before it^f to inquire of God, because he made haste from before the sword of the angel of the Lord.

^aPossibly they i.e. the people ^bPerhaps numbered ^ci.e. Orna's ^dHeb = hiding themselves ^ei.e. the site ^fthe altar

22 And Daud said, “This is the house of the Lord God, and this is the altar for whole burnt offering for Israel.”

2 And Daud said to gather all the guests in the land of Israel, and he appointed them as quarrymen, to quarry dressed stones to build a house for God. ³And Daud prepared a lot of iron for the nails of the doorways and of the gates, and the clamps and bronze in abundance beyond weighing, ⁴and cedar logs without number, for the Sidonians and Tyrians were bringing cedar logs to Daud in abundance. ⁵And Daud said, “Salomon, my son, is a tender lad, and as for the house—in order that he may build it to the Lord unto lofty magnificence, unto fame and unto reputation throughout the earth, I shall make preparations for it.” And Daud prepared in abundance before his death.

6 And he called Salomon his son and commanded him that he should build the house for the Lord, God of Israel. ⁷And Daud said to Salomon, “Child, I had it in mind to build a house for the name of the Lord God. ⁸And a word of the Lord came to me, saying, ‘You have shed blood in abundance and have waged great wars; you shall not build a house to my name, because you have shed much blood before me upon the earth. ⁹Behold, a son is being born to you; he shall be a man of repose, and I will give him repose from all the enemies on every side, because his name shall be Salomon, and I will bestow peace and quiet on Israel in his days. ¹⁰He shall build a house for my name, and he will be a son to me, and I will be a father to him, and I shall set right the throne of his kingdom in Israel forever.’ ¹¹And now, my son, the Lord will be with you and will make you prosper, and you will build a house for the Lord, your God, as he has spoken concerning you. ¹²Only, may the Lord grant you wisdom and understanding and strengthen you over Israel both to watch over and to do the law of the Lord your God. ¹³Then he will make you prosper, if you take care to do the ordinances and the judgments, which the Lord commanded Moyses for Israel. Be manly, and be strong; do not be afraid or terrified. ¹⁴And behold, I, in accordance with my indignance, have prepared for the Lord’s house one hundred thousand talents of gold and one million talents of silver and bronze and iron without measure, because there is in abundance, and timber and stones I prepared. And add to these! ¹⁵And with you there will be a host of people doing tasks: craftsmen and stonemasons and workmen in wood and every person skilled in every kind of work. ¹⁶In gold, in silver, in bronze and in iron—there is without number. Arise, and act, and the Lord be with you.”

17 And Daud commanded all the rulers of Israel to assist his son Salomon: ¹⁸“Is not the Lord with you? And he has given you repose on every side, for he has given in your hands the inhabitants of the land, and the land has become subdued before the Lord and before his people. ¹⁹Now give your hearts and your souls to seek for the Lord, your God, and rise and build a holy precinct for the Lord, your God, to bring the ark of the Lord’s covenant and God’s holy vessels into the house that is being built for the Lord’s name.”

23 And Daud was an old man and full of days, and he made Salomon his son king over Israel in his head.

2 And he gathered all the rulers of Israel and the priests and the Leuites. ³And the Leuites, thirty years old and upward, were counted, and their number by their head came to thirty-eight thousand men. ⁴Of these twenty-four thousand were taskmasters over the tasks of the Lord’s house, and six thousand were scribes and judges, ⁵and four thousand were gatekeepers, and four thousand praising the Lord with instruments that he made to praise the Lord. ⁶And Daud divided them in classes by the sons of Leui: Gedson, Kaath and Merari, ⁷and by Parosom, by Edan and by Semei. ⁸Edan’s sons: Iiel the chief and Zethom and Ioel, three. ⁹Semei’s sons: Salomith and Hiiel and Haidan, three. These were rulers of the paternal families of Edan. ¹⁰And by the sons of Semei: Ieth and Ziza and Ioas and Beria: these were Semei’s sons, four. ¹¹And Ieth was the chief and Ziza the second. And Ioas and Beria did not multiply sons, and they became a paternal house and one enrollment.

12 Kaath’s sons: Ambram, Issaar, Chebron, Oziel, four. ¹³Ambram’s sons: Aaron and Moyses. And Aaron was set apart to consecrate the holy of holies, he and his sons forever to offer incense before the Lord, to minister and to pray to his name forever. ¹⁴And Moyses was a man of God: his sons were ^acalled into^a the tribe of Leui. ¹⁵Moyses’ sons: Gersam and Eliezer. ¹⁶Gersam’s sons: Soubael the chief. ¹⁷And Eliezer had sons: Raabia the chief. And Eliezer did not have other sons, but Raabia’s sons were increased in height^b. ¹⁸Issaar’s sons: Salomoth the chief. ¹⁹Chebron’s sons: Idout the chief, Amadia the second, Oziel the third, Ikemias the fourth. ²⁰Oziel’s sons: Michas the chief and Isia the second.

21 Merari’s sons: Mooli and Mousi. Mooli’s sons: Eleazar and Kis. ²²And Eleazar died and had no sons, only daughters, and Kis’ sons, their brothers, married them. ²³Mousi’s sons: Mooli and Eder and Iarimoth, three.

24 These were the sons of Leui according to their paternal houses, the rulers of their paternal families according to their enrollment according to the number of their names by head, those twenty years old and upward who performed the tasks of ministrations in the house of the Lord, ²⁵because Daud said, “The Lord God of Israel has given his people repose and has made his abode in Ierusalem forever.” ²⁶And the Leuites were not carrying the tent and all its articles for its ministrations, ²⁷because in Daud’s last words was the number of Leui’s sons from twenty years old and upward, ²⁸for he appointed them for the hand of Aaron to minister in the Lord's house over the courts and the shrine-carriers' chambers and over the purification of all the holy things and over the tasks of ministering to the house of God, ²⁹with regard to the loaves of presentation, with regard to the flour of the sacrifice and with regard to the unleavened cakes and with regard to the frying-pan and with regard to the mixed offering and with regard to every measure, ³⁰and to stand in the morning to praise to acknowledge the Lord, and likewise at evening, ³¹and to be in charge of all the whole burnt offerings presented to the Lord on the sabbaths and on the new moons and on the feasts according to number, according to the judgment upon them, always to the Lord. ³²And they shall keep the watches of the tent of witness and the watches of the sons of Aaron, their brothers, to minister in the Lord's house.

^aPossibly reckoned among ^bOr grandeur

24 And the sons of Aaron had divisions: Aaron's sons: Nadab and Abioud, Eleazar and Ithamar. ²And Nadab and Abioud died before their father and had no sons. And Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's sons, officiated as priests. ³And Daud and Sadok of the sons of Eleazar and Achimelech of the sons of Ithamar divided them according to their enrollment, according to their ministration, according to their paternal houses. ⁴And Eleazar's sons were found to be more numerous as chiefs of the mighty ones than Ithamar's sons, and he divided them up: sixteen as rulers of paternal houses to the sons Eleazar and eight to the sons of Ithamar, according to their paternal houses. ⁵And he divided them by lot, these with these, for they were officers of the holy things and officers of the Lord among the sons of Eleazar and among the sons of Ithamar. ⁶And Samaïas son of Nathanael, the scribe, one of Leui, recorded them in the presence of the king and of the officers. And there was Sadok the priest and Achimelech son of Abiathar and rulers of the paternal families of the priests and of the Leuites, ^aone by one^a for a paternal house for Eleazar and ^aone by one^a for Ithamar.

⁷ And the first lot came out for Iarib, and the second for Ideia, ⁸the third for Charem, the fourth for Seorim, ⁹the fifth for Melchia, the sixth for Miamin, ¹⁰the seventh for Kos, the eighth for Abia, ¹¹the ninth for Iesou, the tenth for Sechenia, ¹²the eleventh for Eliasib, the twelfth for Iakim, ¹³the thirteenth for Hochchophpha, the fourteenth for Isbaal, ¹⁴the fifteenth for Belga, the sixteenth for Emmer, ¹⁵the seventeenth for Chezir, the eighteenth for Haphesse, ¹⁶the nineteenth for Phetaia, the twentieth for Ezekel, ¹⁷the twenty-first for Iachin, the twenty-second for Gamoul, ¹⁸the twenty-third for Dalaia, the twenty-fourth for Maasai. ¹⁹This is their enrollment according to their ministration to enter the house of the Lord according to their appointment through the hand of Aaron their father, as the Lord God of Israel had commanded.

²⁰ And for the rest of the sons of Leui: for the sons of Ambram, Soubael; for the sons of Soubael, Iadia; ²¹for Raabia, the chief Iesias, ²²and for Issari, Salomoth; for the sons of Salomoth, Iath. ²³Iediou's sons: Amadia the second, Iaziel the third, Iokom the fourth. ²⁴Oziel's sons: Micha; Micha's sons: Samer. ²⁵Micha's brother: Isia; Isia's sons: Zacharia. ²⁶Merari's sons: Mooli and Mousi, sons of Ozia, sons of Bonni. ²⁷Merari's sons: of Ozia—his sons were Isoam and Zakchour and Abdi. ²⁸Mooli had Eleazar and Ithamar. And Eleazar died, and he had no sons. ²⁹Of Kis—Kis' sons: Iramael. ³⁰And Mousi's sons: Mooli and Eder and Iarimoth. These were the sons of the Leuites according to their paternal houses. ³¹And they also took lots like their brothers, sons of Aaron, before the king and Sadok and Achimelech and the rulers of the paternal families of the priests and of the Leuites. Patriarchs of Haraab they were, as were his younger brothers.

25 And Daud the king and the commanders of the force assigned the sons of Asaph and Haiman and Idithon to their tasks as ^bthose that make pronouncements^b with cinyras^c and with nablas^d and with cymbals. And their number by head, as they worked at their tasks, was: ²Asaph's sons: Zakchour and Ioseph and Nathania and Erael, sons of Asaph next to Asaph the prophet, next to the king. ³For Idithon, Idithon's sons: Godolia and Souri and Isaia and Semei and Hasabia and Mattathias, six, striking up on the cinyra^c, after their father Idithon, acknowledgement and praise to the Lord. ⁴For Haimani, Haiman's sons: Boukias and Manthania and Azarael and Soubael and Ierimoth and Hanania and Hanani and Eliatha and Godollathi and Romemthi-od and Iesbakasa and Mallethi and Hotheri and Meazoth. ⁵All these were sons of Haiman, who struck up for the king with divine words to exalt his horn. And God gave Haiman fourteen sons and three daughters. ⁶All these sang hymns in the Lord's house with their father with cymbals and with nablas^d and with cinyras^c—near the king and Asaph and Idithon and Haimani. ⁷And their number was after^e their brothers, they having been trained to sing to the Lord, everyone intelligent: two hundred and eighty-eight. ⁸And they too cast lots for classes, both small and great of masters and apprentices.

⁹ And the first lot of his sons and those of his brothers came out for Asaph, for Ioseph: Godolia; the second was Enia, his brothers and his sons, twelve; ¹⁰the third was Zakchour, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹¹the fourth was Iesdri, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹²the fifth was Nathania, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹³the sixth was Boukias, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹⁴the seventh was Iseriel, his sons and his brothers,

^aE. one each ^bPossibly choristers ^c = Heb kinnor = lyre ^ePerhaps next after

^d = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument

twelve; ¹⁵the eighth was Iosia, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹⁶the ninth was Manthanas, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹⁷the tenth was Semei, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹⁸the eleventh was Azaria, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ¹⁹the twelfth was Hasabia, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁰the thirteenth was Soubael, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²¹the fourteenth was Mattathias, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²²the fifteenth was Ierimoth, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²³the sixteenth was Hananias, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁴the seventeenth was Iesbakasa, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁵the eighteenth was Hanani, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁶the nineteenth was Mellethi, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁷the twentieth was Eliatha, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁸the twenty-first was Hethir, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ²⁹the twenty-second was Godollathi, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ³⁰the twenty-third was Meazoth, his sons and his brothers, twelve; ³¹the twenty-fourth was Romemthi-od, his sons and his brothers, twelve.

26 In reference to the divisions of the gates: for Koreim's sons, Mosollamia son of Kore, of the sons of Abiasaph. ²And Mosollamia had sons: Zacharias the firstborn, Idiel the second, Zabadias the third, Iethnouel the fourth, ³Olam the fifth, Ioanan the sixth, Elioenai the seventh. ⁴And Abdedom had sons: Samaia the firstborn, Iozabad the second, Ioa a the third, Sochar the fourth, Nathanael the fifth, ⁵Amiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Phollathi the eighth, because God blessed him. ⁶And to his son Samaia were born sons of the firstborn Rosai into his father's house, because they were able. ⁷Samaia's sons: Gothni and Raphael and Obed and Elzabad and Achiou, able sons, Eliou, Sabchia and Isbakom. ⁸All these were of the sons of Abdedom, they and their brothers and their sons, men working mightily at their activity, who were all together sixty-two from Abdedom. ⁹Mosollamia also had sons and brothers, eighteen able men. ¹⁰And Hosa of the sons of Merari had sons who kept office, because he was not the firstborn, but his father made him chief ¹¹ of the second division. Tablai was the third; Zacharias was the fourth; all these, sons and brothers to Hosa, were thirteen.

¹²For these were the divisions of the gates, for the chiefs of the mighty men, classes as their brethren, to minister in the house of the Lord. ¹³And they cast lots, small and great alike, according to their paternal houses for ^agateway and gateway^a. ¹⁴And the lot for those on the east fell to Salamia and Zacharia; Ioas' sons threw lots for Melchia, and the lot came out for the north. ¹⁵For Abdedom was on the south, opposite the house of esephin^b. ¹⁶In reference to a second one: for Hosa was westward, after the gate of the shrine-carrier's chamber on the ascent, watch opposite watch. ¹⁷On the east there were six during the day, on the north four in the day, on the south four in the day, and at the esephin^b two. ¹⁸As deputies, and at the west there were four, and for the path two deputies. ¹⁹These were the divisions of the gatekeepers for the sons of Kore and the sons of Merari.

²⁰And the Leuites, their brothers, had charge of the treasuries of the Lord's house and had charge of the treasuries of the dedicated things: ²¹Ladan's sons, sons belonging to Ladan the Gersoni, rulers of the paternal families belonging to Ladan the Gersoni, Iiel.

²²And Iiel's son: the brothers Zethom and Ioel were in charge of the treasuries of the Lord's house. ²³For Ambram and Issaar: Chebron and Oziel. ²⁴And Soubael the son of Gersam the son of Moyse, leader in charge of the treasuries. ²⁵And his brother Eliezer had sons Raabias and Iosaias and Ioram and Zechri and Salomoth. ²⁶Salomoth himself and his brothers were in charge of all the treasuries of the holy things, which King Daudid and the rulers of the paternal families, the officers of thousands and the officers of hundreds and the commanders of the force, had sanctified. ²⁷Hec had taken them from the wars and from the spoils and dedicated some of them so as not to delay the construction of the house of God. ²⁸And over all the holy things of Samouel the prophet and of Saoul the son of Kis and of Abenner the son of Ner and of Ioab the son of Sarouia—everything they had dedicated was through the hand of Salomoth and his brothers.

²⁹For Issari: Chonenia and his sons were for external duty for Israel, to function as scribes and to judge. ³⁰For Chebroni: Hasabias and his brothers, able-bodied sons, one thousand seven hundred in charge of the enrollment of Israel across the Jordan on the west with regard to every ministrations of the Lord and work of the king. ³¹Of Chebroni: Ioudias the chief of those of Chebroni according to their generations by paternal families. In the fortieth year of his reign, they were inspected, and an able man was found among them in Iazer of Galaaditis, ³²and his brothers, able-bodied sons, two thousand seven hundred rulers of paternal families. And King Daudid appointed them over Roubeni and Gaddi and the half-tribe of Manasses with regard to every ordinance of the Lord and word of the king.

27 And as for Israel's sons according to their number, rulers of paternal families, officers of thousands and officers of hundreds and scribes, those ministering to the people and for every word of the king according to divisions, for every matter of the one entering and exiting, from month to month for all the months of the year—one division was twenty-four thousand.

²And Iesboam the son of Zabdiel was in charge of the first division of the first month, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. ³He was from the sons of Phares, a commander^d of all the commanders of the force for the first month.

^ai.e. each of the gateways ^bHeb = stores ^ci.e. Daudid ^di.e. Iesboam

4And Dodia the Echochi was in charge of the division of the second month, and twenty-four thousand were in his division, as commanders of the force. 5The third for the third month was Banaias the son of Iodae, the priest, the chief, and twenty-four thousand were in his division. 6Banaias himself was stronger than the thirty and in charge of the thirty. And his son Amizabath was in charge of his division. 7The fourth for the fourth month was Asael brother of Ioab and his son Zabdias and his brothers, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 8The fifth for the fifth month was the leader Samaoth the Iesrae, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 9The sixth for the sixth month was Odouias the son of Ekkes the Thekoite, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 10The seventh for the seventh month was Chelles of the ones from Phallous of the sons of Ephraim, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 11The eighth for the eighth month was Sobochai the Hisathi, belonging to Zarai, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 12The ninth for the ninth month was Abiezer, the one from Anathoth from the land of Benjamin, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 13The tenth for the tenth month was Meera, the one from Netouphat belonging to Zarai, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 14The eleventh for the eleventh month was Banaias, the one from Pharathon of the sons of Ephraim, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division. 15The twelfth for the twelfth month was Choldai the Netophati belonging to Gothoniel, and there were twenty-four thousand in his division.

16 And over the tribes of Israel: for Rouben the leader was Eliezer the son of Zechri; for Symeon, Saphatias the son of Maacha; 17for Leui, Hasabias the son of Kamouel; for Aaron, Sadok; 18for Ioudas, Eliab of Daud's brothers; for Issachar, Ambri the son of Michael; 19for Zaboulon, Samaias the son of Abdiou; for Nephthali, Ierimoth the son of Esriel; 20for Ephraim, Hose the son of Oziou; for the half-tribe of Manasses, Ioel the son of Phadaia; 21for the half-tribe of Manasses in Galaad, Iaddai the son of Zabdiou; for the sons of Benjamin, Asiel the son of Abenner; 22for Dan, Azarael the son of Ioram. These were the patriarchs of the tribes of Israel. 23And Daud did not take their number, from those twenty years old and below, because the Lord had said that Israel would multiply like the stars in the sky. 24And Ioab the son of Sarouia began to number among the people, but he did not finish, and wrath occurred upon Israel meanwhile and the number was not entered in the Book of Histories of the Days of King Daud.

25 And over the king's treasuries was Asmoth the son of Odiel, and over the treasuries in the open country and in the villages and in the homesteads and in the towers was Ionathan the son of Oziou. 26Now over the work on the land, tilling the soil, was Esdri the son of Choloub. 27And over the estates was Semei the one from Rama, and over the stores that were in the estates for wine was Zachri the son of Sephni. 28And over the olive groves and over the mulberry trees that were in the valley was Balanas the Gedorite, but over the stores of oil was Ioas. 29And over the cattle in the pastures that were in Asidon was Satrais the Saronite, and over the cattle that were in the valleys was Sopath the son of Adli. 30Now over the camels was Obil the Ismaelite, but over the donkeys was Iadias the one from Merathon. 31And over the sheep was Iaziz the Hagarite. (31)All these were guardians over King Daud's possessions.

32 And Ionathan, Daud's uncle, was a counselor; a person of understanding and a scribe he was, and Iiel the son of Hachamani was with the king's sons. 33And Achitophel was the king's counselor, and Chousi was ^aFirst Friend^a of the king. 34And after this Achitophel, next was Iodae the son of Banaias and Abiathar. And Ioab was the king's commander in chief.

28 And Daud assembled at Ierusalem all the rulers of Israel, rulers of the judges and the rulers of the classes, who watched over the king's person, and officers of the thousands and officers of the hundreds and the treasurers and those over his property and the men of substance and the warriors in the army. 2And Daud stood in the midst of the assembly and said, "Hear me, my brothers and people. It was in my heart to build a house of repose for the ark of the covenant of the Lord and a station for the feet of our Lord, and I prepared the materials for the encamping. 3And God said, 'You shall not build me a house for my name to be called upon it, because you have been a person of war and have spilled blood.' 4And the Lord God of Israel opted for me from all my father's house to be king over Israel forever. And in Ioudas he chose the royal palace and my father's house out of the house of Ioudas, and among my father's sons he wanted me, that I be king over all Israel. 5And of all my sons (for the Lord has given me many sons) he opted for my son Salomon, that he should sit on the throne of the Lord's kingdom over Israel. 6And God said to me, 'It is Salomon your son who shall build my house and my court, because I have opted for him to be a son to me and I will be a father to him. 7And I will set right his kingdom forever, if he holds firm to keeping my commandments and my judgments, as this day.' 8And now in front of all the Lord's assembly and in the ears of our God, keep and seek all the commandments of the Lord our God in order that you may inherit the good land and bequeath it to your sons after you forever.

9 "And now, Salomon, my son, know the God of your fathers, and be subject to him with complete heart and willing spirit, for the Lord searches all hearts and knows every notion. If you seek him, he will let you find him, but if you abandon him, he will abandon you completely. ¹⁰See, though, that the Lord has chosen you to build him a house as a holy precinct. Be strong, and act."

^aOr first friend

11 And Daudi gave Salomon his son the plan of the shrine and of its houses and of its zakcho^a and of the upper chambers and of the inner store-rooms and of the house of atonement ¹²and the plan, which he had in his spirit, of the courts of the Lord's house and of all the shrine-carriers' chambers around that pertain to the stores of the Lord's house and of the stores of the sacred things ¹³and of the lodgings of the classes of the priests and Leuites pertaining to every work of ministration of the Lord's house and of the stores of the liturgical vessels for service in the Lord's house. ¹⁴And ^bhe gave him^b the weight^c of their weight, both of the gold and the silver. ¹⁵And he gave him the weight of the lampstands and of the lamps. ¹⁶He likewise gave him the weight of the tables of presentation—of each gold table and likewise of those of silver—¹⁷and of the meat hooks and libation bowls and of the gold saucers, and the weight of the gold and silver vessels, kephphoure^d of each weight. ¹⁸And he showed him the weight of the altar of incense of refined gold and the plan of the chariot of the cherubim with their wings outstretched in flight and screening the ark of the Lord's covenant.

19 Daudi gave all these to Salomon in writing by the Lord's hand, according to his surpassing understanding, to activate the plan.

20 And Daudi said to Salomon his son, "Be strong, and be manly, and act; do not be afraid or terrified, because the Lord, my God, is with you and will not fail you nor will he desert you until you finish all the work of ministration of the house of the Lord. ²¹And behold, the classes of the priests and the Leuites for every ministry in the house of God, and with you in every activity is also every willing person with skill in every craft, and the rulers and all the people, for all your demands!"

29 And King Daudi said to all the assembly, "Salomon, my son, one whom the Lord has chosen for him, is young and tender, and the task is great, for the construction is not for a human but for the Lord God. ²With all my might I have prepared, for a divine house, gold, silver, bronze, iron, wood, stones soom^e—and in plentitude—and precious and variegated stones and every costly stone and much marble. ³Moreover, since I was well pleased in the house of God, I have the gold and silver, which I have amassed for myself, and see, I have bestowed it on the house of my God for grandeur, apart from what I had made ready for the house of the holy things: ⁴three thousand talents of gold that is from Souphir and seven thousand talents of fine silver, for the temple walls to be overlaid with them ⁵through the hand of craftsmen. Now who is zealous to fill his hands today for the Lord?"

6 And the rulers of the paternal families and the rulers of the sons of Israel and the officers of thousands and the officers of hundreds and the overseers of the works and the king's stewards showed zeal. ⁷And they gave for the tasks connected with the Lord's house five thousand talents of gold and ten thousand gold coins and ten thousand talents of silver and eighteen thousand talents of bronze and one thousand one hundred talents of iron. ⁸And those with whom stone was found gave it for the stores of the house of the Lord through the hand of Iiel the Gersoni. ⁹And the people were glad at the zeal that was shown, because they had shown zeal for the Lord with a full heart, and King Daudi was gladdened greatly.

10 And King Daudi blessed the Lord before the assembly, saying, "Blessed are you, Lord God of Israel, our father from age even unto age. ¹¹Yours, Lord, is the greatness and the power and the boast and the victory and the strength, because you have dominion over everything in the sky and on the earth. Every king and nation quakes from before you. ¹²From you are riches and honor. You rule over all, Lord, the ruler of all rule, and in your hand are strength and dominance, and it is in your hand, Almighty one, to make all things great and strong. ¹³And now, Lord, we acknowledge you and praise the name of your boasting.

14 "And who am I, and who are my people, that we have been able to show zeal for you like this? — because all things are yours and of your own have we given you, ¹⁵because we are resident aliens before you and live as resident aliens, like all our fathers. Our days on earth are like a shadow, and there is no endurance. ¹⁶Lord, our God, all this abundance that I have made ready that a house to your holy name be built is from your hand, and all things belong to you. ¹⁷And I knew, Lord, that you are the one who tests hearts, and you love righteousness. In simplicity of heart I have shown zeal for all these things, and now I have seen your people found here showing zeal for you with gladness. ¹⁸Lord, God of our fathers Abraam and Isaak and Israel, keep these things forever in the thought of your people's heart, and direct their hearts toward you. ¹⁹And grant to Salomon my son a good heart to do your commandments and your testimonies and your ordinances and to bring to conclusion the construction of your house."

20 And Daudi said to all the assembly, "Bless the Lord, your God," and all the assembly blessed the Lord, God of their fathers, and bowed their knees and did obeisance to the Lord and the king. ²¹And on the ^ftomorrow of the first day^f Daudi sacrificed sacrifices to the Lord and offered whole burnt offerings to God, a thousand calves, a thousand rams, a thousand lambs and their libations and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel. ²²And they ate and drank before the Lord on that day with joy.

And they made Daudi's son Salomon king a second time and anointed him as king to the Lord and Sadok to the priesthood. ²³And Salomon sat on the throne of his father Daudi and prospered,

^aHeb = ? ^bLacking in Gk ^cPossibly standard ^dHeb = bowls ^eHeb = onyx? ^fi.e. the next day and all Israel obeyed him. ²⁴The rulers and the men of substance and all the sons of King Daud his father were subordinate to him. ²⁵And the Lord magnified Salomon over and above before all Israel and gave him royal majesty the like of which had never happened to any king before him.

²⁶ And Daud son of Iessai reigned over Israel ²⁷for forty years, seven years in Chebron and thirty-three in Ierousalem. ²⁸And he passed away at a ripe old age, full of days, with wealth and honor, and Salomon his son became king in his stead. ²⁹Now the rest of the histories of King Daud, the earlier and the later, are written in the Histories of Samouel the Seer and in the Histories of Nathan the Prophet and in the Histories of Gad the Seer, ³⁰concerning all his reign and his prowess—and the times that befell him and Israel and all the kingdoms of the earth.

2 SUPPLEMENTS

1 And Salomon son of Daudid prevailed over his kingdom, and the Lord his God was with him and magnified him highly.

2 And Salomon spoke to all Israel, to the officers of thousands and the officers of hundreds and the judges and all the rulers before Israel, to the rulers of the paternal families. ³And Salomon, and all the assembly with him, went to the high ground that is in Gabaon, there where God's tent of witness was, which Moyses, servant of the Lord, had made in the wilderness. ⁴But Daudid had carried God's ark up from the city of Kariathiarim, for he had prepared a tent for it in Ierousalem. ⁵And the bronze altar, which Besaleel son of Ourias son of Hor had made, was there before the Lord's tent, and Salomon and the assembly sought it out. ⁶And there Salomon offered on the bronze altar in the tent before the Lord and offered on it a thousand whole burnt offerings.

7 In that night God appeared to Salomon and said to him, "Ask what I should give you." ⁸And Salomon said to God, "You have done great mercy with Daudid my father and have made me king in his stead. ⁹And now, Lord God, let your name be confirmed over Daudid my father, because it is you who have made me king over a people as numerous as the dust of the earth. ¹⁰Now grant me wisdom and understanding, and I will go out and will go in before this people, because who will judge this great people of yours?" ¹¹And God said to Salomon, "Since this was in your heart and you have not asked for wealth of possessions nor glory, nor have you asked for the life of your opponents and for many days, and you have asked for wisdom and understanding for yourself in order to judge my people, those over whom I have made you king, ¹²I grant you wisdom and understanding, and I will give you both wealth and possessions and glory, as there has been none like you among the kings before you, and after you it shall not be so." ¹³And Salomon came from Bama in Gabaon to Ierousalem from before the tent of witness and ruled over Israel.

14 And Salomon gathered together chariots and horsemen, and he had one thousand four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen. And he stationed them in the chariot cities, and the people were with the king in Ierousalem. ¹⁵And the king placed gold and silver in Ierousalem like stones and the cedars in Judea, like mulberry trees that are in the plain in abundance.

¹⁶And the export of Salomon's horses was from Egypt, and the price of the king's merchants; they would buy to trade. ¹⁷And they would go up and bring back from Egypt one chariot for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for one hundred and fifty. And thus they would bring for all the kings of the Chettites and kings of Syria by their hands. ^{18(2.1)}And Salomon said that he would build a house for the Lord's name and a house for his reign.

2 ⁽²⁾And Salomon gathered seventy thousand men and eighty thousand stonecutters in the hill country, and the supervisors over them were three thousand six hundred.

²⁽³⁾ And Salomon sent to Chiram, king of Tyre, saying, "As you dealt with my father Daudid and dispatched to him cedars to build a house for him to dwell in, ³⁽⁴⁾behold, I, his son, also am building a house for the name of the Lord, my God, to dedicate it to him to offer incense before him and presentation^a always and to present whole burnt offerings always, in the morning and evening and on sabbaths and on new moons and on the feasts of the Lord, our God; this is upon Israel forever. ⁴⁽⁵⁾And the house, which I am building, is great, for great is our God compared with all the gods. ⁵⁽⁶⁾And who will be able to build him a house?—because the sky and the sky of the sky cannot bear his glory. And who am I to build him a house?—except to offer incense before him. ⁶⁽⁷⁾And now send me a skilled man and one who knows how to work in gold and in silver and in bronze and in iron and in purple and in scarlet and in blue, one who understands to engrave engraving, with the skilled men who are with me in Ioudas and in Ierousalem, whom my father Daudid provided. ⁷⁽⁸⁾And send me cedar wood and juniper and pine from Lebanon, for I know how your slaves know about cutting wood from Lebanon. See, your servants will be with my servants. ⁸⁽⁹⁾They will go to prepare me timber in abundance, for the house I am about to build will be great and glorious. ⁹⁽¹⁰⁾And see, I have given the workmen, those cutting wood, grain as food in payment to your servants twenty thousand kors^b, even twenty thousand kors^b of barley and twenty thousand measures of wine and twenty thousand measures of oil."

¹⁰⁽¹¹⁾ And Chiram, king of Tyre, said in writing and dispatched to Salomon, "In his love for his people the Lord has granted you as king over them." ¹¹⁽¹²⁾And Chiram said, "Blessed be the Lord, God of Israel, who made the heaven and the earth, who gave King Daud a wise son and one who understands discretion and understanding, who will build a house to the Lord and a house for his reign.

^ai.e. of showbread ^bHeb 1 kor = 220 liters

12(13) "Now I have sent you a skilled man and one endowed with understanding, Chiram my father—¹³⁽¹⁴⁾his mother was of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a Tyrian man—since he knows how to work in gold and in silver and in bronze and in iron, in stone and wood and to weave in purple and in blue and in linen and in scarlet and to engrave engravings and to visualize any design, whatever you give him, together with your skilled men and the skilled men of Daud my lord, your father. ¹⁴⁽¹⁵⁾And now, let him send to his servants the grain and the barley and the oil and the wine of which my lord spoke. ¹⁵⁽¹⁶⁾And we on our part shall cut wood from Lebanon to meet your entire need and will transport it on rafts to the sea of Joppe, and you will transport it to Ierousalem." ¹⁶⁽¹⁷⁾And Salomon gathered all the men, the guests, in the land of Israel after the census, which his father Daud had conducted of them, and they were found to be one hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred.

17(18) And of them he made seventy thousand into porters and eighty thousand into stonemasons and three thousand six hundred taskmasters over the people.

3 And Salomon began building the Lord's house in Ierousalem, on the mountain of Hamoria, where the Lord had appeared to Daud, his father, in the place that Daud had prepared in the threshing floor of Orna the Iebousite. ²And he began building in the second month of the fourth year of his reign. ³And this is how Salomon began building the house of God. The length in cubits, ^athe original measure^a, was sixty cubits and the width twenty cubits. ⁴And there was an ailam^b in front of the house, the length ^con face of^c the width of the house was twenty cubits, and its height was one hundred and twenty cubits. And he gilded it internally with pure gold. ⁵And he lined the great house outside with cedar wood and gilded it with pure gold and engraved palms on it and chains. ⁶And he adorned the house with precious stones for splendor and with gold—gold that was from Pharouaim. ⁷And he gilded the house and the walls and the gateways and the ceilings and the doorways with gold and engraved cheroubin on the walls.

⁸ And he made the house of the holy of holies: its length ^con face of^c width was twenty cubits, and the breadth was twenty cubits, and he gilded it with pure gold—onto^d the cheroubin—as much as six hundred talents of gold. ⁹And the weight of the nails—the weight of one was fifty shekels of gold. And he gilded the upper chamber with gold.

10 And in the house of the holy of holies he fashioned a work of two cheroubin out of wood, and he gilded them with gold. ¹¹And the cheroubin's wings were twenty cubits in length, and the one wing was five cubits, touching the wall of the house, and the other wing was five cubits, touching the wing of the other cheroub. ¹²And the wing of the one^e cheroub was five cubits, touching the wall of the house and the other wing was five cubits, touching the wing of the other cheroub. ¹³And the wings of the cheroubin extended twenty cubits. And they stood on their feet, and their faces were toward the house. ¹⁴And he made the veil out of blue and purple and scarlet and linen and wove cheroubin into it.

15 And he made two pillars in front of the house, thirty-five cubits in height, and their tops five cubits. ¹⁶And he made serseroth^f in the dabirs and placed them on the tops of the pillars, and he made one hundred pomegranates and set them on the chains. ¹⁷And he erected the pillars in front of the shrine, one on the right and the other on the left, and he called the name of the one on the right Uprightness and the name of the one on the left Strength.

4 And he made the bronze altar, twenty cubits in length and twenty cubits in width and ten cubits in height. ²And he made the molten sea, ten cubits in diameter, circular all round, and it was five cubits in height, and its circumference was thirty cubits. ³And under it was a representation of bull calves. They encircled it on all sides, ten cubits; they surrounded the washbasin in a circle. They cast the bull calves of two kinds in their casting ⁴by which they made them, twelve bull calves, and three faced north, and three faced west, and three faced south, and three faced east, and the sea was on top of them, and their hind quarters were toward the inside. ⁵And its thickness was a handbreadth, and its rim was like the rim of a cup, carved with lily buds; it held three thousand measures. And he completed it. ⁶And he made ten washbasins and set five of them on the right and five on the left to rinse the utensils for the whole burnt offerings in them and wash them clean in them. And the sea was for the priests to wash in it.

⁷ And he made the gold lampstands, ten according to their prescription, and placed them in the shrine, five on the right and five on the left. ⁸And he made ten tables and placed them in the shrine, five on the right and five on the left. And he made one hundred gold saucers. ⁹And he made the court of the priests and the great court and doors for the court and their doorways, overlaid with bronze. ¹⁰And he placed the sea at the corner of the house on the right, facing eastward.

11 And Chiram made the meat hooks and the fire-pans and the hearth for the altar and all its utensils. And Chiram finished producing all the work which he did for Salomon the king in the house of God, ¹²two pillars and on them golath^a for the chothareth^b on the tops of the two pillars and two lattice works to cover the tops of the chothareth^b, which were on the tops of the pillars, ¹³and four hundred golden bells on the two lattice works and two sorts of pomegranates on one of the lattice works to cover the two golath^a of the chothareth^b, which were above the pillars. ¹⁴And he made the ten mechonoth^c, and he made the washbasins on the mechonoth^c ¹⁵and the one sea and the twelve bull calves beneath it ¹⁶and the tripods^d and pails and cauldrons and meat hooks and all their utensils, which Chiram had made and brought to King Salomon in the house of the Lord, of pure bronze. ¹⁷The king cast them in the neighborhood of the Jordan in the ^ethickness of the land^e in the house of Sokchoth and between Sir-datha. ¹⁸And Salomon made all these utensils in great abundance, because the weight of bronze did not fail.

^aI.e. the so-called long cubit ^bHeb = porch ^cPerhaps corresponding to ^dPossibly including ^eI.e. second

^fHeb = chains ^gHeb = inner chamber

¹⁹ And Salomon made all the utensils of the Lord's house and the gold altar and the tables (and on them were loaves of presentation) ²⁰and the lampstands and the lamps of light as prescribed and in front of the dabir^f, of pure gold—²¹and there were their snuffers and their lamps—and the saucers and the censers and the fire-pans, of pure gold. ²²And the inner door of the house toward the holy of holies, to the doors of the house of the shrine, of gold.

5 And all the activity was concluded, which Salomon had conducted in the house of the Lord. And Salomon brought in the holy things of his father Daud, the silver and the gold, and he delivered the articles into the treasury of the Lord's house.

² Then Salomon assembled the elders of Israel and all the rulers of the tribes, the leaders of the paternal families of the sons of Israel in Ierou-salem to bring up the ark of the Lord's covenant from the city of Daud (that is Sion). ³And they assembled—every man of Israel—before the king on the feast (it was the seventh month). ⁴And all the elders of Israel came, and all the Leuites took the ark. ⁵And they carried the ark and the tent of witness and all the holy vessels in the tent, and the priests and the Leuites carried it. ⁶And King Salomon and all the gathering of Israel and the fearers and their gathered ones were sacrificing calves and sheep in front of the ark, which shall not be numbered and which shall not be assessed because of their abundance. ⁷And the priests brought the ark of the Lord's covenant into its place in the dabir^f of the house in the holy of holies underneath the wings of the cheroubin. ⁸And the cheroubin extended their wings over the place of the ark, and the cheroubin concealed the ark and its carrying-poles from above. ⁹And the poles projected outwards and the ends of the carrying-poles could be seen from the holy precincts in front of the dabir^f but were not visible outside. And they have been there until this day. ¹⁰There was nothing in the ark except for two tablets, which Moyses placed in Choreb, with which things the Lord made a covenant with the sons of Israel when they came out of the land of Egypt.

¹¹ And it happened, when the priests exited from the holy precincts—seeing that all the priests present had sanctified themselves, they were not arranged according to their divisions, ¹²(and the Leuites, all harp-singers belonging to the sons of Asaph, to Haiman, to Idithoun and to sons of them and brothers of them, draped in linen garments with cymbals and nablas^g and cinyrash^h)—as they stood facing the altar and with them one hundred and twenty priests trumpeting with their trumpets, ¹³that there was one sound in their trumpeting and in their doing harp-singing and in their acclaiming to acknowledge and praise the Lord and as they raised a sound with trumpets and cymbals and instruments of songs, and they said:

"Acknowledge the Lord, because it is good, because his mercy is forever."

And the house was filled with a cloud of the Lord's glory. ¹⁴And the priests could not stand to minister from before the cloud, for the Lord's glory had filled the house of God.

6 Then Salomon said: "The Lord said that he would encamp in thick darkness. ²And I have built a house for your name, sacred to you and ready for you to encamp in forever."

³ And the king turned his face and blessed all the assembly of Israel, and all the assembly of Israel stood by. ⁴And he said: "Blessed be the Lord, God of Israel, who spoke with his mouth to Daud my father and has fulfilled it with his hands, saying: ⁵'From the day when I brought my people up out of Egypt, I did not choose for a city out of all the tribes of Israel to build a house that my name be there, and I did not choose for a man to be leader over my people Israel. ⁶And I have chosen for Ierou-salem for my name to be there, and I have chosen for Daud to be over my people Israel.' ⁷And it was in my father Daud's heart to build a house for the name of the Lord, God of Israel, ⁸and the Lord said to my father Daud, 'Seeing that it was in your heart to build a house for my name, you have done well that it was in your heart. ⁹Nevertheless, it is not you who will build the house, because your son, who will come from your loins, it is he who will build the house for my name.' ¹⁰And the Lord established his word, which he spoke, and I have taken the place of my father Daud and sat down on the throne of Israel, as the Lord spoke, and I have built the house for the name of the Lord, God of Israel, ¹¹and I have set there the ark in which is the Lord's covenant, which he made with Israel."

¹² And he stood facing the Lord's altar in the presence of all the assembly of Israel and spread out his hands—¹³because Salomon had made a bronze platform and had set it in the midst of the temple court, its length five cubits and its width five cubits and its height three cubits, and he stood on it and fell to his knees before all the assembly of Israel—and he spread out his hands heavenward ¹⁴and said, “Lord, God of Israel, there is no god like you in heaven or on the earth, who keeps covenant and mercy for your servants who walk before you wholeheartedly. ¹⁵What you kept for your servant Daudid my father what you spoke to him when making utterance—you both spoke with your mouth and fulfilled it with your hands—it is as this very day. ¹⁶And now, Lord, God of Israel, keep for your servant, for my father Daudid, what you said when you told him, ‘No man sitting on the throne of Israel will fail you from before me, if only your sons keep their way to walk in my law, as you have walked before me.’

^aHeb = basin ^bHeb = capital (of a pillar) ^cHeb = stand(s) ^dGk uncertain ^ePerhaps clay soil ^fHeb = inner chamber
^g = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument ^h = Heb kinnor = lyre

¹⁷ “And now, Lord, God of Israel, let your utterance indeed be confirmed, which you spoke to your servant Daudid—¹⁸because if a god will truly dwell with men on the earth, if the sky and the sky of the sky will not be enough for you, what then is this house, which I have built? ¹⁹And look upon the prayer of your servant and on my petition, Lord God, to hear the petition and the prayer, which your servant prays before you today, ²⁰that your eyes be open toward this house day and night, toward this place, which you said that your name would be called upon there, to hear the prayer, which your servant prays toward this place. ²¹And you will hear the petition of your servant and your people Israel, whatever they pray toward this place, and as for you, you will hear in the place of your dwelling from the sky and will hear and be merciful.

²² “If a man sins against his fellow and takes upon himself an imprecation to imprecate him and he goes and imprecates before the altar in this house, ²³you shall also hear him from the sky and act and judge your slaves to repay the unjust and repay his ways on his head, to acquit the righteous in order to repay him according to his righteousness.

²⁴ “And if your people Israel are shattered before the enemy, if they have sinned against you and repent and acknowledge your name and pray and petition before you in this house, ²⁵you shall also hear from the sky and be compassionate on the sins of your people Israel and return them to the land, which you gave to them and their fathers.

²⁶ “When the sky is sealed up and there is no rain because they will have sinned against you, and they will pray to this place and will praise your name and will turn from their sins, because you will have humbled them, ²⁷you will also hear from the sky and be compassionate on the sins of your servants and your people Israel, because you will make clear to them the good way in which they will walk in it, and you will grant rain on your land, which you gave to your people as an inheritance.

²⁸ “If there is famine on the land, if there is death, blight and jaundice, grasshopper and locust larva, if the enemy oppresses them against their cities in accordance with every blow and every suffering ²⁹and if every prayer and every petition arises from every person and all your people Israel, if a person knows his infection and his infirmity and spreads out his hands to this place, ³⁰you will also hear from the sky, from your ready habitation, and you will grant expiation and will give a man according to his ways, as you know his heart, for you alone know the heart of the sons of men, ³¹that they should fear your ways all the days they are alive on the face of the land, which you gave our fathers.

³² “And every stranger, who is not of your people Israel and may come from a far off land because of your great name and your powerful hand and your arm held high, and they come and pray in this place—³³you will also hear them from the sky, from your ready habitation, and you will act according to all that the stranger calls to you so that all the peoples of the earth may know your name both to fear you, as your people Israel, and to know that your name has been called upon this house, which I have built.

³⁴ “If your people go out to war against their enemies in the way you send them and pray to you according to the direction of this city, which you have chosen for it, and of the house, which I have built for your name, ³⁵you will also hear their petition and their prayer from the sky and act on their plea of right—³⁶because they will sin against you (for there is no person who will not sin), and you will strike them and hand them over before enemies, and their captors will take them captive into a land of enemies, to a land far or near, ³⁷and if they turn back their heart in their land, there where they have been transported, and if they do indeed repent and petition you in their captivity, saying, ‘We have sinned; we have done wrong; we have acted lawlessly,’ ³⁸and they turn back toward you with all their heart and soul in the land of their captors and pray in the direction of their land, which you gave to their fathers, and of the city, which you chose, and of the house, which I have built for your name, ³⁹you will also hear their prayer and their petition from the sky, from your ready habitation, and you will make judgments and be compassionate to your sinning people. ⁴⁰Now, Lord, do let your eyes stand open and your ears alert to the petition from this place, ⁴¹and now:

“Arise, Lord God, to your repose,
you and the ark of your strength.

May your priests, Lord God, clothe themselves in salvation, and let your sons be glad in good things.

⁴² Lord God, do not avert your face from your anointed;
remember your mercies toward Daudid your slave.”

7 And when Salomon finished praying, the fire also descended from the sky and consumed the whole burnt offerings and the sacrifices, and the Lord's glory filled the house. ²And the priests were unable to enter into the Lord's house at that time, because the Lord's glory filled the house. ³And all the sons of Israel saw the fire descend, and the glory of the Lord was on the house and they fell face down on the ground on the pavement and did obeisance and were praising the Lord.

"Because it is good;
because his mercy is forever."

4 And the king and all the people were sacrificing victims before the Lord. ⁵And Salomon sacrificed the sacrifice: twenty-two thousand calves and one hundred and twenty thousand fatlings. And the king and all the people dedicated the house of God. ⁶And the priests stood in their posts, and the Levites with instruments for songs to the Lord of King Daud to acknowledge before the Lord—because his mercy is forever—with hymns of Daud through their hand, and the priests trumpeted with the trumpets opposite them, and all Israel stood.

7 And Salomon consecrated the middle of the court that is in the house of the Lord, because there he had made whole burnt offerings and the fatty parts of the victims for deliverance, because the bronze altar Salomon had made he could not equip to receive whole burnt offerings and the manaa^a and the fatty parts.

8 And Salomon made the feast at that time for seven days, and all Israel with him, an exceedingly large assembly from the entrance of Haimath and as far as the Wadi of Egypt. ⁹And he made a concluding ceremony on the eighth day, because he had observed for seven days the dedication of the altar as a feast. ¹⁰And on the twenty-third of the seventh month he dismissed the people to their coverts, rejoicing and with a good heart at all the bounties which the Lord had done for Daud and for Salomon and for Israel, his people.

11 And Salomon completed the Lord's house and the house of the king. And all that Salomon wanted in his soul to do in the Lord's house and in his house was successful.

12 And God appeared to Salomon by night and said to him, "I have heard your prayer and have chosen for this place for myself as a house of sacrifice. ¹³If I stop up the sky and there be no rain and if I command the grasshopper to consume the wood^b and if I send death among my people ¹⁴and if my people, upon whom my name is called, feel embarrassed and they pray and seek my face and turn from their evil ways, I for my part will listen from the sky and will be gracious upon their sins and will heal their land. ¹⁵Now my eyes will be open and my ears alert to the prayer of this place. ¹⁶And now I have chosen and consecrated this place for my name to be there forever. And my eyes and my heart shall be there all the days. ¹⁷And if you walk before me like Daud your father and do according to all that I have commanded you and keep my ordinances and judgments, ¹⁸I will also establish the throne of your kingdom as I appointed for Daud your father, saying, 'For you a man as ruler in Israel shall not be removed.'

19 "And if you turn away and abandon my ordinances and my commandments, which I have given before you, and go and serve other gods and do obeisance to them, ²⁰I will also remove you from the land that I gave them, and this house, which I consecrated for my name, I will turn it away from before me and render it an illustration and a tale among all the nations. ²¹And as for this lofty house—everyone who passes it by will be startled and say, 'For what reason did the Lord do this to this land and this house?' ²²And they will say, 'Because they abandoned the Lord, God of their fathers, who led them out of the land of Egypt and adopted other gods and did obeisance to them and were subject to them, therefore he has brought upon them all this harm.' "

8 And it happened, after twenty years in which Salomon built the Lord's house and his own house, ²also the cities that Chiram gave Salomon—Salomon built them and settled there the sons of Israel.

3 And Salomon went to Haimath Soba and prevailed over^c it. ⁴And he built Thedmor in the wilderness and all the fortified cities, which he built in Hemath. ⁵And he built Upper Baithoron and Lower Baithoron, fortified cities—walls, gates and bolts there were—⁶and Baalath and all the fortified cities that belonged to Salomon and all the cities for his chariots and the cities for his horsemen, and all that Salomon desired according to his desire to build in Ierousalem and in Lebanon and in all his kingdom. ⁷All the people who were left from the Chettite and the Amorrite and the Pherezite and the Heuite and the Iebousite, who are not from Israel—⁸there were some of their sons who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel had not utterly destroyed—and Salomon led them up for tribute until this day. ⁹And Salomon did not give any of the sons of Israel to be servants for his kingdom, because they were warriors and commanders and mighty men and commanders of chariots and horsemen. ¹⁰And these were rulers of King Salomon's overseers, two hundred and fifty taskmasters among the people.

11 And Salomon brought Pharaoh's daughter up from the city of Daud to the house which he had built for her, because he said, "My wife shall not live in the city of Daud, king of Israel, because there where the Lord's ark has entered is holy."

12 Then Salomon offered whole burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar, which he had built in front of the shrine. ¹³And according to the reckoning of ^dday by day^d to make offering according to Moyses' commandments on the sabbaths and on the months^e and on the feasts three times a year, on the feast of unleavened bread and on the feast of weeks and on the feast of tents. ¹⁴And he appointed the priests' divisions according to Daud's judgment with regard to their ministrations. And the Levites were at their posts to praise and minister opposite the priests according to the reckoning of a day by day^a and the door keepers according to their divisions at b gate and gate^b, because thus were the commands of Dauid, man of God. ¹⁵They did not transgress the king's commandments concerning the priests and Levites in any matter and regarding the treasuries.

^aHeb = grain offerings ^bOr tree ^cPossibly fortified ^dI.e. each day ^eI.e. new moons

¹⁶ And all the work was accomplished from the day it was founded until Salomon completed the Lord's house.

¹⁷ Then Salomon went to Gasiongaber and Ailath, the maritime city in the land of Idumea. ¹⁸And Chiram sent ships by the hand of his servants and servants familiar with the sea, and they went to Sophira with Salomon's servants and brought from there four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and they came to King Salomon.

9 And c the queen of Saba^c heard Salomon's name and came to Ierusalem, to test Salomon with enigmas, with a very heavy retinue. And there were camels bearing spices and gold in profusion and precious stone, and she came to Salomon and spoke to him all that she had in her mind. ²And Salomon proclaimed to her all her words, and there was no issue that eluded Salomon, which he did not proclaim to her. ³And c the queen of Saba^c saw Salomon's wisdom and the house, which he had built, ⁴and the foodstuffs on the tables and the seating of his servants and the standing of his ministers and their clothing and his wine stewards and their apparel and the whole burnt offerings, which he offered in the Lord's house. And she was beside herself.

⁵ And she said to the king, "The report that I heard in my land about your words and about your wisdom was true. ⁶And I did not believe the reports until I came and my eyes saw, and behold, I had not been told the half of the abundance of your wisdom. You have added to the rumor I heard. ⁷Happy are your men; happy are these, your servants, who stand beside you continually and hear your wisdom. ⁸Let the Lord, your God, be blessed, who wanted you on his throne, to give you as king for the Lord, your God. When the Lord, your God, loved Israel to confirm it forever, he set you over them as king to administer judgment and righteousness." ⁹And she gave the king one hundred and twenty talents of gold and spices in very great quantity and precious stone. And there were no spices like those which c the queen of Saba^c gave King Salomon.

¹⁰ (And Salomon's servants and the servants of Chiram brought Salomon gold from Souphir and pine wood and precious stone. ¹¹And the king made the pinewood into ascents for the Lord's house and the king's house and into lyres and nablas^d for the singers. And such things had not been seen before in the land of Ioudas).

¹² And King Salomon gave c the queen of Saba^c all her wants which she requested, beyond everything she had brought King Salomon. And she returned to her land.

¹³ And the weight of gold that was brought to Salomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold, ¹⁴besides the men who were subordinates and merchants—what they would bring—and all the kings of Arabia and the satraps of the land—they would bring gold and silver to King Salomon. ¹⁵And King Salomon made two hundred oblong shields of beaten gold—six hundred^e of pure gold to one shield; six hundred^e of gold went into one shield—¹⁶and three hundred round shields of beaten gold; he allotted three hundred^e of gold to each shield. And the king gave them in the house of the Forest of Lebanon. ¹⁷And the king made a large ivory throne of teeth and gilded it with certified gold. ¹⁸And the throne had six steps, attached with gold, and there were arms on either side of the throne for sitting, and two lions standing next to the arms ¹⁹and twelve lions standing there on the six steps at either side. Nothing like that had existed in any kingdom. ²⁰And all King Salomon's vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the Forest of Lebanon were covered with gold. Nor was silver held in any account in the days of Salomon, ²¹because a ship for the king traveled to Tharsis with Chiram's servants. Once every three years the boats would come from Tharsis to the king full of gold and silver and ivory teeth and apes.

²² And Salomon was magnified over all the kings both in wealth and in wisdom. ²³And all the kings of the earth would seek out the face of Salomon to hear his wisdom, which God had given in his heart. ²⁴And every one of them brought his gifts, silver vessels and gold vessels and clothing, myrrh and spices, horses and mules, year by year, ²⁵And Salomon had four thousand mares for chariots and twelve thousand horsemen, and he stationed them in chariot cities and with the king in Ierusalem. ²⁶And he was leader of all the kings from the River⁸ to the land of allophytes and to the border of Egypt. ²⁷And the king presented gold and silver like stones in Ierusalem and cedars like the sycamores that are in the flat country in profusion. ²⁸And the export of horses was from Egypt to Salomon and from all the earth.

²⁹ And the rest of the histories of Salomon, the first and the last, behold, they are written in the Histories of Nathan the Prophet and in the Histories of Achia the Selonite and in the Visions of Ioel the Seer concerning Ieroboam son of Nabat. ³⁰And King Salomon reigned over all Israel for forty years. ³¹And Salomon slept, and they buried him in the city of Dauid his father and Roboam his son reigned in his stead.

10 And Roboam went to Sychem, because all Israel was coming to Sychem to make him

^aI.e. each day ^bI.e. each gate ^cOr Queen Saba ^d = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument ^ePerhaps in shekels ^fOr belonging to ⁸I.e. the Euphrates

king. ²And it happened, when Ieroboam son of Nabat heard—and he was in Egypt, as he had fled from before King Salomon, and Ieroboam had taken up residence in Egypt—then Ieroboam returned from Egypt. ³And they sent and called him, and Ieroboam and all the assembly of Israel came to Roboam, saying, ⁴“Your father made our yoke hard. And now lighten your father’s harsh slavery and his heavy yoke that he placed upon us, and we will be subject to you.” ⁵And he said to them, “Go forth about three days, and then come to me.” And the people went away.

⁶ And King Roboam gathered the elders who had stood before Salomon his father during his lifetime, saying, “How do you advise that a word should be answered to this people?” ⁷And they spoke to him, saying, “If today you are well disposed to this people and you are well pleased with them and speak kind words to them, they will be your servants all your days.” ⁸And he rejected the advice of the elders who had counseled him and took counsel with the youths who had been brought up with him, who stood before him. ⁹And he said to them, “What do you counsel and what word shall I reply to this people who have spoken to me, saying, ‘Lighten the yoke your father imposed upon us?’” ¹⁰And the youths who had been brought up with him said to him, “Thus shall you speak to the people who spoke to you saying, ‘Your father made our yoke hard. Now remove it from us.’ Thus shall you speak, ‘My little finger is thicker than my father’s waist. ¹¹And now my father trained you with a heavy yoke, but I will add to your yoke. My father disciplined you with whips, but I will discipline you with scorpions.’”

¹² And Ieroboam and all Israel came to Roboam on the third day, as the king had spoken, saying, “Return to me on the third day.” ¹³And the king answered harshly and King Roboam abandoned the elders’ counsel. ¹⁴And he spoke to them according to the youths’ counsel, saying, “My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to it. My father disciplined you with whips, but I will discipline you with scorpions.” ¹⁵And the king did not listen to the people, because it was a reversal from God, saying, “The Lord has established his word, which he spoke by the hand of Achia the Selonite concerning Ieroboam son of Nabat ¹⁶and all Israel,” that the king did not listen to them. And the people replied to the king, saying,

“What share do we have in Daud,
and what inheritance in the son of Iessai?
To your coverts, O Israel.

Now look at your house, Daud!”

And all Israel went to their coverts. ¹⁷And as for the men of Israel who were living in the cities of Ioudas—even Roboam ruled over them. ¹⁸And King Roboam sent Hadoniram, the one in charge of revenue, and the sons of Israel stoned him with stones, and he died. And King Roboam hastened to mount his chariot to flee to Ierusalem. ¹⁹And Israel has rejected the house of Daud to this day.

11 And Roboam went to Ierusalem and assembled Ioudas and Benjamin—one hundred and eighty thousand youths doing war—and he was mobilizing against Israel to return the kingdom to Roboam. ²And a word of the Lord came to Samaias, man of God, saying: ³Say to Roboam the son of Salomon and all Ioudas and Benjamin, saying, ⁴“This is what the Lord says: You shall not go up and wage war against your brothers. Return, each one to his own home, because this thing is from me.” And they heeded the Lord’s word and turned back from advancing upon Ieroboam.

⁵ And Roboam resided in Ierusalem, and he built walled cities in Judea. ⁶And he built Baith-leem and Aitam and Thekoe ⁷and Baithsoura and Sokchoth and Odollam ⁸and Geth and Marisa and Ziph ⁹and Adoraim and Lachis and Azeka ¹⁰and Saraa and Aialon and Chebron, walled cities, which belong to Ioudas and Benjamin. ¹¹And he fortified them with walls and set in them leaders and stores of food, oil and wine in every city, ¹²and in every city shields and spears, and he greatly strengthened them in number. And Iouda and Benjamin belonged to him.

¹³ And the priests and Leuites who were in all Israel converged upon him from all the regions—¹⁴because the Leuites had left the coverts of their possession and proceeded to Ierusalem in Ioudas, because Ieroboam and his sons had expelled them so as not to minister to the Lord. ¹⁵And he appointed for himself priests of the high places and for the idols and the vanities and the bull calves, which Ieroboam had made. ¹⁶And he expelled from the tribes of Israel those who had set their heart to seek the Lord, God of Israel, and they went to Ierusalem to sacrifice to the Lord, God of their fathers. ¹⁷And they strengthened the kingdom of Ioudas and strengthened Roboam the son of Salomon for three years, because he walked in the ways of Daud and Salomon for three years.

¹⁸ And Roboam took to himself as wife Molath daughter of Ierimouth son of Daud and^a Abaia daughter of Eliab son of Iessai. ¹⁹And she bore him sons Iaous and Samaria and Roollam. ²⁰And after that he took to himself Maacha daughter of Abessalom, and she bore him Abia and Iethth and Ziza and Emmoth. ²¹And Roboam loved Maacha daughter of Abessalom more than all his wives and his concubines, because he had ten wives and thirty concubines. And he fathered twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters. ²²And Roboam appointed Abia son of Maacha as ruler, as leader among his brothers, because he intended for him to become king. ²³And he^b was increased beyond all his sons in all the regions of Ioudas and Benjamin and in the fortified cities and he gave them^c provisions in great abundance. And he claimed an abundance of women.

12 And it happened that, as Roboam’s reign became established and as it became confirmed, he abandoned the Lord’s commandments

^aLacking in Gk ^bI.e. Abia ^cI.e. the cities and all Israel with him. ²And it happened in the fifth year of Roboam's reign that Sousakim, king of Egypt, came up against Ierousalem because they had sinned against the Lord, ³with one thousand two hundred chariots and sixty thousand horses, and the multitude which accompanied him out of Egypt—Libyans, Troglodytes and Ethiopians—was innumerable. ⁴And they seized the fortified cities that were in Ioudas, and he came to Ierousalem. ⁵And Samaias the prophet came to Roboam and the rulers of Ioudas, who had gathered in Ierousalem from before Sousakim, and said to them, "Thus said the Lord. 'You abandoned me, and I will abandon you to the hand of Sousakim!'" ⁶And the rulers of Israel and the king were ashamed and said, "The Lord is just." ⁷And when the Lord saw that they were embarrassed, a word of the Lord came to Samaias, saying, "They have felt compunction; I will not destroy them, and I will give them ^aas a little^a for deliverance, and my wrath shall not be spread abroad in Ierousalem, ⁸because they will be as servants and will know bondage to me and bondage to earthly rule."

⁹ And Sousakim, king of Egypt, went up and took the treasures that were in the Lord's house and the treasures in the house of the king; he took everything. He also took the gold oblong shields that Salomon had made. ¹⁰And Roboam made bronze oblong shields to replace them. And Sousakim appointed over him commanders of runners, those who guard the king's gate. ¹¹And it happened that, when the king entered the Lord's house, the guards would go in, and the runners and those returning to meet the runners. ¹²And when he felt compunction, the Lord's wrath turned away from him and was not completely for destruction. Indeed matters were good in Ioudas.

¹³ And Roboam became strong in Ierousalem, and he reigned. And Roboam was forty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned in Ierousalem for seventeen years in the city that the Lord had chosen out of all the tribes of the sons of Israel for his name to be called upon there. And his mother's name was Noomma the Ammanite. ¹⁴And he did evil, because he did not direct his heart to seek out the Lord.

¹⁵ And the histories of Roboam, the first and the last, behold, are they not written in the Histories of Samaias the Prophet and Addo the Seer, as well as his acts? And Roboam waged war against Ieroboam all his days. ¹⁶And Roboam died and was buried with his fathers and was buried in the city of Daud, and Abia his son became king in his stead.

13 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Ieroboam, Abia became king over Ioudas. ²He reigned three years in Ierousalem, and his mother's name was Maacha daughter of Ouriel from Gabaon.

And there was war between Abia and between Ieroboam. ³And Abia prepared for war with a force: warriors of a force, four hundred thousand mighty men. And Ieroboam lined up against him a battle with eight hundred thousand; mighty warriors of power they were. ⁴And Abia got up from Mount Somoron, which is in Mount Ephraim, and said, "Listen, Ieroboam and all Israel! ⁵Is it not for you to know that the Lord, God of Israel, gave rule over Israel forever to Daud and his sons as a covenant of salt? ⁶And Ieroboam the son of Nabat, the servant of Salomon son of Daud, rose up and rebelled against his lord. ⁷And pestilent men, lawless sons, were gathered to him, and he rose up against Roboam the son of Salomon. Now Roboam was rather young and timid in heart and did not stand up to him.

⁸ "And now you say that you stand in opposition to the Lord's kingdom through the hand of Daud's sons. And you are a large multitude, and with you are golden calves, which Ieroboam has made as gods for you. ⁹Have you not thrown out the Lord's priests, the sons of Aaron and the Leuites, and made for yourselves priests from the people of the land? Anyone who approaches ^bto fill the hands^b with a calf from cattle and seven rams also becomes priest to what is no god. ¹⁰And we have not abandoned the Lord, our God, and his priests, the sons of Aaron, and the Leuites in their daily divisions minister to the Lord. ¹¹They fumigate^c to the Lord, in the morning and evening, whole burnt offerings and incense of integration and the presentation of loaves on the pure table. And there are the gold lampstand and the lamps for burning to ignite in the evening, because we keep the watches of the Lord, God of our fathers, and you have abandoned him. ¹²And, behold, to begin with, the Lord is with us and his priests and the signal trumpets to signal against you. You, the sons of Israel, are going to war against the Lord, God of your fathers—because it will not go well for you."

¹³ And Ieroboam had turned their ambush to come from behind. And he was in front of Ioudas, and the ambush was behind. ¹⁴And Ioudas turned back, and, behold, the war loomed upon them in front and in the rear, and they called to the Lord, and the priests trumpeted with the trumpets. ¹⁵And the men of Ioudas shouted, and it happened that, when the men of Ioudas shouted, the Lord also struck Ieroboam and Israel before Abia and Ioudas. ¹⁶And the sons of Israel fled from before Iouda, and the Lord surrendered them into their hands. ¹⁷And Abia and his people struck a great blow in their midst, and five hundred thousand mighty men of Israel fell slain. ¹⁸And the sons of Israel were humbled on that day, and the sons of Ioudas prevailed, because they hoped in the Lord, God of their fathers. ¹⁹And Abia pursued after Ieroboam and seized some cities from him, Baithel and its villages and Isana and its villages and Ephron and its villages. ²⁰And Ieroboam could not regain strength all the days of Abia, and the Lord struck him, and he died. ²¹And Abia grew strong and took to himself fourteen wives and fathered twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. ²²And the rest of the histories of Abia, both his acts and his words, are written in the Book of the Prophet Addo. ^{23(14.1)}And Abia died with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of Daudid, and Asa his son became king in his stead.

^aPossibly to a small degree ^bPossibly to become consecrated

^cOr burn incense

14 In the days of Asa the land of Ioudas was quiet for ten years. ⁽²⁾And he did what was good and right before the Lord, his God. ²⁽³⁾And he removed the altars of the foreigners and the high places and smashed the steles and cut down the groves. ³⁽⁴⁾And he told Ioudas to seek out the Lord, God of their fathers, and to do the law and the commandments. ⁴⁽⁵⁾And he removed from all the cities of Ioudas the altars and the idols and enjoyed peace. ⁵⁽⁶⁾Cities were walled in the land of Ioudas, because the land enjoyed peace. And he endured no war during those years because the Lord granted him repose. ⁶⁽⁷⁾And he said to Ioudas, "Let us build these cities and make walls and towers and gates and bars, by which we will control the land, because as we sought the Lord, our God, he has sought us out and granted us repose on every side, and he has made us prosper." ⁷⁽⁸⁾And Asa had a force of three hundred thousand heavy infantry in Ioudas carrying shields and spears and two hundred and fifty thousand ^alight troops^a and archers in the land of Beniamin, all mighty warriors.

⁸⁽⁹⁾ And Zare the Ethiopian came out against them with a force of a million and three hundred chariots and went as far as Marisa. ⁹⁽¹⁰⁾And Asa came out to meet him and drew up his battle line in the ravine to the north of Marisa. ¹⁰⁽¹¹⁾And Asa called out to the Lord, his God, and said, "Lord, it is not impossible with you to save with many or with few. Strengthen us, Lord, our God, because we have put our trust in you, and in your name we have come against this vast multitude. Lord, our God, let no man prevail against you." ¹¹⁽¹²⁾And the Lord struck the Ethiopians before Ioudas, and the Ethiopians took to flight. ¹²⁽¹³⁾And Asa and his people pursued as far as Gedor, and the Ethiopians fell so that there was no preservation among them, because they were crushed before the Lord and before his force. And they took much plunder. ¹³⁽¹⁴⁾And they eradicated their villages round Gedor, because terror of the Lord had come upon them, and they plundered all their cities, because much plunder accrued to them. ¹⁴⁽¹⁵⁾Indeed tents of possessions, the Amazons, they eradicated and seized many sheep and camels and returned to Ierousalem.

15 And Azarias son of Oded—a spirit of the Lord came upon him. ²And he went out to meet Asa and all Ioudas and Beniamin and said, "Hear me, Asa, and all Ioudas and Beniamin. The Lord is with you when you are with him, and if you seek him, he will be found to you, and if you abandon him, he will abandon you. ³And for many days it has been for Israel without a true god and without a teaching priest and without law. ⁴And he will return to the Lord, God of Israel, and he will be found to them. ⁵And at that time there is no peace for the one exiting and the one entering, because terror of the Lord is upon all the inhabitants of the land. ⁶And nation will war against nation and city against city, because God has confounded them in every tribulation. ⁷And you, be strong, and let your hands not fail, for there is a reward for your work."

⁸ And when he^b heard these words and the prophecy of Adad the prophet, he was both encouraged and he removed the abominations from all the land of Ioudas and Beniamin and from the cities he had gained possession of in Mount Ephraim, and he renewed the Lord's altar that was in front of the Lord's shrine. ⁹And he assembled Ioudas and Beniamin and the guests who were sojourning with him from Ephraim and from Manasse and from Symeon, because many from Israel had joined him when they saw that the Lord, his God, was with him. ¹⁰And they were gathered in Ierousalem in the third month of the fifteenth year of Asa's reign. ¹¹And he sacrificed to the Lord on that day from the plunder that they had brought, seven hundred calves and seven thousand sheep. ¹²And he entered in a covenant to seek the Lord, God of their fathers, from all his heart and from all his soul. ¹³And if any one would not seek the Lord, God of Israel, he would die, from youth to elder, from man to woman. ¹⁴And they swore by the Lord with a loud voice, both with trumpets and with horns. ¹⁵And all Iouda^c was glad over the oath, because they had sworn from all their soul and had sought him with all their will, and the Lord was found to them and granted them rest all around.

¹⁶ And he^b removed his mother, so she would not be ministering to Astarte, and he cut down the idol and burned it in the Wadi Kedron. ¹⁷Yet, they did not take away the high places; they kept on existing in Israel. Nevertheless, Asa's heart was full all his days. ¹⁸And he brought in the holy things of Daudid his father and the holy things of the house of the Lord God, silver and gold and utensils. ¹⁹And there was no war with him until the thirty-fifth year of Asa's reign.

16 And in the thirty-eighth year of Asa's reign, Baasa, king of Israel, went up against Ioudas and built Rama so as not to give to Asa, king of Ioudas, exit and entrance. ²And Asa took gold and silver from the treasures of the Lord's house and the king's house and sent them to the son of Hader, king of Syria, who resided in Damascus, saying, ³"Make a covenant between me and you and between my father and between your father. See, I have sent you gold and silver. Come, and shake off from me Baasa, king of Israel, and let him withdraw from me." ⁴And Hader's son heard

^aOr targeteers ^bI.e. Asa ^cPossibly everyone of Ioudas

King Asa and dispatched the commanders of his force against the cities of Israel and struck Ion and Dan and Abelmain and all the environs of Nephthali. ⁵And it happened, when Baasa heard, he left off building Rama any longer, and his labor came to a standstill. ⁶And King Asa took all Ioudas and seized the stones of Rama and its timber, which Baasa was using for construction, and he built Gabae and Maspha with it.

⁷ And at that time Hanani the prophet came to Asa, king of Ioudas, and said to him, "When you trusted in the king of Syria and did not trust in the Lord, your God, the Syrian force was saved from your hands. ⁸Did not the Ethiopians and Libyans possess a force large in courage, in horsemen in great profusion? And when you trusted in the Lord, he handed them into your hands, ⁹because the Lord's eyes range over all the earth, to put strength in every heart full toward him. You overlooked this! From now on war will be with you." ¹⁰And Asa was furious with the prophet and cast him in prison, because he was so angry with him. And Asa inflicted indignities among the people at that time.

¹¹ And see, the histories of Asa, the first and the last, are written in the Book of the Kings of Ioudas and Israel. ¹²And in the thirty-ninth year of his reign Asa grew infirm in his feet. He grew gravely infirm. And in his infirmity he did not seek the Lord, but physicians. ¹³And Asa slept with his fathers and died in the thirty-ninth year of his reign. ¹⁴And they buried him in the tomb that he dug for himself in the city of Daud, and they laid him to rest on the couch and filled it^a with spices and types of myrrh of the perfumer, and they made a very large funeral for him.

17 And Iosaphat his son became king in his stead, and Iosaphat became powerful against Israel. ²And he put a force in all the fortified cities of Ioudas and appointed leaders in all the cities of Ioudas and in the cities of Ephraim that Asa his father had seized before. ³And the Lord was with Iosaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father and did not seek out the idols. ⁴But he sought out the Lord, God of his father, and walked in the commandments of his father and not like the deeds of Israel. ⁵And the Lord directed the kingdom by his hand, and all Iouda^b gave gifts to Iosaphat, and wealth accrued to him and much glory. ⁶And his heart was exalted in the way of the Lord, and he furthermore removed the high places and the groves from the land of Ioudas.

⁷ And in the third year of his reign he dispatched his leaders and the sons of the mighty, Abdias and Zacharias and Nathanael and Michaias, to teach in the cities of Ioudas. ⁸And with them were the Leuites, Samouias and Nathanas and Zabdias and Asiel and Semiramothe and Ionathan and Adonias and Tobias, the Leuites, and with them the priests Elisama and Ioram. ⁹And they taught in Ioudas and with them was a book of the Lord's law, and they passed through in the cities of Ioudas and taught the people.

¹⁰ And terror of the Lord came upon all the kingdoms of the earth, those around Ioudas, and they did not wage war against Iosaphat. ¹¹And some of the allophytes brought Iosaphat gifts and silver and presents, and the Arabs brought him seven thousand seven hundred rams of sheep. ¹²And Iosaphat walked taller in stature and built dwellings and fortified cities in Judea. ¹³And he had many works in Judea and men, mighty warriors, holding sway in Ierusalem. ¹⁴And this is their number according to their paternal houses: for Ioudas, officers of thousands: Ednas the commander and with him three hundred thousand mighty sons of power. ¹⁵And after him was Ioanan the leader and with him two hundred and eighty thousand. ¹⁶And after him was Amasias the son of Zachri, who showed zeal for the Lord, and with him two hundred thousand mighty ones of power. ¹⁷And from Benjamin: Eliada, a mighty one of power, and with him two hundred thousand archers and clight troops^c. ¹⁸And after him was Iozabad and with him one hundred and eighty thousand mighty warriors. ¹⁹These were the ones who served the king, apart from those whom the king stationed in the fortified cities all over Judea.

18 And further wealth and much glory accrued to Iosaphat, and he married into the house of Achaab. ²And at the end of years he went down to Achaab in Samaria, and Achaab sacrificed sheep and many calves for him and for the people who were with him and deceived him to go up with him to Ramoth of Galaaditis. ³And Achaab, king of Israel, said to Iosaphat, king of Ioudas, "Will you go with me to Ramoth of Galaaditis?" And he said to him, "I am as you; your people, also my people, with you into war."

⁴ And Iosaphat said to the king of Israel, "Do seek the Lord today." ⁵And the king of Israel gathered the prophets, four hundred men, and said to them, "Should I go to Ramoth Galaad for war or hold back?" And they said. "Go up, and God will give it into the king's hands." ⁶And Iosaphat said, "Is there further no prophet of the Lord here, and we shall inquire from him?" ⁷And the king of Israel said to Iosaphat, "There is still one man by whom we can inquire of the Lord; I for my part hated him, because he is not prophesying anything good about me, because all his days are for evil. He is Michaias son of Iemla." And Iosaphat said, "Let the king not speak like that." ⁸And the king of Israel called one eunuch and said, "Quick. Michaias son of Iemla." ⁹And the king of Israel and Iosaphat, king of Ioudas, each sitting on his throne and dressed in robes, sitting in the wide space at the door of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets were prophesying before them. ¹⁰And Sedekias son of Chanana made for himself iron horns and said, "This is what the Lord says: With these you will gore Syria until it is finished off." ¹¹And all the prophets were prophesying like that, saying, “Go up to Ramoth Galaad, and you will be successful, and the Lord will give it into the king’s hands.”

^aPossibly him ^bPossibly everyone of Ioudas ^cOr targeteers

12 And the messenger who had gone to call Michaias spoke to him, saying, “Look, the prophets with one mouth have spoken good things concerning the king. And do let your words be as of one of them, and you shall speak good things.”¹³ And Michaias said, “The Lord lives, because whatever God says to me, that will I speak.”

14 And he came to the king, and the king said to him, “Michaias, should I go to Ramoth Galaad for war or hold back?” And he said, “Go up, and you will be successful, and they shall be given into your hands.”¹⁵ And the king said to him, “How many times have I made you swear to speak to me nothing but the truth in the name of the Lord?”¹⁶ And he said, “I saw Israel scattered on the mountains, like sheep who have no shepherd, and the Lord said, ‘They have no leader. Let them—each one—return to his home in peace.’”¹⁷ And the king of Israel said to Iosaphat, “Did I not tell you that he does not prophesy good about me, but only bad?”

18 And he said, “Not so; hear a word of the Lord. I saw the Lord sitting on his throne and all the host of heaven standing to his right and to his left.”¹⁹ And the Lord said, “Who will deceive Achaab, king of Israel, and he will go up and fall at Ramoth Galaad?” And this one said thus, and that one said so.²⁰ And the spirit went out and stood before the Lord and said, “I will deceive him.” And the Lord said, “In what way?”²¹ And he said, “I will go and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.” And he said, “You shall deceive and prevail. Go, and do so.”²² And now, see, the Lord gave a lying spirit in the mouth of all these your prophets, and the Lord spoke bad concerning you.”

23 And Sedekias son of Chanana approached Michaias and struck him on the jaw and said, “By what way did the Lord’s spirit pass from me to speak to you?”²⁴ And Michaias said, “Behold, you will see on that day when you enter an inner chamber from an inner chamber to hide.”²⁵ And the king of Israel said, “Take Michaias, and return him to Emer, ruler of the city, and to Ioas, a ruler, son of the king.”²⁶ And you will say, “Thus said the king, Put this man in a house of detention, and let him eat bread of affliction and water of affliction until I return in peace.”²⁷ And Michaias said, “If returning you return in peace, the Lord has not spoken by me. Listen, all peoples!”

28 And the king of Israel and Iosaphat, king of Ioudas, went up to Ramoth Galaad.²⁹ And the king of Israel said to Iosaphat, “I will disguise myself and enter into battle, but as for you, wear my clothes.” And the king of Israel disguised himself and entered into battle.³⁰ And the king of Syria had commanded the commanders of the chariots who were with him, saying: “Do not make war on small and great, but only on the king of Israel.”³¹ And it happened, when the commanders of the chariots saw Iosaphat, they too said, “It is the king of Israel,” and they circled round him to fight him. And Iosaphat shouted out, and the Lord saved him, and God drove them back from him.³² And it happened, when the commanders of the chariots saw that he was not the king of Israel, they also withdrew from him.³³ And a man drew a bow with a good aim and struck the king of Israel between the lungs and between his breastplate, and he said to his driver, “Turn your hand, and take me out of the battle, because I am in trouble.”³⁴ And the battle was turned that day, and the king of Israel remained standing on his chariot facing Syria until evening and died as the sun set.

19 And Iosaphat, king of Ioudas, returned in peace to his house in Ierousalem.² And the prophet Iou the son of Hanani went out to meet him and said to him, “King Iosaphat, were you helping a sinner, or are you acting as friend to one hated by the Lord? Because of this, wrath has come against you from the Lord.”³ But good features were found in you, because you removed the groves from the land of Ioudas and directed your heart to seek out the Lord.”

4 And Iosaphat resided in Ierousalem and again went out among the people from Bersabee up to Mount Ephraim and brought them back to the Lord, God of their fathers.⁵ And he appointed judges in all the fortified cities of Ioudas, in city and city.⁶ And he told the judges, “See what you are doing, because you are judging not for man but for the Lord, and with you are words of discernment.”⁷ And now let the fear of the Lord be upon you, and watch, and act, because there is no injustice with the Lord, our God, nor respect of person, nor accepting of gifts.”

8 Moreover, Iosaphat appointed some priests and Levites and leading men of Israel in Ierousalem to adjudicate for the Lord and to judge the inhabitants of Ierousalem.⁹ And he commanded them, saying, “This is how you shall act in the fear of the Lord, in truth, and with a full heart.”¹⁰ Should there be any man of your brothers who dwell in their cities with a case that leads to you, involving shedding of blood and involving an ordinance or commandment or statutes and judgments, you will then make a pronouncement for them, and they will not sin against the Lord, and no wrath will come upon you or upon your brothers. Thus you shall act, and you will not sin.¹¹ And behold, Amarias the priest, a leader over you in every matter concerning the Lord, and Zabdias son of Ismael, the leader over you regarding the house of Ioudas in every matter concerning the king, and the scribes and the Levites before you! Be strong, and act, and the Lord will be with the good.”

20 And after this the sons of Moab and the sons of Ammon and with them some of the Minites came against Iosaphat for battle.² And they came and told Iosaphat of this, saying, “A great multitude has come against you from beyond the sea and Syria. And, see, they are in Hasasanthamar” (this is Engaddi).³ And Iosaphat was afraid and set his face to seek out the Lord and proclaimed a fast in all Ioudas.⁴ And Ioudas was gathered to seek out the Lord, and from all the cities—Ioudas—they came to seek out the Lord.

5 And Iosaphat got up in the assembly of Ioudas in Ierousalem in the house of the Lord in front of the new court. 6And he said, "Lord, God of our fathers, are you not God in heaven, and you govern all the kingdoms of the nations, and in your hand is the power of dominance, and there is no one able to withstand you? 7Are you not the Lord who utterly destroyed the inhabitants of this land from before your people Israel and gave it forever to the seed of Abraham, your beloved? 8And they lived in it and built in it a holy precinct to your name, saying, 9If harm comes upon you, sword, disaster, death or famine, we will stand before this house and before you, because your name is upon this house, and we will call out to you out of affliction, and you will hear and save. 10And now, see, sons of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, them through whom you did not grant Israel to pass when they came out of the land of Egypt—because they avoided them and did not utterly destroy them! 11Now, see, it is they who are undertaking to come out against us to cast us from our inheritance, which you gave us. 12Lord, our God, are you not going to make judgment against them?—because we have no strength to withstand this great multitude that has come against us, and we do not know how to deal with them. Rather our eyes are on you."

13 And all Ioudas stood before the Lord and their children and wives. 14And with reference to Oziel the son of Zacharias of the sons of Banaias of the sons of Eleel the son of Manthianias the Leuite of the sons of Asaph—a spirit of the Lord came upon him in the assembly 15and he said, "Listen, all Ioudas and inhabitants of Ierousalem and King Iosaphat: This is what the Lord says to you yourselves, 'Do not be afraid of them or alarmed from before this vast throng, because the battle line is not for you but for God. 16Tomorrow descend upon them. See, they are ascending along the ascent of Hasas, and you will find them on the height of the river in the wilderness of Ieriel. 17It is not for you to make war. Understand that, and see the Lord's deliverance with you, Ioudas and Ierousalem.' Do not be afraid or alarmed tomorrow to go out to meet them, and the Lord will be with you."

18 And when Iosaphat bowed with his face down, all Iouda^a also and the inhabitants of Ierousalem fell down before the Lord, to do obeisance to the Lord. 19And the Leuites of the sons of Kaath and of the sons of Kore stood up to praise the Lord, God of Israel, in a stupedly loud voice.

20 And they rose next morning and went out into the wilderness of Thekoe, and when they went out, Iosaphat halted and called out and said, "Listen to me, Ioudas and inhabitants of Ierousalem! Trust in the Lord, your God, and you will be given credence. Put your faith in his prophet, and you shall succeed." 21And he took counsel with the people and stationed harp-singers and singers of praise to acknowledge and praise the holy things as they went out ahead of the army and said,

"Acknowledge the Lord,
because his mercy is forever."

22And as they began the praise of his acknowledgement, the Lord granted that the sons of Ammon war against Moab and Mount Seir, who were coming out against Ioudas, and they were turned to flight. 23And the sons of Ammon and Moab rose up against the inhabitants of Mount Seir utterly to destroy and to crush. And when they finished off the inhabitants of Mount Seir, they turned to destroy each other utterly.

24 And Ioudas went to the lookout place over the wilderness and scanned it and saw the multitude. And behold, they were all corpses fallen upon the earth; there was no survivor. 25And Iosaphat and his people came to plunder their plunder, and they found many herds and baggage and plunder and desirable articles, and they plundered for themselves, and three days elapsed while they were plundering plunder, because there was much. 26And on the fourth day they gathered together into the glen of the blessing, for there they blessed the Lord. That is why they called the name of that place is Valley of Blessing until today. 27And every man of Ioudas returned to Ierousalem in great gladness, and Iosaphat was their leader, because the Lord had made them glad due to their enemies. 28And they entered into Ierousalem with nablas^b and with cinyras^c and with trumpets into the Lord's house. 29And terror of the Lord fell upon all the kingdoms of the earth when they heard that the Lord had fought against Israel's adversaries. 30And Iosaphat's kingdom remained peaceful, and his God gave him rest all around.

31 And Iosaphat reigned over Ioudas, being thirty-five years when he became king, and he reigned twenty-five years in Ierousalem. And his mother's name was Azouba daughter of Sali. 32And he walked in the ways of his father Asa and did not turn aside from doing what was right before the Lord. 33But the high places still existed, and the people had not yet directed their heart toward the Lord, God of their fathers.

34 And the rest of the histories of Iosaphat, both the first and the last, behold, they are written in the Histories of Iou the Son of Hanani, who wrote a book on the kings of Israel.

35 And after that Iosaphat, king of Ioudas, made common cause with Ochozia, king of Israel, (and he was lawless) 36when he acted and went to him to make ships to go to Tharsis, and he made ships in Gasiongaber. 37And Eliezer the son of Dodia from Marisa prophesied against Iosaphat, saying, "Since you became friends with Ochozia, the Lord has dashed your enterprise, and your ships have been wrecked, and they were not able to go to Tharsis."

21 And Iosaphat slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of Dauid, ^aPossibly everyone of Ioudas ^b = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument ^c = Heb kinmor = lyre

and his son Ioram became king in his stead. ²And he had six brothers, sons of Iosaphat, Azarias and Iiel and Zacharias and Azarias and Michael and Saphatias. All these were sons of Iosaphat, king of Ioudas. ³And their father gave them many gifts, silver and gold and arms along with walled cities in Ioudas. And the kingdom he gave to Ioram, because he was the firstborn. ⁴And Ioram rose up over his kingdom and became strong and killed all his brothers by sword and some of the rulers of Israel. ⁵When Ioram was thirty-two years old he became established over his kingdom, and he reigned eight years in Ierousalem. ⁶And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Achaab had done, because Achaab's daughter was his wife, and he did what was evil before the Lord. ⁷And the Lord did not wish to destroy utterly the house of Daudid on account of the covenant he had made with Daudid and how he had said to him that he would give a lamp to him and his sons for all days.

⁸ In those days Edom revolted from Ioudas and crowned a king over themselves. ⁹And Ioram set out with his commanders, and all the cavalry with him. And it happened that Edom arose by night and struck Ioram, who was encircling him and the commanders of the chariots, and the people fled to their coverts. ¹⁰And Edom revolted from Ioudas until this day. Then Lomna revolted from his hand at that time, because he had abandoned the Lord, God of his fathers.

¹¹ For indeed he made high places in the cities of Ioudas and prostituted the inhabitants of Ierousalem and perverted Ioudas. ¹²And a written note reached him from the prophet Elias, saying, "This is what the Lord, God of Daudid your father, says: Because you have not walked in the way of your father Iosaphat and in the ways of Asa, king of Ioudas, ¹³but have walked in the ways of the kings of Israel and have prostituted Ioudas and the inhabitants of Ierousalem, as the house of Achaab prostituted, and your brothers, your father's sons, who were nobler than you, you killed, ¹⁴behold, the Lord will strike you with a severe blow among your people and among your sons and among your wives and all your belongings. ¹⁵And you will be in grave infirmity with a sickness of the belly until your belly comes out with the infirmity from days^a to days^a."

¹⁶ And the Lord aroused the allophytes and the Arabs and the neighbors of the Ethiopians against Ioram. ¹⁷And they came up against Ioudas, and they seized and removed all the belongings they found in the king's house, and his sons and his daughters, and no son was left to him except Ochozias, the youngest of his sons.

¹⁸ And after all this the Lord struck him with an infirmity in his belly, for which there was no cure. ¹⁹And it occurred from days^a to days^a. And when a time came during two days^a of the days^a, his belly came out with the illness, and he died in grave infirmity. And his people did not do a funeral like a funeral of his fathers. ²⁰He was thirty-two years old when he became king and reigned eight years in Ierousalem. And he walked not in commendation and was buried in the city of Daudid and not in the tombs of the kings.

22 And the inhabitants of Ierousalem made Ochozias, his little son, king in his stead, because the band of robbers, the Arabs and the Alimazones, that fell on them had killed all the older ones. And Ochozias son of Ioram, king of Ioudas, became king. ²Being twenty years old Ochozias became king and reigned in Ierousalem for one year. And his mother's name was Gotholia daughter of Ambri. ³And he walked in the way of the house of Achaab, because his mother was his counselor in sinning. ⁴And he did what was evil before the Lord, like the house of Achaab, because they were his counselors after his father's death in order to destroy him utterly. ⁵And he walked in their counsels. And he went with Ioram son of Achaab to war against Hazael, king of Syria, to Rama Galaad. And the archers struck Ioram. ⁶And Ioram retreated to be cured in Iezrael of the wounds the Syrians had inflicted on him at Rama when he fought against Hazael, king of Syria. And Ochozias son of Ioram, king of Ioudas, went down to see Ioram son of Achaab in Iezrael, because he was sick.

⁷ And from God came ruin to Ochozias that he came to Ioram. And when he arrived, Ioram went out with him against Iou son of Namessi, the Lord's anointed, against^b the house of Achaab. ⁸And it happened, as Iou was taking vengeance on the house of Achaab, he also found the rulers of Ioudas and Ochozias' brothers ministering to Ochozias, and he killed them. ⁹And he gave orders to search for Ochozias, and they caught him as he was being cured in Samaria and led him to Iou, and he killed him. And they buried him, because they said, "He is Iosaphat's son, who sought the Lord with his whole heart." And there was no one in Ochozias' house to assert power over the kingdom.

¹⁰ And Gotholia, the mother of Ochozias, saw that her son was dead, and she was aroused and destroyed every offspring of the kingdom in the house of Ioudas. ¹¹And Iosabeth, the king's daughter, took Ioas, Ochozias' son, and stole him from among the king's sons about to be killed and consigned him and his nurse to the storeroom of the beds. And Iosabeth daughter of King Ioram, sister of Ochozias, wife of Iodae the priest, hid him. And she hid him from before Gotholia, and she did not kill him. ¹²And he was hidden with her in the house of God for six years, and Gotholia reigned over the land.

23 And in the seventh year Iodae gained strength and took the officers of hundreds, Azarias son of Ioram and Ismael son of Ioanan and Azarias son of Obed and Maasaia son of Adaias and Elisaphas son of Zacharias, with him into a house. ²And they went round Ioudas and gathered the Leuites from all the cities of Ioudas and the rulers of the paternal families of Israel and came to Ierousalem. ³And all the assembly of Ioudas made a covenant with the king in the house of God, and he showed to them the king's son and said to them, "Behold, let the king's son be king, as the Lord has spoken concerning the house of Dauid. ⁴Now this is the plan you will do. Let one third of you, of the priests and the Leuites, proceed on the sabbath and to the gates of the entrances, ⁵and let one third be in the king's house, and let one third be at the middle gate, and all the people are in the courts of the Lord's house. ⁶And let no one enter the Lord's house except the priests and the Leuites and those of the Leuites who are ministering. They shall enter because they are holy, and let all the people keep the Lord's watches. ⁷And the Leuites shall surround the king on all sides, a man with an implement in his hand, and he who enters the house shall die. And they shall be with the king as he enters and exits."

^aPossibly year(s) ^bLacking in Gk

⁸ And the Leuites and all Iouda^a did according to all that Iodae the priest commanded, and each took his men from the beginning to the end of sabbath, because Iodae did not disband the daily divisions. ⁹And he distributed the daggers and the shields and the arms which had belonged to King Dauid in the house of God. ¹⁰And he appointed all the people, each with his arms, from the right angle of the house to the left angle of the altar, and the house, in a ring around the king. ¹¹And he led out the king's son and bestowed the crown upon him, and the testimonies. And Iodae and his sons made him king and anointed him and said, "Let the king live!"

¹² And Gotholia heard the sound of the people, those who ran and acknowledged and praised the king and approached the king in the house of the Lord. ¹³And she looked, and, behold, there was the king at his station and at the entrance the rulers and the trumpets around the king, and all the people were glad, and they trumpeted with the trumpets and the singers singing with their instruments and hymning a song of praise. And Gotholia tore her garment and exclaimed and said, "Attacking you are launching an attack." ¹⁴And Iodae the priest went out, and Iodae the priest commanded the officers of hundreds and commanders of the force and said to them, "Remove her from the house, and follow her, and let her die by dagger," because the priest said, "Let her not die in the house of the Lord." ¹⁵And they gave her leave, and she exited through the cavalry gate of the king's house, and there they put her to death.

¹⁶ And Iodae made a covenant between himself and the people and the king that they should be a people to the Lord. ¹⁷And all the people of the land entered into the house of Baal, and they tore it down and smashed to pieces its altars and idols, and they killed Matthan the priest of the she-Baal before his altars. ¹⁸And Iodae the priest put his hand to the works of the Lord's house through priests and Leuites and re-established the daily divisions of the priests and the Leuites, which Dauid had appointed for the house of the Lord and to offer whole burnt offerings to the Lord, as it is written in the law of Moyses, with gladness and with songs, through the hand of Dauid. ¹⁹And the gatekeepers stood at the gates of the Lord's house, and no one unclean shall enter on any account. ²⁰And he took the patriarchs and the magnates and the rulers of the people and all the people of the land, and they brought up the king to the Lord's house, and he entered by the exterior gate to the king's house, and they sat the king on the throne of the kingdom. ²¹And all the people of the land were glad, and the city was quiet. And they put Gotholia to death by dagger.

24 Ioas was seven years old when he became king, and he reigned forty years in Ierousalem. And his mother's name was Sabia from Bersabee. ²And Ioas did what was right before the Lord all the days of Iodae the priest. ³And Iodae took for him two wives, and he fathered sons and daughters.

⁴ And it happened afterwards that it came into Ioas's heart to restore the house of the Lord. ⁵And he gathered the priests and Leuites and said to them, "Go out into the cities of Ioudas, and gather money from all Israel to restore the Lord's house, year by year, and hurry to spread the word." But the Leuites did not hurry. ⁶And King Ioas summoned Iodae the chief and said to him, "Why have you not exercised oversight concerning the Leuites, to bring in from Ioudas and Ierousalem what was determined by Moyses, man of God, when he assembled Israel into the tent of witness?"—⁷because Gotholia was the lawless one, and her sons laid waste the house of God and furthermore made over to the she-Baalim all the holy things of the Lord's house.

⁸ And the king said, "Let there be a chest, and let it stand outside the gate to the Lord's house." ⁹And they proclaimed in Ioudas and Ierousalem that people should bring an offering to the Lord, as Moyses servant of God had mentioned for Israel in the wilderness. ¹⁰And all the rulers and all the people gave and brought and dropped into the chest until it was full. ¹¹And it happened, as they would bring the chest to the king's officials by means of the Leuites and as they saw that the money had increased, the king's scribe and the official of the great priest also came and emptied the chest and set it back in its place. This is how they acted day after day, and they collected much money. ¹²And the king and Iodae the priest gave it to those doing the work for the work of the Lord's house. And they hired masons and carpenters to restore the Lord's house and smiths of iron and copper to restore the Lord's house. ¹³And those doing the work kept on working, and the extent of their work expanded by their hands, and they raised up the Lord's house in its position and strengthened it.

^aPossibly everyone of Ioudas

¹⁴And when they had finished, they brought the rest of the money to the king and Iodae, and they made utensils for the Lord's house, liturgical utensils for whole burnt offerings and gold and silver censers. And they offered whole burnt offerings in the Lord's house regularly all the days of Iodae.

¹⁵ And Iodae grew old and full of days and died at the age of one hundred and thirty years at his death. ¹⁶And they buried him in the city of Daudid with the kings, because he had done goodness with Israel and with God and with his house.

¹⁷ And it happened after Iodae's death that the rulers of Ioudas entered and did obeisance to the king. Then the king heeded them. ¹⁸And they abandoned the Lord, God of their fathers, and were subject to the Astartes and to the idols. And wrath came upon Ioudas and upon Ierousalem on that day. ¹⁹And he sent prophets to them to turn them back to the Lord, but they did not listen. And they bore witness against them, and they did not listen.

²⁰ And a divine spirit entered Azarias the son of Iodae the priest, and he stood above the people and said, "This is what the Lord says: Why do you transgress the Lord's commandments? And you will not prosper. Because you have abandoned the Lord, he will also abandon you." ²¹And they plotted against him and stoned him by command of King Ioas in the court of the Lord's house. ²²And Ioas did not remember the mercy that Iodae his father had done with him, and he put his son to death. And as he was dying, he said, "May the Lord see, and let him judge."

²³ And it happened after the completion of the year, the Syrian force came up against him and came against Ioudas and against Ierousalem, and they destroyed all the rulers of the people among the people and sent all the plunder to the king of Damascus. ²⁴Because the Syrian force arrived with few men, God also delivered into their hands a very large force, because they had abandoned the Lord, God of their fathers. And he executed many judgments against Ioas.

²⁵ And after they had withdrawn from him, when they abandoned him in great infirmities, his servants also plotted against him because of the bloodshed of the son of Iodae the priest, and they put him to death on his bed. And he died. And they buried him in the city of Daudid, and they did not bury him in the tomb of the kings. ²⁶And those plotting against him were Zabed the son of Samath the Ammanite and Iozabed the son of Somaroth the Moabite. ²⁷And all his sons, even the five, came against him. And the rest, behold, it is written in the document of the kings. And Amasias his son became king in his stead.

25 When he was twenty-five years old Amasias became king and reigned twenty-nine years in Ierousalem. And his mother's name was Ioaden from Ierousalem. ²And he did what was right before the Lord, but not with a full heart. ³And it happened, as his reign was confirmed in his hand, he also put to death his servants who had murdered the king, his father. ⁴And he did not kill their sons according to the covenant of the Lord's law, as it is written, as the Lord had commanded, saying, "Fathers shall not die because of children, and sons shall not die because of fathers, but each shall die for his own sin."

⁵ And Amasias gathered the house of Ioudas and appointed them as officers of thousands and officers of hundreds according to their paternal families in all Ioudas and Ierousalem. And he numbered them from the age of twenty and up and found them to be three hundred thousand men able-bodied to go to war grasping spear and shield. ⁶And he hired one hundred thousand powerful in strength from Israel for one hundred talents of silver. ⁷And a man of God went to him and said, "King, a force of Israel shall not advance with you, because the Lord is not with Israel, since all are the sons of Ephraim—⁸because, if you presume to prevail with these, then the Lord will defeat you before your enemies, because to prevail and to be routed are from the Lord." ⁹And Amasias said to the man of God, "And what shall I do about the hundred talents I gave to the force of Israel?" And the man of God said, "It is for the Lord to give you more than these." ¹⁰And Amasias discharged the force that had come to him from Ephraim to return to their place. And they were very angry with Ioudas and returned to their place in fierce anger.

¹¹ And Amasias became strong and brought his people along with him and advanced into the Valley of Salt and there struck ten thousand sons of Seir. ¹²And the sons of Ioudas took captive ten thousand and brought them to the cliff edge and tossed them over the cliff edge, and they were all rent asunder. ¹³And the sons of the force whom Amasias had turned so as not to advance with him to war also fell upon the cities of Ioudas from Samaria to Baithoron, and they struck three thousand among them and took much plunder.

¹⁴ And it happened, after Amasias went and struck Idumea, he also brought back to them the gods of the sons of Seir and established them as gods for himself and would do obeisance to them, and he himself would sacrifice to them. ¹⁵And the Lord's wrath came upon Amasias, and he sent to him prophets, and they said to him, "Why did you seek the gods of the people, who did not deliver their people out of your hand?" ¹⁶And it happened, as he spoke to him, that he said to him, "Surely I have not engaged you as a counselor to the king? Take heed lest you are whipped." And the prophet fell silent. And he said, "I know that hea desired for you to destroy you, because you have done this and have not heeded my counsel."

¹⁷ And Amasias took counsel and sent to Ioas son of Ioachaz son of Iou, king of Israel, saying, "Come, let us see face to face," ¹⁸And Ioas, king of Israel, sent to Amasias, king of Ioudas, saying, "The achouch^b in Lebanon sent a message to the cedar

^al.e. God ^bHeb = brier or bramble

in Lebanon saying, 'Give your daughter to my son for a wife. And behold, the wild beasts of the field in Lebanon will come out.' And the wild beasts came and trampled down the achoucha.¹⁹ You said, 'See, you have struck Idumea, and your heavy heart exalts you. Now sit in your house, and why are you planning harm, and you yourself will fall and Ioudas with you?' "

20 And Amasias did not listen, because it was from the Lord to hand him over into his hands, because he sought out the gods of the Idumeans.²¹ And Ioas, king of Israel, went up, and they appeared to one another, he and Amasias, king of Ioudas, in Baithsamys, which belongs to Ioudas.²² And Ioudas was turned back before Israel, and each fled to his covert.²³ And Ioas, king of Israel, captured Amasias, king of Ioudas, son of Ioas in Baithsamys and led him into Ierousalem, and he pulled down a portion of the wall of Ierousalem from the gate of Ephraim to the gate of the corner, four hundred cubits.²⁴ And ^bhe took^b all the gold and the silver and all the vessels that were found in the Lord's house and with Abdedom and the treasures of the king's house and the sons of the mixed parentage and returned to Samaria.

25 And Amasias the son of Ioas, king of Ioudas, lived fifteen years after the death of Ioas son of Ioachaz, king of Israel.²⁶ And the rest of the histories of Amasias, the first and the last, behold, are they not written in the Book of the Kings of Ioudas and Israel? ²⁷And at the time when Amasias turned from the Lord, they plotted a plot against him, and he fled from Ierousalem to Lachis. And they sent after him to Lachis and there put him to death.²⁸ And they took him back on horses and buried him with his fathers in the city of Dauid.

26 And all the people of the land took Ozias, and he was sixteen years old, and they made him king in his father Amasias' stead.² He built Ailath and restored it to Ioudas after the king slept with his fathers.³ Ozias became king being a son of sixteen years and reigned in Ierousalem fifty-two years. And his mother's name was Chalia, from Ierousalem.⁴ And he did what was right before the Lord in accordance with everything his father Amasias had done.⁵ And he would seek out the Lord in the days of Zacharias who had understanding in fear of the Lord. And in his days he sought the Lord, and the Lord made him prosper.

6 And he went out and made war against the allophytes and pulled down the walls of Geth and the walls of Iabne and the walls of Azotus, and he built cities of^c Azotus and among the allophytes.⁷ And the Lord made him prevail over the allophytes and over the Arabs who lived on the rock^d and over the Minites.⁸ And the Minites gave Ozias gifts, and his fame reached as far as the entry to Egypt, because he was highly strong.⁹ And Ozias built towers in Ierousalem, both at the gate of the corner and at the gate of the ravine and on the corners, and he grew strong.¹⁰ And he built towers in the wilderness and hewed out many cisterns, because he had large herds in Sephela and in the low land and vinedressers in the hill country and in Carmel, because he loved the soil.¹¹ And Ozias had forces making war and going out to battle in number, and their number was through the hand of Iiel the scribe and Maasaias the judge through the hand of Ananias the king's deputy.¹² And the entire number of the patriarchs of the mighty ones for war was two thousand six hundred.¹³ And with them was a military force of three hundred and seven thousand five hundred. These were the ones making war with power of strength to assist the king against his adversaries.¹⁴ And Ozias equipped them, the entire force, with shields and spears and helmets and breastplates and bows and slings for stones.¹⁵ And he made machines in Ierousalem devised by a mathematician to be on the towers and on the corners, to fire projectiles and large stones. And their construction was noised abroad far and wide, because it was marveled at in order to be of help until he became strong.

16 And as he grew in power, his heart was exalted so as to be corrupt, and he did wrong against the Lord, his God, and entered into the Lord's shrine, to burn incense on the altar of incense.¹⁷ And Azarias the priest entered after him and with him the priests of the Lord, eighty mighty sons.¹⁸ And they opposed King Ozias and said to him, "It is not for you, Ozias, to offer incense to the Lord, but for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who are consecrated, to offer incense. Go out of the holy precinct, because you are in revolt against the Lord, and this will not win you any glory from the Lord God."¹⁹ And Ozias became angry, and in his hand was the fumigator to offer incense in the shrine. And when he became angry with the priests, leprosy also rose up on his forehead in front of the priests in the house of the Lord over the altar of incense.²⁰ And the first priest and the priests turned toward him and, behold, he was leprous on his forehead. And they hurried him out of there, and indeed he himself hurried to get out, because the Lord had convicted him.²¹ And King Ozias was leprous until the day of his death, and he sat as a leper in the house of aphphousoth^e, because he was excluded from the Lord's house. And Ioatham his son was in charge of his kingdom, judging the people of the land.

22 And the rest of the histories of Ozias, the first and the last, were written by Iessias^f the prophet.²³ And Ozias slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the plain of the kings' burial, because they said, "He is leprous." And Ioatham his son became king in his stead.

27 Ioatham was a son of twenty-five years when he became king and reigned sixteen years in Ierousalem. And his mother's name was Ierousa daughter of Sadok.² And he did what was right before the Lord in accordance with everything his father Ozias had done—but he did not enter into the Lord's shrine. And still the people were becoming corrupt. ³He built the high gate of the Lord's house and built extensively on the wall of Ophla. ⁴And he built cities in the hill country of Ioudas and both dwellings and towers in the forests. ⁵He fought with the king of the sons of Ammon and prevailed over him. And the sons of Ammon would give him one hundred talents of silver annually and ten thousand kors^a of wheat and ten thousand of barley. These the king of Ammon would bring him annually in the first year and the second and the third. ⁶And Ioatham became strong, because he ordered his ways before the Lord, his God. ⁷And the rest of the histories of Ioatham and the war and his acts, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Ioudas and Israel. ⁹And Ioatham slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of Daudid, and his son Achaz became king in his stead.

^aHeb = brier or bramble ^bLacking in Gk ^cPossibly in the territory of ^dI.e. Petra ^eHeb = separateness ^fHeb = Isaiah

28 Achaz was a son of twenty years when he became king and reigned sixteen years in Ierousalem. And he did not do what was right before the Lord, as Daudid his father had done. ²And he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, for indeed he made carved objects for their idols. ³And he would sacrifice in Gaibenenom, and he led his children through fire according to the abominations of the nations whom the Lord utterly destroyed from before the sons of Israel. ⁴And he would offer incense on the high places and on the roofs and under every woodland tree.

⁵ And the Lord, his God, handed him over through the hand of the king of Syria, and he struck at him and took captive of them a large captivity and brought it to Damascus. Moreover, he also handed him over into the hands of the king of Israel, and he struck at him a severe blow. ⁶And Phakee the son of Romelias, king of Israel, killed one hundred and twenty thousand men powerful in strength in Ioudas in one day when they had abandoned the Lord, God of their fathers. ⁷And Ezekri, the powerful one of Ephraim, killed Maa-saias the king's son and Esdrikam, a commander of his house, and Elkana the king's deputy.

⁸ And the sons of Israel took captive three hundred thousand of their brothers, women, sons and daughters, and they took much plunder from them and brought the plunder to Samaria. ⁹And there, there was the prophet of the Lord, whose name was Oded, and he went out to meet the force of those entering Samaria and said to them, "See, the wrath of the Lord, God of your fathers, is upon Ioudas, and he gave them over into your hands, and you killed among them with anger. As far as the heavens it has reached. ¹⁰And now you say that you have acquired sons of Ioudas and Ierousalem as male slaves and female slaves. See, am I not with you to witness to the Lord, your God? ¹¹And now hear me, and return the captives whom you have taken captive from among your brothers, for the anger of the Lord's wrath is upon you." ¹²And rulers of the sons of Ephraim stood up against those returning from war, Oudia the son of Ioanes and Barachias the son of Mosolamoth, Hezekias the son of Sellem and Amasias the son of Chodli. ¹³And they said to them, "You shall not bring the captives here to us, because you speak to us in regard to sinning against the Lord to add to our sins and ignorance, because great is our sin and the anger of the Lord's wrath against Israel." ¹⁴And the warriors left the captives and the plunder before the rulers and all the assembly. ¹⁵And the men got up as their name was called out and assisted the captives and wrapped all the naked from the plunder and clothed them and shod them and gave them to eat and to be anointed and assisted every sick person with pack animals and brought them back to their brothers in Iericho, the city of palms, and they returned to Samaria.

¹⁶ At that time Achaz sent to the king of Assour to help him ¹⁷and on this occasion, because the Idumeans had attacked and struck at Ioudas and taken a captivity captive. ¹⁸And the allophytes had attacked against the cities of the low land and from the southwest of Ioudas, and they had taken Baithsamys and Ailon and Gaderoth and Socho and its villages and Thamna and its villages and Gamzo and its villages, and they settled there, ¹⁹because the Lord humbled Ioudas on account of Achaz, king of Ioudas, because he had rebelled with rebellion against the Lord. ²⁰And Thaglathphellasar, king of Assour, came against him and struck him. ²¹And Achaz took what was in the Lord's house and in the house of the king and of the rulers and gave it to the king of Assour, but it was of no help to him. ²²Rather by his having been afflicted, he even added to rebel against the Lord, and the king said, ²³"I will seek out the gods of Damascus who are hitting me." And he said, "Because the gods of the king of Syria themselves will strengthen them, I will therefore sacrifice to them, and they will support me." And they became a stumbling block to him and to all Israel. ²⁴And Achaz removed the utensils of the Lord's house and cut them up and closed the doors of the Lord's house and made altars for himself on every corner of Ierousalem. ²⁵And in bevery city and city^b in Ioudas he made high places to ^cburn incense^c to foreign gods, and they angered the Lord, God of their fathers. ²⁶And the rest of his histories and his acts, the first and the last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Ioudas and Israel. ²⁷And Achaz slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of Daudid, because they did not bring him to the tombs of the kings of Israel. And his son Hezekias reigned in his stead.

29 And Hezekias became king at age twenty-five and reigned twenty-nine years in Ierousalem. And his mother's name was Abba daughter of Zacharias. ²And he did what was right before the Lord, just as his father Daudid had done.

³ And it happened that, when he was established over his kingdom, in the first month he opened the doors of the Lord's house and repaired them. ⁴And he brought in the priests and the Leuites and placed them on the side toward the east. ⁵And he said to them, "Listen, Leuites, now be purified, and purify the house of the Lord, God of your fathers, and cast out uncleanness from the holy places, ⁶because our fathers were apostate and did what was evil before the Lord and abandoned him and turned their face from the Lord's tent and gave their neck ⁷and shut the doors of the shrine and put out the lamps. And they did not burn incense and did not offer whole burnt offerings in the holy place to Israel's God. ⁸And the Lord was angered with anger against Ioudas and against Ierousalem and gave them into terror and into annihilation and into scorn, as you see with your very eyes. ⁹And, behold, your fathers were struck by dagger, and your sons and your daughters and your wives are in captivity in a land not their own, which even now is the case. ¹⁰As a result of these things, it is now in my heart to make a covenant with the Lord, God of Israel, and he will turn the anger of his wrath from us. ¹¹And now do not delay, because the Lord has chosen for you to stand before him to minister and to be ministers and incense burners for him."

^aHeb 1 kor = 220 liters ^bI.e. each city ^cOr fumigate

¹² And the Leuites arose, Maath the son of Amasi and Ioel the son of Azarias from the sons of Kaath, and from the sons of Merari, Kis the son of Abdi and Azarias the son of Iallelel, from the sons of Gedsoni, Ioa the son of Zemmatah and Iodan the son of Ioacha, ¹³and of the sons of Elisaphan, Sambri and Iiel, and of the sons of Asaph, Zacharias and Maththanias, ¹⁴and of the sons of Haiman, Iiel and Semei, and of the sons of Idithon, Samaias and Oziel. ¹⁵And they gathered their brothers and were purified according to the king's command through the Lord's ordinance to cleanse the Lord's house. ¹⁶And the priests entered inside the Lord's house to purify it and threw out all the uncleanness that they found in the Lord's house and into the court of the Lord's house, and the Leuites took it to toss out into the Wadi Kedron outside. ¹⁷And they began to purify on the first day, on the new moon of the first month, and on the eighth day of the month they entered into the Lord's shrine and purified the Lord's house in eight days, and they finished on the sixteenth day of the first month. ¹⁸And they went inside to King Hezekias and said, "We have purified everything in the Lord's house, the altar for whole burnt offerings and its utensils, the table of presentation and its utensils, ¹⁹and all the utensils, which King Achaz defiled during his reign in his apostasy, we have made ready and purified. See, they are in front of the Lord's altar."

²⁰ And King Hezekias early in the morning gathered the rulers of the city and went up to the Lord's house. ²¹And he brought seven calves, seven rams, seven lambs, seven he-goats of goats for sin, for the kingdom and for the holy things and for Israel, and he told the priests, the sons of Aaron, to go up to the Lord's altar. ²²And they sacrificed the calves, and the priests received the blood and poured it on the altar. And they sacrificed the rams and poured the blood on the altar. And they sacrificed the lambs and poured the blood for the altar. ²³And they brought the he-goats for sin in front of the king and the assembly and laid their hands on them. ²⁴And the priests sacrificed them, and they atoned with their blood at the altar, and they atoned for all Israel, because—the king said—the whole burnt offering and the victims for sin offerings were for all Israel.

²⁵ And he stationed the Leuites in the Lord's house with cymbals and with nablas^a and with cinyras^b according to the commandment of King Daud and of Gad the king's seer and of Nathan the prophet, for the ordinance was through the Lord's commandment by the hand of the prophets. ²⁶And the Leuites stood with instruments of Daud and the priests with the trumpets. ²⁷And Hezekias said that the whole burnt offering should be brought to the altar, and when they began to offer the whole burnt offering, they began to sing to the Lord, and the trumpets were next to the instruments of Daud, king of Israel. ²⁸And all the assembly did obeisance, and the harp-singers were singing and the trumpets were trumpeting until the whole burnt offering was finished. ²⁹And as they finished offering, the king knelt, and all those present also did obeisance. ³⁰And King Hezekias and the rulers said that the Leuites should hymn the Lord with words of Daud and of Asaph the prophet. And they hymned with gladness and fell down and did obeisance.

³¹ And Hezekias answered and said, "Now you have filled your hands to the Lord; bring, and bear sacrifices of praise also to the Lord's house. And the assembly brought sacrifices of praise also to the Lord's house, and everyone eager in heart brought whole burnt offerings. ³²And the number of the whole burnt offering that the assembly offered was seventy calves, one hundred rams, two hundred lambs. All these were for a whole burnt offering to the Lord. ³³And the consecrated calves were six hundred; sheep, three thousand. ³⁴But the priests were few and were unable to skin the whole burnt offering, and their brothers the Leuites assisted them until the task was finished and until the priests were purified, because the Leuites had been purified more eagerly than the priests. ³⁵And the whole burnt offering was abundant with the fats of the completion for deliverance and of the libations of the whole burnt offering. And the service in the Lord's house was restored. ³⁶And Hezekias and all the people were glad on account of the fact that God had prepared for the people, because the thing had come about suddenly.

30 And Hezekias sent to all Israel and Ioudas and wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasse, to come to the Lord's house in Ierousalem to hold the phasek^c to the Lord, God of Israel. ²And the king and the rulers and all the assembly in Ierousalem took counsel to hold the phasek^a in the second month, ³for they were unable to hold it at that time, because not enough priests had been purified and the people had not gathered in Ierousalem. ⁴And the plan was pleasing both to the king and to the assembly. ⁵And they fixed a plan to pass a message through all Israel from Bersabee up to Dan to come and hold the phasek^a to the Lord, God of Israel, in Ierousalem, because the multitude had not held it according to prescription^b. ⁶And the couriers with the letters from the king and the rulers traveled throughout all Israel and Ioudas in accordance with the king's ordinance, saying, "Sons of Israel, turn to the God of Abraham and Isaak and Israel, and he will return those survivors who escaped the hand of the king of Assour. ⁷And do not be like your fathers and your brothers, who became apostate from the Lord, God of their fathers, and he gave them over to desolation, as you yourselves see. ⁸And now do not harden your necks. Give glory to the Lord God, and enter his holy precinct, which he sanctified forever, and be subject to the Lord, your God, and he will remove from you the anger of his wrath, ⁹because, when you return to the Lord, your brothers and your children will become pitied before all who took them captive, and he will return them to this land, because the Lord our God is merciful and compassionate and will not turn his face from us, if we turn to him."

^a = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument ^b = Heb kinnor = lyre ^c = Heb = passover

¹⁰ And the couriers passed through city from city in Mount Ephraim and Manasse and as far as Zaboulon, and they were, as it were, as people deriding and mocking them. ¹¹But the people of Aser and some of Manasse and of Zaboulon were moved to shame and came to Ierousalem. ¹²And the hand of the Lord was on Ioudas to give them one heart to go and act in accordance with the ordinance of the king and the rulers in the word of the Lord.

¹³ And many people gathered in Ierousalem to hold the feast of unleavened bread in the second month, an exceedingly vast assembly. ¹⁴And they got up and removed the altars that were in Ierousalem, and all with which they had ^cburned incense to the false ones they pulled down and threw into the Wadi Kedron. ¹⁵And they sacrificed the phasek^a on the fourteenth of the second month. And the priests and the Leuites were ashamed and were purified and brought whole burnt offerings into the Lord's house. ¹⁶And they stood at their station according to their judgment in accordance with the commandment of Moyses, man of God. And the priests received the blood from the hand of the Leuites, ¹⁷for the majority of the assembly were not purified and the Leuites had to sacrifice the phasek^a for anyone unable to be purified for the Lord, ¹⁸for the majority of the people from Ephraim and Manasse and Issachar and Zaboulon had not been purified but ate the phasek^a in contravention of prescription^b. And Hezekias prayed for them, saying, "Let the good Lord be propitiated over ¹⁹every heart directed to seek out the Lord, God of their fathers, and not in accordance with the purity of the holy things." ²⁰And the Lord heard Hezekias and healed the people. ²¹And the sons of Israel who were found in Ierousalem held the feast of unleavened bread for seven days with great gladness and were singing hymns to the Lord day by day, and the priests and the Leuites with instruments to the Lord. ²²And Hezekias spoke to every heart of the Leuites and those with a good understanding for the Lord, and they completed the feast of unleavened bread, sacrificing sacrifices for deliverance for seven days and acknowledging the Lord, God of their fathers.

²³ And the assembly decided to hold it together for seven more days, and they celebrated for seven days with gladness, ²⁴for Hezekias contributed to the assembly of Ioudas a thousand calves and seven thousand sheep and the rulers contributed to the people a thousand calves and ten thousand sheep, and the priests' holy things were in abundance. ²⁵And the whole assembly was glad: the priests and the Leuites and all the assembly of Ioudas and those present from Israel and the guests who had come from the land of Israel and those who dwelt in Ioudas. ²⁶And there was great gladness in Ierousalem. From the days of Salomon son of Daud king of Israel there had not been such a feast in Ierousalem. ²⁷And the priests, the Leuites, stood up and blessed the people. And their voice was heard and their prayer entered his holy dwelling place in the sky.

31 And when all this was finished, all Israel found in the cities of Ioudas went out and demolished the steles and cut down the groves and completely dismantled the high places and altars^d from all over Judea and Benjamin and from Ephraim and from Manasse. And all Israel—each one—returned to his inheritance and to their cities.

² And Hezekias appointed the daily divisions of the priests and of the Leuites and the daily divisions of each according to their ministry for the priests and for the Leuites in whole burnt offerings and in the sacrifice of deliverance and to praise and acknowledge and minister at the gates in the courts of the Lord's house. ³And the king's portion from his possessions was for whole burnt offerings, morning and evening, and whole burnt offerings on sabbaths and on new moons and on the feasts written in the Lord's law. ⁴And he told the people who lived in Ierousalem to give the portion due to the priests and the Leuites so that they might be strong in the ministry of the Lord's house. ⁵And when he had prescribed the matter, the sons of Israel multiplied their first fruits of grain and of wine and of oil and of honey and of every field crop, and the sons of Israel and of Ioudas brought all the tithes in profusion. And the inhabitants of all the cities in Ioudas, ⁶they too brought tithes of calves and of sheep and tithes of goats, and they dedicated them to the Lord, their God, and brought them in and laid them in heaps by heaps. ⁷In the third month the heaps began to be formed and in the seventh month they were finished. ⁸And Hezekias and the rulers came and saw the heaps and blessed the Lord and his people Israel. ⁹And Hezekias learned from the priests and from the Leuites about the heaps. ¹⁰And Azarias the ruling priest said to him, and he said, "From the time that the first fruits began to be brought to the house of the Lord, we have eaten and drunk and had left over, because the Lord has blessed his people, and we still have this abundance left over."

^aHeb = passover ^bOr scripture ^cOr fumigated ^dGk = bōmos

¹¹ And Hezekias told them to prepare shrine-carriers' chambers for the house of the Lord, and they prepared them. ¹²And there they faithfully brought the first fruits and tithes, and Chonenias the Leuite was supervisor over them, and Semei his brother was deputy. ¹³And Iiel and Ozazias and Naeth and Asael and Ierimoth and Iozabath and Eliel and Samachia and Maath and Banaias and his sons were appointed through Chonenias and Semei his brother, as King Hezekias and Azarias, the chief officer of the Lord's house, had ordered. ¹⁴And Kore the son of Iemna the Leuite, the door-keeper on the east, was in charge of the gifts to give the first fruits to the Lord and the holies of holies items ¹⁵through the hand of Odom and Benjamin and Iesous and Semei and Amarias and Sechonias through the hand of the priests, to give faithfully to their brothers according to the daily divisions, in accord with great and small, ¹⁶apart from the offspring of the male line from three years old and up to every one entering the Lord's house, on the appropriate day, for ministry according to the calculation of days with the daily divisions of their dispositions. ¹⁷This was the register of the priests according to their paternal houses, and the Leuites were in their daily divisions from the age of twenty and up, in order, ¹⁸in registers, in every generation of their sons and their daughters to their full extent, because they faithfully purified the holy place ¹⁹for the sons of Aaron, those serving as priests. And those from their cities, in ^aevery city and city^a, men who were named by name, were to give a portion to every male among the priests and to everyone enumerated among the Leuites.

²⁰ And Hezekias acted so in all Ioudas and did what was good and right before the Lord, his God. ²¹And in every task with which he began in the work in the Lord's house and in the law and in the ordinances, he sought out his God with his whole soul and acted and succeeded.

32 And after these matters and this truth, Sennacherim, king of the Assyrians, came, and he came against Ioudas and encamped against the walled cities and said that he would take possession of them. ²And Hezekias saw that Sennacherim had come and that his face was set to wage war on Ierusalem. ³And he took counsel with his elders and the magnates to seal off the waters of the springs that were outside the city, and they supported him. ⁴And he gathered a large group of people and sealed off the waters of the springs and the stream that separated the city, saying, "May the king of Assour not come and find much water and be revived." ⁵And Hezekias strengthened and built the entire wall that had been demolished and towers and another external wall, and he strengthened the retaining structure of the city of Daud and fashioned many weapons. ⁶And he set war commanders over the people, and they gathered to him in the square of the ravine gate, and he spoke to their hearts, saying: ⁷"Be strong, and be manly. Do not be terrified from before the king of Assour and from before all the nation with him, because with us are more than with him. ⁸With him are physical arms, but with us is the Lord, our God, to save us and to fight our war for us." And the people took heart at the words of Hezekias, king of Ioudas.

⁹ And after this, Sennacherim, king of the Assyrians, sent his servants to Ierusalem, and he himself was at Lachis, and all his army with him. And he sent to Hezekias, king of Ioudas, and to all Ioudas in Ierusalem, saying, ¹⁰"Thus says Sennacherim, king of the Assyrians: In what^b have you put your trust, that you sit in the siege in Ierusalem? ¹¹Is not Hezekias deceiving you, to hand you over to death and to famine and to thirst, saying, 'The Lord, our God, will save us from the hand of the king of Assour?' ¹²Was it not this Hezekias who removed his altars and his high places and said to Ioudas and the inhabitants of Ierusalem, saying, 'Opposite this altar you shall do obeisance and upon it you shall offer incense?' ¹³Shall you not know what I have done, I and my fathers, to all the peoples of the countries? Being able were the gods of the nations of all the earth able to save their people from my hand? ¹⁴Who was there among the gods of those nations whom my fathers utterly destroyed? Were they able to save their people from my hand, that your God should be able to save you from my hand? ¹⁵Now, let Hezekias not deceive you; let him not make you trust like this, and do not believe him, because no god of any nation or kingdom shall be able to save his people from my hand and from the hand of my fathers—because your God will not save you from my hand."

¹⁶ And his servants spoke still more against the Lord God, and against Hezekias his servant. ¹⁷And he wrote a note to reproach the Lord, God of Israel, and spoke about him, saying, "As the gods of the nations of the earth did not deliver their peoples from my hand, so Hezekias' God will not deliver his people from my hand." ¹⁸And he shouted with a loud voice in Judean to the people of Ierusalem who were on the wall, to frighten them and draw them down in order that they might seize the city. ¹⁹And he talked about Ierusalem's God as he did about the gods of the peoples of the earth: works of human hands.

²⁰ And King Hezekias and the prophet Esaias

^ai.e. each city ^bOr whom

son of Amos prayed about this and shouted out to the sky. ²¹And the Lord sent an angel, and he destroyed every powerful warrior and commander and general in the camp of Assour's king, and he returned to his country shame-faced. And he came into the house of his god, and some of those fathered from his belly struck him down with a sword. ²²And the Lord saved Hezekias and the inhabitants of Ierousalem from the hand of Senacherim, king of Assour, and from the hand of all^a. And he gave them rest on every side. ²³And many brought gifts to the Lord in Ierousalem and presents to Hezekias, king of Ioudas, and he was exalted in the eyes of all the nations after that.

²⁴ In those days Hezekias became sick unto death. And he prayed to the Lord, and he heard him and gave him a sign. ²⁵And Hezekias did not repay according to the reward which he had given him; rather, his heart was exalted. And anger came upon him and upon Ioudas and Ierousalem. ²⁶And Hezekias was brought low from the exaltation of his heart—and the inhabitants of Ierousalem—and the Lord's anger did not come upon them in the days of Hezekias.

²⁷ And wealth and very great honor accrued to Hezekias. And he made himself treasuries for silver and gold and precious stone and for spices, and armories also for desirable articles, ²⁸and cities for the produce of grain and oil and wine and mangers for every herd and folds for the flocks ²⁹and cities, which he built for himself, and goods for sheep and cows in profusion, because the Lord gave him very abundant goods. ³⁰This same Hezekias closed above the outlet of the water of Gion and directed them^b down to the southwest of the city of Daudid. And Hezekias prospered in all his works, ³¹and likewise with regard to the envoys of the commanders of Babylon, who had been sent to him to inquire from him the marvel that had happened on the land, and the Lord abandoned him, to test him, to know what was in his heart.

³² And the rest of the histories of Hezekias and his mercy, behold, they are written in the Prophecy of Esaias son of Amos the Prophet and in the Book of the Kings of Ioudas and Israel. ³³And Hezekias slept with his fathers, and they buried him on the ascent of the tombs of Daudid's sons, and ^call Iouda^c and the inhabitants of Ierousalem gave him fame and honor in his death. And Manasses his son became king in his stead.

33 Manasses was twelve years old when he became king and reigned fifty-five years in Ierousalem. ²And he did what was evil before the Lord, arising from all the abominations of the nations whom the Lord had utterly destroyed from before the sons of Israel. ³And he turned and built the high places that his father Hezekias had pulled down and erected steles to the she-Baalim and made groves and did obeisance to all the host of the sky and was subject to them. ⁴And he built altars in the Lord's house of which the Lord had said,

"In Ierusalem shall my name be forever." ⁵And he built altars to all the host of the sky in the two courts of the Lord's house. ⁶He too passed his children through fire in Gai-Banai-ennom, and he acted as a diviner and practiced ormithomancy and sorcery and acted as ventriloquists and enchanters. He multiplied doing evil before the Lord in order to provoke him. ⁷And he installed what was carved and what was smelted, an image that he had made, in the Lord's house of which God had said to Daudid and to Salomon his son, "In this house and Ierousalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put my name forever." ⁸And I will not add to shake Israel's foot from the land that I gave to their fathers, if only they are careful to do all that I have commanded them, according to all the law and the ordinances and the judgments by Moyses' hand." ⁹And Manasses led astray Ioudas and the inhabitants of Ierousalem to do what was evil beyond all the nations whom the Lord had removed from before the sons of Israel.

¹⁰ And the Lord spoke to Manasses and to his people, but they gave no heed. ¹¹And the Lord led against them the commanders of the force of the king of Assour, and they took Manasses in manacles and bound him with fetters and brought him to Babylon. ¹²And when he was in distress he sought the face of the Lord, his God, and he was humbled exceedingly from before the God of his fathers. ¹³And he prayed to him, and he heard him. And he heard his cry and brought him back to Ierousalem to his kingdom. And Manasses knew that the Lord, he is God.

¹⁴ And afterward he built a wall outside the city of Daudid from the southwest by Gion in the wadi and when people exit the round about gate even on to Ophla, and he heightened it significantly. And he appointed commanders of the force in all the walled cities in Ioudas. ¹⁵And he removed the foreign gods and the carved item from the Lord's house and all the altars that he had built on the mountain of the Lord's house and in Ierousalem and outside the city. ¹⁶And he restored the Lord's altar and sacrificed on it a sacrifice of deliverance and of praise, and he said that Ioudas should be subject to the Lord, God of Israel. ¹⁷The people, however, were still on the high places; the Lord, however, was their God.

¹⁸ And the rest of the histories of Manasses and his prayer to God and the words of the seers when they spoke to him in the name of the Lord, God of Israel, behold, they are in the accounts ¹⁹of his prayer, and how he listened to him, and all his sins and his acts of apostasy and the places on which he built the high places and set up there groves and carved items before he repented, behold, they are written in the accounts of the seers. ²⁰And Manasses slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the orchard of his house. And his son Amon became king in his stead.

²¹ Amon became king at twenty-two years old and reigned two years in Ierousalem. ²²And he did

^ai.e. all his adversaries ^bi.e. the waters ^cPossibly everyone of Ioudas

what was evil before the Lord as Manasses his father had done. And Amon would sacrifice to all the idols his father Manasses had made, and he was subject to them. ²³And he was not humbled before the Lord, as his father Manasses had been humbled, because his son Amon increased error. ²⁴And his servants plotted against him and struck him in his house. ²⁵And the people of the land struck those who had plotted against King Amon, and the people of the land made Iosias his son king in his stead.

34 Iosias was eight when he became king and reigned thirty-one years in Ierousalem. ²And he did what was right before the Lord and walked in the ways of his father Daudid and did not stray to right or left. ³And in the eighth year of his reign—and he was still a lad—he began to seek the Lord, God of Daudid his father. And in the twelfth year of his reign he began to purge Ioudas and Ierousalem of the high places and the groves and smelted items. ⁴And he pulled down in front of him the altars of the Baalim and the high places on them, and he cut down the groves and demolished the carved and smelted items and pulverized and threw them upon the memorials to those who had sacrificed to them, ⁵and the bones of the priests he burned on the altars and purged Ioudas and Ierousalem. ⁶And in the cities of Ephraim and Manasse and Symeon and Nephthali and in reference to their sites round about, ⁷he also pulled down the groves and the altars and demolished the idols into smithereens and cut down all the groves from off the land of Israel and returned to Ierousalem.

⁸ And in the eighteenth year of his reign—in order to purge the land and the house—he sent out Saphan son of Eselias and Maasias ruler of the city and Iouach son of Ioachaz, his recorder, to repair the house of the Lord, his God. ⁹And they came to Chelkias the great priest and delivered the money that had been brought into the house of God, which the Leuites in guarding the gate had collected from the hand of Manasse and Ephraim and the rulers and from everyone left in Israel and the sons of Ioudas and Benjamin and people living in Ierousalem. ¹⁰And those appointed in the Lord's house gave it into the hand of people doing the tasks, and they gave it to people doing the tasks who were working in the Lord's house to make preparations to restore the house. ¹¹And they gave it to the carpenters and the builders to buy squared^a stones and wood as beams to roof the houses, which kings of Ioudas had utterly destroyed. ¹²And there were the men faithfully in charge of operations, and over them as overseers were the Leuites Ieth and Abdias from the sons of Merari, and Zacharias and Mosollam from the sons of Kaath, to oversee, and every Leuite, everyone skilled in instruments of singers, ¹³and over the burden bearers and over all those doing the tasks, chore by chore. And some of the Leuites were scribes and judges and gatekeepers.

¹⁴ And as they were bringing out the money that had been collected into the Lord's house, Chelkias the priest found a book of the Lord's law through the hand of Moyses. ¹⁵And Chelkias answered and said to Saphan the scribe, "A book of the law I have found in the Lord's house," and Chelkias gave the book to Saphan. ¹⁶And Saphan brought the book to the king and rendered a further account to the king, "All the donated money is in the hand of your servants who are doing the task. ¹⁷And they have smelted the silver^b found in the Lord's house and have given it into the hand of the overseers and into the hand of those doing the work." ¹⁸And Saphan the scribe reported to the king, saying, "Chelkias the priest has given me a book," and Saphan read it before the king.

¹⁹ And it happened, when the king heard the words of the law, he rent his garments. ²⁰And the king commanded Chelkias and Saphan's son Achikam and Abdon, Michaias' son, and Saphan the scribe and Asaias the king's servant, saying: ²¹ "Go, and inquire of the Lord concerning me and concerning every one who is left in Israel and Ioudas, concerning the words of the book that has been found, because the Lord's wrath kindled against us is great, because our fathers did not listen to the words of the Lord, to act in accordance with all that is written in this book."

²² And Chelkias went, and those to whom the king had spoken, to Holda the prophetess, wife of Sellem son of Thakouath son of Chelles, since she kept the vestments—and she lived in Ierousalem in masana^c, and they spoke to her to that effect. ²³And she said to them, "Thus said the Lord, God of Israel: Say to the man who sent you to me, ²⁴Thus says the Lord: Behold, I am bringing harm against this place, all the words that are written in the book that was read before the king of Ioudas, ²⁵since they have forsaken me and have offered incense to foreign gods so that they have provoked me to anger with all the works of their hands. And my wrath was blazed in this place, and it will not be quenched. ²⁶And as to the king of Ioudas, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, thus shall you say this to him: Thus says the Lord God of Israel: As for the words that you heard—²⁷and your heart was embarrassed, and you were humbled from before me, when you heard my words regarding this place and regarding those who inhabit it, and you were humbled before me and tore your garments, and you wept before me; I on my part also heard you, says the Lord. ²⁸Behold, I will add you to your fathers, and you shall be added to your memorials^d in peace, and your eyes shall not see among all the harm that I am bringing upon this place and upon its inhabitants." And they gave back word to the king.

²⁹ And the king sent and gathered the elders of Ioudas and Ierousalem. ³⁰And the king went up to the Lord's house, and all Iouda^e and the inhabitants of Ierousalem, both the priests and the Leuites and all the people, from great to small. And he read in their hearing all the words of the book of the covenant that had been found in the Lord's house. ³¹And the king stood by the pillar and made a covenant before the Lord to walk before the Lord, to keep his commandments and testimonies and ordinances with his whole heart and with his whole soul, the words of the covenant that are written in this book. ³²And he made all those found in Ierousalem and Beniamin stand, and the inhabitants of Ierousalem made a covenant in the house of the Lord, God of their fathers. ³³And Iosias removed all the abominations from the entire land, which belonged to the sons of Israel, and he made all those found in Ierousalem and Israel be subject to the Lord, their God, all his days. He did not stray from behind the Lord, God of his fathers.

^aOr four-foot ^bOr money ^cHeb = Second Quarter ^dI.e. tomb ^ePossibly everyone of Ioudas

35 And Iosias held the phasech^a to the Lord, his God, and they slaughtered the phasech^a on the fourteenth of the first month. ²And he set the priests at their watches and strengthened them for the tasks of the Lord's house. ³And he said to the Leuites, who were powerful in all Israel, that they should be sanctified to the Lord, and they placed the holy ark in the house that Salomon son of Dauid, the king of Israel, had built. And the king said, "You are not to carry anything on your shoulders. Now then, minister to the Lord, your God, and to his people Israel. ⁴And prepare according to your paternal houses and according to your daily divisions according to the writing of Dauid, king of Israel, and through the hand of his son Salomon. ⁵And stand in the house according to the divisions of your paternal houses for your brothers, the sons of the people, and a portion of the paternal house is for the Leuites. ⁶And slaughter the phasech^a, and prepare the holy things for your brothers to do according to the word of the Lord through the hand Moyses."

⁷ And Iosias contributed sheep and lambs and kids from the young of goats to the sons of the people, everything for the phasech^a for all those present, up to a number of thirty thousand and three thousand calves. These were from the king's substance. ⁸And his officials contributed to the people and to the priests and the Leuites. Chelkias and Zacharias and Iiel, the chief officers of the house of God, gave to the priests, and they gave for the phasech^a two thousand six hundred sheep and lambs and kids and three hundred calves. ⁹And Chonenias and Banaias and Samaias and Nathaniel, his brother, and Hasabias and Iiel and Iozabab, rulers of the Leuites, contributed five thousand sheep and five hundred calves to the Leuites for the phasech^a.

¹⁰ And the service was set up. And the priests stood at their post, and the Leuites in their divisions according to the king's command. ¹¹And they slaughtered the phasech^a, and the priests poured the blood out of their hand, and the Leuites did the skinning. ¹²And they made ready the whole burnt offering to pass on to them according to the divisions of their paternal houses to the sons of the people to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moyses, and so until morning. ¹³And they roasted the phasech^a with fire according to the rule and boiled the holy things in the copper vessels and in the cauldrons. And it was a success, and they ran to all the sons of the people. ¹⁴And after preparing for them and for the priests, because the priests offered the fat and whole burnt offerings till night, the Leuites prepared both for themselves and for their brothers, the sons of Aaron. ¹⁵And the harp-singers, sons of Asaph, were at their post according to the commandments of Dauid. And Asaph and Haiman and Idithon, the king's prophets, and the rulers and the gatekeepers of ^bgate and gate^b—it was not for them to move from the ministry of the holy things, because their brothers the Leuites ministered to them.

¹⁶ And all the service of the Lord was set up and prepared on that day, to hold the phasech^a and to offer the whole burnt offerings upon the Lord's altar according to King Iosias' command. ¹⁷And the sons of Israel who were present held the phasech^a at that time and the feast of unleavened bread for seven days. ¹⁸And no phasech^a like it took place in Israel from the days of Samouel the prophet, and none of the kings of Israel celebrated anything like the phasech^a that Iosias held for the Lord—and the priests and the Leuites and ^call Ioudas^c and Israel, who were present, and the inhabitants of Ierousalem—¹⁹in the eighteenth year of King Iosias' reign. ^{19a}And King Iosias burned the ventriloquists and the wizards and the tharaphim^d and the idols and the karasime, which were in the land of Ioudas and in Ierousalem in order to establish the words of the law that were written in the book that Chelkias the priest found in the Lord's house. ^{19b}No one like him appeared before him who turned to the Lord with all his heart and with all his soul and with all his strength, according to all the law of Moyses, and none like him arose after him. ^{19c}Nevertheless, the Lord did not turn back from the anger of his great wrath with which the Lord was angry with wrath against Ioudas for all the provocations with which Manasses provoked him to anger. ^{19d}And the Lord said, "Indeed, Ioudas I will remove from before me as I removed Israel, and I have rejected the city I chose, Ierousalem, and the house about which I said, 'My name shall be there.'"

²⁰ And Pharao Nechao, king of Egypt, went up against the king of the Assyrians to the river Euphrates, and King Iosias went to meet him. ²¹And he sent envoys to him, saying, "What have I to do with you, king of Ioudas? I have not come against you today to make war, and God has told me to hurry. Beware of the god who is with me, lest he destroy you." ²²And Iosias did not turn away his face from him, but he was strengthened^f to fight him and did not listen to Nechao's words through God's mouth and went to fight in the plain of Magedon.

^aHeb = passover (lamb) ^bI.e. different gates ^cPossibly everyone of Ioudas ^dHeb = household gods ^eHeb = ?
^fPossibly determined

²³And the archers shot at King Iosias. And the king said to his servants, "Take me away, because I am very much in trouble." ²⁴And his servants removed him from the chariot and put him on the secondary chariot that he had and brought him to Ierousalem. And he died and was buried with his fathers. And ^aall Iouda^a and Ierousalem mourned for Iosias. ²⁵And Ieremias lamented over Iosias, and all the leading men and leading women have spoken the lament over Iosias until this very day. And they gave it as an ordinance for Israel, and see, it is written among the Laments. ²⁶And Iosias' affairs and his hope are written in the Lord's law. ²⁷And his affairs, the first and the last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Ioudas.

36 And the people of the land took Ioachaz son of Iosias and anointed him and established him as king in Ierousalem in his father's stead. ²Ioachaz was a son of twenty-three years when he became king and reigned three months in Ierousalem. ^{2a}And his mother's name was Amital daughter of Ieremias of Lobena. ^{2b}And he did what was evil before the Lord in all respects as his fathers had done. ^{2c}And Pharao Nechao bound him in Deblatha in the land of Hemath so that he would not reign in Ierousalem. ³And the king transferred him to Egypt, and he imposed on the land a tribute of one hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold. ⁴And Pharao Nechao appointed Iosias' son Eliakim as king of Ioudas in place of his father Iosias and changed his name to Ioakim. And Pharao Nechao took his brother Ioachaz and led him to Egypt, and he died there. ^{4a}And they gave the gold and silver to the Pharao. Then the land began to be subject to tribute to give the silver at the mouth^b of Pharao, and everyone according to his power demanded silver and gold from the people of the land to give to Pharao Nechao.

⁵ Ioakim was twenty-five years old when he became king and reigned eleven years in Ierousalem. And his mother's name was Zechora daughter of Nerias of Rama. And he did what was evil before the Lord in all respects, as his fathers had done. ^{5a}In his days, Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, came into the land, and he was subject to him for three years, and he left him. ^{5b}And the Lord sent upon them the Chaldeans and the robber bands of the Syrians and the robber bands of the Moabites and of the sons of Ammon and of Samaria, and they rebelled after this affair according to the Lord's word by the hand of his servants the prophets. ^{5c}Nevertheless, the Lord's wrath was upon Ioudas, to remove it from before him on account of the sins of Manasses in all that he did ^{5d}and for the innocent blood that Ioakim shed, and he filled Ierousalem with innocent blood, and the Lord did not want to destroy them utterly. ⁶And Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, came up against him and bound him in bronze fetters and led him away to Babylon. ⁷And he removed part of the vessels of the Lord's house to Babylon and placed them in his shrine in Babylon. ⁸And the rest of the histories of Ioakim and all that he did, behold, is this not written in the Book of the Histories of the Days of the Kings of Ioudas? And Ioakim slept with his fathers and was buried in Ganoza with his fathers, and Iechonias his son became king in his stead.

⁹ Iechonias was a son of eighteen years when he became king and reigned three months and ten days in Ierousalem and did what was evil before the Lord. ¹⁰And as the year was turning King Nabouchodonosor sent and brought him to Babylon along with the prize vessels of the Lord's house and made his father's brother Sedekias king over Ioudas and Ierousalem.

¹¹ Sedekias was twenty-one years old when he became king and reigned eleven years in Ierousalem. ¹²And he did what was evil before the Lord, his God, and was not moved to shame from before the prophet Ieremias and out of the mouth of the Lord, ¹³when he violated the terms with King Nabouchodonosor, to which he had made him swear by God, and he hardened his neck and stole his heart not to return to the Lord, God of Israel. ¹⁴And all those held in honor in Ioudas and the priests and the people of the land multiplied violating with violations of abominations of the nations, and they polluted the Lord's house in Ierousalem.

¹⁵ And the Lord, God of their fathers, sent out by the hand of prophets, sending his messengers early on, because he was trying to spare his people and his holy precinct. ¹⁶And they kept mocking his messengers and disregarding his words and poking fun at his prophets until the Lord's wrath went up against his people until there was no cure.

¹⁷ And he led against them a king of the Chaldeans, and he killed their young men by sword in the house of his holy precinct, and he did not spare Sedekias, and on their young women they had no mercy, and their elderly they led away. He handed over everything into their hands. ¹⁸And all the vessels of the house of God, large and small, and the treasures and all the treasures of the king and the nobles, all these he brought to Babylon. ¹⁹And he set on fire the Lord's house and broke down the wall of Ierousalem, and its bastions he burned with fire and every handsome vessel to annihilation. ²⁰And he deported the remaining people to Babylon, and they were slaves to him and to his sons until the reign of the Medes ²¹in order to fulfill the Lord's word by the mouth of Ieremias until the land received its sabbaths to sabbatize. All the days of its desolation it sabbatized until the fulfillment of seventy years.

²² In the first year of Cyrus, king of the Persians, after the fulfillment of the Lord's dictum through the mouth of Ieremias, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus, king of the Persians, and he announced to proclaim in all his kingdom, in writing, saying, ²³"This is what Cyrus, king of the Persians says: The Lord, the god of the sky, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and it is he who has commanded me to build him a house in Ierousalem, which is in Judea. Who of you is from all his people? His god shall be with him, and let him go up."

^aPossibly everyone of Ioudas ^b*i.e. behest*

1 ESDRAS

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of 1 Esdras is based on the standard critical edition prepared by Robert Hanhart (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum VIII.1: Esdrae liber I [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1974]).

OVERVIEW OF THE BOOK

This book is known as Esdras A' in the Greek tradition and 1 Esdras in English translations. 1 Esdras and 2 Esdras (Esdras B') are one pair of double traditions found in Septuagint collections (see as well the double traditions of Daniel and Esther). They represent material from the Hebrew-Aramaic 2 Chronicles (2 Supplements), Ezra (2 Esdras 1–10), and Nehemiah (2 Esdras 11–23); in addition, in 1 Esdras there is a story of three youths who served as bodyguards for King Darius of Persia.

The general relationship of content among the various versions is as follows:

1 Esdras	Chr-Ezra-Neh (NRSV) (Suppl-2 Esd [NETS])
1.1–55	2 Chr (2 Suppl) 35.1–36.21
2.1–5	Ezra 1.1–3 // 2 Chr (2 Suppl) 36.22–23
2.6–14	Ezra 1.4–11
2.15–25	4.6–24
3.1–5.6	–
5.7–45	2.1–70 // Neh 7.7–73 (2 Esd 17.7–73)
5.46–70	3.1–4.5
6.1–9.36	5.1–10.44
9.37–55	Neh 7.73–8.12 (2 Esd 17.73–18.12)

The relationship of this Greek book to the Hebrew-Aramaic biblical tradition, from a source-critical point of view, is unclear. There are two main positions: 1) that the book represents an earlier form of the biblical accounts, although the present form is thought to be only a portion of that larger work;¹ and 2) that the book is a composition subsequent to, and depending upon, the biblical books.²

In this book, Zorobabel (Zerubbabel) plays a more prominent role, being the winner of the wisdom contest in the story of the three young men (4.13), and appearing where he does not in the MT version (6.17 // Ezra 5.14; 6.26b // Ezra 6.7; 6.28b // Ezra 6.9a). Neemias (Nehemiah), however, is mentioned only in 5.8 (Ezra 2.2) and 5.40 (Ezra 2.63), the latter, significantly, being an addition compared to the Hebrew.

Another emphasis is the temple, the culmination of the restoration program (walls, altar, temple), and items and persons associated with it being made more prominent and distinct through the use of the *ἱερ-*stem: the temple (ἱερόν "temple" 1.2 et passim), its paraphernalia and practices (ἱερός "holy, sacred" 1.39 et passim; ἀνιερόω "to consecrate, devote" 9.4), priests and priestly figures like the priest with the Urim and Thummim and Ezra, (ἱερατεύω "to serve as priest" 5.39; ἱερατικός "priestly" 4.54; 5.44; ἱερεύς "priest" 1.2 et passim; ἱερωσύνη "priesthood" 5.38; ἀρχιερεύς "high priest" 5.40 et passim) and various temple officials (ἱεροδούλος "temple-slave" 1.3 et passim; ἱεροστάτης "temple official" 7.2; ἱεροψάλτης "temple-musician" 1.15 et passim).

¹ E.g., Dieter Böhler. Die heilige Stadt in Esdras a und Esra-Nehemia: zwei Konzeptionen der Wiederherstellung Israels (Orbis Biblicus et Orientalis 158; Freiburg/Göttingen: Universitätsverlag/Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1997).

² E.g., Zipora Talshir, 1 Esdras: From Origin to Translation (SBLSCS 47; Atlanta: SBL, 1999).

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General character

It is unclear whether this book is strictly the translation of a non-MT Hebrew-Aramaic text or loosely a composition in Greek that made use of 2 Chronicles, Ezra and Nehemiah or Greek translations of those works. It is clear that the work contains a few characteristics similar to those found in other translations. However, unlike works that are clearly translations, the Greek of this book is of a good quality. Thus, if it is a translation, it is of a much freer quality than the counterparts with parallel material (2 Supplements and 2 Esdras). There are few signs of literalism, due to the translator's/composer's contextualization of lexical choices and use of more normal Greek structures.³ Some features that suggest a Semitic source are:

Pleonasm

There are only a few examples of superfluous pronouns: 2.9 ("that Nabouchodonosor had removed . . . and stored them"; ἃ μετήγαγεν Ναβουχοδονοσορ . . . καὶ ἀπηρεῖσατο αὐτά; Ezra 1.7 אֲשֶׁר הוֹצִיא וַיִּתְּנֵם . . . נְבוּכַדְנֶצַּר // -); 3.5 ("whosever his statement seems wiser"; καὶ οὐ ἂν φανῆ τὸ ῥῆμα αὐτοῦ σοφώτερον // -); 4.63 ("the temple where his name is named on it"; καὶ τὸ ἱερόν, οὗ ὠνομάσθη τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ ἐπ' αὐτῶ // -); 6.32 ("the Lord, whose his name is there called upon"; καὶ ὁ κύριος οὗ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ ἐπικέκληται ἐκεῖ; Ezra 6.12 וְאֱלֹהֵי דַי שְׁכַן שְׁמֵהּ הַמֵּה)

Hebraisms

There is greater than normal occurrence of the conjunction καί, suggesting Semitic influence of the conjunction ו. The phrase καὶ ἐγένετο "and it happened," for Hebrew וַיְהִי, is found only one time (9.3 // Ezra 10.7; 8.61a // Ezra 8.32 uses a participle), but in neither case is the comparable construction in the source. At 8.87 we find ἰδοῦ, "behold" (Ezra 9.15b, הִנֵּנוּ, "Behold, us!"), but forms of הִנֵּה, "Behold!" occur 3 additional times in the parallel materials in Ezra-Nehemiah (2 Chronicles 35.25 // 1.30; 35.27 // 1.31; 36.8 // 1.40), but they are represented only here in 1 Esdras.

Dependence

Although the vocabulary of 1 Esdras is distinct from other translations, one phrase stands out as dependent upon existing tradition: ἕως ἀναστῆ ἀρχιερεὺς ἐνδεδυμένος τὴν δῆλωσιν καὶ τὴν ἀλήθειαν "until a high priest should arise wearing Explanation and Truth," (5.40) for עַד כֹּהֵן לְאַרְיִים וְלַחֲמִים (Ezra 2.63), "until there should be a priest to consult Urim and Thummim" (NRSV). The 1 Esdras translation is in keeping with those in the LXX: Ex 28.30 [MT 26]; Leu 8.8; Deut 33.8.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF 1 ESDRAS

As a matter of convenience this translation began with the NRSV, which was modified as necessary to fit this project. While the NRSV seeks to smooth out problematic constructions, uncertainties, etc., NETS seeks to represent the Greek as much as possible. Thus, alterations were made to the NRSV to bring it into line with Hanhart's edition. As well, for vocabulary and style, an attempt was made to keep consistency with the rest of NETS and particularly with 2 Esdras: as much as possible, words from the same stem, used to translate the same material from Ezra-Nehemiah, are represented by words from the same stem in English in both 1 and 2 Esdras.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Versification differs among Greek editions of 1 Esdras and among the translations, and all have differences from the MT. In this translation, I have followed the versification of the critical edition.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

The translation on which this is based is the NRSV. I also consulted Jacob M. Myers, I and II Esdras: Introduction, Translation and Commentary (AB 42; Garden City, NY: Doubleday, 1974).

R. GLENN WOODEN

³ See Talshir, 1 Esdras, 181–268 for a detailed analysis of the characteristics of the translation.

1 And Iosias celebrated the pascha to his Lord in Ierousalem, and he sacrificed the pascha on the fourteenth day of the first month, ²after he had arranged the priests by their daily duties, robed, in the temple of the Lord. ³And he told the Leuites, temple-slaves of Israel, that they should sanctify themselves to the Lord for the task of putting the holy ark of the Lord in the house that Salomon the king, the son of Daud, had built, ⁴"You need no longer carry it on your shoulders. And now, serve the Lord, your God, and attend to his nation Israel, and prepare yourselves by your paternal families and tribes, according to the writing of Daud, king of Israel, and according to the magnificence of his son Salomon. ⁵And having stationed yourselves in the temple by the paternal groupings of you, the Leuites, who stand before your kindred, sons of Israel, ⁶in order, sacrifice the pascha, and prepare the sacrifices for your kindred. And keep the pascha according to the ordinance of the Lord that was given to Moyses."

7 To the people who were found there, Iosias presented a gift of thirty thousand lambs and kids and three thousand calves; these were given, according to promise, from the king's possessions to the people and the priests and Leuites. ⁸Chelkias and Zacharias and Eyselos, the chief officers of the temple, gave the priests two thousand six hundred sheep, three hundred calves, for the pascha. ⁹And Iechonias and Samaias and his brother Nathanael and Hasabias and Ochielos and Ioram, officers of thousands, gave the Leuites five thousand sheep, seven hundred calves, for the pascha.

10 And when these things were done in proper order, the priests and the Leuites, holding the unleavened bread, stood before the people by tribe and by groupings of fathers to offer to the Lord in accordance with what is written in the book of Moyses, and so they did in the morning. ¹¹And they roasted the pascha with fire, as required, and they boiled the sacrifices in bronze pots and cauldrons, with a pleasing odor, and carried them to all that were from the people. ¹²Now, after this they prepared both for themselves and for their kindred the priests, sons of Aaron. ¹³For the priests were offering the fat until quite late, and the Leuites prepared it for themselves and for their kindred the priests, sons of Aaron. ¹⁴And the temple-musicians, sons of Asaph, were in their order according to what had been arranged by Daud—and Asaph and Zacharias and Eddinous, the king's representatives. ¹⁵And the porters were at each gateway. It was not possible that anyone omit his own daily service, for their kindred, the Leuites, made preparations for them.

16 And the things that had to do with the sacrifice of the Lord were accomplished in that day: that the pascha was celebrated and that the sacrifices were offered on the altar of the Lord according to the injunction of King Iosias. ¹⁷And the sons of Israel who were found at that time celebrated the pascha and the feast of unleavened bread for seven days. ¹⁸And no pascha like it had been celebrated in Israel since the times of Samouel the prophet, ¹⁹and none of the kings of Israel had celebrated such a pascha as Iosias celebrated, and the priests and the Leuites and the Judeans and all of Israel, who were found in their dwelling place, in Ierousalem. ²⁰This pascha was celebrated in the eighteenth year when Iosias reigned. ²¹And the deeds of Iosias, done with his heart full of piety, were deemed right in the sight of his Lord. ²²Now, also the matters of his reign in previous times have been recorded: about those who sinned and those who acted impiously toward the Lord, more than any nation and kingdom, and how they conspicuously grieved him—and the words of the Lord rose up against Israel.

23 And after all this activity of Iosias, it happened that Pharao, king of Egypt, came to incite war at Charkamys on the Euphrates, and Iosias went out to confront him. ²⁴And the king of Egypt sent a dispatch to him, saying, "What issue do I and you have, O king of Judea? ²⁵I have not been sent out against you by the Lord God, for my war is at the Euphrates. Now then, the Lord is with me! Also, the Lord with me is urging me on! Stand aside, and do not oppose the Lord."

26 And Iosias did not turn himself away to his chariot, but he undertook to fight with him, not heeding the words of Ieremias the prophet from the mouth of the Lord. ²⁷On the contrary, he joined battle with him in the plain of Mageddao, and the rulers came down against King Iosias. ²⁸And the king said to his servants, "Take me away from the fight, for I have become very weak." And his servants immediately took him from the line of battle, ²⁹and he got into his secondary chariot. And after he was brought back to Ierousalem, he departed this life and was buried in his ancestral tomb.

30 In the whole of Judea they mourned for Iosias. And Ieremias the prophet lamented for Iosias. And the principal men, together with women, lament him to this day. And this has been handed on to the whole race of Israel always to do. ³¹These things stand inscribed in the document of the events being recorded about the kings of Judea. And every single thing done of the activity of Iosias and of his splendor and of his understanding of the law of the Lord, both which were done by him before and now, have been recorded in the book of the kings of Israel and Ioudas.

32 And when the people of the nation had taken Iechonias son of Iosias, they appointed him king in place of Iosias his father, when he was twenty-three years old. ³³And he reigned in Ioudas and Ierousalem for three months. And the king of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Ierousalem ³⁴and fined the nation one hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold. ³⁵And the king of Egypt appointed his brother, King Ioakeim, king of Judea and Ierousalem. ³⁶And Ioakeim incarcerated the nobles. But he seized his brother Zarios and brought him back from Egypt.

37 Now Ioakeim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign in Judea and Ierousalem; he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord.

³⁸Now Nabouchodonosor, the king of Babylon, came up against him, and he bound him with a bronze fetter and took him away to Babylon. ³⁹Nabouchodonosor also took some sacred vessels of the Lord and carried them away; he deposited them in his shrine in Babylon. ⁴⁰And the things recorded, about him and his uncleanness and impiety, stand inscribed in the document of the times of the kings.

41 And his son Ioakeim became king in his place, for when he was appointed king, he was eighteen years old. ⁴²Now he reigned in Ierousalem for three months and ten days, and he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. ⁴³And a year later Nabouchodonosor sent and removed him to Babylon, together with the sacred vessels of the Lord. ⁴⁴And he appointed Sedekias king of Judea and Ierousalem, when Sedekias was twenty-one years old.

Now he reigned eleven years. ⁴⁵And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord and felt no hesitation arising from the words spoken by Ieremias the prophet from the mouth of the Lord. ⁴⁶And although he had been made to swear, by King Nabouchodonosor, by the name of the Lord, he broke his oath, rebelled and, having hardened his neck and his heart, he transgressed the precepts of the Lord, God of Israel. ⁴⁷Now also the leaders of the people and of the priests committed many acts of impiety and lawlessness, more than all the unclean deeds of all the nations, and they defiled the temple of the Lord that had been sanctified in Ierousalem. ⁴⁸And the God of their fathers sent word through his messenger to call them back, because he tried to spare them and his covert. ⁴⁹But they mocked at his messengers, and on the day the Lord spoke, they were scoffing at his prophets until in his anger against his nation, on account of their impious acts, he ordered that the kings of the Chaldeans go up against them. ⁵⁰These killed their young men by sword around about their holy temple, and they did not spare young man or young woman and old man and younger man, but all he handed over into their hands. ⁵¹And they took away all the sacred vessels of the Lord, great and small, the treasure chests of the Lord and the royal stores and carried them off to Babylon. ⁵²And they set fire to the house of the Lord, and they wrecked the walls of Ierousalem and burned its towers with fire. ⁵³And they finished rendering useless all its glorious features. And the survivors he led away by sword to Babylon. ⁵⁴And they were servants to him and to his sons until the Persians reigned, in fulfilment of the word of the Lord by the mouth of Ieremias, ⁵⁵"Until the land takes pleasure in its sabbaths, it shall sabbatize all the time of its desolation until the completion of seventy years."

2 In the first year that Cyrus was reigning the Persians, with a view to fulfilment of a word of the Lord by Ieremias' mouth, ²the Lord stirred the spirit of Cyrus, king of the Persians, and he proclaimed in his whole kingdom and at the same time in written form,

3 "This is what Cyrus, the king of the Persians, says: The Lord of Israel, Lord the Most High, has appointed me king of the world, ⁴and he indicated to me that I should build him a house in Ierousalem in Judea. ⁵If anyone of you, therefore, is of his nation, let his Lord be with him, and when they have gone up to Ierousalem, which is in Judea, let him build the house of the Lord of Israel. This is the Lord who encamps in Ierousalem. ⁶So, as many as dwell in each place, let those in his place help him with gold and with silver, with gifts, along with horses and livestock, together with the other things added as votive offerings for the temple of the Lord that is in Ierousalem."

7 And there arose the chiefs of the paternal families of the tribe of Ioudas and Benjamin and the priests and the Leuites and all whose spirit the Lord had stirred to go up to build the house for the Lord, which is in Ierousalem, ⁸and the people in their surrounding area, and they helped them with everything, with silver and gold, horses and livestock and with the greatest number of vows from many whose mind was stirred.

9 And King Cyrus brought out the sacred vessels of the Lord that Nabouchodonosor had removed from Ierousalem and stored them in his own idol temple. ¹⁰Now when Cyrus, the king of the Persians, had brought them out, he gave them over to Mithridates, his own treasurer, ¹¹and they were handed over by him to Sanabassaros, administrator of Judea. ¹²Now the number of these was: gold libation bowls, one thousand; silver libation bowls, one thousand; silver censers, twenty-nine; gold saucers, thirty; silver, two thousand four hundred ten; and other vessels, one thousand. ¹³Now all the vessels were recovered, gold and silver: five thousand four hundred sixty-nine. ¹⁴Now they were carried back by Sanabassaros, along with the people of the captivity, from Babylon to Ierousalem.

15 Now in the times under Artaxerxes, the king of the Persians, Beslemos and Mithridates and Tabellios and Raoumos and Beelteemos and Samsaios the scribe and the rest of those associated with them but living in Samaria and the other places wrote out the following letter to him against those who were living in Judea and Ierousalem,

16 "To King Artaxerxes, Sir, your servants Raoumos the one for events and Samsaios the scribe and the rest of their council and the judges who are in Coele-Syria and Phoenicia. ¹⁷And now, let it be known to the lord king that, when Judeans came up from you to us, having come to Ierousalem, they are building the rebellious and wicked city, repairing both its market places and the walls, and are laying the foundations for a shrine. ¹⁸So if this city is built and the walls are completed, not only will they not submit to paying tribute, but they will also resist kings. And since the work on the shrine is in progress, we assume it best not to overlook such a matter but to address our lord king in order that, if it seems good to you, a search may be made in the books from your fathers. ¹⁹And you will find in the records what has been written about them and will learn that that city was rebellious, troubling both kings and cities, and that the Judeans were rebels and set up blockades in it from of old, for which reason this city was also laid waste. ²⁰Therefore we are now pointing out to you, Lord King, that if this city is built and its walls rise up, you will no longer have a way down to Coele-Syria and Phoenicia."

21 Then the king wrote back the following to Raoumos the recorder of events and to Beelteemos and Samsaios the scribe and to the rest associated with them and living in Samaria and Syria and Phoenicia,

22 "I read the letter that you have sent to me. I therefore ordered that a search be made, and it was found that that city from of old has been opposing kings ²³and that the people in it perpetrate rebellions and wars and that strong and cruel kings used to be masters in Ierusalem and were extracting tribute from Coele-Syria and Phoenicia. ²⁴Now, therefore, I have ordered that you prevent those people from building the city and that you take care that nothing more be done and that such wicked proceedings go no further so as to annoy kings."

25 Then when what was written by King Artaxerxes had been read, Raoumos and Samsaios the scribe and those associated with them marched in haste to Ierusalem with cavalry and a throng of the first rank and began to hinder those who were building. And the construction of the temple that is in Ierusalem stopped until the second year of the reign of Darius, the king of the Persians.

3 And King Darius gave a great banquet for all who were under him and for all his homebred and for all the nobles of Media and of Persia ²and for all the satraps and generals and district governors that were under him in the hundred twenty-seven satrapies from India to Ethiopia. ³And they ate and drank, and when they were satisfied, they went away, but Darius the king went to his bedroom and went to sleep but woke up again.

4 Then the three young men, the bodyguards, who kept guard over the person of the king, said one to another, ⁵"Let us state, each of us, one thing which will prove superior, and whosoever his statement seems wiser than the other—Darius the king will give him grand gifts and great prizes of victory ⁶and that he be clothed in purple and drink from wrought gold and sleep on gold and have a chariot with a gold studded bridle and a turban of fine linen and a torque around his neck. ⁷And because of his wisdom, he shall take his seat next to Darius and shall be called Kinsman of Darius."

8 And then they wrote, each his own statement, sealed it and put it under the pillow of Darius the king. And they said, ⁹"When the king gets up, they will give him what is written, and whomever the king picks—and the three nobles of Persia—because his statement is wisest, to him the victory shall be given, as it stands written." ¹⁰The first wrote, "Wine proves superior." ¹¹The second wrote, "The king proves superior." ¹²The third wrote, "Women prove superior, but above all things truth is victorious."

13 And when the king awoke, they took what was written and gave it to him, and he read. ¹⁴And he sent and summoned all the nobles of Persia and of Media and satraps and generals and district governors and consuls^a, and he took his seat in the council chamber, and what was written was read in their presence. ¹⁵And he said, "Call the young men, and they themselves shall explain their statements." And they were summoned and came in. ¹⁶And they said to them, "Tell us about what you have written."

And the first, who had spoken of the strength of wine, began and spoke thus, ¹⁷"O Gentlemen, how does wine prove superior? It leads astray the thoughts of all men who drink it. ¹⁸It makes equal the thoughts of both the king and the orphan, of both the domestic and the free, of both the poor and the rich. ¹⁹And it turns every thought to feasting and mirth and does not remember any sorrow or any obligation. ²⁰And it makes all hearts rich and does not remember king or satrap and makes everyone talk in talents^b. ²¹And when people drink, they do not remember to be friendly with friends and kindred, and before long they draw daggers. ²²And when they recover from the wine, they do not remember what they did. ²³O Gentlemen, does not wine prove superior, since it forces people to behave thus?" And when he had said this, he fell silent.

4 And the second, who had spoken of the strength of the king, began to speak, ²⁴"O Gentlemen, do not humans prove superior, since they rule over land and sea and all that is in them? ³But the king proves superior and is lord of all and their master, and whatever he says to them they heed. ⁴If he tells them to make war one against the other, they do it, and if he sends them out against enemies, they proceed and conquer mountains and walls and towers. ⁵They murder and are murdered and do not transgress the king's bidding, and if they are victorious, they bring everything to the king—whatever spoil they take and everything else. ⁶And as many as do not serve in the army or go to war, they instead till the soil; in turn, whenever they sow and reap, they send some to the king, and one compels the other to bring levies to the king. ⁷And he is one single man! If he tells them to kill, they kill. He tells them to release, they release; ⁸he tells them to smite, they strike; he tells them to lay waste, they lay waste; he tells them to build, they build; ⁹he tells them to cut down, they cut down; he tells them to plant, they plant. ¹⁰And all his people and his forces heed him. Furthermore, he himself reclines; he eats and drinks and sleeps, ¹¹but they keep watch all around him, and no one may go away and tend to his own affairs, nor do they disobey him. ¹²O Gentlemen, how does not the king prove superior, since he is to be obeyed in this way?" And he fell silent.

^aPossibly prefects ^bI.e. large sums of money

13 Now the third, who had spoken of women and truth (he was Zorobabel), began to speak, 14 "Gentlemen, is not the king great, are not men many, and does not wine prove superior? Who is it, then, that is master over them, or who is lord over them? Is it not women? 15 Women give birth to the king and to all people that are lord over sea and land. 16 And from them they were born, and it is they that brought up those who plant the vineyards from which comes the wine. 17 And it is they that make men's robes, and it is they that bring men glory, and men cannot exist apart from women. 18 Now if men gather gold and silver or any beautiful thing, and they see one woman lovely in appearance and beauty, 19 they then let all those things go and gape at her and with open mouths stare at her, and all choose her rather than gold or silver or any beautiful thing. 20 A man leaves his own father, who brought him up, and his own country and clings to his own wife. 21 And with his wife he releases his soul and neither remembers father or mother or country. 22 And as a result you must realize that women are lords over you.

"Do you not labor and toil and bring and give everything to women? 23 And a man takes his sword and goes out to travel and rob and steal and to sail the sea and rivers, 24 and he faces the lion, and he proceeds through darkness, and when he steals and robs and plunders, he brings it back to her he desires. 25 And a man loves his own wife more than his father and mother. 26 And many have been driven to distraction by their own minds because of women and have become slaves because of them. 27 And many have perished and stumbled and sinned because of women. 28 And now, do you not believe me?

"Is not the king great in his authority? Do not all lands fear to touch him? 29 I have watched him and Apame the daughter of the illustrious Bartacos, the king's concubine, sitting at the king's right hand 30 and taking the diadem from the king's head and put it on herself. And she would slap the king with her left hand. 31 And at this the king would gaze at her with mouth agape. And if she smiles at him, he laughs, but if she is cross with him, he flatters her so that she may be reconciled to him. 32 O Gentlemen, how are women not strong, since thus they act?"

33 And then the king and the nobles looked one at the other. And he began to speak about truth, 34 "Gentlemen, are not women strong? The earth is vast, and the sky is high, and swift is the sun in its course, for it makes the circuit of the sky and returns again to its own place in one day. 35 Is not the one who does these things great? Truth also is great and stronger than all things. 36 "All the earth calls upon truth, and heaven blesses her. And all his^a works quake and tremble, and with him^a there is nothing unrighteous. 37 Wine is unrighteous; the king is unrighteous; women are unrighteous; all sons of men are unrighteous, and all their works are unrighteous—all such things. And there is no truth in them, and in^b their injustice they will perish. 38 But truth endures and is strong forever and lives and prevails forever and ever. 39 And with it there is no partiality or preference, but it does what is righteous instead of anything that is unrighteous or wicked. And all approve her deeds, 40 and there is nothing unrighteous in her judgment. And to her belongs the strength and the kingship and the authority and the majesty of all the ages. Blessed be the God of truth!" 41 And he stopped speaking, and all the people then shouted and then said, "Great is truth, and it proves superior!"

42 Then the king said to him, "Request what you want in addition to what is written, and we will give it to you, for you have been found to be the wisest. And you shall sit next to me and be called my Kinsman." 43 Then he said to the king, "Remember the vow that you made on the day you received your kingship to build Ierousalem 44 and to send back all the vessels that had been taken from Ierousalem, which Cyrus set apart when he vowed to destroy Babylon and vowed to send them back there. 45 You also vowed to build the shrine, which the Idumeans burned when Judea was laid waste by the Chaldeans. 46 And now, O Lord King, this is what I ask of you and what I request of you, and this is greatness that is yours. I pray, therefore, that you fulfill the vow that you vowed with your mouth to do for the king of heaven."

47 Then Darius the king got up and kissed him and wrote letters for him to all the stewards and district governors and generals and satraps, that they should give safe conduct to him and all who were going up with him to build Ierousalem. 48 He also wrote letters to all the district governors in Coele-Syria and Phoenicia and to those in Lebanon, to convey cedar timber from Lebanon to Ierousalem, and that they should build the city with him. 49 He also wrote for all the Judeans who were going from his kingdom to Judea, in the interest of their freedom, that no officer or satrap or district governor or steward should assail their doors 50 and that all the country they would seize should be theirs without tribute and that the Idumeans should give up the villages of the Judeans that they held and 51 that twenty talents a year should be given for the building of the temple until it was built 52 and an additional ten talents a year for whole burnt offerings to be offered on the altar every day, in accordance with the commandment they have, to offer seventeen, 53 and that all who would come from Babylonia to found the city should have their freedom, both they and their children and all the priests who would come. 54 Now, he also stipulated the expense and the priestly vestment, in what way they would serve in it. 55 He also stipulated that they should give the Leuites the expense until the day when the house would be finished and Ierousalem built. ⁵⁶He also stipulated that they give allotments of land and wages to all who would guard the city. ⁵⁷He also sent back from Babylon all the vessels that Cyrus had set apart, and everything that Cyrus said that he would do he too instructed to be done and to be sent back to Ierousalem.

^ai.e. heaven ^bOr by

58 And when the young man went out, he lifted up his face to heaven toward Ierousalem and blessed the king of heaven, saying, ⁵⁹"From you comes victory, and from you comes wisdom, and yours is the glory. And I am your domestic. ⁶⁰Blessed are you, who have given me wisdom, and you I acknowledge, O Master of our fathers."

61 And he took the letters and departed, and he went to Babylon and told all his kindred. ⁶²And they blessed the God of their fathers, because he had given them permission and release ⁶³to go up and build Ierousalem and the temple where his name is named on it, and with music and rejoicing they drank hard for seven days.

5 Now, after these things the leaders of the house of the paternal families and their wives and sons and daughters and their male and female servants and their livestock were chosen to go up by their tribes. ²And Darius sent along with them a thousand cavalry until they would restore them to Ierousalem in peace, and with the music of drums and flutes. ³And all their kindred were making merry, and he made them go up along with them.

4 And these are the names of the men who went up, by their paternal families for the tribes, over their groups: ⁵the priests, sons of Phinees son of Aaron: Iesous the son of Iosedek the son of Saraias and Ioakeim the son of Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the house of Daudid, of the lineage of Phares and of the tribe of Ioudas, ⁶who spoke wise words before Darius, the king of the Persians, in the second year of his reign, in the month of Nisan, the first month.

7 Now, the following are those from Judea who went up out of the captivity in exile, whom Nabouchodonosor, the king of Babylon, had deported to Babylon, ⁸and each returned to Ierousalem and the rest of Judea, to his own town, those who came with their leaders Zorobabel and Iesous, Neemias, Zariais, Resaias, Eneinos, Mardochaias, Beelsaros, Aspharasos, Borolias, Roimos and Baana.

9 The number of those from the nation and their leaders: sons of Phoros, two thousand one hundred seventy-two; sons of Saphat, four hundred seventy-two; ¹⁰sons of Aree, seven hundred fifty-six; ¹¹sons of Phaathmoab, with respect to the sons of Iesous and Ioab, two thousand eight hundred twelve; ¹²sons of Olamos, one thousand two hundred fifty-four; sons of Zatos, nine hundred forty-five; sons of Chorbe, seven hundred five; sons of Bani, six hundred forty-eight; ¹³sons of Bebai, six hundred twenty-three; sons of Asgad, three thousand three hundred twenty-two; ¹⁴sons of Adonikam, six hundred sixty-seven; sons of Bagoi, two thousand sixty-six; sons of Adinos, four hundred fifty-four; ¹⁵sons of ^aAter son of Hezekias^a, ninety-two; sons of Kilan and Azetas, sixty-seven; sons of Azouros, four hundred thirty-two; ¹⁶sons of Hannias, one hundred one; sons of Arom; sons of Bassai, three hundred twenty-three; sons of Hariphos, one hundred twelve; ¹⁷sons of Baiterous, three thousand five; sons from Baithlomon, one hundred twenty-three. ¹⁸Those from Netebas, fifty-five; those from Enatos, one hundred fifty-eight; those from Baitasmon, forty-two; ¹⁹those from Kariathiaris, twenty-five; those from Kapiaras and Berot, seven hundred forty-three. ²⁰The Chadiasai and Hammidians, four hundred twenty-two; those from Kiramas and Gabbes, six hundred twenty-one; ²¹those from Makalon, one hundred twenty-two; those from Baitolion, fifty-two. Sons of Niphis, one hundred fifty-six; ²²sons of the other Kalamo and Onous, seven hundred twenty five; sons of Ierechos, three hundred forty-five; ²³sons of Sanaas, three thousand three hundred thirty.

24 The priests: sons of Ieddos the son of Iesous, with reference to the sons of Anasis, nine hundred seventy-two; sons of Emmeros, one thousand and fifty-two; ²⁵sons of Phassouros, one thousand two hundred forty-seven; sons of Charme, one thousand seventeen.

26 Now, the Leuites: sons of Iesous and Kadmielos and Bannos and Houdias, seventy-four. ²⁷The temple-musicians: sons of Asaph, one hundred forty-eight. ²⁸The porters: sons of Saloum, sons of Atar, sons of Tolman, sons of Akoub, sons of Hateta, sons of Sobi, in all one hundred thirty-nine.

29 The temple-slaves: sons of Esau, sons of Hasipha, sons of Tabaoth, sons of Keras, sons of Soua, sons of Phadaias, sons of Labana, sons of Haggaba, ³⁰sons of Akoud, sons of Outa, sons of Ketab, sons of Hagaba, sons of Sybai, sons of Hanan, sons of Kathoua, sons of Geddour, ³¹sons of Iairos, sons of Daisan, sons of Noeba, sons of Chaseba, sons of Gazera, sons of Ozias, sons of Phinoe, sons of Asara, sons of Basthai, sons of Asana, sons of Maani, sons of Naphisi, sons of Akouph, sons of Hachiba, sons of Hasour, sons of Pharakim, sons of Basaloth, ³²sons of Meedda, sons of Koutha, sons of Charea, the sons of Barchous, sons of Serar, sons of Thomoi, sons of Nasie, sons of Hatipha.

33 Sons of Salomon's servants: sons of Hasaphioth, sons of Pharida, sons of Ieeli, sons of Lozon, sons of Geddel, sons of Saphyithi, ³⁴sons of Hatil, sons of ^bPhakareth of Sabie^b, sons of Sarothie, sons of Masias, sons of Gas, sons of Addous, sons of Soubas, sons of Apherra, sons of Barodis, sons of Saphat, sons of Amon.

35 All the temple-slaves and the sons of Salomon's servants were three hundred seventy-two.

36 And the following are those who came up from Thermelee and Thelersas with Charaath leading them: Adan and Amar—³⁷and they could not prove by their paternal families or generations how they were from Israel—sons of Dalan the son of Touban, sons of Nekodan, six hundred fifty-two.

^aOr Ater Hezekias ^bOr Phakareth Sabie

³⁸ Also, from the priests those who had assumed the priesthood but were not found: sons of Hobbia, sons of Hakkos and the sons of Ioddous who took Augia to wife, one of the daughters of Phartzellaias, and was called by his name. ³⁹And when their genealogical entry was sought in the register and was not found, they were excluded from serving as priests, ⁴⁰and Neemias and Haththarias told them that they were not to share in the holy things until a high priest should arise wearing Explanation and Truth.

⁴¹ Now, their total was: of Israel, twelve or more years of age, besides male and female servants, forty-two thousand three hundred sixty; their male and female servants were seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven; there were two hundred forty-five harpists and harp singers. ⁴²There were four hundred thirty-five camels and seven thousand thirty-six horses, two hundred forty-five mules and five thousand five hundred twenty-five beasts of burden.

⁴³ And some of those who led by paternal families, when they arrived at the temple of God that is in Ierouusalem, vowed that they would erect the house on its site according to their power ⁴⁴and that they would give to the temple treasury for the work a thousand minas^a of gold and five thousand minas of silver and one hundred priests' vestments.

⁴⁵ And the priests and the Leuites and those who were from his people were settled in Ierouusalem and its vicinity, and the temple-musicians and the porters and all Israel were in their villages.

⁴⁶ Now, when the seventh month came and the sons of Israel were all in their own homes, they gathered with a single purpose in the open area of the first eastward facing gateway. ⁴⁷And Iesous the son of Iosedek with his brothers, the priests and Zorobabel the son of Salathiel with his kindred took their places and prepared the altar of the God of Israel ⁴⁸so that they could offer whole burnt offerings upon it, following what was prescribed in the book of Moyses the man of God. ⁴⁹And some from the other nations of the land joined them. And they erected the altar in their place, because all the nations that were in the land were hostile to them and were stronger than they, and they offered sacrifices at the proper time and whole burnt offerings to the Lord in the morning and late afternoon. ⁵⁰They celebrated the feast of tent pitching, as it is ordered in the law, and sacrifices every day, as was proper, ⁵¹and thereafter the perpetual offerings and sacrifices on sabbaths and new moons and all the consecrated feasts. ⁵²And as many as had made a vow to God began to offer sacrifices to God from the new moon of the seventh month, and the shrine of God had not yet been built.

⁵³And they gave money^b to the masons and carpenters and food and drink and carts to the Sidonians and the Tyrians, to deliver cedar logs from Lebanon, to convey them in rafts to the harbor of Joppe, according to the written ordinance that they had from Cyrus, the Persians' king.

⁵⁴ And in the second year after his arrival at the temple of God in Ierouusalem, during the second month, Zorobabel the son of Salathiel and Iesous the son of Iosedek and their kindred, the Leuitical priests, and all who had arrived at Ierouusalem from the captivity made a beginning ⁵⁵and laid the foundation of the shrine of God on the new moon of the second month in the second year of their coming to Judea and Ierouusalem. ⁵⁶And they appointed the Leuites who were twenty or more years of age to have charge of the work of the Lord. And Iesous stood, along with his sons and kindred, both Kadmiel his brother and the sons of Iesous Emadaboun^c and the sons of Ioda son of Iliadoun with their sons and kindred, all the Leuites, as taskmasters functioning with a single purpose for the work on the house of the Lord.

And the builders built the shrine of the Lord, ⁵⁷and the priests stood in their vestments with musical instruments and trumpets, and the Leuites, sons of Asaph, holding cymbals, were singing hymns to the Lord and blessing according to Dauid, the king of Israel, ⁵⁸and they intoned through hymns, acknowledging the Lord, because his goodness and his glory are forever in all Israel. ⁵⁹And all the people trumpeted and shouted with a loud voice, singing hymns to the Lord for the erection of the house of the Lord. ⁶⁰And some of the Leuitical priests and of those who presided over their paternal families, the old men who had seen the house before this one, came to the building of this one with outcries and loud weeping, ⁶¹and many people with trumpets and joy with a loud sound, ⁶²so that the people could not hear the trumpets because of the people's weeping. For it was the crowd that was trumpeting so loudly that they were heard far away.

⁶³ And when the enemies of the tribe of Ioudas and Benjamin heard it, they came to learn what the sound of trumpets meant. ⁶⁴And they learned that those who were from the captivity were building the shrine for the Lord, God of Israel, ⁶⁵and when they approached Zorobabel and Iesous and the leaders of the paternal families they said to them, "We will build along with you. ⁶⁶For, like you, we hear^d your Lord, and we have been ^emaking offerings^e to him ever since the days of Asbasareth, the king of the Assyrians, who transferred us to here." ⁶⁷And Zorobabel and Iesous and the leaders of the paternal families of Israel said to them, "You have nothing to do with us in building the house for the Lord, our God, ⁶⁸for we alone will build it for the Lord of Israel, following what Cyrus, the king of the Persians, has ordered us." ⁶⁹But the nations of the land, by ^ffalling asleep over^f those in Judea and laying siege to them, constrained the building. ⁷⁰And by bringing about plots and demagoguery and uprisings, they prevented the completion of the building as long as King Cyrus lived. And they were kept from building for two years until the reign of Darius.

^aGk 1 mina = 0.6 kg ^bOr silver ^cPerhaps son of Emadaboun ^dPossibly obey ^eOr burning incense ^fGk uncertain

6 Now in the second year of the reign of Darius, the prophets Haggaios and Zacharias the son of Eddo prophesied to the Judeans who were in Judea and Ierusalem, in the name of the Lord, God of Israel, who is over them. ²Then Zorobabel the son of Salathiel and Iesous the son of Iosedek arose and began to build the house of the Lord that is in Ierusalem, the prophets of the Lord joining in and helping them.

³ At the same time, there came to them Sisinnes, the governor of Syria and Phoenicia, and Sathrabouzan and their associates, and they said to them, ⁴"By whose order to you are you building this house and this roof and are finishing all the other things? And who are the builders that are finishing these things?" ⁵And the elders of the Judeans had favor with the captives, due to consideration from the Lord, ⁶and they were not prevented from building until Darius would be notified about them and his orders be issued.

⁷ A copy of a letter Sisinnes, the governor of Syria and Phoenicia—and Sathrabouzan and their associate leaders in Syria and Phoenicia—wrote to Darius and sent,

"To King Darius, greetings! ⁸Let it be fully known to our lord the king that, when we arrived in the region of Judea and entered the city of Ierusalem, we found the elders of the Judeans of the captivity building in the city of Ierusalem a great new house for the Lord, using smoothed stones with costly timbers in the walls, ⁹and that those projects are proceeding with speed and that the work is going well in their hands and that they are being completed with all splendor and care. ¹⁰Then we inquired of these elders, saying, 'By whose orders are you building this house and laying the foundations of these projects?' ¹¹So, in order that we might inform you and write you about who the individuals are that lead them, we questioned them and asked them for the list of the names of the proponents. ¹²But they answered us, 'We are the servants of the Lord who created heaven and earth. ¹³And the house had been built rather many years ago by a great and strong king of Israel, and it was completed. ¹⁴And when our fathers sinned against the heavenly Lord of Israel, provoking him, he gave them into the hands of Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylonia, king of the Chaldeans. ¹⁵They, having pulled it down, both burned the house and carried off the people captive to Babylon. ¹⁶But in the first year that Cyrus reigned over the country of Babylonia, King Cyrus wrote that they could build this house. ¹⁷And the sacred vessels of gold and silver, which Nabouchodonosor had taken out of the house in Ierusalem and stored in his own shrine, these Cyrus

the king took out again from the shrine in Babylonia, and they were given to Zorobabel and Sanabassaros the governor, ¹⁸and he ordered him to return all these vessels and put them in the shrine in Ierusalem, and that this shrine of the Lord should be built on its site. ¹⁹Then when this Sanabassaros arrived, he put in the foundations of the house of the Lord that is in Ierusalem, and although it has been in the process of construction from that time until now, it has not reached completion.' ²⁰Now therefore, O King, if it is judged right, let there be a search in our lord king's royal archives in Babylonia, ²¹and if it is found that the building of the house of the Lord, which is in Ierusalem, was done with the consent of Cyrus the king and if it be judged right by our lord king, let him give us directions about these things."

²² Then King Darius ordered that search be made in the royal archives that were stored in Babylonia. And in Ecbatana, the bastion^a that is in the country of Media, one volume was found in which the following was recorded, ²³"The first year of the reign of Cyrus: King Cyrus ordered that the house of the Lord that is in Ierusalem, where they^b make offerings^b with perpetual fire, be built; ²⁴its height is to be sixty cubits and its width sixty cubits, with three courses of smoothed stones and one course of new native timber, and the cost to be paid from the house of Cyrus the king, ²⁵and that the sacred vessels of the house of the Lord, both of gold and of silver, which Nabouchodonosor took out of the house in Ierusalem and carried away to Babylonia, should be restored to the house in Ierusalem where they used to be in order that they be placed there."

²⁶ Now, he ordered Sisinnes, the governor of Syria and Phoenicia, and Sathrabouzan and their associates and those who were appointed as leaders in Syria and Phoenicia to take care to keep away from the place and to permit Zorobabel the servant of the Lord and governor of Judea and the elders of the Judeans to build that house of the Lord at the site. ²⁷"And I have also instructed that they build it completely and that they watch carefully that they work closely with those who have returned from the captivity of Judea until the house of the Lord be finished ²⁸and that from the tribute of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia a portion be scrupulously given to these people, to Zorobabel the governor, for sacrifices to the Lord, for bulls and rams and lambs, ²⁹and likewise also wheat and salt and wine and oil, perpetually, on a yearly basis, without quibbling, for daily use as the priests in Ierusalem may indicate, ³⁰in order that libations may be offered to the Most High God for the king and his servants^c, and they might pray for their life, ³¹and I order that, if any should transgress or even not act on any of the things herein said and written, a beam should be taken out of their own house, and they should be hanged upon it, and their property be forfeited to the crown.

³² "For the same reasons, also, may the Lord,

^aOr tower ^bOr burned incense ^cPossibly children

whose his name is there called upon, destroy any king and nation that shall stretch out its hand to hinder or damage that house of the Lord that is in Ieroualem.

33 "I, King Darius, have decreed that it be done with all diligence as here prescribed."

7 Then Sisinnes, the governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, and Sathrabouzanes and their associates, in compliance with the orders given by King Darius, ²supervised the sacred work with very great care, assisting the elders of the Judeans and the temple officials. ³And the sacred work prospered while the prophets Haggaios and Zacharias were prophesying, ⁴and they completed it by the sixth year of Darius, the king of the Persians, due to the ordinance of the Lord, God of Israel, and with the consent of Cyrus and Darius and Artaxerxes, kings of the Persians. ⁵The holy house was completed by the twenty-third of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of King Darius. ⁶And the sons of Israel, even the priests, the Leuites and the rest of those added from the captivity, acted in accordance with what is in the book of Moyses. ⁷At the dedication of the temple of the Lord, they offered one hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, ⁸twelve male goats for the sin of all Israel, according to the number of the twelve tribal leaders of Israel, ⁹and the priests and the Leuites stood in their vestments, by tribe, for the projects of the Lord, God of Israel, following the book of Moyses, and the porters stood at each gateway.

¹⁰ And the sons of Israel, of those from the captivity, celebrated the pascha on the fourteenth of the first month, when the priests and the Leuites had been sanctified together. ¹¹And not all sons of the captivity were sanctified, because the Leuites were all sanctified together ¹²and sacrificed the pascha for all the sons of the captivity and for their brothers the priests and for themselves. ¹³And the sons of Israel who had returned from captivity ate it, all those who had been separated from the abominations of the nations of the land, as they were seeking the Lord. ¹⁴They also celebrated the feast of unleavened bread seven days, rejoicing before the Lord, ¹⁵because he had changed the will of the king of the Assyrians concerning them, to strengthen their hands for the projects of the Lord, God of Israel.

8 And later than these, when Artaxerxes king of the Persians was reigning, Esdras came—son of Saraia^s the son of Ezerias the son of Chelkias the son of Salemos ²the son of Saddoukos the son of Achitob the son of Amarias the son of Ezias the son of Mareroth the son of Zariais the son of Saouia the son of Bokka son of Abisoue the son of Phinees the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron the first priest. ³This Esdras went up from Babylon as a scribe, being a man of genius in the law of Moyses, which had been delivered by the God of Israel, ⁴and the king showed him honor, for he found favor before the king ^ain all his requests^a. ⁵And some of the sons of Israel and of the priests and Leuites and temple-musicians and porters and temple-slaves came back with him to Ieroualem ⁶in the seventh year of the reign of Artaxerxes, in the fifth month (this was the king's seventh year), for they left Babylon on the new moon of the first month and arrived in Ieroualem on the new moon of the fifth month, due to the successful journey that the Lord gave them. ⁷For Esdras possessed much knowledge, so that he omitted nothing from the law of the Lord or the commandments to teach all Israel all the statutes and judgments.

⁸ The written ordinance from Artaxerxes the king, having come to the attention of Esdras the priest and reader of the law of the Lord, a copy of which follows,

⁹ "King Artaxerxes to Esdras the priest and reader of the law of the Lord, greetings. ¹⁰Since I on my part have also decided on humane treatment, I have given orders that those that desire of the nation of Judeans and of the priests and the Leuites and, moreover, those in our own realm—if they so choose—go together with you to Ieroualem. ¹¹Let as many as are so disposed, therefore, set out with you, just as both I and the seven Friends, my counsellors, have decreed, ¹²in order to look into the affairs of Judea and the affairs of Ieroualem, in accordance with what is in the law of the Lord, ¹³and to take along to Ieroualem the gifts for the Lord of Israel that both I and the Friends have vowed and to collect for the Lord in Ieroualem all the gold and silver that may be found in the country of Babylonia, together with what is given by the nation for the temple of their Lord which is in Ieroualem, ¹⁴both the gold and the silver for bulls and rams and lambs and what goes with them, ¹⁵so as to offer sacrifices to the Lord on the altar of their Lord, which is in Ieroualem. ¹⁶And whatever you, along with your kindred, wish to do with gold and silver, discharge it in accordance with the will of your God; ¹⁷also you shall place before your God who is in Ieroualem the sacred vessels of the Lord that have been given you for the use of the temple of your God that is in Ieroualem. And whatever else occurs to you as required for the temple of your God, ¹⁸you will provide out of the royal treasury.

¹⁹ "Moreover, I, King Artaxerxes, have ordered the treasurers of Syria and Phoenicia that whatever Esdras the priest and reader of the law of the Most High God sends for, they are to take care to give to him, up to one hundred talents of silver, ²⁰and likewise also up to one hundred kors^b of wheat and one hundred measures^c of wine and salt in abundance. ²¹Let all things prescribed in accordance with the law of God be scrupulously fulfilled for the Most High God so that wrath may not come upon the realm of the king and his sons. ²²You are also informed that no tribute or any other imposition be laid on any of the priests and the Leuites and temple-musicians and porters and temple-slaves and officials of this temple and that no one has authority to impose such things on them.

^aOr for all his worthy projects ^bHeb 1 kor = 22 liters ^cGk 1 metretes = 22 liters

23 "And you, Esdras, in keeping with the wisdom of God, appoint judges and justices to judge all those who know the law of your God, throughout all Syria and Phoenicia; moreover you shall teach it to those who do not know. 24 And all who transgress both the law of your God and the royal law shall be strictly punished, whether by death and physical punishment or by financial penalty or arrest."

25 Blessed be the Lord alone, who put this into the heart of the king, to glorify his house, which is in Jerusalem, 26 and who honored me before the king and those who give him counsel and all his Friends and nobles. 27 As for me—I became encouraged by the support of the Lord my God, and I gathered men from Israel to go up with me.

28 And these are the leaders, by their paternal families and their groups, who went up with me from Babylon in the reign of Artaxerxes the king: 29 Of the sons of Phinees, Garsomos. Of the sons of Ietamaros, Gamelos. Of the sons of Daudid, Hat-tous the son of Sechanias. 30 Of the sons of Phoros, Zacharias, and with him a hundred fifty men from the register. 31 Of the sons of Phaathmoab, Eliaonias son of Zariaias, and with him two hundred men. 32 Of the sons of Zathoe, Sechanias son of Iezelos, and with him three hundred men. Of the sons of Adinos, Ben son of Ionathos, and with him two hundred fifty men. 33 Of the sons of Elam, Iesias son of Gotholias, and with him seventy men. 34 Of the sons of Saphatias, Zariaias son of Michaelos, and with him seventy men. 35 Of the sons of Ioab, Abadias son of Iezelos, and with him two hundred twelve men. 36 Of the sons of Bania, Salimoth son of Iosaphias, and with him a hundred sixty men. 37 Of the sons of Babi, Zacharias son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight men. 38 Of the sons of Asgath, Ioanes son of Hakatan, and with him a hundred ten men. 39 Of the sons of Adonikam—they were the last ones, and these were their names: Eliphalatos, Ieouel and Samaias, and with them seventy men. 40 Of the sons of Bago, Outhi the son of Istalkourous, and with him seventy men.

41 And I gathered them at the river called Theras, and we encamped at that spot three days, and I inspected them. 42 And when I found there none of the sons of the priests or of the Leuites, 43 I sent word to Eleazaros and Idouelos and Maasmas and Elnatan and Samaias and Ioribos, Nathan, Ennatan, Zacharias and Mosollamos, who were the leaders and men of knowledge, 44 and I told them to go to Addaios, who was the leading man at the place of the treasury 45 and commanded them to discuss with Addaios and his kindred and the treasurers at that place to send us men to serve as priests in the house of our Lord. 46 And by the mighty hand of our Lord they brought us knowledgeable men of the sons of Mooli son of Leui son of Israel: Asebebias and his sons and kindred, who numbered eighteen; 47 also Hasebias and Announos and Osa-ias, a brother from the sons of Chanounaios, and their sons, twenty men; 48 and of the temple-slaves, whom Daudid and the leaders had given for the service of the Leuites, two hundred twenty temple-slaves; the list of all their names was reported.

49 And I proclaimed there a fast for the young men before our Lord 50 so that we could seek from him both a successful journey for ourselves and for our children and the livestock that were with us. 51 For I hesitated to ask the king for both foot soldiers and cavalry and for an escort for security against those who were opposed to us, 52 for we had said to the king, "The strength of our Lord will be with those who seek after him for complete restoration." 53 And again we petitioned our Lord about all these things, and we found him very merciful.

54 And I set apart twelve men from the tribal leaders of the priests, both Serebias and Has-samias, and ten men from their kindred with them, 55 and I weighed out to them the silver and the gold and the sacred vessels of the house of our Lord, which the king himself had granted—and his counselors and the nobles and all Israel. 56 And when I had weighed out, I handed over to them six hundred fifty talents of silver and silver vessels worth a hundred talents and a hundred talents of gold and twenty items of wrought gold and twelve bronze vessels of fine bronze that glittered like gold. 57 And I said to them, "You too are holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and the gold as a vow to the Lord, Lord of our fathers. 58 Be watchful and on guard until you deliver them to the tribal leaders of the priests and the Leuites and to the leaders of the paternal families of Israel, in Jerusalem, in the priests' chambers of the house of our Lord." 59 And the priests and the Leuites who took along the silver and the gold and the vessels that had been in Jerusalem carried them to the temple of the Lord.

60 And when we had left the river Theras on the twelfth of the first month, we traveled until we arrived in Jerusalem by the mighty hand of our Lord, which was upon us; the Lord rescued us from investigation—from every enemy, and we came to Jerusalem. 61 And when we had been at that location three days, the silver and the gold having been weighed were handed over in the house of our Lord to the priest Marmoth of Ourias—62 and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinees, and there were with them the Leuites, Iosabdos son of Iesous and Moeth son of Sabannos—all by count and weight, and the weight of everything was recorded at that very time. 63 Now, those who had arrived from captivity offered sacrifices to God, Lord of Israel: twelve bulls on behalf of all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-two lambs, twelve male goats for deliverance—all as a sacrifice to the Lord. 64 And they delivered the king's ordinances to the royal stewards and to the governors of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, and they honored the nation and the temple of the Lord.

65 And when these things had been completed, the leaders came to me, saying, 66 "The nation of Israel and the rulers and the priests and the Leuites have not put away from themselves the alien nations of the land as their uncleanness requires—the Chananites and Chettites and Pher-ezites and Iebousites and Moabites and Egyptians and Idumeans. ⁶⁷For both they and their sons have lived with their daughters, and the holy seed has been mixed with the alien nations of the land, and from the beginning of the matter the leaders and the nobles have been sharing in this lawlessness.”

68 And it happened that, as soon as I heard these things, I tore my garments and my sacred clothing and pulled out hair from my head and beard and sat in anxiety and grief. ⁶⁹And all that were ever moved at the word of the Lord of Israel gathered together to me, as I mourned over this lawlessness, and I sat grief-stricken until the late afternoon sacrifice. ⁷⁰And when I rose from my fast, with my garments and my sacred clothing torn, when I had bent my knees and stretched out my hands to the Lord, I said,

71 “O Lord, I am ashamed; I am embarrassed before your face. ⁷²For our sins have exceeded the height of our heads, and our mistakes had piled up to the sky ⁷³already from the times of our fathers, and we are in great sin to this day. ⁷⁴And on account of our sins and the sins of our fathers, we with our kindred and with our kings and with our priests were given over to the kings of the earth for sword and captivity and plundering, in shame until this selfsame day. ⁷⁵And now in some measure mercy has come to us from you, O Lord, so that a root has been left to us and a name in the location of your holiness^a, ⁷⁶even to uncover our light in the house of our Lord, to give us food in the time of our slavery. And when we were in slavery, we were not forsaken by our Lord, ⁷⁷but he brought us into favor before the kings of the Persians, to give us nourishment ⁷⁸and to honor our temple and to raise desolate Zion for us as a stronghold in Judea and Ierusalem.

79 “And now, O Lord, what shall we say, when we have these things? For we have transgressed your ordinances, which you gave by the hand of your servants the prophets, saying, ⁸⁰‘The land that you are entering to possess is a land polluted with the pollution of the aliens of the land, and they have filled it with their uncleanness. ⁸¹And now, do not let their daughters marry your sons, and do not give your daughters to their sons, ⁸²and do not seek at any time to have peaceful relations with them in order that you may prevail and eat the good of the land and leave it for an inheritance to your children forever.’ ⁸³And all that is happening to us results from our evil deeds and our great sins. For you, O Lord, you canceled our sins ⁸⁴and gave us such a root as this. Again we have turned back to transgress your law so as to be mixed up with the uncleanness of the nations of the land. ⁸⁵Were you not angry enough with us to destroy us without leaving us root and seed and name? ⁸⁶O Lord of Israel, you are genuine, for we were left as a root on this very day. ⁸⁷Behold, we are now before you with our lawless deeds, for no one is able to stand in your presence any longer because of these things.”

88 And when Esdras was praying—he was making confession—weeping, on the ground before the temple, there gathered to him a very large crowd from Ierusalem, men and women and youths. For there was great weeping among the multitude. ⁸⁹And Iechonias son of Ieelos, of the sons of Israel, called out and said to Esdras, “We have sinned against the Lord and have married alien women from the nations of the land. Even now there is hope for Israel. ⁹⁰Let us take an oath to the Lord on this, that we will put out all our alien wives along with their children, because it was judged right by you—and as many as submit to the authority of the law of the Lord. ⁹¹Rise up, and get it done, for the task is yours, and we are with you to enforce it.” ⁹²And Esdras stood up and put under oath the tribal leaders of the priests and the Leuites of all Israel to do this. And they took an oath.

9 And Esdras got up and went from the court of the temple to the priest’s chamber of Ioanab the son of Eliasibos. ²And though he spent the night there, he did not taste food or drink water, mourning over the great acts of lawlessness of the multitude. ³And a proclamation occurred throughout the whole of Judea and Ierusalem to all who had returned from the captivity that they should assemble at Ierusalem. ⁴And if any did not present themselves within two or three days, in accordance with the judgment of the ruling elders, their livestock would be devoted to temple use, and he himself would be deemed estranged from the multitude of the captivity.

5 And all those from the tribe of Ioudas and Benjamin assembled together at Ierusalem within three days; this was the ninth month, on the twentieth of the month. ⁶And the entire multitude sat together in the large open area before the temple, shivering because of present winter. ⁷And Esdras stood up and said to them, “You have broken the law and married alien women to add sins to Israel. ⁸Now then, give glory, as a confession, to the Lord, God of our fathers, ⁹and do his will, and be separated from the nations of the land and from the alien women.”

10 And the entire multitude shouted and said with a loud voice, “We will do as you have said. ¹¹But the multitude is large, and the weather is wintry, and we do not have the strength to stand in the open air and have not found it, and the task we cannot do in one day or two. For we have sinned rather much in these things. ¹²But let the leaders of the multitude take a stand, and let all those from our settlements, as many as have alien wives, come, having received time, ¹³and furthermore the elders and judges of each location, until they undo from us the anger of the Lord over this matter.”

^aOr holy precinct

14 Ionathas son of Azaelos and Iezias son of Thokanos undertook the matter on these terms, and Mosollamos and Leuis and Sabbataios served together as arbitrators for them. ¹⁵Those from the captivity acted in accordance with all this.

16 And Esdras the priest chose for himself men who were leaders of their paternal families, all of them by name, and on the new moon of the tenth month they sat down together to examine the matter. ¹⁷And the cases of the men who had taken to themselves alien wives were brought to an end by the new moon of the first month.

18 And of the priests, those who gathered together and were found to have alien wives were: ¹⁹of the sons of Iesus son of Iozedek and his kindred, Maseas and Eleazaros and Ioribos and Iodanos. ²⁰And they ^aput on their hands to put away their wives and as expiation to offer rams for their mistake. ²¹And of the sons of Emmer: Hananias and Zabdaios and Manes and Samaios and Ireel and Azarias. ²²And of the sons of Phaisour: Elioenais, Maesias, Ismaelos and Nathanaelos and Okidelos and Salthas.

23 And of the Leuites: Iozabdos and Semeis and Kolios (this is, Kalitas) and Pathaios and Ooudas and Ioanas. ²⁴Of the temple-musicians: Eliasibos, Bakchouros. ²⁵Of the porters: Salloumos and Tolbanes.

26 Of Israel: of the sons of Phoros: Iermas and Iezias and Melchias and Miaminos and Eleazaros and Hasibias and Bannaia. ²⁷Of the sons of Elam: Matthanias and Zacharias and Iezrielos and Obadios and Ieremoth and Elias. ²⁸And of the sons of Zamoth: Eliadas, Eliasimos, Othonias, Iarimoth and Sabathos and Zerdaia. ²⁹And of the sons of Bebai: Ioanes and Hananias and Zabdos and Emathis. ³⁰And of the sons of Mani: Olamos, Mallouchos, Iedaos, Iasoubos and Asaelos and Ieremoth. ³¹And of the sons of Addi: Naathos and Moossias, Lakkounos and Naidos and Matthanias and Sesthel and Balnouos and Manasseas. ³²And of the sons of Hannan: Elionas and Asaia and Melchias and Sabbaia and Simon Chosamaio. ³³And of the sons of Hasom: Maltannaio and Mattathaias and Sabadaio and Eliphalat and Manasses and Semei. ³⁴And of the sons of Baani: Ieremias, Moadios, Maeros, Iouel, Mamdai and Pedias and Anos, Karabasion and Eliasibos and Mamnitanaimos, Eliasis, Bannous, Elialis, Someis, Selemias, Nathania. And of the sons of Ezora: Sesis, Ezril, Azaelos, Samatos, Zambris, Iosepos. ³⁵And of the sons of Nooma: Mazitias, Zabadaia, Edais, Iouel, Banaia. ³⁶All these had married alien women, and they divorced them together with their children.

37 And the priests and the Leuites and those from Israel settled down in Ierousalem and throughout the country. On the new moon of the seventh month—and the sons of Israel were in their settlements—³⁸and the entire multitude gathered with one accord in the large open area before the gateway toward the east of the temple, ³⁹and they told Esdras the chief priest and reader to bring the law of Moyses that had been handed over by the Lord, God of Israel. ⁴⁰And Esdras the chief priest brought the law for the entire multitude, from man to woman, and for all the priests to hear the law, on the new moon of the seventh month. ⁴¹And he kept reading aloud in the large open area before the gateway of the temple from dawn until midday in the presence of both men and women, and the entire multitude gave its attention to the law. ⁴²And Esdras the priest and reader of the law stood on the wooden platform that had been prepared, ⁴³and beside him stood Mattathias, Sammous, Hananias, Azarias, Ourias, Hezekias and Baalsamos on his right ⁴⁴and on his left Phadaios, Misael, Melchias, Lothasoubos, Nabarias, Zacharias. ⁴⁵And when Esdras took up the book of the law in the presence of the multitude (for he was seated in the place of honor in the presence of all) ⁴⁶and when he opened the law, they all stood straight. And Esdras blessed the Lord, God Most High, God Sabaoth, Almighty, ⁴⁷and the whole multitude exclaimed "Amen," and when they lifted up their hands and fell to the ground, they did obeisance to God. ⁴⁸The Leuites Iesus and Annios and Sarabias, Iadinos, Iakoubos, Sabbataios, Hautaia, Maiannas, Kalitas, Azarias and Iozabdos, Hananias, Phalias were teaching the law of the Lord and were reading the law of the Lord to the multitude, at the same time inspiring the reading.

49 And Hattharates said to Esdras, the chief priest and reader, and to the Leuites who were teaching the multitude, with regard to all, ⁵⁰"This day is holy to the Lord"—and all were weeping when they heard the law—⁵¹"so proceed, and eat fats, and drink sweet drinks, and send portions to those who do not have, ⁵²for the day is holy to the Lord. And do not be sorrowful, for the Lord will exalt you." ⁵³And the Leuites were commanding all the common people, saying, "This day is holy; do not be sorrowful." ⁵⁴And they all departed to eat and drink and enjoy themselves and to give portions to those who had none and to be greatly joyful, ⁵⁵because they were also inspired by the words by which they had been taught, and they had gathered together.

^aPossibly pledged themselves

2 ESDRAS

TO THE READER

EDITION OF GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of 2 Esdras is based on the standard critical edition prepared by Robert Hanhart (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum XVIII.2: Esdrae liber II [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1993]). The text of this edition was followed almost invariably for the translation. Only at 4.21–22 have I departed from it, where have I followed Codex B. I have not adhered as closely to the punctuation provided by Hanhart.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

This book is known as Esdras B' in the Greek tradition. The title "2 Esdras" also has been used for three other works: the Vulgate translation of Nehemiah; the later Latin-manuscript book that consists of chapters 1–2 of the Vulgate book 4 Esdras, which is also known as 5 Ezra in scholarship or 2 Esdras 1–2 in modern translations; and the modern English translations of 4 Esdras from the Vulgate (scholarship's 4 Ezra, 5 Ezra, and 6 Ezra), such as in the NRSV.

1 Esdras (Esdras A') and 2 Esdras are one pair of double traditions found in Septuagint collections (see as well the double traditions of Daniel and Esther). They represent material from the Hebrew-Aramaic 2 Chronicles (2 Supplements), Ezra (2 Esdras 1–10), and Nehemiah (2 Esdras 11–23). The general relationship of content among the various versions is as follows:

2 Esdras	1 Esdras	Additional parallels
1.1–3	2.1–5	2 Chr (2 Suppl) 36.22–23
1.4–11	2.6–14
4.6–24	2.15–25
2.1–70 // 17.7–73	5.7–45
3.1–4.5	5.46–70
5.1–10.44	6.1–9.36
17.73–18.12	9.37–55

The Greek 2 Esdras is arguably the most pedantic of the translations of biblical books found in "the Septuagint" and is possibly the best representative of an "interlinear translation." It has not fared well in scholarly assessments, being described as "a very literal and servile translation of the Hebrew,"¹ "un-Greek, literal and mechanical,"² a translation that "discloses servile conformity to the Hebrew and Aramaic original, at the cost of clarity, and thus fails to attain even the pretence of Greek idiomatic expression, not to speak of distinction in diction."³ Subsequent examination has only confirmed such conclusions.⁴ The difficult nature of the Greek in this book makes its translation problematic. This translation into English makes an attempt to remain faithful to the Greek but also to render it into grammatical English.

General character

The translator of 2 Esdras used a Hebrew-Aramaic text that was of the Masoretic tradition (MT) of texts and translated it by a slavish adherence to the forms and order of the source text and with little in the

¹ Henry H. Howorth, "Some Unconventional Views on the Text of the Bible: I. The Apocryphal Book Esdras A and the LXX," PSBA 23 (1901) 151.

² S. A. Cook, "1 Esdras," in Charles 1:3.

³ Pfeiffer, History 248.

⁴ R. Glenn Wooden, "Interlinearity in 2 Esdras: A Test Case," in Septuagint Research: Issues and Challenges in the Study of the Greek Jewish Scriptures (W. Kraus and R. G. Wooden, eds; SBLSCS 53; Atlanta: SBL, 2006) 119–144.

way of creativity or translator's license. The translation is so close to the MT that there is very little change even of word order, a feature hard to reflect in the English translation.

Another feature is easier to reflect, however. With very few exceptions, where a Hebrew-Aramaic conjunctive ׀ occurs in the MT, it is rendered by καί in this translation. This is different from other OG/Septuagint books where there tends to be somewhat more variety. So extreme is this feature of 2 Esdras that there are only four occurrences of δέ anywhere in the book (2.64; 5.12; 7.9; 19.18), and for those four occurrences only at 7.9 is there a ׀ in the source text, the other three being introduced without explicit warrant. Given this approach to the translation of the Hebrew and Aramaic, in the NETS translation of 2 Esdras there is no attempt to represent the various nuances possible when rendering καί, with the result that "and" is grossly overused.

Transcription

Another significant characteristic of this book is that there are 35 transcriptions used 67 times, and this does not include the transcription of the over 500 names that occur in the genealogies and lists. This use of transcriptions is not consistent throughout the book. Thus, for example, for the same Hebrew word, ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀, we find ναθιναῖοι (2.43; 21.3) and ναθινίμ (2.58, 70; 7.7, 24; 8.17, 20; 13.26; 17.46, 60, 73; 20.28), and for another, ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀, 'Ωφάλ (13.26) and 'Οφλά (13.27). The treatment of names in the book is also inconsistent, so that one finds, for example, 'Αδδίν (2.15), 'Αδίν (8.6) and 'Ηδίν (17.20) for ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀; 'Αμμάνιται (23.1) and 'Αμμωνί (9.1) for ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀; Βανού (2.10), Βανί (10.29) and Βαναίας (18.7) for ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀; 'Ηράμ (2.32), 'Ηρέμ (2.39), 'Ιράμ (20.5) and 'Αρέμ (22.15) for ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀; Κωλίτας (10.23), Καλλίτας (18.7) and Καλιτάν (20.10) for ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀; Σαδδούκ (7.2), Σαδούκ (20.21) and Σαδώκ (23.13) for ׀׀׀׀׀׀׀.

Pleonasm

In this book there are scattered examples of redundant adverbs and pronouns where the Greek uses the relative pronoun to translate ׀׀׀׀׀ or ׀׀ when they function as relative particles marking the connection between two independent clauses. When the Hebrew or Aramaic clause has an adverb or pronoun, it is rendered redundantly, such as in 1.4: "And every one left shall go up from all the places where (׀׀׀׀׀ – ׀׀) he resides there (׀׀׀׀ – ׀׀׀׀)." These are redundant in Greek and therefore have been rendered into equally redundant English.

Lists and the lack of grammaticality

A more difficult grammatical problem is encountered at 9.1; 10.18; 13.24–25, 26, 31; 14.13; 21.4–7, 25–30 where there are lists of two or more people or items in the MT in which Greek grammar seems to have been abandoned and the words are listed without grammatical connection to the first item in the list. In this translation we have found ways to render these, taking into account what is possible given Greek grammar and knowing what the translator probably saw in the source text. They are awkward translations, but not as awkward as the Greek.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF 2 ESDRAS

Whereas the Greek follows its parent MT text very closely, we have tried to maintain as many connections to the NRSV as possible, within the guidelines of the project. Where the Greek is gender specific, such as in the use of ἀνὴρ, we have made the translation specific. Given the pedantic nature of the translation, where "sons of" is found in what could arguably be a generic form, we have rendered it with the gender specific "sons of," etc.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Whereas 2 Esdras in the OG/Septuagint is the translation of both Ezra and Nehemiah, the chapters do not follow the MT for the book of Nehemiah: 2 Esdras 1–10 is the translation of Ezra 1–10, and 2 Esdras 11–23 is the translation of Nehemiah 1–13.

Versification differs among editions of 2 Esdras and from the MT:

Hanhart and English translations of Nehemiah	MT and Rahlfs
14(4).1–6	3(13).33–38/37
14(4).7–23	4(14).1–17
18(8).1a	7(17).73b
19(9).38	10(20).1
20(10).1–39	10(20).2–40

Compared to the MT, some text is not represented in 2 Esdras at 14.6 (Neh 3.37-38); 21(11).12-35; and 22(12).2-9, 25, 29. Where the material is lacking in chapters 21 and 22, the versification follows that of the MT, and thus there are gaps in the sequences of numbers.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

The only English translation of this book that I consulted in the process of developing this translation was that by Brenton.

R. GLENN WOODEN

1 And in the first year of Cyrus, king of the Persians, in order that the word of the Lord from the mouth of Ieremias might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus, king of the Persians, and he commanded an utterance^a in all his kingdom, indeed in written form, saying:

2 "Thus said Cyrus, king of the Persians: the Lord, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he himself has visited upon me to build him a house in Ierousalem, which is in Judea. ³Who is there among you from all his people? And his God will be with him, and he will go up to Ierousalem, which is in Judea, and let him build the house of Israel's God; he is the God who is in Ierousalem. ⁴And every one left shall go up from all the places where he resides there, and the men of his place shall receive them with silver and gold and with goods and animals, besides the freewill offering for the house of the God who is in Ierousalem."

5 And the chiefs of the paternal families of Iouda and Benjamin and the priests and the Leuites got up, all of whom God had stirred up their spirit, to go up to build the Lord's house, which is in Ierousalem. ⁶And all from round about prevailed with their hands with vessels of silver, with gold and with goods and with livestock and with presents, besides the things that were freely offered. ⁷And King Cyrus brought out the vessels of the house of the Lord, which Nabouchodonosor took from Ierousalem and placed them in the house of his god. ⁸And Cyrus, king of the Persians, brought them out onto the hand of Mithridates Garbarenos^b, and he counted them for Sasabassar, the ruler of Iouda. ⁹And this was their number: gold wine coolers, thirty, and silver wine coolers, one thousand, assorted items, twenty-nine, ¹⁰gold chephoures^c, thirty, and silver ones and other vessels, one thousand, ¹¹All the vessels in gold and silver: five thousand four hundred, every one of which went up with Sasabassar from the exile out of Babylon to Ierousalem.

2 And these are the sons of the country, who went up from the captivity of the exile, which Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, had exiled to Babylon, and they returned to Ierousalem and Iouda, a man to his city, ²who went with Zorobabel: Iesous, Neemias, Saraias, Reelias, Mardochoaios, Balasan, Masphar, Bagouai, Reoum, Baana.

Number of the men of the people of Israel: ³sons of Phoros, two thousand one hundred seventy-two; ⁴sons of Saphatia, three hundred seventy-two; ⁵sons of Ares, seven hundred seventy-five; ⁶sons of Phaathmoab—in reference to the sons of ^dIesou, of Ioab^d—two thousand eight hundred twelve; ⁷sons of Ailam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four; ⁸sons of Zaththoua, nine hundred forty-five; ⁹sons of Zakchai, seven hundred sixty; ¹⁰sons of Banoui, six hundred forty-two; ¹¹sons of Babai, six hundred twenty-three; ¹²sons of Azgad, one thousand two hundred twenty-two; ¹³sons of Adonikam, six hundred sixty-six; ¹⁴sons of Bagouai, two thousand fifty-six; ¹⁵sons of Addin, four hundred fifty-four; ¹⁶sons of Ater—in reference to Hezekias—ninety-eight; ¹⁷sons of Bassou, three hundred twenty-three; ¹⁸sons of Iora, one hundred twelve; ¹⁹sons of Hasoum, two hundred twenty-three; ²⁰sons of Gaber, ninety-five; ²¹sons of Baithleem, one hundred twenty-three; ²²sons of Ne-topha, fifty-six; ²³sons of Anathoth, one hundred twenty-eight; ²⁴sons of Azmoth, forty-two; ²⁵sons of Kariathiarim, Chaphira and Beroth, seven hundred forty-three; ²⁶sons of the Rama and of Gabaa, six hundred twenty-one; ²⁷men of Machmas, one hundred twenty-two; ²⁸men of Baithel and Aia, four hundred twenty-three; ²⁹sons of Nabo, fifty-two; ³⁰sons of Magebis, one hundred fifty-six; ³¹sons of Elamar, one thousand two hundred fifty-four; ³²sons of Heram, three hundred twenty; ³³sons of Lod, Hadid and Ono, seven hundred twenty-five; ³⁴sons of Iericho, three hundred forty-five; ³⁵sons of Senaa, three thousand six hundred thirty.

36 And the priests: sons of Iedoua—in reference to the house of Iesous—nine hundred seventy-three; ³⁷sons of Emmer, one thousand fifty-two; ³⁸sons of Phasour, one thousand two hundred forty-seven; ³⁹sons of Herem, one thousand seven.

40 And the Leuites: sons of Iesous and Kadmiel—in reference to the sons of Hodouia—seventy-four. ⁴¹The singers: sons of Asaph, one hundred twenty-eight. ⁴²Sons of the gatekeepers: sons of Selloum; sons of Ater; sons of Telmon; sons of Akoub; sons of Hatita; sons of Sobai, in all one hundred thirty-nine.

^ai.e. proclamation ^bCf. Heb = treasurer ^cHeb = bowls ^dPossibly Iesous Ioab

43 The nathineans^a: sons of Souaa; sons of Hاسوبا; sons of Tabbaoth; ⁴⁴sons of Keraos; sons of Siaan; sons of Phadon; ⁴⁵sons of Labano; sons of Hagaba; sons of Akoub; ⁴⁶sons of Hagab; sons of Selami; sons of Hanan; ⁴⁷sons of Geddel; sons of Gaar; sons of Raia; ⁴⁸sons of Rason; sons of Neko-da; sons of Gazam; ⁴⁹sons of Aza; sons of Phase; sons of Basi; ⁵⁰sons of Asena; sons of Mooünim; sons of Nephousim; ⁵¹sons of Bakkouk; sons of Hakoupha; sons of Harour; ⁵²sons of Basaloth; sons of Meida; sons of Harsa; ⁵³sons of Barkos; sons of Sisara; sons of Thema; ⁵⁴sons of Nasie; sons of Hatipha.

55 Sons of Abdeselma: sons of Sotai; sons of Hasepherath; sons of Phadoura; ⁵⁶sons of Ieala; sons of Kerkon; sons of Geddel; ⁵⁷sons of Saphatia; sons of Hattil; sons of Phacherath of Hasaboim; sons of Emei. ⁵⁸All the nathinim^a and sons of Abdeselma were three hundred ninety-two.

59 And the following were those who went up from Thelmelech, Thelaresa, Cheroub, Edan, Emmer and were not able to proclaim their paternal house and their offspring, whether they were from Israel: ⁶⁰sons of Dalaia; sons of Boua; sons of Tobia; sons of Nekoda, six hundred fifty-two. ⁶¹And from sons of the priests: sons of Hobaia; sons of Hakkous; sons of Berzellai (who took as wife one of the daughters of Berzellai the Galaadite and was called by their name). ⁶²These, the methoesimb, looked for their registration, and they were not found, and they were made near kin from the priesthood, ⁶³and Hathersatha spoke to them so that they would not eat from the holy of holies until a priest should arise for the things that enlighten and the things that are flawless.

64 Now the whole assembly, as one, was forty-two thousand three hundred sixty, ⁶⁵besides their male slaves and their servant girls—these were seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven. And these, there were two hundred male singers and female singers. ⁶⁶Their horses seven hundred thirty-six; their mules two hundred forty-five; ⁶⁷their camels four hundred thirty-five, and their donkeys six thousand seven hundred twenty.

68 And some from the chiefs of the ancestral families, when they came to the Lord's house, which is in Ierusalem, made freewill offerings to the house of God in order to erect it on its prepared basis. ⁶⁹According to their ability they gave to the treasury for the work sixty-one thousand drachmas of gold and five thousand minas^d of silver and one hundred priests' robes.

70 And the priests and the Leuites and those from the people and the singers and the gatekeepers and the nathinim^a settled in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

3 And the seventh month arrived, and Israel was in their cities, and the people gathered as one man to Ierusalem. ²And Iesous the son of Iosedek and his brothers the priests and Zorobabel the son of Salathiel and their brothers got ready and built the altar of the God of Israel in order to offer up whole burnt offerings on it, according to the things written in the law of Moyses the man of God. ³And they prepared the altar on its prepared basis, because they had dread upon them from the peoples of the countries, and a whole burnt offering to the Lord was mounted upon it, in the morning and at evening. ⁴And they observed the feast of tents, according to what was written, and the whole burnt offerings day by day, by number, according to decision, a matter of a day for its day, ⁵and after that the whole burnt offerings of perpetuity and those for the new moons and for all the consecrated feasts to the Lord and the freewill offering of everyone who was making a freewill offering to the Lord. ⁶On day one of the seventh month they began to offer up whole burnt offerings to the Lord, and the foundation of the Lord's house was not laid. ⁷And they gave silver to the stoncutters and the carpenters and food and drink and oil to the Sidonians and the Tyrians, to bring cedar trees from the Lebanon to the sea of Joppe, according to the grant of Cyrus, king of the Persians, to them.

8 And in the second year of their going to the house of God at Ierusalem, in the second month, Zorobabel the son of Salathiel and Iesous the son of Iosedek and the rest of their brothers, the priests and the Leuites and all who were coming to Ierusalem from the captivity made a beginning and appointed the Leuites, from twenty years old and upward, over those who were doing the projects in the Lord's house. ⁹And Iesous and his sons and his brothers, Kadmiel and his sons, sons of Iouda, sons of Henadad, their sons and their brothers the Leuites supervised those doing the projects in the house of God.

10 And they laid the foundation to build the house of the Lord, and the priests stood in their vestments with trumpets, and the Leuites, sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the Lord upon the hands of Daud, king of Israel, ¹¹and they responded with praise and confession to the Lord,

"For it is good,

for his mercy is forever upon Israel."

And all the people signaled with a loud voice to praise the Lord for the foundation of the house of the Lord. ¹²And many from the priests and the Leuites and chiefs of the paternal families, the old people, who had seen the first house on its foundation and this house with their eyes, were weeping with a loud voice, also the crowd at a signal with merriment to raise up a song. ¹³And the people were not distinguishing the sound of the signal of merriment from the sound of the people's weeping, for the people shouted with a loud voice and the sound was being heard even at great distance.

4 And those who were afflicting Iouda and Benjamin heard that the sons of the exile were building a house to the Lord, God of Israel, ²and they approached Zorobabel and the chiefs of the

^aHeb = temple servants ^bHeb = genealogical records ^ci.e. to pronounce on ^dGk 1 mina = 100 drachmas = 0.6 kg

paternal families and said to them, "Let us build with you, for we seek your God as you do, and we have been sacrificing to him since the days of Asaraddon, king of Assour, who brought us here."³ And Zorobabel and Iesous and the rest of the chiefs of the paternal families of Israel said to them: "It is not for us and for you to build a house for our God, because we ourselves together will build for the Lord, our God, as Cyrus, the king of the Persians, commanded us."

4 And the people of the land were weakening the hands of the people of Iouda, and they were trying to hinder them from building⁵ and were hiring people against them, plotting to scatter their council all the days of Cyrus, king of the Persians, and until the reign of Darius, king of the Persians.

6 And in the reign of Asoueros, in the beginning of his reign, they wrote a letter against those inhabiting Iouda and Ieroualem.

7 And in the days of Arthasastha, they wrote in peace—^aMithridates, Tabeel^a with also the rest of his fellow-slaves—to Arthasastha, king of the Persians; the tribute collector wrote in Syrian^b a document, also having been translated.⁸ Reoum, Baaltam and Samsai the scribe wrote one letter against Ieroualem to Arthasastha the king.⁹ Reoum, Baaltam and Samsai the scribe and the rest of our fellow-slaves, the Dinians, Apharsathachians, Taphallians, Apharsians, Archyians, Babylonians, Sousanachians, Dauians,¹⁰ the rest of the nations, whom the great and honorable Asennaphar deported and whom he settled in the cities of Somoron, and the rest ^{beyond the river}^c have rendered judgment as follows.¹¹ This is the commandment^d of the letter that they sent to him:

"To Arthasastha the king. Your servants, men ^{beyond the river}^c.¹² Let it be known to the king that the Judeans, having come up from you to us, went to Ieroualem, the rebellious and wicked city, which they are building, and its walls have been finished, and they raised up its foundations.¹³ Now then, let it be known to the king that, if that city is rebuilt and its walls finished, tributes will not accrue to you, nor will they give, and this is detrimental to kings.¹⁴ And it is not fitting for us to see the king's dishonor; therefore we have sent and informed the king¹⁵ so that he might look in the book of the record of your fathers, and you will discover and know that that is a rebellious city and detrimental to kings and territories, and groups of fugitive slaves from long ago are in its midst. On that account this city was laid waste.¹⁶ Therefore, we are making it known to the king that, if that city is built and its walls are finished, you do not have peace."

17 And the king sent peace and tidings to Reoum, Baaltam and Samsai the scribe and the rest of their fellow-slaves who live in Samaria and to the rest of those from ^{beyond the river}^c:¹⁸ "The tribute collector whom you sent to us was summoned before me.¹⁹ And a decision was made by me, and we searched and discovered that that city, from days of old, rises up against kings, and that rebellions and banishments occur in it,²⁰ and kings became strong in Ieroualem and ruled over the whole west of the river, and full tributes and a share were given to them.²¹ And now, make a decision that those men stop. And the city will no longer be built due to the decision,²² since you have been on guard against being slack in this matter, lest^e damage might perchance multiply to the detriment of kings."

23 Then the tribute collector of Arthasastha the king read before Reoum, Baaltam and Samsai the scribe, his own fellow-slaves. And they went quickly to Ieroualem and in Iouda and stopped them with horses^f and a force.²⁴ Then the work in Ieroualem on the house of God stopped and remained stopped until the second year of the reign of Darius, the king of the Persians.

5 And Haggaios the prophet and Zacharias the son of Addo prophesied a prophecy to the Judeans who were in Iouda and Ieroualem, in the name of Israel's God, who was over them.² At that time Zorobabel the son of Salathiel and Iesous son of Iosedek set out and began to build the house of God, which is in Ieroualem, and with them were the prophets of God, helping them.

3 At the same time Thaththanai, the commander ^{beyond the river}^c, and Satharbouzanai, and their fellow-slaves came to them and spoke to them like this, "Who gave you a decision to build this house and to supply these materials?"⁴ Then they said to them this: "What are the names of the men who are building this city?"⁵ And the eyes of God were upon the captivity of Iouda, and they did not stop them until the advice was delivered to Darius. And then an answer about the matter was sent to the tribute collector.

6 The explanation of the letter that Thaththanai, the commander of ^{the areas beyond the river}^c, Satharbouzanai and their fellow-slaves, the Apharsachians, who were in ^{the areas beyond the river}^c, sent to Darius the king.⁷ They sent him a report and in it^h these things were written: "To Darius the king, all peace!⁸ Let it be known to the king that we went to the Judean region, to the house of the great God, and it is being built with choice stones, and timbers are laid in the walls, and that work is prosperous and going well in their hands.⁹ Then we asked those elders and spoke to them thus, 'Who gave you a decision to build this house and to supply these materials?'¹⁰ And we asked them their names, to inform you, so we could record for you the names of the men who are their rulers.¹¹ And they replied to us with a speech like this, saying: 'We are slaves of the God of heaven and earth, and we are building the house that had been built many years before now (and a great king of Israel built it and finished it for them).¹² But after that our fathers angered the God of heaven; he gave them into the hands of Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, the Chaldean, and he destroyed this house and exiled the people to Babylon. ¹³But in the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king had a decision made that this house of God should be built. ¹⁴And, as for the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nabouchodonosor brought out from the house, which is in Ierousalem, and brought away into the shrine of the king, Cyrus the king brought them out of the shrine of the king and gave them to Sanabassaros, the treasurer who was over the treasury ¹⁵and said to him, "Take all the vessels, and go; put them in the house, which is in Ierousalem, in their place." ¹⁶Then this Sanabassar came and laid the foundations of the house of God in Ierousalem, and from then until now it was built and was not finished. ¹⁷And now, if it seems good to the king, have a search made in the house of the treasure of the king of Babylon, so you might know that a decision was issued from King Cyrus to build that house of God, which is in Ierousalem. And when the king knows about this, let him send notification to us."

^aOr Mithridates Tabeel or Mithridates of Tabeel ^bI.e. Aramaic ^cPerhaps Beyond the River ^dPossibly disposition
^ein order that no = Ha ^fI.e. cavalry ^gLacking in Gk ^hAntecedent unclear

6 Then Darius the king made a decision, and he searched in the libraries where the treasure is deposited in Babylon. ²And in the city of Amatha, in the bastion of the city of the Medes, one scroll was found, and this had written in it: "A record: ³In the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king issued a decision concerning the house of God, which is in Ierousalem: Let a house and a place where they sacrifice sacrifices be built, (and he made an elevation sixty cubits in height and its width sixty cubits, ⁴and there were three courses of hard stones and one course of timber), and the cost will be paid from the house of the king. ⁵And, as for the silver and gold vessels of the house of God, which Nabouchodonosor brought out of the house, which was in Ierousalem, and carried off to Babylon, let them also be given, and let them go to the shrine, which is in Ierousalem, to the place where they were put in the house of God."

⁶ "Now, commanders ^abeyond the river^a, Satharbouzanai and their fellow-slaves, the Apharsacheans, who are in ^athe area^b beyond the river^a, you will give these things, though being far away from there. ⁷And now permit the work of the house of God. Let the leaders of the Judeans and the elders of the Judeans build that house of God on its site. ⁸And a decision has been issued by me, lest you do anything with the elders of the Judeans to build that house of God. And let the cost diligently be paid to those men from the king's possessions, the tributes from ^abeyond the river^a, so that they are not delayed. ⁹And whatever the need—^bin a case of^b both the offspring of cattle and rams and male lambs for whole burnt offerings to the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, oil, according to the word of the priests who are in Ierousalem—let it be given to them day by day, whatever they request, ¹⁰so that they may be offering fragrances to the God of heaven and be praying for the life of the king and his sons. ¹¹And a decision has been issued from me that, as for any person who alters this word, a beam shall be taken down out of his house, and he will be raised up and impaled on it, and his home made my possession. ¹²And may the God whose name encamps there overthrow any king and people that shall put forth its hand to alter or to destroy that house of God which is in Ierousalem. I, Darius, have issued a decision; it shall be done with all diligence."

¹³ Then Thaththanai, governor ^abeyond the river^a, Satharbouzanai and his fellow slaves in this way acted with all diligence toward what Darius the king had sent. ¹⁴And the elders of the Judeans and the Leuites kept building during the prophesying of Haggaios the prophet and Zacharias son of Addo, and they rebuilt and finished it due to the decision of the God of Israel and due to the decision of Cyrus and Darius and Arthasastha, kings of the Persians. ¹⁵And they completed this house until the third day of the month of Adar, which was the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

¹⁶ And sons of Israel—the priests and the Leuites and the rest of the sons of the exile—celebrated the rededication of the house of God with joy. ¹⁷And for the rededication of the house of God they offered one hundred calves, two hundred rams, four hundred male lambs, twelve male goats for sin on behalf of all Israel, for the number of the tribes of Israel. ¹⁸And they set the priests in their divisions and the Leuites in their orders for the service of the God who is in Ierousalem, in accordance with the scripture of the book of Moyses.

¹⁹ And on the fourteenth of the first month the sons of the exile kept the pascha^c. ²⁰Because the priests were purified and the Leuites pure, one and all, they also slaughtered the pascha^c for all the sons of the exile and for their brothers the priests and for themselves. ²¹And sons of Israel—those from the exile and every one who was separating himself from the impurity of the nations of the land, joining them, in order to seek after the Lord, God of Israel—ate the pascha^c. ²²And they celebrated the feast of unleavened bread for seven days with joy, because the Lord made them joyful, and the Lord turned the heart of the king of Assour to them, to strengthen their hands in the projects of the house of the God of Israel.

7 And after these matters, in the reign of Arthasastha, king of the Persians, Esdras went up—son of Saraia son of Azarias son of Helkia ²son of Selloum son of Saddouk son of Achitob ³son of Amaria son of Ezria son of Maraioth ⁴son of Zaraia son of Ozios son of Bokki ⁵son of Abisoué son of Phinees son of Eleazar son of Aaron the first priest. ⁶Esdras himself went up from Babylon, and he was a scribe quick in the law of Moyses that the Lord God of Israel had given. And the king gave to him, for the hand of the Lord, ^aPerhaps (of) Beyond the River ^bLacking in Gk ^ci.e. Passover

his God, was upon him in all that he himself was seeking.

7 And some of the sons of Israel and some of the priests and some of the Leuites and the singers and the gatekeepers and the nathinim^a went up to Ieroualem in the seventh year of Arthasastha the king. ⁸And they came to Ieroualem in the fifth month, that is, the seventh year of the king—⁹because on the first of the first month he himself founded the ascent from Babylon, but on the first of the fifth month they came to Ieroualem, for the hand of his God was good upon him—¹⁰because Esdras proposed in his heart to seek the law and to practice and to teach the ordinances and judgments in Israel.

11 And this is the clear statement of the edict that Arthasastha gave to Esdras the priest, the scribe of the book of words of the commandments of the Lord and his ordinances for Israel: ¹²“Arthasastha, king of kings, to Esdras, the scribe of the law of the Lord the God of heaven. The message and its answer have been completed. ¹³A decision was issued from me that any from the people of Israel and priests and Leuites in my kingdom who freely offer to go to Ieroualem are to go with you. ¹⁴It^b was sent from before the king and the seven counselors that you^c conduct an inspection of Judea and of Ieroualem in accordance with the law of their God, which is in your hand—¹⁵and “that you inspect^c the silver and gold for the house of the Lord that the king and counselors freely offered to the God of Israel who encamps in Ieroualem ¹⁶and any silver and gold that you might find in the whole country of Babylon besides the freewill offering of the people and the priests who are giving willingly to the house of God, which is in Ieroualem, ¹⁷and everything that comes in, readily enter this one in this book: calves, rams, lambs and their offerings and their libations, and you shall offer them on the altar of the house of your God, which^d is in Ieroualem. ¹⁸And if something seems good to you and your brothers to do with the rest of the silver and gold, do as is pleasing to your God. ¹⁹And the vessels that are being given you for the service of the house of God, deliver them before God in Ieroualem. ²⁰And as for the rest of the requirements for the house of your God—whatever you think you should provide, you will provide out of the houses of the king’s treasure.

21 “And I, Arthasastha the king, have issued a decision from me for all the treasures in “the area^e beyond the river^e that everything that Esdras, the priest and scribe of the law of the God of heaven, asks you, let it be done with all diligence, ²²up to one hundred talents of silver and up to one hundred kors^f of wheat and up to one hundred baths^h of wine and one hundred baths^h of oil and salt for which there is no writ. ²³Everything that is in the decision of the God of heaven, let it be done. Beware of someone attacking the house of the God of heaven, lest wrath come upon the realm of the king and his sons. ²⁴And this has been made known to youⁱ among all the priests and Leuites, singers, door keepers, nathinim^a and ministers of God’s house. Let there be no tribute for youⁱ, you will not have the power to enslave them.

25 “And you, Esdras, in keeping with the wisdom of God in your hand, appoint scribes and judges so that they may be judging in the interest of all the people who are in “the area^f beyond the river^e, all who know the law of your God, and you shall make it known to the one who does not know it. ²⁶And any who does not observe the law of God and the law of the king, readily the judgment will be one that issues from it, whether for death or whether for discipline or whether for loss of livelihood or whether for bonds.”

27 Blessed be the Lord the God of our fathers, who in this way put it in the heart of the king to glorify the house of the Lord, which is in Ieroualem, ²⁸and has inclined mercy upon me in the eyes of the king and his counselors and all the king’s exalted rulers. And I was strengthened, for the good hand of God was upon me, and I gathered rulers from Israel to go up with me.

8 And these are the chiefs of their paternal families, the guides who went up with me in the reign of Arthasastha, the king of Babylon: ²of Phinees’ sons, Gersom; of Ithamar’s sons, Daniel; of Daudid’s sons, Hattous; ³of Sachania’s sons; of Phoros’ sons, Zacharias, and with him the company of one hundred fifty; ⁴of Phaathmoab’s sons, Eliana son of Saraia, and with him two hundred males; ⁵of Zathoes’ sons, Sechenias son of Haziell, and with him three hundred males. ⁶And of Adin’s sons, Obeth son of Ionathan, and with him fifty males. ⁷And of Elam’s sons, Isaia son of Athelia, and with him seventy males. ⁸And of Saphatia’s sons, Zabdias son of Michael, and with him the eighty males. ⁹And of Ioab’s sons, Abadia—he being son of Ieiel—and with him were the two hundred eighteen males. ¹⁰And of Baani’s sons, Selimouth son of Iosephia, and with him the one hundred sixty males. ¹¹And of Babi’s sons, Zacharias son of Babi, and with him the twenty-eight males. ¹²And of Azgad’s sons, Ioanan—he being son of Hakkatan—and with him the one hundred ten males. ¹³And of Adonikam’s sons—they were last—and these were their names: Eliphalth, Ieiel and Samaia, and with them the sixty males. ¹⁴And of Bagouai’s sons, Outhai and Zaboud, and with them the seventy males.

15 And I gathered them to the river that runs to Eui, and there we camped three days. And I took notice among the people and among the priests, and I did not find there any of Leui’s sons. ¹⁶And I sent intelligent people to Eleazar, to Ariel, to Samaria and to Maonam and to Iarib and to Elnathan and to Nathan and to Zacharia and to Mesoulam and to Ioarib and to Elnathan, ¹⁷and I brought them out to the ruler with the silver of the place, and I placed words in their mouths to say to the brothers of them, of the nathinim^a, so that they would bring for us, with the silver of the place, singers for the house of our God. ¹⁸And since the good hand of our God was upon us, there came to us a man of Sachol^b, some of Mooli's sons, son of Leui son of Israel (and his sons and his brothers, eighteen of them, came at the beginning), ¹⁹and Hasebia and Isaia of Merari's sons, his brothers and their sons, twenty, ²⁰and of the nathinim^a whom Daud and his rulers had given into slavery to the Leuites, two hundred twenty nathinim^a. They were all gathered together by name.

^aHeb (Aram) = temple servants ^bI.e. the decision ^cLacking in Gk ^dOr who ^ePerhaps Beyond the River ^fLacking in Greek ^gHeb 1 kor = 220 liters ^hHeb 1 bath = 22 liters ⁱGk = pl ^jGk = sg

²¹ And I proclaimed a fast there at the river Aoue, so that we might be humbled before our God, to seek from him a straight journey for ourselves and our children and all our property. ²²Because I was ashamed to request from the king a force and horses to save us from an enemy on the journey, because we had spoken to the king, saying, "The hand of our God is upon all who seek him for good, and his power and his wrath are upon all who forsake him." ²³And we fasted and sought from our God about this, and he listened to us.

²⁴ And I set apart twelve from the leaders of the priests, in reference to Saraia, in reference to Hasabia, and ten from their brothers with them, ²⁵and I weighed out for them the silver and the gold and the vessels of the first fruit of the house of our God, which the king and his counselors and his rulers and all Israel who were found had lifted up. ²⁶And I weighed onto their hands six hundred fifty talents of silver and one hundred silver vessels and one hundred talents of gold, ²⁷and for the journey twenty gold chaphoure^c worth a thousand drachmas and excellent, desirable vessels of fine polished bronze in gold. ²⁸And I said to them, "You are holy to the Lord God, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and the gold are freewill offerings to the Lord, God of our fathers. ²⁹Be vigilant, and keep them until you weigh^d them before the rulers of the priests and the Leuites and the chiefs of paternal families in Ierousalem, at the tents of the house of the Lord." ³⁰And the priests and the Leuites took the weight of the silver and the gold and the vessels, to bring to Ierousalem to the house of our God.

³¹ And we started out from the river Aoue on the twelfth of the first month, to go to Ierousalem, and the hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy and hostility on the journey. ³²And we came to Ierousalem and settled there three days. ³³And it happened on the fourth day, in the house of our God, we weighed the silver and the gold and the vessels into the hand of Marimoth son of Ouria the priest (and with him was Eleazar son of Phinees, and with them Iozabad son of Iesus and Noadia son of Banaia, the Leuites), ³⁴everything by number and by weight, and the total weight was recorded. At that time ³⁵those who had come from captivity, sons of the exiles, offered as whole burnt offerings to the God of Israel twelve calves for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, twelve male goats for sin; these were all the burnt offerings to the Lord. ³⁶And they gave the king's currency to the administrators of the king and to the commanders ^ebeyond the river^e, and they extolled the people and the house of God.

9 And after these things had been done, the rulers approached me, saying, "The people of Israel and the priests and the Leuites were not separated from the peoples of the lands with their ^fthings put far away^f, in reference to the Chanani—the Heththi, the Pherezi, the Iebousi, the Ammoni, the Moab, the Mosri and the Amori—²because they have taken from their daughters for themselves and for their sons, and the holy seed was influenced by the peoples of the lands, and the hand of the rulers was in this faithlessness in the beginning." ³And when I heard this word, I tore my garments and was quivering and was pulling out some of the hair of my head and some of my beard and was sitting in silence. ⁴And everyone who pursued the word of Israel's God, because of the faithlessness of the exile—they gathered to me, and I kept sitting in silence until the evening sacrifice.

⁵And at the evening sacrifice I got up from my humiliation. And when I had torn my garments, and I was quivering and was getting down on my knees and spreading out my hands to the Lord God ⁶and said,

"O Lord, I was ashamed and hesitated to lift, O my God, my face to you, because our acts of lawlessness have multiplied above our heads, and our errors have been increased up to heaven. ⁷From the days of our fathers to this day we are in error, and for our acts of lawlessness we and our kings and our sons have been handed over in the hand of the kings of the nations, by sword and by captivity and by plundering and by shame of our face, as this day. ⁸And now the Lord, our God, was fair with us to leave us for salvation and give us support in the place of his holiness; in order that he might brighten our eyes and grant us a little vitality in our slavery. ⁹Because we are slaves, the Lord, our God, has not forsaken us even in our slavery and inclined mercy upon us before the kings of the Persians, to give us vitality that they might raise up the house of our God and to repair its ruins and to give us a fence^h in Iouda and in Ierousalem.

¹⁰ "Our God, what shall we say after this? Because we have forsaken your commandments, ¹¹which you gave us by the hand of your slaves the prophets, saying, "The land that you are entering to possess it is a land undergoing change by the changing of the peoples of the nations, with their ^fthings put far away^f, who they have filled it from mouth to mouth with their impurities. ¹²And now do not give your daughters to their sons, and do not take some of their daughters for your sons, and never seek out their peace and their prosperity so that you may be strong and eat the good of the land and distribute it to your sons forever.¹³ And after all that is coming upon us for our evil deeds and for our great error—because there is none like our God, because you canceled our acts of lawlessness and gave us salvation,¹⁴ because we returned to scatter your commandments and to intermarry with the peoples of the lands, do not be provoked at us until destruction so that there is no remnant and survivor.¹⁵ O Lord, God of Israel, you are just, because we have been left over as survivors, as this day. Behold, we are before you with our errors, because it is not possible to stand before you because of this.”

^aHeb = temple servants ^bOr sachol ^cHebrew = bowls ^dOr set ^ePerhaps of Beyond the River ^fPossibly abominations ^gOr holy precinct ^hOr fortification

10 And as Esdras prayed and as he declared, weeping and praying before the house of God, a very great assembly—men and women and young men—gathered to him from Israel, because the people wept and lifted up while weeping.² And Sechenias son of Ieiel, of Elam’s sons, answered and said to Esdras, “We were faithless with our God and ^aset up^a foreign women from the peoples of the land, and now there is endurance for Israel in this.³ And now let us make a covenant with our God to cast out all the women and the issue from them, however you want. Arise, and scare them with the commandments of our God, and let it be done according to the law.⁴ Arise! The word is upon you, and we are with you; be strong, and act.”⁵ And Esdras arose and made the rulers, the priests and Leuites and all Israel swear to act according to this word. And they swore.

6 And Esdras arose from before the house of God and went to the treasure chamber of Ioanan son of Elisoub, and he went there. He did not eat bread and did not drink water, because he was mourning over the faithlessness of the exile.⁷ And they presented an utterance^b in Iouda and in Ierousalem to all sons of the exile that they should assemble in Ierousalem: ⁸“Anyone who does not come within three days, as the council of the rulers and the elders demands^c—all his property will be anathematized, and he himself banned from the assembly of the exile.”

9 And all the men of Iouda and Benjamin assembled to Ierousalem within the three days; this was the ninth month. On the twentieth of the month, all the people sat in the open square of the house of God, from their ^dtumult about^d the word and because of the winter.¹⁰ And Esdras the priest arose and said to them, “You have been faithless and ^aset up^a foreign women, increasing the error of Israel.¹¹ And now give praise to the Lord God of our fathers, and do what is pleasing before him, and separate from the peoples of the land and from the foreign women.”¹² And all the assembly answered with a loud voice and said, “This word of yours is a big thing for us to do.

¹³But the people are many, and it is the winter season, and there is no ability to stand outside, and the task is not for one day and not for two, because we have multiplied in doing wrong in this matter.¹⁴ Let now our rulers stand fast for the whole assembly and for all those in our cities. As for him who has ^aset up^a foreign women—let them come at appropriate times as instructed, and with them the elders of city by city and judges, in order to turn away from us the anger of the wrath of our God concerning this matter.”¹⁵ Only Ionathan son of Asael and Iazias son of Thekoue are with me in this, and Mesoulam and Sabbathai the Leuite supporting them.

16 And sons of the exile did so. And Esdras the priest and men ruling the paternal houses ^ewere set apart^e, and all by name, because on the first day of the tenth month they turned to investigate the matter.¹⁷ And they finished with all the men who had ^aset up^a foreign women by the first day of the first month.

18 And there were found some sons of the priests who had ^aset up^a foreign women: some sons of Iesous son of Iosedek and his brothers: Maaseia and Eliezer and Iarib and Gadalia.¹⁹ And they ^fgave their hand^f to put away their wives and errors—a ram of the flock for their error.²⁰ And of Emmer’s sons: Hanania and Zabdia.²¹ And of Heram’s sons: Masias and Elia and Samaia and Ieiel and Ozia.²² And of Phasour’s sons: Elioenai, Maasia and Ismael and Nathanael and Iozabad and Elasa.

23 And of the Leuites: Iozabad and Samou and Kolia (that is, Koltias) and Phetheia and Ioudas and Eliezer.²⁴ And of the singers: Elisab. And of the gatekeepers: Solmen and Telmen and Odoue.

25 And of Israel: of Phoros’ sons: Ramia and Iazia and Melchia and Meamin and Eleazar and Hasabia and Banaia.²⁶ And of Elam’s sons: Maththania and Zacharia and Iaiel and Abdia and Ierimoth and Elia.²⁷ And of Zaththoua’s sons: Elioenai, Elisoub, Maththanai and Iarmoth and Zabad and Oziza.²⁸ And of Babi’s sons: Ioanan, Hanania and Zabou, Othali.²⁹ And of Bani’s sons: Mesoulam, Malouch, Adaias, Iasoub and Saal and Remoth.³⁰ And of Phaathmoab’s sons: Edne and Chalel and Banaia, Maasea, Maththania, Beselel and Banoui and Manasse.³¹ And of Heram’s sons: Eliezer, Ieseia, Melchia, Samaias, Semeon,³² Benjamin, Malouch, Samaria.³³ And of Hasem’s sons: Maththanai, Maththatha, Zabad, Eliphahet, Ieremi, Manasse and Semei.³⁴ And of Bani’s sons: Moodia, Amram and Ouel,³⁵ Banaia, Badaia, Chelia,³⁶ Ououania, Marimoth, Eliasib,³⁷ Maththania, Maththanai, and so did ³⁸Banou’s sons and Semei’s sons³⁹ and Selemia and Nathan and Adaias,⁴⁰ Machnadaabou, Sesei, Arou,⁴¹ Ezriel and Selemia and Samarias,⁴² Selloum, Amarias, Ioseph.⁴³ And of Nabou’s sons: Ieiel, Maththathias, Zabad, Zebinnas, Iadai and Ioel and Banaia.⁴⁴ All these had married foreign women, and they fathered sons by them.

^aI.e. married ^bOr proclamation ^cLacking in Gk ^dOr clamor after ^eOr given express orders ^fI.e. pledged

11 (Neh 1.1) Words of Neemias son of Hachalia. And it happened in the month of Chaseleu, in the twentieth year, and I was in Sousan Habira^a, and one of my brothers, Hanani, he and men of Iouda came, and I asked them about those that survived, those who had been left over from the captivity, and about Ierousalem. ³And they said to me, "Those who are left over from the captivity there in the country are in great trouble and in shame, and the walls of Ierousalem are broken down, and its gates were burned with fire."

⁴ And it happened, when I heard these words, I sat down and wept and mourned for days, and I was fasting and praying before the God of heaven, ⁵And I said, "Nay indeed, O Lord, you the strong and the great and the awesome God of heaven, one who keeps covenant and mercy with those who love him and keep his commandments, ⁶let now your ear be attentive and your eyes opened to hear the prayer of your slave that I am praying before you today, day and night, for Israel's sons, your slaves, and I am declaring with regard to the sins of Israel's sons, which we have sinned against you. Both I and my father's house have sinned. ⁷In breaking up we broke up with you and did not keep the commandments and the ordinances and the judgments that you commanded your servant Moyses. ⁸Remember now the word that you commanded your servant Moyses, saying, 'You, if you are faithless, I will scatter you among the peoples, ⁹and if you return to me and keep my commandments and do them, if your dispersion is to the farthest skies, from there I will gather them and lead them to the place where I have chosen my name to encamp there.' ¹⁰And they are your servants and your people, whom you redeemed by your great power and by your strong hand. ¹¹Nay indeed; rather, let your ear be attentive to the prayer of your slave and to the prayer of your servants who want to revere your name, and give now success to your servant today, and ^bgive him over to feelings of ^bcompassion before this man!"

And I was cupbearer to the king.

12 (2.1) And it happened in the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of Arthasastha the king. And wine was before me, and I took the wine and gave it to the king, and there was no one else before him. ²And the king said to me, "Why is your face sad," and, "You are not unwell, are you? This is nothing except sadness of the heart." And I was very much afraid. ³And I said to the king, "Let the king live forever! Why should my face not be sad, since the city, the home of my fathers' graves, was laid waste, and its gates have been consumed with fire?" ⁴And the king said to me, "For what are you looking in this matter?" And I prayed to the God of heaven ⁵and said to the king, "If it is good to the king and if your servant shall find favor before you so that you send him to Iouda, to the city of my fathers' graves, I will also rebuild it." ⁶And the king and his concubine who was sitting beside him said, "How long will your journey be, and when will you return?" And it found favor before the king, and he sent me, and I gave him a limit. ⁷And I said to the king, "If it is good to the king, let him give me letters to the governors ^cbeyond the river^c so that I may go on my way until I arrive in Iouda, ⁸and a letter to Asaph, the keeper of the park that belongs to the king, so that he will give me timber to cover the gates and for the wall of the city and for the house into which I shall enter it." And the king gave them to me, because the hand of God was good.

⁹ And I came to the governors ^cbeyond the river^c and gave them the king's letters, and the king had sent leaders of the force and horsemen with me. ¹⁰And Sanaballat the Haroni and Tobia the slave, the Ammoni, heard it, and it displeased them that a person had come to seek good for the sons of Israel.

¹¹ And I came to Ierousalem and was there for three days. ¹²And I got up during the night, I and a few men with me, and I told no one what God was putting into my heart to do along with Israel, and there is no animal with me except the animal which I ride upon it. ¹³And I went out by the gate of Golela^d and to the mouth of the fountain of the figs and to the gate of the dung. And I was crushing in the wall of Ierousalem, which they are pulling down. And its gates were consumed by fire. ¹⁴And I went on to the gate of Ain and in the king's swimming pool, and there was no place for the animal under me to continue. ¹⁵And I kept going up in the wall off the wadi by night and kept crushing in the wall. And I was in the gate of the ravine and returned. ¹⁶And those who were guarding did not know why I went and what I was doing, and until then I had not told the Judeans and the priests and the distinguished and the generals and the rest that were doing the work.

¹⁷ And I said to them, "You see the trouble in which we are in it, how Ierousalem is in ruins, and its gates were given to fire. Come, and let us wall off Ierousalem's wall, and we will no longer suffer disgrace." ¹⁸And I reported to them the hand of God that was good upon me and the words that the king had spoken to me, and I said, "Let us arise and build!" And their hands were strengthened for the good. ¹⁹And Sanaballat the Haroni and Tobia the slave, the Ammoni, and Gesam the Arabi heard, and they mocked us and came against us and said, "What is this matter that you are doing? Are you rebelling against the king?" ²⁰And I returned word to them and said to them, "The God of heaven, he will give us success, and we are his pure slaves, and we will build it, and you have no share and righteousness and record in Ierousalem."

13 (3.1) And the great priest Elisoub and his brothers the priests set out and built the sheep gate. They consecrated it and set up its doors, and they consecrated it as far as the tower of the hundred, as far as the tower of Hanameel,² and at the hand of the sons of the men of Iericho and at the hand of the sons of Zakchour son of Amari.

^aHeb = the citadel ^bI.e. grant that he may be shown ^cPerhaps of Beyond the River ^dHeb = by night + Valley ^eReferent unclear ^fPossibly at

3 And Hasana's sons built the fish gate; they covered it and set up its doors and its bars and its bolts. ⁴And at their hand, one of Ramoth son of Ouria son of Hakkos took control. And at their hand Mesoulam son of Barachiou son of Masezebel took charge. And at their hand Sadouk son of Baana took charge. ⁵And at their hand the Thekoim took charge, and the Adoreem did not contribute their neck to their service.

6 And Ioida son of Phasek and Mesoulam son of Basodia—they took control of the gate of Iasania; they covered it and set up its doors and its bars and its bolts. ⁷And at their hand Maltias the Gabaonite and Euaron the Meronothite, men of Gabaon and of Maspha, took control as far as the throne of the ruler ^abeyond the river^a. ⁸And beside them Oziel son of Harachias, one of the smiths, secured things. And at their hand Hananias son of Rokeim took control, and they left Ierousalem alone as far as the broad wall. ⁹And at their hand Raphaia son of Hour, ruler of half the area around Ierousalem, took control. ¹⁰And at their hand and opposite his home Iedaia son of Heromaph took control. And at his hand Hattous son of Hasbania took control. ¹¹And a second Melchias son of Heram and Hasoub son of Phaathmoab took control as far as the tower of the Thannourim. ¹²And at his hand Salloum son of Halloes, ruler of half the area around Ierousalem, took control, he and his daughters.

13 Hanoun and the inhabitants of Zano took control of the gate of the ravine; they built it and set up its doors and its bars and its bolts and a thousand cubits on the wall, as far as the gate of dung.

14 And Melchia son of Rechab, ruler of the area around Bethachcharam, took control of the gate of dung, he and his sons, and covered it and set up its doors and its bars and its bolts.

15 Then Salomon son of Coleze, ruler of the district of Maspha, fortified the gate of the fountain; he himself built it up and covered it and set up its doors and its bolts, and he built the wall of the pool of the fleeces at the shearing of the king, and as far as the stairs that go down from the city of Dauid. ¹⁶Behind him Neemias son of Azbouch, ruler of half the area around Bethsour, took control as far as the garden of the grave of Dauid and as far as the artificial pool and as far as Bethagabarim. ¹⁷Behind him the Leuites took control: Raoum son of Bani, and at his hand Hasabia, ruler of half the area around Keila, took control for his surrounding area. ¹⁸After him their brothers took control: Benei son of Hanadad, ruler of half the area around Keila. ¹⁹And at his hand Azour son of Iesous, ruler of Masphe, controlled a second section of the tower of ascent, which joins the corner. ²⁰And after him Barouch son of Zabou took control of the next section from the corner to the door of Bethelisoub the great priest. ²¹And after him Meramoth son of Ouria son of Hakkos controlled a second section from the door of Bethelisoub to where Bethelisoub leaves off. ²²And after him the priests, the men of Hachchechar, took control. ²³And after him Beniamin and Hasoub took control opposite their house. And after him Azaria son of Maasias son of Anania took control beside his house. ²⁴After him Bani son of Henadad controlled a second section, from Bethazaria to the corner and as far as the bend ²⁵of Phalal son of Euzai from opposite the corner—and ^bit is^b the upper tower that projects from the house of the king at the court of the guard—and after him Padaia son of Phoros. ²⁶(And the nathinim^c were dwelling in Ophal as far as the garden of the gate of water to the east. And the tower is^b the one projecting.) ²⁷After him the Thekoim took control of a second section from opposite the great projecting tower and as far as the wall of Ophla.

28 Above the gate of the horses the priests took control, a man opposite his house. ²⁹After him Saddouk son of Emmer took control opposite his house. And after him Samaia son of Sechenia, the keeper of the gate of the east, took control. ³⁰After him Hanania son of Selemia and Hanom sixth son of Seleph took control of a second section. After him Mesoulam son of Barchia took control opposite his treasure chamber. ³¹After him Melchia son of Sarephi took control as far as Bethannathinim and the hucksters opposite the gate of Maphekad and as far as the ascent at the bend. ³²And in the midst of the sheep gate the smiths^d and the hucksters took control.

14 ^(4.1)And it happened, when Sanaballat heard that we were building the wall, and he was upset and greatly enraged, and he mocked at the Judeans. ²And he said in the presence of his brothers, "Is this the power of Somoron, that these Judeans are building the city for themselves? Are they, then, sacrificing? Will they, then, be strong, and will they today repair the scorched stones after they had become the rubbish heap of the land?" ³And Tobias the Ammanite came beside him, and they said to themselves, "They will not sacrifice or eat in their place, will they? Will a fox not go up and break down their stone wall?" ⁴Hear, O our God, for we have become despised, ⁵and return their taunt to their heads, and give them over to sneering in a land of captivity, ⁶and do not cover over lawlessness.

7 And it happened, when Sanaballat and Tobia and the Arabs and the Ammanites heard that the stature of the walls of Ierousalem was rising because the gaps were beginning to be closed, and it looked very bad to them. ⁸And they all gathered together to come and get ready to fight in Ierousalem. ⁹And we prayed to our God and set up an advance guard against them day and night because of their presence.

^aPerhaps of Beyond the River ^bLacking in Gk ^cHeb = temple servants ^dPossibly bronze smiths

10 And Ioudas said, "The strength of the enemies was crushed. And there is much rubbish, and we will not be able to build on the wall." ¹¹And those who were afflicting us said, "They will not know and will not see until we come into their midst and kill them and stop the work." ¹²And it happened, when the Judeans who lived next to them came, and they said to us, "They are coming up against us from all the places." ¹³And I stationed some into the lowest parts of the space behind the wall, in covered places, and I stationed the people according to divisions, their spears and their bows, with their swords. ¹⁴And I looked and stood up and said to the distinguished and to the generals and to the rest of the people, "Do not be afraid from before them. Remember our great and awesome God, and get ready to fight for your brothers, your sons and your daughters and your wives and your homes."

15 And it happened, when our enemies heard that it was known to us and that God had scattered their council, and we all returned to the wall, a man to his work. ¹⁶And it happened from that day on, half of the outcasts were doing the work and half were standing in defense, and there were spears and oblong shields and the bows and body-armor and the rulers behind every house of Iouda ¹⁷belonging to those who were building on the wall. And as for those who were lifting with lifters with weapons—with one hand he was doing his work and with one he was grasping the javelin. ¹⁸And as for the builders—a man with his sword strapped on his lower back—and they kept building, and the one who trumpeted with the horn was beside him. ¹⁹And I said to the distinguished and to the rulers and to the remainders of the people, "The work is wide-spread and great, and we are far scattered, a man from his brother, on the wall. ²⁰In whatever place you hear the sound of the horn there, you shall gather to us, and our God will fight for us."

21 And we were doing the work, and half of them were holding the spears from the rising of the dawn until the coming out of the stars. ²²And I said to the people at that time, "Each of you with his young man, pass the night inside Ierousalem, and let the night be an advance guard for you and the day work." ²³And I and the men of the advanced guard behind me were there, and there was not a man of us taking off his clothes.

15 ^(5.1)And there was a great outcry of the people and their wives against their Judean brothers. ²And there were some, saying, "With our sons and our daughters, we are many, and we will get grain and eat and stay alive." ³And there are some, saying, "As for our fields and our vineyards and our homes—we are mortgaging them, and we will get grain and eat." ⁴There are some, saying, "As for our fields and our vineyards and our homes—

we borrowed money for the king's tributes. ⁵And now our flesh is like the flesh of our brothers; our sons like their sons, and behold we are oppressing our sons and daughters, making them slaves, and some of our daughters are being oppressed, and there is no power in our hands, and our fields and our vineyards belong to the distinguished."

6 And I was very distressed as I heard their outcry and these words. ⁷And my heart deliberated with me, and I quarreled with the distinguished and the rulers and said to them, "Will a man demand back of his brother? You are demanding back." And I held a great assembly for them. ⁸And I said to them, "We, of our own free-will, have acquired our Judean brothers who were being sold to the nations. And you, are you selling your own brothers, and they shall be handed over to us?" And they were silent and could not find a word. ⁹And I said, "The matter that you are doing is not good. Not thus! You shall depart in the fear of our God, from the reproach of the nations our enemies. ¹⁰And my brothers and my acquaintances and I put up our own money and grain. We certainly abandoned this demanding back. ¹¹Return now to them, this very day, their fields and their vineyards and their olive orchards and their homes. And bring out for yourselves the grain and wine and olive-oil from^a the money." ¹²And they said, "We will give these back and not seek these from them. We will do just as you say." And I called the priests and made them swear to do like this word. ¹³And I shook out the fold of my garment and said, "So may God shake out every man from his house and from his property who does not establish this word, and thus they will be shaken out and emptied." And all the assembly said, "Amen," and praised the Lord, and the people did this word.

14 From the day that he commanded me to be their ruler in the land of Iouda, from the twentieth year even to the thirty-second year of Arthasastha, twelve years, I and my brothers did not eat an exaction from them. ¹⁵And as for the first exactions, with which they burdened them before me, they also took the last money from them for food and wine, forty didrachmas. And their outcasts exercise authority over the people, and I did not do so, from before fear of God. ¹⁶And I did not take control over them by the work on the wall, and I did not acquire a field, and all who were gathered were there for the work. ¹⁷And the Judeans, one hundred fifty men, and those who came to us from the nations around us, were at my table. ¹⁸And what was prepared for one day was one bull calf, and they were preparing six choice sheep and a goat for me and among ten days wine in abundance with everything, and I did not seek the food of exaction with them, because the service was heavy on this people. ¹⁹Remember me, O God, for good, all that I have done for this people.

16 ^(6.1)And it happened, when it was heard to Sanaballat and Tobias and to Gesam the Arabi and to the rest of our enemies that I had built the wall, and there was no breath left in them. Up to that time I had not set up the doors in the gates. ²And Sanaballat and Gesam sent to me, saying, "Come, and let us meet together in the villages in the plain of Ono." And they were intending to do me harm. ³And I sent messengers to them, saying, "I am doing a great work, and I will not be able to come down, lest the work stop. Whenever I finish it, I will come down to you." ⁴And they sent to me like this word, and I sent to them in the same manner. ⁵And Sanaballat sent his servant to me and an open letter in his hand. ⁶And in it was written, "It was heard among the nations that you and the Judeans intend to rebel, which is why you are building the wall, and you are becoming their king. ⁷And besides these, you have set up prophets for yourself so that you might sit in Ierousalem as king in Iouda. And now these words will be reported to the king. And now come, let us confer together." ⁸And I sent to him, saying, "It did not happen like these words that you say, because you are inventing them out of your own heart." ⁹Because they all were trying to frighten us, saying, "Their hands will slacken from this work, and it will not be done." But now I strengthened my hands.

^aPossibly by means of

¹⁰ And I went into the house of Semei son of Dalaia son of Metabeel, and he was confined. And he said, "Let us gather together at the house of God, in the midst of it, and let us close its doors, because they are coming by night to kill you." ¹¹And I said, "Should a man like me run away? Or, what kind of man would enter the house and live?" ¹²And I perceived, and behold, God had not sent him, because the prophecy was a message against me, and Tobias and Sanaballat had hired ¹³a crowd against me, so I might become afraid and do so and sin and become a bad name for them so they could taunt me. ¹⁴Remember, O God, against Tobias and against Sanaballat as these acts of his and against the prophet Noadia and against the rest of the prophets who were trying to make me afraid.

¹⁵ And the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth of the month Eloul, in fifty-two days. ¹⁶And it happened, when all our enemies heard, and all the nations around us were afraid, and fear fell severely on their eyes, and they knew that this work came to be completed with the help of our God. ¹⁷And in those days letters were going from many of Iouda's distinguished to Tobias, and those of Tobias were coming to them, ¹⁸because many in Iouda were bound by oath to him, because he was the son-in-law of Sechenia son of Erae, and his son Jonathan had taken the daughter of Mesoulam son of Barachia as wife. ¹⁹And they were telling me his words and were conveying my words to him, and Tobias sent letters to intimidate me.

17 ^(7.1)And it happened, when the wall was built, and I set up the doors, and the gatekeepers and the singers and the Leuites were reviewed. ²And I commanded my brother Hanania and Hanania, ruler of the bira^a in Ierousalem, because he was like a truthful man and feared God more than many, ³and I said to them, "The gates of Ierousalem will not be opened until ^bat the same as the sun^b, and while they are still keeping watch, let the doors be shut and barred. And appoint advance guards from those living in Ierousalem, a man at his watch and a man opposite his home." ⁴And the city was wide and large, and the people in it were few, and no homes had been built.

⁵ And God gave it into my heart, and I assembled the distinguished and the rulers and the people into a company. And I found the book of the company—those who came up at first, and I found written in it:

⁶ And these are sons of the country who went up from the captivity of the exile which Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, had exiled, and they returned to Ierousalem and to Iouda, a man to his city, ⁷with Zorobabel and Iesous, and Neemias, Azaria, Reelma, Naemani, Mardochaios, Balsan, Maaspharath, Esdras, Bagouiai, Naoum, Baana, Masphar, men of the people of Israel: ⁸Sons of Phoros, two thousand one hundred seventy-two. ⁹Sons of Saphatia, three hundred seventy-two. ¹⁰Sons of Era, six hundred fifty-two. ¹¹Sons of Phaathmoab, in reference to the sons of Iesous and Ioab, two thousand eight hundred eighteen. ¹²Sons of Ailam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four. ¹³Sons of Zaththouia, eight hundred forty-five. ¹⁴Sons of Zakchou, seven hundred sixty. ¹⁵Sons of Banoui, six hundred forty-eight. ¹⁶Sons of Bebei, six hundred twenty-eight. ¹⁷Sons of Azgad, two thousand three hundred twenty-two. ¹⁸Sons of Adonikam, six hundred sixty-seven. ¹⁹Sons of Bagoui, two thousand sixty-seven. ²⁰Sons of Edin, six hundred fifty-four. ²¹Sons of Ater, in reference to Hezekias, ninety-eight. ²²Sons of Hesami, three hundred twenty-eight. ²³Sons of Basi, three hundred twenty-four. ²⁴Sons of Hariph, one hundred twelve. Sons of Hasen, two hundred twenty-three. ²⁵Sons of Gabaon, ninety-five. ²⁶Sons of Baithleem, one hundred twenty three. Sons of Netopha, fifty six. ²⁷Sons of Anathoth, one hundred twenty-eight. ²⁸Men of Beth, forty-two. ²⁹Men of Kariathiarim, Chaphira and Beroth, seven hundred forty-three. ³⁰Men of Harama and Gabaa, six hundred twenty-one. ³¹Men of Machmas, one hundred twenty-two. ³²Men of Baithel and Ai, one hundred twenty-three. ³³Men of Nabiar, fifty-two. Sons of Magebos, one hundred fifty-six. ³⁴Men of Elamaar, one thousand two hundred fifty-four. ³⁵Sons of Heram, three hundred twenty. ³⁶Sons of Iericho, three hundred forty-five. ³⁷Sons of Lod, Hadid and Ono, seven hundred twenty-one. ³⁸Sons of Sanana, three thousand nine hundred thirty.

³⁹ The priests: sons of Iodae, for the house of Iesous, nine hundred seventy-three. ⁴⁰Sons of Emmer, one thousand fifty-two. ⁴¹Sons of Phaseour,

^aHeb = citadel ^bI.e. the hottest time of the day

one thousand two hundred forty-seven. ⁴²Sons of Heram, one thousand seventeen.

⁴³The Leuites: sons of Iesous, in reference to Kadmiel, in reference to the sons of Houdouia, seventy-four. ⁴⁴The singers: sons of Asaph, one hundred forty-eight. ⁴⁵The gatekeepers: sons of Selloum, sons of Ater, sons of Tolmon, sons of Akoub, sons of Hatita, sons of Sabi, one hundred thirty-eight.

⁴⁶The nathinim^a: sons of Siaa, sons of Hasipha, sons of Tabbaoth, ⁴⁷sons of Kiras, sons of Siaia, sons of Phadon, ⁴⁸sons of Labana, sons of Hangaba, sons of Akoud, sons of Outa, sons of Ketar, sons of Hagab, sons of Selmei, ⁴⁹sons of Hanan, sons of Sadel, sons of Gaar, ⁵⁰sons of Raaia, sons of Rason, sons of Nekoda, ⁵¹sons of Gezam, sons of Ozi, sons of Phese, ⁵²sons of Besi, sons of Meinom, sons of Nephosasim, ⁵³sons of Bakkbouk, sons of Hachipha, sons of Harour, ⁵⁴sons of Basaloth, sons of Meida, sons of Hadasan, ⁵⁵sons of Barkous, sons of Sisarath, sons of Thema, ⁵⁶sons of Nisia, sons of Hatipha.

⁵⁷Sons of Salomon's slaves: sons of Soutei, sons of Sapharath, sons of Pherida, ⁵⁸sons of leale, sons of Dorkon, sons of Gaddel, ⁵⁹sons of Saphatia, sons of Hettel, sons of Phacharath, sons of Sabaim, sons of Emim.

⁶⁰All the nathinim^a and sons of Salomon's slaves, three hundred ninety-two.

⁶¹And these went up from Thermelech, Thelaresa, Cheroub, Eron, Iemmer, and they could not declare their paternal houses and their seed, whether they were from Israel: ⁶²sons of Dalaia, sons of Boua, sons of Tobia, sons of Nekoda, six hundred forty-two. ⁶³And from the priests: sons of Hebia, sons of Hakkos, sons of Berzellai (because they had taken of the daughters of Berzellai the Galaadite as wives and were called by their name). ⁶⁴These sought their registration of the company, and it was not found, and they were made near kin from the priesthood, ⁶⁵and Hathersatha spoke so that they would not eat from the holy of holies until the priest should arise to enlighten.

⁶⁶And all the assembly was as one, forty-two thousand three hundred sixty, ⁶⁷apart from their male and female slaves—these were seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven and two hundred forty-five male singers and female singers—⁶⁸seven hundred thirty-six horses, two hundred forty-five mules, ⁶⁹four hundred thirty-five camels, six thousand seven hundred twenty donkeys.

⁷⁰And some of a portion of the leaders of paternal families contributed to the work of Hathersatha, they contributed to the treasury one thousand gold coins, fifty saucers and thirty chothonoth^b of the priests. ⁷¹And some of the leaders of paternal families gave to the building fund twenty thousand gold coins and two thousand two hundred minas^c of silver, ⁷²and the rest of the people gave twenty thousand gold coins, two thousand two hundred minas^c of silver and sixty-seven chothonoth^b of the priests.

⁷³And the priests and the Leuites and the gatekeepers and the singers and those from the people and the nathinim^a and all Israel settled in their cities.

18 ^(8.1)And the seventh month came, and the sons of Israel were in their cities, and all the people gathered together as one man into the square that is before the gate of the water, and they told Esdras the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moyses, which the Lord had commanded Israel. ²And Esdras the priest brought the law before the assembly, from man to woman and every person who understands, to listen on the first day of the seventh month, ³and he read in it from the hour the sun dawned until half the day, opposite the men and the women, and they were understanding, and the ears of all the people were unto the book of the law. ⁴And Esdras the scribe stood on a wooden platform, and beside him stood Matathias and Samaias and Hananias and Ouria and Helkia and Maasia on his right hand, and Phadaias and Misael and Melchias and Hosam and Hasabdama and Zacharias and Mesoulam on the left hand. ⁵And Esdras opened the book before all the people, because he was above the people, and it happened, when he opened it, all the people stood. ⁶And Esdras blessed the Lord, the great God, and all the people answered and said, "Amen," lifting up their hands, and they bowed and did obeisance to the Lord with their face to the ground. ⁷And Iesous and Banaias and Arabia were instructing; Akoub, Sabbathaios, Kallitas, Azarias, Iozabad, Hanani, Phalaia and the Leuites tutored the people in the law, and the people kept their stance. ⁸And they read from the book of the law of God, and Esdras was teaching and expanding on the knowledge of the Lord, and the people understood during the reading.

⁹And Neemias said, and Esdras the priest and scribe and the Leuites and those who were instructing the people, and they said to all the people, "A holy day it is to the Lord our God; do not mourn, and do not weep." Because all the people were weeping when they heard the words of the law. ¹⁰And he said to them, "Go, eat fat, and drink sweet wine, and send portions to those who do not have, because the day is holy to our Lord, and do not err, because he is our strength." ¹¹And the Leuites tried to still all the people, saying, "Be quiet, because the day is holy, and do not be downcast." ¹²And all the people went away to eat and to drink and to send portions and to make great rejoicing, because they had understood by the words that were made known to them.

¹³And on the second day the chiefs of paternal families of all the people, the priests and the Leuites, gathered together to Esdras the scribe, to give their attention to all the words of the law. ¹⁴And they found it written in the law, which the Lord had commanded Moyses, that sons of Israel should live in tents during a feast of the seventh

^aHeb = temple servants ^bHeb = robes ^cone mina = 100 drachmas

month¹⁵ and that they should sound with trumpets in all their cities and in Ierousalem. And Esdras said, "Go out to the mountain and bring foliage of olive trees and foliage of cypress wood and foliage of myrtle and foliage of palm and foliage of the leafy tree to make tents, in accord with what is written."¹⁶ And the people went out and brought them and made tents for themselves, a man on his housetop, and in their courts and in the courts of the house of God and in the squares of the city and as far as the house of Ephraim.¹⁷ And all the assembly, those who had returned from the captivity, made tents and lived in tents, because from the days of Iesous son of Naeue to that day sons of Israel had not done so. And there was very great rejoicing.¹⁸ And day by day, from the first day to the last day, he read from the book of the law of God, and they kept the feast seven days, and on the eighth day there was a finale, according to the judgment.

19^(9.1) And on the twenty-fourth of this month the sons of Israel gathered with fasting and in sackcloth and with ashes on their head.² And the sons of Israel were separated from every foreign son, and they stood and declared their sins and the acts of lawlessness of their fathers.³ And they kept their stance and read in the book of the law of the Lord, their God, and they were declaring to the Lord and doing obeisance to the Lord, their God.⁴ And Iesous and the sons of Kadmiel, Sechenia the son of Sarabia, sons of Chanani, stood at the ascent of the Leuites and cried out with a loud voice to the Lord their God.⁵ And the Leuites, Iesous and Kadmiel, said, "Stand up. Bless the Lord, our God, from everlasting and to everlasting, and they will bless your glorious name and exalt it with every blessing and praise."

⁶ And Esdras said: "You yourself are the Lord alone; you made heaven and the heaven of heaven and all their position, the earth and all that is on it, the seas and all that is in them, and you give everything life, and the armies of the heavens do obeisance to you.⁷ You are the Lord God. You made a choice in Abram and brought him out of the country of the Chaldeans and made for him a name, Abraam,⁸ and you found his heart faithful before you and made a covenant with him to give him and his seed the land of the Chananites and Chettites and Amorrites and Pherezites and Iebousites and Gergesites, and you have established your word, because you are righteous.

⁹ "And you saw the humiliation of our ancestors in Egypt and heard their cry at the Red Sea.¹⁰ And you gave signs in Egypt against Pharao and against all his servants and against all the people of his land, because you knew that they acted insolently against them, and you made a name for yourself, as this day.¹¹ And you broke asunder the sea before them, and they passed through in the midst of the sea on dry land, and those who pursued them closely you threw into the depths, like a stone in violent water.¹² And by day you led them with a pillar of cloud, and during the night with a pillar of fire, to give them light on the way in which they should go in it.¹³ And you came down upon Mount Sina and spoke to them from heaven and gave them straightforward judgments and laws of truth and ordinances and good commandments.¹⁴ And you made known your holy sabbath to them; you commanded them commandments and ordinances and law by the hand of your slave Moyses.¹⁵ And you gave them bread from heaven in their famine, and you brought water for them out of the rock for their thirst. And you told them to go in to possess the land to which you stretched out your hand to give them.

¹⁶ "And they and our fathers behaved arrogantly and stiffened their neck and did not listen to your commandments,¹⁷ and they refused to obey and were not mindful of your wonders that you performed with them, and they stiffened their neck, and they gave^a a beginning to return to their slavery in Egypt. And you are the God who forgives sins, is gracious and merciful, slow to anger and very gracious, and you did not forsake them.¹⁸ Furthermore, they made a cast-metal bull calf for themselves and said, 'These are the gods who brought us up out of Egypt' and committed great provocations.¹⁹ And you in your great mercies did not forsake them in the wilderness; you did not turn away from them the pillar of cloud for leading them on the way by day and the pillar of fire to lighten for them the way in which they should go in it during the night.²⁰ And you gave your good spirit to instruct them and did not withhold your manna from their mouth and gave them water in their thirst.²¹ And forty years you sustained them in the wilderness; there was no lack of anything for them; their clothes did not grow old, and their sandals did not tear.²² And you gave them kingdoms and allotted them peoples, and they took possession of the land of Seon, king of Hesebon, and the land of Og, king of Basan.²³ And you multiplied their sons like the stars of heaven and brought them into the land about which you told their fathers, and they possessed it.²⁴ And you wiped out before them the inhabitants of the land of the Chananites and gave them and their kings and the peoples of the land into their hands, to do with them as was pleasing before them.²⁵ And they captured lofty cities and took possession of homes filled with all sorts of goods, hewn cisterns, vineyards and olive orchards and every sort of fruit tree in abundance, and they ate and were filled and became fat and were nourished on your great goodness.

²⁶ "And they changed and departed from you and cast your law behind their body and killed your prophets, who had warned them to turn them back to you, and they committed great provocations.²⁷ And you gave them into the hand of their oppressors, and they oppressed them. And they cried out to you in their time of oppression, and you heard from your heaven, and through your great mercies you gave them deliverers and delivered them from the hand of their oppressors. ²⁸And after they rested, they returned to doing what is evil before you, and you abandoned them to the hands of their enemies, and they ruled among them. And again they cried to you, and you listened from heaven and rescued them by your many mercies. ²⁹And you repeatedly warned them in order to turn them to your law, and they did not listen but sinned against your commandments and judgments by the doing of which a person shall live by them. And they presented a disobedient back and stiffened their neck and did not listen. ³⁰And many years you lasted with them and repeatedly warned them by your spirit by the hand of your prophets, and they did not give ear, and you gave them into the hand of the peoples of the land. ³¹And in your many mercies you did not make an end of them and forsake them, because you are strong and merciful and compassionate.

³² "And now, our strong, great, mighty and awesome God, in keeping the covenant and your mercy, let all the hardship not be treated lightly before you, which found us and our kings and our rulers and our priests and our prophets and our fathers and among all your people from the days of the kings of Assour even until this day. ³³And you are just in all that has come upon us, for you have dealt truthfully, and we did wrong. ³⁴And our kings and our rulers and our priests and our fathers did not practice your law and did not heed your commandments or your testimonies about which you repeatedly warned them. ³⁵And even they—in your rule and in your great goodness that you bestowed on them and in the broad and rich land that you set before them—were not subject to you and did not turn from their wicked habits. ³⁶Behold, we are slaves today, and the land that you gave to our fathers to eat its fruit ³⁷belongs to the kings whom you gave over us because of our sins, and they have power over our bodies and over our animals as seems best to them, and we are in great affliction."

³⁸ And by all these things we are setting forth a pledge of faith and are writing it down, and all our rulers, our Leuites, our priests are sealing it.

20 ^(10.1)And over those affixing seals were Neemias son of Hachalia and Sedekias ²son of Saraia and Azaria and Ieremia, ³Phasour, Amaria, Melchia, ⁴Hattous, Sebani, Malouch, ⁵Hiram, Meramoth, Abdia, ⁶Daniel, Gaannathon, Brouch, ⁷Mesoulam, Abia, Miamin, ⁸Maazia, Belgai, Samaia—these are priests. ⁹And the Leuites were Iesus son of Azania, Banaïou of Banaïou's sons of Henadad's sons, Kadmiel ¹⁰and his brothers, Sabania, Hodouia, Kalitan, Phleleia, Hanan, ¹¹Micha, Roob, Hesebias, ¹²Zakchor, Sarabia, Sebania, ¹³Hodoua, sons of Banounai. ¹⁴The rulers of the people were Phoros, Phaathmoab, Elam, Zaththouia. The sons of Bani were ¹⁵Azgad, Bebai, ¹⁶Adania, Bagoi, Edin, ¹⁷Ater, Hezekia, Azour, ¹⁸Hodouia, Hesam, Besi, ¹⁹Hariph, Anathoth, Nobai, ²⁰Magaphes, Mesoulam, Hezir, ²¹Mesozebel, Sadouk, Ieddoua, ²²Phaltia, Hanan, Anaia, ²³Hosee, Hanania, Hasoub, ²⁴Haloës, Phalai, Sobek, ²⁵Raoum, Hesabana, Maasaia ²⁶and Aia, Hainan, Enan, ²⁷Malouch, Reoum and Baana.

²⁸ And the rest of the people, the priests, the Leuites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the nathinim^a and every one who adheres to the law of God from the people of the land, their wives, their sons, their daughters, every one who knows and understands, ²⁹were prevailing against their brothers, and they cursed them and entered into a curse and an oath to go in God's law, which was given by the hand of Moyses the slave of God, to observe and to do all the commandments of the Lord and his judgments, ³⁰and in order not to give our daughters to the peoples of the land. And we will not take their daughters for our sons. ³¹And the peoples of the land who bring in merchandise and any sale on the sabbath day to sell, we will not buy from them on the sabbath and on a holy day. And we will release the seventh year and a claim of every hand.

³² And we will lay on ourselves the commandments to charge ourselves yearly one-third of a didrachma^b for the service of the house of our God ³³for the loaves of the presence and the sacrifice of perpetuity and for the whole burnt offering of perpetuity of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the feasts and for the sacred things and the items for sin to make atonement for Israel and for the projects of the house of our God. ³⁴And we, the priests and the Leuites and the people, have cast lots for the assignment of carrying wood, to bring it for the house of our God, for the houses of our paternal families, for seasons of the times, year by year, to burn on the altar of the Lord our God, as it is written in the law, ³⁵and to bring the first products of our land and the first products of the fruit of every tree, year by year, to the house of the Lord, ³⁶and to the house of our God for the priests who minister in the house of our God, the firstborn of our sons and of our livestock, as it is written in the law, and the firstborn of our cattle and of our flocks.

³⁷ We will bring the first fruit of our grain and the fruit of every tree, wine and oil, for the priests, to the treasure chamber of the house of God, and the tithes of our soil for the Leuites. And the Leuites themselves are collecting the tithes in all the cities of our service, ³⁸and the priest, the son of Aaron, shall be with the Leuite in the tithe of the Leuite, and the Leuites shall bring up the tithe of the tithe to the house of our God, to the treasure chambers at the house of God. ³⁹Because the sons of Israel and the sons of Leui shall bring into the storerooms the first fruits of the grain and wine and the oil, and the holy vessels and the priests that minister and the gatekeepers and the singers are there. And we will not neglect the house of our God.

^aHeb = temple servants ^bI.e. two-drachma coin

21 ^(11.1)And the rulers of the people lived in Ierousalem, and the rest of the people cast lots to bring one out of ten to live in Ierousalem, the holy city, and nine-tenths remained in the other cities. ²And the people blessed all the men who willingly offered to live in Ierousalem.

³ And these are the rulers of the province who lived in Ierousalem and in the cities of Iouda: they lived, a man on his holding, in their cities: Israel, the priests and the Leuites and the nathineans^a and sons of Salomon's slaves. ⁴And in Ierousalem lived some of the sons of Iouda and some of the sons of Benjamin. Of Iouda's sons: Athaia son of Ozia—he being a son of Zacharia—he being a son of Amaria—he being a son of Saphatia—he being a son of Maleleel, and some sons of Phares. ⁵And Maasia son of Barouch—he being son of Chalaza—he being son of Ozia—he being son of Adaias—he being son of Ioarib—he being son of Zacharias—he being a son of the Seloni. ⁶All the sons of Phares, who lived in Ierousalem, were four hundred sixty-eight men of power.

⁷ And these are sons of Benjamin: Selo son of Mesoulam—he being a son of Ioad—he being a son of Phadaia—he being a son of Koleia—he being a son of Maasias—he being a son of Aithiel—he being a son of Iessia. ⁸And after him Gebi, Seli, nine hundred twenty-eight. ⁹And Joel son of Zechri was overseer over them, and Ioudas son of Hasana from the city was second.

¹⁰ From the priests: also Iadia son of Ioarim, Iachin, ¹¹Saraia son of Helkia—he being a son of Mesoulam—he being a son of Saddouk—he being a son of Marioth—he being a son of Aitob, opposite the house of God. ¹²And their brothers who did the work of the house: Amasi son of Zacharia—he being a son of Phaseour—he being a son of Melchia, ¹³and his brothers, chiefs of paternal families, two hundred forty-two. And Amessai son of Esdriel ¹⁴and his brothers, powerful in battle, one hundred twenty-eight, and the overseer over them was Zechriel son of the great men.

¹⁵ And from the Leuites: Samaia son of Hasoub—he being a son of Ezri ¹⁷and Maththanas son of Micha and Iobeb son of Samoui, ¹⁸two hundred eighty-four.

¹⁹ And the gatekeepers, Akoub, Telamin and their brothers were one hundred seventy-two.

²² And the overseer of the Leuites was son of Bani, Ozi son of Hasabia—he being son of Micha, from the sons of Asaph, who sing opposite the work of the house of God, ²³because there was a command of the king for them. ²⁴And Phathaia son of Baseza was at ^bthe king's hand for every ^cword for ^cthe people^b ²⁵and went to the country villages, in their field.

And some of the sons of Iouda lived in Kariatharbok ²⁶and in Iesou ²⁷and in Bersabee, ³⁰and their country villages were Lacheis and its fields, and they camped in Bersabee. ³¹And sons of Benjamin were from Gabaa, Machmas. ³⁶And from the Leuites were divisions of Iouda for Benjamin.

22 ^(12.1)And these are the priests and the Leuites who went up with Zorobabel son of Salathiel and Iesous: Saraia, Iermia, Esdra, ²Amaria, Malouch, ³Sechenia. ⁷These were the rulers of the priests and their brothers in the days of Iesous.

⁸ And the Leuites: Iesou, Banoui, Kadmiel, Sarabia, Iodae, Maththania. He was over^d the hands, and their brothers were in the daily divisions. ¹⁰And Iesous begat Ioakim, and Ioakim begat Eliasib, and Eliasib, Iodae, ¹¹and Iodae begat Ionathan and Ionathan begat Iadou.

¹² And in the days of Ioakim, his brothers, the priests and chiefs of paternal families were: for Saraia, Amaria; for Iermia, Hanania; ¹³for Esdra, Mesoulam; for Amaria, Ioanan; ¹⁴for Amalouch, Ionathan; for Sechenia, Ioseph; ¹⁵for Harem, Hannas; for Marioth, Helkai; ¹⁶for Addai, Zacharias; for Ganathoth, Mesoulam; ¹⁷for Abia, Zechri; for Benjamin, in the times of Peleti; ¹⁸for Balga, Samoue; for Semeias, Ionathan; ¹⁹for Iarim, Maththania; for Idia, Ozi; ²⁰for Salai, Kallai; for Amek, Abed; ²¹for Helkia, Hasabias; for Iedeiou, Nathanael.

²² The Leuites, in the days of Eliasib, Ioad and Ioa and Ioanan and Idoua, were recorded as the chiefs of paternal families and priests in the reign of Darius the Persian: ²³sons of Leui were chiefs of paternal families, having been recorded in the book of the words of the days, even until the days of Ionan son of Elisoue. ²⁴And the rulers of the Leuites, Hasabia and Sarabia and Iesou and sons of Kadmiel, and their brothers were over against them, to sing hymns and to praise, by the commandment of Daud the man of God, class with class, ²⁵when I gathered the gate-keepers ²⁶in the days of Ioakim son of Iesous son of Iosedek and in the days of Neemias. And Esdras was the priest and the scribe.

²⁷ And at the rededications of the wall of Ierousalem they sought the Leuites in their places, to bring them to Ierousalem, to celebrate the rededications and the merriment with thodathae and with odes, while playing the cymbal and harps and cinyras^f. ²⁸And the sons of the singers and some from the region that circles around Ierousalem and some from villages ²⁹and some from the fields gathered, because the singers in Ierousalem built the villages for themselves. ³⁰And the priests and the Leuites were purified, and they purified the people, the gatekeepers and the wall.

³¹ And they brought the rulers of Iouda up onto the wall and appointed two great ones^g concerning praise and went through to the right on the wall of dung, ³²and after them went Hosaia and half the rulers of Iouda ³³and Azarias, Esdra and Mesoulam, ³⁴Iouda and Benjamin and Samaias and Ieremia ³⁵and some of the sons of priests with trumpets: Zacharias son of Ionathan—being a son of Samaia—being a son of Maththania—being a son of Michaia—being a son of Zakchour—being a son of Asaph, ³⁶and his brothers were Samaia and Oziel, Gelolia, Maaia, Nathanael and Ioudas, Hanani, so that they might sing with the songs of Daudid the man of God, and Esdras the scribe was in front of them ³⁷at the gate of Ain, opposite them, and they went up to the stairs of the city of Daudid, in the ascent of the wall above the house of Daudid and as far as the gate of water in the east.

^aHeb = temple servants ^bOr the service of the king for every word concerning the people ^cOr pronouncement to ^di.e. in charge of ^eHeb = thanksgivings ^f = Heb kinnor = lyre ^gPossibly companies; Gk = masc.

38 And concerning praise, the second one^a meeting them went out, and I followed it, and half of the people were on the wall above the tower of the Thennorim even as far as the broad wall ³⁹and above the gate of Ephraim and to the Eisiana gate and to the fish gate and at the tower of Hanameel and from the tower of Mea, even as far as the sheep gate, and they stood in the gate of the guard. ⁴⁰And the two^b of praise stood in the house of God, and I and half of the generals with me ⁴¹and the priests Eliakim, Maasias, Benjamin, Michaias, Elionai, Zacharias, Hananias ⁴²and Semeias and Eleazar and Ozias and Ioanna and Melchias and Ailam and Ezour and the singers were heard and reviewed. ⁴³And they offered great sacrifices on that day and rejoiced, because God made them rejoice greatly, and their wives and their children rejoiced, and the joy in Ierousalem was heard from far away. ⁴⁴And on that day they appointed men over the treasure chambers for stores, for the first fruits and for the tithes and for the things collected in them for the rulers of the cities, portions for the priests and for the Leuites, because there was joy in Iouda both over the priests and over the Leuites that stood^c. ⁴⁵And they guarded the guard stations of the house of their God and the guard stations for purification and the singers and the gatekeepers, according to the commandments of Daudid and his son Salomon. ⁴⁶Because in the days of Daudid, Asaph from the beginning was the first of those that sing both hymn and praise to God, ⁴⁷and in the days of Zorobabel all Israel was giving portions for the singers and the gatekeepers, the rule of a day for its day, and were sanctifying for the Leuites, and the Leuites were sanctifying for sons of Aaron.

23 ^(13.1) On that day there was read from the book of Moyses in the hearing of the people, and there was found written in it that Ammanites and Moabites should not enter in the assembly of God forever, ²because they did not meet the sons of Israel with bread and with water and hired Balaam against him^d to curse him^d, and our God turned the curse into a blessing. ³And it happened, when the people heard the law, and every person of mixed race in Israel was separated.

4 And before this, Eliasib the priest, while living in the treasure chamber of the house of our God, being next of kin to Tobias, ⁵also prepared for him^e a large treasure chamber, and there they had previously put the manaa^f and the frankincense and the vessels and the tithe of grain and of the wine and of the oil (a commandment of the Leuites and of the singers and of the gatekeepers) and the first fruits of the priests. ⁶And in all this I was not in Ierousalem, because in the thirty-second year of Arthasastha, king of Babylon, I went to the king. And after the end of the days, I made a request from the king ⁷and went to Ierousalem. And I gained understanding in the wrong that Eliasib had done for Tobias, to prepare a treasure chamber for him in the court of the house of God. ⁸And it seemed very bad to me, and I threw all the vessels of the house of Tobias out from the treasure chamber. ⁹And I spoke, and they cleansed the treasure chambers, and I brought back there the vessels of the house of God, the manaa^f and the frankincense.

10 And I knew that the portions of the Leuites had not been given, and the Leuites and the singers, who were doing their task, had fled, a man to his field. ¹¹And I remonstrated with the generals and said, "Why was the house of God forsaken?" And I gathered them together and set them in their station. ¹²And all Iouda brought the tithe of the wheat and the wine and the oil into the storehouses ¹³upon the hand of Selemia the priest and Sadok the scribe and Phadaia from the Leuites, and upon their hand was Hanan son of Zakchour—he being son of Maththaniou, because they were considered faithful to them to distribute to their brothers. ¹⁴Remember me, O God, in this, and let not the mercy I did in the house of the Lord God be wiped out.

15 In those days I saw in Iouda people treading wine presses on the sabbath and bringing in sheaves of grain and loading them on donkeys and also bringing into Ierousalem on the sabbath day wine and grapes and figs and all kinds of burdens, and I warned them on their day of sale. ¹⁶And they settled in it^h, bringing fish and selling all kinds of merchandise on the sabbath to the sons of Iouda, and in Ierousalem. ¹⁷And I remonstrated with the free sons of Iouda and said to them, "What is this evil matter that you are doing and profaning the sabbath day? ¹⁸Did not our fathers act in this way? And our God brought all these terrible things upon them and upon us and upon this city. And you are adding wrath to Israel to profane the sabbath."

19 And it happened, when the gates in Ierousalem settled down before the sabbath, and I spoke, and they shut the gates, and I spoke so that they would not be opened until after the sabbath. And I set some of my servants over the gates so that people would not carry burdens on the sabbath day. ²⁰And they all spent the night and made sales outside Ierousalem once and twice. ²¹And I warned them and said to them, "Why do you spend the night in front of the wall? If you do so again, I will extend my hand against you." From that time on they did not come on the sabbath. ²²And I told the Leuites who were purifying themselves and were coming, guarding the gates, to keep the sabbath day holy. Remember me for these things, O God, and spare me according to the fullness of your mercy.

^aPossibly company; Gk = fem ^bPossibly companies; Gk = fem ^cPossibly were appointed ^dI.e. Israel ^eI.e. Tobias ^fHeb = grain offering ^gAntecedent unclear ^hI.e. Ierousalem

23 And in those days I saw Judeans who had ^aset up^a women of Azotia, Ammanites, Moabites ²⁴(and half of their sons speak Azotian and do not know how to speak Judean), ²⁵and I contended with them and cursed them and beat the men among them and pulled out their hair, and I made them take an oath by God: "If you give your daughters to their sons and if you take some of their daughters for your sons!" ²⁶Did not Salomon, king of Israel, sin in this way? And among many nations there was no king like him. And he was beloved to God, and God gave him as king over all Israel. And foreign women ruined this man. ²⁷And shall we listen to you to do all this evil to be faithless with our God to ^aset up^a foreign women?"

28 And one of the sons of Ioada the son of Elisoub, the great priest—he was the son-in-law of Sanaballat the Horanite—and I chased him away from me. ²⁹Remember them, O God, because of their close kinship to the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and the Leuites.

30 And I cleansed them from everything foreign, and I established classes for the priests and Leuites, a man according to his task, ³¹and the gift of the wood carriers, in seasons of the times and in the bakchouria^b. Remember me, O our God, for goodness.

^a*e. married* ^b*Heb = firstlings*

ESTHER

TO THE READER

EDITION OF GREEK TEXT

The NETS version of Esther is based on the full critical edition prepared by Robert Hanhart (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum VIII.3: Esther [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1966]).

THE TWO GREEK VERSIONS

Esther is one of three books in the Hebrew canon to have survived in two distinct Greek versions. The Göttingen critical edition of Esther prints both Greek texts. The “Septuagint” (Old Greek = OG) version is printed on the top half of the page with the siglum σ . The second Greek version is known as the Alpha-text (AT) and is printed on the bottom of the page with the siglum L, because at the time of its printing, this Greek version was thought to be Lucianic. It is not known with certainty which of the two Greek versions is the older or if one text is a revision of the other. Recent scholarship has challenged the traditional view that the σ text of Esther was the first Greek translation made of the Hebrew and that the AT was a later revision of it. The σ text carries a colophon, which, if historically reliable, would allow for three possible dates for the origin of the translation: 114/13 BCE, 78/77 BCE, or 48 BCE. Scholars disagree on which is most likely. Both Greek versions have been translated for NETS. The NRSV translates the σ text into English with the title “Esther: The Greek Version Containing the Additional Chapters” and includes it within the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books.

Both the σ text and the AT contain six additional chapters that are found only in the Greek textual tradition. These six additional chapters are almost identical in both Greek versions of Esther, indicating that they were not a part of the original Greek text of either, but were inserted later into both versions, probably being copied from one of the Greek versions of Esther to the other.

There is no manuscript evidence that the six additional chapters found in the Greek versions ever existed in Hebrew or Aramaic. Furthermore, their style and syntax indicates that they were composed in Greek, with the possible exception of addition D. Additions B and E are royal memos and exhibit an overworked style that satirizes the pompous and self-serving character of the king.

The Alpha-Text of Esther (Göttingen L)

The Alpha-text (AT) of Esther is a second Greek version of the story preserved in only four manuscripts. It is a significantly shorter telling of the story than both the Hebrew (MT) and the other Greek version (σ), and its versification differs from both. This translation follows the Göttingen versification.

The siglum L, indicating Lucianic, was assigned to this text in the nineteenth century because it was preserved in manuscripts containing the Lucianic recension of Reigns (Samuel-Kings). Although it is no longer considered Lucianic by most scholars who have examined it, there is no agreement on its origin, its relationship to the Hebrew Esther, or to the other Greek version. Current theories propose that it is (a) a revision of the σ text, (b) a second, independently made translation of the MT, (c) a translation of another Hebrew text of Esther of uncertain relationship to the MT, or (d) a midrashic re-write of the Esther story.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

Apart from the six additional chapters, the syntax and style of both Greek versions of Esther are similar to other books of the Septuagint that have been translated from the Hebrew. Of the two versions, the σ text of Esther follows the Hebrew MT more closely and, when the six additional chapters are excluded, agrees with it semantically in about 87% of its translation units and formally in about 62% of its translation units. In comparison, the AT, which is about 20% shorter than the MT even including the six additional chapters, exhibits about 81% semantic agreement with the MT and about 52% formal agreement. Hence, the AT is the freer translation of the two, if its Hebrew Vorlage is presumed to have been sufficiently similar to the MT. The AT is also the more lexically diverse of the two versions, using a greater variety of Greek words to render a given Hebrew word than does the σ text.

Although the σ text follows the MT closely in most chapters, it is not an isomorphic translation such that each word of the Hebrew is represented by a word in the Greek, a translation practice that results in Hebraisms that are not idiomatic Greek. Nevertheless, a few Hebraisms can be found, for instance in 6.13 (“you will fall when you fall”) where the Greek syntax reflects a literal rendering of the Hebrew infinitive absolute and, for instance, in 8.3 where the Greek verb $\pi\rho\sigma\tau\acute{\iota}\theta\eta\mu\iota$ expresses the Hebrew idea “to do again” or “keep on doing.” Elements in the Hebrew that are synonymous or redundant are often expressed by only one element in the Greek. Nouns and proper names are often omitted or replaced with a pronoun (and sometimes vice versa). Explanatory phrases are sometimes added, especially to make God’s presence explicit (e.g., 6.13). The σ text translates about 80% of the text found in the MT.

The second Greek text of Esther, the AT, or L text, is shorter than the σ text (and the Hebrew MT) by about 20%. It represents only about half the text found in the MT. More often than not, the AT follows the word order of the MT and agrees with it about as often as does the σ text. The primary difference between the AT and the MT is the many small pluses and minuses, though many of these are due to inherent differences between the Hebrew and Greek languages. Most of the significant pluses and minuses in the AT compared to the MT are found in chapters 8–10 and appear to be caused by a deliberate decision (a) to minimize Esther’s role while magnifying Mardochoaios’, (b) to reflect less interest in the origin and celebration of Purim, and (c) to highlight in the AT the role of the Jews (Judeans) as advantageous to the king in the political intrigue of the pagan court with a special interest in the theme of political assassination. Like the σ text, the AT is not an isomorphic translation and typically preserves the sense but not the form of the Hebrew idioms involving “face,” “hand,” “eyes” and “heart.”

The current consensus of scholarship denies that one Greek version of Esther is a recension of the other, but the σ text and AT are clearly translations of the same story as extant in the MT because they virtually never agree against the MT (though the AT and MT sometimes agree against the σ text). Chapters 8–10 of the two Greek versions differ sufficiently to deny a literary dependence between the two and to suggest that both Greek versions were redacted extensively and independently when addition E was introduced into each. Chapter 8 shows the least agreement between the two Greek versions because they share very few of the same syntactic units, but those few that they do share show a high percentage of agreement.

The same six additional chapters found in both Greek versions appear not to have been in the original text of either, with perhaps the exception of addition D interwoven into chapter 5. It is likely that this additional material was added first to one Greek version, whether all at once or over time, and then later copied to the other. Additions A and F clearly function together, being the apocalyptic dream of Mardochoaios (A) and its interpretation (F) that frame the events of the Esther story as a fulfillment of restored covenant blessing as predicted in the prophecy against Babylon in Jeremiah 28 (LXX). Additions C and E share sufficient common vocabulary to indicate that E was composed to answer the prayers of Mardochoaios and Esther voiced in C, which therefore must have logically, if not chronologically, preceded the composition of E. Moreover, addition C shows influence from the Greek translation of Moyses’ intercessory prayer in Deut 9.26 LXX. Although conflicting evidence allows no consensus about which Greek version is the older, there is some evidence that the AT preserves the older form of additions A, B, C, E, and F. This does not necessarily mean that the additions were first introduced into the AT, only that the texts of these additional chapters have experienced fewer changes since being introduced into the AT than they have in the σ text. That may be because the σ text enjoyed a longer and wider transmission history than the AT, which is extant in only four manuscripts.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF ESTHER

The Hebrew MT was the text from which the NRSV English translation was made. Where the Göttingen Greek text agrees with the Hebrew, the NRSV text was allowed to stand in NETS, where acceptable. For the six additional chapters for which there is no extant Hebrew, the Göttingen text was compared to the NRSV English translation of the Greek Esther, which was allowed to stand unless the NRSV violated NETS policy.

Versification

The NETS translations of Esther follow the versification of the Göttingen edition. Numbers in parentheses refer to the parallel text. The six additional chapters are of particular note. Referred to by the letters A–F in the Göttingen edition, and likewise in NETS, they traditionally have been taken out of narrative sequence and numbered as chapters 11–16. Following Jerome’s pattern, they were displaced to the end of the book following chapter 10, making narrative nonsense of the material. These six additional chapters are translated in the NETS edition in the position in which they are found in the Greek versions.

OLD GREEK

A In the second year when Artaxerxes the Great was king, on the first day of Nisa, Mardochoaios the son of Iairos son of Semeias son of Kisaaios, from the tribe of Benjamin, saw a dream. ²He was a Judean man dwelling in the city of Susa, a great man, serving in the court of the king. ³Now he was of the group of exiles which Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, took captive from Ierousalem with Iechonias, the king of Judea. ⁴And this was his dream: Look! Shouts and confusion! Thunder and earthquake! Chaos upon the earth! ⁵Look! Two great dragons came forward, both ready to fight, and a great noise arose from them! ⁶And at their sound every nation prepared for war, to fight against a nation of righteous people. ⁷Look! A day of darkness and gloom! Affliction and anguish! Oppression and great chaos upon the earth! ⁸And the whole righteous nation was in chaos, fearing the evils that threatened themselves, and they were ready to perish. ⁹Then they cried out to God, and from their cry, as though from a small spring, there came a great river, abundant water; ¹⁰light, and the sun rose, and the lowly were exalted and devoured those held in esteem. ¹¹Then when Mardochoaios, who had seen this dream and what God had determined to do, awoke, he had it on his heart and sought until nightfall to understand it in every detail.

¹² And Mardochoaios took his rest in the courtyard with Gabatha and Tharra, the two eunuchs of the king who guarded the courtyard. ¹³He both overheard their deliberations and inquired into their ambitions, and learned that they were preparing to lay hands on Artaxerxes the king, and he told the king about them. ¹⁴Then the king interrogated the two eunuchs, and when they confessed, they were led away. ¹⁵And the king wrote these things in the record, and Mardochoaios wrote concerning these things. ¹⁶And the king ordered Mardochoaios to serve in the court and gave to him gifts for these things. ¹⁷But Haman son of Hamadathos, a Bougean, was highly esteemed by the king, and he sought to harm Mardochoaios and his people because of the two eunuchs of the king.

1 Now it happened after these things in the days of Artaxerxes—this Artaxerxes controlled one hundred twenty-seven lands from India—²in those days when King Artaxerxes was enthroned in the city of Susa, ³in the third year when he was king, he gave a feast for his Friends and for the other nations and for those highly esteemed of the Persians and Medes and for the rulers of the satrapies. ⁴And after these things, after he had displayed to them the great wealth of his kingdom and the glory of the celebration of his wealth for one hundred eighty days ⁵and when the days of the wedding feast were completed, the king gave a

ALPHA

A In the second year when Assyeros the Great was king, on the first day of the month of Adar Nisan (which is Dystros Xanthikos) Mardochoaios the son of Iaeiros son of Semeias, son of Kisaaios, of the tribe of Benjamin, saw a dream. ⁽²⁾He was a great man, ²⁽³⁾one of the exiles whom Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, took captive with Iechonias, the king of Judea. ³⁽⁴⁾And this was his dream: Look! A shout and a cry of confusion! Thunder and earthquake and chaos upon the earth! ⁴⁽⁵⁾Look! Two dragons! And they came forward, both ready to fight, ⁵and a noise arose from them! ⁽⁶⁾And everything was troubled by the sound of this cry. ⁶It was a testimony to all the peoples—⁽⁷⁾a day of darkness and gloom ⁽⁸⁾and chaos of war! And every nation prepared to fight. ⁽⁹⁾And we cried out to the Lord because of the sound of their cry. ⁷And there came from a small spring abundant water, a great river. ⁸⁽¹⁰⁾Light, the sun rose, and the rivers were exalted and swallowed those held in esteem. ⁹⁽¹¹⁾Then, when Mardochoaios arose from his sleep, he pondered what the dream meant and what the Mighty One was preparing to do. ¹⁰And his dream was hidden in his heart, and at every opportunity he was trying to figure it out. ¹¹Its interpretation would become clear to him on the day ⁽¹²⁾on which Mardochoaios napped in the courtyard of the king with Astaos and Thedeutes, the two eunuchs of the king. ¹²⁽¹³⁾And he overheard their words and their schemes as they were plotting to assault Assyeros the king to kill him.

¹³ So after thinking about it, Mardochoaios reported about them. ¹⁴Then the king questioned the two eunuchs and found Mardochoaios' words true, and when the eunuchs confessed, they were led away. ¹⁵So Assyeros the king wrote about these things, and Mardochoaios was written about in the book of the king so that these things would be remembered. ¹⁶And the king commanded concerning Mardochoaios that he serve in the court of the king and conspicuously guard every door. ¹⁷And he assigned to him for these things ⁽¹⁷⁾Haman son of Hamadathos, a Macedonian in the presence of the king. ¹⁸And Haman was seeking to harm Mardochoaios and all his people because of what he had said to the king concerning the eunuchs, because they had been executed.

1 Now it happened after these things in the days of Assyeros the great king, one hundred twenty-seven lands from India to Ethiopia were subjected to him. ²While Assyeros was sitting upon the throne of his kingdom, ³then the king gave a wine party for the rulers of the court of the Persians and Medes and the rulers of the lands before him—⁴that the wealth of the king's glory and the honor of which he boasted be put on display for one hundred and eighty days, ⁵until the days were completed, during which the king gave a wine party for all those found in the city of Susa—from great to small—for seven days inside the king's wine party for the nations present in the city, for six days, in the courtyard of the house of the king. ⁶It had been decorated with linen and cotton curtains hung on cords of linen and purple attached to gold and silver blocks on pillars of marble and other stones. There were couches of gold and silver on a mosaic pavement of emerald, mother-of-pearl and marble. There were gossamer throws in many colors embroidered with roses round about. ⁷The goblets were made of gold and silver, and a miniature cup made of ruby was on display that was worth thirty thousand talents. The wine was abundant and sweet, which the king himself drank. ⁸Now this wine party was not by established law, but so the king wanted it, and he ordered his stewards to do as he and his men wanted.

OLD GREEK

9 And Astin the queen gave a wine party for the women in the royal quarters where King Artaxerxes was.

10 Now on the seventh day, when he was feeling merry, the king told Haman and Bazan and Tharra and Boraze and Zatholtha and Abataza and Tharaba, the seven eunuchs who attended King Artaxerxes, ¹¹to bring the queen to him in order to proclaim her queen and to place the diadem on her and to show her to the rulers and her beauty to the peoples, because she was beautiful. ¹²But Astin the queen did not obey him to come with the eunuchs. The king was angry, and he was enraged! ¹³Then he said to his Friends, "This is how Astin spoke, therefore give your ruling and judgment on this." ¹⁴So Arkesaios, Sarsathaios and Malesear, the rulers of the Persians and Medes who were close to the king and seated first by the king, came to him. ¹⁵And they reported to him what, according to law, must be done with Astin the queen, because she had not done the things ordered by the king through the eunuchs. ¹⁶Then Mouchaios said to the king and the rulers, "Astin the queen has wronged not only the king, but also all the rulers and governors of the king." ¹⁷(For he had reported to them the words of the queen and how she defied the king.) "Therefore, just as she defied King Artaxerxes, ¹⁸so this very day the other princesses of the rulers of the Persians and Medes, when they hear what was said to the king by her, will similarly dare to dishonor their husbands. ¹⁹Therefore, if it pleases the king, let him issue a royal order, and let it be written according to the laws of the Medes and Persians, and let it not be applied differently, neither let the queen any longer come to him, and let the king give her royal position to a woman better than she. ²⁰Let the law declared by the king be heard, whatever law he enacts in his kingdom. And thus all women shall bestow honor on their own husbands, from the poor to the rich." ²¹This word pleased the king and the rulers, and the king did as Mouchaios said. ²²He sent word throughout the whole kingdom, to every land in its own language so that they had fear in their homes.

ALPHA

courtyard, celebrating his deliverance. ⁶And there were tapestries of linen and cotton with lavender and scarlet embroidered in flowers and an awning hung by linen and purple cords on silver blocks and pillars of marble and gilded with gold. And there were couches of gold on an emerald pavement and roses round about.

7 And the golden goblets were each different, and the wine was royal, which the king drinks. ⁸And this wine party was according to law, for so the king had ordered that the will of the men be done.

9 And Ouastin the queen gave a great reception for all the women in the court of the king.

10 Now it happened on the seventh day, when the king was feeling good from the wine, the king told his servants ¹¹to bring Ouastin the queen into the assembled banquet, in her royal diadem, before his army. ¹²And Ouastin did not want to do the will of the king through the hand of the eunuchs. Now when the king heard that Ouastin denied his will, he was very angry! Rage burned within him! ¹³Then the king asked all the wise men who knew law and justice what to do with the queen, because she had not been willing to do the will of the king. ¹⁴And the rulers of the Persians and Medes and those who see the face of the king and those seated among royalty came to him. ¹⁵And Bougaios advised him, saying, "Ouastin the queen has wronged not only the king, but also the rulers of the Persians and Medes, and to all the peoples her affront has gone out, because she ignored the ordinance of the king. ¹⁸⁽¹⁹⁾If, therefore, it pleases our lord and is acceptable to his thinking, let it be written to all the lands and to all the nations, and make it known that Ouastin rejected the word of the king. And let her royal position be given to another, one better than she. ²⁰And let it be seen that she is obeying the voice of the king, and he will do good for all the kingdoms. And all wives will give honor and glory to their husbands from the poor to the rich." ²¹This word was good in the heart of the king, and he acted readily according to this advice.

OLD GREEK

2 After these things, the king got over his anger, and he no longer remembered Astin, recalling what she^a had said and how he condemned her. ²Then the king's ministers said, "Let pure girls be sought for the king, beautiful in appearance. ³And the king shall appoint officers in all the lands of his kingdom and let them select maidenly girls, beautiful in appearance, into Susa the city, into the harem, and let them be entrusted to the king's eunuch, the guard of the women; then let cosmetics and other care be given. ⁴And whichever woman is pleasing to the king will be queen instead of Astin." The advice pleased the king, and he did so.

5 Now there was a Judean man in Susa the city, and his name was Mardochaios the son of Iairos son of Semeias son of Kisaos, from the tribe of Benjamin, ⁶who was an exile from Ierusalem, which Nabouchodonosor, king of Babylon, had taken captive. ⁷And this man had a foster child, a daughter of Aminadab, his father's brother, and her name was Esther. And when her parents died, he trained her for himself as a wife. And the girl was beautiful in appearance. ⁸So when the king's ordinance was heard, many girls were gathered into Susa the city under the charge of Gai. Esther was also taken to Gai, the guard of the women. ⁹The girl pleased him and found his favor, and he hastened to provide her with cosmetics and her portion of food and with seven girls assigned to her from the palace, and he provided well for her and her attendants in the harem. ¹⁰Esther did not reveal her race or her ancestry, for Mardochaios had commanded her not to tell. ¹¹Each day Mardochaios walked around in front of the harem court, to learn how Esther would fare.

12 Now time for a girl to go in to the king was when she had completed twelve months, for the days of treatment were like this: six months being rubbed with oil of myrrh and six months with perfumes and cosmetics for the women. ¹³And then she would go in to the king. And whatever she asked he would give her to take with her from the harem to the royal quarters. ¹⁴In the evening she would go in; then toward day she would depart into the second harem of which Gai, the king's eunuch, was the guard of the women. And she would not go in to the king again, unless she was summoned by name.

15 When the time was completed for Esther the daughter of Aminadab, brother of Mardochaios's father, to go in to the king, she turned down nothing of the things the king's eunuch, the guard of the women, commanded. For Esther was favored by all who saw her. ¹⁶Esther went in to Artaxerxes the king in the twelfth month, which is Adar, in the seventh year of his reign. ¹⁷And the king fell in love with Esther, and she found favor beyond all the virgins; so he set the queen's diadem on her. ¹⁸Then the king gave a wine party for all his Friends and forces for seven days. He celebrated Esther's wedding feast and ^bgave rest to^b those under his rule.

^aOr he ^bOr cancelled debts of

ALPHA

2 And so was established the tradition about Ouastin and what she did to Assyeros the king. ²Then those serving the king said, "Let us seek virgins beautiful in appearance, ⁽³⁾and let them be given to be placed under the charge of Gogaiois the eunuch, the guard of the women. ⁴And whichever girl is pleasing to the king will be appointed to replace Ouastin." And they readily acted accordingly.

5 Now there was a Judean man in Susa the city, whose name was Mardochaios son of Iaeiros son of Semeias son of Kisaos, of the tribe of Benjamin. ⁷And he was faithfully bringing up Esther, a daughter of the brother of his father. And the child was very beautiful in appearance and lovely to see. ⁸And the girl was taken into the house of the king. And Bougaiois, the eunuch who guarded, saw the girl, ⁽⁹⁾and she was more pleasing to him than all the women. ⁹And Esther found his personal favor and compassion. So he hastened to take charge of her and granted to her, beyond the seven young women, her own attendants. And when Esther was led in to the king, she was very pleasing to him.

14 When nightfall came, she was led in, and in the early morning she was dismissed. ¹⁷And as the king considered all the virgins, Esther was shown to be the most splendid. And she found his personal favor and compassion, and he placed the royal diadem upon her head. ¹⁸And so the king held a splendid wedding feast for Esther and ^agave rest to^a all the provinces.

^aOr cancelled debts of

OLD GREEK

19 And Mardochoaios was serving in the court.
 20 But Esther did not reveal her ancestry. For so Mardochoaios had commanded her: to fear God and to do his ordinances, just as when she was with him. So Esther did not change her way of life.

21 The two eunuchs who were the king's chief bodyguards were irritated because Mardochoaios was promoted, and they sought to kill Artaxerxes the king. 22 But the matter became known to Mardochoaios, and he alerted Esther, and she explained to the king the details of the plot. 23 So the king interrogated the two eunuchs and hanged^a them. Then the king ordered to make an entry as a memorial in the royal archive in commendation of Mardochoaios's loyalty.

3 After these things King Artaxerxes honored Haman son of Hamadathos, a Bougean, and exalted him and set him above all his Friends. 2 And all who were in the court would do obeisance to him, for the king had commanded them to do so. But Mardochoaios would not do obeisance to him. 3 Then those in the court of the king spoke to Mardochoaios, "Mardochoaios, why do you disobey what the king says?" 4 Day after day they spoke to him, and he would not listen to them. So they revealed to Haman that Mardochoaios was opposing the commands of the king, and Mardochoaios revealed to them that he was a Judean. 5 When Haman learned that Mardochoaios would not do obeisance to him, he was very angry. 6 And so he planned to destroy all the Judeans under the rule of Artaxerxes.

7 He made a decision in the twelfth year of Artaxerxes' reign and cast lots day-by-day and month-by-month so that the race of Mardochoaios might perish on one day. The lot fell on the fourteenth of the month that is Adar.

8 Then he spoke to King Artaxerxes, saying, "There is a certain nation scattered among the nations throughout all your kingdom; their laws are different from all the nations, and they disobey the king's laws so that it is not expedient for the king to tolerate them. 9 If it pleases the king, let a decree be issued to destroy them, and I will pay into the king's treasury ten thousand talents of silver." 10 And the king took his signet ring and put it in^b the hand of Haman to seal what had been written against the Judeans. 11 The king said to Haman, "Keep the silver, but treat the nation as you wish."

12 Then the king's secretaries were summoned on the thirteenth day of the first month, and they wrote as Haman commanded to the governors and to the rulers of every land—from India to Ethiopia—to one hundred twenty-seven lands and to the rulers of the nations in their own language in the name of Artaxerxes the king. 13 It was sent by couriers throughout Artaxerxes' empire, to destroy the race of the Judeans in one day of the twelfth month, which is Adar, and to seize their property.

ALPHA

3 Now it happened after these things that King Assyeros promoted Haman son of Hamadathos, a Bougean, and advanced him and set his throne above those of his Friends so that all would bend over and bow themselves on the ground before him. 2 Therefore, although everyone would do obeisance to him in accord with the king's ordinance, Mardochoaios would not do obeisance before him. 3 And the servants of the king saw that Mardochoaios was not doing obeisance before Haman, and the servants of the king said to Mardochoaios, "Why do you disobey the king and not do obeisance before Haman?" 4 So he told them that he was a Judean. And they informed Haman about him. 5 Now when Haman heard, he was provoked to jealousy against Mardochoaios, and rage burned within him. So he was seeking to destroy Mardochoaios and all his people on one day. 6 Since Haman was provoked and all his rage was stirred up, he turned red, driving him from his sight. And with a malicious heart, he kept speaking evil to the king about Israel, 8 saying, "There is a people scattered throughout all the kingdoms, a people of war and insubordinate, who have different laws from your laws, O King. They do not pay heed though they are known among all nations because they are evil, and they set aside your commands to undermine your glory. 9 Therefore, if it pleases the king and this judgment is good in his heart, let this nation be given to me for destruction, and I will pay into the treasury ten thousand talents of silver." 11 So the king said to him, "Keep the silver, but treat the nation as it pleases you." 10 So the king took his signet ring from his hand and gave it to Haman saying, "Write to all the lands, and seal it with the signet ring of the king. For there is none who will reject the seal."

7 So Haman went to his gods to learn the day of their death and cast lots for the thirteenth day of the month of Adar Nisan to murder all the Judeans, from male to female, and to take their young children as plunder. 13 And he hurried and delivered it into the hands of swift horsemen.

^aOr hung ^bOr on

OLD GREEK

B This is a copy of the letter:
 “The Great King Artaxerxes writes as follows to the rulers of the one hundred twenty-seven lands from India to Ethiopia and to the officials under them:

2 “Being the ruler of many nations and master of the whole world, I have determined (not high-mindedly with presumption of authority but always acting in moderation and with kindness) to secure lasting tranquility in the lives of my subjects and, in order to make my kingdom peaceable and open to travel throughout all its extent, to restore the peace desired by all people.

3 “When I asked my counselors how this might be accomplished, Haman—who excels among us in sound judgment and is distinguished for his unchanging goodwill and steadfast fidelity and has attained the second place in the kingdom—⁴pointed out to us that among all the tribes in the world there is scattered a certain hostile people, who have laws contrary to those of every nation and continually disregard the ordinances of kings so that the joint administration of the kingdom that we honorably intend cannot be achieved. ⁵Therefore, whereas we understand that, since this nation stands constantly all alone in opposition to all humanity, perversely following an estranging manner of life due to their laws and since it is ill-disposed to our interests, doing the worst harm and in order that our kingdom may not attain stability.

6 “We therefore have ordered that you utterly destroy those indicated to you in the letters written by Haman, who is in charge of the affairs of state and is our second Father—including women and children—by the daggers of their enemies, without any compassion and restraint, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, of this present year, ⁷so that those who have long been hostile and so remain, when they in one day have gone down to Hades by force, may in the time hereafter render the matters of state completely tranquil and untroubled for us.”

3 ¹⁴Copies of the letters were posted in every land, and it was ordered all the nations to be ready for this day. ¹⁵The matter proceeded quickly even to Susa. While the king and Haman were sitting down to drink, the city was being thrown into confusion.

4 Now when Mardochoaios learned the outcome, he tore his clothes and put on sackcloth and sprinkled ashes, and as he rushed through the square of the city, he cried out with a loud voice, “An innocent nation is being destroyed!” ²He went up to the king’s gate and stood there, for it was not permitted him to enter the courtyard clothed with sackcloth and ashes. ³And in every land, wherever the letters were posted, there was crying and wailing and great mourning among the Judeans; they put sackcloth and ashes on themselves. ⁴The queen’s attendants and eunuchs came in and told her, and she was troubled when she heard what had happened.

ALPHA

(B) ¹⁴⁽¹⁾ And he subjoined the following letter:
 “The Great King Assyeros writes as follows to the rulers and satraps of the one hundred and twenty and seven lands from India to Ethiopia:

15(2) “Being the ruler of many nations and master of the whole world, I have determined (not high-mindedly with presumption of authority but always acting in moderation and with kindness) to secure lasting tranquility in the lives of my subjects and, making my kingdom peaceable and open to travel to its full extent, to restore the peace desired by all people.

16(3) “When I was asking my counselors how this might be accomplished, Haman—who has excelled among us in sound judgment, by unchanging goodwill and steadfast fidelity having attained the second place in the kingdom—⁽⁴⁾ pointed out to us that there is scattered a certain hostile people, resident among all the tribes in the world who, on the one hand, have laws in opposition to those of every nation and, on the other, continually disregard the command of kings so that the kingdom can never attain stability. ¹⁷⁽⁵⁾Therefore, whereas we understand that, since the nation stands all alone in its way of life which is contrary to every one of humanity on account of an estranging way of life due to their laws and since it is ill-disposed to our commands, it perpetually does the worst harm, in order that we may never be established in the sole-rule directed by us.

18(6) “We therefore have ordered to you that you destroy one and all of those indicated to you in the letters written by Haman, who is in charge of the affairs of state and is our second Father—women and children included—by the daggers of their enemies, without any compassion or restraint, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month (this is the month of Adar, which is Dystros), in order to eliminate all the Judeans and to take their children as plunder ⁽⁷⁾in order that those who have long been hostile and so remain, when they in one day have together gone down to Hades, may in the time hereafter be in a state of tranquility and not ever again furnish us with matters for concern.”

(3) ¹⁹⁽¹⁵⁾ And in Susa this decree was posted.

4 Now Mardochoaios learned everything that had happened, and the city of Susa was in turmoil because of the things that had taken place. For all the Judeans there was great and bitter sorrow in the whole city. ²Now Mardochoaios went to his home, folded up his clothes and put on sackcloth. After he had sprinkled ashes on himself, he went out as far as the outer courtyard and stood there, for he could not enter the royal precincts in sackcloth. ³⁽⁴⁾So he called one eunuch and sent him to Esther. And the queen said, “Take off his sackcloth, and bring him in.” ⁴But he did not want to. ⁽⁸⁾Instead he said, “Thus you will say to her,

OLD GREEK

She sent someone^a to clothe Mardochoaios and to take off his sackcloth, but he was not persuaded. ⁵Then Esther called for Hachrathaios, her eunuch who attended her, and sent him to learn for her from Mardochoaios the facts.

⁷ So Mardochoaios told him what had happened, and the promise that Haman had promised to the king of ten thousand talents into the treasury so that he could destroy the Judeans. ⁸He also gave him the copy that had been posted in Susa to destroy them, to show to Esther, and told him to command her to go and entreat the king and to beg him on behalf of her people: "Remember your humble days when you were brought up by my hand, for Haman, the second to the king, has spoken against us to put us to death. Call upon the Lord, and speak to the king about us, and deliver us from death!"

⁹ So Hachrathaios went in and told her all these things. ¹⁰Then Esther said to Hachrathaios, "Go to Mardochoaios, and say, ¹¹'All the nations of the empire know that every man or woman who shall go to the king inside the inner court uninvited—there is no deliverance for him. Only if the king holds out the golden rod to someone, will that person be safe. And I myself have not been called to go to the king for these thirty days.' "

¹² So Hachrathaios reported to Mardochoaios everything Esther had said. ¹³Mardochoaios said to Hachrathaios, "Go, and say to her, 'Esther, do not say to yourself that you alone of all the Judeans in the empire will be safe. ¹⁴Because even if you keep silent at this time, from elsewhere help and protection will come to the Judeans, but you and your father's household will perish. And who knows if for this time you were made queen?' " ¹⁵Then Esther sent the messenger who had come to her back to Mardochoaios, saying, ¹⁶"Go, gather the Judeans that are in Susa, and fast on my behalf, and neither eat nor drink for three days, night and day. I and my attendants will also abstain from food. And then I will go to the king, though it is against the law, even if it be that I perish." ¹⁷And Mardochoaios went and did what Esther had commanded him.

C Then he petitioned the Lord, remembering all the works of the Lord.

² And he said, "Lord, Lord, King of all powers, for the universe is subject to your authority, and there is no one who can oppose you when it is your will to save Israel, ³because you have made heaven and earth and every wonderful thing in it under heaven. ⁴You are Lord of all, and there is no one who can withstand you, the Lord. ⁵You know all things; you know, O Lord, that it was not in insolence nor pride nor for any love of glory that I did this, namely, to refuse to do obeisance to this prideful Haman, ⁶for I would have been willing to kiss the soles of his feet for Israel's safety! ⁷But I did this so that I might not set human glory above

^aLacking in Gk

ALPHA

'Do not turn away from going to the king and flattering his person for the sake of me and my people, remembering your humble days when you were being brought up by my hand, because Haman, who is the second in command, has spoken to the king against us to put us to death. ⁵Therefore call upon God, and speak about us to the king, and deliver us from death!' "

⁶(9) So he made known to her the tribulation of Israel. ⁷(¹⁰)And she sent to him saying as follows, (¹¹)"You know as well as anyone that whoever goes to the king uninvited, he to whom he does not hold out his golden scepter will be subject to death. ⁸And I have not been called to him for thirty days. So how can I go now, not being invited?"

⁹(¹³) So Mardochoaios sent to her and said to her, (¹⁴)"If you ignore your nation and do not help them, then surely God will be to them a helper and deliverance, but you and your father's household will perish. ¹⁰And who knows if for this time you were made queen?" ¹¹(¹⁵)Then the queen sent saying, (¹⁶)"Proclaim a religious service, and petition God earnestly, and I and my girls will do likewise. And I will go to the king uninvited, even if it be necessary that I die." ¹²(¹⁷)And Mardochoaios did so.

(C) Then he petitioned the Lord, remembering his works.

(²) And he said, ¹³"Master Almighty, under whose authority are all things and there is no one who can resist you when it is your will to save the house of Israel, (³)because you have made heaven and earth and every wonderful thing in it under heaven, (⁴)and you rule everything. ¹⁴(⁵)For you know all things and the race of Israel you know. ¹⁵It was not in insolence nor for any love of glory that I did not bow down to this uncircumcised Haman, (⁶)since I would have been willing to kiss the soles of his feet for the sake of Israel, (⁷)but I did this so that I might not set anyone above your glory, Master, and not do obeisance to anyone but you, the True One, and I will not do it even under duress. ¹⁶(⁸)And now, O Lord, you who covenant-

OLD GREEK

divine glory, and I will not do obeisance to anyone but you, my Lord, and I will not do these things in pride. ⁸And now, O Lord God, King, God of Abraam, spare your people, for they are looking to ruin us, and they desired to destroy the inheritance that has been yours from the beginning. ⁹Do not neglect your portion, which you redeemed for yourself out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁰Hear my petition, and have mercy upon your allotment; turn our mourning into feasting, that we may live and sing hymns to your name, O Lord; do not silence the mouth of those who praise you."

11 And all Israel cried out from their strength, because their death was before their eyes.

12 Then Esther the queen fled to the Lord, seized with the agony of death. ¹³Taking off the garments of her glory, she put on the garments of distress and mourning, and instead of costly perfumes she covered her head with ashes and dung, and she utterly humbled her body; every part that she loved to adorn she covered with her tangled^a hair. ¹⁴Then she petitioned the Lord, God of Israel, and said: "O my Lord, you alone are our king; help me, I who am alone and have no helper except you, ¹⁵because my danger is in my hand. ¹⁶I have heard from my birth in the tribe of my family that you, O Lord, took Israel out of all the nations and our fathers from among all their forebears, to be an everlasting inheritance, and you did for them all that you said. ¹⁷And now we have sinned before you, and you have delivered us into the hand of our enemies, ¹⁸because we honored their gods. You are righteous, O Lord! ¹⁹And now they were not satisfied that we are in bitter slavery, but they have ^bput their hands into the hands of their idols^b, ²⁰to annul the stipulation of your mouth and to destroy your inheritance and to stop the mouths of those who praise you and to extinguish the glory of your house and your altar, ²¹to open the mouth of the nations for the mighty deeds of vain things, and that a mortal king be admired forever.

22 "O Lord, do not surrender your scepter to those who don't exist, and do not let them laugh at our downfall, but turn their plan against them, and make a public example of him who began this against us. ²³Remember, O Lord; make yourself known in a time of our affliction, and embolden me, O King of the gods and Master of all dominion! ²⁴Put eloquent speech in my mouth before the lion, and turn his heart to hate the one who fights against us so that there may be an end of him and those who agree with him. ²⁵But save us by your hand, and help me, who am alone and have no one except you, O Lord. You have knowledge of everything, ²⁶and you know that I hate the glory of the lawless and abhor the bed of the uncircumcised and of any foreigner. ²⁷You know my predicament—that I abhor the sign of my proud

^aOr braided ^bPossibly covenanted with their idols

ALPHA

ed with Abraam, spare your people, because they have advanced to ruin us, and they desire to remove and take away the inheritance that has been yours from the beginning. ⁽⁹⁾Do not neglect your portion, which you redeemed out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁷⁽¹⁰⁾Hear our petition, and have mercy upon your inheritance; turn our mourning into rejoicing, that we may live and sing hymns to you; do not silence the mouth of those who sing hymns to you."

18(12) Then Esther the queen fled to the Lord, seized with the agony of death. ⁽¹³⁾She took off the garments of glory from herself and every sign of her splendor, and she put on distress and mourning, and instead of costly perfumes she covered her head with ashes and dung, and she utterly humbled her body; every sign of her beauty and adornment she covered humbly with her lovely hair. ¹⁹⁽¹⁴⁾Then she petitioned the Lord and said: "O Lord, King, you alone are a helper; help me, I who am humble and have no helper apart from you, ⁽¹⁵⁾because my danger is in my hand. ²⁰⁽¹⁶⁾Now I have heard from the book of my heritage that you redeemed Israel out of all the nations and their fathers from among their forebears, appointing Israel over them to be an everlasting inheritance. And you did for them what you said to them and provided whatever they asked. ²¹⁽¹⁷⁾We have sinned before you, and you delivered us into the hand of our enemies ⁽¹⁸⁾if we honored their gods. ²²You are righteous, O Lord! ⁽¹⁹⁾And now they were not satisfied that we are in bitter slavery, but they have ^aput their hands into the hands of their idols^a, ⁽²⁰⁾to annul the stipulation of your mouth to destroy your inheritance and to stop the mouths of those who praise you and to extinguish the glory of your house and your altar, ⁽²¹⁾and to open the mouths of enemies for the mighty deeds of vain things, and that a mortal king be admired forever.

23(22) "O Lord, do not ever surrender your scepter to enemies who hate you, and may they not rejoice at our downfall; turn their plans against them, and make a public example of him who began this evil against us. ²⁴⁽²³⁾Be manifest to us, O Lord; make yourself known to us in a time of our affliction, and do not break us. ²⁵⁽²⁴⁾Put eloquent speech in my mouth, and give favor to my words before the king, and change his heart to hate the one who fights against us so that there may be an end of him and those who agree with him. ⁽²⁵⁾But save us by your strong hand, and help me, because you have knowledge of everything, ⁽²⁶⁾and you know that I abhor the bed of the uncircumcised one and hate the glory of the lawless one and of any alien. ²⁶⁽²⁷⁾You, O Lord, know my predicament—that I abhor the sign of proud posi-

^aPossibly covenanted with their idols

OLD GREEK

position that is upon my head on days when I appear in public. I abhor it like a menstrual cloth, and I do not wear it on the days when I am in private. ²⁸And your slave has not eaten at Haman's table, and I have not honored the king's banquet nor drunk the wine of libations. ²⁹Your slave has not rejoiced since the day of my change until now, except in you, O Lord, God of Abraam. ³⁰O God who has power over all things, hear the voice of those who despair, and save us from the hand of evildoers. And save me from my fear!"

D And it happened on the third day, as she ceased praying, she took off the garments of service and put on her glory. ²Then, when she had become majestic, after calling upon the all-seeing God and savior, she took along two of her attendants; ³on one she leaned gently for support, ⁴while the other followed, holding her train. ⁵She was radiant with the full flush of her beauty, and her face looked happy as if she were cheerful, but her heart was in anguish from fear. ⁶When she had gone through all the doors, she stood before the king. He was seated on the throne of his kingdom, clothed in the full array of his splendor, all covered with gold and precious stones. And he was most terrifying.

⁷ And when he raised his face inflamed with glory, he gazed at her in the full flush of anger. The queen staggered, her color turned pale from faintness, and she collapsed on the head of the attendant who went before her. ⁸Then God changed the spirit of the king to gentleness, and alarmed, he jumped from his throne and took her in his arms until she was quited. He kept comforting her with soothing words ⁹and said to her, "What is it, Esther? I am your brother. Take heart! ¹⁰You shall not die, for our ordinance is only for the common person. ¹¹Come here."

¹² Then he lifted the golden rod and placed it on her neck; he welcomed her and said, "Speak to me." ¹³She said to him, "I saw you, Lord, like a divine angel, and my heart was shaken from fear of your glory. ¹⁴For you are marvelous, lord, and your face is full of grace." ¹⁵And while she was speaking, she fell from faintness. ¹⁶Then the king and all his servants were troubled, and he reassured her.

5 ³And the king said to her, "What do you want, Esther? What is your request? Even up to half of my kingdom, and it shall be yours." ⁴Then Esther said, "Today is my special day. If, therefore, it pleases the king, let both he and Haman come to the dinner that I will prepare today." ⁵Then the king said, "Bring Haman quickly so that we may do what Esther has said." So both came to the dinner that Esther had spoken about. ⁶During the drinking, the king said to Esther, "What is it, Queen Esther? And it shall be, whatever you ask." ⁷Then she said, "This is my petition and request: ⁸If I have found favor before the king, let the king

ALPHA

tion that is upon my head, and I do not wear it except on days when I appear in public. I abhor it like a cloth of a woman that sits apart. ²⁷⁽²⁸⁾And your slave has not eaten with them at their table, ²⁸and I have not honored the king's banquets nor drunk the wine of libation. Your slave has not rejoiced since the day of my change, except in you, Master. ²⁹⁽³⁰⁾And now, you who have power over all things, hear the voice of those who despair, and save us from the hand of those who do evil against us. And take me, Lord, out of the grip of my fear!"

5 ^(D.1)And it happened on the third day, as Esther ceased praying, she took off the garments of service and put on the garments of glory. ²Then, when she had become majestic, and after calling upon the all-knowing One and savior God, she took along with her two attendants; ⁽³⁾on one she leaned gently for support, ⁽⁴⁾while the other followed, holding up her train. ⁽⁵⁾She was radiant with the full flush of her beauty, and her face looked as if she were cheerful, but her heart was in anguish. ⁽⁶⁾When she had gone through the doors, she stood before the king. And the king was seated on the throne of his kingdom, clothed in the full array of splendor, all covered with gold and precious stones upon him. And he was most terrifying.

⁵⁽⁷⁾ And when he raised his face inflamed with glory, he gazed right at her like a bull in the full flush of his anger. ⁶The queen was terrified, and her face turned pale from faintness, and she stooped on the head of the attendant who went before her. ⁷⁽⁸⁾Then God changed the spirit of the king and turned his anger to gentleness, ⁸and alarmed, the king jumped down from his throne and took her in his arms. He comforted her, ⁽⁹⁾and said, "What is it, Esther? I am your brother. ⁹Take heart! ⁽¹⁰⁾You shall not die, for our act is only for the common person. ⁽¹¹⁾The threat is not against you. Look, the scepter is in your hand."

¹⁰⁽¹²⁾ Then he lifted the scepter and placed it on her neck. He welcomed her and said, "Speak to me!" ¹¹⁽¹³⁾She said to him, "I saw you like a divine angel, and my heart melted from the glory of your rage, Lord." ¹²⁽¹⁴⁾And upon her face was a measure of sweat. ⁽¹⁶⁾Then the king and all his servants were troubled, and they reassured her.

5 ¹³⁽³⁾And the king said, "What is it, Esther? Tell me, and I will do it for you—up to half of my kingdom." ¹⁴⁽⁴⁾Then Esther said, "Tomorrow is a special day for me. If, therefore, it pleases the king, you and Haman, your Friend, come to a wine party that I will prepare tomorrow." ¹⁵⁽⁵⁾Then the king said, "Bring Haman quickly so that we may do what Esther has said." ¹⁶So both came to the dinner that Esther made, a sumptuous meal. ¹⁷⁽⁶⁾So the king said to Esther "O Queen, what is your will? Ask up to half my kingdom, and it shall be yours, whatever you ask." ¹⁸⁽⁷⁾Then Esther said, "This is my petition and my request: ⁽⁸⁾If I have and Haman come again tomorrow to the dinner that I will prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do these same things."

OLD GREEK

9 So Haman went out from the king very happy and rejoicing. But when Haman saw Mardochoaios the Judean in the courtyard, he became very angry. ¹⁰So he went home and called his friends and Zosara his wife, ¹¹and he announced to them his riches and the glory that the king had bestowed on him and how he had made him to be first and to be leader of the kingdom. ¹²Haman said, "The Queen has not summoned with the king anyone but me to the dinner. Tomorrow also I have been invited. ¹³Yet all this does not please me when I see Mardochoaios the Judean in the courtyard." ¹⁴Then his wife Zosara and his friends said to him, "Let a pole fifty cubits^a high be cut for you, and early in the morning speak to the king and have Mardochoaios hanged^b on it; then you, go to the dinner with the king, and celebrate." This advice pleased Haman, and he had the pole prepared.

6 But the Lord kept sleep from the king that night, and he told his teacher to bring the written daily annals, to read to him. ²And he found the entries written concerning Mardochoaios, how he informed the king about two of the king's eunuchs, while they were on guard and sought to lay hands on Artaxerxes. ³Then the king said, "What honor or distinction have we bestowed on Mardochoaios?" The king's servants said, "You have done nothing for him." ⁴While the king was inquiring about Mardochoaios' goodwill—Look! Haman was in the courtyard! The king said, "Who is in the courtyard?" Now Haman had just entered to speak to the king to hang Mardochoaios on the pole that he had prepared for him. ⁵So the king's servants said, "Look! Haman is standing in the courtyard." And the king said, "Call him." ⁶So the king said to Haman, "What should I do for the person whom I want to extol?" And Haman said to himself, "Whom would the king want to extol if not me?" ⁷So he replied to the king, "For the person whom the king wants to extol, ⁸let the king's servants bring a fine linen robe, which the king wears, and a horse upon which the king rides. ⁹And let him give to him one of the king's most noble Friends, and let him robe the person whom the king loves, and let him mount him on the horse and proclaim through the square of the city, saying: 'So shall it be for every person whom the king extols.'" ¹⁰Then the king said to Haman, "You have spoken well. So do to Mardochoaios the Judean who serves in the court. And let not a word of what you have said be transgressed." ¹¹So Haman took the robe and the horse and robed Mar-found favor before you, O King, and if it pleases the king to grant my petition and to do my request, let the king and Haman come to the dinner that I will prepare for them again tomorrow. For again tomorrow I will do likewise." ¹⁹So the king said, "Do as you want."

ALPHA

²⁰(9) And it was reported to Haman likewise, and he marveled. And the king departed and retired. ²¹(¹⁰)So Haman went into his home and gathered together his friends, his sons and Zosara his wife. (¹²)And he boasted saying how the queen had invited no one on her special day "except the king and me only. Tomorrow also I have been invited. ²²(¹³)Yet this alone distresses me: whenever I see Mardochoaios the Judean in the court of the king, and he does not bow down to me." ²³(¹⁴)Then his wife Zosara said to him, "He is from the race of the Judeans. Since the king has allowed you to destroy the Judeans and the gods have given you a day of destruction to take revenge on them, let a pole fifty cubits^a high be cut for you and be set up, and hang him on the pole. And early in the morning you shall speak to the king about him. And now go; rejoice with the king." ²⁴This pleased Haman, and he did so.

6 But the Mighty One kept sleep from the king that night, and he stayed awake. ²So the readers were called, and the court record was read to him. ³(²)And there was the record of the eunuchs and what good deed Mardochoaios had done for the king. ⁴And the king thought seriously on that matter, saying, "Mardochoaios is a loyal man for protecting my life, for he has kept me alive even until now, and I am sitting on my throne today and have done nothing for him. I have not done right by him." ⁵(³)So the king said to his servants, "What should we do for Mardochoaios, the savior in these matters?" And after they thought about it, the young men were envious of him, for fear of Haman lay in their bowels. ⁶And the king understood. And morning came. (⁴)The king asked, "Who is outside?" And it was Haman. ⁷Now Haman had come early to speak to the king so that he might hang Mardochoaios. ⁸(⁵)And the king said to bring him in. ⁹(⁶)So as he entered, the king said to him, "What should we do for the man who honors the king, whom the king wishes to extol?" ¹⁰So Haman reasoned, saying, "Whom would the king wish to extol if not me?" ¹¹(⁷)So Haman replied, "For the person whom the king wishes to extol, (⁸)let a royal robe be brought, and a royal horse upon which the king rides. (⁹)And let one of the king's most noble Friends take these things and clothe him, and let him mount him on the horse and go around the city before him proclaiming, 'Thus shall be done for the one who honors the king, whom the king wishes to extol.'" ¹²(¹⁰)So the king said to Haman, "Run quickly, and take the horse and robe as you have said, and do so to

^aI.e. over seventy feet ^bOr hung

^aOr over seventy feet

OLD GREEK

dochaïos and mounted him on the horse and went through the square of the city and proclaimed, saying, "So shall it be for every man whom the king wants to extol." ¹²Then Mardochoaios returned to the court, but Haman returned home distressed, with his head covered. ¹³Haman explained what had happened to him to Zosara his wife and to his friends. His friends and his wife said to him, "If Mardochoaios is of the race of the Judeans, you have begun to be humiliated before him; you will fall when you fall. You will never be able to ward him off, because a living god is with him."

¹⁴ While they were still speaking, the king's eunuchs arrived hurrying Haman off to the wine party that Esther had prepared.

7 So the king and Haman went in to drink with the queen. ²And the king said to Esther on the second day as they were drinking, "What is it, Queen Esther? What is your petition and what is your request? Let it be yours, up to the half of my kingdom." ³Then she answered and said, "If I have found favor with the king, let my life be given at my petition, and my people at my request. ⁴For we have been sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be booty and to be enslaved—we and our children as male and female slaves—and I kept silent. For the slanderer is not worthy of the court of the king." ⁵Then the king said, "Who is this who dared to do this deed?" ⁶So Esther said, "A man who is an enemy! Haman is this wicked one!" Then Haman was terrified because of the king and the queen.

⁷ The king rose from the banquet and went into the garden, but Haman was begging the queen, for he saw himself in deep trouble. ⁸Then the king returned from the garden. Now Haman had fallen on the couch, entreating the queen. And Mardochoaios the Judean who sits in the gateway. And let not your word transgressed."

ALPHA

¹³ Now when Haman realized that it was not he himself who would be extolled, but that it was Mardochoaios, his heart was utterly broken, and his spirit became feeble.

¹⁴(11) And Haman took the robe and the horse, showing reverence to Mardochoaios even on the very same day on which he intended to impale him. ¹⁵And he said to Mardochoaios, "Tear off the sackcloth." ¹⁶And Mardochoaios was distressed as one dying, and with anguish he took off the sackcloth and put on the garments of glory. ¹⁷And Mardochoaios thought he saw a sign, and his heart was toward the Lord, and he was mystified in silent fear. ¹⁸And Haman hastened to put him on horseback. ¹⁹And Haman led the horse outside and went before him proclaiming, "Thus shall it be done for the man who honors the king, whom the king wishes to extol." ²⁰(12)And so Haman went to his place downhearted, and Mardochoaios went to his home. ²¹(13)Haman explained to his wife everything that had happened to him. ²²His wife and his wise men said, "Ever since you spoke evil about him, evil things have been coming to you; be quiet, because God is among them."

²³(14) While they were still speaking, someone arrived hurrying him to the wine party. And so he was cheered up, and when he had covered the distance, he reclined with them on time.

7 (2)As the drinking advanced, the king said to Esther, "What is the danger, and what is your petition? Up to the half of my kingdom!" ²Esther struggled with her reply, because the adversary was before her eyes, and God gave her courage as she called upon him. ³And Esther said, "If it pleases the king and the decision is good in his heart, let my people be given for my petition, and my nation for my life. ⁴For I and my people have been sold into slavery, and their young children as booty. But I did not want to tell you, lest I trouble my lord. For the man who did evil against us has changed his manner." ⁵Then the king became angry and said, "Who is this who dared to humiliate the sign of my rule so as to disregard fear of you?" ⁶When the queen saw that it seemed a grave offense to the king and that he hated evil, she said, "Do not be angry, lord, for it is enough that I have found your conciliation. Enjoy your meal, O King, and tomorrow I will do according to your word."

⁷ But the king swore that she must tell him who was so arrogant to do this, and with an oath he took it upon himself to do for her whatever she wished. ⁸(6)So Esther was emboldened and said, "Haman, your Friend, is this liar, this evil man!"

OLD GREEK

the king said, "So then, you even violate my wife in my own house?" When Haman heard this, he covered his face^a. ⁹Then Bougathan, one of the eunuchs attending the king, said, "Look! Haman has even prepared a pole for Mardochoaios, who spoke up on behalf of the king, and a pole fifty cubits tall has been erected at Haman's." And the king said, "Let him be crucified upon it." ¹⁰So they hanged Haman on the pole that had been prepared for Mardochoaios. Then the king got over his anger.

8 On that very day King Artaxerxes granted to Esther all that belonged to Haman the slanderer, and Mardochoaios was summoned by the king, for Esther had revealed that he was related to her. ²Then the king took the signet ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it to Mardochoaios. So Esther appointed Mardochoaios over everything of Haman's.

³ Then she spoke again to the king, and she fell before his feet and pleaded that he revoke the evil of Haman and what he had done to the Judeans. ⁴So the king held out the golden rod to Esther, ⁵and Esther rose and stood before the king. And Esther said, "If it pleases you and if I have found favor, let an order be dispatched to revoke the letters sent by Haman, which were written to destroy the Judeans who are in your kingdom. ⁶For how can I bear to see the suffering of my people? And how can I bear to be saved amidst the destruction of my lineage?" ⁷Then the king said to Esther, "If everything belonging to Haman I gave and turned over to you, and him I hanged^b on the pole, because he plotted to lay hands on the Judeans, what more do you seek? ⁸You^c also write in my name as it pleases you, and seal it with my ring, for whatever is written as the king commands and sealed with my ring cannot be countermanded."

⁹ And so the secretaries were summoned in the first month, which is Nisa, on the twenty-third day of the same year, and they wrote to the Judeans what had been commanded to the administrators and rulers of the satrapies from India to Ethiopia, one hundred twenty-seven satrapies country by country, each according to its own language. ¹⁰It was written by the king and sealed with his ring, and they sent the orders by couriers, ¹¹how he ordered them to live in accordance with their laws in every city, both to help themselves and to deal with their adversaries and their enemies as they wished, ¹²on a single day in the whole kingdom of Artaxerxes, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month, which is Adar.

E What is written below is a copy of the letter:
 "The Great King Artaxerxes, to the rulers of the lands from India to Ethiopia, the one hundred twenty-seven satrapies, and to those who are loyal to our interests, greetings.

² "Many people, who are frequently honored

^aOr his face changed ^bOr hung ^cGk = pl

ALPHA

⁹⁽⁷⁾The king, becoming angry and filled with rage, jumped up and was pacing around. ¹⁰And Haman was terrified and prostrated himself at the feet of Queen Esther as she still reclined on her couch. ¹¹⁽⁸⁾Just then the king returned to the banquet, and when he saw this he said, "A crime against my kingdom is not enough for you? You also molest my wife in my presence? Let Haman be led away, and let him not live!" ¹²And so he was led away. ⁽⁹⁾Then Agathas, one of his servants, said, "Look! A pole is in his courtyard fifty cubits tall, which Haman cut down to hang Mardochoaios, the man who spoke good things concerning the king; therefore, lord, order that he himself be hanged^a upon it."

¹³ So the king said, "Let him be hung upon it." And the king removed the signet ring from his hand, and his life was sealed with it.

¹⁴ And the king said to Esther, "He even planned to hang Mardochoaios, who saved me from the hand of the eunuchs? Did he not know that Esther is of his race?" ¹⁵So the king called Mardochoaios and granted him all that belonged to Haman. ¹⁶And he said to him, "What do you want? I will do it for you." And Mardochoaios said, "That you revoke Haman's letter." ¹⁷So the king entrusted to him the affairs of the kingdom.

¹⁸ Then Esther said to the king on the next day, "Allow me to punish my enemies with bloodshed." ¹⁹So Queen Esther appealed to the king also against Haman's children, that they too should die with their father. And the king said, "Let it be done." ²⁰So she struck the enemies in great numbers. ²¹And in Susa the king made an agreement with the queen to kill men, and he said, "Behold, I give them to you to hang." And so it was done.

(E) ²²So he wrote the following letter:
 "The Great King Assyeros, to the rulers of the one hundred and twenty-seven lands from India to Ethiopia and to the satraps who are loyal to our interests, greetings.

²³⁽²⁾ "Many people, who are frequently hon-

^aOr hung

OLD GREEK

with the greatest kindness of their benefactors, become the more ambitious ³and not only seek to harm those subject to us, but not being able to deal with prosperity, they even undertake to scheme against their own benefactors. ⁴They not only abolish gratitude from among people, but also, carried away by the boasts of those who are inexperienced in goodness, they even presume to escape the evil-hating divine justice, who always observes everything. ⁵Furthermore, many times encouragement has implicated many of those appointed to places of authority, those entrusted to administer the affairs of friends, making them partly responsible for the shedding of innocent blood, and has brought about irremediable calamities ⁶by the malicious lie of an evil disposition of people who misconstrue the sincere goodwill of their sovereigns.

⁷ "And it is possible to see this not so much from the more ancient records as we handed them down, as it is right at your feet, when you examine things impiously perpetrated by the pestilent behavior of those who hold power unworthily. ⁸And it is possible to look out hereafter in order that we may render the kingdom quiet for all people, with peace, ⁹utilizing changes and always discerning what comes to our attention with a rather considerate response. ¹⁰For whereas Haman son of Hamadathos (a Macedonian who was in truth ^aa foreigner to the blood of the Persians^a and quite devoid of our kindness), when he was entertained by us as our guest, ¹¹obtained the goodwill that we have for every nation to such an extent that he was publicly proclaimed our Father and was continually done obeisance to by all as the person second to the royal throne, ¹²but being unable to restrain his arrogance, he made it his business to deprive us of our rule and our breath ¹³and by the crafty deceit of ruses asked to destroy Mardochoaios, our savior and constant benefactor, and Esther, the innocent companion of our kingdom, together with their whole nation. ¹⁴For when by these methods he had caught us undefended he thought that he would transfer the power of the Persians to the Macedonians.

¹⁵ "But we find that the Judeans, who were consigned to annihilation by this thrice-accursed man, are not criminals but are governed by most righteous laws ¹⁶and are children of the most high, most great, living God, who has directed the kingdom for us and for our ancestors in the most excellent order.

¹⁷ "You will therefore do well not to carry out the letters sent by Haman son of Hamadathos, ¹⁸because he who did these things has been crucified at the gates of Susa with his whole household, since the God who prevails over all things has recompensed him quickly with the deserved judgment.

¹⁹ "And byou will do well^b to post a copy of this letter publicly in every place and to allow the

ALPHA

ored with the greatest kindness of their benefactors, after becoming the more ambitious, ⁽³⁾not only seek to harm those subject to us, but not being able to deal with prosperity, they even undertake to scheme evil against their own benefactors. ⁽⁴⁾They not only take away gratitude from among people, but gone astray due to the boasts of those who are inexperienced in goodness, they even imagine they will escape the evil-hating justice of the just Judge who rules all things. ⁽⁵⁾Many times, after having been appointed to places of authority to administer the affairs of trusting friends, having made them partly liable for the shedding of innocent blood, they brought about irremediable calamities ⁽⁶⁾by the lie of trickery, when they misconstrue the sincere goodwill of their sovereigns.

²⁴⁽⁷⁾ "And it is possible to see this from the records that have been handed down to us, and to the extent that we duly see what lies at our feet due to the savagery of those that hold power, ⁽⁸⁾it is possible to look out in the future and to render the kingdom quiet for all nations with peace, ⁽⁹⁾since we do not utilize slanders but manage the matters that come to our attention with consideration. ²⁵⁽¹⁰⁾For as our guest, Haman son of Hamadathos, the Bougean (who was in truth a stranger to the thinking of the Persians and quite devoid of our kindness), ⁽¹¹⁾obtained so fully the goodwill from us for every nation to such an extent that he was publicly proclaimed our Father and was continually done obeisance to by all as the second person to the royal thrones. ²⁶⁽¹²⁾But, unable to restrain his arrogance, he undertook to divest us of our rule and our breath ⁽¹³⁾and by crafty ruses finagled to destroy Mardochoaios, our constant savior, and Esther, his innocent partner, together with their whole nation. ⁽¹⁴⁾For when by these methods he had caught us undefended he thought that he would bring about an alienation of the rule of the Persians to the Macedonians.

²⁷⁽¹⁵⁾ "Therefore, we find that the Judeans, who were consigned to you by this thrice-accursed man, are not criminals but are governed by most righteous laws ⁽¹⁶⁾and are even children of the only and true God, who has directed the kingdom for us until now in the most excellent order.

²⁸⁽¹⁷⁾ "Therefore, do well not to pay attention to the letters previously sent to you by Haman, ⁽¹⁸⁾because he himself who did such things has been crucified at the gates of Susa, since the Judge who always sees all things has recompensed him with the deserved penalty.

²⁹⁽¹⁹⁾ "So let a copy of this letter be posted in every place, so the Judeans might both live by their

^aOr not of Persian descent ^bLacking in Gk

OLD GREEK

Judeans to live in accordance with their own precepts ²⁰and to join in helping them in order that they might defend themselves against those who attack in the time of oppression, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, on that same day. ²¹For God, who rules over all things, has made this day to be a joy for his chosen race instead of a day of destruction for them.

²² "Therefore, you also shall celebrate this with all good cheer as a holiday among your commemorative feasts ²³so that both now and hereafter it may be deliverance for us and for the well-disposed Persians, but for those who plot against us, a memorial of destruction.

²⁴ "Every city and country, without exception, that does not do according to this by spear and fire shall be consumed with wrath. It shall be made not only impassable for people, but also most hostile to wild animals and birds for all time.

8 ¹³"Now, let the copies be posted conspicuously in all the kingdom so that all the Judeans be ready on this day to fight against their adversaries."

¹⁴ So the horsemen went out in a hurry to perform what the king had commanded, and the ordinance was posted also in Susa. ¹⁵Then Mardochoaios went out, wearing the royal robe, with a gold crown and a diadem of purple linen, and when the people in Susa saw him they rejoiced. ¹⁶For the Judeans there was light and gladness; ¹⁷in every city and country wherever the ordinance was posted, wherever the proclamation was made, there was gladness and joy among the Judeans, a feast and mirth. And many of the nations were circumcised and became Judeans out of fear of the Judeans.

9 Now in the twelfth month, on the thirteenth day of the month that is Adar, the letter written by the king arrived. ²On that same day the opponents of the Judeans perished, for no one resisted, because they feared them. ³For the rulers of the satraps and the tyrants and the royal secretaries esteemed the Judeans, for the fear of Mardochoaios weighed upon them. ⁴For it turned out that the king's ordinance was referred to by name throughout all the kingdom. ⁶And in the city of Susa the Judeans killed five hundred men, ⁷including Pharsannestain, Delphon, Phasga ⁸and Phardatha and Barea and Sarbacha ⁹and Marmasim and Arouphaios and Arsaaios and Zabouthaios, ¹⁰the ten sons of Haman son of Hamadathos, a Bougean, the enemy of the Judeans, and they plundered ¹¹on that same day. The number of those killed in Susa was reported to the king. ¹²The king said to Esther, "The Judeans have killed in the city of Susa five hundred men. In the surrounding countryside how do you suppose they have fared? Therefore, what more do you ask? It shall be

ALPHA

own laws ⁽²⁰⁾and strengthen them in order that they might defend themselves against those who attack in a time of oppression. ³⁰And it has been decided by the Judeans throughout the kingdom to observe the fourteenth day of the month, which is Adar, and to hold a feast on the fifteenth, ⁽²¹⁾because on those days the Almighty has made for them deliverance and rejoicing.

³¹⁽²³⁾ "And now hereafter they^a rightly spell deliverance for the Persians but a memorial of destruction for those who plotted against them.

³²⁽²⁴⁾ "Every city and country that does not do according to this by spear and fire shall be consumed with wrath. And it shall be stretched out not only impassable for people but also for wild animals and birds."

(8) ³³⁽¹⁴⁾And a public notice containing these things was posted also in Susa. And the king authorized Mardochoaios to write whatever he wished. ³⁴So Mardochoaios sent out letters and sealed them with the king's signet ring, saying that his people should each remain in their own land and celebrate a feast to God. ³⁵And the letter which Mardochoaios sent contained these things:

³⁶ "Haman sent to you letters containing thus, 'Hasten quickly to send the disobedient nation of the Judeans to me for destruction.' ³⁷But I, Mardochoaios, inform you that the one who did this has been hung at the gates of Susa, and his household has been despatched. ³⁸For this one wished to kill us on the thirteenth of the month that is Adar.' "

³⁹⁽¹⁵⁾ Then Mardochoaios went out wearing the royal clothing and a diadem of purple linen, ⁴⁰and when the people in Susa saw him they rejoiced. ⁽¹⁶⁾For the Judeans there was light, drinking, feasting. ⁴¹⁽¹⁷⁾And many of the Judeans were circumcised, and no one rose up against them. For they feared them.

(9) ⁴²⁽³⁾Now the rulers and the tyrants and the satraps and the royal secretaries esteemed the Judeans; for the fear of Mardochoaios weighed upon them. ⁴³⁽⁴⁾And in Susa it turned out that Haman was referred to by name and so were the opponents throughout the whole kingdom. ⁴⁴⁽⁶⁾In Susa the Judeans killed seven hundred men ⁽⁷⁾as well as Pharsan and his brother and Pharna ⁽⁸⁾and Gagaphardatha ⁽⁹⁾and Marmasaima and Izathouth ⁽¹⁰⁾and the ten sons of Haman son of Hamadathos, the Bougean, the enemy of the Judeans, and they plundered all they owned. ⁴⁵⁽¹²⁾And the king said to Esther, "How have your people here and in the surrounding countryside fared?" ⁴⁶⁽¹³⁾And Esther said, "Let it be granted to the Judeans to destroy and plunder whomever

^ai.e. the 14th and 15th of Adar

OLD GREEK

yours." ¹³And so Esther said to the king, "Let it be granted to the Judeans to do likewise tomorrow so that they may hang the ten sons of Haman." ¹⁴So he thus permitted it to be done and handed over to the Judeans of the city the bodies of Haman's sons to hang. ¹⁵The Judeans in Susa gathered also on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, and they killed three hundred men, but they did not plunder.

¹⁶ Now the rest of the Judeans who were in the kingdom also gathered and defended themselves and gained relief from their adversaries. For they killed fifteen thousand of them on the thirteenth of Adar, but they plundered nothing. ¹⁷And they rested on the fourteenth of the same month and celebrated it as a day of rest with joy and gladness. ¹⁸But the Judeans in the city of Susa gathered together also on the fourteenth and did not rest. They celebrated also the fifteenth with joy and gladness. ¹⁹Therefore for this reason, the Judeans who are scattered in every land outside celebrate the fourteenth day of Adar as a holiday with gladness, each sending portions^a to those nearby. But those living in the large cities also celebrate the fifteenth of Adar as a joyful holiday, sending portions^a to those nearby.

²⁰ Now Mardochoaios recorded these things in a book and sent it to the Judeans—as many as were in the kingdom of Artaxerxes, to those near and far, ²¹to keep these days, the fourteenth and fifteenth of Adar—²²for on these days the Judeans gained relief from their enemies—and the whole month, which was Adar, in which matters had been turned for them from sorrow into joy and from mourning into a holiday, to celebrate it as days of feasting and gladness, sending portions^a to their friends and to the poor.

²³ So the Judeans accepted just what Mardochoaios had written to them—²⁴how Haman son of Hamadathos, the Macedonian, had warred against them, inasmuch as he had proclaimed a decision and had cast the lot to destroy them, ²⁵and how he went in to the king, telling him to hang Mardochoaios, but as much evil as he had devised to bring upon the Judeans came upon him, and he himself and his children were hanged^b. ²⁶Because of this, these days are called Phourai, because of the lots (because in their language they are called Phourai), because of the words of this letter, and as much as they had suffered because of these things, and as much as had happened to them. ²⁷He established them, and the Judeans accepted them for themselves and their descendants and all who had joined them and surely not to do otherwise. And these days are a memorial, kept from generation to generation, by city, family and country. ²⁸These days of Phourai shall be celebrated for all time, and the commemoration of them shall never cease among their generations.

ALPHA

they want." And he agreed. ⁽¹⁶⁾And they killed seventy thousand one hundred men.

⁴⁷⁽²⁰⁾ So Mardochoaios recorded these things in a book and sent it to the Judeans who were in the kingdom of Assyeros—both far and near—⁽²¹⁾to keep these days for hymns and rejoicing in the place of pain and grief, the fourteenth and fifteenth. ⁴⁸⁽²²⁾And he sent portions^a to the poor, ⁽²⁷⁾and they welcomed them. ⁴⁹⁽²⁶⁾Because of this these days are called Phouraia, because of the lots that fell on these days as a memorial.

^aOr gifts of food ^bOr hung

^aOr gifts of food

OLD GREEK

29 Then Esther the queen daughter of Amiadab, along with Mardochoaios, the Judean, wrote what they had done, and the confirmation of the letter about Phrourai. ³⁰And Mardochoaios and Esther the queen established these things for themselves on their own initiative, then also having established them by their own well-being and counsel^a. ³¹And Esther established the matter by ordinance forever, and it was written for a memorial.

10 The king recorded during his rule over both land and sea ²both his strength and bravery, both the wealth and the glory of his kingdom; note that they have been recorded in the book of the kings of the Persians and the Medes as a memorial. ³And Mardochoaios ^btook over from^b King Artaxerxes, and he was great in the kingdom and extolled by the Judeans. And being loved, he spent his life for his whole nation.

F And Mardochoaios said, "From God these things have come. ²For I remember about the dream that I saw concerning these matters, for not even a word of them has failed to be fulfilled. ³There was the little spring that became a river, and there was light and sun and abundant water; Esther is the river, whom the king married and made queen. ⁴The two dragons are I myself and Haman. ⁵The nations are those that gathered to destroy the name of the Judeans. ⁶And my nation, this is Israel, who cried out to God and were saved. The Lord has saved his people, and the Lord has rescued us from all these evils, and God has done signs and great wonders that have not happened among the nations. ⁷For this purpose he made two lots, one for the people of God and one for all the nations, ⁸and these two lots came to the hour and the right time and to the day of decision before God, and for all the nations. ⁹And God remembered his people and vindicated^c his own inheritance.

¹⁰ "And these days in the month of Adar, on the fourteenth and fifteenth of that same month, will be observed by them with a gathering and joy and rejoicing before God, from generation to generation forever among his people Israel."

¹¹ In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemy and Kleopatra, Dositheos, who said he was a priest and a Leuite, and Ptolemy his son brought the above letter about Phrourai, which they said existed^d, and Lysimachus son of Ptolemy, one of those in Ierusalem, translated it.

ALPHA

(10) ⁵⁰⁽¹⁾The king recorded the dues of land and sea ⁽²⁾and his strength, both the riches and the glory of his kingdom. ⁵¹And Mardochoaios extolled him and wrote in the books of the Persians and Medes as a memorial. ⁵²⁽³⁾And Mardochoaios ^atook over from^a King Assyeros, and he was great in the kingdom and loved by all the Judeans. He led them and bestowed glory on his whole nation.

(F) ⁵³And Mardochoaios said, "From God these things have come. ⁵⁴⁽²⁾For he remembered the dream that he saw." And it was fulfilled, and he said, ⁽³⁾"The little spring is Esther, ⁽⁴⁾and the two dragons are I myself and Haman. ⁽⁵⁾The river is the nations that gathered together to destroy the Judeans. The sun and light are the revelation of God that appeared to the Judeans; this is the judgment. ⁵⁵⁽⁶⁾And God has done these signs and wonders, which have not happened among the nations. ⁽⁷⁾And he made two lots, one for the people of God and one for the nations ⁵⁶⁽⁸⁾and these two lots approached the hours at the right time and day of the lordship of the everlasting one among all the nations. ⁵⁷⁽⁹⁾And God remembered his people and vindicated^b his inheritance. ⁵⁸And all the people cried out in a loud voice and said 'Blessed are you, Lord, who remembers the covenants made with our fathers! Amen!'

⁵⁹⁽¹⁰⁾ "And these days in the month of Adar, on the fourteenth and fifteenth of that same month, will be observed by them with a gathering and joy and gladness before God, from generation to generation forever among his people Israel."

^aGk uncertain ^bPossibly succeeded ^cOr made righteous ^dPossibly was authentic

^aPossibly succeeded ^bOr made righteous

IOUDITH

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of the book of Ioudith is based on the edition of R. Hanhart (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum VIII.4: Iudith [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1979]). While I have followed Hanhart's critical text for the most part, there are a few instances in which, to my mind, the Greek manuscript evidence commends an alternative reading as representing the earliest form of the Greek text. These departures from Hanhart are duly noted as they arise. In three places (3.8; 4.9; and 6.6), I am convinced that a copying error must have crept into the text early in its history and that consequently the original reading has been obscured; in these passages, emendation was called for without the support of a Greek manuscript. In each case the reading I have followed does enjoy attestation by the Syriac text, which itself represents an early translation of the Greek.

PLACE OF IOUDITH WITHIN NETS

Although the book of Ioudith is demonstrably the translation of a Semitic work, most likely Hebrew, its parent text vanished sometime in late antiquity. Consequently, the present translation cannot serve the synoptic purpose of NETS with the NRSV. I have nevertheless endeavored to provide a translation which is faithful to the principles and aims of NETS.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General Character

One of the aims of the NETS translator is to capture in English the constitutive character of the Septuagintal text. For much of the corpus, this means that the translator must squarely address the fact that the book he or she is rendering is itself a translation. In this respect, the book of Ioudith is no exception. From its language one can infer with some measure of confidence not only that the text represents the translation of a Hebrew parent, but that it represents a certain kind of translation, namely, one which has rendered its parent in a relatively metaphrastic fashion; this is to say that within the constraints of grammaticality, the Greek of the translation shows every indication of an isomorphic and quantitative fidelity to the language of its source. Implicit in the verbal texture of any translation is its relationship with another text in another language. In an interlinear translation, this relationship is characterized by a high degree of dependence: the Greek of Ioudith reads as it does in large measure because the Hebrew of its parent read as it did. The image NETS has adopted to capture this profile is that of interlinearity, the picture of one text following another, word-for-word, line-by-line. What this image conveys is the relative transparency of the Greek translation to the Semitic discourse it renders.

Semantics

Although upon reading Ioudith one is struck by the peculiar way in which familiar Greek words are used by the translator, it must nevertheless be stressed that idiosyncratic usage is the exception rather than the norm. Yet unconventional usage in Ioudith needs an explanation. In an interlinear translation the frame of reference within which a given word is deployed has been defined almost entirely by the task of translation itself, i.e., the need to provide lexical equivalents. A given word was chosen by the translator precisely because it was deemed an appropriate rendering of the corresponding word in the parent text. Its coherence with the larger verbal context of the target language was not a primary consideration, and so it is that we find Greek words which, at first blush, behave more or less like Semitic ones. This does not mean that they have somehow taken on Semitic meanings; on the contrary, it is upon Greek linguistic convention that the translator erects his interlinear edifice. Conventional Greek meanings had to be presumed if the Greek text was to discharge its constitutive function vis-à-vis its parent, i.e., as an extended series of glosses.

Under the paradigm of interlinearity one can identify various approaches to the task of selecting suitable lexical equivalents. Thus, while certain translations within the Septuagintal corpus exhibit a tendency to stereotypical rendering, where one Greek word is assigned to a Semitic counterpart and then deployed consistently as its equivalent, others will show markedly less reliance on such one-to-one equations. As far as one can tell in the absence of its parent, the book of Ioudith can be characterized by its use of numerous Greek words to render a single Hebrew item, hence by semantic differentiation. Consequently, the book boasts a rich vocabulary. Such differentiation should not be seen to imply, however, that the translator's usage is always felicitous. One senses at times that it is not the context that motivates his word choice so much as the principle of variety itself. Furthermore, he tends to negotiate the meaning of the parent text in an atomistic fashion, if not word-by-word then at least phrase-by-phrase. This follows directly from the premise of interlinearity. It gives rise to many isolate renderings, word choices which reflect the translator's understanding of a corresponding Hebrew item but which have been made at the expense of conventional Greek usage. While the translator may thereby offer his reader considerable interpretive purchase on a small unit of the parent text, the price paid is often as not the overall coherence of the Greek prose.

Although I have noted semantic differentiation within the translation, further qualification is needed. For although the Greek translator employs a large vocabulary, he exhibits a tendency to use his words in accordance with the distribution of their Hebrew counterparts. Greek words are evidently assigned to items in the source language and then deployed according to this equivalency. Put simply, certain Greek words seem to tag along with the Hebrew words they render; this can be inferred from their distribution, which is often distinct from that found in Greek prose of this period. Not surprisingly, there is at times a certain tension between word and context. An example of this is provided by the Greek verb ποιέω ("to make"), the core meaning of which pertains to the production of things external to some agent. This verb was evidently assigned to Hebrew פָּעַל, which in very many cases denotes agency without a view to production. The result is that the translator repeatedly deploys ποιέω in contexts which, while fully appropriate for the Hebrew item, would have undoubtedly occasioned the use of another verb in compositional Greek.

For certain items the translator relaxes his lexical bravado and chooses to convey the repetitive character of the parent text. While his usage may be consistent with contemporary Greek convention, the frequency with which a given word occurs will often arise directly from Hebrew literary style. So for example the translator's use of the verb ἐξέρχουμι ("to go out"), which likely rendered Hebrew שָׁאַף. It is a fitting equivalent, and the meaning of the Greek is never strained by its use. At the same time, the persistence with which this word occurs lends the translator's prose an unmistakably Hebraic quality.

It is important to emphasize that on many occasions the translator's choice of vocabulary is altogether apt. His penchant for variety even leads him to draw upon literary usage seldom found elsewhere in the translated corpus. At 14.9, for instance, rather than use εὐφρόων ("cheerful") to convey the cheerful response of the people to Ioudith's account of her triumph, he supplies the much less common form εὐφρόουνος (see Esth 9.19), which carries poetic associations altogether fitting to the heightened atmosphere of the scene.

The translator's use of the Greek language, while constrained by his translation technique, remains the product of one whose first language was likely to have been Greek. Coming as it does from the hand of one at home in Hellenistic culture, Ioudith is often best understood against this background. A striking example of this is to be found in Ioudith's song (16.6) where she makes reference to both the υἱὸν τιτύων and the γίγαντες. While the translator no doubt had a warrant in the parent text for both of these mytho-poetic figures, the גִּבְיָאִים (see Gen 14.5) and the נַפְלִיִּים (see Gen 6.4) respectively, instead of providing transliterations of the Hebrew names he chose to introduce comparable figures from Greek mythology.

In sum, if we view the work of the translation in terms of the solution of problems posed by the source language, we can speak of the transmission of such solutions from one translator to another.

Syntax

The most obvious syntactical feature of Ioudith is parataxis. While popular Greek composition of this period tolerated parataxis to a fair degree, the prose of Ioudith often amounts to a seemingly endless march of clauses beginning with the conjunction καί ("and") followed by the finite verb. While in Hebrew such parataxis reflects the canons of classical composition, the interlinear rendering of these sequences in Greek, on the other hand, is decidedly at variance with the style of any period.

The jarring use of prepositions is also worthy of comment. Again, it is less a question of grammaticality than of convention. A preposition will at times be supplied which, while adequate to the translator's purpose of representing the structure of the parent text, sits somewhat uneasily within its Greek context.

In certain instances, it is not the construction itself but its sheer frequency that bespeaks its Semitic origin. One favorite usage of the translator is the so-called telic εἰς. A legitimate construction in Greek, it involves the construal of the preposition with a nominal item so as to carry the sense of purpose or reference. In the book of Ioudith it was evidently used in certain instances to render Hebrew constructions with ל.

While he is not altogether rigid in his use of translation equivalencies, the translator of Ioudith is fairly consistent in his handling of the syntactical problems posed by the source language. This means that while, on the one hand, a limited range of Greek constructions appears with a certain regularity, others are conspicuous by their absence, as e.g., the genitive absolute. Participles are seldom construed as adverbials (i.e., circumstantials) but most often as adjectivals; conversely, infinitives tend not to be used as out and out substantives. In both cases, therefore, the Greek mimics the Hebrew. By and large, the translator makes minimal use of the resources available in Greek for subordination. The end result of such a selective use of the Greek syntactical repertoire is that the language of the translation reflects a profoundly Hebraic prose style: terse, direct, measured, stately.

Idiom

A particularly telling characteristic of Ioudith is its literal rendering of Hebrew idiomatic expressions. Most prevalent are those which trade on a figurative use of the word "face." Hebrew פָּנִים occurs in a number of thoroughly conventional prepositional constructions, e.g., לַפָּנִים and עַל פָּנֵי, marking relative spatial position. Here the lexeme פָּנִים is semantically bleached, as it were, its function predominantly structural. In Greek, however, spatial position is not typically marked by expressions which involve the face (although it can be). Hence, the translator's tendency to render פָּנִים by πρόσωπον results in a proliferation of phrases that, while adequately conveying the prepositional force of their Hebrew counterparts, nevertheless carry some of the semantic content of the word "face" into the context. This lends the Greek prose a certain naïveté. The important point is that this quality does not arise from stylistic motivation; it is a function of interlinearity.

Fixed phrases abounded in the parent text of Ioudith, and their literal rendering contributes to the Hebraic tone of the translation. Two notable expressions not current in standard Greek are πᾶσα σὰρξ ("all flesh" 2.3) and λαλῆσαι εἰρήνην ("speak peace" 15.8). In the Hebrew, the corresponding expressions would have carried the sense "all people" and "to wish well" respectively. But occurring as they do in a Greek text, where they are by no means idiomatic, they cannot be so glossed. Other stock Hebrew phrases transferred to the Greek include: ὧν οὐκ ἦν ἀριθμὸς (2.17) "which were without number"; μῆνα ἡμερῶν (3.10) "a month of days"; and εἰς γενεὰς γενεῶν (8.32) "to generations of generations."

At various points in the narrative, characters profess an oath using some variant on the formula ζῆ [τις] . . . ὅτι [present indicative verb of the third person] (e.g., 2.12; 11.7; 12.4; 13.16), which, taking a certain amount of liberty with both the Greek and English, might be glossed, "as surely as [x] doth live, so surely will I perform [y]." The idiom is decidedly Hebraic, and, again, a special case of interlinearity.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF IOUDITH

For its Greco-Jewish readership, Ioudith would thus have seemed at once strange and familiar. Strange because it flew in the face of Greek convention, both popular and literary, yet familiar owing to the fact that it took its place within a growing body of Greco-Jewish translation-literature. The challenge for the NETS translator is then both to convey the strangeness and the familiarity of the text, its beauty as well as its clumsiness. To this end, I have distinguished between source-oriented and target-oriented features of the Greek. Quite simply, a target-oriented feature is one consistent with the conventions of Greek prose; a source-oriented feature is one arising from the premise of interlinearity. On the whole I have rendered target-oriented features in idiomatic English, while allowing the source-oriented features of the prose to stand in tension, as indeed they do in the Greek. In this way I endeavor to convey the Semitic feel of the prose, while at the same time capturing its peculiar brand of literary complexity. My approach, however, remains informal; no hard and fast rules are possible here.

Many source-oriented features of the prose of Ioudith are not easily captured in English. In the case of inter-sentential relations, however, it is often possible to achieve the same effect in English fortuitously present in the Greek. And so I have throughout preserved its parataxis, attributable to the method and aims of the translator. Although parataxis is not entirely foreign to Greek prose style, by reproducing it in English I hope to convey the constitutive character of the translation.

It is axiomatic for NETS that translations are produced for a purpose and that the purpose of a translation will be reflected in its text-linguistic make-up. In the case of Ioudith, almost every verse bespeaks the mandate of the translator to provide his community with an interlinear text. What we might call the literary style of Ioudith is thus to be accounted for on this premise. At the same time, the translator's prose, while not by any stretch of the imagination adhering to contemporary Greek poetics, does carry a certain charm and resonance of its own. The repetition of certain verbal patterns is obviously a reflex from the Hebrew. Yet it is no less effective a literary feature for all that, investing the text with various sorts of verbal complexity. So too, there are times when the language of Ioudith echoes that of earlier Greco-Jewish translations. The fact that such intertextuality is often a reflex of shared translation technique does not diminish the added dimension of significance it has to offer the reader.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Not unlike the Greco-Jewish translator of Ioudith, I have self-consciously undertaken my one word translation within the context of a literary tradition. For English letters, the Authorized Version is a wellspring from which one is well advised to drink deeply. I made a point of returning to its translation of Ioudith, not so much as a guide to the problems of translation, but rather as a literary departure point. After all, the language of the AV has certain features that invite comparison with the Greek of the Septuagint, not least of all its approximation of Hebrew prose style. Of the relevant secondary literature, I found the textual notes and commentary of Morton S. Enslin and Solomon Zeitlin's The Book of Judith (Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1972) most useful. All English-speaking scholarship on Ioudith is in some manner indebted to A. E. Cowley's "The Book of Judith" (in Charles 1:242-267), and in that respect I am no exception.

My greatest debt is that owed to my academic advisor, friend, and mentor, Albert Pietersma. To read a text with any measure of competence is to have served an apprenticeship of sorts, and here I was trained by one of the most able readers of the Septuagint today, whose considerable learning and astute insight have informed my work from start to finish.

CAMERON BOYD-TAYLOR

1 It was the twelfth year of the reign of Nabouchodonosor, who ruled over the Assyrians from Nineue, the great city. It was in the days of Arphaxad, who ruled over the Medes from Ecbatana² and who had built walls around Ecbatana from stones hewn to a breadth of three cubits^a and to a length of six cubits and made the height of the wall seventy cubits and its breadth fifty cubits³ and raised up its towers at its gates^b one hundred cubits and laid out their foundations to a breadth of sixty cubits⁴ and made its gates, gates rising to a height of seventy cubits and their width being forty cubits for the passage of his army^c of chief men and the ranks of his foot-soldiers.⁵ And it was in those days that King Nabouchodonosor made war against King Arphaxad in the Great Plain, that is, the plain on the frontier of Rhagau.⁶ And there rallied against^d him all the inhabitants of the highlands and all who dwelt by the Euphrates and the Tigris and the Hydaspes and in the plain of Arioch, king of the Elymeans. And a great many nations^e gathered for the battle of the sons of Cheleoud^e.

7 And Nabouchodonosor, king of the Assyrians, had sent to all those who inhabit Persia and to all the inhabitants of the west, the inhabitants of Cilicia and Damascus and Lebanon and Anti-Lebanon and all the inhabitants facing the coast⁸ and those among the nations of Carmel and Galaad and Upper Galilee and the great plain of Esdrelom⁹ and all those in Samaria and its cities and beyond the Jordan as far as Ieroualem and Batane and Chelous and Kades and the wadi^f of Egypt and Taphnas and Ramesse and all the land of Gesem,¹⁰ until one comes above Tanis and Memphis, and all the inhabitants of Egypt, until one comes to the frontier of Ethiopia.¹¹ And all the inhabitants throughout all^g the land had contempt for the word of Nabouchodonosor, king of the Assyrians, and did not join with him for the war, for they did not fear him; rather, in their eyes he was but one man, and they sent back his messengers empty-handed and shamefaced.

12 And Nabouchodonosor became violently angry at all this land and swore by his throne and by his kingdom that he would punish the entire region of Cilicia and the Damascene and Syria and that he would dispatch with his sword all the inhabitants of the land of Moab and the sons of Ammon and all Judea and all those in Egypt, until one comes to the region of the two seas.

13 And in the seventeenth year, he took the field of battle before his army against King Arphaxad and prevailed in his war. And he turned back the entire army of Arphaxad, all his cavalry and all his chariots,¹⁴ and he seized his cities. And he came as far as Ecbatana and gained possession of the towers and looted its streets, and its honor he turned to its shame.¹⁵ And he overtook Arpha-

^aIn the measurement of stone, the cubit was equivalent to about one and a half feet ^bI.e. the city-gates ^carmies = Ha ^dPerhaps to ^ePerhaps of the sons of Cheleoud gathered for battle ^friver = Ha ^gOm = Ha

xad in the mountains of Rhagau and struck him down with his spears and destroyed him unto that day^a. ¹⁶And he returned with them, he and all his mongrel force, an enormously large body of warriors, and he spent one hundred and twenty days there, he and his army, in idleness and merriment.

2 And in the eighteenth year, on the twenty-second day of the first month^b, there was word in the household of Nabouchodonosor, king of the Assyrians, that he would punish all the land, just as he had said. ²And he summoned together all his attendants and all his nobles and put before them the secret of his purpose. And from his mouth he recounted every vice^c of the land, ³and they decided to destroy all flesh, all who did not heed the word from his mouth.

⁴ And it came to pass, when he had completed his counsel, Nabouchodonosor, king of the Assyrians, called for Olophernes, the field marshal of his army, being second in command after him, and said to him: ⁵"This is what the Great King, Lord of all the earth, says: Behold, you shall go forth from my presence, and you shall take with you men who rely on their strength, as many as one hundred and twenty thousand infantry and a troop of horse with twelve thousand riders. ⁶And you shall go forth to meet all the land to the west, for they disobeyed the word of my mouth, ⁷and you shall instruct them to make ready ^dearth and water^d, for in my fury I will come upon them and cover all the face of the land with the feet of my army and hand them over for their plunder. ⁸And their slain shall fill their ravines, and every ^ewadi and river overflowing^e shall be filled with their dead. ⁹And I will lead them captive to the ends of all the earth. ¹⁰Now when you go forth, you shall occupy in advance all their territory for me, and they shall surrender themselves to you, and you shall watch them closely for me until the day of their censure. ¹¹As for those who refuse to comply, your eye shall not spare to hand them over for slaughter and plunder in each of your lands. ¹²For as I live, and on the might of my kingdom, I have spoken, and I will accomplish these things by my hand. ¹³You too shall not transgress even one of the words of your lord; rather, when you carry them out, you are to carry them out just as I have ordered you and not put off their doing."

¹⁴ And Olophernes set out from the presence of his lord and summoned all the lords and the generals and commanders of the army of Assour, ¹⁵and he numbered chosen men for battle, just as his lord had commanded him, as many as one hundred and twenty thousand and twelve thousand mounted archers, ¹⁶and he formed them up in the way troops are drawn up for war. ¹⁷And he took for their baggage camels and donkeys and mules, a vastly large number, and for their provision sheep and cattle and goats, which were countless, ¹⁸and for every man a store of provisions aplenty and ever so much gold and silver from the king's household.

¹⁹ And he set out on the march, he and all his army, to go before King Nabouchodonosor and cover all the face of the land to the west with their chariots and knights and picked infantry. ²⁰Great also was the mongrel troop, which grasshopper-like accompanied them; indeed, they were as the sand of the ground, for they were countless owing to their sheer multitude.

²¹ And from Nineue they made a three-day march toward the face of the plain of Bektileth and encamped down from Bektileth near the mountain, which is toward the left^f of upper Cilicia. ²²And he took all his army, infantry and cavalry, and his chariots and departed from there into the highlands. ²³And he broke through Phoud and Loud and plundered all the sons of Rassis and the sons of Ismael, those facing the wilderness toward the south of Cheleon. ²⁴And he went along the Euphrates and through Mesopotamia and razed all the high cities along the wadi Abron until one comes to the sea. ²⁵And he seized the region of Cilicia and cut down all those who resisted him, and he went as far as the frontier of Iapheth, which is toward the southwest facing Arabia. ²⁶And he encircled all the sons of Madiam and set alight their coverts and plundered their sheepfolds. ²⁷And he went down to the plain of Damascus in the days of the wheat harvest^g and set all their fields ablaze, and he handed over their flocks and herds for destruction and stripped their cities and ravaged their plains, and he struck down with the sword's edge all their young men.

²⁸ And upon those inhabiting the coast, those in Sidon and in Tyre and those inhabiting Sour and Okina and all those inhabiting Iemnaan, there fell a fear and dread of him, and those inhabiting Azotus and Ascalon feared him exceedingly.

3 And they sent envoys to him with a suit for peace, saying: ²"Behold, we the servants of Nabouchodonosor the Great King are at your disposal; treat us as is pleasing in your sight. ³Behold, our dwellings and all our buildings and every plain of wheat and the flocks and the herds and all the sheepfolds of our tents are at your disposal; treat them as it pleases you. ⁴Behold, so too our cities and their inhabitants are your slaves; when you come, meet them as is good in your sight."

⁵ And the men arrived before Olophernes and reported to him according to these very words. ⁶And he descended upon the coast, he and his army, and garrisoned the high cities and conscripted select men for an auxiliary. ⁷And they and all their environs received him with garlands and dances and tambourines. ⁸And he razed all their temples^h and cut down their sacred groves. Indeed, he had been appointed to root out all the gods of the land, that every nation and every tongue should serve Nabouchodonosor and him alone and that their every tribe should invoke him as a god.

^ai.e. to this day ^bi.e. March/April ^cPerhaps recounted all the vice, i.e. concluded the affliction ^di.e. tokens of submission ^ewadis, and the river overflowing = Ha ^fi.e. Heb = north ^gi.e. early summer ^hthe territory = Ha

9 And he went along the face of Esdrelom near Dotaia, which is opposite the great ridge of Judea,¹⁰ and he encamped between Gaibai and Scythopolis and spent a month of days there in order to assemble all the baggage of his army.

4 And all the sons of Israel who inhabit Judea heard everything that Olophernes, field marshal of Nabouchodonosor, king of the Assyrians, had done to the nations^a and in what manner he had stripped all their sacred precincts and handed them over for destruction.² And they became most exceedingly frightened by his visage and distressed for Ierousalem and the shrine of the Lord their God,³ for they had recently come up out of captivity, and all the people of Judea had just now been united, and the vessels and the altar and the house^b purified of their desecration.⁴ And they sent to all the territory of Samaria and to Kona and Baithoron and Belmain and Iericho and to Choba and Haisora and to the valley of Salem,⁵ and they occupied in advance all the summits of the high mountains and fortified the villages in them, and they set aside stores for military provisions, for their plains had just recently been harvested.

6 And Ioakeim the great priest^c, who at that time was in Ierousalem, wrote to those inhabiting Baityloua and to Baitomesthaim, which is over against Esdrelom facing the plain near Dothaim,⁷ bidding them hold the ascents of the hill country, since the entrance to Judea was through them, and it was easy to hinder those climbing up, the approach being narrow, wide enough for at most two men.

8 And the sons of Israel did as Ioakeim the great priest instructed them—and the senate of all the people of Israel, who were seated in Ierousalem.⁹ And every man of Israel cried out most ardently to God and humbled their spirits with fasting^d.¹⁰ About their waists they wrapped sackcloth, they and their women and their infants and their cattle and all the resident aliens and laborers and their bought slaves.¹¹ And every man and woman and child of Israel living in Ierousalem threw themselves down facing the shrine and ^emade ashen their heads^e and spread out their sackcloth in front of the Lord.¹² And they draped the altar with sackcloth, and with one accord they ardently called upon the God of Israel not to hand over their infants for plunder and the women for pillage and their ancestral cities to oblivion and their holy precincts to desecration and mocking humiliation amongst the nations.

13 And the Lord listened to their cry and beheld their distress. And for rather many days the people throughout all Judea and Ierousalem continued fasting in front of the holy precincts of the omnipotent Lord.¹⁴ And Ioakeim the great priest and all those who attend the Lord, priests and ministers of the Lord, their waists girt with sackcloth, offered the perpetual^f whole burnt offering and the vows and the voluntary gifts of the people.¹⁵ And there were ashes upon their turbans, and with all their might they were calling upon the Lord to look after the entire house of Israel for good.

5 And it was reported to Olophernes, field marshal of the army of Assour, that the sons of Israel had prepared for war and that they had blocked the highland passages and fortified all the summits of the high mountains and had set traps in the plains.² And he grew violently angry with rage and summoned all the rulers of Moab and the generals of Ammon and all the satrapss of the coast³ and said to them: "Now tell me, sons of Chanaan, who is this people seated in the highlands, and what cities do they inhabit, and what is the number of their army, and in what does their power and strength lie, and who has arisen over them as king, leading their army,⁴ and why have they, of all the inhabitants of the west, disdained to come and meet me?"

5 And Achior, leader of all the sons of Ammon, said to him: "Only suffer my lord to hear a word from the mouth of your slave, and I will tell you the truth concerning this people who inhabit these highlands next to where you are residing, and no falsehood shall be forthcoming from the mouth of your slave.⁶ These people are descendants of the Chaldeans.⁷ And in former times they sojourned in Mesopotamia, for they had no wish to follow the gods of their fathers, who were in the land of the Chaldeans.⁸ And they had departed from the ways of their forebears and did obeisance to the God of Heaven,⁹ for they had come to acknowledge^h, and their forebears had driven them from the sight of their gods, and they had fled into Mesopotamia and sojourned there for many days.⁹ And their God told them to go forth from their sojourning and to go into the land of Chanaan, and they settled there and abounded in gold and silver and in exceedingly many cattle.¹⁰ And they descended into Egypt, for famine covered the face of the land of Chanaan, and they sojourned there until they throveⁱ. And there they grew to a very large number, and their race was countless.¹¹ And the king of Egypt outwitted them, and they^j befooled them; with clay^k and brick they abased them and reduced them to slaves.¹² And they cried out to their God, and he struck all the land of Egypt with plagues, from which there was no cure, and the Egyptians drove them from their presence.¹³ And their God dried up the Red Sea before them¹⁴ and led them toward the way of Sina and Kades Barne. And they drove out all the inhabitants of the wilderness¹⁵ and dwelt in the land of the Amorrites, and with their strength they destroyed all the Hesebonites. And when they crossed the

^ai.e. foreign nations ^bi.e. temple ^ci.e. High Priest ^dmost ardently = Ha ^ei.e. cast ashes upon their heads ^fi.e. daily ^gi.e. governors ^hPossibly the god they knew ⁱPerhaps as long as they were sustained ^ji.e. the Egyptians ^ktoil = Ha

Jordan they inherited all the highlands ¹⁶and drove from their sight the Chananite and the Pherezite and the Iebousite and Sychem and all the Gergesites, and they inhabited them for many days.

17 "And as long as they did not sin in the sight of their God, good fortune was with them, for with them is a God who hates injustice. ¹⁸But when they revolted from the way which he had decreed for them, they were completely and utterly destroyed in numerous wars and taken captive into a land not their own, and the shrine of their God was razed to the ground, and their cities were conquered by their enemies. ¹⁹And now, having turned back to their God, they have come up out of the dispersion, there where they were dispersed and have occupied Ierousalem, where their holy precinct is, and have settled in the highlands, for they were deserted.

20 "And now, O lord and master, if there is in fact negligence amongst this people, and they are sinning against their God, we will also mark this offense which is amongst them, and we will go up and make war on them. ²¹But if there is no lawlessness in their nation, then let my lord pass them by, rather than have their Lord and their God shield them. And we shall be disgraced before all the earth!"

22 And it came to pass, when Achior had finished speaking these words, that all the people encircling the tent and standing around muttered, and the nobles of Olophernes and all those inhabiting the coast and Moab demanded that he be thrashed: ²³"For we will not flee from the sons of Israel, for behold, they are a people in whom there is neither the power nor the strength for a hard battle; ²⁴surely then we will go up, and they shall be fodder for all your army, Master Olophernes."

6 And when the uproar of the men around the council had ceased, Olophernes, field marshal of the army of Assour, said to Achior and to all the sons of Moab before the entire commons of allophyles:

2 "And who are you, Achior and the mercenaries of Ephraim, to prophesy amongst us as you have done today and to tell us not to wage war against the race of Israel, because their God will shield them? And who is god if not Nabouchodonosor? This very one will dispatch his might and wipe them from the face of the earth. And their God will not rescue them, ³but we his^a slaves shall strike them down as a single person, and they will not withstand the might of our horses, ⁴for with them we shall incinerate^b them. And their mountains will be drenched with their blood, and their plains filled with their dead, and not a trace of their feet will stand in our way, but they will perish amidst the devastation, says King Nabouchodonosor, lord of all the earth, for he has spoken; the words of his declaration will not be in vain.

5 "But you, Achior, mercenary of Ammon, who have spoken these words in the day of your injustice, from this day forth you shall not see my face again until I punish the race of those out of Egypt. ⁶And when I return, the blade of my army and the spears^d of my attendants shall then thrust through your sides, and you shall fall amongst their wounded. ⁷And now my slaves shall restore you to the highlands and place you in one of the cities of the ascents, ⁸and you shall not perish until such time as you are utterly destroyed with them. ⁹And if you are hoping in your heart that they will not be taken, don't let your face drop; I have spoken, and none of my words will fail."

10 And Olophernes ordered his slaves, who were standing by in his tent, to seize Achior and restore him to Baityloua and to give him into the hands of the sons of Israel. ¹¹And his slaves seized him and led him outside of the camp into the plain, and they made their way from the middle of the flatlands into the high country and arrived at the springs, which were beneath Baityloua. ¹²And when the men of the city saw them in quest of the mountain's summit, they took up their arms and went off outside the city to the mountain's summit, and every man armed with a sling checked their ascent and kept pelting them with rocks. ¹³And having slipped away beneath the mountain, they bound Achior and left him flung against the foot of the mountain and were gone to their lord.

14 The sons of Israel, coming down from their city, approached him, and upon releasing him, they led him off to Baityloua and presented him to the rulers of their city, ¹⁵who in those days were Ozias, Micha's son from the tribe of Symeon, and Chabris, Gothoniel's son, and Charmis son of Melchiel. ¹⁶And they summoned together all the elders of the city, and all their youth and the women rushed together for the assembly, and they stood Achior in the middle of all their people, and Ozias questioned him as to what had happened. ¹⁷And in reply he reported the words of the council of Olophernes to them, and all that he had said before the rulers of the sons of Assour, every word, and all that Olophernes had boasted regarding the house of Israel. ¹⁸And throwing themselves down, the people did obeisance to God and cried out, saying:

19 "Lord, God of Heaven, behold their arrogance, and have pity on the lowliness of our race, and look this day upon the face of those who are dedicated to you."

20 And they sent for Achior and commended him heartily, ²¹and Ozias took him along from the assembly to his house and gave a drinking bout for the elders, and all that night they called upon the God of Israel for help.

7 Now on the following day, Olophernes gave orders to all his army and his entire people, who were at hand for his alliance, to move off against Baityloua and to occupy in advance the as-

^al.e. of Nabouchodonosor ^bwash away = Ha ^cPossibly he has said that ^dpeople = Ha cents of the highlands and to make war on the sons of Israel. ²And every chief man of their number moved off that day, and their army of warriors was one hundred and seventy thousand infantry and twelve thousand cavalry, not to mention the baggage and the men who were on foot with them, a vastly large number. ³And they encamped at the spring in the ravine near Baityloua and stretched out to a breadth over Dothaim as far as Belbaim and to a length from Baityloua as far as Bean-field, which is opposite Esdrelom.

⁴ Now when they saw their number, the sons of Israel were greatly alarmed, and each man said to the one next to him: "These ones will now lick up the face of all the land, and neither the high mountains nor the ravines nor the hills will withstand their weight." ⁵And each man, taking up their battle gear and lighting fires upon their towers, remained on guard all that night.

⁶ On the second day, Olophernes led out all his horse to face the sons of Israel, who were in Baityloua, ⁷and he surveyed the ascents of their city, and he inspected their^a springs of water and occupied them in advance and stationed detachments of warriors near them, and he himself departed for his people.

⁸ And all the^a rulers of the sons of Esau and all the leaders of the people of Moab and the generals of the coast, approaching him, said: ⁹"Do but let our master hear a word, that there be no fracture within your army; ¹⁰for this people of the sons of Israel do not rely upon their spears but upon the heights of the mountains, wherein they themselves dwell, for it is not easy to ascend the summits of their mountains. ¹¹And now, O Master, do not wage war against them as a military force is wont to do in regular battle, and not a single man of your people will fall. ¹²Remain at your camp, preserving every man of your army, and let your servants hold the spring of water, which issues forth from the foot of the mountain, ¹³for all those who inhabit Baityloua draw their water from there, and the thirst will kill them, and they will surrender their city. And we and our people shall climb up to the neighboring summits of the mountains and encamp upon them for an advanced guard, that not a single man set out from the city. ¹⁴And they will waste away in their famine, they and their women and their children, and before the sword comes upon them they will be laid out in the streets of their dwelling place. ¹⁵And you will pay them back a painful repayment, because they broke out in rebellion and did not meet your face in peace."

¹⁶ And their words were pleasing in the eyes of Olophernes and in the eyes of all his attendants, and he instructed them to do just as they had said. ¹⁷And the detachment of the sons of Ammon departed, and with them five thousand of the sons of Assour, and they encamped in the valley and occupied in advance the waters and the springs of water of the sons of Israel. ¹⁸And the sons of Esau and sons of Ammon went up and encamped in the highlands opposite Dothaim. And they sent from among them to the ^bsouth and east^b opposite Egrebel, which is near Chous, which is on the Wadi Mochmour. And the remainder of the Assyrian army encamped in the plain and covered all the face of the land, and their tents and baggage were in a great mass, and they amounted to a vastly large number.

¹⁹ And the sons of Israel cried out to the Lord their God, for their spirit was fainthearted, for all their enemies encircled them^a, and there was no escape from their midst. ²⁰And the entire assemblage of Assour, the infantry and the chariots and the horsemen of them, remained round about them for thirty-four days. And all their vessels of water failed all the inhabitants of Baityloua, ²¹and the cisterns were emptied out, and they were unable to drink their fill of water for a single day, for they were giving them to drink in measure. ²²And their infants lost heart, and the women and the young men failed from thirst, and they were falling in the streets of the city and in the passages of the gates, and there was no longer strength in them.

²³ And all the people had been gathered to Ozias and the rulers of the city, the young men and the women and the children, and they cried with a loud voice and said before all the elders: ²⁴"May God judge between you and us, for you have done in our presence a great injustice not speaking peaceably with the sons of Assour. ²⁵And now there is no helper for us, but God has sold us into their hands, to be laid low before them with thirst and great destruction. ²⁶And now, call upon them and surrender the whole city to the people of Olophernes and to all his army for pillage. ²⁷For it is better for us to become their plunder, for we shall become slaves, and our spirit will live, and we shall not see the death of our infants with our eyes, and our women and children quitting their spirits. ²⁸Against you we call to witness heaven and earth and our God and the^a Lord of our fathers, who punishes us according to our transgressions and according to the transgressions of our fathers, lest he^f act according to these words on this very day."

²⁹ And in the midst of their assembly, a loud wailing arose with one accord from everyone, and they cried out to the Lord God with a loud voice. ³⁰And Ozias said to them: "Take courage, brothers, let us hold out five days yet, within which our Lord God will turn his mercy towards us, for he will not forsake us completely, ³¹but if they should pass and help not come upon us, I shall do according to your words."

³² And he dispersed the people ^aeach one^a to his detachment, and they went off to the walls and the towers of their city, and they sent the women and children to their homes, and in the city they were in a very low state.

8 And in those days Ioudith heard, the daughter of Merari son of Ox son of Ioseph son of Oziel son of Helkia son of Hananias son of Gedeon son of Raphain son of Akitho son of Elias son of Chelkias son of Eliab son of Nathanael son of Salmiel son of Sarasadai son of Israel. ²And her husband was Manasses of her tribe and of her clan. And he had died in the days of the barley harvest^a; ³for he had been in charge of the ones binding sheaves in the plain, and the burning heat had been upon his head, and he had fallen upon his bed and come to an end in Baityloua his city, and they had buried him with his fathers in the field which is between Dothaim and Balamon. ⁴And Ioudith had lived in her house as a widow for three years and four months. ⁵And she had made herself a tent upon the roof of her house and placed sackcloth about her waist, and upon her were the garments of her widowhood. ⁶And she had been fasting^b all the days of her widowhood, apart from pre-sabbaths and sabbaths and pre-new moons and new moons and feasts and rejoicings of the house of Israel. ⁷And she was beautiful in appearance and quite lovely to see. And Manasses her husband had left her gold and silver and male and female servants and cattle and fields, and she remained over them. ⁸And there was no one who brought a malicious word against her, for she feared God exceedingly.

^aOm = Ha ^bI.e. southeast ^cI.e. God

⁹ And she heard the malicious words of the people against the ruler, because they were faint-hearted due to the lack of water, and Ioudith heard all the words which Ozias had said to them, how he swore to them that after five days he would give the city over to the Assyrians. ¹⁰And sending her favorite slave, the one in charge of all her possessions, she summoned^c Chabris and Charmis, the elders of her city, ¹¹and they came to her, and she said to them:

"Now listen to me, rulers of the inhabitants of Baityloua, for your word, which you have spoken in the presence of the people in this day, is not right, and you have placed this oath, which you have spoken between God and you and have said that unless the Lord turn his assistance to you^d within them^e, you will hand over the city to our enemies. ¹²And who now are you, you who on this very day have tried God, and stand ^fon God's behalf amongst the sons of men? ¹³And now you question the omnipotent Lord, and you will never know anything at all. ¹⁴For you will not fathom the depth of man's heart, nor will you encompass the matter of his thought. How indeed will you seek out God, who made all these things? How will you come to discern his mind, and how will you understand his reasoning? On no account, brothers, are you to continue provoking the Lord, our God, to anger. ¹⁵For unless he be willing to come to our aid within the five days, he has the power, within the course of the days he wishes, either to shield or destroy us before the eyes of our enemies. ¹⁶As for you, do not hold to account the purposes of the Lord, our God, for God is not to be threatened like a man, nor is he to be put upon like a son of man. ¹⁷For this reason, while we are awaiting deliverance from him, let us call upon him for our rescue, and if it please him, he will listen to our cry.

¹⁸ "For there has not appeared among our generations, nor is there in this day, either a tribe or a clan or a district or a city from among us, who do obeisance to handmade gods, as happened in former days, ¹⁹on account of which our fathers were handed over for the sword and for plunder and suffered a great fall before our enemies. ²⁰We however have known no other God except him, for which reason we hope that he will not disregard us nor any of our race. ²¹For in the event that we be taken, also all Judea will fall, and our holy precincts will be plundered, and he will require its desecration by our blood^g, ²²and among the nations he will bring upon our head the murder of our brothers and the captivity of the land and the waste of our inheritance, where, if there we be enslaved, we shall also become an offense and a disgrace before our owners. ²³For our bondage will not be directed to favor, but rather the Lord, our God, will reckon it for dishonor.

²⁴ "And now, brothers, let us prove to our brothers that their life hangs upon us and that the holy precincts and the house and the altar rest upon us. ²⁵On account of all these things, let us give thanks to the Lord, our God, who tries us, just as our fathers also. ²⁶Remember all that he accomplished with Abraam and how much he tried Isaak and all that happened to Iakob in Mesopotamia of Syria, while he was tending the sheep of Laban his mother's brother. ²⁷For just as he did not try them by fire for a test of their heart, he also has not punished us, but the Lord whips those who draw near to him for a warning."

²⁸ And Ozias said to her: "Everything, all that you have said, you have spoken with a true heart, and there is no one who will oppose your words; ²⁹for your wisdom is evident not just today, but all the people have known of your sagacity from the beginning of your days, because what is shaped by your heart is good. ³⁰But the people thirst exceedingly, and they have compelled us to act in accordance with what we said to them and have urged an oath upon us, which we will not transgress. ³¹And now, plead for us, for you are a pious woman, and the Lord will send rain for the filling of our cisterns, and we shall not fail yet."

³² And Ioudith said to them: "Listen to me, and I will accomplish a deed which shall reach generations of generations amongst sons of our race. ³³Stand upon the gate this night, and I will set forth with my favorite slave, and within the days after which you said you would surrender the city to our enemies, the Lord will look after Israel by my hand, ³⁴but you shall not inquire after my deed, for I will not tell you until the things which I shall do are accomplished." ³⁵And Ozias said to her and the rulers: "Go in peace, and the Lord God

^aI.e. prior to the wheat harvest, hence in April/May ^bfasted = Ha ^c + Ozias and = Ha ^dus = Ha ^eI.e. the aforementioned five day period ^fPerhaps instead of God ^gmouth = Ha

before you for the vengeance of our enemies.”
³⁶And turning away from the tent, they went to their posts.

9 Now Ioudith fell face down, and she placed ashes upon her head and stripped off the sackcloth that she wore, and just then in Ierusalem the incense^a for that evening was being carried into the house of God, and with a loud voice Ioudith cried out to the Lord and said:

2 “O Lord, God of my father Symeon, to whom you gave a sword in hand for vengeance on aliens, the ones who ravaged the virgin’s vulva for defilement and stripped naked the thigh for shame and polluted the vulva for disgrace, for you said: ‘It shall not be thus,’ and they did; ³therefore you handed over their rulers for slaughter, and their bed which, deceived, felt ashamed at their deceit, for blood, and you struck down slaves with lords and lords upon their thrones, ⁴and you handed over their wives for pillage and their daughters for captivity and all their spoils for division among the sons loved by you, who also were zealous in zeal for you and detested the defilement of their blood and called upon you as helper. O God, my God, also listen to me, the widow.

5 “For you accomplished the things previous and those at hand and those thereafter and at present, and those of the future you contemplated, and what you conceived of came to pass, ⁶and what you had resolved stood by and said: ‘Behold, we are here.’ For all your ways are prepared, and your judgment is with foreknowledge.

7 “For behold, the Assyrians were increased in their power; they were exalted by horse and rider; they took pride in the arm of infantry; they put their hope in shield and javelin and bow and sling and did not realize that you are the Lord who crushes wars; ⁸the Lord is your name. Dash down their might with your power, and bring down their strength with your fury, for they have resolved to pollute your holy precincts, to defile the covert of the resting place of the name of your glory, to strike down with the blade the horn of your altar. ⁹Look upon their arrogance; dispatch your anger for their heads; place in the hand of me, the widow, the strength that I have contemplated. ¹⁰By the lips of my deceit^b strike down the slave with the ruler and the ruler with his attendant; shatter their stature by the hand of a female.

11 “For your strength is not in numbers, nor is your dominance in those who are fit, but you are a God of the lowly; you are the helper of the inferior, the supporter of the weak, the shelterer of the desperate, the savior of the hopeless. ¹²Yes, yes, God of my father and God of the inheritance of Israel, master of the heavens and earth, creator of the waters, king of all your creation, hear you my entreaty, ¹³and grant ^cmy word and deceit^c for their wound and welt, who have resolved hard things against your covenant and your hallowed house and the summit of Sion and the house of your sons’ possession. ¹⁴And ^damong every nation and every tribe^d bring about the knowledge to realize that you are God, God^e of all power and strength, and that there is no one other than you shielding the race of Israel.”

10 And it came to pass, when she had ceased crying out to the God of Israel and had finished all these words, ²and she rose from falling and summoned her favorite slave and went down into the house, wherein she remained in the days of the sabbaths and in her feasts, ³and removed the sackcloth which she wore and stripped off the clothing of her widowhood, and she washed herself, all around the body, with water and anointed herself with thick ointment and fixed^f the hair of her head and placed a turban upon it and put on the clothing of her merriment with which she was accustomed to dress in the days of the life of her husband Manasses, ⁴and she took sandals for her feet and put on the anklets and the bracelets and the rings and the earrings and her every ornament, and she made herself up provocatively for the charming of the eyes of men, all who would cast eyes upon her. ⁵And she gave her favorite slave a skin of wine and cruse of oil, and she filled a bag with barley meal and fig cake and pure bread, and she packed all her vessels and placed them upon her.

6 And they set forth for the gate of the city of Baityloua, and they found Ozias standing at it and the elders of the city, Chabris and Charmis; ⁷now when they saw her and her face was altered and her dress changed, they were then completely and utterly astounded by her beauty and said to her: ⁸“May the God of our fathers ^ggive you as a favor, and may you accomplish your mission, for the pride of the sons of Israel and the exaltation of Ierusalem.” And she^h did obeisance to God.

9 And she said to them: “Give orders to open the gate of the city for me, and I shall go forth for the accomplishment of the words which you have spoken to me.” And they instructed the young men to open it for her as she said. ¹⁰And so they did. And Ioudith set forth, she and her slave girl with her. The men of the city continued watching her until she went down the mountain, until she passed through the ravine and they no longer saw her.

11 And they continued going straight ahead in the ravine, and the advance guard of the Assyrians met her. ¹²And they seized her and asked: “Of whomⁱ are you, and where do you come from, and where are you going?” And she said: “I am a daughter of the Hebrews, and I am running away from their presence, for they are about to be handed over to you for fodder, ¹³and I am entering into the presence of Olophernes field marshal of your force in order to relate words of truth, and before his presence I will point out the path on which he shall go and seize all the highlands, and of his men not a single body or breath of life shall be lost."

^ai.e. incense offering ^bi.e. by the deceit of my lips ^ci.e. my deceitful word ^dto your entire nation and all the tribes = Ha ^eOm = Ha ^fput in order = Ha ^gi.e. make you a cause for gratitude ^hthey = Ha ⁱi.e. which nation

14 Now when the men heard her words and considered her face, and before them it was wonderful beyond measure in beauty, they also said to her: ¹⁵"Hastening to come down to face our lord, you have saved your life. And now, approach his tent, and some of us will escort you until they pass you into his hands. ¹⁶Now if you should stand before him, do not be afraid in your heart, but rather report according to your words, and he will treat you well."

17 And they chose a hundred men from among them and set them alongside her and her favorite slave, and they led them to the tent of Olophernes. ¹⁸And a surging throng arose in all the encampment, for her arrival in the coverts was the talk of all, and they came and were wheeling around her, while she stood outside the tent of Olophernes, until they brought news to him concerning her. ¹⁹And they remained awestruck by her beauty, and in awe of the sons of Israel on account of her, and each said to the one near him: "Who will despise this people, who keep such women to themselves? For it is not good that a single man be left surviving from their number, who upon their release will be able to outwit all the earth."

20 And they came out, those who slept beside Olophernes, and all his attendants, and they led her into the tent. ²¹And Olophernes was resting on his bed in the mosquito netting, which was of purple^a and gold and emerald and costly stones interwoven. ²²And they reported to him concerning her, and he came out to the anteroom, and silver torches were leading his way. ²³Now when Ioudith came before the face of him and of his attendants, they were all awestruck by the beauty of her face, and falling face forward, she did obeisance to him, and his slaves raised her up.

11 And Olophernes said to her: "Take courage woman; do not be afraid in your heart, for I have not hurt any person who has chosen to be subject to the king of all the earth, Nabouchodonosor. ²And now, as for your people who inhabit the highlands, if they had not shown me contempt, I would not have taken up my spear against them, but they have done these things to themselves. ³And now, tell me why you ran away from them and came to us, for you have come to safety. Be of courage; you shall live in this night and the future; ⁴for there is no one who will harm you, but rather will treat you well, as is done with the slaves of my lord, King Nabouchodonosor."

5 And Ioudith said to him: "Accept the words of your slave, and let your girl speak to your face, and I will not report falsehood to my lord in this night. ⁶And should you follow the words of your girl, God will see the matter through with you entirely, and my lord will not fail in his mission. ⁷For Nabouchodonosor, king of all the earth, lives, and his might lives, he who sent you for the correction of every soul; not only will^b people be^b subject to him on account of you, but also through your strength the beasts of the field and the cattle and the birds of the sky will live for Nabouchodonosor and all his house. ⁸For we have heard tell of your wisdom and of the cunning ways of your spirit, and it has been reported before all the land that in all the kingdom you alone are noble and pre-eminent in experience and prodigious in the campaigns of war.

9 "And now, as for the word which Achior spoke in your council, we have heard his words, for the men of Baityloua saved him, and he reported to them everything that he had said before you. ¹⁰For which reason, O lord and master, do not disregard his word but rather lay it up in your heart, for it is true, for he does not punish our race, nor does a sword prevail against them, unless they sin against their God.

11 "And now, lest my lord be spent and idle, death will also fall upon their face, and transgression has overcome them by which they will provoke their God to anger, at such time as they are guilty of deviance. ¹²When their foodstuffs had failed them and all water become scarce, they resolved to set upon their livestock, and they elected to use up everything, all that God in his laws enjoined them not to eat. ¹³And the first fruits of grain and the tithes of wine and of oil, which they preserved, consecrating them for the priests who stand in the presence of our God in Ierousalem, which it is not proper for any of the common people to touch with their hands, they have decided to consume entirely. ¹⁴And to Ierousalem, for there too the inhabitants did these things, they have sent envoys ^cto convey^c dispensation to them from the senate. ¹⁵And it shall be that as soon as they report to them and they go ahead, they will be given to you for destruction in that day.

16 "Therefore, having witnessed all these things, I your slave ran away from their presence, and God sent me to accomplish with you deeds at which all the earth will be amazed, all who hear them. ¹⁷For your slave is devout and serving the God of heaven night and day, and now I shall remain with you, my lord, and your slave will set forth into the ravine each night, and I shall pray to God, and he will tell me when they have committed their transgressions. ¹⁸And when I come I shall bring back^d to you, and you will march forth with all your army, and there is not one of them who will withstand you. ¹⁹And I shall lead you through the midst of Judea until you come before Ierousalem, and I shall set your seat in its midst, and you will lead them as sheep for whom there is no shepherd, and no dog will grumble against you with his tongue, for these things were spoken to me according to my foreknowledge, and they were related to me, and I was sent to announce^e them to you."

20 And her words were pleasing before Olophernes and before all his attendants, and they were awestruck by her wisdom and said: ²¹"In beauty of face and sagacity of words there is not such a woman from one end of the earth to the other." ²²And Olophernes said to her: "God did well sending you before the people, that might should be in our hands, but destruction amongst those who showed contempt to my lord. ²³And now, you are charming in your appearance and virtuous in your words, for, if you do as you have said, your God shall be my God, and you shall be seated in the house of King Nabouchodonosor, and you shall be famous more than the entire earth."

^ai.e. purple cloth ^bbare ^cwho conveyed = Ha ^di.e. the news ^erelate = Ha

12 And he ordered to lead her in to where his silver service was being set, and he instructed ^ato spread for her some of his finest foods^a and some of his wine to drink. ²And Ioudith said: "I shall not eat from them, lest there be offense, but it will be supplied from the things which have accompanied me." ³And Olophernes said to her: "But should the things being with you fail, from where shall we produce things like them to give you? For there is none from your race with us." ⁴And Ioudith said to him: "Your spirit lives, my lord, that^b your slave will not exhaust the things with me until the lord has accomplished by my hand what he has resolved."

⁵ And the attendants of Olophernes led her into the tent. And she slept until it was the middle of the night and arose toward the morning watch. ⁶And she sent to Olophernes, saying: "Let my lord now give the order to permit your slave to set forth for prayer." ⁷And Olophernes ordered the bodyguards not to hinder her. And she remained in the camp for three days, and she went out each night into the ravine of Baityloua and bathed at the spring of water.^c ⁸And when she came up, she would plead the Lord, God of Israel, to direct her path for the grandeur of the sons of his^d people. ⁹And entering clean, she would remain in the tent until she took her food toward evening.

¹⁰ And it came to pass, Olophernes gave a drinking bout on the fourth day for his slaves alone and did not summon to^e the invitation any of those engaged in duties. ¹¹And he said to Bagoas, the eunuch who was in charge of all his things: "Go now, and persuade the Hebrew woman who is with you to come to us and eat and drink with us. ¹²For behold, if we allow such a woman to pass by without having intercourse with her, it will be a source of shame for our face, for if we fail to gain this one, she will mock us."

13 And Bagoas set forth from the presence of Olophernes, and he went in to her and said: "Do not let this beautiful girl hesitate now to come to my lord and be honored before his presence and to ^fto drink^f wine with us for merriment and to become in this day like a daughter of the sons of Assour, who attend in the house of Nabouchodonosor." ¹⁴And Ioudith said to him: "Who indeed am I to speak against my lord? For I shall hurry and do everything which will be pleasing in his eyes, and this will be a joy to me until the day of my death." ¹⁵And standing up, she was furnished with raiment and every feminine adornment. And her slave girl approached and on the ground before Olophernes spread out the fleece for her, which they had taken from Bagoas for her daily use so that she might eat reclining upon it.

¹⁶ And Ioudith entered and reclined, and Olophernes' heart was beside itself for her, and his spirit reeled, and he was filled with a violent lust to lie with her. And he had been watching for a time to seduce her from the day he saw her. ¹⁷And Olophernes said to her: "Now drink, and be merry with us." ¹⁸And Ioudith said: "I shall drink now, my^h lord, for today my life has been exalted within me beyond all the days of my birthi." ¹⁹And she took, and she ate and drank before him what her slave had prepared. ²⁰And Olophernes was delighted by her and drank a vast amount of wine, more than he had ever before drunk in a single day from the time he was born.

13 Now when it was evening, his slaves were eager to depart. And Bagoas shut the tent from the outside and dismissed the attendants from the presence of his lord, and they departed for their beds, for they were all tired, as the drinking bout had lasted so long. ²Ioudith was left alone in the tent—and Olophernes, having collapsed upon his bed, for the wine had overcome him.

³ And Ioudith had told her slave girl to stand outside of iher bedchamberi and watch out for her departure, just as each day, for she said she would be setting forth for her prayer, and she had spoken to Bagoas according to these words. ⁴And everyone departed from sight, and no one was left behind in the bedchamber from small to great, and standing by his bed, Ioudith said within her heart: "Lord, God of all power, in this hour look upon the works of my hands for the exaltation of Ierousalem; ⁵for now is the time to defend your inheritance and to accomplish my mission for the wreck of the enemies who rose up against us."

⁶ And approaching the bedpost that was near Olophernes' head, she took down his scimitar from it, ⁷and drawing near to the bed she took hold of the hair of his head and said: "Strengthen me, Lord, God of Israel, in this day." ⁸And she struck at his neck twice with her strength and took his head from him. ⁹And she rolled his body from the mattress and took the mosquito netting from the posts. And she set forth shortly afterward and handed the head of Olophernes over to her favorite slave, ¹⁰and she threw it into her bag of provisions.

And the two went forth together as was their custom for prayer, and passing through the camp they circled that ravine and climbed the mountain

^athat some of his finest foods be spread for her = Ha ^bI.e. I assure you that ^c+ in the camp = Ha ^dher = Ha ^eI.e. by ^fyou shall drink = Ha ^gshe = Ha ^hOm = Ha ⁱI.e. since my birth ¹I.e. Olophernes' bedchamber of Baityloua and came to its gates. ¹¹And from afar Ioudith said to the guards on the gates: "Open, open the gate immediately! God, our God, is with us to rouse again strength in Israel and power against the enemies, just as also he did today."

¹²And it came to pass, when the men of her city heard her voice, they were eager to get down to the gate of their city and called together the elders of the city. ¹³And they all ran together, from the small to the great for it was remarkable to them that she had come, and they opened the gate and welcomed them, and lighting a fire for light they formed a circle about them. ¹⁴She then said to them in a loud voice: "Praise God, give praise! Praise God, who did not withdraw his mercy from the house of Israel, but who in this night shattered our enemies through my hand."

¹⁵And producing the head from the bag, she displayed it and said to them: "Behold, the head of Olophernes, field marshal of the army of Assour, and behold, the mosquito netting in which he was lying in his drunkenness, and the Lord struck him by the hand of a female. ¹⁶And the Lord lives, who preserved me in my way in which I went, that^a my face deceived him for his destruction and that he caused no transgression with me for defilement and shame."

¹⁷And all the people were utterly amazed, and bending forwards they did obeisance to God and said with one accord: "Blessed are you, our God who in this very day showed contempt for the enemies of your people."

¹⁸And Ozias said to her: "Blessed are you, daughter, to God Most High, above all women upon the earth, and blessed is the Lord God, who created heaven and earth, who guided you for a wound to the head of our enemies' commander; ¹⁹for your hope will never desert the hearts of people who remember divine strength. ²⁰And may God do these things to you as a perpetual exaltation, so to visit you with blessings, since you did not spare your life on account of the lowliness of our race but proceeded against our fallen state traveling straight before our God." And all the people said: "So be it, so be it!"

14 And Ioudith said to them: "Now hear me, brothers, and take this head, and hang it upon the battlement of your wall. ²And it shall be, when daybreak dawns and the sun sets forth over the land, you are to take up your battle gear, each one of you, and march forth out of the city, every able man, and you shall set a leader over them, for going down to the plain to the advance guard of the sons of Assour. And you shall not go down. ³And taking up their armor they^b will go into their camp and rouse the generals of the army of Assour, and they will run together to the tent of Olophernes and will not find him, and fear will fall upon them, and they will flee from your presence. ⁴And taking pursuit you are to lay them low in their path, you and all the inhabitants of the entire territory of Israel. ⁵But before doing these things, summon Achior the Ammanite to me so that seeing he might identify the one who despised the house of Israel and sent him to us, as unto death."

⁶And they summoned Achior from the house of Ozias, but when he came and saw the head of Olophernes in the hand of one man in the assembly of the people, he fell face down, and his breathing failed. ⁷When they had revived him, he fell at the feet of Ioudith and did obeisance to her face and said: "You are praised in every covert of Ioudas and in every nation; whosoever hears your name will be distressed. ⁸And now, report to me all that you have done in these days."

And Ioudith related everything to him in the midst of the people, all that she had done from the day on which she had gone forth until she was speaking to them. ⁹Now when she had stopped speaking, the people shouted with a loud voice and gave a rousing cry in their city. ¹⁰Now seeing everything, all that the God of Israel had accomplished, Achior came to believe utterly in God and had the flesh of his foreskin circumcised, and he has been added to the house of Israel until this day.

¹¹Now when the dawn rose, then they hung the head of Olophernes from the wall, and every man took up his arms and went forth by groups to the mountain passes. ¹²Now the sons of Assour, when they saw them, sent off for their leaders; they went to the generals and officers of thousands and to their every ruler. ¹³And they came to the tent of Olophernes and said to the one who was in charge of all his things: "Awaken our lord immediately, for the slaves have dared to come down upon us for battle, so that they might be completely and utterly destroyed."

¹⁴And Bagoas went in and knocked on the curtain of the tent, for he supposed him to be sleeping with Ioudith. ¹⁵But when no one paid heed, he drew them apart and went into the bed-chamber and found him thrown dead upon the footstool, and his head had been severed from him. ¹⁶And he cried out in a loud voice with wailing and groaning and with a mighty cry, and he tore his clothes. ¹⁷And he went into the tent, where Ioudith was staying, and he did not find her, and he leaped out to the people and shouted: ¹⁸"The slaves have broken faith; one woman of the Hebrews has brought about disgrace for the house of King Nabouchodonosor, for behold, Olophernes is on the ground, and his head is not upon him."

¹⁹Now when the rulers of the army of Assour heard these words, they tore their tunics, and their spirit was extremely distressed, and there arose from them screaming and an extremely loud cry in the midst of the camp.

15 And when those who were in their coverts heard, they were shocked at what had happened, ²and fear and trembling fell upon them, and there was not a person still remaining to face his neighbor, but rushing out they ^aproceeded to flee^a with one accord for every path of the plain and the highlands, ³and those encamped in the highlands around Baityloua also^b turned to flight. And then the sons of Israel, every warrior of them, rushed upon them. ⁴And to Baitomasthaim and Bebai^b and Chobai and Kola and to all the territory of Israel Ozias dispatched ones carrying reports about the things which had unfolded, and in order that all should rush against the enemies for their annihilation. ⁵Now when the sons of Israel heard, they all with one accord fell upon them and beat them back as far as Choba. And just as those from Ierousalem were present, so too were those from all the highlands, for they had reported to them what had happened to the camp of their enemies. And those in Galaad and those in Galilee outflanked them in a great defeat, until they came to Damascus and its territory. ⁶But the remaining inhabitants of Baityloua fell upon the camp of Assour, and they looted them and became enormously rich. ⁷Now when they returned from the slaughter, the sons of Israel seized the rest, and the villages and hamlets in the highlands and the plain laid hold of much plunder, for there was an enormously large mass.

^ai.e. I swear that ^bi.e. the Assyrian sentries

⁸ And Ioakeim the great priest and the senate of the sons of Israel, those residing in Ierousalem, came in order to view the good things which the Lord had accomplished for Israel and to see Ioudith and to speak peace with her. ⁹Now when they came to her, they all blessed her with one accord, and they said to her: "You are the exaltation of Ierousalem; you are the great pride of Israel; you are the great boast of our race. ¹⁰You accomplished all these things by your hand; you accomplished good things with Israel, and God was pleased on account of them. Be blessed before the omnipotent Lord for all time." And all the people said: "So be it."

¹¹ And all the people looted the camp for thirty days, and they gave Ioudith the tent of Olophernes and all the silver service and the couches and the basins and all his furniture, and she took and placed them upon her mule, and she hitched her carts and heaped them upon them.

¹² And every woman of Israel rushed together so as to see her, and they blessed her, and some of them performed a choral dance for her, and she took wands^c in her hands and gave them to the women who were with her. ¹³And they crowned themselves with olive, she and those with her, and she went before all the people leading all the women in dancing, and every man of Israel, vested in armor, was following along with crowns, and they were singing hymns with their mouth.

¹⁴ And Ioudith began this confession in the midst of all Israel, and all the people were singing out this praise.

16 And Ioudith said:
Address my God with tambourines;
sing to the^d Lord with cymbals.

- Adapt a tune and a song of praise for him;
exalt and invoke his name.
- ² For the Lord is a God who crushes wars;
for into his camps, in the midst of the
people,
he plucked me from the hand of those in pursuit of me.
- ³ Assour came out of the mountains from the north;
he came in the myriads of his army,
of whom their multitude clogged wadis
and their horse covered hills.
- ⁴ He said he would set my territory ablaze and dispatch my young men with the sword
and put my sucklings to the ground and hand my infants over for pillage and plunder my young women.
- ⁵ The omnipotent Lord set them aside with the hand of a female.
- ⁶ For their mighty one did not capitulate to
young men,
nor did sons of the Titans strike him,
nor did towering Giants set upon him, but Ioudith the daughter of Merari undid him with the beauty of her face.
- ⁷ For she stripped off the dress of her widowhood
for the eminence of those who are weary^e in Israel.
- She daubed her face with an anointing,
and she put up her hair in a turban, and she took a linen stole for the seduction of him.
- ⁸ Her sandal caught his eye,
and her beauty captivated his soul;
the scimitar passed through his throat.
- ⁹ The Persians shuddered at her daring, and the Medes were alarmed at her boldness.
- ¹⁰ Then my lowly ones raised the war cry, and my weak ones shouted. And they were terrified;
they raised their cry and turned to flight.
- ¹¹ Sons of girls pierced them through and, like children of deserters, continued to wound them.
They vanished from the battle line of my Lord^f.
- ¹² I will sing to my God a new hymn:
O Lord, you are great and glorious, prodigious in strength, unsurpassable.
- ¹³ Let your entire creation be subject to you;
for you spoke, and they came into being.
You sent your spirit, and it built them up,
and there is no one who will withstand your voice.

^afled = Ha ^bOm = Ha ^cMade of olive branches wreathed with ivy ^dmy = Ha ^ePerhaps distressed ^f+ God = Ha

- 15 For the mountains will be shaken from their foundations together with the waters, while the rocks will melt away like wax from your presence.
But yet^a to those who fear you,
you will be most gracious to them.
- 16 For every offering is a little thing for an odor of fragrance, and all suet is insignificant for a whole burnt offering to you,
but the one fearing the Lord is great forever.
- 17 Woe to the nations who plot against my race;
the omnipotent Lord will punish them in the day of judgment,
to send fire and worms for their flesh,
and they will wail in full consciousness forever.

18 When they came into Ierousalem, they did obeisance to God, and when the people were purified, they offered up their whole burnt offerings and their voluntary offerings and the gifts. ¹⁹And

Ioudith dedicated all the baggage of Olophernes, all that the people had given her, and the mosquito netting, which she herself had taken from his bedroom, she gave to God as a dedication. ²⁰And the people continued celebrating in Ierousalem in front of the holy precincts for three months, and Ioudith remained there with them.

21 After these days each returned to his inheritance, and Ioudith departed for Baityloua and remained there on her property, and in her time she was renowned in all the land. ²²And many desired her, and no man ^bknew her^b in all the days of her life since the day Manasses her husband had died and was added to his people. ²³And she kept increasing in stature, and she grew old in the house of her husband, one hundred and five years. And she set free her favorite slave. And she died in Baityloua, and they buried her in the cave of her husband Manasses, ²⁴and the house of Israel mourned her for seven days. And before she died she divided her possessions among all the nearest of Manasses her husband and the nearest of her race. ²⁵And there was not again one who terrified the sons of Israel in the days of Ioudith and for many days after she had died.

^afor = Ha ^bI.e. had sexual relations with her

TOBIT TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXTS

The present translations have been based on the critical edition of Robert Hanhart (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Göttingensis editum VIII.5: Tobit [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1983]). In my translations I have differed from the readings in Hanhart's edition in only a few cases (and only in G^{II} [see below]) and have adopted another reading on the basis of Greek manuscript evidence. See, for example, 1.2, where I omit Hanhart's reading "road" (ὁδοῦ), because Codex Sinaiticus does not contain it. In 2.6, I retain "ways" (ὁδοί), the reading of Sinaiticus; Hanhart (following the conjecture of Rahlfs and Fritzsche) adopts the reading "songs" (ᾠδαί) and refers to Amos 8.10. In 6.11, I follow MS 319, a reading supported also in 4QpapTobit,¹ "he has a beautiful (καλή) daughter whose name is Sarra"; Hanhart omits "beautiful."

THE TWO GREEK VERSIONS

Attestation

There are two complete versions of the book of Tobit in Greek. Robert Hanhart, the editor, calls these versions Greek I (= G^I), the shorter text form, and Greek II (= G^{II}), the longer form (by about 1700 words). Almost all major manuscripts—Vaticanus, Alexandrinus, Venetus, Papyrus Oxyrhynchus 1594² (= Ra[h]fs] 990) and most cursive manuscripts—contain G^I of Tobit, which Hanhart prints at the top of the page of his Göttingen edition with its apparatus underneath.

Unfortunately, G^{II} is found relatively intact only in Codex Sinaiticus and partially (from 3.6 to the word τοῦτου in 6.16) in cursive manuscript 319, which, however, gives G^I from 1.1 to 3.5 and from 6.16 ὄτι to 14.15. Sinaiticus contains many copyist's errors and has two significant lacunae (4.7–18 and 13.7–9). A tiny portion of G^{II} is preserved also in sixth-century Papyrus Oxyrhynchus 1076³ (= Ra[h]fs] 910), containing 2.2–5, 8. Hanhart prints G^{II} at the bottom of the page with an apparatus, which includes readings from 319 and 910 as well as the critically important Old Latin manuscripts (= La). The Old Latin, which contains the entire book of Tobit, is important, for it was translated from a text-form very close to the version found in Sinaiticus.

Priority

Curiously, in the introduction to his critical edition, Hanhart notes in passing that up to his day the question of the priority between G^I and G^{II} could not be answered with certainty.⁴ In his later study of the text and textual history of Tobit, however, Hanhart is more nuanced; while noting that a case could be made for the priority of either G^I or G^{II}, he favors the judgment that G^I is a reworking of G^{II}.⁵ Since earlier scholars up to the nineteenth-century preferred G^I to G^{II}, the King James Version (1611) and Revised Standard Version (1957) were translated from G^I. In the opinion of the vast majority of scholars today, however, G^{II} with its highly Semitic coloring represents more accurately the original form of the book. In fact, the Cave IV fragmentary texts of Tobit from Qumran (four in Aramaic, 4QToba^{a-d} ar, and one in Hebrew, 4QTobe^e) "agree in general with the long version of the book found in the fourth-century Greek text of Codex Sinaiticus."⁶

¹ See Joseph A. Fitzmyer, "Tobit," in Qumran Cave 4 • XIV Parabiblical Texts Part 2 (Magen Broshi, et al., eds.; DJD XIX; Oxford: Clarendon, 1995) 44, line 17.

² B. P. Grenfeld and A. S. Hunt, eds., The Oxyrhynchus Papyri: Part VIII (London: Egypt Exploration Society, 1911) 13.1–6.

³ Ibid., 6–9.

⁴ Hanhart, Tobit, 33.

⁵ Robert Hanhart, Text und Textgeschichte des Buches Tobit (Abhandlungen der Akademie der Wissenschaften in Göttingen, 3/139; MSU 17; Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1984) 21–37.

⁶ Fitzmyer, "Tobit," 2. Fitzmyer ("The Aramaic and Hebrew Fragments of Tobit from Qumran Cave 4," CBQ 57 [1995] 675) writes that the Qumran fragments preserve "perhaps not more than a fifth of the original Semitic texts," and then he adds that "there is little in [these fragments] that is radically new, or different from the form of the story in either [Sinaiticus] or the VL." He dates (Ibid., 655–657) the copies of these fragments from roughly 100 BCE to CE 50.

Thus, the priority of G^{II} seems beyond question. Accordingly, the most recent translations of Tobit are based on G^{II}: Jerusalem Bible (1966), New American Bible (1970), New English Bible (1970), Good News Bible, also known as Today's English Version (1979), New Jerusalem Bible (1985), Revised English Bible (1989), New Revised Standard Version (1989), and the translation by Carey A. Moore in the Anchor Bible.⁷ Oddly enough, however, despite the evidence of Qumran, Paul Deselaers⁸ and Heinrich Gross⁹ continue to defend the priority of G^I over G^{II}.

Internal evidence also favors G^{II} as the basis of G^I; see, for example, 2.3 where one would be hard put to imagine how the fourteen Greek words of G^I ("And he came and said, 'Father, one of our race has been strangled and thrown into the marketplace.' ") could possibly have been the source of the thirty-nine Greek words found in G^{II} ("So Tobias went to seek some poor person of our kindred. And on his return he said, 'Father!' And I said, 'Here I am, my child.' Then in reply he said, 'Father, behold, one of our people has been murdered and thrown into the marketplace and now lies strangled there.' "). One can readily see how the translator of G^I has condensed the narrative and the dialogue between Tobias and Tobit. In contrast, G^{II} provides the expected Semitic narrative framework as well as the back and forth dialogue of son and father.

A more dramatic example is 5.10 where G^I has only eight Greek words: "Then he called him, and he went in, and they greeted each other." It is extremely unlikely that these eight words could have been the origin of the 149 words in G^{II} in which in detailed (typically biblical) fashion Tobit tells the angel Raphael (in disguise as a relative, Azarias) the anguish he experiences because of his blindness and the need he has for a reliable guide to accompany his son Tobias into Media: "Then Tobias went out and called him and said to him, 'Young man, your father is calling you.' So he went in to him, and Tobith greeted him first. And he said to him, 'Many joyful greetings to you!' But in reply Tobith said to him, 'What is there for me still to be joyful about? Now I am a man with no power in my eyes, and I do not see the light of heaven, but I lie in darkness like the dead who no longer look at the light. Living, I am among the dead. I hear the voice of people, but I do not see them.' So he said to him, 'Take courage; the time is near for God to heal you; take courage.' Then Tobith said to him, 'Tobias my son wishes to go into Media. Can you go along with him and lead him? And I will give to you your wages, brother.' And he said to him, 'I can go with him; indeed, I know all the roads. Also I went into Media many times, and I crossed all its plains, and I know its mountains and all its roads.' "

A close examination of chapter 9 in G^I and G^{II} provides further convincing evidence that the former is condensed from the latter. The text of G^I, which omits many narrative elements, fails to convey the drama and tension found in the much more detailed form of the story in G^{II}.

By reading the translations of G^I and G^{II} synoptically, the reader will see many other instances where G^I condenses G^{II} or omits the G^{II} repetitions that are a hallmark of biblical narrative. Perhaps the translator of G^I was writing for a more sophisticated Greek-speaking audience for whom the Semitic-type repetitions and extended dialogues could seem otiose or stylistically less elegant.

A Third Version

A third version exists in cursive manuscripts 106–107 (= d) that Hanhart calls Greek III (= G^{III}); it preserves the text of only 6.9–12.22. Hanhart describes G^{III} as a secondary text-form fundamentally related to G^{II};¹⁰ accordingly, he includes its variants in the apparatus of G^{II}. It should be noted that 106–107 give the G^I form of the text from 1.1 to 6.8 and again from 13.1 to 14.15.

APPROACH TO THE GREEK TEXT

Synoptic Rendering

In accord with the general principles of NETS concerning books that have two Greek forms, I have rendered the exact synoptic parallels between the two versions of Tobit in the same way. These synoptic parallels within their contexts provide a further opportunity for the reader to see how G^I was indeed based upon G^{II} and not the other way around. In any case, I hope that the reader will be able to follow more easily, with the aid of my translations, the two Greek forms of the book as we now have them. Since these ⁷ Carey A. Moore, Tobit: A New Translation and Commentary (AB 40A; New York: Doubleday, 1996).

⁸ Paul Deselaers, Das Buch Tobit: Studien zu seiner Entstehung, Komposition und Theologie (OBO 43; Freiburg: Universitätsverlag, 1982). See the critical review of Deselaers by Irene Nowell, CBQ 46 (1984) 306–307.

⁹ Heinrich Gross, Tobit. Judith (Die Neue Echter Bibel: Kommentar zum Alten Testament mit der Einheitsübersetzung 19; Würzburg: Echter Verlag, 1987).

¹⁰ Hanhart, Tobit, 33.

Greek forms are themselves translations of a Semitic original, in my translations I have attempted to reproduce in English the flavor of these two Greek forms.

Recent Translations

The recent translations of the book of Tobit are based, as I mentioned above, on G^{II}, and these make a serious effort to reconstruct or correct the defective text of Sinaiticus on the basis of Greek witnesses, whenever possible, and also on the basis of the critically essential Old Latin witnesses. See, for example, the critical footnotes the translators of Tobit supplied in the New Revised Standard Version, and especially the extensive critical notes I provided for my translation of Tobit in the New American Bible.¹¹ The forthcoming revision of Tobit in the New American Bible, revised edition, by Joseph A. Fitzmyer who, as noted above, edited the Qumran fragments of Tobit, also will contain readings from these fragments.

The NETS Translations of Tobit

My translation of G^{II}, however, is different from any of these other translations. What I give is a translation of G^{II} alone, warts and all. In those places where Codex Sinaiticus has lacunae, as noted above, Hanhart does not supply a text, but only an apparatus. These lacunae, therefore, are represented also in my translation; to see what essentially would have been in these lacunae the reader should look to the translation of G^I. In rare cases when a passage of G^{II} is awkward, I render it into English without attempting to improve on the Greek. In 11.11–13, for instance, I give the following translation: "Then he lay the medicine on him, and ^ait worked^a. And he scaled it off with both his hands from the corners of his eyes." Note ^a then states: "Gk uncertain." Thus, readers can see for themselves what the Greek text says. I followed the same procedure in my translation of G^I.

If the translation of a Greek expression needs clarification, I have appended a note. The translation of 1.2 in G^{II}, for example, states, "Thisbe which is to the right^a of Kydios . . . above Asser^b to the west, left^c of Phogor." My note ^a reads: "Aram/Heb = south," and note ^c reads "Aram/Heb = north."

The Names of the Protagonist(s)

In the Qumran Aramaic and Hebrew fragments the father's name appears as טוֹבִיָּא, a Hebrew name meaning "my good," but this form is clearly an abbreviation of the son's name יְהוֹרֵיָּא, a Hebrew name meaning "Yah[weh] is my good,"¹² which recurs also in Ezra 2.60; Neh 2.10, 19; 3.35; 4.1; 6.1, 12, 14, 17, 19; 7.62; 13.4, 7, 8. The father's name in the Greek forms of the book is spelled in different ways: Τωβίτ in G^I and Τωβίθ (twenty-two times) in G^{II}; the final consonant in each of these forms was added to the final vowel of the Greek transliteration to make the name indeclinable.¹³ In G^{II} a second form, Τωβίς, is found eight times and is inflected: nominative (11.10; 12.4), dative Τωβεί (7.2) and accusative Τωβίυ (3.17; 7.4; 9.6; 10.8; 11.18). The son's name recurs as Τωβίς in G^I as well as in G^{II}, a name that also can be inflected; this Greek name represents the transliteration of Hebrew יְהוֹרֵיָּא. In the LXX of Ezra 2.60 and most of the Nehemiah texts, the name occurs as indeclinable Τωβίς. But in Neh 3.35; 6.12, 19, the name is given as Τωβίς while in 6.17 the name occurs in the first of two instances in the accusative case.

ALEXANDER A. DI LELLA

¹¹ Textual Notes on the New American Bible (Paterson, NJ: St. Anthony's Guild, 1970) 366–369.

¹² See Moore, Tobit, 99–100.

¹³ Similar cases are the personal name Sirach, a transliteration of Hebrew שִׁירָח (Sir 50.27), and the place name Ἀκελαμάχ, a transliteration of Aramaic ܐܟܠܡܚܘܚܐ (Acts 1.19).

GII

1 The book of the words of Tobith son of Tobiel son of Hananiel son of Adouel son of Gabael son of Raphael son of Ragouel of the descendants of Asiel, of the tribe of Nephthaleim, ²who in the days of Enemessaros, the king of the Assyrians, was taken into captivity from Thisbe which is to the right^a of Kydios Nephthaleim in Upper Galilee, above Asser^b to the west, left^c of Phogor.

3 I, Tobith, walked in the ways of truth and in righteous acts all the days of my life, and I performed many acts of charity for my kindred and my people who had gone with me in exile into the land of the Assyrians, into Nineue. ⁴And when I was in my own country, in the land of Israel, and when I was young, all the tribe of Nephthaleim my ancestor withdrew from the house of Dauid my ancestor and from Ierousalem, the city chosen from all the tribes of Israel to offer sacrifice for all the tribes of Israel, and the shrine of God's covert had been consecrated and established in it for all the generations of the age.

5 All my kindred and the house of Nephthaleim my ancestor sacrificed to the calf which Ierobeam, the king of Israel, had made in Dan on all the mountains of Galilee. ⁶But I all alone went frequently into Hierosolyma for the feasts, as it is written in all Israel in an everlasting ordinance. Taking the first fruits and the first products and the tithes of the cattle and the first shearings of the sheep, I would hurry off to Hierosolyma. ⁷And I gave these to the priests, the sons of Aaron, at the altar, and the tenth of the grain and the wine and olive oil and pomegranates and the figs and the rest of the fruits to the sons of Leui who ministered in Ierousalem. Also I tithed the second tenth in silver for six years and would go and spend these things in Ierousalem each year. ⁸And I gave these things to the orphans and the widows and guests who had attached themselves to the sons of Israel. I brought and gave these things to them in the third year, and we would eat them according to the decree that had been decreed concerning them in the law of Moyses and according to the commands which Debbora, the mother of Hananiel our father, had commanded, for my father had left me an orphan and died. ⁹And when I became a man, I took a wife, one of our own family, and by her I became the father of a son, and I called his name Tobias.

10 After I was taken captive to the Assyrians and when I was taken captive, I went into Nineue. And all of my kindred and my race ate the food of the nations, ¹¹but I kept myself from eating the bread of the nations. ¹²And when I was mindful of my God with my whole soul, ¹³the Most High gave me favor and good standing with Enemessaros, and I bought everything he needed. ¹⁴So I would go into Media and buy for him there until he died. And I placed in trust bags of silver, ten talents worth, with Gabaelos the brother of Gabri in the country of Media. ¹⁵But

^aAram/Heb = south ^b + the road = Ha ^cAram/Heb = north

GI

1 The book of the words of Tobit son of Tobiel son of Hananiel son of Adouel son of Gabael of the descendants of Asiel, of the tribe of Nephthaleim, ²who was taken into captivity in the days of Enemessaros, the king of Assyrians, from Thisbe which is to the right^a of Kydios Nephthaleim in Galilee above Aser.

3 I, Tobit, walked in the ways of truth and righteousness all the days of my life, and I performed many acts of charity for my kindred and people who had accompanied me into the land of the Assyrians, into Nineue. ⁴And when I was in my own country, in the land of Israel, while I was a young man, all the tribe of Nephthaleim my ancestor withdrew from the house of Hierosolyma, which had been chosen from all the tribes of Israel for all the tribes to offer sacrifice, and the shrine of the Most High's covert had been consecrated and established for all the generations of the age.

5 And all the tribes that had joined in apostasy and the house of Nephthaleim my ancestor offered sacrifice to Baal the heifer. ⁶But I alone went often into Hierosolyma for the feasts, as it is written for all Israel in an everlasting ordinance, taking the first fruits and the tithes of the produce and the first shearings. ⁷And I gave these to the priests, the sons of Aaron, at the altar. I gave the tenth of all the produce to the sons of Leui who ministered in Ierousalem, and the second tenth I sold and went and spent these things in Hierosolyma each year. ⁸And I gave the third tenth to those to whom it was my duty, as Debbora, my father's mother, had commanded me, for I was left an orphan by my father. ⁹And when I became a man, I took Hanna as wife, one of our own family, and by her I became the father of Tobias.

10 Now when I was taken captive into Nineue, all of my kindred and race ate the bread of the nations, ¹¹but I kept myself from eating it, ¹²because I was mindful of God with my whole soul. ¹³Then the Most High gave me favor and good standing with Enemessaros, and I was his buyer of provisions. ¹⁴So I went into Media, and I placed in trust ten talents of silver with Gabaelos, the brother of Gabrias, at Rhaga in Media. ¹⁵But when Enemessaros died, Sennachereim his son became king in his place, and his roads became unstable, and I could no longer go into Media.

^aAram/Heb = south

GII

when Enemassar died and Sennachereim his son became king in his place, then the roads to Media became unfit, and I could no longer go into Media.

16 In the days of Enemessaros I performed many acts of charity for my kindred, those of my race. ¹⁷I would give my bread to the hungry and clothing to the naked, and if I saw anyone of my people dead and cast out behind the wall of Nineue, I would bury him. ¹⁸And if Sennachereim killed anyone, when he came fleeing from Judea in the days of judgment which the king of heaven executed upon him because of the blasphemies which he blasphemed, I buried him. For in his anger he killed many of the sons of Israel, but I would steal their bodies and bury them. And Sennachereim sought them, but he could not find them. ¹⁹Then a certain one of the people of Nineue went and informed the king about me, that I bury them; so I hid myself. But when I discovered that the king knew about me and that I was being sought out to be put to death, I was afraid and ran away. ²⁰Then everything that belonged to me was seized, and nothing was left to me that was not taken into the royal treasury, except Hanna my wife and Tobias my son.

21 But forty days did not pass before two of his sons killed him, and they fled into the mountains of Ararat. Then Sacherdonos his son became king after him. And he appointed Achicharos son of Hanael my brother over all the accounts of his kingdom, and he had authority over all the administration. ²²Then Achicharos interceded for me, and I returned into Nineue. For Achicharos was chief cupbearer and keeper of the signet and in charge of administration and accounts under Sennachereim, the king of the Assyrians, and Sacherdonos appointed him second to himself. Now he was my nephew and from my kinsfolk.

2 Then during the reign of King Sarchedonos I returned home, and my wife Hanna and Tobias my son were given back to me. And at our feast of Pentecost, which is the holy feast of weeks, there was a good dinner for me, and I reclined to have dinner. ²And the table was set for me, and many fine foods were set before me. Then I said to Tobias my son, "My child, go, and bring whatever poor person of our kindred you may find among the Nineuite exiles, who is mindful with his whole heart, and he will eat together with me. And see, I shall wait for you, my child, until you come." ³So Tobias went to seek some poor person of our kindred. And on his return he said, "Father!" And I said, "Here I am, my child." Then in reply he said, "Father, behold, one of our people has been murdered and thrown into the marketplace and now lies strangled there." ⁴So I sprang up, left the dinner before even tasting it and removed him from the square and put him into one of the rooms until the sun set and I would bury him. ⁵So returning, I washed myself and ate the bread with 16 Now in the days of Enemessaros I performed many acts of charity for my kindred. ¹⁷I would give my bread to the hungry and clothing to the naked, and if I saw anyone of my race dead and cast out behind the wall of Nineue, I would bury him. ¹⁸And if Sennachereim the king killed anyone, when he came fleeing from Judea, I buried them by stealth. For he killed many in his anger. And the bodies were sought by the king, but they were not found. ¹⁹But one of the people of Nineue went and informed the king about me, that I bury them; so I hid myself. But discovering that I was being sought out to be put to death, I fled in fear. ²⁰Then all my belongings were seized, and nothing was left to me except Hanna my wife and Tobias my son.

GI

21 But fifty days did not pass before two of his sons killed him, and they fled into the mountains of Ararat. Then Sacherdonos his son became king in place of him. And he appointed Achicharos son of Hanael my brother over all the accounts of his kingdom and over all the administration. ²²And Achicharos interceded for me, and I came into Nineue. Now Achicharos was cupbearer and keeper of the signet and in charge of administration and accounts, and Sacherdonos appointed him second to himself. Now he was my nephew.

2 When I returned home and Hanna my wife and Tobias my son were given back to me at the feast of Pentecost, which is the holy feast of seven weeks, there was a good dinner for me, and I reclined to eat. ²And I saw many foods, so I said to my son, "Go, and bring whatever poor person of our kindred you may find who is mindful of the Lord, and behold, I shall wait for you." ³And he came and said, "Father, one of our race has been strangled and thrown into the marketplace!" ⁴So before I tasted anything, I sprang up and removed him to a certain chamber until the sun set. ⁵And returning, I washed myself and ate my bread in sorrow. ⁶Then I remembered the prophecy of Amos, when he said, mourning. ⁶Then I remembered the saying of the prophet, those things that Amos spoke against Baithel, saying,

GII

"Your feasts shall be turned into mourning,
and all your ways^a into lamentation."

And I wept.

⁷ And when the sun had set, I went and dug a grave and buried him. ⁸And my neighbors were laughing in scorn, saying, "Is he still not afraid? For he was already sought out to be murdered for this thing, and he ran away. And again, behold, he is burying the dead!" ⁹Then the same night I washed myself and went into my courtyard and slept by the wall of the courtyard, and my face was uncovered because of the heat. ¹⁰And I did not know that there were sparrows in the wall above me, and their warm excrement settled into my eyes and brought about white films. So I went to the physicians to be healed, but the more they anointed me with the medicines so much the more were my eyes blinded by the white films until I became completely blind. And I was powerless with my eyes four years. Now all my kindred grieved for me, but Achiacharos supported me two years before he went to Elymais.

¹¹ And at that time Hanna my wife earned money in women's works. ¹²Then she would send what she made to their owners, and they would give her the wages. Now, on the seventh of Dystros, she cut off a piece of weaving and sent it to the owners, and they gave her all the wages and also gave her for the family a kid from the goats. ¹³And when it came in toward me, the kid began to bleat. So I called her and said, "Where is this kid from? It is not stolen, is it? Give it back to its owners, for we have no authority to eat anything stolen." ¹⁴But she said to me, "It was given to me as a gift in addition to the wages." But I did not believe her and told her to give it back to the owners. And because of this I flushed with anger against her. Then in reply she said to me, "Now where are your acts of charity? Where are your righteous deeds? See, these things are known about you!"

3 Then being grief-stricken in spirit and groaning, I wept, and I began to pray with sighs:

² "You are righteous, O Lord,
and all your deeds are righteous,
and all your ways are mercy and truth;
you judge the age.

³ And now you, O Lord, remember me, and look down.

And do not punish me for my sins
and for my unwitting offenses
and those of my ancestors;
they sinned before you,

⁴ and they^b disobeyed your
commandments.

And you gave us over to plunder and exile
and death

GI

"Your feasts shall be turned into mourning, and all your merriments into lamentation."

And I wept.

⁷ And when the sun had set I went and dug a grave and buried him. ⁸And the neighbors were laughing, saying, "He is no longer afraid to be murdered for this thing. And he ran away, and behold, he is again burying the dead!" ⁹Then on the same night I returned from the burial, and, because I was defiled, I slept by the wall of the courtyard, and my face was uncovered. ¹⁰I did not know that there were sparrows in the wall, and since my eyes were open the sparrows dropped their warm excrement into my eyes, and white films came into my eyes. So I went to physicians, but they did not help me. Achiacharos, however, supported me until he went to Elymais.

¹¹ And my wife Hanna earned money in women's things. ¹²Then she would send what she made to the owners. And they in turn gave her the wages, giving in addition also a kid. ¹³But when it came toward me, it began to bleat. So I said to her, "Where is the kid from? It is not stolen, is it? Give it back to the owners, for it is not lawful to eat what is stolen." ¹⁴But she said, "It was given to me as a gift in addition to the wages." But I did not believe her and told her to give it back to the owners. And I blushed in anger against her. She, however, said to me in reply, "Where are your acts of charity and your righteous deeds? Behold, all things are known about you!"

3 Then in grief I wept, and I prayed with anguish, saying,

² "You are righteous, O Lord,
and all your deeds
and all your ways are mercy and truth,
and with true and righteous judgment you judge forever.

³ Remember me,
and look down upon me;
do not punish me for my sins
and for my unwitting offenses
and those of my ancestors
who sinned before you.

⁴ For they disobeyed your commandments,
and you gave us over to plunder and exile
and death,
and for an illustration of reproach to all the nations

GII

and for an illustration and byword and reproach among all the nations among which you have scattered us.

5 And now your many judgments are true
in doing with me according to my sins, because we did not keep your
commandments
and did not walk truthfully before you.
6 So now according to what is pleasing to you do with me,
and command my spirit to be taken up
from me,
that I may be set free from the face of the earth and become earth.
For it is better for me to die than to live,
because I have heard false reproaches,
and great is the grief with me.
O Lord, command that I be set free from this distress;
set me free into the place everlasting,
and do not turn away your face, O Lord,
from me.

For it is better for me to die than to see great distress in my life, and better not to hear reproaches."

7 On that day, it happened to Sarra daughter of Ragouel at Ecbatana in Media that she also heard reproaches from one of her father's maids. ⁸For she had been given to seven husbands, and Asmodaios the wicked demon had killed them before they had been with her as is prescribed for wives. So the maid said to her, "You are the one who kills your husbands! Behold, already you have been given to seven husbands, and you have not borne the name of one of them. ⁹Why do you beat us concerning your husbands? Because they are dead? Go with them! And may we never see a son or a daughter of yours!"

10 On that day she was grieved in spirit and wept. And going up into the upper room of her father, she wished to hang herself. But she thought again and said, "Never may they reproach my father and say to him, 'You had only one beloved daughter, but she hanged herself because of her troubles.' And I shall bring down my father's old age with grief into Hades. It is better for me not to hang myself, but to pray the Lord that I may die and no longer hear reproaches in my life." ¹¹At that same time, stretching out her hands toward the window, she prayed and said,

"Blessed are you, merciful God!
And blessed is your name forever,
and let all your works praise you forever.

12 And now my face is toward you,
and I lift up my eyes.
13 Command that I be set free from the earth and that I hear reproaches no more.
14 You know, O Master, that I am pure from all impurity with a man 15 and that I did not defile my name

GI

among which we have been scattered.
5 And now your many judgments are true
in doing with me concerning my sins
and those of my ancestors,
because we did not keep your
commandments.
For we did not walk in truth before you.
6 So now, according to what is pleasing before you, do with me;
command my spirit to be taken up,
that I may be set free and become earth.
For it is better for me to die than to live,
because I have heard false reproaches,
and grief is great in me.
Command that I be now set free from this distress
to go to the everlasting place;
do not turn your face away from me."

7 On the same day, it happened to Sarra daughter of Ragouel at Ecbatana in Media that she also was reproached by her father's maids, ⁸because she had been given to seven husbands, and Asmodaus the wicked demon had killed them before they had been with her as is the case with wives. So the maids said to her, "Do you not know you strangle your husbands? Already you had seven and had no advantage from one of them. ⁹Why do you beat us? If they are dead, go with them! May we never see a son or a daughter of yours!"

10 Hearing these things, she was so deeply grieved that she thought to hang herself. But she said, "I am my father's only one; if I do this, it will be a disgrace to him, and I shall bring down his old age with sorrow into Hades." ¹¹So she prayed toward the window and said, "Blessed are you, O Lord my God!

And blessed is your holy and honored name forever.

Let all your works praise you forever.
12 And now, O Lord, I have turned my eyes and my face toward you.
13 Command that I be set free from the earth and hear reproach no more.
14 You know, O Lord, that I am pure from all sin with a man 15 and that I did not defile my name or my father's name in the land of my captivity.
I am my father's only begotten,
and he has no other child who will be his heir,
nor has he a near kinsman or son of his

GII

or my father's name in the land of my captivity.

I am my father's only begotten,
and he has no other child to be his heir, nor has he a near kinsman or other relative
that I should keep myself as wife for him.
Seven of mine have already died.
So why should I still live?
But if it does not please you to kill me,
O Lord, hear now my reproach."

16 At that very moment, the prayer of both was heard in the presence of the glory of God. ¹⁷And Raphael was sent to heal the two: Tobis, by removing the white films from his eyes so that he might see with his eyes the light of God, and Sarra daughter of Ragouel, by giving her to Tobias son of Tobith as wife and by freeing Asmodaios the wicked demon from her, because Tobias had the right to inherit her before all others who desired to have her. At that moment Tobith returned from the courtyard into his house, and Sarra daughter of Ragouel also came down herself from the upper room.

4 On that day Tobith remembered the silver, which he had placed in trust with Gabaelos at Rhaga in Media, ²and he said in his heart, "Behold, I have asked for death. Why do I not call Tobias my son and inform him about this silver before I die?" ³Then he called Tobias his son, and he came to him. And he said, "Bury me properly. And honor your mother and do not abandon her all the days of her life. And do what is pleasing before her, and do not grieve her spirit in anything. ⁴Remember her, my child, because she experienced many dangers for you in her womb. And when she dies, bury her beside me in one grave.

⁵ "And all your days, my child, remember the Lord, and do not desire to sin or to transgress his commandments. Do righteous acts all the days of your life, and do not walk in the ways of injustice. ⁶For those who keep to the truth will succeed in all their deeds. And to all those who do righteousness, . . .

GI

that I should keep myself as wife for him.
Seven of mine have already died.
Why should I live?
But if it does not please you to kill me, command that some regard be shown to me and mercy be given to me and that I hear reproach no more."

16 Now the prayer of both was heard in the presence of the glory of the great Raphael. ¹⁷And he was sent to heal the two: to scale away the white films of Tobit and to give Sarra daughter of Ragouel to Tobias son of Tobit as wife and to bind Asmodaus the wicked demon, because Tobias had the right to inherit her. At that very moment Tobit returned and entered into his house, and Sarra daughter of Ragouel came down from her upper room.

4 On that day Tobit remembered about the silver, which he had placed in trust with Gabaelos at Rhaga in Media, and he said in himself, ²"I have asked for death. Why do I not call Tobias my son so that I may inform him before I die?" ³So calling him, he said, "My child, if I die, bury me, and do not neglect your mother. Honor her all the days of your life, and do what is pleasing to her, and do not grieve her. ⁴Remember, my child, that she experienced many dangers for you in the womb. When she dies, bury her beside me in one grave.

⁵ "All the days, my child, remember the Lord our God, and do not desire to sin or to transgress his commandments. Do righteousness all the days of your life, and do not walk in the ways of injustice. ⁶For if you keep to the truth, there will be successes in your deeds. And to all who do righteousness ⁷give alms from your possessions, and do not let your eye be envious when you give alms. Do not turn your face away from any poor person, and the face of God shall not be turned away from you. ⁸If you have abundant possessions, give alms from them accordingly; if you have a little, do not be afraid to give alms according to that little. ⁹For you will be storing up a good treasure for yourself against the day of necessity. ¹⁰Therefore, alms delivers from death and prevents entering into the darkness. ¹¹For alms is a good gift to those who give them in the presence of the Most High.

¹² "Beware, my child, of all immorality. And first of all take a wife from among the descendants of your ancestors, and do not take a foreign woman, who is not of the tribe of your father, for we are the children of the prophets. Remember, my child, Noe, Abraam, Isaak, Iakob, our fathers from of old. These all took wives from among their

GII

¹⁹ . . . the Lord will give to them good counsel. And if the Lord wishes, he casts down to deepest Hades. So now, my child, remember these commandments, and do not let them be erased from your heart.

20 "And now, my child, I will inform you that I placed ten talents of silver in trust with Gabaelos son of Gabri at Rhaga in Media. ²¹So do not be afraid, my child, because we have become poor. You will have many good things if you fear God and flee from every sin and do what is good in the sight of the Lord, your God."

5 Then in reply Tobias said to Tobith his father, "Everything that you have commanded me I shall do, father. ²But how can I get it from him; indeed, he does not know me, nor do I know him? What sign shall I give him, so he will recognize me and believe me and give me the silver? Also, I do not know the roads into Media in order to go there." ³Then in reply Tobith said to Tobias his son, "He gave me his bond, and I gave him my bond. And I divided it into two, and we each took one part, and I put it in with the silver. And now behold, it is twenty years since I placed this silver in trust. So now, my child, seek for yourself a trustworthy man who will go with you, and we will give him wages until you come. But get this silver from him."

4 So Tobias went out to seek a man who would go with him into Media, who was acquainted with the road. And he went out and found Raphael the angel standing in front of him, but he did not know that he was an angel of God. ⁵And he said to him, "Where are you from, young man?" And he said to him, "From the sons of Israel, your kin-kindred, and they were blessed in their children, and their descendants will inherit land. ¹³So now, my child, love your kindred, and do not act arrogantly in your heart with your kindred, the sons and daughters of your people, in taking for yourself a wife from among them. For in pride there is ruin and great confusion, and in worthlessness there is loss and great want, because worthlessness is the mother of famine.

GI

14 "Let not the wages of any one who works for you stay with you overnight, but give it to him at once. And if you are subject to God, you will be repaid. Watch yourself, my child, in all your deeds, and be disciplined in all your behavior. ¹⁵And what you hate, do to no one. Do not drink wine to drunkenness, and do not let drunkenness go with you on your way. ¹⁶Give some of your bread to the hungry and some of your clothing to the naked. Everything you have left over give as alms, and do not let your eye be envious when you give alms. ¹⁷Spread out your bread on the grave of the righteous, but give nothing to the sinners. ¹⁸Seek advice from every prudent person, and do not despise any useful advice. ¹⁹And at every moment bless the Lord, your God, and ask from him that your ways may be straight and all your paths and counsels may succeed. For no nation has understanding, but the Lord himself gives all good things, and the one he wishes he humbles as he wills. So now, my child, remember my commandments, and do not let them be erased from your heart.

20 "And now I will inform you about the ten talents of silver, which I placed in trust with Gabaelos son of Gabrias at Rhaga in Media. ²¹So do not be afraid, my child, because we have become poor. You will have many things if you fear God and withdraw from every sin and do what is pleasing in his sight."

5 And in reply Tobias said to him, "Father, I shall do everything that you have commanded me. ²However, how can I get the silver; I do not even know him?" ³Then Tobit gave him the bond and said to him, "Seek for yourself a man who will go along with you, and I shall give him wages while I live; now go, and get the silver."

4 So he went to seek a man, and he found Raphael, who was an angel, but he did not know it. ⁵And he said to him, "Can I go with you to Rhagai in Media? And are you acquainted with the places?" ⁶And the angel said to him, "I shall go with you, and I am familiar with the road, and I have stayed with Gabael our kinsman." ⁷Then To-

GII

dred, and I have come here to work." Then he said to him, "Do you know the road to go into Media?"⁶ And he said to him, "Yes, I have been there many times; I am acquainted with and know all the roads. Often I went into Media, and I stayed with Gabaelos our kinsman who dwells in Rhaga of Media. Now it is a journey of two days from Ecbatana into Rhagai, for it lies in the mountain, Ecbatana in the middle of the plain."⁷ Then he said to him, "Wait for me, young man, until I go in and tell my father, for I need you to go with me, and I will give you your wages."⁸ And he said, "Behold, I will stay; only do not delay."

⁹ So Tobias went in to tell Tobith his father and said to him, "Behold, I found a man of our kindred, of the sons of Israel!" And he said to him, "Call the man for me so that I may find out what is his race and to what tribe he belongs and if he is trustworthy so that he may go with you, my child."

¹⁰ Then Tobias went out and called him and said to him, "Young man, your father is calling you." So he went in to him, and Tobith greeted him first. And he said to him, "Many joyful greetings to you!" But in reply Tobith said to him, "What is there for me still to be joyful about? Now I am a man with no power in my eyes, and I do not see the light of heaven, but I lie in darkness like the dead who no longer look at the light. Living, I am among the dead. I hear the voice of people, but I do not see them." So he said to him, "Take courage; the time is near for God to heal you; take courage." Then Tobith said to him, "Tobias my son wishes to go into Media. Can you go along with him and lead him? And I will give you your wages, brother." And he said to him, "I can go with him; indeed, I know all the roads. Also I went into Media many times, and I crossed all its plains, and I know its mountains and all its roads."

¹¹ Then he said to him, "Brother, of what family are you and from what tribe? Tell me, brother."¹² And he said, "Why, do you need a tribe?" And he said to him, "I want to know the truth about whose son you are, brother, and what your name is."¹³ So he said to him, "I am Azarias son of Hananias the great, one of your relatives."¹⁴ Then he said to him, "Come in, brother, in good health and safety! And do not be bitter toward me, brother, because I wanted to know the truth about your family also. Now you happen to be a relative, and you are of a noble and good lineage. I knew Hananias and Nathan, the two sons of Semelias the great, and they would go with me into Ierusalem and do obeisance with me there, and they did not err. Your relatives are good people; you are of good stock. So come in with joy!"¹⁵ Then he said to him, "I will give you a drachma a day as wages, and what is needed for you as well as for my son. So go with my son."¹⁶ I will also add more to your wages." And he said to him, "I shall go with him; so do not fear. We shall go away in good health, and we shall return to you in good health, because bias said to him, "Wait for me, and I shall tell my father."⁸ And he said to him, "Go, but do not delay."

GI

⁹ So he went in and said to his father, "Behold, I have found some one who will go along with me." Then he said, "Call him to me so that I may find out to what tribe he belongs and if he is trustworthy to go with you."

¹⁰ Then he called him, and he went in, and they greeted each other.

¹¹ Then Tobit said to him, "Brother, of what tribe and what family are you? Tell me."¹² And he said to him, "Are you seeking a tribe and a family, or a hired man who will go along with your son?" And Tobit said to him, "I wish to know, brother, about your race and name."¹³ So he said, "I am Azarias son of Hananias the great, one of your relatives."¹⁴ Then he said to him, "Come in, brother, in good health! And do not be angry with me, because I sought to know about your tribe and family. So you happen to be my relative, of a noble and good lineage. For I knew Hananias and Iathan, the sons of Semaïas the great, when we would go together into Hierosolyma to do obeisance, offering the first-born of our flocks and the tithes of our produce. And they did not err in the error of our relatives. You are of great stock, brother."¹⁵ But say, what wages shall I give you—a drachma a day and what is needed for you as well as for my son?¹⁶ I will also add more to your wages if you come back in good health."¹⁷ So they agreed on this.

GII

the road is safe." ¹⁷So he said to him, "Blessing be upon you, brother."

Then he called his son and said to him, "My child, prepare the things for the journey, and go out with your brother. And may God in heaven bring you safely there and restore you back to me in good health, and may his angel journey along with you in safety, my child." And he went out to go on his journey, and he kissed his father and mother. Then Tobith said to him, "Go in good health."

¹⁸But his mother wept and said to Tobith, "Why is it that you have sent my child away? Is he not the rod of our hand as he goes in and goes out before us? ¹⁹Do not add silver to silver, but let it be a ransom for our child. ²⁰For as it has been given to us to live by the Lord, that is enough." ²¹And he said to her, "Do not worry; our child will go in good health and come back to us in good health. And your eyes will see him^a on the day when he comes back to you in good health. Do not worry! Do not fear for them, my sister. ²²For a good angel will accompany him, and his journey will be successful, and he will come back in good health."

6 So she stopped weeping.

²Then the child went out, and the angel with him, and the dog went out with him and walked with them. And they both walked, and the first night came upon them, and they camped by the Tigris River. ³Then the child went down to wash his feet in the Tigris River. And a large fish, leaping up from the water, wanted to swallow the foot of the young man, and he cried out. ⁴Then the angel said to the young man, "Take hold of the fish, and hang on!" So the child seized the fish and carried it up onto the land. ⁵Then the angel said to him, "Rip open the fish, and take out its gall and heart and liver, and put them aside with you, but the entrails throw away. For its gall and heart and liver are useful as medicine." ⁶So cutting open the fish, the young man gathered together the gall and heart and liver; then he roasted and ate some of the fish and kept some of it salted.

And the two walked together until they drew near to Media. ⁷And then the young man asked the angel and said to him, "Brother Azarias, what is the medicine in the fish's heart and liver and in the gall?" ⁸And he said to him, "As for the fish's heart and liver, burn them to smoke in the presence of a man or woman afflicted by a demon or evil spirit, and every affliction will flee away from him and will not remain with him any longer. ⁹And as for the gall, anoint a person's eyes on which white films have come up; blow upon them, upon the white films, and they will be healed."

¹⁰And when he went into Media and already drew near to Ecbatana, ¹¹Raphael said to the young man, "Brother Tobias." And he said to him, "Here I am." Then he said to him, "This night we must

^aOm = Ha

GI

Then he said to Tobias, "Get ready for the journey, and may you be successful." So his son prepared the things for the journey. And his father said to him, "Go with the man, and God who dwells in heaven will make your journey successful, and may his angel go along with you." So they both went out to go away, and the young man's dog with them.

¹⁸But Hanna his mother wept and said to Tobit, "Why have you sent away our child? Is he not the rod of our hand as he goes in and goes out before us? ¹⁹Do not add silver to silver, but let it be a ransom for our child. ²⁰For as it has been given to us to live by the Lord, that is enough for us." ²¹And Tobit said to her, "Do not worry, my sister; he will come back in good health, and your eyes will see him. ²²For a good angel will go along with him; so his journey will be successful, and he will return in good health."

6 So she stopped weeping.

²Now as they walked on the road they came at evening to the Tigris River and camped there. ³Then the young man went down to wash himself. And a fish leaped up from the river and wanted to swallow the young man. ⁴But the angel said to him, "Take hold of the fish!" So the child seized the fish and threw it up onto the land. ⁵Then the angel said to him, "Cut open the fish, and take the heart and liver and gall, and put them away safely." ⁶So the young man did as the angel had told him. Then, roasting the fish, they ate.

And they both journeyed until they drew near to Ecbatana. ⁷And the young man said to the angel, "Brother Azarias, of what use is the fish's liver and heart and gall?" ⁸And he said to him, "As for the heart and liver, if a demon or evil spirit troubles somebody, one must burn these things to smoke before a man or woman, and he will never be troubled again. ⁹But as for the gall, anoint a person who has white films in his eyes, and he will be cured."

¹⁰Now as they approached Rhagai, ¹¹the angel said to the young man, "Brother, today we shall stay with Ragouel. Now he is your relative, and he has an only daughter named Sarra. ¹²I shall speak up for her, that she be given to you as wife, because her inheritance falls to you; also you are the only stay in the home of Ragouelos. Now the man is your relative, and he has a beautiful^a daughter whose name is Sarra. ¹²And he has no male son or daughter except Sarra alone, and you are closer to her than all other men, to have her as an inheritance. And it is right for you to have her father's possessions as an inheritance. Also the girl is sensible and brave and very beautiful, and her father is noble." ¹³And he said, "It is right for you to take her. So listen to me, brother, and I shall speak to the father about the girl this night so that we may take her to be your bride. And, when we return from Rhaga, we shall celebrate her wedding feast. And I know that Ragouel cannot keep her from you or promise her to another; he would be liable to death according to the decree of the book of Moyses. And he knows that the inheritance is yours by right to take his daughter before any other man. So now listen to me, brother, and we shall speak this night concerning the girl and have her engaged to you. And, when we return from Rhaga, we shall take her and bring her back with us into your house."

GII

¹⁴ Then in reply Tobias said to Raphael, "Brother Azarias, I heard that she already has been given to seven husbands, and they died in their bridal chamber. On the night when they went in toward her, they would die. And I heard people say that a demon kills them. ¹⁵And now I am afraid—for it does not harm her, but anyone who desires to approach her it kills; I am my father's only son—that I may die and bring my father's and my mother's life, because of me, to their grave with sorrow. And they have no other son, that he may bury them."

¹⁶ But he said to him, "Do you not remember your father's commandments, that he commanded you to take a wife from your father's house? So now listen to me, brother, and do not worry about this demon, and take her. And I know that this night a wife will be given to you. ¹⁷Now when you go into the bridal chamber, take some of the fish's liver and heart, and put them on the embers of the incense, and the smell will go forth. ¹⁸Then the demon will smell it and flee and will never be seen around her any more. And when you are about to be with her, get up first, both of you, and pray, and beseech the Lord of heaven that mercy and safety may be upon you. So do not be afraid, for she was set apart for you from of old. And you will save her, and she will go with you. And I suppose that you will have children by her, and they will be as brothers to you. Do not worry!" Now when Tobias heard the words of Raphael, and that she was his kinswoman of the lineage of his father's house, he loved her very much, and his heart clung to her.

7 Now when they^b entered into Ecbatana, he said to him, "Brother Azarias, lead me straight to Ragouel our brother." So he led him into the one of her kindred. And the girl is beautiful and sensible. ¹³So now listen to me, and I shall speak to her father. And when we return from Rhaga, we shall celebrate the wedding feast. For I know that Ragouel cannot give her to another man, according to the law of Moyses, or else he will be liable to death, because it is right for you to receive the inheritance before any other man."

^aO_m = Ha ^bhe = Ha

GI

¹⁴ Then the young man said to the angel, "Brother Azarias, I have heard that the girl has been given to seven husbands and all died in the bridal chamber. ¹⁵And now I am the only one my father has, and I fear that I may go in and die as did those before me, for a demon loves her, and he harms no one except those who approach her. So now I fear that I may die and bring my father's and my mother's life, because of me, to their grave with sorrow. And they have no other son who will bury them."

¹⁶ But the angel said to him, "Do you not remember the words with which your father commanded you, to take a wife from among your people? So now listen to me, brother, for she will become your wife. Also do not worry about the demon, for this night she will be given to you as wife. ¹⁷Now when you go into the bridal chamber, you shall take embers of incense and lay upon them some of the fish's heart and liver, and you shall make smoke. ¹⁸Then the demon will smell it and flee and will never again come back. Now when you come near her, rise up, both of you, and cry out to the merciful God, and he will save you and have mercy. Do not be afraid, for she has been prepared for you from of old. And you will save her, and she will go with you, and I suppose that you will have children by her." Now when Tobias heard these things, he loved her, and his spirit clung to her intensely.

7 And they went into Ecbatana and arrived at the house of Ragouel. Sarra then met them and greeted them, and they her. And she brought them into the house. ²Then Ragouel said to Edna his wife, "How much the young man resembles house of Ragouelos, and they found him sitting beside the door of the courtyard. And they greeted him first, and he said to them, "Many joyful greetings, brothers, and welcome in good health!" Then he led them into his house. ²And he said to Edna his wife, "How much this young man resembles Tobis my kinsman!" ³Then Edna asked them and said to them, "Where are you from, brothers?" And they said to her, "We belong to the children of Nephthaleim, who were taken captive in Nineue." ⁴So she said to them, "Do you know Tobis our kinsman?" And they said to her, "We do know him." Then she said to them, "Is he in good health?" ⁵And they said to her, "He is in good health and alive." And Tobias said, "He is my father!" ⁶Then Ragouel jumped up and kissed him and wept. ⁷And he spoke and said to him, "Blessings on you, my child, son of a noble and good father! O most miserable of calamities that a righteous man who also gives alms has become blind!" Then he fell on the neck of Tobias his kinsman and wept. ⁸Also Edna his wife wept for him, and Sarra their daughter likewise wept. ⁹Then he slaughtered a ram from the flock and welcomed them very warmly.

GII

Now when they had bathed and washed themselves and had reclined to have dinner, Tobias said to Raphael, "Brother Azarias, speak to Ragouel that he give to me Sarra my kinswoman." ¹⁰But Ragouel heard the word and said to the lad, "Eat, and drink, and be merry this night. For there is no man who has the right to take Sarra my daughter except you, brother. Likewise I myself do not have the authority to give her to any other man except you, because you are my nearest relative. But let me explain to you the truth more fully, my child. ¹¹I have given her to seven men of our kinsmen, and all died on the night when they went in toward her. So now, my child, eat, and drink, and the Lord will do something with you both." Then Tobias said, "I will neither eat nor drink until you settle the things that pertain to me." So Ragouel said to him, "I will do it. Indeed, she is given to you according to the decree of the book of Moyses, and from heaven it has been decreed that she be given to you. Take your kinswoman; from now on you are her brother, and she is your sister. She has been given to you from today and forever. And may the Lord of heaven prosper you both this night, my child, and grant you mercy and peace." ¹²Then Ragouel called Sarra his daughter. And she came to him. Then taking her hand, he gave her over to him and said, "Take her according to the law, and according to the decree written in the book of Moyses she is your wife. Take her, and lead her away in good health to your father. And may the God of heaven prosper you both with peace." ¹³Then he called her mother and told her to bring a scroll, and he wrote out a contract, a scroll of marriage, that he gave her to him as wife according to the decree of the law of Moyses. ¹⁴After that they began to eat and to drink.

GI

Tobit my cousin!" ³And Ragouel asked them, "Where are you from, brothers?" And they said to him, "We belong to the children of Nephthaleim, who are captives in Nineue." ⁴So he said to them, "Do you know Tobit our kinsman?" And they said, "We do know him." ⁵Then he said to them, "Is he in good health?" And they said, "He is both alive and in good health." And Tobias said, "He is my father!" ⁶Then Ragouel jumped up and kissed him and wept. ⁷And he blessed him and said to him, "Son of that noble and good man!" And hearing that Tobit had lost his eyes, he grieved and wept. ⁸Also Edna his wife and Sarra his daughter wept, and they welcomed them very warmly. ⁹Then they killed a ram of the flock, and they set out large servings of food.

Tobias then said to Raphael, "Brother Azarias, speak of those things which you talked about on the journey, and let the matter be settled." ¹⁰So he communicated the word to Ragouel. And Ragouel said to Tobias, "Eat, and drink, and be merry, for it is your right to take my child. But let me explain the truth to you. ¹¹I have given my child to seven husbands, and when they came in toward her, they died during the night. But for now be merry." Then Tobias said, "I will taste nothing here until you ^astand firm and are confirmed in my regard." So Ragouel said, "Take her from now on, according to the decree. And you are her brother, and she is yours. Now may the merciful God prosper you both with the best." ¹²Then he called Sarra his daughter, and taking her hand, he gave her over to Tobias as wife, and he said, "Behold, according to the law of Moyses take her, and lead her away to your father." And he blessed them. ¹³Then he called Edna his wife, and taking a scroll, he wrote out a contract, and they set their seals to it. ¹⁴And they began to eat.

^aPossibly make a binding agreement with me

GII

15 Then Ragouel called Edna his wife and said to her, "My sister, prepare the other room, and lead her in there." ¹⁶So she went and made the bed in the room as he had told her, and she led her there. And she wept for her. Then she wiped away the tears and said to her, ¹⁷"Take courage, my daughter; may the Lord of heaven grant you joy in place of your sorrow. Take courage, my daughter." Then she went out.

8 When they had finished eating and drinking, they wanted to go to sleep; so they led the young man out and led him into the room. ²Then Tobias remembered the words of Raphael, and he took the fish's liver and heart out of the bag where he had them and put them on the embers of the incense. ³And the odor of the fish became a hindrance, and the demon fled ^ainto the upper parts^a of Egypt. But Raphael went and bound him there hand and foot and tied him up at once.

4 Then they went out and shut the door of the room. And Tobias got up from the bed and said to her, "Sister, get up, let us pray and implore our Lord that he grant us mercy and safety." ⁵So she got up, and they began to pray and implore that safety may be theirs. And he began to say,

"Blessed are you, O God of our ancestors,
and blessed be your name for all the ages
forever.

Let the heavens and all your creation bless you for all the ages.

⁶ You made Adam, and you made for him a helper, a support—his wife Heua.
And from the two of them the human race has come.

And you said, 'It is not good for the man to be alone;

let us make for him a helper like himself.'

⁷ And now not because of lust am I taking this kinswoman of mine,
but with sincerity.

Grant that I and she may have mercy and that we may grow old together."

⁸And they said with each other, "Amen, Amen."

⁹Then they went to sleep for the night.

But Ragouel got up and called his servants to him, and they went and dug a grave, ¹⁰for he said, "Perhaps he may die, and we may become an object of ridicule and derision." ¹¹And when they had finished digging the grave, Ragouel went into the house and called his wife, ¹²and he said, "Send one of the maids, and have her go in to see if he is alive. But if he is dead, let us bury him so that no one may know." ¹³So they sent the maid and lit the lamp and opened the door, and she went in and found them lying there fast asleep together. ¹⁴And the maid went out and told them that he was alive and that nothing was wrong. ¹⁵So they blessed the God of heaven, and they said,

GI

15 Then Ragouel called Edna his wife and said to her, "My sister, prepare the other room, and lead her into it." ¹⁶So she did as he said and led her in there, and she wept. Then she received the tears of her daughter and said to her, ¹⁷"Take courage, my child; may the Lord of heaven and earth give you grace in place of this sorrow of yours. Take courage, my daughter."

8 When they had finished dining, they led Tobias in to her. ²As he went he remembered the words of Raphael, and he took the embers of incense and put the fish's heart and liver upon them and made a smoke. ³Now when the demon smelled the odor, it fled to the uppermost part of Egypt, and the angel tied it up.

4 When the two of them were shut in together, Tobias got up from the bed and said, "Get up, sister, and let us pray that the Lord may have mercy upon us." ⁵And Tobias began to say,

"Blessed are you, O God of our ancestors,
and blessed be your holy and glorious name for the ages.

Let the heavens and all your creatures bless
you.

⁶ You made Adam and gave him a helper, Heua, a support—his wife.

From them the human race has come.
You said, 'It is not good for the man to be alone;

let us make for him a helper like himself.'

⁷ And now, O Lord, not because of lust am I taking this kinswoman of mine,
but with sincerity.

Grant that I may have mercy and may grow old together with her."

⁸And she said with him, "Amen." ⁹Then they both went to sleep for the night.

But Ragouel got up and went and dug a grave, ¹⁰saying, "Perhaps even this one may die." ¹¹Then Ragouel went into his house ¹²and said to Edna his wife, "Send one of the maids, and let them see if he is alive, but if he is not, let us bury him, and no one will know." ¹³So opening the door, the maid went in and found the two asleep. ¹⁴And she went out and announced to them that he was alive. ¹⁵So Ragouel blessed God, saying,

"Blessed are you, O God, with every pure and holy blessing.

And let your holy ones and all your creatures bless you,

and let all your angels and your chosen ones bless you forever.

^aupward into the parts = Ha

GII

"Blessed are you, O God, with every pure blessing, and may they bless you forever and ever.
16 And blessed are you because you have made me glad,
and it did not turn out as I expected,
but according to your great mercy you have dealt with us.
17 And blessed are you because you had mercy on two only children.
Have mercy on them, O Master, and keep them safe, and bring their life to fulfillment with gladness and mercy."
18 Then he told his domestics to fill in the grave before it became dawn.

19 And he told his wife to make many loaves of bread, and he went out to the herd and brought two steers and four rams and commanded that they be killed. So they began to make preparations. 20 Then he called Tobias and swore an oath to him and said: "For fourteen days you shall not move from here but shall stay here eating and drinking with me, and you shall make my daughter's spirit glad which has been depressed. 21 Then take at once half of what I own and return in good health to your father, and the other half will be yours when I die, and my wife as well. Take courage, my child. I am your father, and Edna is your mother, and we belong to you and to your kinswoman now and forever. Take courage, my child."

9 Then Tobias called Raphael and said to him, 2 "Brother Azarias, take with you four domestics and two camels, and go to Rhagai. And go to the house of Gabaelos, and give him the bond, and get the silver, and then bring him back with you to the wedding feast. 3-4 For you know that my father is counting the days, and if I delay one day, I will grieve him very much. And you see how Ragouel has sworn, and I cannot violate his oath." 5 So Raphael and the four servants and two camels went into Rhagai in Media and stayed with Gabaelos. Then he gave him his bond and told him about Tobias son of Tobith, that he had taken a wife and invited him to the wedding feast. So he got up and counted out for him the money bags, with the seals; then they loaded them on the camels. 6 And they both got up early in the morning and went to the wedding feast. And they went to Ragouel's place and found Tobias reclining at table. Then he sprang up and greeted him, and he wept and blessed him and said, "Noble and good son of a noble and good, upright and charitable man, may the Lord give the blessing of heaven to you and to your wife and to your father and to the mother of your wife. Blessed be God, for I see Tobias my cousin who is just like him."

^asaid to him = Ha ^bput them together = Ha

GI

16 Blessed are you because you have made me glad,
and it did not turn out for me as I expected,
but according to your great mercy you have dealt with us.
17 Blessed are you because you have had mercy on two only children.
Have mercy on them, O Master;
bring their life to fulfillment in health with gladness and mercy."
18 He then ordered his domestics to fill in the grave.

19 And he gave them a wedding feast for fourteen days. 20 And before the days of the wedding feast were over, Ragouel said with an oath that he should not leave until the fourteen days of the wedding feast were ended 21 and that he should take half of his property and go with health to his father, and the rest, "when I die and my wife."

9 And Tobias called Raphael and said to him, 2 "Brother Azarias, take with you a servant and two camels, and go to Gabael's house at Rhaga in Media, and get the silver for me, and bring him to the wedding feast. 3 For Ragouel has sworn that I should not leave. 4 But my father is counting the days, and if I delay long, he will be greatly distressed." 5 So Raphael went and stayed with Gabael. Then he gave him the bond, and he brought out the money bags with the seals and gave them to him. 6 And they both got up early in the morning and went to the wedding feast. And he blessed Tobias and his wife.

GII

10 Now day by day Tobith was counting the days on which Tobias would need for going and for coming back. And when the days had been completed and his son did not appear, ²he said, "Perhaps he has been detained there? Or perhaps Gabael has died, and no one is giving him the silver?" ³And he began to grieve. ⁴Then Hanna his wife said, "My child has perished and is no longer among the living." And she began to weep and mourn for her son, and she said, ⁵"Woe to me, my child, the light of my eyes, that I let you go!" ⁶But Tobith said to her, "Be quiet, and do not worry, my sister; he is in good health. And they probably had a distraction there. Also the man who went with him is trustworthy and is one of our own kindred. Do not grieve for him, my sister; he will soon be here." ⁷Then she said to him, "Be quiet; away from me! And stop deceiving me! My child has perished." And she would rush out every day and watch the road on which her son had gone, and she would not believe anyone. And when the sun had set she would go in and mourn and weep the whole night and get no sleep.

Now when the fourteen days of the wedding feast had ended that Ragouel had sworn to have for his daughter, Tobias came to him and said, "Send me back, for I know that my father and mother do not believe that they will see me again. So now I beg you, father, that you send me away and that I may go to my father. I have already explained to you how I left him." ⁸But Ragouel said to Tobias, "Stay, my child, stay with me, and I shall send messengers to Tobis your father, and they will inform him about you." ⁹But he said to him, "By no means! I beg you that you send me back from here to my father." ¹⁰So Ragouel got up and gave Tobias Sarra his wife and half of all his property—male and female slaves, oxen and sheep, asses and camels, clothing and silver and utensils. ¹¹Then he sent them away in good health, and he embraced him and said to him, "Good health, my child; go away in good health. The Lord of heaven prosper you and Sarra your wife, and may I see your children before I die." ¹²Then he said to Sarra his daughter, "^aMy daughter, honor your father-in-law and your mother-in-law^a, for from now on they are as much your parents as those who gave you birth. Go in peace, my daughter; may I hear a good report about you as long as I live." And he took leave of them and let them go. Then Edna said to Tobias, "My child and dear brother, may the Lord of heaven bring you back safely, and while I live before I die, may I see children of you and my daughter Sarra. In the sight of the Lord I entrust to you my daughter as a pledge; do not grieve her all the days of your life. My child, peace. From now on I am your mother, and Sarra is your sister. May we all prosper together all the days of our life." Then she kissed them both and sent them away in good health.

¹³ Then Tobias went away from Ragouel in good health and rejoicing and blessing the Lord of

^aGo to your father-in-law = Ha

GI

10 Now Tobit his father was counting each day, and when the days for the journey had expired and they did not come, ²he said, "Perhaps they were disappointed? Or perhaps Gabael has died, and no one is giving him the silver?" ³And he grieved very much. ⁴Then the wife said to him, "My child has perished; that is why he has delayed." And she began to mourn him and said, ⁵"Do I not care, my child, that I let you go, the light of my eyes?" ⁶But Tobit said to her, "Be quiet; do not worry; he is in good health." ⁷And she said to him, "Be quiet; stop deceiving me! My child has perished." And she would go out every day to the road outside by which they had left; during the day she ate no food, and during the nights she never stopped mourning for Tobias her son, until the fourteen days of the wedding feast had ended which Ragouel had sworn that he should have there.

Then Tobias said to Ragouel, "Send me back, for my father and mother do not hope to see me again." ⁸But his father-in-law said to him, "Stay with me, and I will send others to your father, and they will tell him how things are with you." ⁹But Tobias said, "No, rather send me back to my father." ¹⁰So Ragouel arose and gave him Sarra his wife and half of his property—slaves and cattle and silver. ¹¹Then blessing them, he sent them away, saying, "The God of heaven will prosper you, my children, before I die." ¹²Then he said to his daughter, "Honor your father-in-law and mother-in-law; they are now your parents. May I hear a good report about you." And he kissed her. And Edna said to Tobias, "Dear brother, may the Lord of heaven bring you back safely and grant that I may see your children by Sarra my daughter so that I may rejoice before the Lord. And behold, I entrust my daughter to you as a pledge; do not grieve her."

¹³ After these things Tobias went away, blessing God because he had made his journey a success. And he blessed Ragouel and Edna his wife.

GII

heaven and earth, the king of all, because he had made his journey a success. Then he said to him, "aMay it go well for you to honor them all the days of their lifea."

11 When they came near to Kaserein, which is opposite Nineue, ²Raphael said, "You know how we left your father. ³Let us run on ahead of your wife and prepare the house while they are on the way." ⁴So the two of them went together, and he said to him, "Take the gall with your hands." And the dog came along behind them.

⁵ Now Hanna sat looking intently at the road for her son. ⁶And she caught sight of him coming, and she said to his father, "Behold, your son is coming, and the man who went with him!"

⁷ Then Raphael said to Tobias, before he had approached his father, "I know that his eyes will be opened. ⁸Sprinkle the gall of the fish on his eyes, and the medicine will make the white films contract and peel off from his eyes, and your father will look up and see the light."

⁹ Then Hanna ran up and fell on the neck of her son and said to him, "I see you, my child; from now on I am ready to die." And she wept. ¹⁰Then Tobis got up and stumbled on his feet and went out the door of the courtyard. And Tobias went up to him. ¹¹Now the gall of the fish was in his hand, and he blew into his eyes and held him and said, "Take courage, father." Then he lay the medicine on him, and ¹²it workeda. ¹²⁻¹³And he scaled it off with both his hands from the corners of his eyes. Then he fell on his neck, ¹⁴and he wept and said to him, "I see you, my child, the light of my eyes!" Then he said, "Blessed be God, and blessed be his great name,

and blessed be all his holy angels.

May his great name be upon us, and may all the angels be blessed throughout all the ages.

¹⁵ For he afflicted me,
but behold, I see Tobias my son!"

And Tobias went in rejoicing and blessing God with full voice. Then Tobias told his father that his journey had been successful and that he had brought the silver and that he had taken Sarra daughter of Ragouel as wife and that behold, she is arriving and is near the gate of Nineue.

¹⁶ Then Tobith went out to the gate of Nineue to meet his daughter-in-law, rejoicing and blessing God. Now the people of Nineue, seeing him walking and moving along in all his strength and with no one leading him, were amazed. ¹⁷And Tobith acknowledged before them that God had been merciful to him and that he had opened his eyes. Then Tobith approached Sarra, the wife of Tobias his son, and he blessed her and said to her, "Come in, in good health, daughter, and blessed be your God, who has brought you to us, daughter. And blessed be your father ^band your mother^b, and

GI

11 So he went on until they came near to Nineue. ²Then Raphael said to Tobias, "Do you not know, brother, how you left your father? ³Let us run on ahead before your wife and prepare the house. ⁴Now take in your hand the gall of the fish." So they went on, and the dog came along behind them.

⁵ Now Hanna sat looking intently down the road for her boy. ⁶And she caught sight of him coming, and she said to his father, "Behold, your son is coming, and the man who went with him!"

⁷ Then Raphael said, "I know, Tobias, that your father will open his eyes. ⁸You, therefore, anoint his eyes with the gall, and when he feels the sting, he will rub them and will cast off the white films, and he will see you."

⁹ Then running out, Hanna fell on the neck of her son and said to him, "I see you, my child; from now on I am ready to die." And they both wept. ¹⁰Then Tobit went out toward the door, and he stumbled. But the son ran out to him ¹¹and took hold of his father, and he sprinkled the gall on his father's eyes, saying, "Take courage, father." ¹²And when they stung he rubbed them, ¹³and the white films scaled off from the corners of his eyes. Then seeing his son he fell on his neck, ¹⁴and he wept and said,

"Blessed are you, O God,
and blessed is your name forever,
and blessed are all your holy angels.

¹⁵ For you have afflicted me, but you have had mercy upon me;
behold, I see Tobias my son!"

And his son went in rejoicing, and he announced to his father the great things that had happened to him in Media.

¹⁶ Then Tobit went out to the gate of Nineue to meet his daughter-in-law, rejoicing and blessing God. Now those who saw him walking were amazed because he could see. ¹⁷And Tobit acknowledged before them that God had been merciful to him. Now when Tobit approached Sarra his daughter-in-law, he blessed her, saying, "Come, in good health, daughter! Blessed be God, who has brought you to us, and blessed be your father and your mother." And there was joy among all his relatives in Nineue. ¹⁸Also Achiacharos and Nasbas his nephew came. ¹⁹Then the wedding feast of Tobias was held with rejoicing for seven days.

GII

blessed be Tobias my son, and blessed be you, daughter. Come into your house in good health, with blessing and joy. Come in, daughter." On that day there was joy among all the Judeans who were in Nineue. ¹⁸And Achikar and Nabad his nephews came rejoicing to Tobis.

12 Now when the wedding feast was ended, Tobith called Tobias his son and said to him, "My child, see that you give the wages to the man who went with you, even add to his wages." ²So he said to him, "Father, how much shall I give him as his wages? It would do me no harm to give him half of the possessions he brought back with me. ³He has led me back in good health and cured my wife and brought the silver with me, and he healed you. How much shall I still give him as wages?" ⁴Then Tobis said to him, "It is his right, my child, to take half of all that he came back with." ⁵So he called him and said, "Take half of all that you came back with for your wages, and go away in good health."

⁶ Then he called the two in secret and said to them, "Bless God, and before all the living acknowledge him for the good things he has done for you. Bless, and sing praise to his name. The words of God declare with honor to all people. And do not hesitate to acknowledge him. ⁷It is good to conceal the secret of a king, but to reveal and acknowledge honorably the works of God. Do what is good, and evil will not overtake you. ⁸Prayer is good with fasting^a, but almsgiving with righteousness is more than wealth with injustice. It is better to give alms rather than to store up gold. ⁹Almsgiving delivers from death, and it purges away every sin. Those who give alms will enjoy life to the full. ¹⁰Those who commit sin and injustice are enemies of their own self.

¹¹ "I shall declare the whole truth to you, and I will not conceal any word from you. Already I declared to you and said, 'It is good to conceal the secret of a king, but to reveal gloriously the works of God.' ¹²So now when you and Sarra prayed, I brought the memorial of your prayer before the glory of the Lord and did likewise when you would bury the dead. ¹³And when you did not hesitate to get up and leave your dinner and when you went and buried the dead, ¹⁴then I was sent to you to test you. And at the same time God sent me to heal you and Sarra your daughter-in-law. ¹⁵I am Raphael, one of the seven angels who approach and enter before the glory of the Lord."

¹⁶ Then they were both troubled, and they fell on their face, and they were afraid. ¹⁷But he said to them, "Do not be afraid; peace be with you. Bless God forevermore. ¹⁸As for me, when I was with you, not by my grace was I with you, but by the will of God. Bless him each and every day; sing his

^atruth = Ha

GI

12 Then Tobit called Tobias his son and said to him, "My child, see to the wages for the man who traveled with you, and something must be added for him." ²So he said to him, "Father, it would do me no harm to give him half of what I have brought back. ³For he has led me back to you safely and cured my wife, and he brought my silver, and he also healed you." ⁴Then the old man said, "It is his right." ⁵So he called the angel and said to him, "Take half of all that you have brought back."

⁶ Then calling the two in secret, he said to them, "Bless God, and acknowledge him, and magnify him, and before all the living acknowledge him concerning the things he has done for you. It is good to bless God and to exalt his name, declaring with honor the words of the works of God. And do not hesitate to acknowledge him. ⁷It is good to conceal the secret of a king but to reveal gloriously the works of God. Do good, and evil will not overtake you. ⁸Prayer is good with fasting and almsgiving and righteousness. A little with righteousness is better than much with injustice. It is better to give alms than to store up gold. ⁹For almsgiving delivers from death, and it will purge away every sin. Those who practice almsgiving and righteousness will have fullness of life, ¹⁰but those who sin are enemies of their own life.

¹¹ "I will not conceal any word from you. I have indeed said, 'It is good to conceal the secret of a king but to reveal gloriously the works of God.' ¹²And now when you and your daughter-in-law Sarra prayed, I brought the memorial of your prayer before the Holy One, and when you would bury the dead, I was likewise present with you. ¹³And when you did not hesitate to get up and leave your dinner to go out and bury the dead, the good deed was not hidden from me, but I was with you. ¹⁴So now God sent me to heal you and your daughter-in-law Sarra. ¹⁵I am Raphael, one of the seven holy angels who present the prayers of the holy ones and enter before the glory of the Holy One."

¹⁶ Then they were both troubled, and they fell face forward, for they were afraid. ¹⁷But he said to them, "Do not be afraid; you will have peace. But bless God forever. ¹⁸For not by my grace, but by the will of our God have I come. Therefore, bless him forever. ¹⁹All the days I appeared to you, but I did not eat or drink; rather, you were seeing a vision. ²⁰So now acknowledge God, for I am as-praises. ¹⁹Now you were watching me; I did not eat anything, but a vision was being seen by you. ²⁰So bless the Lord on the earth and acknowledge God. Behold, I am ascending to him who sent me. Write down all these things that have happened to you." And he ascended. ²¹Then they stood up, and they could see him no longer. ²²And they blessed and sang praises to God, and they acknowledged God for these marvelous deeds of his, when an angel of God had appeared to them.

GII

- 13 Then he said:
 "Blessed be God who lives forever,
 and blessed be his kingdom.
² For he afflicts, and he shows mercy;
 he leads down to Hades in the lowest part of the earth,
 and he brings up from the great
 destruction,
 and there is nothing that will escape his
 hand.
³ Acknowledge him, O sons of Israel, before
 the nations,
 for he has scattered you among them.
⁴ Even there he has shown you his greatness;
 so exalt him in the presence of all the
 living,
 because he is our Lord and he is our God, and he is our Father and he is God for all the ages.
⁵ He will afflict you for your injustices, and he will show mercy on all of you from all the nations
 among whom you have been scattered.
⁶ When you turn back to him with all your heart and with all your soul,
 to do what is true before him,
 then he will turn back to you and will no longer hide his face from
 you.
 And now see what he has done with you,
 and acknowledge him with full voice.
 And bless the Lord of righteousness,
 and exalt the king of the ages . . .

GI

ending to him who sent me. And write in a book all the things that have been accomplished." ²¹Then they stood up, and they saw him no longer. ²²So they acknowledged the great works and wonders of God, especially when the angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

- 13 Then Tobit wrote a prayer of rejoicing and said:
 "Blessed be God who lives forever,
 and blessed be his kingdom.
² For he afflicts, and he shows mercy;
 he leads down to Hades and brings up, and there is no one who will escape his
 hand.
³ Acknowledge him, O sons of Israel, before
 the nations,
 for he has scattered us among them.
⁴ There show forth his greatness;
 exalt him in the presence of all the living,
 because he is our Lord and God;
 he is our Father for all the ages.
⁵ And he will afflict us for our injustices, and again he will show mercy,
 and he will gather us from all the nations
 among whom you have been scattered.
⁶ If you turn back to him with all your heart and with all your soul,
 to do what is true before him,
 then he will turn back to you
 and will not hide his face from you.
 And see what he will do with you,
 and acknowledge him with full voice.
 And bless the Lord of righteousness,
 and exalt the king of the ages.
 In the land of my captivity I acknowledge
 him,
 and I show his power and majesty to a nation of sinners.
 Turn back, you sinners,
 and do what is just before him;
 who knows if he will take delight in you and grant mercy to you?
⁷ I exalt my God,
 and my soul exalts the king of heaven,
 and it will rejoice in his majesty.
⁸ Let all speak
 and acknowledge him in Hierosolyma.
⁹ O Hierosolyma, holy city, he will afflict you for the works of your sons,
 but again he will show mercy to the sons of the righteous.

GII

- 10 and again your tent will be built in you
with joy.
And may he gladden within you all those who are captives
and love within you all those who are distressed,
for all the generations of the age.
- 11 A bright light will shine to all the ends of
the earth;
many nations from far away will come to
you,
the inhabitants of all the remote parts of the earth to your holy name, also bearing their gifts in their hands for
the king of heaven.
Generations of generations will give joyful worship in you,
and the name of the chosen one will last for the generations of the world.
- 12 Cursed are all who speak a harsh word;
cursed will be all who cast you down and pull down your walls and all who overthrow your towers and set your homes on fire.
But blessed forever will be those who fear
you.
- 13 Then go, and rejoice before the sons of the
righteous,
for they all will be gathered together and will bless the Lord of the age.
- 14 Happy are those who love you, and happy are those who will rejoice in your peace.
And happy are all the people who will grieve over you,
over all your afflictions,
for they will rejoice over you and see all your joy forever.
- 15 ^aMy soul blesses^a the Lord, the great king.
16 For Ierousalem will be built as a city,
as his house for all the ages.
Happy shall I be if a remnant of my seed should be present
to see your glory
and to acknowledge the king of heaven.
And the gates of Ierousalem will be built with lapis lazuli and emerald, and all your walls with precious stone.
The towers of Ierousalem will be built with
gold,
and their battlements with pure gold.
- 17 The streets of Ierousalem will be paved with ruby and stone of Souphir.
- 18 And the gates of Ierousalem will say hymns of joy,
and all her houses will say, 'Hallelouia!
Blessed be the God of Israel!
And the blessed will bless his holy name forever and ever."

GI

- 10 Acknowledge the Lord well, and bless the king of the ages that again his tent may be built in you
with joy.
And may he gladden within you those who are captives
and love within you those who are distressed,
for all the generations of the age.
- 11 Many nations from far away will come to the name of the Lord God, bearing gifts in their hands, yes, gifts for
the king of heaven.
Generations of generations
will give you great joy.
- 12 Cursed are all who hate you;
blessed forever will be all who love you.
- 13 Rejoice and be glad over the sons of the
righteous,
for they will be gathered together
and will bless the Lord of the righteous.
- 14 O, happy are those who love you;
they will rejoice in your peace.
Happy are those who grieved over all your afflictions,
for they will rejoice over you upon seeing
all your glory,
and they will be made glad forever.
- 15 Let my soul bless God, the great king.
16 For Ierousalem will be built with lapis lazuli and emerald,
and your walls with precious stone,
and the towers and battlements with pure
gold.
- 17 And the streets of Ierousalem will be paved with beryl and carbuncle and stone from Souphir.
- 18 And all her lanes will say 'Hallelouia!
and will give praise, saying,
'Blessed be God,
who has exalted all the ages.' "

^aOr O my soul, bless = Ha

GII

14 Then the words of Tobith's praise were completed.

And he died in peace at one hundred twelve years, and he was buried with honor in Nineue. ²Now he was sixty-two years old when he became maimed in his eyes, and after he saw again he lived in prosperity and gave alms. And he still continued to bless God and to acknowledge the majesty of God.

³ Now when he was about to die, he called Tobias his son and commanded him, saying: "My child, take your children, ⁴and hurry off into Media, for I believe the word of God about Nineue, the things Naoum spoke, that all these things will come about and happen to Athour and Nineue. Also everything that the prophets of Israel spoke, those whom God sent, will happen. And not one of all their words will fail, but all will come true at their appointed times. So in Media there will be safety rather than among the Assyrians or in Babylon. For I know and believe that all things that God said will be fulfilled and will come to pass, and no utterance of his words shall fail. And our kindred, who live in the land of Israel, all will be scattered and taken as captives from the good land, and the whole land of Israel will be desolate, even Samaria and Ierousalem will be desolate. And the house of God will be in grief and will be burned down for a time.

⁵ "But again God will have mercy on them, and God will bring them back into the land of Israel, and again they will build the house, but not like the first one, until the time when the time of the appointed times will be completed. Then after this they all will return from their captivity, and they will build Ierousalem honorably. And the house of God will be built in it, just as the prophets of Israel said concerning it. ⁶Then all the nations in the whole world will turn back and truly fear God. And all will abandon their idols, which deceitfully have made them err in their error. ⁷And they will bless the God of the ages in righteousness. All the sons of Israel who are saved in those days, mindful of God in truth, will be gathered together. And they will go into Ierousalem and live forever in the land of Abraam with security, and it will be given over to them. And those who love God in truth will rejoice, but those who commit sin and injustice will vanish from all the earth.

⁸⁻⁹ "So now, my children, I command you, serve God in truth, and do what is pleasing before him. Also your children are to be commanded to practice righteousness and almsgiving and to be mindful of God and bless his name at every moment in truth and with all their strength.

"So now, my child, go out from Nineue, and do not remain here. ¹⁰On the day you bury your mother with me, on that day do not spend the night within its borders. For I see that there is much injustice within it and that much deceit is accomplished within it, and they are not ashamed. See, my child, what Nadab did to Achikaros who

GI

14 And Tobit stopped praising.

² Now he was fifty-eight years old when he lost his eyes, and after eight years he saw again. And he gave alms, and he continued to fear the Lord God and to acknowledge him.

³ Then he became very old; so he called his son and the six sons of his son, and he said to him, "My child, take your sons; behold, I have become old and am about to depart from life. ⁴Go into Media, my child, for I trust what Ionas the prophet said about Nineue, that it will be overthrown. But in Media there will be peace till an appointed time. And our kindred will be scattered over the earth from the good land, and Hierosolyma will be desolate. And the house of God in it will be burned down and will be desolate for a time.

⁵ "But again God will have mercy on them, and he will bring them back into the land, and they will build the house, not like the former one, until the appointed times of the age will be completed. Then after this they will return from their captivities, and they will build Ierousalem honorably. And the house of God will be built in it as a glorious building for all the generations of the age, just as the prophets said concerning it. ⁶Then all the nations will turn back truly to fear the Lord God, and they will bury their idols. ⁷And all the nations will bless the Lord, and his people will acknowledge God, and the Lord will exalt his people. And all who love the Lord God in truth and righteousness will rejoice, showing mercy to our kindred.

⁸ "So now, my child, go away from Nineue, because what the prophet Ionas said will surely happen. ⁹But you, keep the law and the ordinances, and be merciful and just so that it may go well with you. ¹⁰And bury me properly, and your mother with me. And no longer spend the night in Nineue. My child, see what Haman did to Achicharos who had reared him, how he brought him from the light into the darkness and with what he repaid him. Yet Achicharos was saved, but that other one received his requital; indeed he himself went down into the darkness. Manasses gave alms and was saved from the death trap that they had had reared him. Was he not, while still alive, brought down into the earth? And God repaid the dishonor to his face. Now Achikaros came out into the light, but Nadab went into the everlasting darkness, because he sought to kill Achikaros. Because he gave alms, he came out of the death trap that Nadab had set for him, but Nadab fell into the death trap himself, and it destroyed him. ¹¹So now, my children, see what almsgiving does and what injustice does: it kills! But behold, my soul is about to leave." Then they laid him on the bed, and he died, and he was buried honorably.

GII

12 And when his mother died, Tobias buried her with his father. Then he and his wife went away to Media and dwelled in Ecbatana with Ragouelos his father-in-law. ¹³He tended to them respectfully in their old age, and he buried them at Ecbatana in Media. Then he inherited the house of Ragouelos and that of Tobith his father.

14 Then he died honorably at the age of one hundred seventeen years. ¹⁵And before he died he saw and heard of the destruction of Nineue, and he saw its captivity being led into Media, which Achiacharos, the king of Media, had taken captive. And he blessed God for all the things that he had done to the sons of Nineue and Athouria; before he died he rejoiced over Nineue, and he blessed the Lord God forever and ever. Amen^a.

GI

set for him, but Haman fell into the trap and perished. ¹¹So now, my children, see what almsgiving does and how righteousness delivers." And as he said these things in his bed his soul left him. Now he was one hundred fifty-eight years old, and he buried him honorably.

12 And when Hanna died, he buried her with his father. Then Tobias went away with his wife and his sons to Ecbatana to Ragouel his father-in-law. ¹³And he grew old honorably, and he buried his parents-in-law honorably. Then he inherited their property and that of Tobit his father.

14 Then he died at the age of one hundred twenty-seven years at Ecbatana in Media. ¹⁵But before he died he heard of the destruction of Nineue, which Nabouchodonosor and Asoueros had captured. Before he died he rejoiced over Nineue.

1 MAKKABEES

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of the book of 1 Makkabees is based upon the critical edition of the Greek text published by W. Kappler (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Societatis Litterarum Göttingensis editum IX.1: Maccabaeorum liber I [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 2nd rev. ed., 1967]). Kappler's text has been adjusted at 10.49 where there is confusion among the manuscripts between the names Alexander (Balas) and Demetrius. Although the context suggests that Alexander defeated Demetrius in battle then pursued and killed him, the Kappler text follows the readings of those manuscripts that name Demetrius as the winner, even though he was killed in this battle. The variant readings in Kappler's critical apparatus, which support the historical fact that Alexander emerged victorious, have been preferred in this case.¹

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

Already in antiquity the existence of an original Semitic—probably Hebrew—Vorlage of 1 Makkabees was documented by early writers.² The first-century Jewish historian Josephus may have had occasion to consult the original Hebrew text as he paraphrased substantial parts of its Greek translation in his Jewish Antiquities.³ But it is more certain that the Christian Bible scholars Origen (third century) and Jerome (late fourth/early fifth centuries) knew of the existence of the Hebrew text of 1 Makkabees. Origen is quoted by the fourth-century Church historian Eusebius as referring to a "Makkabean History" outside of the twenty-two book Hebrew scriptural canon; Origen identifies this book by its Hebrew title "Sarbethsabanaiel."⁴ Jerome also, in his preface to the books of Samuel and Kings, clearly distinguishes the "Hebrew First Book of Makkabees" from the "Second Greek Book," which ostensibly was 2 Makkabees.⁵

Modern scholars generally confirm the ancient viewpoint that our Greek text of 1 Makkabees is a translation of a long lost Hebrew Vorlage.⁶ The Semitic character of the original work is readily apparent in the extant Greek translation.⁷ Parataxis—a distinctive linguistic characteristic of Hebrew—is ubiquitous in 1 Makkabees except for the speeches and hymns scattered throughout the book. What has been said with regard to the LXX in general applies most especially to 1 Makkabees: ". . . there is no syntax, only parataxis. The whole is one great scheme of clauses connected by καί, and we have to trust the sense to tell us which is to be so emphasized as to make it into the apodosis."⁸ Other literary characteristics of 1 Makkabees identified by scholars as indicating a Hebrew Vorlage are: 1) the occurrence of traditional

¹ See J. A. Goldstein's discussion and arguments in support of Kappler's reading of this passage, 1 Maccabees (AB 41; Garden City, New York: Doubleday & Company, 1976) 414–415.

² J. R. Bartlett, 1 Maccabees (Sheffield: Sheffield Academic Press, 1998) 17–18; Pfeiffer, History, 483; Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 14–16.

³ Bartlett, 1 Maccabees, 16–17.

⁴ Historia Ecclesiastica, 6.25.2. Though slightly corrupt the Hebrew is thought to mean "Book of the Dynasty of God's Resisters," Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 16; Bartlett, 1 Maccabees, 17–18; Pfeiffer, History, 484.

⁵ Jerome, "Prefaces to the Books of the Vulgate Version of the Old Testament" (NPNF2 6.490).

⁶ F. M. Abel and J. Starcky (Les Livres des Maccabées [Paris: Cerf, 1961] 15) hold that the original Hebrew disappeared early and that the Greek version derives from a unique tradition made from a Hebrew manuscript that was not exempt from faults; see Caractéristiques littéraires for an elegant description of the character of the Greek translation; J. C. Dancy, A Commentary on 1 Maccabees (Oxford: Basil Blackwell, 1954) 8–9; A. T. Robertson, A Grammar of the Greek New Testament in the Light of Historical Research (Nashville, Tenn.: Broadman Press, 1934) 87. See H. W. Ettelson, "The Integrity of 1 Maccabees," Transactions of the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences 27 (1925) 249–384, for numerous specific examples of Hebrew linguistic characteristics.

⁷ E. Bickerman, The God of the Maccabees (SJLA 32; Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1979) 17; H. W. Attridge, "Historiography," in Jewish Writings of the Second Temple Period (Michael E. Stone, ed.; CRINT 2.2; Philadelphia: Fortress Press, 1984) 171; Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 14; Pfeiffer, History, 484.

⁸ F. C. Conybeare and St. George Stock, Grammar of Septuagint Greek (Boston: Ginn and Company, 1905; repr., Peabody, MA: Hendrickson, 1988) 50.

biblical phrases such as “and it came to pass” and “in those days”; 2) the presence of many expressions that appear to have been copied from biblical texts; 3) the direct transliteration of certain proper names from their original forms (e.g., Ramathaim, 11.34; Imalkoue 11.39; Chaphenatha, 12.37; Asaramel, 14.27); 4) the use of Jewish names for the months (e.g., Chaseleu, 1.54; 4.52, 59; Adar, 7.43, 49; Eloul, 14.27; Sabat, 16.14); 5) the presence of archaic terminology, pious addresses, and poems; 6) the large number and variety of Semitic idioms; 7) the incorporation of official documents; and 8) the fact that some difficulties in the Greek text can be explained as misunderstandings of the original Hebrew.⁹

The author of the original version of 1 Makkabees has been praised for having written in an elegant Hebrew style that was modeled purposely after the historical books of the Bible—Judges, Samuel, Kings and Chronicles.¹⁰ The faithfulness of 1 Makkabees to traditional biblical historiography implies that the writer may have considered his work to be a continuation of the Chronicler’s history.¹¹ The Greek translation of 1 Makkabees also seems to have been crafted by someone who shared the same conservative perspective as the original author. Scholars extol the careful, extremely literal Jewish-Greek translational style of 1 Makkabees and even consider it to be a deliberate choice on the part of the translator, whose exceptional vocabulary betrays a considerable facility with the Greek language.¹² The translator may have been making a political statement by choosing to follow traditional Jewish parataxis, as opposed to more correct Greek syntax. Continuing in the tradition of the original author, and of the Makkabees themselves, our translator deliberately rejected “Hellenism” in order to support the traditional linguistic style of his own Jewish cultural heritage.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF 1 MAKKABEES

The strategy followed in the present translation has been dictated by the special circumstances surrounding the preservation of the text of 1 Makkabees: 1) there is general agreement that the extant Greek text is a translation from a Semitic Vorlage; 2) no fragments of the Vorlage are known to have survived, even among the Dead Sea Scrolls; and 3) the Greek translation of 1 Makkabees is our only link to the vanished original, given that all the other ancient versions of this book ultimately derive from the Greek.¹³ Though in books extant in both Hebrew (Aramaic) and Greek, the NRSV functions as base text for NETS, as a matter of principle, in 1 Maccabees such a role has been accorded the NRSV purely for the sake of convenience. The difference between NETS and NRSV typically reflects a difference in translation philosophy.

Throughout the NETS translation an effort has been put forth to represent Greek words consistently with the same corresponding English terms. Exception has been made for recurring Greek words that require a different meaning within a specific context. For example, the plural of the word for “force,” δυνάμεις, was rendered as “forces” throughout with the exception of 12.49. The word “infantry” was used in this case to distinguish these forces from the “cavalry” referred in the same verse. “Forces and cavalry” would seem redundant in English, since cavalry could also be described as forces.

Special care has been taken in the NETS translation to distinguish different Greek words of similar meaning by rendering them consistently with the same English terms. The most pertinent examples are a variety of words that denote holy things and places generically, and temples and liturgical items more specifically. Attention to these terms was necessitated by their tendency to appear in clusters, as in 4.36–58 where references to “holy” places and things are interspersed. The following chart delineates the occurrence of these words throughout 1 Makkabees:

- ἱερόν as temple: 6.2; 10.43, 84; 11.4; 13.52; 15.9; 16.20
- εἰδώλιον as house for an idol: 1.47; 10.83
- ναός as shrine: 1.22; 2.8; 4.49, 50, 57; 7.36
- ἅγιοςμα as holy precinct: 1.21, 36, 37 (2x), 39, 45, 46
- τέμενος as sacred precinct: 1.47; 5.43, 44
- τὰ ἅγια:
 - as holy things: 2.12; 3.43, 58; 7.42; 10.39 (2x), 44; 13.3, 6; 14.29, 31, 42, 43
 - as holy places: 3.51; 4.36, 41, 43, 48; 6.18, 54; 7.33; 9.54; 14.15 (2x), 36, 48; 15.7

⁹ Abel and Starcky, Livres, 15; Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 14; Bartlett, 1 Maccabees, 18–19; Ettelson, “Integrity,” 308–314, 317–320; Pfeiffer, History, 484–485.

¹⁰ Attridge, “Historiography,” 157; M. Delcor, “The apocrypha and pseudepigrapha of the Hellenistic period,” in CHJ, The Hellenistic Age vol. 2, 461; Bartlett, 1 Maccabees, 18–19; Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 14.

¹¹ Bartlett, 1 Maccabees, 19; Delcor, “apocrypha,” 461; Pfeiffer, History, 485–486.

¹² Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 14.

¹³ Bartlett, 1 Maccabees, 14–16; Goldstein, 1 Maccabees, 176.

EDITORIAL POLICY

The present translation follows the versification in Kappler's Göttingen text when it differs from—and is obviously superior to—that of the NRSV (cf. 1.43; 9.55, 67; 10.76; 13.18; 14.27, 43). In those cases in which personal pronouns occur in the text, but their referent is ambiguous or left unnamed, the referent has been supplied and the pronoun is noted in the footnotes (cf. 1.36; 1.54; 5.16, 27; 6.24, 31, 62; 9.11, 40, 48; 10.76, 78; 11.4, 53; 12.4, 46; 13.19–20, 29; 15.26, 36).

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

In the preparation of the NETS translation a number of other translations were consulted regularly in order to avoid reproducing any one of them too closely: the King James Version, Today's English Version, the New Revised Standard Version, the Douay Old Testament, the Knox Translation, the New American Bible, and the New Jerusalem Bible as presented most handily in J. R. Kohlenberger III, ed., The Parallel Apocrypha (New York: Oxford University Press, 1997). Also very helpful were the texts of J. A. Goldstein, 1 Maccabees and S. Tedesche, The First Book of Maccabees (Dropsie College Edition of Jewish Apocryphal Literature; New York: Harper & Brothers, 1950).

GEORGE T. ZERVOS

1 And it happened after the triumph of Alexander the Macedonian the son of Philip, who came out of the land of Chetthim and defeated Darius, king of the Persians and Medes, and became king in his place, formerly being king of Greece—²and he conducted many wars and seized fortresses and slaughtered the kings of the earth. ³And he penetrated to the ends of the earth and took the spoils of a multitude of nations. And the earth became quiet before him, and he was exalted, and his heart was uplifted. ⁴And he gathered a very powerful force and ruled over countries, nations and tyrants, and they became tributary to him.

5 And after this he fell upon his bed and knew that he was dying. ⁶And he called his distinguished servants, who had been raised with him from their youth, and divided his kingdom among them while he was still living. ⁷And Alexander ruled for twelve years and died.

8 And his servants took control, each in his own place. ⁹And they all put on crowns after he died, as did their sons after them for many years, and they multiplied evils on the earth.

10 And out of them arose a sinful root, Antiochus Epiphanes son of Antiochus the king, who had been a hostage in Rome and became king in the one hundred thirty-seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.

11 In those days out of Israel came sons, transgressors of the law, and persuaded many, saying, "Let us go and make a covenant with the nations around us, because from the time we separated ourselves from them many evils have found us." ¹²And the proposition seemed good in their eyes; ¹³so some of the people took courage and went to the king, and he gave them the authority to follow the statutes of the nations. ¹⁴And they built a gymnasium in Hierosolyma according to the precepts of the nations, ¹⁵and they fashioned foreskins for themselves and apostatized from the holy covenant and joined themselves to the nations and sold themselves to do evil.

16 And the kingdom was ready in the sight of Antiochus, and he undertook to become king of the land of Egypt so that he might rule over the two kingdoms. ¹⁷And he invaded Egypt with a heavily armed host, with chariots and elephants and a large fleet. ¹⁸And he made war against Ptolemy, king of Egypt, and Ptolemy turned from before him and fled, and many fell wounded. ¹⁹And they seized the fortified cities in the land of Egypt, and he took the spoils of the land of Egypt.

20 And Antiochus returned after conquering Egypt in the one hundred forty-third year and went up against Israel and went up against Hierosolyma with a heavily armed host. ²¹And he entered the holy precinct with arrogance and took the golden altar and the lamp stand for the light and all its utensils ²²and the table of presentation and the libation bowls and the saucers and the golden censers and the veil and the crowns, and he stripped off all the gold ornamentation on the façade of the shrine. ²³And he took the silver and the gold and the precious vessels, and he took the hidden treasures, which he found. ²⁴And taking everything, he left for his own land and carried out murder

and spoke with great arrogance.

25 And there was great mourning in Israel, in every place of theirs.

26 And rulers and elders groaned, virgins and young men weakened, and the beauty of the women was deformed.

27 Every bridegroom took up lamentation; she who sat in the bridal chamber was in mourning.

28 And the land quaked for those dwelling in it, and all the house of Iakob was clothed with shame.

29 Two years later the king sent a chief revenue agent to the cities of Iouda, and he came to Ierousalem with a heavily-armed host. ³⁰And he spoke peaceful words to them with deceit, and they trusted him. But he fell upon the city suddenly and struck it a great blow, and he destroyed many people from Israel. ³¹And he took the spoils of the city and burned it with fire and tore down its houses and the walls around it. ³²And they took the women and the children captive and took possession of the livestock. ³³And they reconstructed the city of Dauid with a large and fortified wall with fortified towers, and it became a citadel for them. ³⁴And they stationed a sinful nation there, lawless men, and they became strong in it. ³⁵And they stockpiled weapons and food, and gathering the plunder of Ierousalem, they stored it there and became a great threat.

- ³⁶ It^a became an ambush for the holy precinct and an evil enemy to Israel continuously.
³⁷ And they poured out innocent blood around the holy precinct and defiled the sanctuary.
³⁸ And the residents of Ierousalem left because of them, and it became a residence for foreigners and became foreign to those born of her, and her children abandoned her.
³⁹ Her holy precinct became deserted as a wilderness; her feasts were turned to mourning, her sabbaths to disgrace, her honor to scorn.
⁴⁰ Her dishonor was multiplied to equal her former glory, and her exaltation was turned to mourning.

41 And the king wrote to all his kingdom for all to be as one people ⁴²and for each to abandon his own precepts; all the nations complied with the dictum of the king. ⁴³And many also from Israel approved of his service and sacrificed to idols and profaned the sabbath. ⁴⁴And the king sent documents carried by the hand of messengers to Ierousalem and the cities of Iouda for them to follow precepts foreign to the land ⁴⁵and to withhold whole burnt offerings and sacrifice and libation from the holy precinct and to profane sabbaths and feasts ⁴⁶and to defile holy precinct and holy ones, ⁴⁷to build altars^b and sacred precincts and houses to idols and to sacrifice swine and common animals ⁴⁸and to leave their sons uncircumcised, to make their souls abominable in every unclean and profane thing, ⁴⁹so as to forget the law and to change all the statutes. ⁵⁰And whoever would not abide by the command of the king would die.

51 According to all these words he wrote to all his kingdom and appointed supervisors over all the people and commanded all the cities of Iouda to sacrifice city by city. ⁵²And many of the people joined them, everyone who abandoned the law, and they did evil in the land. ⁵³And they forced Israel into hiding places, into every one of their places of refuge.

54 And on the fifteenth day of Chaseleu in the one hundred and forty-fifth year, he^c constructed an abomination of desolation on the altar, and in the cities around Iouda they built altars^b ⁵⁵and burned incense at the doors of the houses and in the city squares. ⁵⁶And the books of the law which they found they tore up and burned with fire. ⁵⁷And wherever there was found in someone's possession a book of the covenant, or if someone was conforming to the law, the judgment of the king put them to death. ⁵⁸And they were using their power on those who were found in Israel month by month in the cities. ⁵⁹On the twenty-fifth^b of the month they were sacrificing on the altar^b that was on top of the sacrificial altar. ⁶⁰And the women who had circumcised their children they put to death according to the ordinance, ⁶¹and they hung the babies from their necks and put to death their families and those who circumcised them.

62 But many in Israel remained strong and fortified themselves not to eat common things. ⁶³And they preferred to die so as not to be contaminated by food and not to defile the holy covenant, and they died. ⁶⁴And there was a very great wrath upon Israel.

2 In those days Mattathias son of Ioannes son of Symeon, a priest of the sons of Ioarib, left Ierousalem and settled in Modein. ²And he had five sons, Ioannes, who was called Gaddi, ³Simon, who was called Thassi, ⁴Ioudas, who was called Makkabaiois, ⁵Eleazaros, who was called Auaran, Ionathes, who was called Apphous. ⁶And he saw the blasphemies occurring in Iouda and in Ierousalem ⁷and said,

- "Woe to me, why was I born to see this,
 the destruction of my people and the destruction of the holy city?
 And they lived there when it^d was delivered into the hands of enemies, the holy precinct into the hands of foreigners.
⁸ And her shrine became as a man without honor.
⁹ The vessels of her glory were taken captive.
 Her infants were killed in her city squares, her young people by the sword of an enemy.
¹⁰ What nation did not possess her in its kingdom
 nor seize her spoils?
¹¹ All her adornment was removed;
 from being free she became a slave.
¹² And look, our ^eholy places^e, our beauty and our glory were devastated.
 And the nations defiled them.
¹³ Why is there still life in us?"

^ai.e. the citadel ^bGk = bōmos ^ci.e. Antiochus ^di.e. the city ^ei.e. temple

14 And Mattathias and his sons tore their garments and put on sackcloth and mourned intensely.

15 And the agents of the king, who were enforcing the apostasy, came to the city of Modein to sacrifice. ¹⁶And many from Israel came to them, and Mattathias and his sons gathered together. ¹⁷And the agents of the king answered and said to Mattathias, saying, "You are a ruler, both glorious and great in this city, and supported by sons and brothers. ¹⁸Now you come forward first and execute the ordinance of the king, as have done all the nations and the men of Iouda and those remaining in Ierousalem. And you and your sons will be among the Friends of the king, and you and your sons will be glorified with silver and gold and much compensation."

19 And Mattathias answered and said with a loud voice, "If all the nations which are in the realm of the king obey him so as to apostatize, each one from the religion of their fathers, and adopt his commandments, ²⁰both I and my sons and my brothers will walk in the covenant of our fathers. ²¹God help us if we abandon the law and the statutes; ²²we will not obey the words of the king nor deviate from our religion to the right or to the left."

23 And as he finished speaking these words, a Judean man came within sight of all to sacrifice on the altar^a in Modein in accordance with the ordinance of the king. ²⁴And Mattathias saw this, and he became zealous, and his kidneys became stirred up. And his anger arose in judgment. And running, he slaughtered him on the altar^a ²⁵and killed the agent of the king, who was forcing them to sacrifice at that time, and tore down the altar^a. ²⁶And he became zealous in the law as Phinees had done against Zambri son of Salom.

27 And Mattathias cried out in the city with a loud voice, saying, "Let everyone who is zealous in the law and is upholding the covenant follow me." ²⁸And he and his sons fled to the mountains and abandoned everything they had in the city.

29 At that time many who were seeking righteousness and judgment descended to the wilderness to live there, ³⁰they, their sons, their wives and their livestock, because evils worsened upon them. ³¹And it was announced to the king's men and to his forces that were in Ierousalem, the city of Daudid, that the men who had spurned the commandment of the king went into hiding in the wilderness. ³²And many chased after them and overtaking them, marshaled against them and engaged them in battle on the day of the sabbaths. ³³And they said to them, "Enough! Come out, and do according to the dictum of the king, and you will live." ³⁴And they said, "We will not come out. Nor will we execute the dictum of the king to defile the day of the sabbaths." ³⁵And they^b increased the battle against them. ³⁶But they neither answered them nor threw a stone against them nor even secured their hiding places, ³⁷saying, "Let us all die in our simplicity. Heaven and earth bear witness to us that you destroy us unjustly." ³⁸And they fell upon them in battle on the sabbaths, and they and their wives and their children and their livestock died, as many as one thousand human souls.

39 And Mattathias and his friends learned of this, and they mourned over them greatly. ⁴⁰And they said, a man to his neighbor, "If we all do as our brothers did and do not fight against the nations for our lives and for our statutes, now quickly they will annihilate us from the land." ⁴¹And they decided on that day saying, "Every person who comes against us in battle on the day of the sabbaths, let us fight against them, and we will not all die as our brothers died in the hiding places."

42 At that time a gathering of Hasideans joined together with them, strong in power, from Israel, every one of them volunteering for the law. ⁴³And all the fugitives from the evils were added to them and became a support for them. ⁴⁴And they assembled a force and struck down sinners in their wrath and lawless men in their anger, and the rest fled to the nations to be saved. ⁴⁵And Mattathias and his friends went around and tore down the altars^a ⁴⁶and circumcised by force all the uncircumcised boys they found within the borders of Israel. ⁴⁷And they persecuted the children of insolence, and their mission was successful by their hand. ⁴⁸And they reclaimed the law out of the hands of the nations and out of the hands of the kings, and they gave no support to the sinner.

49 And the days drew near for Mattathias to die, and he said to his sons, "Now arrogance and reproach have been established, a time of destruction and fierce wrath. ⁵⁰Now, children, be zealous in the law, and give your lives for the covenant of our fathers.

51 "Remember the works of our fathers, which they did in their generations, and receive great glory and an everlasting name. ⁵²Was not Abraham found faithful in temptation, and it was accounted to him as righteousness? ⁵³Ioseph in the time of his affliction observed the commandment and became lord of Egypt. ⁵⁴Phinees our father, by becoming zealous with zeal, received a covenant of everlasting priesthood. ⁵⁵Jesus, by fulfilling the command, became a judge in Israel. ⁵⁶Chaleb, by bearing witness in the assembly, received an inheritance of land. ⁵⁷Dauid, by his mercy, inherited the throne of a kingdom forever. ⁵⁸Elias, by becoming greatly zealous for the law, was taken up into heaven. ⁵⁹Hananiah, Azarias and Misael, because of their faith, were saved from fire. ⁶⁰Daniel, by his simplicity, was rescued from the mouth of lions.

61 "Therefore, keep in mind from generation to generation that all who hope in him will not weaken. ⁶²And do not fear on account of the words of a sinner, because their glory will become dung and worms. ⁶³Today they will be elevated, but tomorrow they will not be found, because they will have returned to their dust and their counsels will be lost. ⁶⁴Children, be brave, and be strong in the law, for by it you will be glorified.

^aGk = bōmos ^bi.e. the enemy

⁶⁵“And look, Symeon your brother, I know that he is a man of counsel. Hear him all the days. He shall be as a father to you. ⁶⁶And Ioudas Mak-kabaïos has been strong in power since his youth. He shall be commander of the army and shall fight the war of the peoples. ⁶⁷And you shall draw to you all those who observe the law and execute vengeance for your people. ⁶⁸Return what is due to the nations, and be attentive to the ordinance of the law.”

⁶⁹And he blessed them and was joined to his fathers. ⁷⁰And he died in the one hundred forty-sixth year and was buried among the tombs of his ancestors in Modein. And all Israel mourned for him with great mourning.

3 And Ioudas his son who was called Mak-kabaïos, rose up in his place, ²and all his brothers helped him, as did all who had joined his father. And they fought the war for Israel with gladness.

³ And he spread glory to his people and put on a breastplate like a giant and strapped on his war instruments.

And he conducted battles, protecting the camp by the sword.

⁴ And he resembled a lion in his works and was like a whelp roaring in the hunt.

⁵ And seeking out the lawless, he persecuted them and burned up those who disturbed his people.

⁶ And the lawless drew back for fear of him, and all the workers of lawlessness were disturbed, and salvation was successful by his hand.

⁷ And he caused bitterness to many kings, and gladness to Iakob by his works, and his memory will be a blessing forever.

⁸ And he went through the cities of Iouda and annihilated the impious from it and turned away wrath from Israel.

⁹ And his name was known to the ends of the earth, and he gathered together those who were lost.

¹⁰ And Apollonius gathered together the nations and a large force from Samaria, to make war against Israel. ¹¹And Ioudas found out, and he went out to meet him. And he struck and killed him. And many fell wounded, and the rest fled. ¹²And they took their spoils, and Ioudas took the dagger of Apollonius and fought with it all his days.

¹³ And Seron, the commander of the force of Syria, heard that Ioudas had gathered a force and an assembly of troops loyal to him who were going out with him to battle. ¹⁴And he said, “I will make a name for myself and will be glorified in the kingdom. And I will make war on Ioudas and those with him who disregard the dictum of the king.” ¹⁵And there was added a powerful company of impious men, and it went up with him to help him take revenge on the descendants of Israel.

¹⁶ And he drew near to the ascent of Baithoron, and Ioudas went out to meet him with few companions. ¹⁷But as they saw the company coming to meet them, they said to Ioudas, “How will we, being so few, be able to fight against such a powerful multitude? And we are weak, having eaten nothing today.” ¹⁸And Ioudas said, “It is easy for many to be ensnared by the hands of a few. And it makes no difference before heaven to save by many or by a few. ¹⁹For victory in war is not in the multitude of force, but rather, power is from heaven. ²⁰They come against us with great arrogance and lawlessness, to eliminate us and our wives and our children, to despoil us. ²¹But we fight for our lives and our precepts, ²²and he himself will smash them before us. You, therefore, do not be afraid of them.”

²³ When he had finished speaking, he drove upon them suddenly. And Seron and his company were smashed before him. ²⁴And they pursued him on the descent of Baithoron down to the plain. And eight hundred men of them fell, and the rest fled to the land of Phylistiim. ²⁵Thus began the fear of Ioudas and his brothers, and dread fell upon the nations all around them. ²⁶And his name reached the king himself, and every nation was discussing the battles of Ioudas.

²⁷ But when Antiochus heard these words, he raged in anger and sent for and gathered together all the forces of his kingdom, a very powerful company. ²⁸And he opened his treasury and gave rations to his forces for a year. And he commanded them to be prepared for every service. ²⁹But he saw that the money from the treasuries had given out, and the taxes of the country were few because of the dissension and affliction that he had brought upon the land by revoking the precepts, which existed from the first days. ³⁰And he was concerned that he might not have as much as he usually had for his expenditures and for the gifts, which he used to give before with a liberal hand when he exceeded the kings preceding him. ³¹And he was greatly frustrated in his soul and decided to go to Persia and to take the taxes from those countries and to gather much money.

³² And he left Lysias, a distinguished man of the royal family, over the affairs of the king from the Euphrates river to the borders of Egypt ³³and to raise Antiochus his son until he returned. ³⁴And he gave to him^a half of his forces and the elephants and commanded him concerning everything he was considering and concerning the inhabitants of Judea and Ierousalem, ³⁵to send a force against them to wipe out and to destroy the strength of Israel and the remnant of Ierousalem and to remove the memory of them from the place ³⁶and to settle alien sons in all their regions and to parcel out their land by lot. ³⁷And the king took the half of the forces that remained and departed from Antioch, from the city of his kingdom in the one hundred and forty-seventh year. And he crossed over the Euphrates river and went through the upper countries.

^ai.e. Lysias

³⁸ And Lysias selected Ptolemy son of Dorymenes and Nicanor and Gorgias, powerful men from the Friends of the king, ³⁹and sent with them forty thousand men and seven thousand cavalry to go into the land of Ioudas and to devastate it according to the dictum of the king. ⁴⁰And he^a departed together with their whole force, and they came and camped near Ammaous in the flatland. ⁴¹And the merchants of the land heard their name, and they took silver and very much gold and shackles and came to the camp to take the sons of Israel as servants. And there were added to them a force from Syria and from the land of the allophyles.

⁴² And Ioudas and his brothers saw that the evils were multiplied and that the forces were camped within their borders and learned of the orders of the king, which he had commanded to do to the people for destruction and annihilation, ⁴³and they said, each to his neighbor, "Let us raise up the ruination of our people and make war for our people and the ^bholy places^b." ⁴⁴And the congregation gathered together to be ready for battle and to pray and to request mercy and compassion.

⁴⁵ And Ierousalem was uninhabited like a wilderness.

There was no one going in or going out of those born of her.

And the holy precinct was downtrodden, and sons of aliens were in the citadel, a dwelling-place for the nations.

And enjoyment was taken away from Iakob, and flute and cinyra^c ceased.

⁴⁶ And they gathered together and came to Massepha across from Ierousalem, for there was a place of prayer formerly in Massepha for Israel. ⁴⁷And they fasted on that day and wrapped themselves in sackcloth and ashes on their head and tore their clothes. ⁴⁸And they spread out the book of the law, seeking that concerning which the nations inquire of the images of their idols. ⁴⁹And they brought the garments of the priesthood, the first products and the tithes, and they aroused^d the Nazirites who had fulfilled their days. ⁵⁰And they cried out loudly to heaven saying,

"What shall we do to these, and where shall we carry them?"

⁵¹ And your ^bholy places^b have been downtrodden and defiled, and your priests are in mourning and humiliation.

⁵² And look, the nations have gathered together against us to annihilate us. You know what they are contemplating against us.

⁵³ How will we be able to withstand them face to face, if you do not help us?"

⁵⁴ And they trumpeted with the trumpets and cried out with a great shout. ⁵⁵And after this, Ioudas established leaders of the people, officers of thousands and officers of hundreds and officers of fifties and officers of tens. ⁵⁶And he said to those who were building houses and were betrothed to women and were planting vineyards and were cowards to return each one to his home according to the law. ⁵⁷And the company departed and camped to the south of Ammaous.

⁵⁸ And Ioudas said, "Gird yourselves, and become strong sons. And be ready in the morning to do battle with these nations, which have gathered together against us to annihilate us and our ^bholy places^b. ⁵⁹For it is better for us to die in battle than to look upon the evils of our nation and of our ^bholy places^b. ⁶⁰But as is the will of heaven, thus shall he do."

4 And Gorgias took five thousand men and one thousand select cavalry. And the company departed by night ²in order to fall upon the camp of the Judeans and strike them suddenly. And the sons of the citadel were his guides. ³And Ioudas learned this, and he and his strongest men went out to defeat the force of the king, which was at Ammaous, ⁴while the forces were still scattered from the camp. ⁵And Gorgias arrived at the camp of Ioudas at night and found no one, and he sought them in the mountains, because he said, "These men are fleeing from us."

⁶ And at daybreak Ioudas was seen in the plain with three thousand men, except that they had no coverings^e and dagger as they wanted. ⁷And they saw the camp of the nations, strong, heavily-defended and with cavalry encircling it, and these were instructed for war. ⁸And Ioudas said to the men who were with him, "Do not fear their multitude, and do not be cowardly at their charge. ⁹Remember how our fathers were saved in the Red Sea when Pharao was pursuing them in force. ¹⁰And now let us cry out to heaven, if he will desire us and will remember the covenant of our fathers and will smash this company in front of us today. ¹¹And all the nations will know that there is one who redeems and saves Israel."

¹² And the allophyles lifted up their eyes and saw them coming from the opposite side, ¹³and they came out of the camp to battle. And those who were with Ioudas trumpeted ¹⁴and joined battle with them. And the nations were smashed and fled to the plain. ¹⁵But all the hindmost fell by the sword. And they pursued them as far as Gazera and as far as the flatlands of Idumea, Azotus and Jamnia, and of them three thousand men fell. ¹⁶And Ioudas and his force returned from chasing after them. ¹⁷And he said to the people, "Do not desire plunder, for the battle is before us. ¹⁸And Gorgias and the force in the mountain are near us. But now, stand against our enemies, and do battle against them, and after that take the plunder freely."

^aI.e. Lysias ^bI.e. temple ^c = Heb kinnor = lyre ^dOr gathered ^ePossibly shields

19 Just as Ioudas was concluding these things, a certain detachment was seen peering out of the mountain. ²⁰And they saw that they had been routed, and they^a were burning the camp, for the smoke that was being seen made apparent what had happened. ²¹Now when they comprehended these things, they became very frightened. And perceiving also the army of Ioudas in the plain ready in battle order, ²²they all fled to the land of the allophyles. ²³And Ioudas turned to the plundering of the camp, and they took much gold and silver, blue and sea purple cloth and great wealth. ²⁴And returning, they sang hymns and blessed heaven, "for he is good, for his mercy is forever." ²⁵And a great salvation came about in Israel on that day.

26 And as many of the allophyles survived, when they arrived, they informed Lysias of everything that had happened. ²⁷Upon hearing, he became confused and disheartened, because things that he did not want had happened to Israel, and what resulted was not what the king had commanded him. ²⁸And in the following year he mustered sixty thousand select men and five thousand cavalry in order to make war on them. ²⁹And they came into Idumea and camped at Baithsoura, and Ioudas met them with ten thousand men.

30 And he saw the powerful army, and he prayed and said, "Blessed are you, the savior of Israel, who smashed the attack of the powerful one by the hand of your slave Dauid and delivered the camp of the allophyles into the hands of Ionathes son of Saoul and of the bearer of his armor. ³¹Entrap this camp in the hand of your people Israel, and let them be put to shame in their army and their cavalry. ³²Give them cowardice, and melt the boldness of their strength, and let them be shaken in their ruination. ³³Subdue them by the sword of those who love you, and let all those who know your name praise you with hymns."

34 And they joined battle with each other, and from the army of Lysias fell five thousand men, and they fell from before them. ³⁵And seeing the developing rout of his own formation but the complete boldness of Ioudas and how they were ready to live or die bravely, Lysias departed to Antioch and was enlisting foreign troops, [and] becoming numerous again in order to return to Judea.

36 But Ioudas and his brothers said, "Look, our enemies have been smashed. Let us go up to purify and rededicate the ^bholy places^b." ³⁷And the whole company gathered together and went up to Mount Zion. ³⁸And they saw the holy precinct desolate and the altar defiled and the doors burned and plants growing in the courts as in a thicket or as in one of the mountains and the chambers of the priests demolished. ³⁹And they tore their garments and mourned with great mourning. And they spread ashes on themselves ⁴⁰and fell on their faces on the ground. And they trumpeted with the signal trumpets and cried out to heaven.

41 Then Ioudas ordered men to fight those in the citadel until he could purify the ^bholy places^b. ⁴²And he selected uncorrupted priests, devotees of the law, ⁴³and they purified the ^bholy places^b and took the stones of pollution to an unclean place. ⁴⁴And they took counsel concerning the altar of whole burnt offering, which had been defiled, as to what they should do with it. ⁴⁵And there fell to them a good counsel, to tear it down so that it would not become a reproach to them, because the nations defiled it. And they tore down the altar ⁴⁶and put away the stones on the mount of the house in a suitable place until a prophet would come to give an answer concerning these things. ⁴⁷And they took whole stones according to the law and built a new altar like the former one. ⁴⁸And they built the ^bholy places^b and the inner areas of the house and sanctified the courts. ⁴⁹And they made new holy vessels and brought the lamp stand and the altar of incense and the table into the shrine. ⁵⁰And they burned incense on the altar and lit the lamps, which were on the lamp stand, and they gave light in the shrine. ⁵¹And they placed loaves on the table and spread out the veils and finished all the works which they made.

52 And they arose on the morning of the twenty-fifth of the ninth month, this being the month Chaseleu, of the one hundred and forty-eighth year, ⁵³and they offered sacrifice according to the law on the new altar of whole burnt offerings that they made. ⁵⁴During the same time and on the same day on which the nations defiled it, on that day it was rededicated with songs and lyres and cinyras^c and cymbals. ⁵⁵And all the people fell on their face and did obeisance and blessed heaven, which made them successful. ⁵⁶And they accomplished the rededication of the altar in eight days and offered whole burnt offerings with gladness. And they offered a sacrifice of salvation and praise. ⁵⁷And they decorated the façade of the shrine with gold crowns and small shields and renewed the gates and priest's chambers and furnished them with doors. ⁵⁸And very great gladness came upon the people, and their disgrace before the nations was removed.

59 And Ioudas, his brothers and the whole assembly of Israel established that the days of the rededication of the altar would be commemorated in their times, year by year, eight days from the twenty-fifth of the month Chaseleu, with gladness and joy.

60 And they constructed at that time all around Mount Zion high walls and fortified towers so that the nations would not return and trample them down as they did before. ⁶¹And he^d stationed a force there to defend it, and he fortified it to defend Baithsoura so that the people would have a fortress facing Idumea.

^ai.e. the Judeans ^bi.e. temple ^c= Heb kinnor = lyre ^di.e. Ioudas

5 And it happened, when the surrounding nations heard that the altar had been built and the holy precinct had been rededicated as before, and they were greatly angered ²and decided to annihilate the race of Iakob who were in their midst. And they began to kill among the people and to drive them out. ³And Ioudas made war against the sons of Esau in Idumea, against Akrabattene, because they were besieging Israel. And he struck them a mighty blow and reduced them and took their spoils. ⁴And he remembered the evil of the sons of Baian, who were to the people as a snare and as a trap by ambushing them on the roads. ⁵And they were confined by him to the towers, and he marshaled his troops against them and anathematized them and burned their towers with fire together with all those who were inside. ⁶And he crossed over against the sons of Ammon and found a strong band and many people with Timothy their leader. ⁷And he engaged in many battles against them, and they were smashed before him, and he defeated them. ⁸And he occupied Iazer and its daughters^a and returned to Judea.

9 And the nations in Galaad gathered together against the Israelites who were within their borders, to eliminate them, but they fled to the fortress of Dathema. ¹⁰And they sent letters to Ioudas and his brothers, saying, "The nations around us are gathered together against us to annihilate us. ¹¹And they are preparing to come and occupy the fortress in which we have taken refuge, and Timothy is the leader of their force. ¹²Now then come, and deliver us from their hand for a multitude of us has fallen. ¹³And all our brothers who are in the area of Toubia have been killed, and they have captured their wives and their children and belongings and destroyed about a thousand men there."

14 While the letters were being read, look, other messengers were arriving from Galilee, having torn their garments, giving a report similar to these words, ¹⁵saying that there was gathered against them, from Ptolemais and Tyre and Sidon and "even all the Galilee of the allophytes, to annihilate us." ¹⁶Now when Ioudas and the people heard these words, a great assembly was gathered together to decide what they should do for their kindred who were in affliction and were embattled by them. ¹⁷And Ioudas said to Simon his brother, "Select men for yourself, and go, and rescue your kindred who are in Galilee. And I and Jonathan my brother will go to Galaaditis." ¹⁸And he left Iosephos the son of Zacharias, and Azarias, a leader of the people, with the remainder of the force in Judea for defense. ¹⁹And he commanded them saying, "Protect this people, and do not join battle against the nations until we return." ²⁰And three thousand men were allotted to Simon to go to Galilee, and to Ioudas eight thousand men for Galaaditis.

21 And Simon went to Galilee and conducted many battles against the nations, and the nations were smashed from before him. ²²And he pursued them as far as the gate of Ptolemais, and from the nations up to three thousand men fell, and he took their spoils. ²³And he took those^b from Galilee and in Arbatta with the women and children and everything that was theirs and led them to Judea with great gladness.

24 And Ioudas Makkabaïos and Jonathan his brother crossed over the Jordan and went three days' journey in the wilderness. ²⁵And they came upon the Nabateans and met with them peacefully. And they related to them everything that had happened to their kindred in Galaaditis ²⁶and that many of them were captive in Bosora and Bosor, in Alema, Chaspfo, Maked and Karnain. "All these cities are fortified and great. ²⁷And in the remaining cities of Galaaditis also there are captives. They^c are marshalling troops, to assault the fortresses tomorrow and to take them and to annihilate all these people in one day."

28 And Ioudas and his army turned away by the road into the wilderness toward Bosora suddenly and took the city. And he killed every male by the edge of the sword and took all their spoils and burned it with fire. ²⁹And he departed from there by night, and they went as far as the fortress. ³⁰And it happened in the morning, they lifted up their eyes, look, a large crowd of people, which was innumerable, carrying ladders and siege engines to take the fortress, and they were battling them. ³¹And Ioudas saw that the battle had begun, and the screaming of the city went up as far as heaven with trumpeting and great screaming, ³²and he said to the men of his force, "Fight today for our kindred." ³³And he went out in three divisions from behind them, and they trumpeted with the trumpets and cried out in prayer. ³⁴And the army of Timothy recognized that it was Makkabaïos, and they fled from before him, but he struck them a heavy blow, and up to eight thousand of their men fell on that day.

35 And he turned aside to Maapha and made war on it and took it. And he killed every male in it and took its spoils and burned it with fire. ³⁶From there he departed and occupied Chaspfo, Maked and Bosor and the remaining cities of Galaaditis.

37 After these developments Timothy gathered another army and camped before Raphon on the other side of the wadi. ³⁸And Ioudas sent agents to spy out the camp, and they reported to him saying, "There are gathered together to him all the nations surrounding us, a very great force. ³⁹And he has even hired Arabs to help them, and they are camped on the other side of the wadi ready to come against you in battle." And Ioudas went out to meet them.

40 And Timothy said to the commanders of his force as Ioudas and his army came near to the wadi of water, "If he crosses over towards us first, we will not be able to withstand him for he is powerful enough to prevail against us. ⁴¹But if he becomes cowardly and camps on the other side of the river,

^ai.e. dependent villages ^bi.e. Judeans ^ci.e. the cities

we will cross over towards him and will prevail against him." ⁴²But when Ioudas came near to the stream of water, he set the scribes of the people at the stream and commanded them, saying, "Do not allow any person to camp, but let them all come into the battle." ⁴³And he crossed over against them first, and all the people were behind him. And the nations were smashed from before him, and they threw down their weapons and fled to the sacred precinct in Karnain. ⁴⁴And they occupied the city and burned the sacred precinct with fire together with all who were in it. And Karnain was vanquished, and they were no longer able to stand before Ioudas.

⁴⁵ And Ioudas gathered together all of Israel who were in Galaaditis from the small to the great and their wives and their children and belongings, a very great company, to come to the land of Iouda. ⁴⁶And they came as far as Ephron. And this was a great city on the road, very well fortified, and it was not possible to go around it to the right or to the left, but only to go through the middle of it. ⁴⁷But the people who were from the city closed them out and blocked the gates with stones.

⁴⁸ And Ioudas sent a message to them with peaceful words, saying, "We will pass through your land to return to our land, and no one will do you harm; we will only pass by on foot." But they did not want to open to him. ⁴⁹And Ioudas gave the order to announce to the army for each to camp in the place where they were. ⁵⁰And the men of the force camped, and he made war on the city all that day and all night, and the city was delivered into his hand. ⁵¹And he destroyed every male by the edge of the sword. And he demolished it^a and took its spoils and passed through the city over those who had been killed.

⁵² And they crossed over the Jordan to the large plain before Baithsan. ⁵³And Ioudas was gathering the stragglers and encouraging the people all along the road until he came to the land of Iouda. ⁵⁴And they went up to Mount Sion with gladness and joy and offered whole burnt offerings, because no one of them fell until they returned in peace.

⁵⁵ And in the days during which Ioudas and Jonathan were in the land of Galaad and Simon his brother was in Galilee before Ptolemais, ⁵⁶Ioseph the son of Zacharias and Azarias, commanders of the force, heard of the heroic actions and of the war which they executed. ⁵⁷And they said, "Let us make a name for ourselves also, and let us go to make war against the nations around us." ⁵⁸And they gave orders to the men of the force that was with them and went to Jamnia. ⁵⁹And Gorgias and his men came out of the city to meet them in battle. ⁶⁰And Iosephos and Azarias were routed and were pursued as far as the borders of Judea, and on that day up to two thousand of the people of Israel fell. ⁶¹And there was a great rout among the people, because they did not listen to Ioudas and his brothers, intending to act heroically. ⁶²But they were not of the seed of those men to whom was given salvation to Israel by their hand.

⁶³ And the man Ioudas and his brothers were glorified greatly before all Israel and all the nations where their name was heard. ⁶⁴And they would gather together praising them.

⁶⁵ And Ioudas and his brothers went out and made war on the sons of Esau in the land to the south. And he struck Chebron and its daughters^b and tore down its fortresses and burned the towers all around it. ⁶⁶And he departed to go to the land of the allophytes and was going through Marisa. ⁶⁷On that day priests fell in battle, desiring to act heroically in it by going into battle thoughtlessly. ⁶⁸And Ioudas turned away to Azotus, a land of the allophytes, and tore down their altars^c and burned the carvings of their gods with fire and took the spoils of the cities and returned to Iouda.

6 And King Antiochus was going through the upper lands and heard that Elymais is a city in Persia distinguished for its wealth in silver and gold. ²And the temple that is in it is very wealthy, and there are golden coverings^d and breastplate and weapons, which Alexander left there, the son of Philip, the king, the Macedonian, who first became king over the Greeks. ³And he came and sought to take the city and to plunder it, and he was not able, because word of it became known to people from the city, ⁴and they stood up against him in battle. And he fled and departed from there with great sorrow to return to Babylon.

⁵ And someone came to him in Persia reporting that the armies that were going to Judea had been routed ⁶and that Lysias went initially with a powerful force but was turned back from before them^e, and they^e were strengthened by the weapons and power and much plunder that they took from the armies that they had cut down ⁷and that they tore down the abomination that he had built on the altar in Ierousalem and encircled the holy precinct with high walls as it had been before, and also Baithsoura, his city.

⁸ And it happened, when the king heard these words, he was astonished and greatly shaken, and he fell upon his bed and fell into illness from grief, because things did not happen for him as he desired. ⁹And he remained there rather many days, because intense grief mounted in him and he reckoned that he was dying. ¹⁰And he called all his Friends and said to them, "Sleep eludes my eyes, and I am disheartened from worry. ¹¹And I said in my heart, 'To what affliction have I come, and how great is the cataclysm in which I am now?' For I was kind and beloved in my authority. ¹²But now I remember the evils which I did in Ierousalem. And I took all the silver and gold vessels that were in it, and I sent men to annihilate the inhabitants of Iouda in vain. ¹³I know that, because of these things, these evils have found me, and now look, I am perishing with great grief in a foreign land."

¹⁴ And he called Philip, one of his Friends, and

^aI.e. the city ^bI.e. dependent villages ^cGk = bōmos ^dPossibly shields ^eI.e. the Judeans

established him over his whole kingdom. ¹⁵And he gave him his crown and robe and the seal ring in order to guide Antiochus his son and raise him to be king. ¹⁶And Antiochus the king died there in the one hundred forty-ninth year. ¹⁷And Lysias found out that the king had died, and he established Antiochus his son to be king in his place, whom he had raised as a youth, and he called his name Eupator.

¹⁸ And the men from the citadel had shut Israel in around the ^aholy places^a and were seeking to do harm by every means and to support the nations. ¹⁹And Ioudas determined to eliminate them and summoned all the people together to besiege them. ²⁰And they gathered together and besieged them in the one hundred fiftieth year. And he built siege towers and engines. ²¹But a group of them broke out of the siege and some of the impious of Israel joined themselves to them. ²²And they went to the king and said, "How long will you not do justice and avenge our kindred? ²³We were pleased to be subject to your father and to go by the things he said and to follow his ordinances. ²⁴But the sons of our people besieged it^b because of this and became alienated from us; furthermore, as many of us as were found were put to death, and our inheritances were seized. ²⁵And not only upon us did they lay hands, but also upon all things along their borders. ²⁶And look, today they are camped against the citadel in Ierusalem to take it, and they have fortified the holy precinct and Baithsoura. ²⁷And if you do not forestall them with haste, they will do more than these things, and you will not be able to restrain them."

²⁸ And the king became angry when he heard this and gathered together all his Friends, commanders of his army and those over the cavalry. ²⁹And from other kingdoms and from the islands of the seas mercenary forces came to him. ³⁰And the number of his forces was one hundred thousand foot soldiers and twenty thousand cavalry and thirty-two elephants trained in war. ³¹And they came through Idumea and camped at Baithsoura. And they battled for many days and built siege engines, but they^c came out and burned them and fought bravely.

³² And Ioudas departed from the citadel and camped at Baithzacharia, opposite the camp of the king. ³³And the king arose early in the morning and led the army in haste down the road to Baithzacharia. And the forces prepared for battle and trumpeted with the trumpets. ³⁴And they showed the elephants juice of grapes and black berries to incite them to war. ³⁵And they divided the beasts among the phalanxes and positioned with each elephant a thousand men with chain mail breastplates and copper helmets on their heads, and there were also five hundred select cavalry assigned to each beast. ³⁶These ahead of time were wherever the beast was and went with it wherever it went. They would never separate from it. ³⁷And there were wooden towers on them, on each beast, sturdy, covered, tied on it with devices, and on each one were four men of strength, who fought upon them, and its Indian handler. ³⁸And he stationed the rest of the cavalry on the sides at both flanks of the army as raiders and as guards for the phalanxes. ³⁹Now as the sun shone on the gold and copper shields, the mountains glittered with them and glowed as lamps of fire.

⁴⁰ And a certain part of the army of the king spread out on the high mountains and some of the lower ones, and they were advancing securely and in order. ⁴¹And everyone trembled who heard the sound made by the multitude of them and by the marching of the multitude and the clashing of the weapons, for the army was very great and mighty. ⁴²And Ioudas and his army drew near to do battle, and six hundred men of the army of the king fell. ⁴³And Eleazaros Auaran saw one of the beasts plated with royal armor, and it stood above all the other beasts, and he thought that the king was on it. ⁴⁴And he gave himself up to save his people and to secure for himself an everlasting name. ⁴⁵And he ran at him boldly, into the middle of the phalanx, and was killing to the right and to the left, and they separated before him on each side. ⁴⁶And he got down under the elephant and stabbed it underneath and killed it, but it fell to the ground on top of him, and he died there. ⁴⁷And they^c saw the might of the kingdom and the charge of the forces, and they turned back from them.

⁴⁸ But the men from the army of the king went up to meet them in Ierusalem, and the king camped in Judea and at Mount Sion. ⁴⁹And he made peace with the people of Baithsoura, and they came out of the city, because there was no food for them there to be shut in it, because it was sabbath in the land. ⁵⁰And the king took Baithsoura and stationed a guard there to hold it. ⁵¹And he camped against the holy precinct for many days and set up there siege towers and machines and devices to hurl fire and stones and to shoot arrows and slings. ⁵²And they^c themselves also made machines against their machines and battled for many days. ⁵³But there was no food in the depositories, because it was the seventh year, and those who had been rescued from the nations into Judea consumed the remainder of the stores. ⁵⁴And few men remained in the ^aholy places^a, because the famine prevailed over them, and they were scattered, each one to his own place.

⁵⁵ And Lysias heard that Philip, whom King Antiochus, while he was still living, had appointed to raise Antiochus his son to be king, ⁵⁶had returned from Persia and Media, and the forces that had gone with the king were with him, and that he was seeking to gain control of the government. ⁵⁷And he hurried and assented to withdraw and said to the king and to the leaders of the force and to the men, "We are dying out every day, and our food is limited, and the place we are besieging is strong, and the business of the kingdom is pressing upon us. ⁵⁸Let us now offer terms to these people, and let us make peace with them and with every nation of them. ⁵⁹And let us permit them to live in accordance with their precepts as before, for on account of those precepts, which we dispersed, they became angered and did all these things.

^ai.e. temple ^bi.e. the citadel ^ci.e. the Judeans

⁶⁰ And the speech was satisfactory to the king and to the rulers, and he proposed to them^a to make peace, and they accepted. ⁶¹And the king and the rulers swore an oath to them, and on this basis they^a came out of the fortress. ⁶²And the king entered into Mount Sion and saw the fortification of the place, but he set aside the oath which he swore and commanded and tore down the surrounding wall. ⁶³And he departed quickly and returned to Antioch, and he found Philip governing the city. And he made war upon him and took the city by force.

7 In the one hundred fifty-first year, Demetrius son of Seleucus left Rome and ascended with a few men to a seaside city and became king there. ²And it happened as he was going into the royal palace of his fathers, his forces apprehended Antiochus and Lysias to lead them to him. ³But when this action became known to him, he said, "Do not show me their faces." ⁴And the forces killed them, and Demetrius sat on the throne of his kingdom.

⁵ And all the lawless and impious men of Israel came to him, and Alcimus, who wanted to be a priest, led them. ⁶And they denounced the people to the king, saying, "Ioudas and his brothers destroyed all your Friends and scattered us out of our land. ⁷Now then, send a man whom you trust, and let him go to see all the destruction which he has done to us and to the country of the king, and let him punish them and everyone who gave assistance to them."

⁸ And the king selected Bacchides from the Friends of the king, who governed the area beyond the river and was a great man in the kingdom and was faithful to the king. ⁹And he sent him and the impious Alcimus, and he bestowed the priesthood upon him, and he commanded him to execute vengeance on the sons of Israel. ¹⁰And they departed and came with a large force to the land of Iouda, and he sent messengers to Ioudas and his brothers with peaceful words with deception. ¹¹But they did not pay attention to their words, for they saw that they came with a large force.

¹² And a company of scribes met before Alcimus and Bacchides to seek their rights. ¹³And the Hasideans were the first among the Israelites, and they sought peace from them, ¹⁴for they said, "A man, a priest of the seed of Aaron, came with the forces, and he will not treat us unjustly." ¹⁵And he spoke peaceful words with them and swore to them, saying, "We will not seek to do evil to you or to your friends." ¹⁶And they trusted him, but he apprehended from among them sixty men and killed them in one day according to the word which was written,

¹⁷ "The flesh of your holy ones and their blood they poured out around Ierousalem, and there was no one to bury them."

¹⁸And fear and trembling of them fell upon all the people, for they said, "There is no truth and judgment in them, for they have violated the stipulation and the oath which they swore."

¹⁹ And Bacchides departed from Ierousalem and camped at Bethzaith. And he sent and apprehended many of the men who had deserted to him and some of the people, and he killed them in the great pit. ²⁰And he entrusted the country to Alcimus and left a force with him to help him, and Bacchides returned to the king.

²¹ And Alcimus struggled to gain the high priesthood, ²²and all those who were stirring up their people joined together with him. And they prevailed over the land of Iouda and did great harm in Israel. ²³And Ioudas saw all the evil that Alcimus and those with him had done to the sons of Israel, which was more than the nations had done. ²⁴And he went out into all the regions all around Judea and executed vengeance on the men who had deserted, and they were prevented from going out into the country. ²⁵But when Alcimus saw that Ioudas and those with him had strengthened, he also knew that he would not be able to resist them, and he returned to the king and denounced their misdeeds.

²⁶ And the king sent Nicanor, one of his distinguished commanders, who hated and was hostile to Israel, and he commanded him to annihilate the people. ²⁷And Nicanor came to Ierousalem with a large force and sent a message to Ioudas and his brothers with peaceful words with deceit, saying, ²⁸"Let there be no warfare between me and you. I will come with a few men in order to see you personally with peace."

²⁹ And he came to Ioudas, and they greeted each other peacefully, but the enemies were ready to seize Ioudas. ³⁰Word of this became known to Ioudas, that he came to him with deceit, and he became terrified of him and did not want to see his face again. ³¹Nicanor learned that his plan had been revealed, and he came out to meet Ioudas in battle near Chapharsalama. ³²Around five hundred men of those with Nicanor fell, and they fled to the city of Dauid.

³³ After these developments Nicanor went up to Mount Sion, and some of the priests from the ^bholy places^b and some of the elders from the people came out to greet him peacefully and to show him the whole burnt offering that was being offered in behalf of the king. ³⁴But he mocked them and ridiculed them and defiled them and spoke arrogantly. ³⁵And he swore with anger, saying, "If Ioudas and his army do not surrender themselves into my hands now, in the future, if I return in peace, I will burn down this house." And he went out with great anger. ³⁶And the priests went in and stood in front of the altar and the shrine and wept and said,

^ai.e. the Judeans ^bi.e. temple

37 "You have selected this house for your name to be invoked in it, to be a house of prayer and supplication for your people.

38 Execute vengeance on this man and on his army, and let them fall by the sword. Remember their blasphemies, and do not allow them to endure."

39 And Nicanor went out of Ierousalem and camped in Baithoron, and the Syrian force met him. 40 And Ioudas camped in Adasa with three thousand men. And Ioudas prayed and said, 41 "When the men from the king blasphemed, your angel came out and killed one hundred eighty-five thousand of them. 42 In the same manner smash this army before us today, and let the rest know that he spoke wickedly against your ^aholy places^a, and judge him according to his wickedness."

43 And the armies engaged in battle on the thirteenth of the month Adar. And the army of Nicanor was smashed, and he fell first in battle. 44 And as his army saw that Nicanor fell, they threw down their weapons and fled. 45 And they^b pursued them one day's distance from Adasa until they came to Gazera, and they trumpeted with the signal trumpets behind them. 46 And people came out of all the surrounding villages of Judea and outflanked them, and they turned back against each other. And all of them fell by the sword, and not even one of them was left. 47 And they took the plunder and the spoils and cut off the head of Nicanor and his right hand, which he had stretched out arrogantly, and they brought them and exhibited them in Ierousalem. 48 And the people rejoiced greatly, and they observed that day as a day of great gladness. 49 And they established the observation of that day every year on the thirteenth of Adar. 50 And the land of Iouda became quiet for a few days.

8 And Ioudas heard the name of the Romans, that they were powerful in strength and were pleased with all those who allied themselves with them, that they would establish friendship with all those who come to them ²and that they are powerful in strength. And they recounted to him their wars and the heroic actions which they were doing with the Galatians and that they prevailed over them and made them subject to tribute ³and all they did in the land of Spain to gain control over the metals, the silver and the gold which was there ⁴and how they prevailed over the whole place by their strategy and patience, and the place was very far distant from them, and the kings came against them from the ends of the earth until they smashed them and struck them a great blow, while the rest give them tribute every year, ⁵and Philip and Perseus, the king of Kitians^c, and those who came up against them, they smashed them in war and prevailed over them, ⁶and Antiochus the Great, king of Asia, who came against them in war having one hundred twenty elephants and cavalry and chariots and a very large force, and was smashed by them, ⁷and they took him alive and established that he and those who would rule after him would give them a large tribute and would give hostages and territorial cession, ⁸the country of India and Media and Lydia, among the most beautiful of their countries, and taking them from him, they gave them to Eumenes the king, ⁹and that men from Greece wanted to come and annihilate them, ¹⁰but word of this became known to them, and they sent one general against them, and they battled against them, and many of them fell wounded, and they captured their wives and their children and plundered them and took control of their land and tore down their fortresses and enslaved them to this day. ¹¹And the rest of the kingdoms and the islands, as many as ever resisted them, they devastated and enslaved them, ¹²but with their friends and those who were supported by them they maintained friendship, and they got control of kings both near and far, and whoever heard their name feared them. ¹³And those whom they want to help and to be king, they^d are king, and those, whom they want, they remove. And they have been exalted greatly. ¹⁴And in all this not even one of them has put on a crown nor have they wrapped themselves in purple so as to show their power by it. ¹⁵And they built for themselves a council chamber, and every day three hundred twenty senators deliberate continuously about the multitude so that they might live in an orderly way. ¹⁶And they trust one man to rule them each year and to govern all their land, and they all obey the one, and there is no jealousy or envy among them.

17 And Ioudas selected Eupolemus son of Ioannes of Akkos and Jason son of Eleazaros and sent them to Rome to establish friendship and an alliance ¹⁸and to lift the yoke from them, for they saw the kingdom of the Greeks enslaving Israel in servitude. ¹⁹And they went to Rome, and the distance was very long, and they entered into the council chamber and answered and said, ²⁰"Ioudas, who is also called Makkabaïos, and his brothers and the multitude of the Judeans sent us to you to establish with you an alliance and peace and to enroll us as allies and friends of yours." ²¹And the speech was pleasing to them. ²²And this is a copy of the letter which they copied onto brass tablets and sent to Ierousalem to be with them there as a memorial of peace and alliance:

23 "May it be well with the Romans and with the nation of the Judeans on the sea and on land forever, and may sword and enemy be removed far from them. ²⁴But if war should come to Rome first or to any of their allies in all their dominion, ²⁵the nation of the Judeans will be their ally with their whole heart as the time may indicate to them. ²⁶And they will not give to the enemies, neither will they supply wheat, weapons, silver, ships, as it seemed good to Rome, but they will keep their commitments, receiving nothing in return. ²⁷In the same manner, if a war occurs first to the nation of the Judeans, the Romans will be their ally, willingly as the time may indicate to them. ²⁸And to the allies will not be given wheat, weapons, silver, ships, as it seemed good to Rome. And they will keep these commitments and not with deceit. ²⁹According to these words, thus stand the Romans with the citizenry of the Judeans. ³⁰But if after these words the first party and the second party desire to add or subtract, they shall do it by their own choice, and whatever they add or subtract shall be authoritative."

^ai.e. temple ^bi.e. the Judeans ^ci.e. Macedonians ^di.e. those helped

³¹ And concerning the evils which king Demetrius is doing to them, we have written to him saying, "Why have you made your yoke heavy on our friends and allies, the Judeans? ³²If then they petition against you again, we will give the judgment to them, and we will make war on you by sea and by land."

9 And Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his forces had fallen in battle; he again sent Bacchides and Alcimus for the second time to the land of Iouda, and the right flank with them. ²And they traveled the road to Galgala and camped against Maisaloth in Arbela and occupied it and destroyed many people's lives. ³And in the first month of the one hundred fifty-second year, they camped against Ierousalem, ⁴and they departed and went into Bereth with twenty thousand men and two thousand cavalry.

⁵ And Ioudas was camped at Elasa, and three thousand selected men with him. ⁶And they saw the multitude of the forces, that they were many, and they became very frightened, and many melted away from the camp; there did not remain of them but eight hundred men.

⁷ And Ioudas saw that his army had melted away and the battle was pressing him, and he was shattered in spirit, because he did not have time to gather them together. ⁸And he became faint and said to those who were left, "Let us arise and go up against our adversaries. Perhaps we are strong enough to do battle with them." ⁹But they deterred him, saying, "We are not strong enough, but rather, let us save our lives now. We and our brothers will return and will do battle against them. But we are few." ¹⁰And Ioudas said, "Far be it from me to do this thing, to flee from them. And if our time has drawn near, and let us die with courage for the sake of our brothers, and let us leave no accusation against our honor."

¹¹ And the force^a departed from the camp and stood for the engagement with them. And the cavalry was divided into two parts, and the slingers and the archers went ahead of the army as did all the strong warriors. ¹²But Bacchides was on the right flank, and the phalanx approached from both sides. And they blew the trumpets, and the men with Ioudas also trumpeted with their trumpets. ¹³And the earth was shaken from the sound of the armies, and the battle was joined from the morning until evening.

¹⁴ And Ioudas saw that Bacchides and the bulk of his army were on the right, and with him came all the bravest in heart. ¹⁵And the right wing was smashed by them, and he pursued them as far as Mount Azotus. ¹⁶And those on the left flank saw that the right flank had been smashed, and they turned on the heels of Ioudas and those with him from behind. ¹⁷And the fighting became heavy and many wounded fell from both sides. ¹⁸And Ioudas fell, and the rest fled.

¹⁹ And Jonathan and Simon took Ioudas their brother and buried him in the tomb of their fathers in Modein ²⁰and wept for him. And all Israel mourned him with great mourning and grieved many days and said,

²¹ "How the mighty savior of Israel fell!"

²²And the rest of the words of Ioudas and of the battles and heroic acts which he did and of his greatness were not written down for they were very many.

²³ And it happened after the death of Ioudas, the lawless came forth in all the regions of Israel, and all those who worked injustice arose. ²⁴In those days there was a very great famine, and the country deserted with them. ²⁵And Bacchides selected the impious men and established them as masters of the country. ²⁶And they sought out and investigated the friends of Ioudas and led them to Bacchides, and he retaliated against them and taunted them. ²⁷And there was a great affliction in Israel such as had not been since the day that a prophet was not seen among them.

²⁸ And all the friends of Ioudas came together and said to Jonathan, ²⁹"Since your brother Ioudas has died, there is no man like him to come forward and to go against the enemy and Bacchides and those who are hostile to our nation. ³⁰Now then we have chosen you today in his place to be for us a ruler and a leader to fight our war." ³¹And Jonathan accepted the leadership at that time and rose up in the place of Ioudas his brother.

³² And Bacchides learned this, and he sought to kill him. ³³But Jonathan and Simon his brother and all those with him found out and fled into the wilderness of Thekoe and camped at the waterhole of Asphar. ³⁴And Bacchides learned this on the day of the sabbaths, and he and all his army came to the other side of the Jordan.

³⁵ And he sent his brother, a leader of the host, and requested of his Nabatean friends to store with them the large amount of their baggage. ³⁶But the sons of Iambri from Medaba came out and seized Ioannes and everything that he had and, having them, went away.

³⁷ After these developments, they announced to Jonathan and to Simon his brother that the sons of Iambri are holding a big wedding and are bringing the bride from Nadabath, a daughter of one of the great nobles of Chanaan, with a large convoy. ³⁸And they remembered the blood of Ioannes their brother and they went up and hid under the cover of the mountain. ³⁹And they lifted up their eyes and saw and look, a commotion and a large entourage, and the bridegroom and his friends and his brothers came out to meet them with drums and musicians and many weapons. ⁴⁰And they rose up against them from the ambush and killed them. And many wounded fell, and the rest fled to the mountain, and they^a took all their spoils. ⁴¹And the wedding changed to mourning, and the sound of their musicians to lamentation. ⁴²And they exacted vengeance for the blood of their brother and returned to the marshland of the Jordan.

^ai.e. of Bacchides

⁴³ And Bacchides heard this, and he came on the day of the sabbaths as far as the banks of the Jordan with a large force. ⁴⁴And Jonathan said to those with him, "Let us rise up now and fight for our lives, for today is not as yesterday or the third day. ⁴⁵For look, the battle is before us and behind us, and the water of the Jordan is on this side and that, and there is marsh and thicket; there is no place to turn. ⁴⁶Now then, cry out to heaven so that you may be saved from the hand of our enemies." ⁴⁷And the battle began, and Jonathan stretched out his hand to strike Bacchides, but he turned away from him toward the rear. ⁴⁸And Jonathan and those with him jumped into the Jordan and swam through to the other side, but they^b did not cross through the Jordan against them. ⁴⁹And up to a thousand men with Bacchides fell on that day.

⁵⁰ And he returned to Ierousalem and built fortified cities in Judea, the fortress in Iericho, and Ammaous and Baithoron and Baithel and Thamnatha Pharathon and Tephon with high walls and gates and bolts. ⁵¹And he placed a guard in them, to be hostile to Israel. ⁵²And he fortified the city of Baithsoura and Gazara and the citadel, and he placed in them forces and stores of food. ⁵³And he took the sons of the leaders of the country as hostages and placed them in the citadel in Ierousalem in detention.

⁵⁴ And in the one hundred and fifty-third year, in the second month, Alcimus gave the command to tear down the wall of the inner court of the holy places, and he tore down the works of the prophets. And he began to tear it down, ⁵⁵but at that time Alcimus was stricken, and his works were thwarted. And his mouth was stopped up, and he was paralyzed, and he was no longer able to say a word and command about his own house. ⁵⁶And Alcimus died at that time with great torment. ⁵⁷And Bacchides saw that Alcimus had died, and he returned to the king, and the land of Iouda was quiet for two years.

⁵⁸ And all the lawless took counsel, saying, "Look, Jonathan and those with him live in peace confidently. Now then, we shall bring Bacchides back, and he will apprehend them all in one night." ⁵⁹And they went and counseled together with him. ⁶⁰And he departed to come with a large force and sent letters in secret to all his allies in Judea for them to apprehend Jonathan and those with him, but they were not able, because their plan became known. ⁶¹And they^a apprehended from among the men of the country, who were the leaders of the evil, up to fifty men, and killed them.

⁶² And Jonathan and Simon and those with him withdrew to Baithbasi in the wilderness and rebuilt its ruins and strengthened it. ⁶³And Bacchides learned this, and he gathered together his whole multitude and sent word to those from Judea. ⁶⁴And he came and camped against Baithbasi, and he battled it for many days and made siege engines.

⁶⁵ And Jonathan left Simon his brother in the city and went out into the country and came with a small number. ⁶⁶And he defeated Odomera and his brothers and the sons of Phasiron in their covert. And they began to strike and were coming up with the forces. ⁶⁷And Simon and those with him came out of the city and burned the siege engines. ⁶⁸And they battled against Bacchides, and he was smashed by them. And they pressed him greatly, because his strategy and his attack were futile. ⁶⁹And he became enraged with anger at the lawless men who had advised him to come to the country, and they killed many of them and decided to go back to his land.

⁷⁰ And Jonathan learned this, and he sent emissaries to him to conclude peace with him and to give back the captives to them. ⁷¹And he accepted and did according to his words, and he swore to him not to seek evil for him all the days of his life. ⁷²And he gave back to him the captives whom he had captured formerly from the land of Iouda, and turning back he returned to his land and did not add to come again to their territory. ⁷³And the sword ceased from Israel, and Jonathan lived in Machmas and began to judge the people and removed the impious from Israel.

10 And in the one hundred sixtieth year, Alexander Epiphanes son of Antiochus went up and took Ptolemais. And they accepted him, and he ruled there. ²And Demetrius the king heard this, and he gathered together very many forces and came out to meet him in battle. ³And Demetrius sent letters to Jonathan with peaceful words in order to magnify him, ⁴for he said, "Let us move beforehand to make peace with them before he makes peace with Alexander against us. ⁵For he will remember all the evils which we carried out against him and his brothers and the nation." ⁶And he gave him authority to muster forces and to prepare weapons and to be his ally; he also said for the hostages in the citadel to be turned over to him.

⁷ And Jonathan came to Ierousalem and read the letters in the hearing of all the people and of those from the citadel. ⁸And they became very frightened when they heard that the king had given authority to him to muster forces. ⁹And those from the citadel turned the hostages over to Jonathan, and he gave them back to their parents.

¹⁰ And Jonathan established his residence in Ierousalem and began to build and renew the city. ¹¹And he said to those who were doing the works to build the walls also around Mount Sion from four-foot stones for fortification, and they did thus.

¹² And the aliens who were in the fortresses, which Bacchides had built, fled. ¹³And each one abandoned his place and went back to his own land. ¹⁴Only in Baithsoura were some of those left who had abandoned the law and the ordinances, for it became a place of refuge.

¹⁵ And Alexander the king heard all the offers that Demetrius had sent to Ionathan, and they recounted to him the battles and the heroic acts that he and his brothers had done and the troubles that they had had. ¹⁶And he said, "Surely, we shall not find one such man? And now let us make him our Friend and ally." ¹⁷And he wrote letters and sent them to him according to these words, saying,

¹⁸ "King Alexander to his brother Ionathan, greeting. ¹⁹We have heard about you, that you are a man powerful in strength and suitable to be our Friend. ²⁰And now we have appointed you today to be high priest of your nation and to be called a Friend of the king"—and he sent him purple vestments and a golden crown—"and to think about things as we do and to keep friendship toward us."

²¹ And Ionathan put on the holy vestments in the seventh month of the one hundred sixtieth year at the feast of tent pitching, and he mustered forces and prepared many weapons.

²² And Demetrius heard of these developments, and he was grieved and said, ²³"What is this that we have done, that Alexander has acted before us to establish friendship with the Judeans for support. ²⁴I also will write them words of invitation and exaltation and gifts so that they may be with me for support." ²⁵And he sent a message to them according to these words,

"King Demetrius to the nation of the Judeans, greeting. ²⁶Since you have kept your treaties with us and have remained in our friendship and have not gone over to our enemies, we have heard this and rejoiced. ²⁷And now persist in keeping faith with us, and we will return good things to you in exchange for what you do for us. ²⁸We will grant you many exemptions and will give you gifts.

²⁹ "And now I release you and exempt all the Judeans from tribute and from the levy of salt and the crown taxes. ³⁰Also, instead of the third of the grain and the half of the tree fruit which is due for me to receive, I discontinue from today and henceforth collecting them from the land of Iouda and from the three districts annexed to it from Samaritis and Galilee from this very day and for all time. ³¹And let Ierousalem be holy and exempt, as also its borderlands—tithes and taxes. ³²Furthermore, I release my authority over the citadel in Ierousalem and grant to the high priest to establish in it whatever men he selects to guard it. ³³And every soul of the Judeans who was taken hostage from the land of Iouda into all my kingdom I set free without ransom, and let every one exempt them from taxes on their livestock also.

³⁴ "And all the feasts and sabbaths and new moons and designated days, and three days before a feast and three after a feast, let all these days be tax-free and exempt for all Judeans who are in my kingdom. ³⁵And no one will have authority to demand payment from or to bother any one of them about any thing.

³⁶ "And let some of the Judeans be enrolled in the forces of the king up to thirty thousand men, and provisions will be given to them as is appropriate for all the forces of the king. ³⁷And some of them will be stationed in the large fortresses of the king, and some of these will be assigned to the affairs of the kingdom, which are confidential. And let those who are over them and the rulers be from their own people, and let them follow their laws, as also the king ordered in the land of Iouda.

³⁸ "And let the three districts that were annexed to Judea from the country of Samaria be combined with Judea for the purpose of being considered to be under one rule and not to obey any other authority but that of the high priest. ³⁹Ptolemais and the land belonging to it I have given as a gift to the ^aholy places^a in Ierousalem for the appropriate expenditures of the ^aholy places^a. ⁴⁰Furthermore, I will give every year fifteen thousand shekels of silver out of the accounts of the king from the places belonging to him. ⁴¹And all the excess that they did not pay out from the revenues, as they did among the first nations, from now on they shall give for the works of the house^a. ⁴²And in addition to this, five thousand shekels of silver, as much as they received from the revenues of the holy place out of the account every year, these also are remitted, because they belong to the priests who are ministering. ⁴³And all who take refuge in the temple in Ierousalem and in all its areas, because they are in debt to the king or for any other reason, let them and everything that is theirs be set free in my kingdom.

⁴⁴ "And the cost of constructing and renewing the buildings of the ^aholy places^a also shall be paid from the account of the king. ⁴⁵And the cost of constructing the walls of Ierousalem and fortifying it all around shall be paid from the account of the king, as shall that of constructing the walls in Judea."

⁴⁶ But when Ionathan and the people heard these words, they did not believe them nor accept them, because they remembered the great evil that he did in Israel and how he oppressed them greatly. ⁴⁷And they preferred Alexander, because it was he who began to speak to them with peaceful words, and they allied themselves with him all his days.

⁴⁸ And Alexander the king gathered together large forces and camped opposite Demetrius. ⁴⁹And the two kings joined in battle, and the army of Demetrius fled, and Alexander pursued him, and he prevailed over them. ⁵⁰And he sustained the battle forcefully until the sun set, and Demetrius fell on that day.

51 And Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemy, king of Egypt, with these words, saying, 52 "Whereas I have returned to my kingdom and have sat on the throne of my fathers and have taken hold of the government and have crushed Demetrius and have taken control of our land, 53 and I joined battle with him, and he and his army were smashed by us, and we have sat on the throne of his kingdom, 54 And now let us establish friendship with each other, and now give me your daughter as a wife, and I will become your son-in-law and will give gifts to you and to her, which are worthy of you."

55 And Ptolemy the king answered, saying, "It was a good day on which you returned to the land of your fathers and sat on the throne of their kingdom. 56 And now I will do for you what you wrote, but meet me in Ptolemais so that we may see each other, and I will become your father-in-law as you have said."

57 And Ptolemy came out of Egypt, he and his daughter, and came to Ptolemais in the one hundred sixty-second year. 58 And Alexander the king met him, and he gave him Cleopatra his daughter and held her wedding in Ptolemais as kings with great pomp.

59 And Alexander the king wrote to Jonathan to come to a meeting with him, 60 and he came with pomp to Ptolemais and met with the two kings, and he gave silver and gold to them and to their Friends and many gifts, and he found favor before them. 61 And some corrupt men from Israel gathered together against him, lawless men, to petition against him, but the king did not pay attention to them. 62 And the king gave orders, and they removed Jonathan's garments from him and clothed him in purple, and they did thus. 63 And the king seated him with himself and said to his rulers, "Go out with him to the middle of the city, and announce that no one is to petition against him concerning any thing, and let no one bother him for any reason." 64 And it happened as the petitioners saw his prestige, as he had announced it, and saw him clothed in purple, they all fled. 65 And the king honored him and listed him among his First Friends and made him general and provincial governor. 66 And Jonathan returned to Ierousalem with peace and gladness.

67 And in the one hundred sixty-fifth year Demetrius son of Demetrius came from Crete to the land of his fathers. 68 And Alexander the king learned this, and he was greatly grieved and returned to Antioch. 69 And Demetrius appointed Apollonius, who was over Coele-Syria, and he gathered a large force and camped in Jamnia. And he sent a message to Jonathan the high priest saying,

70 "You alone rise up against us, and I have become an object of ridicule and derision because of you. And why do you have authority over us in the mountains? 71 Now then, if you are confident in your forces, come down to us on the plain, and let us measure ourselves with each other there, because with me is the army of the cities. 72 Ask, and learn who I am and who the rest are who are helping us. And they say, 'You are not able to stand against us, because twice your fathers were routed in their land.' 73 And now you will not be able to withstand the cavalry and so much force on the plain where there is no stone or rock, nor any place to flee."

74 But when Jonathan heard the words of Apollonius, he was moved in thought. And he selected ten thousand men and came out of Ierousalem, and Simon his brother met him to help him. 75 And he camped at Joppe, but those from the city closed him out, because there was a garrison of Apollonius in Joppe, and they made war against it, 76 and those in the city became afraid and opened it, and Jonathan took control of Joppe.

77 And Apollonius heard this, and he marshaled three thousand cavalry and a large force and went to Azotus as if he were passing through. And simultaneously he advanced to the plain, because he had a multitude of cavalry and trusted in it. 78 And he^a chased after him into Azotus, and the two armies joined in battle. 79 But Apollonius secretly left a thousand cavalry behind them. 80 And Jonathan understood that there was an ambush behind him, and they surrounded his army and shot arrows at the people from morning until the afternoon. 81 But the people stood, as Jonathan had ordered, and the enemy cavalry grew tired.

82 And Simon drew in his force and joined battle with the phalanx, for the cavalry had broken up, and they^b were smashed by him and fled. 83 And the cavalry was scattered in the plain, and they fled to Azotus and entered Bethdagon, the house of their idol, to be saved. 84 And Jonathan burned Azotus and the cities surrounding it and took their spoils, and the temple of Dagon, and those who had taken refuge in it he burned with fire. 85 And those who fell by the dagger, together with those who were burned, were about eight thousand men.

86 And Jonathan departed from there and camped against Ascalon, and the people from the city came out to meet him with great pomp.

87 And Jonathan returned to Ierousalem with those who were with him having many spoils. 88 And it happened, when Alexander the king heard of these developments, he even added to honor Jonathan, 89 and he sent him a golden brooch, as is the custom, to be given to the Kinsmen of kings. And he gave him Akkaron and all its regions as his dependency.

11 And the king of Egypt assembled many forces, like the sand that is at the edge of the sea, and many ships and sought to take control of the kingdom of Alexander by deceit and to add it to his own kingdom. ²And he set out for Syria with peaceful words, and the people from the cities opened to him and met him, because it was the command of Alexander the king to meet him, because he was his father-in-law. ³But as he entered into the cities, Ptolemy stationed forces as a guard in each city.

^ai.e. Jonathan ^bi.e. the phalanx

⁴ When he drew near to Azotus, they showed him the burnt temple of Dagon and Azotus and its outskirts in ruins and bodies scattered around and the burned corpses which he^a had burned in the war, for they made piles of them along his way. ⁵And they recounted to the king the things that Jonathan had done in order to blame him, but the king kept silent. ⁶And Jonathan met the king at Joppe with pomp, and they greeted each other and slept there. ⁷And Jonathan went with the king as far as the river called Eleutherus, and he returned to Ierousalem.

⁸ But King Ptolemy took control of the cities on the coast as far as Seleuceia by the sea, and he was contemplating evil thoughts about Alexander. ⁹And he sent ambassadors to Demetrius the king, saying, "Come, let us conclude an agreement between ourselves, and I will give you my daughter, whom Alexander has, and you will rule over the kingdom of your father. ¹⁰For I have changed my mind about giving my daughter to him, because he has sought to kill me." ¹¹And he blamed him, because he desired his kingdom. ¹²And he took his daughter away and gave her to Demetrius, and he became alienated from Alexander, and their hostility became apparent.

¹³ And Ptolemy entered Antioch and put on the crown of Asia, and he placed two crowns on his head, that of Egypt and of Asia. ¹⁴But Alexander the king was in Cilicia during those times, because the people from those places were rebelling. ¹⁵And Alexander heard of this, and he came against him in battle. And Ptolemy marched out and met him with a strong troop and routed him. ¹⁶And Alexander fled to Arabia to hide himself there, and King Ptolemy was exalted. ¹⁷And Zabdiel the Arab cut off the head of Alexander and sent it to Ptolemy. ¹⁸But King Ptolemy died on the third day, and his men who were in his fortresses were destroyed by the people in the fortresses. ¹⁹And Demetrius became king in the one hundred sixty-seventh year.

²⁰ In those days Jonathan gathered together men from Judea to assault the citadel in Ierousalem, and they made many siege engines against it. ²¹But certain people who hated their nation, lawless men, went to the king and reported to him that Jonathan was besieging the citadel. ²²And when he heard this he became angry, and as soon as he heard it, he marched immediately and came to Ptolemais, and he wrote Jonathan not to besiege the citadel and to present himself to him for a meeting in Ptolemais most speedily.

²³ But when Jonathan heard this, he directed that the siege continue, and he selected some of the elders of Israel and some of the priests and put himself in danger. ²⁴And taking silver, gold and clothing and many other gifts, he went to the king in Ptolemais and found favor before him. ²⁵And certain lawless men from his nation petitioned against him, ²⁶but the king did to him as his predecessors did to him before him and exalted him before all his Friends. ²⁷And he bestowed upon him the high priesthood and as many other honors as he had before and made him be counted among his First Friends. ²⁸And Jonathan requested that the king make Judea tax-free, as well as the three districts and Samaritis, and pledged to him three hundred talents. ²⁹And the king was pleased and wrote letters to Jonathan concerning all these things in this way:

³⁰ "King Demetrius to Jonathan his brother and the nation of the Judeans, greeting. ³¹This copy of the letter that we wrote to Lasthenes our relative concerning you we have also written to you so that you may know its contents. ³²King Demetrius to Lasthenes his Father, greeting. ³³To the nation of the Judeans, who are our friends and continue to do what is right toward us, we have decided to do good because of their good will toward us. ³⁴We have guaranteed for them the boundaries of Judea as well as the three districts of Aphairema and Lydda and Ramathaim; these were added to Judea from Samaritis, with all the areas belonging to them, for all those who sacrifice in Ierousalem in exchange for the royal taxes that the king received from them formerly every year from the produce of the earth and from the tree fruits. ³⁵And the other revenues belonging to us from the present time, from the tithes and the taxes that belong to us, and the lakes of salt and the crown taxes that belong to us, all these we will excuse for them. ³⁶And not one of these shall be set aside from the present time on forever. ³⁷Now then take care to make a copy of this, and let it be given to Jonathan, and let it be put on the holy mountain in a prominent place."

³⁸ And Demetrius the king saw that the land became quiet before him, and no one opposed him, and he dismissed all his forces, each one to his own place, except for the foreign forces whom he had enlisted from the islands of the nations. But all the forces that had served under his fathers were hostile to him. ³⁹And Trypho was one of those who were with Alexander formerly, and he saw that all the forces were complaining against Demetrius, and he went to Imalkoue the Arab, who was raising Antiochus, the small son of Alexander, ⁴⁰and was watching over him until he could hand him over to him so that he could rule in his father's place. And he reported to him all that Demetrius had accomplished and the hostility that his forces showed toward him, and he remained there many days.

⁴¹ And Jonathan sent a message to Demetrius the king to remove the soldiers of the citadel from Ierousalem, and the soldiers in the fortresses, for they were battling Israel. ⁴²And Demetrius sent a message to Ionathan, saying, "Not only will I do these things to you and to your nation, but I will glorify you and your nation greatly, if I have the opportunity. ⁴³Now then, you will do right to send men to me who will ally themselves with me, because all my forces have revolted." ⁴⁴And Ionathan sent three thousand men powerful in strength to him in Antioch, and they came to the king, and the king rejoiced at their arrival.

^ai.e. Jonathan

⁴⁵ And the people from the city gathered together in the middle of the city up to one hundred and twenty thousand men, and they wanted to kill the king. ⁴⁶But the king fled into the court. And the people of the city seized the thoroughfares of the city and began to fight. ⁴⁷And the king called the Judeans for help, and they all together came to him and scattered throughout the city and killed on that day up to a hundred thousand. ⁴⁸And they burned the city and took many spoils on that day and saved the king. ⁴⁹And the people of the city saw that the Judeans had taken control of the city as they wanted, and they became weakened in their spirit and called out to the king with supplication, saying, ⁵⁰"Make a treaty with us, and let the Judeans stop fighting us and the city." ⁵¹And they threw down their weapons and made peace. And the Judeans were glorified before the king and before all those in his kingdom. And they became renowned in his kingdom and returned to Jerusalem having many spoils.

⁵² And Demetrius the king sat upon the throne of his kingdom, and the land became quiet before him. ⁵³But he falsified everything he had said and became alienated from Ionathan and did not return the favors that he^a had given to him, but pressed him greatly.

⁵⁴ Now after these things Trypho returned, and with him Antiochus, a rather young boy, and he became king and put on a crown. ⁵⁵And all the forces that Demetrius had cast off gathered together and fought against him, and he fled and was routed. ⁵⁶Trypho took the beasts and took control of Antioch. ⁵⁷And Antiochus the younger wrote to Ionathan saying, "I bestow upon you the high priesthood and establish you over the four districts and to be among the Friends of the king." ⁵⁸And he sent him gold plate and table utensils, and he gave him the authority to drink from gold goblets and to be clothed in purple and to have a gold brooch. ⁵⁹And he established Simon his brother commander from the ascent of Tyre as far as the borders of Egypt.

⁶⁰ And Ionathan went out and crossed over beyond the river and among the cities, and the whole force of Syria gathered to him in alliance. And he came to Ascalon, and the people of the city met him with pomp. ⁶¹And he went from there to Gaza, but the people of Gaza closed him out. And he besieged it and burned its outskirts with fire and plundered them^b. ⁶²And the people of Gaza appealed to Ionathan, and he made a treaty with them and took the sons of their rulers as hostages and sent them to Jerusalem. And he went through the country as far as Damascus.

⁶³ And Ionathan heard that the commanders of Demetrius had arrived in Kedes in Galilee with a large force desiring to remove him from his position. ⁶⁴And he met with them but left his brother Simon in the country. ⁶⁵And Simon camped against Baithsoura and fought it for many days and shut them in. ⁶⁶And they appealed to him to make a treaty, and he made one with him, and he removed them from there and took control of the city and put a garrison in it.

⁶⁷ And Ionathan and his army camped at the water of Gennesar. And early in the morning they went to the plain of Hasor, ⁶⁸and look, an army of the allophytes met him in the plain. And they laid an ambush for him in the mountains, but they met him face to face. ⁶⁹Now those who were in the ambush came out of their hiding places and joined battle. ⁷⁰And all those with Ionathan fled; not one of them was left except Mattathias the son of Absalomos and Ioudas the son of Chalphi, commanders of the army of the forces. ⁷¹And Ionathan tore his clothes and put dirt on his head and prayed. ⁷²And he turned around towards them in battle and routed them, and they fled. ⁷³And his own men, who were fleeing, saw this, and they returned to him and pursued them with him as far as Kedes, as far as their camp, and they encamped there. ⁷⁴And on that day up to three thousand men of the allophytes fell, and Ionathan returned to Jerusalem.

12 And Ionathan saw that the time was opportune for him, and he selected men and sent them to Rome to affirm and to renew the friendship with them. ²And to the Spartans and other places he sent letters for the same purpose. ³And they went to Rome and entered the council chamber and said, "Ionathan the high priest and the nation of the Judeans sent us to renew friendship with them and the alliance as before." ⁴And they^c gave letters to them for the people in each place to conduct them to the land of Iouda with peace.

⁵ And this is a copy of the letters that Ionathan wrote to the Spartans: ⁶"Ionathan the high priest and the senate of the nation and the priests and remaining citizenry of the Judeans to their brothers the Spartans, greeting. ⁷Already beforehand letters were sent to Onias the high priest from Areius, who was king over you, that you are our brothers as the copy indicates. ⁸And Onias received the man who had been sent with honor and accepted the letters in which it was made clear concerning the alliance and friendship. ⁹We too, then, not being in need of these things and taking comfort in the holy books in our possession, ¹⁰have endeavored to send this proposal to renew our brotherhood and friendship toward you so as not to be alienated from you, for many seasons have passed since you sent your message to us. ¹¹We then, at every opportunity continuously both at our feasts and the other appropriate days, remember you in the sacrifices that we offer and in the prayers as is proper and fitting to remember brothers. ¹²And we rejoice at your glory. ¹³But many afflictions have encircled us, and many wars, and the kings around us have made war upon us. ¹⁴We then decided not to bother you and the rest of our allies and friends in these wars, ¹⁵for we have the help from heaven helping us, and we were rescued from our enemies, and our enemies were humbled. ¹⁶Therefore, we selected Numenius son of Antiochus and Antipater son of Jason and sent them to the Romans to renew the former friendship and alliance with them. ¹⁷We then commanded them to come also to you and to greet you and to deliver to you the letters from us concerning the renewal and our brotherhood. ¹⁸And now you will do well to respond to us regarding these things."

^ai.e. Ionathan ^bAntecedent unclear ^ci.e. the Romans

19 And this is a copy of the letter^a that they sent to Onias: ²⁰"Ares, king of the Spartans, to Onias the great priest, greeting. ²¹It has been found in a document concerning the Spartans and the Judeans that they are brothers and that they are of the descendants of Abraham. ²²And now that we know these things, you will do well to write us concerning your peace. ²³We in turn write to you: 'Your livestock and your belongings are ours and ours are yours.' Therefore, we commanded that they^b apprise you accordingly."

24 And Jonathan heard that the commanders of Demetrius had returned with a large force, more than before, to fight against him, ²⁵and he departed from Ierousalem and met them in the country Hamathitis, for he did not give them the opportunity to march into his country. ²⁶And he sent spies into their camp, and they returned and informed him that they were marshalling troops to fall upon them by night. ²⁷So as the sun was setting, Jonathan gave orders to those with him to be vigilant and to be ready for battle with their weapons through the whole night, and he posted advanced guards around the camp. ²⁸And his opponents heard that Jonathan and those with him had prepared for battle, and they became frightened and cowered in their spirit, and they lit fires in their camp. ²⁹But Jonathan and those with him did not know it until morning, for they saw the lights burning. ³⁰And Jonathan chased after them but did not catch them, for they had crossed the Eleutherus river. ³¹And Jonathan turned aside to the Arabs, who are called Zabadeans, and defeated them and took their spoils. ³²And he set out and went to Damascus and passed through all that country.

33 And Simon also went out and passed through as far as Ascalon and the fortresses close by. And he turned aside to Joppe and occupied it, ³⁴for he heard that they wanted to surrender the fortress to those with Demetrius, and he placed a garrison there to guard it.

35 And Jonathan returned and assembled the elders of the people and took counsel with them to build fortresses in Judea ³⁶and to elevate the walls of Ierousalem and to raise up a high wall between the citadel and the city, to separate it from the city in order that it could be isolated so that they^c could neither buy nor sell. ³⁷And they gathered together to build the city, and part of the wall of the wadi to the east had fallen, and he repaired that which was called Chaphenatha. ³⁸Simon also built Adida in Sephela, and he fortified it and erected gates and bolts.

39 And Trypho sought to become king of Asia and to put on the crown and to stretch out his hand against Antiochus the king. ⁴⁰But he was afraid, lest Jonathan not allow him and lest he fight against them, and he sought a way to apprehend and destroy him, and he departed and came to Baithsan. ⁴¹And Jonathan came out to meet him with forty thousand selected men in battle order, and he came to Baithsan. ⁴²And Trypho saw that he had come with a large force, and he was afraid to stretch out his hand against him. ⁴³And he received him with honor and introduced him to all his Friends and gave him gifts and gave orders to his Friends and to his forces to obey him as they would himself. ⁴⁴And he said to Jonathan, "Why have you wearied all these people without there being a war with us? ⁴⁵And now send them to their homes and select for yourself a few men who will be with you and come with me to Ptolemais, and I will turn it over to you, and the other fortresses and the other forces and all those in the royal service, and I will turn and leave. For this reason I am present."

46 And trusting him, he^d did as he said; he sent away the forces, and they went to the land of Judea. ⁴⁷And he left with himself three thousand men of whom he left two thousand in Galilee, and one thousand went with him. ⁴⁸But when Jonathan entered into Ptolemais, the people of Ptolemais shut the gates and apprehended him, and all those who entered with him they killed by the sword.

49 And Trypho sent infantry and cavalry to Galilee and the great plain to destroy all those who were with Jonathan. ⁵⁰But they knew that he had been apprehended and destroyed together with those who were with him, and they encouraged themselves and marched close together ready for battle. ⁵¹And the pursuers saw that it was a matter of life or death for them, and they turned back. ⁵²And they all came to the land of Judea in peace, and they mourned for Jonathan and those with him and were very afraid, and all Israel mourned with great mourning. ⁵³And all the nations around them sought to annihilate them, for they said, "They have no ruler or helper. Now then, let us do battle with them and wipe out the memory of them from people."

13 And Simon heard that Trypho gathered together a large force to come into the land

^aOr letters ^bI.e. the Spartan emissaries ^cI.e. the garrison of the citadel ^dI.e. Jonathan of Iouda and to devastate it,² and he saw the people, that they were trembling and fearful, and he went up to Ierousalem and gathered the people.³ And he encouraged them and said to them, "You yourselves know all that I and my brothers and the house of my father have done for the laws and the ^aholy places^a, and the wars and the hardships that we have seen.⁴ For this reason all my brothers have perished for the sake of Israel, and I have been left alone.⁵ And now far be it from me to preserve my life in any time of affliction, for I am not greater than my brothers.⁶ But I will take vengeance for my nation and for the ^aholy places^a and for your women and children, for all the nations have gathered together to annihilate us out of enmity."

7 And the spirit of the people was rekindled as they heard these words,⁸ and they responded with a loud voice, saying, "You are our leader in place of Ioudas and Ionathan your brother.⁹ Fight our war, and all that you say to us we will do."¹⁰ And he gathered together all the fighting men and hurried to finish the walls of Ierousalem and fortified it all around.¹¹ And he sent Ionathan the son of Apsalomos and with him a sufficient force to Joppe and expelled those in it and remained there in it.

12 And Trypho departed from Ptolemais with a large force to enter into the land of Judea, and Ionathan was with him under guard.¹³ But Simon camped in Adida facing the plain.¹⁴ And Trypho learned that Simon had risen up in place of Ionathan his brother and that he was about to join battle with him, and he sent ambassadors to him, saying,¹⁵ "On account of the money that Ionathan your brother owed to the royal treasury for the position he held, we are detaining him.¹⁶ And now send one hundred talents of silver and two of his sons as hostages so that if he is freed he will not rebel against us, and we will free him."

17 And Simon knew that they were speaking to him with deceit, and he sent for the silver and the boys so as not to raise great animosity in the people,¹⁸ who would say, "Because I did not send the silver and the boys to him he^b perished."¹⁹ And he sent the boys and the hundred talents, but he^c deceived him and did not free Ionathan.

20 And after these things Trypho came to march into the country and to devastate it, and they circled around on the road to Adora. But Simon and his army marched parallel with him to whatever place he went.²¹ But the men in the citadel were sending envoys to Trypho urging him to come to them through the wilderness and to send food to them.²² And Trypho prepared all his cavalry to go, but on that night there was very much snow, and he did not go because of the snow. And he departed and went to Galaaditis.²³ But as he drew near to Baskama, he killed Ionathan, and he was buried there.²⁴ And Trypho returned and went back to his land.

25 And Simon sent and took the bones of Ionathan his brother and buried him in Modein, the city of his fathers.²⁶ And all Israel mourned for him with great mourning and grieved for him many days.²⁷ And Simon built upon the grave of his father and of his brothers and made it highly visible with hewn stone on the back and on the front.²⁸ He also set up seven pyramids, each one opposite another, for his father and his mother and his four brothers.²⁹ For them^d he devised mechanisms, setting large pillars around them, and he placed suits of armor on the pillars for an everlasting name and beside the suits of armor carved ships to be seen by all those who sail the sea.³⁰ This tomb, which he made in Modein, remains to this day.

31 But Trypho acted with deceit toward the younger Antiochus the king and killed him,³² and he became king in his place and put on the crown of Asia, and he did great harm in the land.³³ And Simon built the fortresses of Judea and walled them around with high towers and great walls and gates and bolts, and he put food in the fortresses.³⁴ And Simon selected men and sent them to Demetrius the king to bring about exemption for the country, because all the acts of Trypho were robbery.³⁵ And Demetrius the king sent to him in accordance with these developments and replied to him and wrote some such letter to him:³⁶ "King Demetrius to Simon, the high priest and Friend of kings, and the elders and nation of the Judeans, greeting.³⁷ The gold crown and the palm leaf that you sent we have received, and we are ready to make a great peace with you and to write to those over the revenues to exempt you from taxes.³⁸ And whatever agreements we made with you stand, and the fortresses that you built may remain for you.³⁹ We also excuse oversights and violations up to this very day, and the crown tax that you owe, and if any other tax used to be collected in Ierousalem, let it no longer be collected.⁴⁰ And if some of you deserve to be enrolled among our associates, let them be enrolled, and let there be peace among us."

41 In the one hundred seventieth year the yoke of the nations was lifted from Israel,⁴² and the people began to write on their documents and transactions, "In the first year of Simon the great high priest, both general and leader of the Judeans."

43 In those days he camped against Gazara and surrounded it with soldiers. And he made a siege engine and brought it to the city and assaulted one tower and took it.⁴⁴ And the men in the siege engine jumped out into the city, and there was a great commotion in the city.⁴⁵ And the men in the city with their women and their children went up on the wall, tearing their clothes, and they cried out with a loud voice begging Simon to make peace with them,⁴⁶ and they said, "Do not deal with us according to our evil acts but according to your mercy."⁴⁷ And Simon reconciled with them and did not fight them but ejected them from the city and cleansed the houses in which the idols were. And thus he entered it singing hymns and praises.⁴⁸ And he removed from it every uncleanness and settled in it men who observed the law, and he further fortified it and built in it a residence for himself.

^ai.e. temple ^bi.e. Ionathan ^ci.e. Trypho ^di.e. the pyramids

49 Now those who were in the citadel in Ierusalem were prevented from going in and going out into the country to buy and sell. And they became very hungry, and plenty of them perished in the famine. ⁵⁰And they cried out to Simon to make peace, and he gave it to them. But he ejected them from there and cleansed the citadel from the impurities. ⁵¹And they entered it on the twenty-third day of the second month of the one hundred seventy-first year with praises and palms and with cinyras^a and cymbals and nablas^b and with hymns and with odes that a great enemy was eliminated from Israel. ⁵²And he^c established that that day be observed every year with gladness. And he fortified the temple mount beside the citadel, and he himself and those with him resided there. ⁵³And Simon saw his son Ioannes, that he had become a man, and he made him commander of all the forces, and he resided in Gazara.

14 And in the one hundred seventy-second year Demetrius the king gathered his forces together and went to Media to procure help for himself so that he could do battle with Trypho. ²And Arsaces, the king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius had entered into his territory, and he sent one of his commanders to apprehend him alive. ³And he went and defeated the army of Demetrius and apprehended him and led him to Arsaces, and he put him in prison.

⁴ And the land became quiet all the days of Simon, and he sought good things for his nation,
and his authority was pleasing to them,
and his glory all his days.
⁵ And with all his glory he took Joppe as a harbor and made it an entrance way to the islands of the sea.
⁶ And he widened the borders of his nation and controlled the country.
⁷ And he gathered many captives and dominated Gazara and Baithsoura and the citadel,
and he took away the uncleanness from it,
and there was no one to oppose him.
⁸ And they were farming their land in peace,
and the land was giving its produce,
and the trees of the plains their fruit.
⁹ Elders were sitting in the city squares;
all were conversing about good things,
and the youths were dressing in splendor and uniforms of war.
¹⁰ He furnished food to the cities and equipped them with implements of fortification until his glorious name was renowned to the end of the earth.

¹¹ He made peace in the land, and Israel was glad with great gladness.
¹² And everyone sat under their own vine and their own fig tree,
and there was no one to frighten them.
¹³ And a person fighting them disappeared in the land,
and the kings were crushed in those days.
¹⁴ And he supported all the humble among his
people;
he sought out the law,
and he eliminated every lawless and evil
person.
¹⁵ He glorified the ^dholy places^d and multiplied the vessels of the ^dholy places^d.

¹⁶ And it was heard in Rome and as far as Sparta that Ionathan had died, and they were greatly grieved. ¹⁷But when they heard that Simon his brother had become high priest in his place and that he was in control of the country and of the cities in it, ¹⁸they wrote to him on brass tablets to renew with him the friendship and alliance which they had established with Ioudas and Ionathan his brothers. ¹⁹And they were read before the assembly in Ierusalem.

²⁰ And this is a copy of the letters^e that the Spartans sent:

"The rulers and the city of the Spartans to Simon the great priest and the elders and the priests and the remaining citizenry of the Judeans, our brothers, greeting. ²¹The ambassadors who were sent to our citizenry announced to us concerning your glory and honor, and we rejoiced at their coming. ²²And we have recorded the things said by them in the public resolutions thus: 'Numenius son of Antiochus and Antipater son of Jason, ambassadors of the Judeans, came to us renewing their friendship with us. ²³And it was pleasing to the citizenry to receive these men honorably and to place the copy of their words in the official public books so that the citizenry of the Spartans may have a remembrance of them. They also wrote a copy of them for Simon the high priest.'"

²⁴ After this, Simon sent Numenius to Rome with a large gold shield, a weight of one thousand minas^f, to establish the alliance with them.

²⁵ And when the citizenry heard of these developments they said, "What favor shall we return to Simon and his sons? ²⁶For he himself and his brothers and the house of his father stood firm and fought off the enemies of Israel and established freedom for it." And they recorded this on brass tablets and placed them on steles on Mount Zion.

²⁷ And this is a copy of the writing: "On the eighteenth day of Eloul, in the one hundred seventy-second year, and this is the third year of Simon the great high priest in Asaramel, ²⁸in the great congregation of priests and of the people and

^a = Heb kinnor = lyre ^b = Heb nebel = ten or twelve stringed instrument ^c i.e. Simon ^d i.e. temple ^e Or letter rulers of the nation and of the elders of the country, it was made known to us ²⁹that when many times wars came about in the country, then Simon the son of Mattathias the son of the sons of Ioarib and his brothers put themselves in danger and stood up against the opponents of their nation so that their ^aholy places^a and the law could endure, and they glorified their nation with great glory. ³⁰And Ionathan mobilized his nation and became their high priest and was gathered to his people. ³¹And their enemies decided to march into their country to devastate their country and to stretch out their hands against their ^aholy places^a. ³²Then Simon resisted and fought for his nation. And he spent much of his own money, and he armed the men of the forces of his nation and gave rations to them. ³³And he fortified the cities of Judea and Baithsoura on the borders of Judea, where the weapons of the enemies were formerly, and he stationed there a guard of Judean men. ³⁴And he fortified Joppe by the sea and Gazara on the borders of Azotus in which the enemies resided there formerly. And he settled Judeans there, and all that was appropriate for their reconstruction he placed in them.
^f Gk 1 mina = 100 drachmas = 0.6 kg

³⁵ "And the people saw the faith of Simon and the glory that he determined to bring to his nation, and they made him their leader and high priest, because he had done all these things, and for the justice and faith that he preserved in his nation. And he sought in every way to elevate his people. ³⁶And in his days he was successful in removing by his hands the nations from his country, and those in the city of Daudid and those in Ierousalem who had built a citadel for themselves out of which they would come and desecrate the vicinity of the ^aholy places^a and do great harm to its purity. ³⁷And he settled Judean men in it and fortified it for the security of the country and city, and he heightened the walls of Ierousalem.

³⁸ "And King Demetrius bestowed upon him the high priesthood for these things, ³⁹and he made him one of his Friends and glorified him with great glory. ⁴⁰For he had heard that the Judeans had been called friends, allies and brothers by the Romans and that they had met with the ambassadors of Simon with honor ⁴¹and that the Judeans and the priests were pleased that Simon would be their leader and high priest forever, until a faithful prophet would arise, ⁴²and that he would be commander over them and that the responsibility would be upon him concerning the ^aholy places^a to establish authorities for it over their works and over the country and over the armed forces and over the fortresses ⁴³and that the responsibility would be upon him concerning the ^aholy places^a and that he would be obeyed by all and that all documents in the country would be written in his name and that he would be clothed in purple and wear gold.

⁴⁴ "And no one of the people or of the priests will be able to set aside any of these resolutions or to dispute anything to be said by him or to convoke a gathering in the country without him or to clothe themselves in purple or to wear a gold brooch. ⁴⁵But whoever acts against or sets aside any of these resolutions shall be culpable."

⁴⁶ And all the people were pleased for Simon to be established to act according to all these words. ⁴⁷And Simon accepted and was pleased to be high priest and to be commander and ethnarch of the Judeans and priests and to protect all of them. ⁴⁸And they said for this writing to be set on brass tablets and to put them in the precinct of the ^aholy places^a in a prominent place ⁴⁹and to put copies of them in the treasury so that Simon and his sons might have them.

15 And Antiochus son of Demetrius the king sent letters from the islands of the sea to Simon the priest and ethnarch of the Judeans and to all the nation. ²And their contents were like this: "King Antiochus to Simon the great priest and ethnarch and the nation of the Judeans, greeting. ³Since certain corrupt men gained control of the kingdom of our fathers, I want to lay claim to the kingdom so that I can restore it as it was formerly, and I have recruited a multitude of forces and have prepared warships, ⁴and I want to disembark into the country so that I can go after those who have corrupted our country and those who have devastated many cities in my kingdom. ⁵Now then, I affirm for you all the tribute from which the kings before me exempted you and as many other payments as they exempted you. ⁶And I have given permission for you to make your own die for coinage in your own country ⁷and for Ierousalem and the ^aholy places^a to be free. And all the weapons that you have prepared and the fortresses that you have built and now control, let them be yours. ⁸And every royal debt and the future royal debts from the present and for all time, let them be annulled for you. ⁹And when we establish our kingdom, we will glorify you and your nation and the temple with great glory so that your glory will become apparent in all the earth."

¹⁰ In the one hundred seventy-fourth year Antiochus went out into the land of his fathers, and all the forces joined with him so that few were with Trypho. ¹¹And Antiochus pursued him, and he^b, fleeing, came to Dora by the sea, ¹²for he knew that evils had converged upon him, and his forces abandoned him. ¹³And Antiochus camped against Dora, and with him one hundred twenty thousand fighting men and eight thousand cavalry. ¹⁴And he surrounded the city, and the ships joined battle from the sea, and he pressed the city from the land and the sea and allowed no one to go out or to go in.

¹⁵ And Numenius and those with him came from Rome having letters for the kings and the countries in which were written these things: ¹⁶"Leukios, consul of the Romans, to Ptolemy the king, greeting. ¹⁷The ambassadors of the Judeans

^ai.e. temple ^bi.e. Trypho came to us as our friends and allies, renewing the original friendship and alliance, having been sent by Simon the high priest and the citizenry of the Judeans. ¹⁸And they brought a gold shield weighing one thousand minas^a. ¹⁹Therefore it pleased us to write to the kings and the countries, for them not to seek evils against them and not to make war on them and their cities and their countries and that they not ally themselves with those who make war on them. ²⁰And it seemed good to us to accept the shield from them. ²¹Therefore if certain corrupt people from their country have taken refuge with you, give them over to Simon the high priest so that he may take vengeance upon them according to their law.”

²² And he wrote the same things to Demetrius the king and to Attalus and Ariarathes and Arsaces ²³and to all the countries and to Sampsakes and the Spartans and to Delos and to Myndos and to Sicyon and to Caria and to Samos and to Pamphylia and to Lycia and to Halicarnassos and to Rhodes and to Phaselis and to Cos and to Side and to Aradus and Gortyna and Cnidos and Cyprus and Cyrene. ²⁴They also wrote a copy of these things to Simon the high priest.

²⁵ Now Antiochus the king camped against Dora a second time, attacking it constantly and making war machines, and he shut Trypho off from going out and going in. ²⁶And Simon sent to him^b two thousand selected men to fight with him and silver and gold and many implements of war. ²⁷However, he decided not to accept them but to set aside all the agreements he had concluded with him^c formerly and became alienated from him. ²⁸And he^b sent to him Athenobius, one of his Friends, to converse with him, saying, “You are in control of Joppe and Gazara and the citadel in Ierusalem, which are cities of my kingdom. ²⁹You have devastated their regions and have done great harm in the land and have taken control of many places in my kingdom. ³⁰Now then, turn over the cities that you have taken and the taxes of the places of which you have taken possession outside the boundaries of Judea. ³¹Or if not, instead of them give five hundred talents of silver for the destruction that you have caused, and for the taxes of the cities another five hundred talents. Or if not, we will come and make war upon you.”

³² And Athenobius, the Friend of the king, came to Ierusalem and saw the glory of Simon and a cabinet for wine cups with gold and silver plate and considerable ostentation, and he was astounded and announced to him the words of the king. ³³And answering, Simon said to him, “Neither have we taken a foreign land, nor have we taken the property of foreigners, but the inheritance of our fathers, which was held unjustly by our enemies for a certain time. ³⁴But we, seizing the occasion, are clinging to the inheritance of our fathers. ³⁵But concerning Joppe and Gazara, which you claim, they were doing great harm to the people and our country, for these we will give one hundred talents.”

And he^d did not answer a word to him ³⁶but returned with wrath to the king and reported to him these words and the glory of Simon and all the things that he saw. And the king became very angry.

³⁷ But Trypho, boarding a ship, fled to Orthosia. ³⁸And the king established Kendebaios as overall commander of the coast and gave him infantry and cavalry forces. ³⁹And he commanded him to camp before Judea, and he gave orders to him to build Kedron and to fortify the gates so that he might also make war on the people, but the king pursued Trypho. ⁴⁰And Kendebaios arrived in Jamneia and began to stir up the people and to march into Judea and to take the people captive and to kill them. ⁴¹And he built Kedron and stationed horsemen there and infantry so that they could go out and march along the roads of Judea as the king had instructed him.

16 And Ioannes went up from Gazara and reported to Simon his father what Kendebaios had done. ²And Simon called his two older sons, Ioudas and Ioannes, and said to them, “I and my brothers and the house of my father have fought the enemies of Israel from our youth until this very day, and we were successful in rescuing Israel by our hands many times. ³But now I have gotten old, but you mercifully are sufficient in years. Become my replacement and my brother’s; then go out, and fight for our nation, and may the help from heaven be with you.”

⁴ And he^e selected from the country twenty thousand fighting men and horsemen, and they went to Kendebaios and slept in Modein. ⁵And arising in the morning, they went to the plain and saw a large force about to meet them, foot-soldiers and horsemen, and there was a wadi between them. ⁶And he camped before them, he and his people. And he saw the people frightened to cross the wadi, and he crossed first, and the men saw him, and they crossed after him. ⁷And he divided the people with the horsemen in the middle of the infantry. But the cavalry of the adversaries was very large. ⁸And they trumpeted with the trumpets, and Kendebaios and his army were routed, and many of them fell wounded, and the rest fled to the fortress. ⁹That was when Ioudas, the brother of Ioannes, was wounded, but Ioannes pursued them until he^f came to Kedron, which he had built. ¹⁰And they fled to the towers in the fields of Azotus, and he^e burned it with fire, and up to two thousand of them fell. And he returned to Judea with peace.

¹¹ And Ptolemy son of Aboubos was the appointed commander in the plain of Iericho, and he had much silver and gold, ¹²for he was a son-in-law of the high priest. ¹³And his heart was exalted, and he wanted to take control of the country, and he plotted with deceit against Simon and his sons to eliminate them. ¹⁴Now when Simon was touring the cities in the country and attending to his supervision of them, he also went down to Jericho, he and Mattathias and Ioudas, his sons, in the one hundred and seventy-seventh year in the eleventh month; this is the month Sabat. ¹⁵And the son of Aboubos received them with deceit in his small fortress called Dok, which he had built, and he put on a great banquet for them, and he hid men there. ¹⁶And when Simon and his sons became drunk, Ptolemy and those with him rose up and took their weapons and rushed in on Simon in the symposium and killed him and his two sons and some of his servants. ¹⁷And he committed a great betrayal and returned evil for good.

^aGk 1 mina = 100 drachmas = 0.6 kg ^bI.e. Antiochus ^cI.e. Simon ^dI.e. Athenobius ^eI.e. Ioannes ^fI.e. Kendebaios

¹⁸ And Ptolemy wrote about these things and sent a report to the king so that he would send forces to him for assistance and would turn over the cities and the country to him. ¹⁹And he sent other men to Gazara to eliminate Ioannes, and to the officers of thousands he sent letters for them to come to him so that he might give to them silver and gold and gifts, ²⁰and he sent other men to take Ierousalem and the temple mount. ²¹But someone, running ahead, reported to Ioannes in Gazara that his father and his brothers had been destroyed and that "he has also sent men to kill you." ²²And hearing this, he was greatly astounded, and he apprehended the men who came to destroy him, and he killed them, for he knew that they were seeking to destroy him.

²³ And the rest of the stories about Ioannes and his wars and his heroic deeds which he did and the building of the walls which he built and his actions, ²⁴look, these have been written in the book of days of his high priesthood from the time when he became high priest after his father.

2 MAKKABEES

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The Greek text used as the basis of the present translation is R. Hanhart's Göttingen edition, Maccabaeorum libri I-IV, 2: Maccabaeorum liber II, copii usus quas reliquit Werner Kappler edidit Robert Hanhart (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Societatis Litterarum Göttingensis editum IX [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 2nd ed., 1976 (1959)]), which forms part of the Göttingen Septuagint and is the standard critically established text of contemporary Septuagint scholarship. The texts provided by H. B. Swete, The Old Testament in Greek, According to the Septuagint (vol. 3; Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1912), A. Rahlfs, Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes (9th ed.; Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935) and F.-M. Abel, Les livres des Maccabées (Etudes Bibliques; Paris: J. Gabalda, 1949) were also consulted.

It was not always possible to follow the text reconstructed by Hanhart. Wherever the present translator's textual-critical decisions differ from those of Hanhart, this has been indicated in the footnotes. Some of the considerations that necessitated such decisions are laid out in the next section.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF 2 MAKKABEES

The Text of 2 Makkabees

Any critical edition of 2 Makkabees relies mainly on two famous Greek uncial manuscripts: the Codex Alexandrinus (fifth century) and the Codex Venetus (eighth century). There is also a rich tradition of Greek minuscule manuscripts, as well as manuscript witnesses to Syriac, Armenian and Latin translations. There also is a Coptic fragment of some passages from 2 Makk 5–6.¹ Hanhart's edition is based mainly on Alexandrinus and on minuscules 55, 347 and 771.

The body of the text of 2 Makkabees, that is, 3.1–15.36, is a literary creation in its own right without a Hebrew parent text. It is an epitome drawn from the five-volume work of Jason of Cyrene produced by an epitomator who introduces the results of his labors in the prooemium found in 2.19–32. In 1.1–10a and 1.10b–2.18 two letters referring to the feast of Succoth in the month of Kislev are made to introduce the main part. The letters most likely are translations of Hebrew or Aramaic originals, but the parent texts are not known. An epilogue, which was produced by the epitomator, follows in 15.37–39.

The main body of the text (3.1–15.36) goes back to Jason of Cyrene, the author whose five-volume history was abbreviated (or "epitomised"). However, Jason could not possibly have produced some passages: 4.17; 5.17–20; and 6.12–17. The epitomator authored them. The whole of chapter 7, 12.43–45 and 14.37–46 also seem alien in the context of Jason's history.² Furthermore, two versions of the Heliodorus narrative exist side by side in chapter 3. Version A, as identified by E. Bickerman (3.24, 25, 27, 28, 30),³ must have been produced by a post-Jasonic author.⁴

Some Observations Pertinent to the NETS Translation

The NETS translation of 2 Makkabees obviously has to address textual-critical problems and does so on the basis of the Göttingen edition. This takes us back to the exemplary debate between P. Katz and R. Hanhart. It was provoked by Katz's review⁵ of Hanhart's critical edition. Building on the work of his pre-

¹ On the textual witnesses, see Hanhart, Maccabaeorum liber II, 7–11.

² See the arguments put forward by C. Habicht, 2. Makkabäerbuch (Jüdische Schriften aus hellenistisch-römischer Zeit 1/3; Gütersloh: G. Mohn, 21979 [1976]) 171.

³ E. J. Bickerman, "Héliodore au temple de Jérusalem," Annuaire de l'Institut de Philologie et d'Histoire Orientale 7 (1939–1944) 18–40.

⁴ C. Habicht (2. Makkabäerbuch, 173) convincingly dates Heliodoros version A to the time after Jason (against Bickerman!).

⁵ P. Katz, "The Text of 2 Maccabees Reconsidered," ZNW 51 (1960) 10–30. Hanhart responded in idem, Zum Text des 2. und 3. Makkabäerbuches. Probleme der Überlieferung, der Auslegung und der Ausgabe (Nachrichten der Akademie der Wissenschaften in Göttingen, I. Philosophisch-historische Klasse. Nr. 13; Göttingen, 1961). See also the article by G. D. Kilpatrick, Göttingische Gelehrte Anzeigen 215 (1963) 10–22.

decessors, especially on the research done by A. Wilhelm,⁶ Katz discussed Hanhart's edition and made a number of conjectural and other suggestions, which a translator of 2 Makkabees ignores at his or her peril. Some of the passages in question are 2 Makk 5.8; 6.2; 12.34; 13.2; 14.17, all of which are noted in the footnotes of our translation.

I should like to discuss one particular problem as an exemplar.⁷ It is taken from 2 Makk 1.19. The Göttingen edition reads:

καὶ γὰρ ὅτε εἰς τὴν Περσικὴν ἦγοντο ἡμῶν οἱ πατέρες οἱ τότε εὐσεβεῖς ἱερεῖς λαβόντες ἀπὸ τοῦ πυρὸς τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου λαθραίως κατέκρυψαν ἐν κοιλώματι φρέατος τάξιν ἔχοντος ἀνυδρον, ἐν ᾧ κατασφαλίσαντο ὥστε πᾶσιν ἄγνωστον εἶναι τὸν τόπον.

For the italicized part the NRSV reads: ". . . and secretly hid it in the hollow of a dry cistern . . ."

The NRSV is based on the Hanhart edition,⁸ and there is no note in the NRSV indicating that an alternative reading was preferred. We therefore conclude that the committee of NRSV translators thought that its rendering represented a faithful rendering of the text established by Hanhart. However, Hanhart's text here does not quite make sense. Generations of scholars have felt this passage to be difficult. The NRSV follows the example of such scholars as James Moffatt, who translated, ". . . hid it secretly in the hollow of an empty cistern . . ."⁹ However, nobody is really able to make sense of τάξιν and how it relates to the preceding ἐν κοιλώματι φρέατος, on the one hand, and to ἔχοντος ἀνυδρον on the other. The NRSV translators seem to have read φρέατος and ἔχοντος in conjunction, thus understanding something like "in the hollow of a cistern that had a dry τάξιν," which did not quite make sense and was simply paraphrased as "a dry cistern."

Contrary to such forced efforts to make sense of an obviously corrupt text, A. Wilhelm suggested the reading ἐν κοιλώματι φρέατος τάξιν ἔχοντι ἀνυδρου. His conjecture takes seriously that, in 2 Makk 9.18 and other passages of Hellenistic Greek literature, τάξις is used in a similar way. Thus we read, in 9.18:

Οὐδαμῶς δὲ ληγόντων τῶν πόνων—ἐπεληλύθει γὰρ ἐπ' αὐτὸν δικαία ἡ τοῦ θεοῦ κρίσις—τὰ κατ' αὐτὸν ἀπελπίσας ἔγραψεν πρὸς τοὺς Ἰουδαίους τὴν ὑπογεγραμμένην ἐπιστολὴν ἰκετηρίας τάξιν ἔχουσαν περιέχουσαν δὲ οὕτως.

But when his sufferings did not in any way abate, for the judgment of God had justly come upon him, he gave up all hope for himself and wrote to the Jews the following letter, in the form of a supplication. This was its content (NRSV).

Wilhelm points out that the participle is in accordance with the term that designates the object that is being compared, with regard to its τάξις, with another object. This is a fine example of a conjectural reading that is not warranted by any of the manuscripts but seems to be, after careful consideration, the only possibility to make sense of the text. This is why it was accepted by P. Katz in his review article. I have taken it over and have accordingly rendered the text as "[they] hid it in a cavity, which had the appearance of a waterless cistern." Other such cases might be cited.¹⁰

Generally speaking, Hanhart's critical edition is marked by an exceedingly conservative attitude towards emendations.¹¹ It has rightly been pointed out against Hanhart that 2 Makkabees should not be ⁶ A. Wilhelm, "Zu einigen Stellen der Bücher der Makkabäer," in Anzeiger der Akademie der Wissenschaften in Wien (Philosophisch-historische Klasse, 74 [1937]; Vienna and Leipzig, 1938) 15–30.

⁷ More examples are discussed in J. Schaper, "Translating 2 Maccabees for NETS" (forthcoming).

⁸ NRSV (Anglicized Edition), "To the Reader," xiii: "For the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books of the Old Testament the Committee has made use of a number of texts. For most of these books the basic Greek text from which the present translation was made is the edition of the Septuagint prepared by Alfred Rahlfs For several of the books the more recently published individual volumes of the Göttingen Septuagint project were utilized."

⁹ In Charles, 1.133.

¹⁰ In the commentary literature, see, to name just one example, J. A. Goldstein, (II Maccabees: A New Translation with Introduction and Commentary) (AB 41A; Garden City, NY: Doubleday, 1983) 176, following A. Wilhelm and stating with regard to 2 Makk. 1.19 and the transmission of the Greek text "The scribes of the Greek manuscripts, however, were led by a series of corruptions away from the construction which otherwise they would have recognized."

¹¹ See Habicht, 2. Makkabäerbuch, 192, "Der wesentliche Punkt der Kritik . . . ist der extreme Konservatismus, den Hanhart hinsichtlich derjenigen Handschriften beweist, die nach seinem Urteil den Text am reinsten bewahrt haben, das sind A und die Minuskelhandschriften 55, 347 und 771. Er ist gepaart mit äußerster Zurückhaltung compared to Septuagint texts with a Semitic parent text but to "pagan" Hellenistic literature and inscriptions, especially with regard to the book's style and vocabulary.¹² The consequences for the critical reconstruction of its text are obvious.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

In addition to tools like the standard lexica and grammars, I made use especially of the translations and commentaries provided by C. Habicht, 2. Makkabäerbuch (Jüdische Schriften aus hellenistisch-römischer Zeit 1/3; Gütersloh: G. Mohn, 21979 [1976]) and J. A. Goldstein, II Maccabees: A New Translation with Introduction and Commentary (AB 41A; Garden City, NY: Doubleday 1983). With regard to matters of textual criticism, P. Walters, The Text of the Septuagint: Its Corruptions and Their Emendation (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1973) proved especially helpful.

JOACHIM SCHAPER

1 The fellow Judeans in Hierosolyma and those in the land of Judea, to their Judean brothers in Egypt, greetings and true peace.

2 May God do good to you, and may he remember his covenant with Abraam and Isaak and Jakob, his faithful slaves. 3 May he give you all a heart to worship him and to do his will with a strong heart and a willing spirit. 4 May he open your heart to his law and his ordinances, and may he bring peace. 5 May he heed your prayers and be reconciled to you, and may he not forsake you in a time of evil. 6 We are now praying for you here.

7 In the reign of Demetrius, in the one hundred sixty-ninth year, we Judeans wrote to you in the critical distress that came upon us in those years after Jason and his company revolted from the holy land and the kingdom 8 and burned the gate and shed innocent blood. We prayed to the Lord and were heard, and we offered sacrifice and grain offering, and we lit the lamps and set out the loaves. 9 And now see that you keep the days of the feast of tent pitching in the month of Chaseleu. 10 In the one hundred eighty-eighth year.

The people of Hierosolyma and of Judea and the senate and Ioudas, to Aristobulus, who is of the family of the anointed priests, teacher of King Ptolemy, and to the Judeans in Egypt, greetings and good health.

11 Having been saved by God out of grave dangers we thank him greatly as men drawing up in battle-order against the king, 12 for he drove out those who drew up in battle-order against the holy city. 13 When the leader and his army, which seemed irresistible, reached Persia, they were cut to pieces in the temple of Nanea by a deception employed by the priests of the goddess Nanea. 14 On the pretext of intending to marry her, Antiochus came to the place together with his Friends, to take most of the money in name of a dowry. 15 When the priests of the temple of Nanea had set it out and that man had come with a few men inside the wall of the sacred precinct, they closed the temple as soon as he had entered it. 16 Opening a secret door in the paneled ceiling, they threw stones and struck down the leader, and they dismembered them and cut off their heads and threw them to the people outside. 17 Blessed in every way be our God, who has delivered up those who have behaved impiously.

18 Since we intend to celebrate the purification of the temple on the twenty-fifth of Chaseleu, we thought it necessary to notify you in order that you also may celebrate it, as the feast of tent pitching and of the fire, given when Neemias, who built both the temple and the altar and offered sacrifices.

19 For when our fathers were being led captive to Persia, the pious priests of that time took some of the fire of the altar and secretly hid it in a cavity, which had the appearance of a waterless cistern, where they kept it safe so that the place was unknown to anyone. 20 But after many years had passed, when it pleased God, Neemias, having been sent by the king of Persia, sent the descendants of the priests who had hidden it after the fire. When they reported to us that they had not gegenüber abweichenden Lesungen, die von anderen Handschriften geboten werden, und insbesondere von solchen, die durch die Rezension des Lukian von Antiocheia . . . beeinflusst worden sind, endlich von einer ebenso weit getriebenen Zurückhaltung gegenüber modernen Konjekturen auch da, wo nur eine Konjektur den Text verstehbar macht."

¹² See Habicht, 2. Makkabäerbuch, 193, "In diesem Zusammenhang ist für 2 Makk von entscheidender Bedeutung, daß die Schrift, von einigen Partien abgesehen . . . , als ein griechisches Original beurteilt werden muß, d. h. anders als die übrigen Bücher der Septuaginta, die als Übersetzungen aus dem Hebräischen Übersetzungsgriechisch, zudem noch aus einer anderen Zeit, bieten. Hanhart hat diesem besonderen Umstand des Buches nicht oder nur unzulänglich Rechnung getragen. Die Kriterien sind nicht die richtigen, wenn etwa ein bestimmtes Wort deshalb verworfen wird, weil es sonst im Übersetzungsgriechisch der Septuaginta nicht vorkommt. Das richtige Kriterium wäre die Frage, ob es bei den vergleichbaren griechischen Autoren der Zeit wie Polybios und ob es im Urkundenstil des Hellenismus begegnet, wie ihn die Inschriften zeigen."

found fire but only marsh water, he ordered them to draw it up and bring it. ²¹When the materials for the sacrifices were presented, Neemias ordered the priests to sprinkle the water on the wood and on the things laid upon it. ²²When this had been done and some time had passed and when the sun, which had been clouded over, shone out, a great fire was kindled so that all marvelled. ²³And while the sacrifice was being consumed, the priests offered prayer—the priests and everyone. Ionathas led, and the rest responded, as did Neemias. ²⁴The prayer was to this effect:

“O Lord, Lord God, Creator of all things, you are awe-inspiring and strong and just and merciful; you alone are king and are kind; ²⁵you alone are bountiful; you alone are just and almighty and everlasting. You rescue Israel from every evil; you chose the fathers and sanctified them. ²⁶Accept this sacrifice on behalf of all your people Israel, and preserve your portion, and make it holy. ²⁷Gather together our scattered people; set free those who are slaves among the nations; look on those who are rejected and despised, and let the nations know that you are our God. ²⁸Punish those who oppress and are insolent with pride. ²⁹Plant your people in your holy place, as Moyses said.”

³⁰ Then the priests sang the hymns. ³¹After the materials of the sacrifice had been consumed, Neemias ordered that the water that was left should be poured on large stones. ³²When this was done, a flame blazed up, but when the light from the altar shone back, it was consumed. ³³When this matter became known and it was reported to the king of the Persians that, in the place where the exiled priests had hidden the fire, the water had appeared, with which Neemias' men had purified the materials of the sacrifice, ³⁴the king investigated the matter and enclosed the place and made it sacred. ³⁵And with those persons whom the king favoured he exchanged many excellent gifts. ³⁶Neemias' men called this “nephthar,” which means purification, but by most people it is called “nephthai.”

2 One finds in the records that the prophet Jeremias ordered those who were being deported to take some of the fire, as has been mentioned, ²and that the prophet, after giving them the law, commanded those who were being deported not to forget the ordinances of the Lord or to be led astray in their thoughts on seeing the gold and silver statues and their adornment. ³And with other similar words he exhorted them that the law should not depart from their hearts.

⁴ It was also in the document that the prophet, having received an oracle, ordered that the tent and the ark should follow with him and that he went out to the mountain where Moyses had gone up and had seen the inheritance of God. ⁵Jeremias came and found a cave dwelling, and he brought there the tent and the ark and the altar of incense; then he sealed up the entrance. ⁶Some of those who followed him came up intending to mark the way but could not find it. ⁷When Jeremias learned of it, he rebuked them and declared, “The place shall remain unknown until God gathers his people together again and shows his mercy. ⁸Then the Lord will disclose these things, and the glory of the Lord will appear, and the cloud, as it showed itself to Moyses, and as Salomon prayed that the place be specially sanctified.”

⁹ It was also told that, possessing wisdom, he offered sacrifice for the dedication and completion of the temple. ¹⁰Just as Moyses prayed to the Lord and fire came down from heaven and ate up the sacrifices, so also Salomon prayed, and the fire came down and consumed the whole burnt offerings. ¹¹And Moyses said, “They were eaten up because the sin offering had not been eaten.” ¹²Like-wise Salomon also kept the eight days.

¹³ The same things are reported in the records and in the memoirs of Neemias, and also that he founded a library and collected the books about the kings and prophets, and the writings of Dauid, and letters of kings about votive offerings. ¹⁴In the same way Ioudas also collected all the books that had been lost on account of the war that had come upon us, and they are in our possession. ¹⁵So if you have need of them, send people to get them for you.

¹⁶ Since, therefore, we are about to celebrate the purification, we write to you. You would do well to keep the days too. ¹⁷It is God who has saved all his people and has returned the inheritance to all, and the kingship and the priesthood and the sanctification, ¹⁸as he promised through the law. We therefore have hope in God that he will soon have mercy on us and will gather us from everywhere under heaven to his holy place, for he has rescued us from great evils and has cleansed the place.

¹⁹ The story of Ioudas Makkabaios and his brothers and the purification of the greatest temple and the dedication of the altar^a ²⁰and further the wars against Antiochus Epiphanes and his son Eupator ²¹and the appearances that came from heaven to those who behaved themselves manfully for Judaism so that though few in number they seized the whole land and pursued the barbarian hordes ²²and regained possession of the temple famous throughout the world and liberated the city and re-established the laws that were about to be abolished, while the Lord with great kindness became gracious to them—²³all this, which has been set forth by Jason of Cyrene in five volumes, we shall attempt to condense into a single book. ²⁴For considering the flood of figures involved and the difficulty there is for those who wish to enter upon the narratives of history because of the mass of material, ²⁵we have aimed to please those who wish to read, to make it easy for those who are inclined to memorize and to profit all those who happen to read this. ²⁶For us who have undertaken the toil of abbreviating, it is no light matter but calls for sweat and loss of sleep,²⁷ just as it is not easy for one who prepares a banquet and seeks the benefit of others. Nevertheless, to secure the gratitude of many we will gladly endure the uncomfortable toil,²⁸ leaving the responsibility for exact details to the compiler, while devoting our effort to arriving at the outlines of the condensation.²⁹ For as the master builder of a new house must be concerned with the whole construction, while the one who undertakes its painting and decoration has to consider only what is suitable for its adornment, such in my judgment is the case with us.³⁰ It is the duty of the original historian to occupy the ground, to discuss matters from every side and to take trouble with details,³¹ but the one who recasts the narrative should be allowed to strive for brevity of expression and to forego exhaustive treatment.³² At this point, therefore, let us begin our narrative, while adding just this to what has already been said; for it would be foolish to lengthen the preface while cutting short the narrative itself.

^aGk = bômos

3 While the holy city was inhabited in unbroken peace and the laws were strictly observed because of the piety of the high priest Onias and his hatred of wickedness,² it came about that the kings themselves honored the place and glorified the temple with the finest presents,³ even to the extent that Seleucus, the king of Asia, defrayed from his own revenues all the expenses connected with the ministry of the sacrifices.

4 But a man named Simon, of the tribe of Balgea, who had been made captain of the temple, had a disagreement with the high priest about the administration of the city market.⁵ Since he could not prevail over Onias, he went to Apollonius son of Thraseas^a, who at that time was governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia,⁶ and reported to him that the treasury in Hierosolyma was full of untold sums of money, so that the amount of the funds could not be reckoned, and that they did not belong to the account of the sacrifices, but that it was possible for them to fall under the control of the king.⁷ When Apollonius met the king, he told him of the money about which he had been informed. And he^b chose Heliodorus, who was in charge of his affairs, and sent him with commands to effect the removal of the reported wealth.⁸ Heliodorus at once set out on his journey, ostensibly to make a tour of inspection of the cities of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia but in fact to carry out the king's purpose.

9 When he had arrived at Hierosolyma and had been kindly welcomed by the high priest of the city, he told about the disclosure that had been made and stated why he had come. But he inquired whether this really was the situation.¹⁰ The high priest explained that there were some deposits belonging to widows and orphans¹¹ and also some money of Hyrcanus son of Tobias, a man of very prominent position, and that it totalled in all four hundred talents of silver and two hundred of gold. To such an extent the impious Simon had misrepresented the facts.¹² And he said that it was utterly impossible that wrong should be done to those people who had trusted in the holiness of the place and in the sanctity and inviolability of the temple that is honored throughout the whole wide world.

13 But the other one, because of the commands he had from the king, said that this money must in any case be confiscated for the king's treasury.¹⁴ So he set a day and went in to direct the inspection of these funds.

There was no little distress throughout the whole city.¹⁵ The priests prostrated themselves before the altar in their priestly vestments and called toward heaven upon him who had given the law about deposits, that he should keep them safe for those who had deposited them.¹⁶ To see the appearance of the high priest was to be wounded at heart, for his face and the change in his color disclosed the anguish of his soul.¹⁷ For terror and bodily trembling had come over the man, which plainly showed to those who looked at him the pain lodged in his heart.¹⁸ People also were hurrying out of their houses in crowds to the supplication of the entire people because the holy place was about to be brought into dishonor.¹⁹ Women, girded with sackcloth under their breasts, thronged the streets. Of the virgins who were kept indoors, some ran together to the gates and some to the walls, while others peered out of the windows.²⁰ And holding up their hands to heaven, they all made supplication.²¹ There was something pitiable in the prostration of the whole populace and the anxiety of the high priest in his great anguish.

22 While they were calling upon the Almighty Lord that he would keep what had been entrusted safe and secure for those who had entrusted it,²³ Heliodorus went on with what had been decided.²⁴ But when he was present at the treasury with his bodyguards, then and there the Sovereign of spirits and of all authority caused so great a manifestation, that all who had been so bold as to accompany him were astounded by the power of God and became faint with terror.²⁵ For there appeared to them a magnificently caparisoned horse with a frightening rider; it rushed furiously at Heliodorus and struck at him with its front hoofs. He who sat upon it was seen to have a full golden harness.²⁶ Two young men also appeared to him, remarkably strong, gloriously beautiful and splendidly dressed, who stood on either side of him and flogged him continuously, inflicting many blows on him.²⁷ When he suddenly fell to the ground and deep darkness came over him, they took him up, put him on a stretcher²⁸ and carried him, who had just entered the aforesaid treasury with a great retinue and all his bodyguard but was now with all his weapons unable to help himself, away. They thus clearly recognized the dominance of God.

29 While he lay prostrate, speechless because of the divine intervention and deprived of any hope of recovery,³⁰ they praised the Lord who had acted marvellously for his own place. And the temple, which a little while before was full of fear and disturbance, was filled with joy and gladness now that the Almighty Lord had appeared.

^aThrasaios = Ha ^bI.e. the king ^che = Ha

31 Some of Heliodorus' friends quickly begged Onias to call upon the Most High to grant life to one who was lying quite at his last breath.³² So the high priest having become suspicious that the king might get the notion that some foul play had been perpetrated by the Judeans with regard to Heliodorus, offered sacrifice for the man's recovery.³³ While the high priest was making an atonement, the same young men appeared again to Heliodorus dressed in the same clothing, and they stood and said, "Be very grateful to the high priest Onias, since for his sake the Lord has granted you your life.³⁴ And see that you, who have been flogged by heaven, report to all people the majestic power of God." Having said this they vanished.

35 Then Heliodorus offered sacrifice to the Lord and made very great vows to the Savior of his life, and having bidden Onias farewell, he marched off with his forces to the king.³⁶ He bore testimony to all concerning the deeds of the supreme God, which he had seen with his own eyes.³⁷ When the king asked Heliodorus what sort of person would be suitable to be sent on another mission to Hierosolyma, he replied,³⁸ "If you have any enemy or plotter against your government, send him there, for you will get him back thoroughly flogged, if he survives at all, for there is certainly some divine power about the place.³⁹ For he who has his dwelling in heaven watches over that place himself and brings it aid, and he strikes and destroys those who come to do it injury."⁴⁰ This was the outcome of the episode of Heliodorus and the protection of the treasury.

4 The previously mentioned Simon, who had informed about the money against his own country, slandered Onias, saying that it was he who had incited Heliodorus and had been the real cause of the evils.² He dared to designate as a plotter against the government the man who was the benefactor of the city, the protector of his compatriots and a zealot for the laws.³ When his hatred progressed to such a degree that even murders were committed by one of Simon's approved agents,⁴ Onias recognized that the rivalry was serious and that Apollonius son of Menestheus, and governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, was intensifying the malice of Simon.⁵ So he appealed to the king, not accusing his compatriots but having in view the welfare, both public and private, of all the people.⁶ For he saw that without the king's attention public affairs could not again reach a peaceful settlement and that Simon would not stop his folly.

7 When Seleucus died and Antiochus, who was called Epiphanes, succeeded to the kingdom, Jason

the brother of Onias obtained the high priesthood by corruption,⁸ promising the king at an interview three hundred sixty talents of silver and from another source of revenue eighty talents.⁹ In addition to this he promised to pay one hundred fifty more, if permission were given to establish by his authority a gymnasium and a body of youth for it and to draw up the list of the 'Antiochenes' amongst those in Hierosolyma.¹⁰ When the king assented and he came to office, he at once shifted his compatriots over to the Greek way of life.

11 He set aside the existing humane royal concessions to the Judeans, secured through Ioannes the father of Eupolemus, who went on the mission to establish friendship and alliance with the Romans, and he destroyed the polity's lawful ways of living and introduced new customs contrary to the law.¹² He took delight in establishing a gymnasium right under the acropolis, and subjugating them, he induced the noblest of the young men to wear the Greek hat.¹³ There was such an extreme of hellenization and increase in the adoption of allophylysm^a because of the surpassing wickedness of Jason, who was impious and no true high priest,¹⁴ that the priests were no longer intent upon their ministry at the altar. Rather, despising the shrine and neglecting the sacrifices, they hurried to take part in the unlawful distribution of the oil^b in the wrestling arena after the signal for the discus throwing,¹⁵ disdainful of the honors prized by their ancestors and putting the highest value upon Greek forms of prestige.¹⁶ For this reason heavy disaster overtook them, and those whose ways of living they admired and wished to imitate completely became their enemies and avengers.¹⁷ It is no light thing to show impiety to the divine laws—a fact that later events will make clear.

18 When the quinquennial games were being held at Tyre and the king was present,¹⁹ the vile Jason sent envoys, chosen as being 'Antiochian' citizens from Hierosolyma, to carry three hundred silver drachmas for the sacrifice to Heracles. Those who carried the money, however, thought best not to use it for sacrifice, because that was inappropriate, but to expend it for another purpose.²⁰ So this money was intended by the sender for the sacrifice to Heracles, but by the decision of its carriers it was applied to the construction of triremes.

21 When Apollonius the son of Menestheus was sent to Egypt for the coronation of Philometor as king, Antiochus learned that the other had become hostile to his government, and he took measures for his own security. Therefore upon arriving at Joppe he proceeded to Hierosolyma.²² He was welcomed magnificently by Jason and the city and ushered in with a blaze of torches and with shouts. Then he marched off to Phoenicia in the same manner.

23 After a period of three years Jason sent Menelaus, the brother of the previously mentioned Simon, to carry the money to the king and to complete the records of essential business.²⁴ But he, when presented to the king, extolled him with an air of authority and secured the high priesthood for himself, outbidding Jason by three hundred talents of silver.²⁵ After receiving the king's commands he returned, possessing no qualification for the high priesthood but having the hot temper of a cruel tyrant and the rage of a savage wild beast.²⁶ So Jason, who after supplanting his own brother was supplanted by another man, was driven as a fugitive into the land of Ammon.²⁷ Although Menelaus continued to hold the office, he did not pay regularly any of the money promised to the king.²⁸ So when Sostratus the captain of the acropolis kept requesting payment—for the collection of the revenue was his responsibility—the two of them were summoned by the king on account of this issue.²⁹ Menelaus left his own brother Lysimachus as deputy in the high priesthood, while Sostratus left Crates, the commander of the Cyprian troops.

^ai.e. alien ways ^bPossibly of ointments

30 While such was the state of affairs, it happened that the people of Tarsus and of Mallus revolted because their cities had been given as a present to Antiochis, the king's concubine.³¹ So the king went hurriedly to settle the trouble, leaving Andronicus, a man of high rank, to act as his deputy.³² But Menelaus, thinking he had obtained a suitable opportunity, stole some of the gold vessels of the temple and gave them to Andronicus; other vessels, as it happened, he had sold to Tyre and the neighboring cities.³³ When Onias became fully aware of these acts, he publicly exposed them, having first withdrawn to a place of sanctuary at Daphne near Antioch.³⁴ Therefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus aside, urged him to kill Onias. Andronicus came to Onias, and resorting to treachery, offered him sworn pledges and gave him his right hand; he persuaded him, though still suspicious, to come out from the place of sanctuary; then, with no regard for justice, he immediately put him out of the way.

35 For this reason not only Judeans, but many also of other nations, were grieved and displeased at the unjust slaughter of the man.³⁶ When the king returned from the region of Cilicia, the Judeans in the city appealed to him with regard to the unreasonable murder of Onias, and the Greeks shared their hatred of the crime.³⁷ Therefore Antiochus was grieved at heart and filled with pity and wept because of the moderation and good conduct of the deceased.³⁸ Inflamed with anger, he immediately stripped off the purple robe from Andronicus, tore off his clothes and led him around the whole city to that very place where he had committed the outrage against Onias, and there he removed the bloodthirsty fellow from the world. The Lord thus repaid him with the punishment he deserved.

39 When many acts of sacrilege had been committed in the city by Lysimachus with the connivance of Menelaus and when report of them had spread abroad, the populace gathered against Lysi-

machus, because many of the gold vessels had already been stolen.⁴⁰ Since the crowds were becoming aroused and filled with anger, Lysimachus armed about three thousand men and launched an unjust attack under the leadership of a certain Auranus, a man advanced in years and no less advanced in folly.⁴¹ But when they became aware that Lysimachus was attacking them, some picked up stones, some blocks of wood, and others took handfuls of the ashes that were lying around and threw them in wild confusion at Lysimachus' men.⁴² As a result, they wounded many of them and killed some and put all the rest to flight; the temple robber himself they killed close by the treasury.

43 Charges were brought against Menelaus about this incident.⁴⁴ When the king came to Tyre, three men sent by the senate presented the case before him.⁴⁵ But Menelaus, already as good as beaten, promised a substantial bribe to Ptolemy son of Dorymenes to win over the king.⁴⁶ Therefore, Ptolemy, taking the king aside into a colonnade as if for refreshment, induced the king to change his mind.⁴⁷ Menelaus, the cause of all the trouble, he acquitted of the charges against him, while he sentenced to death those unfortunate men, who would have been freed uncondemned, if they had pleaded even before Scythians.⁴⁸ And so those who had spoken for the city and the villages and the holy vessels quickly suffered the unjust penalty.⁴⁹ Therefore even the Tyrians, showing their hatred of the crime, provided magnificently for their funeral.⁵⁰ But Menelaus, because of the greed of those in power, remained in office, growing in wickedness, having become the chief plotter against his compatriots.

5 About this time Antiochus made his second invasion of Egypt.² And it happened that, for almost forty days, there appeared over all the city golden-clad cavalry charging through the air, in companies fully armed with lances and drawn daggers—³troops of cavalry drawn up, attacks and counterattacks made on this side and on that, brandishing of shields, massing of spears, hurling of missiles, the flash of golden trappings and armor of all kinds.⁴ Therefore everyone prayed that the apparition might prove to have been a good omen.

5 When a false rumor arose that Antiochus was dead, Jason took no fewer than a thousand men and suddenly made an assault on the city. When the troops on the wall had been forced back and at last the city was being taken, Menelaus took refuge in the acropolis.⁶ But Jason kept relentlessly slaughtering his compatriots, not realizing that success at the cost of one's kindred is the greatest misfortune but imagining that he was setting up trophies of victory over enemies and not over compatriots.⁷ He did not, however, gain control of the government; in the end he got only disgrace from his conspiracy and fled again into the Ammanitis.⁸ Finally he met a miserable end. Accused^a before

Aretas the ruler of the Arabs, fleeing from city to city, pursued by everyone, hated as a rebel against the laws and abhorred as the executioner of his country and his compatriots, he was cast ashore in Egypt. ⁹There he, who had driven many from their own country into exile, died in exile, having embarked to go to the Spartans in hope of finding protection because of their kinship. ¹⁰He who had cast out many to lie unburied had no one to mourn for him; he had no funeral of any sort and no place in his ancestral tomb.

¹¹When news of what had happened reached the king, he took it to mean that Judea was in revolt. So, raging inwardly, he left Egypt and took the city by force. ¹²He commanded his soldiers to cut down relentlessly everyone they met and to kill those who went into their houses. ¹³Then there were massacres of young and old, destruction of women and children, slayings of virgins and infants. ¹⁴Within the total of three days eighty thousand were destroyed, forty thousand in hand-to-hand fighting, and as many were sold into slavery as were killed.

¹⁵Not content with this, Antiochus dared to enter the most holy temple in all the world, guided by Menelaus, who had become a traitor both to the laws and to his country, ¹⁶taking the sacred vessels with his polluted hands and pulling down with profane hands the votive offerings that other kings had made to enhance the glory and honor of the place. ¹⁷Antiochus was elated in spirit and did not perceive that the Lord was angered for a little while because of the sins of those who lived in the city and that this was the reason he was disregarding the place. ¹⁸But if it had not happened that they were involved in many sins, this man would have been flogged and turned back from his rash act as soon as he came forward, just as Heliodorus had been, whom King Seleucus sent to inspect the treasury. ¹⁹But the Lord did not choose the nation for the sake of the place, but the place for the sake of the nation. ²⁰Therefore the place itself shared in the misfortunes that befell the nation and afterward participated in its benefits, and what was forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty was restored again in all its glory when the great Lord became reconciled.

²¹So Antiochus carried off eighteen hundred talents from the temple and hurried away to Antioch, thinking in his arrogance that he could make the land navigable and the sea passable on foot, because his heart was elated. ²²He left governors to oppress the people: at Hierosolyma, Philip, by birth a Phrygian and in character more barbarous than the man who appointed him; ²³and on Garizim^a, Andronicus, and besides these Menelaus, who lorded it over the citizens worse than the others did because of his malice toward the Judean citizens. ²⁴Antiochus sent Apollonius, the captain of the Mysians, with an army of twenty-two thousand and ordered him to kill all the grown men and to sell the women and boys as slaves. ²⁵When

this man arrived in Hierosolyma, he pretended to be peaceably disposed and waited until the holy sabbath day; then, finding the Judeans not at work, he ordered his troops to parade under arms. ²⁶He put to the sword all those who came out to see them, then rushed into the city with his armed warriors and killed great numbers of people.

²⁷But Ioudas Makkabaios, with about nine others, got away to the wilderness and kept himself and his companions alive in the mountains as wild animals do; they continued to live on what grew wild so that they might not share in the defilement.

6 Not long after this, the king sent an Athenian senator to compel the Judeans to forsake their ancestral laws and no longer to live by the laws of God—²also to pollute the shrine in Hierosolyma and to call it the shrine of Olympian Zeus and to call the one on Garizim^a the shrine of Zeus-the-Friend-of-Strangers, as the people who lived in that place had petitioned.

³Harsh and utterly grievous was the onslaught of evil. ⁴For the temple was filled with debauchery and revelling by the nations, who dallied with prostitutes and had intercourse with women within the sacred precincts, and besides brought in things for sacrifice that were unfit. ⁵The altar was covered with abominable offerings that were forbidden by the laws. ⁶People could neither keep the sabbath nor observe their ancestral feasts nor so much as confess themselves to be Judeans.

⁷On the monthly celebration of the king's birthday, the Judeans were taken, under bitter constraint, to partake of the sacrifices, and when a feast of Dionysus was celebrated, they were compelled to wear wreaths of ivy and to walk in the procession in honor of Dionysus. ⁸At the suggestion of Ptolemy a vote was issued to the neighboring Greek cities that they should adopt the same policy toward the Judeans and make them partake of the sacrifices ⁹and should kill those who did not choose to change over to Greek customs. One could see, therefore, the misery that had come upon them. ¹⁰For example, two women were brought in for having circumcised their children. They publicly paraded them around the city with their babies hanging at their breasts and then hurled them down headlong from the wall. ¹¹Others who had assembled in the caves nearby in order to observe the seventh day secretly were betrayed to Philip and were all burned together, because their piety kept them from defending themselves, in view of their regard for that most holy day.

¹²Now I urge those who read this book not to be depressed by such calamities, but to recognize that these punishments were designed not to destroy but to discipline our people. ¹³In fact, it is a sign of great kindness not to let the impious alone for long but to punish them immediately. ¹⁴For in the case of the other nations the Lord waits patiently to punish them until they have reached the full measure of their sins, but he does not deal in this way with us ¹⁵in order that he may not take vengeance on us afterward, when our sins have reached their height. ¹⁶Therefore he never withdraws his mercy from us. While he disciplines us with calamities, he does not forsake his own people. ¹⁷Let what we have said serve as a reminder; we must go on briefly with the story.

^aArgarizin = Ha

18 Eleazaros, one of the scribes in high position, a man now advanced in age and of noble presence, was being forced to open his mouth to eat swine's flesh. ¹⁹But he, welcoming death with honor rather than life with pollution, went up to the rack of his own accord, spitting out the flesh, ²⁰as all ought to do who have the courage to refuse things that it is not right to taste, even for the natural love of life.

21 Those who were in charge of that unlawful sacrifice took the man aside because of their long acquaintance with him and privately urged him to bring meat of his own providing, proper for him to use, and to pretend that he was eating the flesh of the sacrificial meal that had been ordered by the king ²²so that by doing this he might be saved from death and be treated kindly on account of his old friendship with them. ²³But making a high resolve, worthy of his years and the dignity of his old age and the grey hairs that he had reached with distinction and his excellent bearing even from childhood, and moreover according to the holy God-given law, he declared himself quickly, telling them to send him to Hades.

24 "To pretend is not worthy of our time of life," he said, "for many of the young might suppose that Eleazaros in his ninetieth year had gone over to allophyllism^a, ²⁵and through my pretence, for the sake of living a brief moment longer, they would be led astray because of me, while I defile and disgrace my old age. ²⁶Even if for the present I would avoid the punishment of mortals, yet whether I live or die I shall not escape the hands of the Almighty. ²⁷Therefore, by bravely giving up my life now, I will show myself worthy of my old age ²⁸and leave to the young a noble example of how to die a good death willingly and nobly for the revered and holy laws."

When he had said this, he went at once to the rack. ²⁹Those who a little before had acted toward him with goodwill now changed to ill will, because the words he had uttered were in their opinion sheer madness. ³⁰When he was about to die under the blows, he groaned aloud and said: "It is clear to the Lord in his holy knowledge that, though I might have been saved from death, I am enduring terrible sufferings in my body under this beating, but in my soul I am glad to suffer these things, because I fear him."

31 So in this way he died, leaving in his death an example of nobility and a memorial of courage, not only to the young but also to the great body of his nation.

7 It happened also that seven brothers and their mother were arrested and were being compelled by the king, under torture with whips and thongs, to partake of unlawful swine's flesh. ²One of them, acting as their spokesman, said, "What do you intend to ask and learn from us? For we are ready to die rather than transgress our ancestral laws."

3 The king fell into a rage and ordered to have frying-pans and cauldrons heated. ⁴These were heated immediately, and he ordered that the tongue of their spokesman be cut out and that they scalp him and cut off his hands and feet, while the rest of the brothers and the mother looked on. ⁵When he was utterly helpless, the king ordered them to take him to the fire, still breathing, and to fry him in a pan. The smoke from the frying-pan spread widely, but the brothers and their mother encouraged one another to die nobly, saying, ⁶"The Lord God is watching over us and in truth has compassion on us, as Moyses declared in his song that bore witness against the people to their faces, when he said, 'And he will have compassion on his slaves.'"

7 After the first brother had died in this way, they brought forward the second for their sport. They tore off the skin of his head with the hair and asked him, "Will you eat rather than have your body punished limb by limb?" ⁸He replied in his ancestral language and said to them, "No." Therefore he in turn underwent tortures as the first had done. ⁹And when he was at his last breath, he said, "You accursed wretch, you dismiss us from this present life, but the King of the universe will raise us up to an everlasting renewal of life, because we have died for his laws."

10 After him, the third was the victim of their sport. When it was demanded, he quickly put out his tongue and courageously stretched forth his hands ¹¹and said nobly, "I got these from Heaven, and because of his laws I disdain them, and from him I hope to get them back again." ¹²As a result the king himself and those with him were astonished at the young man's spirit, for he regarded his sufferings as nothing.

13 After he too had died, they maltreated and tortured the fourth in the same way. ¹⁴When he was near death, he said, "It is desirable that those who die at the hands of human beings should cherish the hope God gives of being raised again by him. But for you there will be no resurrection to life!"

15 Next they brought forward the fifth and maltreated him. ¹⁶But he looked at him and said, "Because you have authority among human beings, though you also are mortal, you do what you please. But do not think that our people have been forsaken by God. ¹⁷Keep on, and see how his mighty power will torture you and your descendants!"

18 After him they brought forward the sixth. And when he was about to die, he said, "Do not deceive yourself in vain. For we are suffering these things on our own account, because of our sins against our own God. Therefore astounding things have happened. ¹⁹But do not think that you will go unpunished for having tried to fight against God!"

^ai.e. alien ways

²⁰The mother was especially admirable and worthy of honorable memory. Although she saw her seven sons perish within the course of a single day, she bore it with good courage because of her hope in the Lord. ²¹She encouraged each of them in their ancestral language. Filled with a noble spirit, she reinforced her woman's reasoning with a man's courage and said to them, ²²"I do not know how you came into being in my womb. It was not I who gave you life and breath, nor I who set in order the elements within each of you. ²³Therefore the Creator of the world, who shaped the origin of man and devised the origin of all things, will in his mercy give life and breath back to you again, since you now forget yourselves for the sake of his laws."

²⁴Antiochus felt that he was being treated with contempt, and he was suspicious of her reproachful tone. The youngest brother being still alive, Antiochus not only appealed to him in words but also promised with oaths that he would make him rich and enviable, if he would turn from his ancestral ways, and that he would take him for his friend and entrust him with public affairs. ²⁵Since the young man would not listen to him at all, the king called the mother to him and urged her to advise the youth to save himself. ²⁶After much urging on his part, she undertook to persuade her son. ²⁷But, leaning close to him, she spoke in their ancestral language as follows, deriding the cruel tyrant: "My son, have pity on me. I carried you nine months in my womb and nursed you for three years and have reared you and brought you up to this point in your life and have taken care of you. ²⁸I implore you, my child, to look at the heaven and the earth and see everything that is in them and recognize that God did not make them out of things that existed. And in the same way the human race came into being. ²⁹Do not fear this hangman, but prove worthy of your brothers and accept death so that in his mercy I may get you back again along with your brothers."

³⁰While she was still speaking, the young man said, "What are you waiting for? I will not obey the king's ordinance, but I obey the ordinance of the law that was given to our fathers through Moyses. ³¹But you, who have contrived all sorts of evil against the Hebrews, will certainly not escape the hands of God. ³²For we are suffering because of our own sins. ³³And if our living Lord is angry for a little while, to rebuke and discipline us, he will again be reconciled with his own slaves. ³⁴But you, unholy wretch, you most defiled of all mortals, do not be elated in vain and puffed up by uncertain hopes, when you raise your hand against the children of heaven. ³⁵You have not yet escaped the judgment of the Almighty, all-seeing God. ³⁶For our brothers, after enduring a brief suffering, have fallen heir to everlasting life under the power of a divine covenant, but you, by the judgment of God, will receive just punishment for your arrogance. ³⁷I, like my brothers, give up body and life for our ancestral laws, appealing to God to show mercy soon to our nation and by torments and plagues to make you acknowledge that he alone is God ³⁸and through me and my brothers to bring to an end the wrath of the Almighty that has justly fallen on our whole nation."

³⁹The king fell into a rage and handled him worse than the others, being exasperated at his scorn. ⁴⁰So he died in his integrity, putting his whole trust in the Lord.

⁴¹Last of all, the mother died, after her sons.

⁴²Let this be enough, then, about the eating of sacrifices and the extreme tortures.

8 Meanwhile Ioudas, who was also called Makkabaios, and his companions secretly entered the villages and summoned their kindred and enlisted those who had continued in the Judean faith, and so they gathered about six thousand. ²They implored the Lord to look upon the people who were oppressed by all and to have pity on the shrine that had been profaned by the impious, ³to have mercy on the city that was being destroyed and about to be leveled to the ground and to hearken to the blood that cried out to him, ⁴to remember also the lawless slaughter of the innocent babies and the blasphemies committed against his name and to show his hatred of evil.

⁵As soon as Makkabaios got his army organized, he became insuperable for the nations, for the wrath of the Lord had turned to mercy. ⁶Coming without warning, he would set fire to towns and villages. He captured strategic positions and put to flight not a few of the enemy. ⁷He found the nights most advantageous for such attacks. And talk of his valor spread everywhere.

⁸When Philip saw that the man was gaining ground little by little and that he was pushing ahead with more frequent successes, he wrote to Ptolemy, the governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, to come to the aid of the king's government. ⁹Then Ptolemy promptly appointed Nikanor son of Patroclus, one of the king's chief friends, and sent him, in command of no fewer than twenty thousand nations of all races, to wipe out the whole race of Judea. He associated with him Gorgias, a general and a man of experience in military service. ¹⁰Nikanor determined to make up for the king the tribute due to the Romans, two thousand talents, by selling the captured Judeans into slavery. ¹¹So he immediately sent to the towns on the seacoast, inviting them to buy Judean slaves and promising to hand over ninety slaves for a talent, not expecting the judgment from the Almighty that was about to overtake him.

¹²Word came to Ioudas concerning Nikanor's invasion, and when he told his companions of the arrival of the army, ¹³those who were cowardly and distrustful of God's justice ran off and got away.

¹⁴Others sold all their remaining property and at the same time implored the Lord to rescue those who had been sold by the ungodly Nikanor before he ever met them, ¹⁵if not for their own sake, then for the sake of the covenants made with their fathers and because he had called them by his holy and glorious name. ¹⁶But Makkabaïos gathered his forces together, to the number six thousand, and exhorted them not to be frightened by the enemy and not to fear the great multitude of nations, who were wickedly coming against them, but to fight nobly, ¹⁷keeping before their eyes the outrage that they had lawlessly committed against the holy place and the torture of the derided city and, besides, the destruction of the ancestral polity. ¹⁸"For they trust to arms and acts of daring," he said, "but we trust in the Almighty God, who is able with a single nod to strike down those who are coming against us and even, if necessary, the whole world."

¹⁹Moreover, he told them of the occasions when help came to their ancestors; how, in the time of Sennachereim, when one hundred and eighty-five thousand perished, ²⁰and the time of the battle against the Galatians that took place in Babylonia, how they saw action, eight thousand of them in all, along with four thousand Macedonians; yet when the Macedonians were at a loss, the eight thousand, by the help that came to them from heaven, destroyed one hundred twenty thousand Galatians and took a great amount of booty.

²¹With these words he filled them with courage and made them ready to die for the laws and the fatherland; then he divided his army into four parts. ²²He appointed his brothers also, Simon and Iosepos and Jonathan, as leaders of each division, putting fifteen hundred men under each. ²³Besides, he appointed Eleazaros to read aloud from the holy book and gave the watchword, "Divine Help"; then, leading the first manipel himself, he joined battle with Nikanor.

²⁴With the Almighty as their ally, they killed more than nine thousand of the enemy and wounded and disabled most of Nikanor's army and forced them all to flee. ²⁵They captured the money of those who had come to buy them as slaves. After pursuing them for quite some time, they returned because they were pressed for time. ²⁶It was the day before the sabbath, and for that reason they did not continue their pursuit. ²⁷When they had gathered their own arms together and had stripped the arms off their enemies, they kept the sabbath, giving great praise and acknowledgement to the Lord, who had preserved them until this day and allotted it to them as the beginning of mercy. ²⁸After the sabbath, they gave some of the spoils to those who had been tortured and to the widows and orphans and distributed the rest among themselves and their children. ²⁹When they had done this, they made common supplication and implored the merciful Lord to be wholly reconciled with his slaves.

³⁰In encounters with the forces of Timothy and Bacchides they killed more than twenty thousand of them and very easily got possession of

some exceedingly high strongholds, and they divided a very large amount of spoils, giving to those who had been tortured and to the orphans and widows and also to the aged shares equal to their own. ³¹Having gathered their armor together, and they carefully stored all of them in strategic places; the rest of the spoils they carried to Hierosolyma. ³²They killed the commander of Timothy's forces, a most wicked man, and one who had greatly troubled the Judeans. ³³While they were celebrating the victory in the fatherland, they burned those who had set fire to the sacred gates and Callisthenes, who had fled into one little house; so these received the proper reward for their impiety.

³⁴The thrice-accursed Nikanor, who had brought the thousand merchants to buy the Judeans, ³⁵having been humbled with the help of the Lord by opponents whom he regarded as of the least account, took off his splendid uniform and made his way alone like a runaway slave through the interior and reached Antioch, having succeeded chiefly in the destruction of his army! ³⁶So he who had taken it upon himself to secure tribute for the Romans by the capture of the people of Hierosolyma proclaimed that the Judeans had a Defender and that therefore the Judeans were invulnerable, because they followed the laws ordained by him.

9 About that time, as it happened, Antiochus had retreated in disorder from the region of Persia. ²He had entered the city called Persepolis and attempted to rob the temples and control the city. Therefore the people rushed to the rescue with arms and put him to flight, and it happened that Antiochus, having been put to flight by the inhabitants, beat a shameful retreat. ³While he was in Ecbatana, news came to him of what had happened to Nikanor and the forces of Timothy. ⁴Transported with rage, he conceived the idea of turning upon the Judeans the injury done by those who had put him to flight; so he instructed his charioteer to drive without stopping until he completed the journey. But the judgment of heaven rode with him! For in his arrogance he said, "When I get there I will make Hierosolyma a cemetery of Judeans."

⁵But the all-seeing Lord, the God of Israel, struck him with an incurable and invisible blow. As soon as he stopped speaking he was seized with a pain in his bowels for which there was no relief, and with sharp internal tortures—⁶and that very justly, for he had tortured the bowels of others with many and strange inflictions. ⁷Yet he did not in any way stop his insolence but was even more filled with arrogance, breathing fire in his rage against the Judeans and giving orders to speed up the journey. And so it came about that he fell out of his chariot as it was rushing along and that, through the grievous fall, all the limbs of the body were racked. ⁸Thus he, who only a little while before had thought in his superhuman arrogance that he could command the waves of the sea and had imagined that he could weigh the high mountains in a balance, was brought down to earth and carried in a litter, making the power of God manifest to all, ⁹so that worms broke out of the unbeliever's eyes, and while he was still living in anguish and pain, his flesh rotted away, and because of his stench the whole army felt revulsion at the decay. ¹⁰Because of the unbearable oppressiveness of the stench no one was able to carry the man who a little while before had thought that he could touch the stars of heaven. ¹¹Then it was that, broken in spirit, he began to lose much of his arrogance and to come to his senses under the divine scourge, for he was tortured with pain every moment. ¹²And when he could not endure his own stench, he uttered these words, "It is right to be subject to God and that a mortal should not think haughtily."

¹³ Then the abominable fellow made a vow to the Lord, who would no longer have mercy on him, stating ¹⁴that the holy city, which he was hurrying to level to the ground and to make a cemetery, he was now declaring to be free, ¹⁵and the Judeans, whom he had not considered worthy even of a grave but had planned to throw out with their children for the wild animals and for the birds to eat, he would make, all of them, equal to citizens of Athens, ¹⁶and the holy shrine, which he had formerly plundered, he would adorn with the finest offerings, and all the holy vessels he would give back many times over, and the expenses incurred for the sacrifices he would provide from his own revenues, ¹⁷and in addition to all this he also would become a Judean and would visit every inhabited place to proclaim the power of God. ¹⁸But when his sufferings did not in any way abate, for the just judgment of God had justly come upon him, he gave up all hope for himself and wrote to the Judeans the following letter in the form of a supplication. This was its content:

¹⁹ "To his worthy Judean citizens, Antiochus, their king and general, sends hearty greetings and good wishes for their health and prosperity. ²⁰If you and your children are well and your affairs are as you wish, I profess very great thanks to God, having my hope in heaven. ²¹As for me, I was weakly disposed, but I remember with affection your esteem and goodwill. On my way back from the region of Persia I suffered an annoyance suffering from a disease, and I have deemed it necessary to take thought for the common security of all. ²²Not giving myself up as hopeless but having good hope of recovering from my illness, ²³I nevertheless observed that even my father, on the occasions when he made expeditions into the upper country, appointed his successor ²⁴so that, if anything unexpected happened or any unwelcome news came, the people throughout the realm would not be troubled, for they would know to whom the government was left. ²⁵Moreover, since I understand how the princes along the borders and the neighbors of my kingdom keep watching for opportunities and waiting to see what will happen, I have appointed my son Antiochus to be king, whom I have often entrusted and commended to most of you when I hurried off to the upper provinces, and I have written to him what is written here. ²⁶I therefore urge and implore you to remember the public and private services rendered to you and to maintain your present goodwill, each of you, toward me and my son. ²⁷For I am sure that he will follow my policy and will accommodate himself to you mildly and with kindness."

²⁸ So the murderer and blasphemer, having endured the most intense suffering, such as he had inflicted on others, came to the end of his life by a most pitiable fate among the mountains in a strange land. ²⁹And Philip, who had been brought up with him, took his body home; then, fearing the son of Antiochus, he withdrew to Ptolemy Philometor in Egypt.

10 Now Makkabaios and his followers, the Lord leading them on, recovered the temple and the city; ²they tore down the altars^a that had been built in the public square by the allophytes and also destroyed the sacred precincts. ³And having purified the shrine, they made another altar of sacrifice; then, igniting flint stones and taking fire out of them, they offered sacrifices, after a lapse of two years, and they offered incense and put up lamps and set out the presentation of the loaves. ⁴When they had done this, they fell prostrate and implored the Lord that they might never again fall into such misfortunes, but that, if they should ever sin, they might be disciplined by him with forbearance and not be handed over to blasphemous and barbarous nations. ⁵It happened that on the same day on which the shrine had been profaned by allophytes the purification of the shrine took place, that is, on the twenty-fifth day of the same month, which was Chaseleu. ⁶They celebrated it for eight days with rejoicing, in the manner of covert, remembering how not long before, during the feast of tents, they had been inhabiting the mountains and caves like wild animals. ⁷Therefore, carrying ivy-wreathed wands and beautiful branches and also fronds of palm, they offered hymns of thanksgiving to him who had given success to the purifying of his own holy place. ⁸They decreed by public ordinance and by vote that the whole nation of the Judeans should observe these days every year.

⁹ Such then was the end of Antiochus, who was called Epiphanes.

¹⁰ Now we will make known what took place under Antiochus Eupator, who was the son of that impious man, and will give a brief summary of the calamities of the wars. ¹¹This man, when he succeeded to the kingdom, appointed a certain Lysias, the chief governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, to be in charge of the government. ¹²Ptolemy, who was called Macron, taking the lead in observing justice towards the Judeans because of the wrong that had been done to them, attempted to maintain peaceful relations with them. ¹³As a result he was accused before Eupator by the king's Friends. He heard himself called a traitor at every turn, because he had abandoned Cyprus, which Philometor had entrusted to him, and had gone over to Antiochus Epiphanes. Unable to execute his noble office honorably, he took poison and ended his life.

^aGk = bōmos

14 When Gorgias became governor of the region, he maintained mercenaries, and at every turn kept attacking the Judeans. ¹⁵Besides this, the Idumeans, too, who had control of strategic strongholds, were harassing the Judeans; they received those who were banished from Hierosolyma and endeavored to keep up the war. ¹⁶But Makkabaios and his forces, after making solemn supplication and imploring God to fight on their side, moved towards the strongholds of the Idumeans. ¹⁷Attacking them vigorously, they gained possession of the places and beat off all who fought upon the wall and slaughtered those whom they encountered, killing no fewer than twenty thousand.

18 When at least nine thousand took refuge in two fortified towers exceedingly well equipped to withstand a siege, ¹⁹Makkabaios left Simon and Iosepos and also Zakchaios and his troops, a force sufficient to besiege them, and he himself set off for places where he was more urgently needed. ²⁰But those with Simon, who were money-hungry, were bribed with silver by some of those who were in the towers, and on receiving seventy thousand drachmas, let some of them slip away. ²¹When word of what had happened came to Makkabaios, he gathered the leaders of the people and accused these men of having sold their kindred for money by setting free those who were hostile to them. ²²Then he killed these men who had turned traitor and immediately captured the two towers. ²³Having success at arms in everything he undertook, he destroyed more than twenty thousand in the two strongholds.

24 Now Timothy, who had been defeated by the Judeans before, having gathered a tremendous force of mercenaries and having collected the cavalry from Asia in no small number, came on, intending to take Judea by storm. ²⁵As he drew near, Makkabaios and his men sprinkled dust on their heads and girded their loins with sackcloth in supplication to God, and ²⁶falling down at the foot of the altar, they implored him to be gracious to them and to be an enemy to their enemies and an adversary to their adversaries, as the law shows plainly. ²⁷And rising from their prayer, they took up their arms and advanced a considerable distance from the city, and when they came near the enemy, they halted. ²⁸Just as morning was breaking both attacked, the one having as pledge of success and victory not only their valor but also their recourse to the Lord, while the other made rage their leader in the fight.

29 When the battle became fierce, there appeared to the enemy from heaven five illustrious men on horses with golden bridles, and they were leading the Judeans. ³⁰Two of them took Makkabaios between them, and shielding him with their own suits of armor and weapons, they kept him unharmed. They showered arrows and thunderbolts on the enemy so that, confounded by blindness, they fled in complete disorder. ³¹Twenty thousand five hundred were slaughtered, besides six hundred cavalry.

32 Timothy himself fled to a stronghold called Gazara, especially well garrisoned, where Chaereas was commander. ³³Then Makkabaios and his men were glad, and they besieged the fort for four days. ³⁴The men within, relying on the strength of the place, kept blaspheming terribly and uttering wicked words. ³⁵But at dawn of the fifth day, twenty young men of those who were with Makkabaios, fired with anger because of the blasphemies, bravely stormed the wall and with savage fury cut down everyone they met. ³⁶Others who came up in the same way wheeled around against the defenders and set fire to the towers; they kindled fires and burned the blasphemers alive. Others broke open the gates and let in the rest of the force, and they captured the city. ³⁷They killed Timothy, who was hiding in a cistern, and his brother Chaereas and Apollophanes. ³⁸When they had accomplished these things, with hymns and thanksgivings they blessed the Lord who shows great kindness to Israel and gives them the victory.

11 Very soon after this, Lysias, the king's guardian and kinsman, who was in charge of the government, being vexed at what had happened, ²gathered about eighty thousand infantry and all his cavalry and came against the Judeans. He intended to make the city a home for Greeks ³and to levy tribute on the temple as he did on the other sacred precincts of the nations and to put up the high priesthood for sale every year. ⁴He took no account whatever of the power of God but was elated with his ten thousands of infantry and his thousands of cavalry and his eighty elephants. ⁵Invading Judea, he approached Baithsoura, which was a fortified place about five stadia^a from Hierosolyma, and pressed it hard.

6 When Makkabaios and his men heard that he was besieging the strongholds, they prayed to the Lord, together with the masses, with lamentations and tears, to send a good angel to save Israel. ⁷Makkabaios himself was the first to take up arms, and he urged the others to run the risk, together with him, of aiding their brothers. Then they eagerly rushed off together. ⁸And there, while they were near Hierosolyma, a horseman appeared as their leader, in a white garment, brandishing weapons of gold. ⁹Together they all praised the merciful God and were strengthened in spirit, ready to assail not only humans but also the wildest animals or walls of iron. ¹⁰They advanced in battle order, having their heavenly ally, for the Lord had mercy on them. ¹¹They hurled themselves like lions against the enemy and laid low eleven thousand of them and sixteen hundred cavalry and forced all the rest to flee. ¹²Most of them were preserved wounded and naked, and Lysias himself escaped by disgraceful flight.

^aGk 1 stadion = 200 meters

¹³ As he was not without intelligence, he pondered over the defeat that had befallen him and realized that the Hebrews were invincible, because the mighty God fought on their side. So he sent to them ¹⁴and persuaded them to agree to all just conditions, since he would persuade the king, constraining him to be their friend. ¹⁵Makkabaios, having regard for the common good, agreed to all that Lysias urged. For the king granted every request which Makkabaios delivered to Lysias in writing concerning the Judeans.

¹⁶ The letters written to the Judeans by Lysias were to this effect:

"Lysias to the multitude of the Judeans, greetings. ¹⁷Ioannes and Abessalom, who were sent by you, have delivered your petition copied below and have implored about the matters indicated in it. ¹⁸I have informed the king of everything that needed to be brought before him, and he has agreed to what was possible. ¹⁹If you will maintain your goodwill toward the government, I will endeavour in the future to help promote your welfare. ²⁰And concerning details, I have commanded these men and my members of staff to confer with you. ²¹Farewell. The one hundred forty-eighth year, Dioscorinthius twenty-fourth."

²² The king's letter ran thus:

"King Antiochus to his brother Lysias, greetings. ²³Now that our father has gone on to the gods, we, desiring that the subjects of the kingdom be undisturbed in caring for their own affairs, ²⁴hearing that the Judeans do not consent to our father's change to Greek customs but prefer their own way of living and implore that their own precepts be allowed them, ²⁵thus choosing that this nation also should be free from disturbance, judge that their temple be restored to them and that they shall live according to the customs of their ancestors. ²⁶You will do well, therefore, to send word to them and give them pledges of friendship so that they may know our policy and be of good cheer and turn happily to the conduct of their own affairs."

²⁷ To the nation the king's letter was as follows:

"King Antiochus to the senate of the Judeans and to the other Judeans, greetings. ²⁸If you are well, it is as we desire. We also are in good health. ²⁹Menelaus has informed us that you wish to return and look after your own affairs. ³⁰Therefore those who go home by the thirtieth of Xanthikos will have our pledge of friendship and safe conduct ³¹for the Judeans to enjoy their own way of living and laws, just as formerly, and none of them shall be molested in any way for errors made through ignorance. ³²And I have also sent Menelaus to encourage you. ³³Farewell. The one hundred forty-eighth year, Xanthikos fifteenth."

³⁴ The Romans also sent them a letter, which read thus:

"Quintus Memmius, Titus Manius, envoys of the Romans, to the people of the Judeans, greetings. ³⁵With regard to what Lysias the Kinsman of the king has granted you, we also give consent. ³⁶But as to the matters that he decided are to be referred to the king: Having considered them, send someone immediately so that we can outline how it would be appropriate for you, since we are on our way to Antioch. ³⁷Therefore make haste and send messengers so that we, too, may get to know what your viewpoint is. ³⁸Farewell. The one hundred forty-eighth year, Xanthikos fifteenth."

12 When these agreements had been reached, Lysias departed on his way to the king, and the Judeans went about their farming.

² But some of the local governors, Timothy and Apollonius son of Gennaïos, as well as Hieronymos and Demophon, and in addition to these Nikanor the governor of Cyprus, would not let them live quietly and in peace. ³And the Joppites did so ungodly a deed as this: they invited the Judeans who lived among them to embark, with their wives and children, on boats that they had provided, as though there were no ill will towards them, ⁴and this was done by public vote of the city. When they accepted, because they wished to live peaceably and suspected nothing, they drowned them as soon as they had gone out to sea, at least two hundred. ⁵When Ioudas heard of the abomination inflicted on his compatriots, he gave orders to his men ⁶and, calling upon God the righteous judge, attacked the murderers of his kindred. He set fire to the harbor by night, burned the boats and massacred those who had taken refuge there. ⁷Then, because the town was shut in its walls, he withdrew, intending to come again and root out the whole community of the Joppites. ⁸But learning that the people in Jamnia, too, meant in the same way to wipe out the Judeans who were living among them, ⁹he attacked the Jamnites by night and set fire to the harbor and the fleet so that the gleam of the light was seen in Hierosolyma, two hundred and forty stadia^a distant.

¹⁰ When they had gone nine stadia^a from there, on their march against Timothy, Arabs attacked him, no fewer than five thousand with five hundred cavalry. ¹¹After a hard fight, Ioudas' men, with God's help, were successful, and the nomads, being defeated, implored Ioudas to grant them pledges of friendship, promising to give Ioudas and his men sheep and cattle and to help them in other ways. ¹²Ioudas, realizing that they might indeed be useful in many ways, agreed to make peace with them, and after receiving his pledges, they went back to their tents.

¹³ He also attacked a certain town that was strongly fortified with earthen ramparts^b and enclosed by walls and inhabited by all sorts of nations. Its name was Kaspin. ¹⁴Those who were within, relying on the strength of the walls and on their supply of provisions, behaved most insolent-

^aGk 1 stadion. = 200 meters ^bGk uncertain = Ha

ly toward Ioudas' men, railing at them and even blaspheming and saying what is not lawful. ¹⁵But Ioudas' men, invoking the great Sovereign of the world, who without battering-rams or engines of war overthrew Iericho in the days of Iesous, rushed upon the walls like wild animals and ¹⁶took the town by the will of God and committed innumerable slaughters so that the adjoining lake, two stadia^a wide, appeared to be irrigated and filled up with blood.

¹⁷ When they had gone seven hundred and fifty stadia^a from there, they came to ^bthe fortification^b, to the Judeans who are called Toubiaeni. ¹⁸They did not find Timothy in that region, however, for he had by then left the region without accomplishing anything, but a garrison, exceedingly strong, left behind by him in one place. ¹⁹Dositheos and Sosipatros, from among the leaders who were with Makkabaios, marched out and destroyed those who had been left behind by Timothy in the stronghold, more than ten thousand men. ²⁰But Makkabaios arranged the army that was with him in cohorts and set men in command of the divisions and hurried after Timothy, who had with him one hundred twenty thousand infantry and two thousand five hundred cavalry. ²¹When he learned of the approach of Ioudas, Timothy sent off the women and the children and also the other members of the household to a place called Karnion, for that place was hard to besiege and difficult of access because of the narrowness of all the approaches. ²²But when Ioudas' first division appeared and terror and fear came over the enemies at the manifestation to them of him who sees all things, in their flight they rushed headlong in every direction so that often they were injured by their own men and pierced by the points of their own rapiers. ²³Ioudas pressed the pursuit with the utmost vigor, putting the sinners to the sword, and destroyed as many as thirty thousand.

²⁴ Timothy himself fell into the hands of Dositheos and Sosipatros and their men and with great guile he implored them to let him go in safety, because he held the parents of most of them and the brothers of some to whom no consideration would otherwise be shown. ²⁵And when with many words he had confirmed his solemn promise to restore them unharmed, they let him go, for the sake of saving their kindred.

²⁶ Then Ioudas marched against Karnion and the temple of Atargatis and slaughtered twenty-five thousand people. ²⁷After the rout and destruction of these, he marched also against Ephron, a fortified town where multitudes of people of all nationalities lived^c. Stalwart young men took their stand before the walls and made a vigorous defence, and great stores of war engines and missiles were there. ²⁸But the Judeans called upon the Sovereign, who with power shatters the might of his enemies, and they got the town into their hands and killed as many as twenty-five thousand of those who were in it.

²⁹ Setting out from there, they hastened to Scythopolis, which is six hundred stadia^a from Hierosolyma. ³⁰But when the Judeans who lived there bore witness to the goodwill that the people of Scythopolis had towards them and their courtesy towards them in times of misfortune, ³¹they thanked them and exhorted them to be well disposed to their race in the future also and went up to Hierosolyma, as the feast of weeks was close at hand.

³² After the feast called Pentecost, they hurried against Gorgias, the governor of Idumea. ³³He came out with three thousand infantry and four hundred cavalry. ³⁴^dWhen they joined battle^d, ^eit happened^e that a few of the Judeans fell. ³⁵But a certain Dositheos, one of Bakenor's men, who was on horseback and was a strong man, caught hold of Gorgias and, grasping his cloak, was dragging him off mightily. And while he wanted to take the accursed alive, one of the Thracian cavalry bore down on him and broke his shoulder, and Gorgias escaped to Marisa.

³⁶ As Esdris and his men had been fighting for a long time and were weary, Ioudas called upon the Lord to show himself their ally and leader in the battle. ³⁷In their ancestral language he raised the battle cry with hymns; then he charged against Gorgias' troops when they were not expecting it and put them to flight.

³⁸ Then Ioudas assembled his army and went to the city of Odollam. As the seventh day was coming on, they purified themselves according to the custom and kept the sabbath there.

³⁹ On the next day, when the need for it had arisen, Ioudas' men went to recover the bodies of those fallen earlier and to bring them back to lie with their kindred in their ancestral sepulchres. ⁴⁰Then under the tunic of each one of the dead they found sacred tokens of the idols of Jamnia, which the law forbids the Judeans to wear. And it became clear to all that this was the reason these men had fallen. ⁴¹So they all blessed the ways of the Lord, the righteous judge, who makes visible the things that are hidden, ⁴²and they turned to supplication, imploring that the sin that had been committed might be wholly blotted out. The noble Ioudas exhorted the people to keep themselves free from sin, for they had seen with their own eyes what had happened as the result of the sin of those who had fallen. ⁴³He also took up a collection, man by man, to the amount of two thousand drachmas of silver, and sent it to Hierosolyma to provide for a sin offering. In doing this he acted very well and honorably, taking account of the resurrection. ⁴⁴For if he were not expecting that those who had fallen would rise again, it would have been superfluous and foolish to pray for the dead. ⁴⁵But if he was looking to the splendid reward that is laid up for those who fall asleep in godliness, it was a holy and pious thought. Therefore he made atonement for the dead so that they might be delivered from their sin.

^aGk 1 stadion = 200 meters ^bOr Charax ^cin it = Ha ^{d/e}Tr = Ha

13 In the one hundred forty-ninth year word came to Ioudas and his men that Antiochus Eupator was coming with great numbers of soldiers against Judea, ²and with him Lysias, the guardian and chancellor, also^a a Greek force of one hundred ten thousand infantry, five thousand three hundred cavalry, twenty-two elephants and three hundred chariots bearing scythes.

³ Menelaus also joined them and with much hypocrisy urged Antiochus on, not to save the fatherland but because he thought that he would be established in government. ⁴But the King of kings aroused the anger of Antiochus against the sinner, and when Lysias informed him that this man was the originator of all the trouble, he ordered them to take him to Beroea and to put him to death by the method that is customary in that place. ⁵For there is a tower there, fifty cubits high, full of ashes, and it has a rim running around it that on all sides inclines precipitously into the ashes. ⁶There they all push to destruction anyone who is guilty of temple robbery or has committed an excess of other evils. ⁷By such a fate it came about that Menelaus the lawbreaker died without even burial in the earth, ⁸and this was eminently just; because he had committed many sins against the altar^b whose fire and ashes were holy, he met his death in ashes.

⁹ The king, who had become barbarous in his thinking, was coming to show the Judeans the worst things amongst those that had happened in his father's time. ¹⁰But when Ioudas heard of this, he ordered the crowd to call upon the Lord day and night, now if ever to help those who were on the point of being deprived of the law and their country and the holy temple ¹¹and not to allow the people who had just begun to revive a little to fall into the hands of the blasphemous nations. ¹²When they had all joined in the same petition and had implored the merciful Lord with weeping and fasting and lying prostrate for three days without ceasing, Ioudas exhorted them and ordered them to stand ready.

¹³ After consulting privately with the elders, he determined to march out and decide the matter by the help of God before the king's army could enter Judea and get possession of the city. ¹⁴So, committing the decision to the Creator of the world and exhorting those with him to fight bravely to the death for the laws, temple, city, fatherland and constitution, he pitched his camp near Modein. ¹⁵He gave his troops the watchword, "Divine Victory," and with those young men judged best, he attacked the king's pavilion at night and killed close to two thousand men in the camp and stabbed the lead elephant and its rider to death. ¹⁶In the end they filled the camp with terror and confusion and withdrew in triumph. ¹⁷This happened just as day was dawning, because the Lord's shelter helped him.

¹⁸ The king, having had a taste of the daring of the Judeans, made an attempt on their positions through tricks. ¹⁹He advanced against Baithsoura,

was turned back, attacked again, was defeated. ²⁰Ioudas kept sending in to those inside whatever was necessary. ²¹But Rhodokos, a man from the ranks of the Judeans, gave secret information to the enemy; he was sought for and caught and put in prison. ²²The king negotiated a second time with the people in Baithsoura, gave pledges, received theirs, withdrew, attacked Ioudas and his men, was defeated; ²³he got word that Philip, who had been left in charge of the government in Antioch, had revolted; he was perturbed, called in the Judeans, yielded and swore to observe all their rights, settled with them and offered sacrifice, honored the shrine and showed generosity to the place. ²⁴He received Makkabaïos, left Hegemonides as governor from Ptolemais to Gerar ²⁵and went to Ptolemais. The people of Ptolemais were indignant over the treaties. In fact, they were so furious that they wanted to annul their terms. ²⁶Lysias took the rostrum, made the defence to the best of his ability, convinced them, appeased them, gained their goodwill and set out for Antioch. This is how the king's attack and withdrawal turned out.

14 Three years later, word came to Ioudas and his men that Demetrius son of Seleucus had sailed into the harbour of Tripolis with a strong army and a fleet ²and had taken possession of the country, having made away with Antiochus and his guardian Lysias.

³ Now a certain Alcimus, who had formerly been high priest but had willfully defiled himself in the times of separation, realized that there was no way for him to be safe or to have access again to the holy altar ⁴and went to King Demetrius in about the one hundred fifty-first year, presenting to him a crown of gold and a palm and, besides these, some of the customary olive branches from the temple. During that day he kept quiet, ⁵but he seized the right moment for his own folly when he was invited by Demetrius to a meeting of the council and was asked in what condition and counsel the Judeans were he replied to this:

⁶ "Those of the Judeans who are called Hasideans, whose leader is Ioudas Makkabaïos, are keeping up war and stirring up sedition and will not let the kingdom attain stability. ⁷Therefore I have been deprived of my ancestral glory—I mean the high priesthood—and have now come here, ⁸first because I am genuinely concerned for the interests of the king, second because I have regard also for my compatriots. For through the folly of those whom I have mentioned earlier our whole people are now in no small misfortune.

⁹ "Since you are acquainted, O king, with the details of this matter, may it please you to take thought for our country and our hard-pressed people as is commensurate with the affable kindness that you show to all. ¹⁰For as long as Ioudas lives, it is impossible for the government to find peace." ¹¹When he had said this, the rest of the king's

Friends, who were hostile to Ioudas, quickly inflamed Demetrius still more. ¹²He immediately chose Nikanor, who was the elephantarch, appointed him governor of Judea and sent him off ¹³with commands^a to do away with Ioudas, to scatter those with him, yet to install Alcimus as high priest of the greatest temple. ¹⁴And the nations throughout Judea, who had fled before Ioudas, met Nikanor in flocks, thinking that the misfortunes and calamities of the Judeans would mean prosperity for themselves.

¹⁵ When the Judeans heard of Nikanor's coming and the gathering of the nations, they sprinkled dust on their heads and prayed to him who established his own people forever and always upholds his own heritage by manifesting himself. ¹⁶At the leader's order, they set out from there immediately and met them at a village called Dessau. ¹⁷Simon the brother of Ioudas had encountered Nikanor but had temporarily stumbled because of the sudden perplexity caused by the adversaries.

¹⁸ Nevertheless Nikanor, hearing of the valor of Ioudas and his troops and their courage in battle for their country, shrank from deciding the issue by bloodshed. ¹⁹Therefore he sent Posidonius, Theodotus and Mattathias to give and receive pledges of friendship. ²⁰When they had been fully considered and the leader had informed the multitude and it had appeared that they were of one mind, they consented to the treaties. ²¹They set a day on which everyone was supposed to come to the same place by himself, and a chariot came forward from each side, and they set up seats of honor; ²²Ioudas posted armed men in readiness at key places to prevent sudden treachery on the part of the enemy; so they duly held the consultation.

²³ Nikanor stayed on in Hierosolyma and did nothing out of the way but dismissed the flocks of people that had gathered. ²⁴And he kept Ioudas always in his presence; he was cordially attached to the man. ²⁵He urged him to marry and have children; so Ioudas married, settled down, shared the common life.

²⁶ But when Alcimus noticed their goodwill for one another, he took the treaties that had been made, went to Demetrius and told him that Nikanor was disloyal to the government, since he had appointed that conspirator against his kingdom, Ioudas, to be his successor. ²⁷The king became enraged and, provoked by the false accusations of that thoroughly depraved man, wrote to Nikanor, asserting that he was displeased with the treaties and commanding him to send Makkabaios to Antioch as a prisoner without delay.

²⁸ When the news came to Nikanor, he was confounded and grieved that he had to annul the agreements when the man had done no wrong. ²⁹Since it was not possible to oppose the king, he watched for a good opportunity to accomplish this by a stratagem. ³⁰But Makkabaios, noticing that Nikanor was more austere in his dealings with him and conducted the customary meeting more rudely, concluded that this austerity did not spring from the best motives, gathered not a few of his men and went into hiding from Nikanor. ³¹When the latter became aware that he had been cleverly outmaneuvered by the man, he went to the great and holy temple while the priests were offering the customary sacrifices and commanded them to hand the man over. ³²When they declared on oath that they did not know where the man was whom he wanted, ³³he stretched out his right hand toward the shrine and swore this oath: "If you do not hand Ioudas over to me as a prisoner, I will level this precinct of God to the ground and tear down the altar and build here a notable temple to Dionysus."

³⁴ Having said this, he went away, but the priests stretched out their hands toward heaven and called upon the constant Defender of our nation, in these words: ³⁵"O Lord of all, though you have need of nothing, you were pleased that there should be a shrine for your encamping among us; ³⁶so now, O holy One, Lord of all sanctification, keep undefiled forever this house that has been so recently purified."

³⁷ A certain Razis, one of the elders of Hierosolyma, was denounced to Nikanor as a man who loved his compatriots and was very well thought of and for his goodwill was called father of the Judeans. ³⁸In former times, when there was no mingling with the nations, he had been accused of Judaism, and he had risked body and life for Judaism with all possible zeal. ³⁹Nikanor, wishing to exhibit the enmity that he had for the Judeans, sent more than five hundred soldiers to arrest him, ⁴⁰for he thought that by arresting him he would do them an injury. ⁴¹When the hordes were about to capture the tower and were forcing the door of the courtyard, they ordered that fire be brought and the doors burned. Being surrounded, he fell upon his own rapier, ⁴²preferring to die nobly rather than to fall into the hands of sinners and suffer outrages unworthy of his noble birth. ⁴³But in the heat of the struggle he did not hit exactly, and while the masses were now rushing in through the doorways, he courageously ran up on the wall, and in a manly manner, threw himself down into the masses. ⁴⁴But as they quickly drew back, a space opened and he fell in the middle of the empty space. ⁴⁵Still alive and aflame with anger, he rose, and though his blood gushed forth and his wounds were severe, he ran through the crowd, and standing upon a steep rock ⁴⁶with his blood already completely drained from him, he tore out his entrails, took them in both hands and hurled them at the crowd, calling upon the Lord of life and spirit to give them back to him again. This was the manner of his death.

15 When Nikanor heard that Ioudas and his troops were in the region of Samaria, he made plans to attack them with complete safety on the day of rest. ²When the Judeans who were compelled to follow him said, "By no means destroy so savagely and barbarously but show respect for the day that has been pre-eminently honored with holiness by him who sees all things,"³ the thrice-acursed wretch asked if there were a sovereign in heaven who had ordered the keeping of the sabbath day.⁴ When they declared, "It is the living Lord himself, the Sovereign in heaven, who ordered us to observe the seventh day,"⁵ the other one said, "But I am a sovereign also, on earth, and I order you to take up arms and finish the king's business." Nevertheless, he did not succeed in carrying out his abominable design.

^aletters = Ha

6 This Nikanor, showing off with all his boastfulness, had determined to erect a public monument of victory over Ioudas and his forces.⁷ But Makkabaios did not cease to trust with all confidence that he would get help from the Lord.⁸ He exhorted those with him not to fear the approach of the nations but to keep in mind the former times when help had come to them from heaven and so to look for the victory that the Almighty would give them.⁹ Encouraging them from the law and the prophets and reminding them also of the struggles they had accomplished, he made them the more eager.¹⁰ When he had aroused their courage, he issued orders, at the same time pointing out the perfidy of the nations and their violation of oaths.¹¹ He armed each of them not so much with confidence in shields and spears as with the encouragement of good words, and he cheered them all by relating a dream, a sort of vision, which was worthy of belief.

12 What he saw was this: Onias, who had been high priest, a beautiful and good man, of modest bearing and gentle manner, one who was well-spoken and had been trained from childhood in all that belongs to excellence, was praying with outstretched hands for the whole community of the Judeans.¹³ Then in the same fashion another appeared, distinguished by his grey hair and appearance, and of marvelous and most glorious dignity.¹⁴ And Onias spoke, saying, "This man is the one who loves his brothers, who prays much for the people and the holy city—Ieremias, the prophet of God."¹⁵ Ieremias stretched out his right hand and gave to Ioudas a golden sword, and as he gave it he addressed him as follows:¹⁶ "Take the holy sword as a gift from God with which you will strike down your adversaries."

17 Encouraged by the words of Ioudas, so noble and so effective in arousing valor and awaking courage in the souls of the young, they determined not to encamp^a but to attack bravely and to decide the matter by fighting hand to hand with all courage, because the city and the holy things and the temple were in danger.¹⁸ Their concern for wives and children and also for brothers and relatives lay upon them less heavily; their greatest and first fear was for the consecrated shrine.¹⁹ And those who were left behind in the city were in no small anxiety, being troubled over the attack in the open country.

20 When all were already looking forward to the imminent confrontation and the enemy was already coming near with the army drawn up in battle-order, the animals strategically stationed and the cavalry deployed on the flanks,²¹ Makkabaios, observing the masses present and the varied supply of arms and the savagery of the elephants, stretched out his hands toward heaven and called upon the Lord who works wonders because he knew that it is not by arms, but as it seems good to God that he procures victory for those who are worthy.²² He called upon him in this manner: "O Master, you sent your angel in the time of King Hezekias of Judea, and he killed fully one hundred eighty-five thousand in the camp of Sennachereim."²³ So now, O Sovereign of the heavens, send a good angel before us to inspire terror and trembling.²⁴ By the might of your arm may those who come with blasphemy against your holy people be struck down." With these words he ended.

25 Nikanor and his troops advanced with trumpets and battle cries,²⁶ but Ioudas and his troops met the enemy with invocation and prayers.²⁷ So, fighting with their hands and praying to God in their hearts, they laid low no less than thirty-five thousand and were greatly gladdened by God's manifestation.

28 When the action was over and they were leaving with joy, they recognized Nikanor, lying dead, in full armor.²⁹ Then there was shouting and tumult, and they blessed the Sovereign in the language of the fathers.³⁰ Then the man who was ever in body and soul the defender of his people, the man who maintained his youthful goodwill toward his compatriots, ordered them to cut off Nikanor's head and his hand with his shoulder and carry them to Hierosolyima.³¹ When he arrived there and had called his compatriots together and stationed the priests before the altar, he sent for those who were in the citadel.³² He showed them the vile Nikanor's head and that profane man's arm, which he had boastfully stretched out against the holy house of the Almighty³³ and, cutting out the tongue of the ungodly Nikanor, commanded it to be fed piecemeal to the birds and the rewards of his folly to be hung opposite the shrine.³⁴ And they all offered praise to heaven, blessed the manifest Lord, saying, "Blessed is he who has kept his own place undefiled!"³⁵ Ioudas fastened Nikanor's head to the citadel, visible to all and an obvious sign of the help of the Lord.³⁶ And they all decreed by public vote never to let this day go unobserved but to have the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is called Adar in the Syrian language, marked, the day before Mardochoaios' day.

37 This is how it went with Nikanor, and from that time the city has been ruled by the Hebrews. So I myself will here bring my story to a halt.

38 If it is well written and elegantly dispositioned, that is what I myself desired; if it is poorly done and mediocre, that was all I could manage.³⁹ For just as it is harmful to drink wine alone or, again, to drink water alone, while wine mixed with water produces a delightful taste, so also the style of the story delights the ears of those who read the composition. And here will be the end.

^aadvance = Ha

3 MAKKABEES

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

NETS has justly been described as the Göttingen Septuagint in English form, for this is true in two senses. Just as the Göttingen editor aims to recover the earliest form of the Greek through text critical means, NETS set itself the task of producing a translation of the text as it left the hands of its respective translator or author. Each book in the corpus is therefore based on the best available critical edition, which invariably means the Göttingen edition, where one is available. We may thus speak of an English Göttingen in this more literal sense as well.

For this translation, I have adhered as a rule to the fine edition of Robert Hanhart, Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Göttingensis editum IX.3: Maccabaeorum liber III (Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1980), departing only twice. The text of 3 Makkabees is on the whole well preserved and presents few serious difficulties. Of the great uncials, it occurs only in Alexandrinus, but critical leverage is forthcoming from Codex Venetus and numerous cursive manuscripts of the Septuagint. Within the manuscript tradition there are significant variants but no major divergences. The book is extant in a Syriac and Armenian version, though it does not appear in the Vulgate. There are no references to 3 Makkabees in the extant Jewish sources, and what few quotations of the book that come down to us from antiquity are to be found almost exclusively in Christian writers of the East.

Both of my departures from Hanhart's edition derive from the so-called Lucianic text, which, admittedly, is somewhat less than reliable. The first is due primarily to literary considerations. Quite simply, I elected to restore 2.1 to the text, which ascribes to the high priest Simon the prayer before the temple in Jerusalem (2.2–20), notwithstanding the fact that from a text critical perspective the verse is most readily explained as an addition. For while present in the Lucianic text, it is absent in both Alexandrinus and Venetus, and there is no obvious parablepsis to account for the omission (although with this amount of text the problem might have had more to do with the location of the verse on the page). On the other hand, 2.1 is hardly incidental to the scene. Without it, a lengthy and significant act of petitionary prayer must be attributed to a turbulent crowd, whose swelling cry is at once "painful and incessant" (1.28). This, to my knowledge, is without precedent. Rather the scene demands that a representative figure step forward and address God on behalf of the people in their hour of need. Such is the case at 3 Makkabees 6.1, where Eleazaros, "a man well known among the priests of the country," prays for those gathered at the hippodrome as they face the elephants (6.2–15). The strong parallel drawn by the author between these two moments of national crisis and deliverance is fundamental to the dramatic structure of 3 Makkabees. So on literary grounds, there is considerable justification for including the reference to Simon at 2.1, his act of priestly intercession at the temple anticipating that of Eleazaros at the hippodrome. Yet, as I have indicated, the textual evidence would suggest that the verse is secondary. For this reason I decided to enclose 2.1 in square brackets, thereby indicating its questionable originality.

A rather different sort of problem arises at 5.31, where, in reference to the families of the king's "Friends" (i.e., his peers), the Lucianic text has Ptolemy say, ἐσκεύασα ἂν δαψιλῆ θοῖναν, "this abundant feast would I have prepared (for wild beasts)," over against Alexandrinus and Venetus, which read, ἐσκεύασαν δαψιλῆ θοῖναν, "this abundant feast would they have prepared (for wild beasts)." Hanhart follows the reading of the uncials, but in this instance it is the Lucianic text that likely attests to the original form of the Greek. For, whereas on Hanhart's reading it remains entirely unclear just what it was they would have prepared for the beasts (since there is no content for the θοῖναν or "feast"), the Lucianic text makes ready sense. Ptolemy is saying he would that he had prepared them (i.e., rather than the Jews) as a feast for wild beasts. It is also worth noting that the text forms an iambic line and is likely to be a poetic tag, a feature that is hardly secondary. Conversely, we would not expect the author of 3 Makkabees to have produced an incoherent text. The difference between the two readings, moreover, need be nothing more than a case of haplography or dittography. I thus follow both Emmett and Hadas in translating the Lucianic reading.

PROFILE OF THE GREEK

It is customary within an introduction to 3 Makkabees to decry the author's prose style or want thereof. I shall not entirely disappoint. At the same time, approbation must be given where it is due. The work was composed in Greek by a Jewish author steeped in his native tradition, yet one who had attained a high level of Greek literary education and who was undoubtedly a more than competent exponent of the classicizing style, which came into vogue in the late Hellenistic period. He draws upon a sizeable vocabulary, pressing into service rare and poetic words with great élan. He possesses a developed rhetorical skill. The texture and tone of his language very often suits the theme. But to a modern reader, at least, the result is hardly gratifying. The prose seems almost perversely bombastic at times, and while it must be conceded that it is no more so than that of others who indulged in the classicizing style, the fact remains that our author's efforts are somewhat labored. Or so it appears to this reader. How it was received by his intended audience is difficult to gauge, though I suspect they too found it florid.

As I have indicated, 3 Makkabees is clearly rooted in the Hebrew literary tradition, no doubt mediated to the author through its Greek translation. The two extended petitionary prayers of Simon (2.2–20) and Eleazaros (6.2–15) both echo the characteristic phrasing of Jewish scriptural translation. For the intended audience of 3 Makkabees, this would have marked the Greek of these prayers as a sacral language befitting the priestly role of the speakers. Such a technique underscores the literary competence of the author.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF 3 MAKKABEES

NETS has two competing objectives: firstly, to give as faithful a translation of the Greek as is possible, not only in terms of its meaning, but in terms of its mode of expression as well; secondly, to create a tool in English for the synoptic study of the Hebrew and Greek texts of the Bible. The overall aim of the translation is to capture the constitutive character of the Greek text, the incipit of its reception history, as it were. This aim is neatly realized in the so-called interlinear paradigm, which conceptualizes the relationship between the Greek text and its parent as an essentially formal one. On the assumption of interlinearity, the NETS translator attempts to capture in English the formal linguistic relationship that typically obtains between the Septuagint and its Hebrew parent. This is achieved through the use of the NRSV as a base text.

Obviously, since 3 Makkabees is an original composition, the interlinear paradigm is not applicable here. Hence my translation does not use the NRSV as a base text. Yet the broader aim of NETS, that of representing the Greek in terms of its constitutive manner of expression, is one to which I have closely adhered. Every effort has been made to reflect the linguistic features of the Greek. While it is difficult to know what a contemporary reader would have made of our author's style, we can be confident that the effect was undoubtedly less than felicitous in places, and this have I attempted to carry over into the English. Where the Greek seems repetitious and awkwardly constructed, where it is overwrought and florid, where the author's penchant for rare words and overwrought periods results in obscurity, this has not been smoothed over. Conversely, elegant turns of phrase and persuasive rhetorical figures, where they occur, are given their full due.

The target audience of NETS is biblically well-educated, on the assumption that such readers will have an interest in traditions other than their own. Some may even have studied the biblical languages at one point or another. With this in mind, the present translation is also intended to be of use to those who are working through the Greek text and require a companion. I have endeavored throughout to reflect the grammatical structure of the Greek to the extent that this is possible without doing violence to the English. Hence the translation is more literal than it would be if it were aimed at a popular audience. Yet this feature may prove appealing to those with no Greek at all, as it captures a little of the strangeness of a text written in accordance with literary sensibilities so very different from our own.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Translation is not undertaken in a vacuum but in conversation with other readers. While my aim has been to provide a fresh translation of the Greek based squarely on the principles of NETS, I have by no means ignored the work of earlier translators. For 3 Makkabees, I have learned much from the judicious M. Hadas, The Third and Fourth Books of Maccabees (Dropsie College Edition, Jewish Apocryphal Literature; New York: Ktav Publishing House, 1976 [1953]). And, like Hadas before me, I have benefited from C. W. Emmet's translation, in Charles, 115ff, published separately as The Third Book of Maccabees (Translations of Early Documents, Series II, Hellenistic-Jewish Texts; London: SPCK, 1918). My greatest debt of gratitude, however, is to Professor Albert Pietersma, my Doktor Vater and dear friend, who first introduced me to 3 Makkabees and has since proven my most trusted guide through the adventure of translating this fascinating text.

CAMERON BOYD-TAYLOR

1 Now when Philopator learned from those who had escaped that the region under his control had been taken by Antiochus, he mobilized all his forces, both infantry and cavalry, and taking along his sister Arsinoe, he set out as far as the region near Raphia, where Antiochus and his cohort were encamped. ²But a certain Theodotus, intent on carrying out the plot, took along the best of the Ptolemaic soldiers^a previously assigned to him and crossed over to Ptolemy's tent by night in order to kill him single-handed and in this way put an end to the war. ³But Ptolemy was taken out of harm's way by Dositheus, called the son of Drimylus, a Judean by race who later changed his customs and became estranged from his ancestral beliefs. He made some insignificant person lie in the tent, who, as it happened, received Ptolemy's punishment. ⁴A fierce battle ensued and things began to fare considerably better for Antiochus, at which point Arsinoe let down her hair and began passing through the ranks, exhorting them with wailing and tears to come to the aid of both themselves, their children and their wives, boldly promising to give each of them two minas^b of gold should they be victorious. ⁵So it turned out that their adversaries were decimated in close combat, and many captives were taken also. ⁶Having prevailed against the plot, Ptolemy decided to go the round of the nearby cities and boost their morale. ⁷By doing this, and by distributing gifts to their sacred precincts, he restored the confidence of his subjects.

⁸ As the Judeans had sent ahead members of their senate and elders to greet Ptolemy, to convey presents and to congratulate him on the turn of events, it turned out that he was all the more desirous of visiting them as soon as possible. ⁹When he arrived in Hierosolyma, he sacrificed to the supreme God, bestowed favors and performed what was befitting that place. Directly upon entering the place he was struck by its beauty and excellence. ¹⁰Admiring also the good order of the temple, he set his heart on entering the shrine. ¹¹He was told, however, that this would not be appropriate, since not even members of their own nation were permitted to enter, not even the priests, but only the high priest, the leader of all, and he but once a year. Nevertheless, he was not to be persuaded. ¹²The law was read publicly, but not even then did he leave off insisting that he should enter, saying, "Even if those others are deprived of this honor, there is no need for me to be." ¹³He then inquired as to why it was that when he entered every other sacred precinct no one present had hindered him, ¹⁴whereupon someone rashly declared that it was wrong to place any significance in that. ¹⁵"But this being the case," said he, "why shouldn't I enter either way, whether they want me to or not?"

¹⁶ At that the priests in all their vestments fell prostrate and began imploring the supreme God to come to their aid in the present circumstances and divert the mad impulse of one so wickedly bent on seeing it through. As they filled the temple with a cry and with their tears, ¹⁷those remaining in the city leapt up in a panic, uncertain as to what had happened. ¹⁸Cloistered virgins in their chambers rushed out with their mothers, sprinkled their hair with ashes and began filling the streets with weeping and groaning. ¹⁹Others who had just now dressed for their weddings abandoned the chambers appointed for the occasion, as well as the appropriate modesty, and made a mad dash through the city. ²⁰Newborn children were left here and there by their mothers and nurses, some at home, some in the streets, as the women began crowding together blindly in the all-surpassing temple.

²¹ Many and varied were the petitions of those who had gathered there over what was wickedly being plotted by Ptolemy. ²²Together with these people were the bolder of the citizens, those who were by no means content to see the king pressing his advantage and intent on carrying out his stated purpose. ²³Their cry to rush to arms and to die boldly on behalf of the ancestral law caused absolute turmoil in the place, and it was with some difficulty that they were turned back by the council and elders and assumed the same posture of supplication as the others. ²⁴The crowd, however, continued praying as before. ²⁵Meanwhile, the elders who were with the king persisted in their attempts to divert his arrogant mind from the plan he had conceived. ²⁶But he grew bold and dismissive and even now began making his approach, thinking to bring to a conclusion what he had foresworn to do. ²⁷When those around him saw these things, they joined together with us in calling upon the one possessing all might to come to our aid at this time and not to overlook such a lawless and arrogant act. ²⁸Beyond telling was the sound of the crowd's swelling cry, at once painful and incessant; ²⁹for it seemed that not only the people, but even the walls and the entire edifice rang out, inasmuch as everyone would have given their lives then and there rather than see the place profaned.

2 ^d[So then Simon the high priest, facing the shrine, bent his knee, calmly stretched out his hands and formulated a petition such as this,]^d

2 "Lord, Lord, king of the heavens and sovereign of all creation, holy among the holy ones, sole ruler, almighty, hearken unto us, who are being oppressed by a vile and unholy man, grown insolent with presumption and power. ³For you, the creator of all things and the governor of all, are a just ruler, and you judge those whose deeds are marked by pride and arrogance. ⁴You destroyed those who in the past worked iniquity, among whom were also giants, who trusted in their might and courage, bringing down upon them water immeasurable. ⁵You consumed with fire and brimstone the Sodomites, who practiced arrogance and were distinguished among men for their wicked

^aOr arms ^bone mina = 100 drachmas ^cOr take that as a portent ^dOf uncertain originality; om = Ha.

deeds, making them an example for future generations. ⁶You made known your power when with many and diverse punishments you tried bold Pharaoh, when he had enslaved your people, holy Israel, at which time you made known your great might, ⁷and when Pharaoh pursued him^a with chariots and a horde of troops, you inundated them with the deep sea, but those trusting in you, who are the ruler of all creation, you brought to safety. ⁸Those also who witnessed works of your hand praised you as the almighty one. ⁹You, O King, when you created the boundless and immeasurable earth, you chose this city and consecrated this place for your name, though you lack nothing, and you distinguished it with your glorious manifestation, by establishing it for the glory of your great and honored name. ¹⁰Out of love for the house of Israel, you promised that if ever there be a crisis, and overwhelmed by distress we come to this place to beseech you, you will hearken to our prayer. ¹¹Certainly you are faithful and true. ¹²Often times when our fathers were oppressed, you aided them in their humiliation and delivered them from great evils. ¹³And now, behold, Holy King, on account of our many and great sins we are oppressed, subject to our enemies and rendered powerless. ¹⁴And in our downfall, this vile and presumptuous man makes it his business to insult the holy place dedicated on the earth to the name of your glory. ¹⁵Of course, your dwelling place is the highest heaven, beyond the reach of human beings. ¹⁶But when you resolved that your glory should be among your people Israel, you consecrated this place. ¹⁷Do not punish us by the impurity of these men nor call us to account by their profanation, lest the lawless should boast in their heart and rejoice in the arrogance of their speech, saying ¹⁸'We trampled down the house of consecration, just as the houses of the abominables are trampled down.' ¹⁹Expunge our sins; scatter our faults to the winds, and show your mercy at this hour. ²⁰Let your mercy soon surprise us, and put words of praise on the lips of those who are downcast and crushed, putting our souls at peace."

²¹ Just then God, who watches over all things, the primal one, holy among the holy, heeded their lawful entreaty and scourged him, who had become exceedingly puffed up with pride and presumption, ²²and shook him this way and that like a reed in the wind so that he lay helpless on the floor, quite unable to speak and paralyzed in his limbs, bound up, as it were, by a just judgment. ²³Seeing the swift correction which befell him, his friends and bodyguards grew frightened, and fearing for his life, they quickly dragged him off, utterly panic-stricken. ²⁴Yet when he pulled himself together afterwards, he was not at all regretful for having been rebuked but rather went off making bitter threats.

²⁵ When Ptolemy returned to Egypt, he only increased his acts of wickedness, through the influence of both his aforementioned drinking companions and comrades, men divorced from everything just. ²⁶Not content merely with countless acts of lasciviousness, he reached such a degree of audacity that nasty rumours started in the rural districts. Many of the king's friends studied his purpose and set about following his wishes. ²⁷His intention being to cast blame on the nation publicly, he set up a stele on the tower at the court and inscribed the following: ²⁸"Those who do not make public offerings are not to enter their sacred places, but all Judeans are reduced to a menial status and subject to enrollment^b; those who protest will be carried off forcibly for execution; ²⁹those who are registered are also to be branded with the ivy-leaf emblem of Dionysus and assigned to their former status." ³⁰But lest he appear hateful to everyone, he wrote beneath, "If any of them should prefer to adopt the practices of those who have been initiated according to the rites, they will enjoy equal civic rights with the Alexandrians."

³¹ Of course, there were some who, while outwardly detesting the means of their advancement, the religion of the city, quite readily offered themselves so that they might share some of the great glory that would come from being associated with the king. ³²Most, however, prevailed with a noble spirit and did not separate from their religion. Trading their property in exchange for their lives, they fearlessly attempted to save themselves from the registration. ³³They remained hopeful of obtaining support and loathed those who were withdrawing from them; they judged them to be enemies of the nation and began to exclude them from their common social life and from the benefits it provided.

3 When the ungodly one heard these things, he became so enraged that not only was he angry at those in Alexandria, but even more violently opposed to those in the country and ordered for them to be gathered together in haste and their lives brought to a most violent end. ²While these orders were being put into effect, a malicious rumor was circulated against the Judean race by persons conspiring to do them harm, the pretext being that they would prevent others from doing what was lawful. ³The Judeans, for their part, maintained their good will and unswerving loyalty towards the royal house; ⁴at the same time, they continued to revere God and live in accordance with his law and so kept themselves apart with respect to their diet, on account of which they appeared hateful to some. ⁵Yet, by adorning their mutual affairs with the good conduct of the just, they were highly esteemed by all people. ⁶While the good conduct of the race was thus the talk of everyone, it was not taken into account whatsoever by the allophytes, ⁷who instead kept going on about the differences in doing obeisance^c and diet, claiming that these people felt they owed allegiance neither to the king nor to his powers but were hostile and vehemently opposed to affairs of state; so it was no ordinary blame they attached to them. ⁸The Greeks in the city, who had suffered no wrong, began seeing unexpected trouble among the people and unforeseen stampedes happening, and while they were unable to offer assistance, for the situation was tyrannical, they nevertheless offered encouragement. Although they felt bad for the Judeans, they thought that things would change for the better; ⁹for such a community, faultless in every respect, would hardly be shown disregard. ¹⁰Even now, neighbors, friends and co-workers were quietly drawing some aside, assuring them that they would support them and do the utmost to help them.

^ai.e. Israel ^bOr a census-tax ^cPossibly worship

11 Ptolemy prided himself in his present success, heedless of the might of the supreme God; rather, he went on assuming that he would persist in the same plan and wrote this letter against the Judeans:

12 "King Ptolemy Philopator extends greetings to his generals and soldiers in Egypt and its districts and bids them well. ¹³We ourselves are well, as are the affairs of state. ¹⁴Our recent expedition into Asia, of which you yourselves are aware, having been brought to its expected conclusion by the deliberate alliance of the gods, ¹⁵we thought it right to foster the nations inhabiting Coele-Syria and Phoenicia not by force of spear but with clemency and much beneficence and to show them kindness gladly. ¹⁶We allotted generous revenues to the temples of the various cities and were impelled also to go up to Hierosolyma and honor the temple of a people who are sinful and never refrain from folly. ¹⁷While they made a show of welcoming our visit, they were in fact insincere, and when we expressed our desire to enter their shrine and honor it with beautiful and extraordinary votive offerings, ¹⁸they, harboring an age old conceit, barred us from the entrance, and it was only on account of the beneficence that we show towards all people that they were spared the full force of our temper. ¹⁹They have made evident their enmity towards us. Unique amongst the nations in their haughtiness towards their kings and benefactors, they bear nothing gracefully. ²⁰We for our part accommodated their folly and, when we crossed over into Egypt with victory, met all the nations with beneficence; as was befitting, so we did. ²¹Amongst these, we publicly declared an amnesty toward their fellow nationals, and on account of their alliance with us, as well as the innumerable matters that have so generously been entrusted to them over the years, we even ventured to consent to a change in their condition, which would have entitled them to Alexandrian citizenship and made them partakers of the customary sacred rites. ²²But they took things the wrong way and with their native malice rejected a good thing. Inclined as they always have been towards what is base, ²³they not only turned down the priceless offer of citizenship but continue to express loathing, as much by their silence as by what they say, towards the few among them who are genuinely disposed towards us, looking at every turn to hasten the ruin of our affairs through their most shameful way of living. ²⁴Wherefore, since we are well convinced by the evidence that these people are in every way ill-disposed towards us, and taking precaution, lest at some later date, with trouble suddenly upon us, we find these ungodly traitors and barbarians at our backs as enemies, ²⁵we have ordered that directly upon the publication of this letter, those living amongst us, together with their wives and children, are to be conveyed to us with cruel and harsh treatment, bound hand and foot in iron chains, for the irremediable and ignoble slaughter befitting malcontents. ²⁶For when these people have been punished once and for all, we believe that our affairs will in time become entirely stable and well ordered. ²⁷But whosoever shelters any of the Judeans, from the old to the young, even infants, will be executed with degrading torments, along with their entire household. ²⁸As for those who are willing to inform, they will receive the property of the one incurring the punishment, as well as a thousand drachmas from the royal treasury, and they will be honored with the crown of freedom. ²⁹Any place where a Judean is discovered being sheltered in any way, however, is without exception to become untrodden and scorched; it will become altogether worthless to every mortal creature for all time." ³⁰The original of the letter was written in this manner.

4 Everywhere this ordinance reached, public feasting was organized for the nations with shouts of joy, as their inveterate hatred, long felt, was now openly displayed. ²Yet among the Judeans there was indescribable grief and a mournful outburst of tears, their hearts altogether inflamed from groaning, as they bawled the unforeseen destruction suddenly decreed for them. ³What province or city, what place at all inhabited or which streets were not filled with lamentation and weeping for them? ⁴One and all they were being sent off by the generals of each city in such a severe and merciless spirit that even some of their enemies found compassion for the extraordinary punishments before their eyes and, reflecting on life's uncertain conclusion, began to weep over their miserable expulsion. ⁵For a multitude of old men covered in gray hair were being led off, shamefully pressing into service for the swift march the torpor of feet already twisted from old age at the start of the violent upheaval. ⁶Young women who had just now entered the bridal chamber for the partnership of married life soon exchanged their joy for mourning and mingled ashes into hair still wet with unguent, and as they were lead away unveiled, it was a dirge rather than a wedding-song they started up one and all, savaged by the barbarous cruelties of a foreign nation; ⁷bound in full public view, they were dragged forcibly as far as the boat for embarkation. ⁸Their spouses wrapped nooses instead of garlands around their necks, although in their youth and prime of life, and spent the remaining days of their marriage feast not in banqueting and youthful amusement but rather in mourning, seeing the grave already lying before them. ⁹They were driven on board like beasts constrained with iron bonds, some being fastened at the neck to the yokes of the boats and others secured by their feet in unbreakable fetters; ¹⁰moreover, with solid planking fixed above, they were in total darkness and so received the treatment befitting traitors throughout the entire voyage.

¹¹ They were brought to the place known as Schedia, and with the voyage now concluded, as had been ordained by the king, he ordered them to encamp in the hippodrome before the city, which was immense in circumference and well situated for making them an example to all those returning to the city as well as to those of them going abroad to the country so that they could neither communicate with his forces nor in any way claim the protection of the city walls. ¹²And when this happened, upon hearing that the same people leaving the city secretly lamented the shameful misery of their brothers, ¹³he became furious and ordered that they be treated in exactly the same way as the others, in no way whatsoever being spared the punishment meted out to those ¹⁴and that the whole race be registered by name, not for the exhausting manual labor briefly described above, but so that, having suffered the tortures which had been ordered, they might finally be destroyed in the space of a single day. ¹⁵Their registration thus proceeded in bitter haste and eager diligence from sunrise to sunset, yet was still incomplete when it ended forty days later.

¹⁶ The king, meanwhile, continued to be exceedingly joyful and went ahead organizing drinking parties in the presence of his idols, with a mind led far astray from the truth and a vile mouth, which praised that which is deaf and unable to speak or to assist itself, while uttering improprieties to the supreme God. ¹⁷Yet after the previously mentioned space of time, the scribes reported to the king that they could no longer carry on with the registration of the Judeans owing to their immense number; ¹⁸the majority were indeed still in the country, some still in their homes, others further afield, so it was impossible for all the generals in Egypt. ¹⁹At this he began to threaten them obstinately that they had been bribed to devise the escape, but it so happened that he himself became plainly convinced on the matter, ²⁰when they proved to him that both the papyrus and writing reeds, which they had been using, had been spent. ²¹This, however, was the work of the invincible providence of the one who was aiding the Judeans from heaven.

5 Then the king, filled with violent anger and fury and altogether intractable, summoned Hermon, the person charged with the care of the elephants, ²and ordered him for the next day to give all the elephants, five-hundred in number, copious handfuls of frankincense and abundant unmixed wine to drink and, once they had been driven wild by the copious supply of drink, to lead them in for the Judeans to meet their fate. ³When he had issued these orders, he turned to feasting, bringing together those amongst his friends and the army who were especially hostile towards the Judeans. ⁴Meanwhile Hermon, the elephantarch, began faithfully carrying out what had been commanded. ⁵That evening the officiants who were assigned to them came out and began binding the hands of the afflicted and through the night took further precautions for their security, believing that the race would meet its final destruction once and for all. ⁶But the Judeans, who to the nations seemed to be bereft of all defense on account of the constraint of their chains that confined them on every side, ⁷all called out with an irrepressible cry and with tears to the Almighty Lord, Ruler of every power, their merciful God and Father, beseeching him ⁸to overturn the ungodly plot against them and with a glorious manifestation to rescue them from the fate that lay ready before them. ⁹And so their entreaty continued to ascend fervently to the sky.

¹⁰ Hermon, having given the merciless elephants their drink so that they were filled with an abundant supply of wine and glutted with frankincense, presented himself at court early in the morning to inform the king concerning these things. ¹¹But he^a sent upon the king a portion of sleep, that good creature which from time immemorial has been bestowed night and day by the one who gives freely to all, whomsoever he wishes, ¹²and through the action of the master, he was overcome by a pleasant and deep slumber and thus disappointed in his wicked purpose and entirely cheated of his unbending calculation. ¹³The Judeans, having escaped the appointed hour, began praising their holy God and were once again entreating the one who is easily reconciled to show arrogant nations the might of his all powerful hand. ¹⁴It was now approaching the middle of the tenth hour, and the person who was in charge of the invitations, seeing that the invited guests had assembled, approached the king and gave him a nudge. ¹⁵With some difficulty he woke him up and informed him that the hour of the banquet was already slipping by, explaining the situation to him. ¹⁶Once he had given the matter some thought, the king turned to drinking and ordered those who had come for the banquet to recline opposite him. ¹⁷When this had been done, he began urging them, as they gave themselves over to feasting, to spend the present part of the banquet in merriment by celebrating all the more. ¹⁸After the party had been going for some time, the king summoned Hermon and with angry threats began questioning him as to why the Judeans had been permitted to survive a further day. ¹⁹But when he reported that the order had been carried out to the letter overnight, and his friends corroborated this, ²⁰the king, with a savagery worse than that of

^ai.e. God

Phalaris, said that while they had today's sleep to be thankful for, "tonight without further delay prepare the elephants in the same manner for the destruction of the lawless Judeans."²¹ After the king had spoken, all those who were present at once readily consented with joy, whereupon each returned to his own house.²² They did not, however, spend the duration of the night sleeping, so much as in devising every sort of mockery for those who appeared to be in such distress.

23 The cock had just crowed at dawn, when Hermon, having fully armed the beasts, began whipping them up in the great colonnade.²⁴ Crowds of people in the city had gathered for the most pitiful spectacle, eagerly awaiting the morning.²⁵ The Judeans, for their part, were at that very moment drawing their last breath; stretching their hands towards the sky, they began entreating the supreme God with tearful supplication and mournful songs to hasten to their aid once more.²⁶ The rays of the sun were not yet scattered abroad, and the king was still receiving his friends, when Hermon arrived and began summoning them for the departure, indicating that the king's desire was in readiness.²⁷ Yet when he received the news and was dumbfounded by the unauthorized departure, possessed as he was by total ignorance, he began inquiring as to what was the business upon which this had been executed for him in such haste.²⁸ This was the working of God who is master of all things, for he had made the king forgetful as to the purpose of his former schemes.²⁹ Hermon and all his friends began to point out that the beasts and the forces were ready, "O king, in accordance with your express intention."³⁰ But he was filled with violent anger at what was said, for by divine providence his whole impression of these things had been scattered, and with a threatening glare, he said,³¹ "How ever many of your parents or young children had been present, this abundant feast would I^a have prepared for wild beasts instead of the blameless Judeans, who have demonstrated complete and steadfast loyalty to my parents and myself.³² And yet, but for the affection of a common upbringing and familiarity, you would have been deprived of life instead of them."³³ So Hermon suffered an unexpected and dangerous threat and wore his humiliation both in his eyes and face.³⁴ One by one the king's friends began sullenly slipping out, and they released those who had gathered, each to his own affairs.³⁵ When the Judeans heard what the king had said, they began praising the manifest God, Lord, King of kings, since they had obtained also this aid from him.

36 The king assembled the entire drinking-party along the same lines and began encouraging them to make merry.³⁷ He summoned Hermon with threats and said, "How many times do I have to give you the self-same orders, you wretch?³⁸ Arm the elephants even now for tomorrow's extermination of the Judeans."³⁹ But his Kinsmen, who were reclining together with him at table, wondering at his unstable mind, began to reproach him thus,⁴⁰ "O king, how long will you go on testing us unreasonably, like idiots, ordering us now for a third time to obliterate them and then in turn canceling your decrees on this business once again?⁴¹ As a result the city is in an uproar with expectation and is already swarming with gangs and frequently in danger of being looted."⁴² Whereupon the king, who was in every respect a Phalaris and filled with madness, regarding as nothing the changes of heart taking place within him towards the visitation of the Judeans, swore a bootless oath that he would dispatch them to Hades without delay, tormented by the knees and feet of the beasts,⁴³ and thereupon march against Judea and swiftly level it with fire and spear, and that their shrine, "forbidden to us," would quickly topple over in the fire and be rendered destitute of those performing sacrifices there for all time.⁴⁴ Then the Friends and Kinsmen went on their way overjoyed and faithfully set about posting the forces to those parts of the city most advantageous for keeping guard.⁴⁵ Meanwhile, the elephantarch, having brought the beasts, frightfully decked out in their gear, close to a state of madness, so to speak, with most fragrant drinks of wine mixed with frankincense,⁴⁶ entered the court at about dawn, by which time the city had already filled up with innumerable crowds at the hippodrome, and began rousing the king to the matter at hand.⁴⁷ He, in turn, upon filling his ungodly mind full of violent rage, fiercely set out with the beasts, wishing to view with the very pupils of his eyes and an invulnerable heart the painful and miserable ruin of those mentioned beforehand.⁴⁸ As the elephants and the armed force accompanying them were going out around the gate, the Judeans both saw the dust of the passing throng and heard the roaring crowd⁴⁹ and, believing this to be their last moment of life, the end of their wretched suspense, gave themselves over to lamentation and wailing and began kissing one another, embracing their relatives, falling upon their necks, parents their children, mothers their daughters and yet others holding newborn infants to the breast as they drew their last milk.⁵⁰ Nevertheless, when they considered all the help from heaven that had fallen to their share in the past, they threw themselves prostrate with one accord, parted their newborn from the breasts⁵¹ and called out to the ruler of every power with an exceedingly loud cry, entreating him to show them mercy by making an appearance, they who stood even now at the gates of Hades.

6 Now a certain Eleazaros, a man well known among the priests of the country, who had already reached old age and been adorned with every virtue throughout his life, restrained the elders around him from calling upon the holy God and said the following prayer:

2 "O king, dread sovereign, most high, almighty God, who govern all creation with compassion, ^athey = Ha.

³look upon the seed of Abraam, upon the children of sanctified Iakob, the people of your sanctified inheritance, strangers in a strange land, who, O Father, are perishing unjustly. ⁴When Pharao, former ruler of this Egypt, was waxing with chariots, conceited in his lawless impudence and boasting tongue, you destroyed him, drowned at sea together with his proud army, and showed forth the light of your mercy on the race of Israel. ⁵When Sennacherim, dread king of the Assyrians, gloried in his countless powers and, having already seized control over the entire land by the spear, was poised also to march against your holy city, speaking fiercely with boasting and insolence, you broke him, O Sovereign, displaying your might to many nations. ⁶When the three companions in Babylonia willingly gave their lives to the fire so as not to serve vain things, you sprinkled the scorching furnace and rescued them unharmed, even so far as a hair, and sent the flame upon all their enemies. ⁷When Daniel, through envious slander, was thrown to the lions below the earth as food for wild beasts, you brought him up to the light unscathed, ⁸and when Ionas wasted away in the belly of the sea monster raised in the depths, you looked to him, O Father, and revealed him to all his relations unscathed. ⁹And now, you who hate insolence, abounding in mercy, Protector of the universe, swiftly manifest yourself to those of the race of Israel, who are now suffering outrages at the hands of detestable and lawless nations. ¹⁰Even if our life has become entangled in impieties during our exile, rescue us, O Master, from the clutches of our enemies, and then destroy us by the fate you choose. ¹¹Do not let the vainglorious praise their vanities upon the destruction of your beloved, by saying, 'Their God did not rescue them.' ¹²But you who possess all might and all sovereignty, eternal one, look now, and show mercy on us, who are being removed from life in the manner of traitors due to the senseless arrogance of the lawless. ¹³Today let nations cower before your invincible power, O honored one, you who have the power to bring the race of Iakob to safety. ¹⁴The entire multitude of newborns and their parents are entreating you with tears. ¹⁵Let it be shown to all nations that you are with us, Lord, and that you have not turned your face away from us, but as you said, 'Not even when they were in the land of their enemies did I despise them'; thus make it so, O Lord."

¹⁶Just as Eleazaros was bringing his prayer to an end, the king went by the hippodrome together with the beasts and all the pride of the force. ¹⁷At the sight of this, the Judeans cried out loudly to heaven so that even the nearby valleys resounded, causing frenzied terror throughout the entire army. ¹⁸Then the most glorious, Almighty and true God showed forth his holy face and opened the heavenly gates from which descended two glorious angels, terrible to behold, who were apparent to all except to the Judeans, ¹⁹and they withstood the force of the opponents and filled them with confusion and dread and bound them fast with shackles. ²⁰And even the body of the king was ashudder, and forgetfulness overcame his indignant impudence. ²¹Then the beasts turned upon the armed forces accompanying them and began trampling and destroying them.

²²The king's anger now turned to pity and tears for what had been devised by him earlier. ²³For when he heard the cry and perceived them all lying prostrate for destruction, he wept and began threatening his friends angrily, saying, ²⁴"You are guilty of treason and have exceeded tyrants in cruelty, and now you are attempting to deprive even me, your benefactor, of both sovereignty and life, by secretly forming designs unbeneficial to the kingdom. ²⁵Who was it that drove from their homes those who faithfully maintain our frontier fortresses and gathered every one of them together here? ²⁶Who was it that so lawlessly surrounded with outrages those who from the beginning have exceeded all nations in their goodwill towards us and have frequently taken the gravest human dangers upon themselves? ²⁷Loosen, undo unjust fetters, and send them off to their homes in peace, begging their pardon for what has been done before. ²⁸Set free the sons of the Almighty, heavenly, living god, who from our parents' time until now has been providing uninterrupted and illustrious stability to our affairs." ²⁹That then is what he said, and they were released instantly and began blessing the holy savior God, having just escaped death.

³⁰Thereupon the king withdrew to the city, summoned the overseer of revenues and ordered him to supply the Judeans with both wines and all else requisite for seven days of feasting, having decided that they would joyfully celebrate a festival of deliverance in the very place in which they had expected to meet destruction. ³¹Then those who were once objects of contempt and next to Hades, or rather at it, united for a feast of deliverance rather than one of bitter and mournful doom, and filled with joy they apportioned to parties of revelers the place that had been prepared for their destruction and burial. ³²They left off the sad strain of their dirges and took up an ancestral song, praising the savior and wonder-working God, and having dispelled all wailing and lamentation, they began organizing dances as a sign of peaceful joy. ³³The king likewise assembled a substantial drinking party on account of these things and was offering thanks to heaven ceaselessly and profusely for the unexpected deliverance that had befallen him. ³⁴Those who just before had assumed that the Judeans would be destroyed and become carrion, and who had registered them with joy, groaned, as they themselves were now clothed in shame, their fiery courage ignobly extinguished. ³⁵The Judeans, as we said before, had organized the aforementioned dancing and feasting and were celebrating with cheerful acknowledgements and melodies. ³⁶They laid down for themselves a general rule concerning these matters for the entire duration of their residence as aliens throughout their generations, and they resolved to celebrate the aforementioned days in merriment, not for the sake of drink and gluttony, but for the deliverance that had come to them through God. ³⁷Then they entreated the king, asking leave to go about their own business. ³⁸Now they had registered them from the twenty-fifth of Pachon until the fourth of Epiphi, over a period of forty days, and had appointed their destruction from the fifth to the seventh of Epiphi, over a period of three days, ³⁹at which time also the ruler of all, gloriously manifesting his mercy, rescued them all together and unscathed. ⁴⁰They were being entertained sumptuously in every respect by the king and continued feasting until the fortieth day, on which also they petitioned for their release. ⁴¹The king granted this to them and very generously wrote on their behalf to the generals in each city the following letter, which possesses ardor:

7 " King Ptolemy Philopator extends greetings to his generals in Egypt and to all those who have been appointed to office and bids them well.

² "We ourselves are well, as are our children, for the supreme God is directing our affairs just as we would have it. ³Some of our friends malevolently persuaded us with their incessant pestering to gather our Judean subjects together in a body and to have them punished in accordance with the extraordinary sanctions against rebels, ⁴urging that since they bear enmity toward all the nations, our government would never be stable until this was accomplished. ⁵They brought them down cruelly bound as slaves, or rather as traitors, and, without any preliminary investigation and inquiry, attempted to destroy them, having fastened to themselves a cruelty more savage than the law of the Scythians. ⁶But for this we on our part violently threatened them, in accordance with the clemency we bear towards all people, scarcely granting them their lives and knowing assuredly that the heavenly God protects the Judeans, as a father always comes to the aid of his sons, ⁷and having taken into consideration the firm good will of a friend, which they have displayed towards us and our forebears, we have justly acquitted them of every charge whatsoever, ⁸and we have instructed all of them to return each to their own home in every place, with no one hurting them without exception, nor to reproach them for what has happened contrary to reason. ⁹For know that, should we devise any evil against these people or offend them at all, it will be no mere mortal but the one who is sovereign over every power, God most high, that we shall have forever set inescapably against us in everything to avenge the deed. Farewell."

¹⁰ Upon receiving this letter, they did not hurry straightaway to set about their departure but made a petition to the king, that those from the race of the Judeans who had freely disobeyed the holy God and God's law should obtain their deserved punishment through them, ¹¹insisting that those who had disobeyed the divine ordinances for the sake of their belly would never be favorably disposed towards the affairs of the king. ¹²He in turn acknowledged that they were speaking the truth, consented and granted them complete license to destroy openly those who had disobeyed God's law throughout the whole of his dominion, without any express royal authorization or oversight. ¹³They then applauded him as was fitting; their priests and the entire multitude cried out the Hallelouia with joy, and they departed ¹⁴and thus set about punishing every defiled fellow national who fell in their path and slaying them as an example to all. ¹⁵On that day they slew more than three hundred men, a day which they also celebrated as one of merriment, seeing that they had overpowered the profane with joy. ¹⁶Then those who had held fast to God unto death, having received the complete reward of deliverance, shifted their quarters from the city, wreathed with every kind of fragrant flower, and with gladness and a shout they continued giving thanks to the God of their fathers, the eternal savior of Israel, with words of praise and hymns in every kind of melody.

¹⁷ Now when they arrived at Ptolemais—called "rose-bearing" on account of the characteristic feature of the place—where the fleet waited for them for seven days, according to their common plan, ¹⁸there they held a celebration of deliverance, the king having stoutly supplied them with everything for their transit, until each arrived at his own home. ¹⁹They landed peacefully with the appropriate acknowledgements, and there too they likewise resolved to celebrate also these days in merriment for the duration of their residence as aliens, ²⁰and having dedicated these days and consecrated them for prayer on a stele by the place of the banquet, they went on their way, unharmed, free and overjoyed, being preserved over land and sea and river by command of the king, each to his own home, ²¹and among their enemies they possessed a greater dominance than before, both honored and feared, and were abused of their belongings by no one. ²²Everyone recovered all of their property in accordance with the registration so that those who held anything returned it to them with great fear, for the supreme God had performed mighty works entirely for their deliverance. ²³Blessed be the rescuer of Israel for all time! Amen.

4 MAKKABEES

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS rendering of 4 Makkabees follows the Greek text of Alfred Rahlfs' Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes, 2 vols. (Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935). Of the three manuscripts on which that edition is largely based (Vaticanus, Sinaiticus, and Alexandrinus), only the latter two include 4 Makkabees. Rahlfs does, however, cite other evidence as well, particularly that of the eighth or ninth century Codex Venetus (V), which, regrettably, lacks 5.11–12.1. A full-scale critical edition has yet to be prepared. Discussion of variant readings can be found in the footnotes to the German translation by Hans-Josef Klauck. Only rarely does the following translation depart from Rahlfs' text; these instances are pointed out in the footnotes.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF 4 MAKKABEES

Since 4 Makkabees is an original composition in Greek, there is no need here to indicate the relationship between the Greek text and a Semitic parent text by maintaining a similar relationship between the NETS version and the NRSV. I have therefore departed from the latter translation freely in attempting to capture something of the flavor of the Greek original. That, however, is a task with significant challenges.

Our author writes not only very fluently in Greek but also, in striking contrast with the Jewish conservatism that marks the book's message (the law of Moyses, in all its particularity, is to be faithfully observed in spite of pressures to assimilate to the surrounding Hellenistic environment), in a highly rhetorical and affected Greek style. To be noted is the extensive and often inventive vocabulary employed, a vocabulary that includes a number of rare and poetic terms and a seemingly endless stock of words pertaining to the instruments and inflicting of torture; a particular love of compound words, many apparently of our author's own composition, and a number featuring verbs with a plurality of prefixed prepositions; a bent for finding a variety of ways in which to say the same thing (in the opening verses, for example, the translator is severely taxed to match in English the author's diverse formulations of reason's supremacy over the passions); a partiality for extended similes and metaphors; a penchant to apostrophize the characters of his narrative, their virtues, and sundry other abstractions; a predilection for conveying a point by inventing for his characters direct speeches, some explicitly imaginary, others purportedly delivered in the midst of such torments and at such proximity to a ghastly death as to make their deliberate and measured tone astounding; and a tendency in general to appeal to readers' sense of pity and to arouse their horror. Readers disaffected by these characteristics of our text should bear in mind that our author was clearly reflecting the tastes of many of his contemporaries, nor, indeed, have the intervening centuries lacked periods in which the floridity of our author's style was found both pleasing and impressive.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Several English translations are available. Older renditions include those of R. B. Townsend in the second volume of Charles; C. W. Emmet (London: SPCK, 1918); and (together with a reproduction of Rahlfs' Greek text) M. Hadas (New York: Dropsie College [Harper], 1953). In addition to the translation in the NRSV, the recent rendering by H. Anderson in the second volume of The Old Testament Pseudepigrapha edited by J. H. Charlesworth (Garden City, NY: Doubleday, 1985) should be noted. Nor should the French version of A. Dupont-Sommer (Paris: H. Champion, 1939) and the German version by H.-J. Klauck (Guetersloh: C. Mohn, 1989), both with extensive introductions and notes, be forgotten. Much can be learned from D. A. deSilva's 4 Maccabees (Sheffield: Sheffield Academic Press, 1998), with bibliographies of other studies.

STEPHEN WESTERHOLM

1 Since I am about to discuss an eminently philosophical subject—whether pious reason is absolute master of the passions—I would duly advise you to attend diligently to the philosophy here set forth. 2For the subject is essential to the path to knowledge for everyone and, furthermore, embraces praise of the greatest virtue: I speak, of course, of prudence. 3If, then, it is apparent that reason prevails over the passions hindering self-control, namely, gluttony and lust, 4then it is also plainly apparent that it holds sway over the passions impeding justice, such as malice, and over the passions impeding courage, namely, anger, fear and pain. 5Some might perhaps ask, “How then, if reason overcomes the passions, does it not master forgetfulness and ignorance?” Their attempt at argument is ridiculous. 6For reason does not overcome its own passions but those opposed to justice, courage and self-control, and it overcomes these not so that it destroys them but so that one does not give way to them.

7 On the basis of many and diverse considerations I could show you that reason is absolute ruler of the passions, 8but I can demonstrate it much better from the bravery of those who died for the sake of virtue: Eleazaros, the seven brothers and their mother. 9All of these, in despising sufferings to the point of death, showed that reason has full control over the passions. 10It is fitting for me to praise for their virtues these men who, together with their mother, died for the sake of nobility of character in this season of the year, but I would also call them blessed for the honors accorded them. 11Having won, by their courage and endurance, the admiration not merely of all people but even of their abusers, they became the means by which the tyranny exercised against our nation was overthrown. They conquered the tyrant by their endurance so that through them our homeland was purified. 12But of this it will be possible for me to speak in a moment after I have begun, as I am accustomed to do, by stating my thesis, and then I shall turn to the story about them, giving glory to the all-wise God.

13 We inquire, then, whether reason is the absolute ruler of the passions. 14We must determine just what reason is and what passion is, how many kinds of passions there are, and whether reason prevails over all of these. 15Reason, then, is the mind preferring, with sound judgment, the life of wisdom. 16Wisdom, in turn, is the knowledge of things divine and human and of the causes of these. 17It amounts, moreover, to training in the law, training by which we learn divine matters reverently and human matters advantageously. 18Now the kinds of wisdom are prudence, justice, courage and self-control. 19Supreme over all of these is prudence by which in fact reason prevails over the passions. 20Of the passions, the two most comprehensive types are pleasure and pain, and each of these pertains by nature both to the body and to the soul. 21There are many sequences of passions connected with pleasure and pain. 22Thus before pleasure comes desire, and after pleasure, delight. 23Before pain comes fear, and after pain, sorrow. 24Anger is a passion embracing pleasure and pain, if people reflect on how it affects them. 25In pleasure there exists as well a malevolent disposition, which, of all the passions, assumes the most varied forms. 26In terms of the soul, it is expressed in boastfulness, love of money, love of honor, love of strife and envy. 27With regard to the body, it is expressed in indiscriminate eating, gluttony and private gormandizing.

28 Just as pleasure and pain are two plants growing from the body and the soul, so there are many offshoots of these plants. 29By weeding, pruning, tying up, watering and in every way irrigating each of these, reason, the master cultivator, tames the jungles of habits and passions. 30For reason is the guide of the virtues but the absolute ruler of the passions.

Observe now, first of all, that reason is absolute master of the passions ^aby virtue of the restraining powers of self-control^a. 31Self-control, then, is dominance over the desires. 32Of the desires, some pertain to the soul, others to the body, and it is apparent that reason prevails over both of these. 33Otherwise, how is it that when we are attracted to forbidden foods we turn ourselves away from the pleasures to be had from them? Is it not because reason is able to prevail over the appetites? I for one think so. 34Therefore when we crave seafood, fowl, quadrupeds and all sorts of foods that are forbidden to us by the law, we abstain because of the dominance of reason. 35For the passions of the appetites are restrained, checked by the temperate mind, and all the emotions of the body are bridled by reason.

2 And why should it be deemed amazing if the desires of the soul for the enjoyment of beauty are rendered powerless? 2It is on this account, certainly, that the temperate Joseph is praised, namely, that by his faculty of thinking he gained control over the urge for gratification. 3For when he was young and in his prime for intercourse, by his reason he rendered powerless the frenzied desire of his passions. 4It is apparent that reason prevails not only over the frenzied urge for gratification but also over every desire. 5For the law says, “You shall not covet your neighbor’s wife or anything that is your neighbor’s.” 6In fact, since the law has told us not to covet, I could persuade you all the more that reason is able to overcome the desires.

Just so it is with the passions that hinder justice. 7Otherwise how is it that someone who is habitually a private gormandizer, a glutton, or even a drunkard is trained differently, unless reason is clearly master of the passions? 8As soon, indeed, as one adopts a way of life in accordance with the law, even though a lover of money, one overpowers one’s own bent, lending without interest to the needy and canceling the debt when the seventh year arrives. ⁹Even if one is stingy, one is overcome by the law through reason, neither gleaning the harvest nor gathering the last of the vineyards' grapes.

^aOr in the case of acts that hinder self-control

And in all other matters it is possible to recognize this principle, that reason overcomes the passions. ¹⁰For the law overcomes even affection for parents, not betraying virtue on their account. ¹¹It prevails over love for one's wife, rebuking her for her transgression. ¹²It holds sway over love for one's children, punishing them for wickedness, ¹³masters one's relationship with friends, rebuking them for evil. ¹⁴And do not consider it paradoxical when reason, through the law, can prevail even over enmity, not cutting down the cultivated trees of foes but preserving the property of enemies from marauders and helping to raise up what has fallen.

¹⁵ It is apparent that reason overcomes even the more aggressive passions: love of power, vain-glory, boasting, arrogance and envy. ¹⁶For the temperate mind repels all these malicious passions, just as it repels anger—for it masters even this. ¹⁷When Moyses was angry with Dathan and Abiron, he did nothing against them in anger but controlled his anger by reason. ¹⁸For, as I have said, the temperate mind is able to get the better of the passions, to alter some, and to render others powerless. ¹⁹Otherwise why did Iakob, our all wise father, censure the households of Symeon and Leui for slaughtering, contrary to reason, the Shechemites as an entire people, saying, "Cursed be their anger"? ²⁰For if reason could not overcome anger, he would not have spoken thus. ²¹Now when God fashioned human beings, he planted in them their passions and habits, ²²but at the same time he enthroned the mind among the senses as a sacred governor over them all, ²³and to this mind he gave the law. The one who adopts a way of life in accordance with it will rule a kingdom that is temperate, just, good and courageous.

²⁴ How is it, then, someone may ask, if reason is master of the passions, that it does not overcome forgetfulness and ignorance?

3 But this argument is entirely ridiculous, for it is apparent that reason prevails not over its own passions but over those of the body. ²No one of us can eradicate such desire, but reason can provide a way for us not to be enslaved by desire. ³No one of you can eradicate anger from the soul, but reason can help to deal with anger. ⁴No one of us can eradicate malice, but reason can fight at our side so that we are not overcome by malice. ⁵For reason is not an uprooter of the passions but their antagonist.

⁶ Now this can be explained more clearly by means of the thirst of King Daudid. ⁷For when Daudid had been attacking the allophytes all day long, he, together with the soldiers of our nation, killed many of them. ⁸Then when evening fell, he came, sweating and extremely tired, to the royal tent, around which the whole army of our ancestors had encamped. ⁹Now all the rest were at supper. ¹⁰But the king was as thirsty as could be, and although he had abundant springs at hand, he could not satisfy his thirst from them. ¹¹But a certain irrational desire for the water in the enemy's territory tormented and inflamed him, undid and consumed him. ¹²Therefore, when his armor-bearers complained bitterly over the desire of the king, two staunch young soldiers, respecting the desire of the king, put on their full armor and, taking a pitcher, climbed over the enemy's ramparts. ¹³Eluding the guards at the gates, they went searching through the entire enemy camp, ¹⁴found the spring and boldly brought a drink from it to the king. ¹⁵But although Daudid was burning with thirst, he reasoned that a drink regarded as tantamount to blood was a dreadful danger to his soul. ¹⁶Therefore, opposing reason to desire, he poured out the drink as an offering to God. ¹⁷For the temperate mind can conquer the compulsions of the passions and quench the flames of frenzied desires. ¹⁸It can overpower bodily agonies even when they are extreme and by the nobility of reason spurn all domination by the passions.

¹⁹ The present occasion now invites us to a narrative demonstration of temperate reason.

²⁰ At a time when our fathers were enjoying profound peace because of their loyalty to the law and were prospering so that even Seleucus Nicator, king of Asia, had both set aside money for them for the temple service and recognized their polity, ²¹then certain persons attempted a revolution against the public harmony and suffered many and various disasters.

4 For a certain Simon was a political opponent of the noble and good man, Onias, who then held the high priesthood for life. When, though slandering him concerning the nation in every way, he was not able to injure him, he departed as a fugitive, intending to betray our homeland. ²So he came to Apollonius, governor of Syria, Phoenicia and Cilicia, and said, ³"Since I am loyal to the interests of the king, I have come to disclose that many tens of thousands of private funds are stored up in the treasuries of Hierosolyma that are not the property of the temple; these belong to King Seleucus." ⁴When Apollonius had learned the details of these matters, he praised Simon for his solicitude for the king, went up to Seleucus and informed him of the treasure of funds. ⁵Receiving authority to deal with these matters, he proceeded quickly to our homeland with the accursed Simon and a very strong military force. ⁶He said that he had come by the king's commands in order to seize the private funds in the treasury. ⁷At this announcement the people complained bitterly and protested, considering that it would be outrageous if those who had entrusted deposits to the sacred treasury should be deprived of them. They tried as best they could to prevent him. ⁸But with threats Apollonius left for the temple. ⁹While the priests, with women and children, were imploring God in the temple to shield the sacred place that was being treated with contempt ¹⁰and while Apollonius was going up with his armed forces to seize the funds, angels on horseback appeared from heaven with lightning flashing from their weapons, instilling in them great fear and trembling. ¹¹And Apollonius, falling down half-dead in the court of the temple that was open to all races, stretched out his hands toward heaven and with tears began to beg the Hebrews that they would pray for him and propitiate the heavenly army. ¹²For he said that he had sinned in such a way that he deserved to die and that, if he were delivered, he would praise the blessedness of the holy place before all people. ¹³Moved by these words, the high priest Onias, although otherwise he had scruples about doing so, prayed for him so that King Seleucus would not suppose that Apollonius had been overcome by human treachery and not by divine justice. ¹⁴When Apollonius, beyond all expectations, had been delivered, he went away to inform the king what had happened to him.

¹⁵When King Seleucus died, his son Antiochus Epiphanes, an arrogant and terrible man, succeeded to the office. ¹⁶He deposed Onias from the high priesthood and appointed Onias's brother Jason as high priest, ¹⁷Jason agreeing to pay three thousand six hundred and sixty talents annually if the king would turn the office over to him. ¹⁸So the king turned over to him both the high priesthood and the leadership of the nation. ¹⁹Jason changed the nation's way of life and altered its form of government in complete transgression of the law ²⁰so that he not only constructed a gymnasium on the very citadel of our homeland but also abolished the temple service. ²¹The divine justice, provoked by these acts, caused Antiochus himself to war against them^a. ²²For while he was waging war against Ptolemy in Egypt, he heard that a rumor had spread about his death and that the Hierosolymites had celebrated with all possible joy. He marched against them speedily, ²³and when he had plundered them, he issued a decree that, if any of them were found living according to the ancestral law, they should die. ²⁴When, by means of his decrees, he had not been able to subvert the people's loyalty to the law in any way but saw that all his threats and punishments were being disregarded ²⁵so that even women, because they circumcised their sons, were thrown down headlong together with their infants, though they had known beforehand that they would suffer this; ²⁶when, then, his decrees were despised by the people, he himself tried through tortures to compel everyone in the nation to renounce Judaism by tasting defiling foods.

5 The tyrant Antiochus, sitting in state with his counselors on a certain high place and with his armed soldiers standing around him, ²ordered his bodyguards to drag in each and every Hebrew and to compel them to taste pork and food sacrificed to idols; ³if any were not willing to eat defil-ing food, they were to be broken on the wheel and killed. ⁴When many persons had been rounded up, one man, a Hebrew^b, Eleazaros by name, was brought as first of the company before him. He was a priest by birth, a lawyer by profession, advanced in age and known to many in the tyrant's court on account of his age.

⁵When Antiochus saw him he said, ⁶"Before I begin the tortures against you, old man, I would give you these words of advice, namely, that you save yourself by tasting pork, ⁷for I respect your age and your gray hairs. Although you have had your gray hairs for such a long time, you do not seem to me to be a philosopher, since you observe the religion of the Judeans. ⁸Why should you abhor eating the very excellent meat of this animal when nature has provided it? ⁹For it is senseless not to enjoy delicious things that are not shameful and not right to decline the gifts of nature. ¹⁰But you seem to me to do what is even more senseless if, because you cherish a vain opinion concerning the truth, you continue to despise me at the cost of your own punishment. ¹¹Will you not awaken from your silly philosophy, dispel the nonsense of your reasonings, and, adopting a mind worthy of your age, pursue a true philosophy of what is beneficial? ¹²Will you not have compassion on your old age by bowing to my humane advice? ¹³For bear in mind that, if indeed there is some power overseeing this religion of yours, it will excuse you for any transgression committed under duress."

¹⁴When the tyrant urged him in this fashion to eat meat unlawfully, Eleazaros asked to have a word. ¹⁵When he had received permission to speak, he began to address the people as follows: ¹⁶"O Antiochus, we who have been persuaded to adopt a way of life in accordance with divine law do not consider any compulsion more powerful than our ready obedience to the law. ¹⁷Therefore we do not deem it right to transgress the law in any way. ¹⁸Even if, as you suppose, our law were in truth not divine and we wrongly considered it to be divine, not even so would it be possible for us to invalidate our reputation for piety. ¹⁹Therefore do not suppose that it would be a petty sin if we were to eat defiling food. ²⁰To transgress the law in matters small or great is of equal seriousness, ²¹for in either case the law is equally despised. ²²You scoff at our philosophy as though our living by it were not sensible. ²³But it teaches us self-control so that we overcome all pleasures and desires, and it also exercises us in courage so that we endure all pain willingly; ²⁴it trains us in justice so that ^cin all our dealings we act impartially^c, and it teaches us piety so that we worship the only living God in a way that befits his greatness.

²⁵"Therefore we do not eat defiling food, for, believing that the law is divine, we know that the Creator of the world shows us sympathy by imposing a law that is in accordance with nature. ²⁶He has permitted us to eat what will prove suitable for our souls, but he has forbidden us to eat

^ai.e. the people ^bOm = Ra ^cOr we hold in balance all our inclinations

the flesh of what will prove contrary to us. ²⁷It would be tyrannical to compel us not only to transgress the law but also to eat in such a way that you may deride us for this eating of defiling foods that is most hateful to us. ²⁸But you shall not laugh this laugh at me, ²⁹nor will I disregard the sacred oaths of my ancestors concerning the keeping of the law, ³⁰not even if you gouge out my eyes and melt down my entrails. ³¹I am not so old or so little of a man that I am not youthful in reason in defense of piety. ³²So then, get your torture wheels ready and fan the fire more vehemently. ³³I do not so pity my old age as to subvert the ancestral law by my own act. ³⁴I will not play false to you, O law that trained me, nor will I renounce you, beloved self-control. ³⁵I will not put you to shame, philosophical reason, nor will I deny you, honored priesthood and knowledge of our law code. ^{36a}O king^a, you shall not defile the honorable mouth of my old age nor the maturity of a law-observant life. ³⁷My fathers will receive me as pure, as one who does not fear your tortures even unto death. ³⁸You will tyrannize the impious, but neither by words nor through deeds will you master my reasonings when piety is at stake."

6 When Eleazaros in this manner had eloquently countered the exhortations of the tyrant, the bodyguards who were standing by dragged him violently to the instruments of torture. ²First they stripped the old man, though he remained adorned with the gracefulness that encompasses piety. ³Thereupon they tied his hands behind him on each side and scourged him with whips, ⁴while a herald opposite him cried out, "Obey the king's commands!" ⁵But the lofty-minded and noble man, like a true Eleazaros, as though being tortured in a dream, was in no way swayed. ⁶Yet while he raised his eyes aloft toward heaven, the old man was being torn in his flesh by whips; he was dripping with blood and lacerated in his sides. ⁷Although he fell to the ground because his body could not bear the agonies, he kept his reason upright and unswerving. ⁸One of the cruel bodyguards leaped on him and kicked him in the side with his foot so that he would get up again after he fell. ⁹But he endured the pains, scorned the torture and persevered through the abuses. ¹⁰Like a noble athlete, the old man, while being beaten, conquered his torturers; ¹¹in fact, as his face was sweating and he was gasping heavily for breath, he was admired by his torturers themselves for his courageous spirit.

¹² Thereupon, partly because they pitied his old age, ¹³partly because they were in sympathy with him from their acquaintance with him and partly because they were in admiration of his perseverance, some of the king's retinue approached him and said, ¹⁴"Eleazar, why are you irrationally destroying yourself through these evil devices? ¹⁵We will set before you some cooked meat; save yourself by pretending to taste pork."

¹⁶ But Eleazaros, as though more bitterly abused by this counsel, cried out: ¹⁷"Never may we, the children of Abraam, think so basely that we play the coward and feign a role unbecoming to us! ¹⁸For it would be irrational if, after we have lived life until old age in accordance with truth, and maintained, by observing the law, the reputation of such a life, we should now change our course ¹⁹and ourselves become a model of impiety for the young so that we should set a precedent for eating defiled food. ²⁰It would be shameful if we should survive but a little while and during that time be a laughingstock to all for our cowardice; ²¹shameful if we were despised by the tyrant as unmanly and did not champion our divine law even unto death. ²²So then, O children of Abraam, die nobly for the sake of piety! ²³And you, bodyguards of the tyrant, why do you delay?"

²⁴ When they saw that he displayed such loftiness of mind in the face of the tortures and that he remained unmoved by their pity, they brought him to the fire. ²⁵There they burned him with maliciously contrived instruments, threw him down and poured stinking liquids into his nostrils. ²⁶When he was now burned to his very bones and about to lose consciousness, he lifted up his eyes to God and said, ²⁷"You know, O God, that though it is within my power to save myself, I die in fiery tortures for the sake of the law. ²⁸Be merciful to your people, and be satisfied with our punishment on their behalf. ²⁹Make my blood their purification, and take my life in exchange for theirs." ³⁰After he said this, the holy man died nobly in his tortures; he stood firm even in tortures unto death, by virtue of reason, in defense of the law.

³¹ By common acknowledgement, then, pious reason is master of the passions. ³²For if the passions had overcome reason, ^{1b}would have borne testimony for them of their dominance. ³³But now that reason has conquered the passions, we properly ascribe to it the power to govern. ³⁴It is right for us to acknowledge the strength of reason when it prevails even over external agonies; ^cotherwise it would be absurd. ³⁵I have shown not only that reason has overcome agonies but also that it overcomes pleasures and in no respect yields to them.

7 For like a most skillful pilot, the reason of our father Eleazaros steered the ship of piety on the sea of the passions, ²and though buffeted by the stormings of the tyrant and overwhelmed by the mighty waves of the tortures, ³in no way did it turn the rudders of piety until it sailed into the haven of immortal victory. ⁴No city besieged by many and diverse war machines has ever held out as did that all-holy man. In his sacred soul he was set ablaze by abuses and torments, yet he conquered his besiegers through ^dall-shielding reason that is rooted in ^dpiety. ⁵For in setting his mind firm like a jutting cliff, our father Eleazar broke the madly raging waves of the passions. ⁶O priest, worthy of the priesthood, you neither defiled your sacred teeth nor profaned your stomach, which had room only for godliness and purity, by eating defiling foods. ⁷O man in harmony with the law, philosopher of divine life! ⁸Such should be those whose office is to serve the law, shielding it with their own blood and noble sweat in sufferings even unto death. ⁹You, father, confirmed our loyalty to the law through the endurance that brought you glory; the sacred service that you solemnly avowed you did not subvert, and by your deeds you corroborated your words of divine philosophy. ¹⁰O aged man, more powerful than tortures, O elder, fiercer than fire, O supreme king over passions, Eleazar! ¹¹For just as our father Aaron, armed with the censer, ran through the throng of his people and conquered the fiery angel, ¹²so the descendant of Aaron, Eleazar, though being consumed by the fire, remained unswayed in his reason. ¹³Indeed, what was most amazing was that, though he was an old man, the sinews of his body already loosed, his muscles relaxed, his nerves exhausted, he became young again ¹⁴in spirit through reason, and by reason like that of Isaak he rendered the many-headed rack ineffective. ¹⁵O man of blessed age, venerable gray hair and law-observant life, whom the faithful seal of death has perfected!

^aLacking in Gk ^bwe = Ra ^cGk uncertain ^dOr reason that shielded his

¹⁶ If, therefore, through piety an aged man desisted tortures even unto death, by common acknowledgement pious reason is governor of the passions. ¹⁷Perhaps some may say, "Not all have full control of their passions, because not all have prudent reason." ¹⁸But as many as attend to piety with a whole heart, these alone are able to overcome the passions of the flesh, ¹⁹since they believe that they do not die to God, even as our patriarchs Abraam, Isaak and Iakob did not die to God, but live to God. ²⁰That some appear to be ruled by passion because of the weakness of their reason does not contradict this in any way. ²¹What person, who lives as a philosopher by the whole rule of philosophy and trusts in God ²²and knows that it is blessed to endure every pain for the sake of virtue, would not gain full control of the passions with the help of godliness? ²³For only the wise and courageous are masters of their passions.

8 This is why even the very young, by following a philosophy of reason rooted in piety, have prevailed over even harsher instruments of torture. ²For when the tyrant was patently defeated in his first attempt, being unable to compel an aged man to eat defiling foods, then in exceedingly violent passion he gave orders to bring others from the captives of the Hebrews, and if they ate defiling food, to set them free when they had eaten, but if they refused, to torture them still more cruelly.

³ When the tyrant had given these orders, seven brothers—handsome, modest, noble and accomplished in every way—were brought and stood before him along with their aged mother. ⁴When the tyrant saw them surrounding their mother in the middle as though they were a chorus, he was pleased with them. Struck by their fine appearance and nobility, he smiled at them, summoned them nearer and said, ⁵"Young men, with friendly feelings I admire each and every one of you. Greatly prizing the handsomeness and the goodly number of you brothers, so many as you are, I not only advise you not to display the same madness as that of the old man who has just been tortured but also encourage you to yield to me and take advantage of my friendship. ⁶Just as I am able to punish those who disobey my orders, so I can be a benefactor to those who obey me. ⁷Trust me, then, and, if you disown the ancestral law of your polity, you will receive leading positions in the affairs of my state. ⁸Enjoy your youth by embracing a Greek way of life and changing your mode of living. ⁹For otherwise, if you move me to anger by your disobedience, you will compel me to destroy each and every one of you with terrible punishments through tortures. ¹⁰Therefore have compassion on yourselves, you whom even I, your enemy, pity for your youth and becoming appearance. ¹¹Will you not consider this, that, if you disobey, nothing awaits you but to die with torments?"

¹² When he had said these things, he gave orders to set the instruments of torture before them so that he might persuade them to eat the defiling food out of fear. ¹³But when the bodyguards had placed before them wheels, joint-dislocators, racks, hooks^a, catapults^b, cauldrons, frying-pans, thumb-screws, iron claws, wedges and bellows, the tyrant resumed speaking: ¹⁴"Be fearful, young fellows; the justice which you revere will be merciful to you if you transgress the law under duress."

¹⁵ But when they had heard the inducements and saw the terrible devices, not only were they not fearful, but they also countered the tyrant with their own philosophy and by their good sense overthrew his tyranny. ¹⁶Yet let us consider if some among them had been fainthearted and unmanly, what sorts of arguments they might have used. Would they not have been these? ¹⁷"How hapless we are and too, too foolish! When the king invites us and encourages us to accept kind treatment if we obey him, ¹⁸why do we cheer ourselves with vain resolves and venture upon a fatal disobedience? ¹⁹Men and brothers, shall we not fear the instruments of torture, take account of the threats of tortures and flee from this vanity and calamitous conceit? ²⁰Let us have compassion on our youth and pity the old age of our mother. ²¹And let us keep in mind that if we disobey, we shall die. ²²Divine justice will make allowance for us if we fear the king under duress. ²³Why do we remove ourselves from this most pleasant life and deprive ourselves of this delightful world? ²⁴Let us not test our strength against necessity nor cherish vain opinions at the cost of our own torment on the rack. ²⁵Not even the law itself would readily condemn us to death for fearing the instruments of torture. ²⁶How can it be that such contentiousness has taken hold of us and a fatal obduracy pleases us, when it is within our power to live undisturbed by obeying the king?"

^aGk uncertain ^bAn instrument of torture

27 But the young men, though about to be tortured, neither said nor considered any of these things, 28 for they were disdainful of the passions and absolute rulers over agonies. 29 As a result, as soon as the tyrant ceased advising them to eat defiling food, they all with one voice together, as though with the same soul, said,

9 "Why do you delay, O tyrant? We are ready to die rather than transgress our ancestral commandments. 2 For we would cause our forebears to be ashamed with good reason, if we did not show ready obedience to the law and to Moyses our counselor. 3 Counselor and tyrant of transgression, in your hatred for us do not pity us more than we pity ourselves. 4 For we consider harsher than death itself the mercy you offer, which ensures our safety at the price of our transgression of the law. 5 You are trying to intimidate us, threatening us with death by tortures, as though you did not learn from Eleazaros a short time ago. 6 But if the old men of the Hebrews acted piously for the sake of piety even while enduring tortures, still more justly should we young men die, despising the tortures of your imposition, which the old man our teacher conquered. 7 Therefore, tyrant, put us to the test, and if you take our lives because of piety, do not think that, by torturing, you hurt us. 8 For we, through this suffering and endurance, shall gain the prizes accorded virtue and shall be with God, for whose sake we suffer, 9 but you, because of your bloodthirstiness toward us, will endure ample and everlasting torture by fire imposed by divine justice."

10 When they had said these things, the tyrant was not only indignant, as at the disobedient, but also infuriated, as at the ungrateful. 11 Thereupon his armor-bearers, on receiving their orders, brought forward the oldest of them, tore off his tunic and bound his hands and arms with thongs on either side. 12 When they had exhausted themselves by beating him with scourges, yet accomplished nothing, they hoisted him on the wheel. 13 When the noble youth was stretched out around this, his limbs were dislocated. 14 Broken in every limb, he began his denunciation: 15 "Most abominable tyrant, enemy of heavenly justice, savage-minded, you maltreat me in this way not because I have murdered or acted impiously but because I have championed the divine law." 16 And when the bodyguards said, "Agree to eat so that you may be released from the tortures," 17 he said, "Your wheel is not so strong, O abominable henchmen, as to strangle my reason. Maim my limbs, burn my flesh, twist my joints; 18 through all these tortures I will persuade you that children of the Hebrews alone are invincible in virtue's defense." 19 When he said these things, they spread fire under him, and, ^awhile fanning the flames^a, tightened the wheel further. 20 The wheel was stained on all sides with blood, the heap of coals was being quenched by the drippings of body fluids, and pieces of flesh whirled around the axles of the machine. 21 Although he had already had his skeleton severed, the lofty-minded youth, a true son of Abraam, did not groan, 22 but as though transformed in the fire into immortality, he nobly endured the torments. 23 "Imitate me, brothers," he said. "Do not desert your post in my struggle nor renounce the brotherhood of good courage you share with me. 24 Fight the sacred and noble fight for piety; for its sake the just Providence of our ancestors may become merciful to our nation and take vengeance on the accursed tyrant." 25 When he had said these words, the saintly young man broke off his life.

26 All marveled at his strength of spirit. Then the bodyguards brought the brother second in age to him, and, after equipping themselves with iron hands with sharp claws, they bound him to the torture machine and catapult. 27 They inquired, before he was tortured, whether he was willing to eat, and they heard his noble decision. 28 These leopard-like beasts tore at his sinews with their iron hands, ripped all his flesh off up to his chin and the skin off his head. But he steadfastly endured this agony and said, 29 "How sweet is every form of death for the sake of the piety that we have inherited from our ancestors!" To the tyrant he said, 30 "Do you not think, tyrant most savage of all, that you are being tortured more than I, as you see the arrogant reasoning of your tyranny defeated by our endurance for the sake of piety? 31 I relieve my pain with the joys that come from virtue, 32 but you suffer torture from the threats that hang over impiety. You will not escape, most abominable tyrant, the judgments of divine wrath."

10 When he too had endured a glorious death, the third was led in and was much urged by many to save himself by tasting the meat. 2 But he cried out, "Do you not know that the same father begot me as well as those who died; the same mother bore me, and I was brought up on the same tenets? 3 I do not renounce the noble ties of brotherhood." 5 But they, taking the man's boldness bitterly, dislocated his hands and feet with their instruments of torture and dismembered him by prying his limbs from their sockets. 6 They broke his fingers, arms, legs and elbows. 7 Since they were not able in any way to suppress him, ^bthey tore off his skin^b and scalped him with their fingertips in the Scythian fashion. 8 Then they immediately brought him to the wheel. On it he was disjoined at his backbone. He saw his own flesh torn all around and drops of blood flowing from his entrails. 9 When he was about to die, he said, 10 "We, most abominable tyrant, are suffering these things because of training and divine virtue. 11 But you, because of your impiety and bloodthirstiness, will endure unceasing tortures."

12 When he, too, had died in a manner worthy

^aGk uncertain ^bloosened their instruments of torture = Ra

of his brothers, they dragged in the fourth, saying, ¹³“Do not display, you too, the same madness as your brothers, but obey the king and save yourself.” ¹⁴But he said to them, “You do not have a fire for me so very hot that I should play the coward. ¹⁵By the blessed death of my brothers, the everlasting destruction of the tyrant and the everlasting life of the pious, I will not disown our noble brotherhood. ¹⁶Contrive tortures, tyrant, so that you may learn from them that I am a brother to those who have just now been tortured.” ¹⁷When he heard these words, the bloodthirsty, murderous and utterly abominable Antiochus gave orders to cut off his tongue. ¹⁸But he^a said, “Even if you remove my organ of speech, God hears the silent as well. ¹⁹See, my tongue hangs loose already. Cut it off, for you will not cut off, beyond this, the tongue of our reason. ²⁰Gladly, for the sake of God, we let the limbs of our bodies be cut off. ²¹God will pursue you swiftly, for you are cutting off a tongue that has been melodious with divine hymns.”

11 When he too died, maltreated by the tortures, the fifth leaped up, saying, ²“Tyrant, I am not about to beg to be excused from torture for the sake of virtue. ³I have come of my own accord so that, by killing me too, you may incur punishment from the heavenly justice for more crimes. ⁴Hater of virtue, hater of humankind, what have we done that you destroy us in this way? ⁵Is it that we show devotion to the Creator of all and live by his virtuous law? ⁶But these deeds deserve honors, not tortures.” ⁹While he was saying such things, the bodyguards bound him and dragged him to the catapult. ¹⁰They tied him to it on his knees, and when they had fitted iron clamps on these, they bent his lower back round the circular wedge. When he was completely curled back round the wheel in the manner of a scorpion, he was dismembered. ¹¹In this condition, gasping for breath and suffocating in body, ¹²he said, “Tyrant, you grant us splendid favors against your will, according us the opportunity to show our enduring loyalty to the law through yet more noble sufferings.”

¹³ When he too had died, the sixth, a mere boy, was led in. When the tyrant inquired whether he was willing to eat and be released, he said, ¹⁴“In age I am younger than my brothers, but in mind I am their peer. ¹⁵Since we were born and brought up for the same purposes, we ought likewise also to die for the same causes. ¹⁶So if you are resolved to torture me for not eating defiling foods, torture!” ¹⁷When he had said these words, they led him to the wheel. ¹⁸He was stretched tight upon it with great diligence; his back was broken, and he was roasted from beneath. ¹⁹They heated sharp spits in the fire and applied them to his back, pierced his sides and burned his entrails. ²⁰While he was being tortured, he said, “O contest befitting sanctity in which, for the sake of piety, so many of my brothers have been summoned to a school in sufferings, a contest in which we have not been defeated! ²¹For devout knowledge, O tyrant, is invincible. ²²Armed with nobility of character, I too will die with my brothers, ²³and I too will procure for you a great avenger, you inventor of tortures and foe of the truly pious. ²⁴We six lads have overthrown your tyranny. ²⁵For since you can neither sway our reason nor compel us to eat defiling food, is this not your overthrow? ²⁶Your fire is frigid to us, the catapults painless, your violence unavailing. ²⁷The bodyguards that govern us are not those of the tyrant but those of the divine law. That is why we hold our reason undefeated.”

12 When he too, thrown into a cauldron, had died in blessedness, the seventh and youngest of all came forward. ²The tyrant, though he had been vehemently denounced by his brothers, pitied him when he saw the fetters already on him. He summoned him nearer and tried to advise him: ³“You see the result of your brothers’ stupidity; they were tortured on the rack and died for their disobedience. ⁴You too, if you do not obey, will die, a tortured wretch, before your time. ⁵But if you obey, you will be my friend and will lead in the affairs of my kingdom.” ⁶When he had exhorted him with these words, he summoned the boy’s mother, that he might show mercy to her after she had been deprived of so many sons and that he might urge on the remaining son to a ready obedience that would be his deliverance. ⁷But when his mother had spurred him on in the Hebrew language, as we shall relate a little later, ⁸he said, “Loose me, and let me speak to the king and to all his Friends who are with him.” ⁹Extremely pleased by the boy’s announcement, they quickly loosed him. ¹⁰Running to the nearest of the frying pans, ¹¹he said, “Irreverent tyrant, most impious of all the wicked, were you not ashamed, when you have received good things and your kingdom from God, to kill his attendants and torture on the rack those trained in piety? ¹²For these deeds, justice will store up for you a fire more fierce and everlasting and tortures, which for all time will not release you. ¹³Though you are a man, most bestial one, you were not ashamed to cut out the tongues of those with feelings just like yours, who are made of the same elements, or to maltreat and torture them in this way. ¹⁴Whereas they, by dying nobly, fulfilled their duty of piety toward God, you will grievously lament that you killed without cause those champions of virtue.” ¹⁵Thereupon, when he too was about to die, he said, ¹⁶“I will not abandon the valor of my brothers. ¹⁷I call on the God of my ancestors that he may have mercy on our nation. ¹⁸But on you he will take vengeance both in this present life and when you are dead.” ¹⁹After he had uttered these imprecations, he flung himself into the frying pans and so gave up^b.

13 If, then, the seven brothers disdained sufferings even unto death, it must be acknowl-

^ai.e. the youth ^bi.e. his life

edged on all sides that pious reason is absolute master of the passions. ²For if they had been enslaved by the passions and had eaten defiling food, we would have said that they were defeated by them. ³Now, however, that is not the case, but through reason, which is commendable in God's eyes, they overpowered the passions. ⁴It is impossible to overlook the mind's supremacy over the passions, for they^a prevailed over both passion and pains. ⁵How, then, is it possible not to acknowledge the control of passion by good sense shown by those who gave no heed to the agonies caused by fire? ⁶For just as towers jutting out over harbors hold back the threats of waves and provide calm to those who sail into the haven, ⁷so the seven-towered good sense of the young men, by fortifying the harbor of piety, conquered the unruliness of the passions. ⁸For they constituted a holy chorus of piety and encouraged one another, saying, ⁹"Brothers, let us die like brothers for the sake of the law; let us imitate the three young men in Assyria who despised the same civic rights accorded us—in a furnace! ¹⁰Let us not be cowardly in our demonstration of piety." ¹¹While one said, "Courage, brother," another said, "Bear up nobly," ¹²and another reminded them, "Remember whence you come and who the father was by whose hand Isaak submitted to be slaughtered for the sake of piety." ¹³Each of them and all of them together looked at one another, beaming and exceedingly bold, and said, "With our whole heart let us consecrate ourselves to the God who gave us our souls^b, and let us use our bodies as a bulwark for the law. ¹⁴Let us not fear him who thinks he is killing us, ¹⁵for great is the contest of the soul and the peril of everlasting torture awaiting those who transgress the commandment of God. ¹⁶Let us arm ourselves, then, with control of passion rooted in divine reason. ¹⁷For if we so die, Abraam, Isaak and Iakob will receive us, and all our fathers praise us." ¹⁸To each of the brothers who were being dragged away, those who remained said, "Do not shame us, brother, nor play false to our brothers who died before us!"

¹⁹ You are not ignorant of the bonds of brotherhood, which the divine and all-wise Providence has allotted through fathers to their descendants, implanting them through their mother's womb. ²⁰In that womb brothers dwell an equal length of time and are shaped for the same time. They grow from the same blood, and from the same life-spring they are brought to mature birth. ²¹Born after an equal time of gestation, they drink milk from the same fountains by whose embraces minds filled with brotherly love are nourished together. ²²They grow more robust through common nurture, daily companionship, other education and our discipline in divine law.

²³ So strong, indeed, is the sympathy of brotherly love. Yet the seven brothers felt still greater sympathy toward each other. ²⁴For since they were trained in the same law, diligently practiced the same virtues and were brought up together in right living, they loved each other still more. ²⁵Their common zeal for nobility of character intensified their goodwill toward one another and their oneness of mind, ²⁶for with their piety they made brotherly love still dearer to themselves. ²⁷But although nature, companionship and virtuous habits had combined to augment the bonds of brotherhood in their eyes, through their piety those who were left held firm while they saw their brothers maltreated and tortured even unto death.

14 Moreover, they even spurred them on to face the abuse so that they not only disdained the agonies but also overcame the passions of brotherly love.

² O powers of reason, more royal than kings and freer than the free! ³O sacred and harmonious unanimity of the seven brothers in defense of piety! ⁴None of the seven youths played the coward or shrank back from death, ⁵but all hastened to meet death through the tortures as though running on the path to immortality. ⁶Just as the hands and feet are moved in harmony at the promptings of the soul, so those holy youths, as though moved by an immortal soul of piety, advanced in harmony to death for the sake of such piety. ⁷All-sacred band of seven, band of brothers in harmony! Just as the seven days of creation form a circle round piety, ⁸so the youths in chorus formed a circle round the seven-fold band, negating their fear of the tortures. ⁹Now, as we hear of those young men's affliction, we shudder. For their part, not only did they see and not only did they hear the word of immediate threat, but they also suffered and endured, and that in pangs of fire. ¹⁰What could be more painful than that? For the power of fire is sharp and intense, and swiftly it destroyed their bodies.

¹¹ Do not think it remarkable if reason had full control of those men in the midst of the tortures, when even the mind of a woman disdained agonies still more diverse. ¹²For the mother of the seven young men endured the torments of each one of her boys.

¹³ Consider how complex is the affection of a mother's love for her children, channeling all her feeling into a sympathy rooted deep within. ¹⁴Even unreasoning animals show sympathy and affection for their offspring like that of human beings. ¹⁵For among birds, the tame ones that roam the mountains protect their young on housetops, ¹⁶and others, building their nests on mountain peaks, in clefts of ravines, in holes of trees or on their tops, give birth to their young and fend off the intruder. ¹⁷And if they are unable to fend it off, they help their children to the extent that they are able, flying in circles around them and calling to them with their own voice, grieving all the while out of love. ¹⁸And why is it necessary to offer proof of sympathy for offspring on the part of unreasoning animals ¹⁹when even bees at the time for making honeycombs defend themselves against intruders? They sting, as with an iron dart, those who approach their hive, and they defend it to the point of death. ²⁰Yet sympathy for her children did not move the young men's mother, one in soul as she was with Abraam.

^ai.e. the brothers ^bOr lives

15 O reason of the children, tyrant over the passions! O piety, dearer to the mother than her children! ²When two alternatives lay before her—that of piety and that of the temporary preservation of her seven sons on the terms of the tyrant's promise—³the mother showed her greater love for piety that, according to divine promise, preserves to everlasting life. ⁴How can I characterize the passions involved in the love of parents for their children? We impress upon the tender nature of a child a remarkable likeness both of soul and of form; especially is this true of mothers, because they are more sympathetic in their feelings toward their offspring than fathers. ⁵For to the extent that mothers are of tender spirit and bear more children, so much the more attached are they to their children. ⁶But more than all other mothers, the mother of the seven boys was attached to her children. Through seven pregnancies she had implanted in herself tender love toward them, ⁷and though, because of the many birth pangs she suffered with each of them, she was bound to feel sympathy for them, ⁸because of the fear of God she despised the temporary deliverance of her children. ⁹Not only so, but because of her sons' nobility of character and their ready obedience to the law, she felt a tender love toward them that was still greater. ¹⁰For they were just, self-controlled, courageous, lofty-spirited, full of brotherly love and of such love for their mother that they obeyed her and kept the ordinances even unto death.

¹¹ Nevertheless, though so many factors related to maternal love drew the mother to sympathy, in the case of none of them were the various tortures strong enough to sway her reason; ¹²rather the mother urged each boy individually and all together on to death for the sake of piety. ¹³O sacred nature, parental affection, tender love toward offspring, nursing and indomitable maternal passions! ¹⁴Yet, though seeing each one tortured on the rack and burned, the mother, for the sake of piety, did not change her course. ¹⁵She watched the flesh of her children melt about the fire, their toes and fingers quiver on the ground, the flesh of their heads as far down as their chins exposed like masks.

¹⁶ O mother, tried now by pains more bitter than even the birth pangs you suffered for them! ¹⁷O woman, who alone gave birth to such perfect piety! ¹⁸Your firstborn breathing his last did not alter your resolution or your second born looking at you piteously in his tortures or your third expiring. ¹⁹Nor did you weep when you looked at the eyes of each one as they gazed boldly in their tortures at the same abusive treatment or saw in their nostrils the signs of their approaching death. ²⁰When you saw the burning flesh of children lying upon the flesh of children, severed hands upon hands, scalped heads upon heads, corpses fallen upon corpses, and when you saw the place full of people on account of the tortures of your children, you did not shed tears. ²¹Neither the songs of sirens nor the voices of swans so draw their hearers to fond listening as the voices of children calling to their mother in their tortures. ²²How great and how many were the tortures with which the mother was then tortured as her sons were themselves being tortured on the wheel and with hot irons! ²³But in the midst of these very passions, pious reason endued her heart with manly courage and strengthened her to disregard the immediate claims of parental love.

²⁴ Although she witnessed the massacre of her seven children and the convoluted diversity of their torments, the noble mother undid the impact of all these things through her divine faith. ²⁵It was as though, in the council chamber of her mind, the mother saw powerful counselors—nature, birth, parental love, the torments of her children—²⁶and held two ballots concerning her children, one bringing death and one deliverance. ²⁷She gave no heed to the deliverance that would preserve her seven sons for a short time, ²⁸but, as his daughter, called to mind the perseverance of God-fearing Abraam.

²⁹ O mother of the nation, vindicator of the law, champion of piety, prizewinner in the contest that took place in your heart, ³⁰more noble than males in perseverance, more manly than men in endurance! ³¹As the ark of Noe stoutly withstood the waves, sustaining the world through the flood that filled the world, ³²so you, O guardian of the law, though overwhelmed on all sides by the flood of your passions and distressed by the strong winds of the tortures of your sons, nobly endured the storms that befell you for your piety.

16 If, then, a woman, aged and the mother of seven boys, endured seeing the tortures of her children unto death, by common acknowledgement pious reason is absolute ruler of the passions. ²Thus I have demonstrated that not only men overcame their passions, but also a woman disdained the greatest tortures. ³The lions surrounding Daniel were not so savage, nor was the furnace of Misael so ablaze with fiercest fire as the nature of her maternal love inflamed her when she saw her seven sons tortured in such diverse ways. ⁴But by the reason that is rooted in piety, the mother quenched passions so many and so great.

⁵ Consider this also: if the woman, although a mother, had been fainthearted, she would have mourned over them and perhaps spoken as follows: ⁶"O how wretched I am, thrice unhappy time and again; though I bore seven boys, I have become a mother of none. ⁷In vain, my seven pregnancies, useless, my seven periods of gestation, unfruitful my nursings, wretched the nourishings at my breast. ⁸In vain, my boys, did I endure many birth pangs for you and the still more trying anxieties of your upbringing. ⁹Alas for my boys, some unmarried, others married to no purpose. I shall not see your children or have the happiness of being called grandmother. ¹⁰I, a woman with many and fair children, am a widow, alone, with much to lament. ¹¹Nor when I die will I have any of my sons to bury me."

¹² Yet the holy, God-fearing mother bewailed none of them with this lament and neither attempted to dissuade any of them from dying, nor, as they died, did she grieve. ¹³But as though she had a mind of adamant^a and was giving the full complement of her sons a new birth to life immortal, she rather implored and urged them on to death for the sake of piety. ¹⁴O mother, divine soldier in defense of piety, elder, woman! By perseverance you have conquered even a tyrant and proved stronger in deeds and words than a man. ¹⁵For when you had been arrested together with your sons, you stood and watched Eleazar being tortured and said to your sons in the Hebrew language, ¹⁶"O boys, noble is the contest to which you have been summoned for the testimony you can bear for our nation. Fight zealously in defense of our ancestral law! ¹⁷For it would be shameful if, when this old man endures these agonies for the sake of piety, you young men were to be terrified by the tortures. ¹⁸Remember that it is thanks to God that you have shared in the world and enjoyed life. ¹⁹Therefore you ought to endure all suffering for the sake of God, ²⁰for whose sake our father Abraam made haste to sacrifice his son Isaak, a father of our nation; nor did Isaak flinch when he saw his father's hand bearing a sword and descending upon him. ²¹Daniel the righteous was thrown to the lions. Hananias, Azarias and Misael were hurled into a furnace of fire and, for the sake of God, endured. ²²Since, then, you have the same faith in God, do not be distressed. ²³For it would be unreasonable for those who know piety not to withstand sufferings."

²⁴ By means of these words the mother of the seven encouraged and persuaded each of her sons to die rather than transgress the commandment of God. ²⁵And this they knew as well: that those who die for the sake of God, for God now live, as do Abraam, Isaak, Iakob and all the patriarchs.

17 Some of the bodyguards said that when she was about to be carried off to death, she threw herself into the fire so that no one might touch her body.

² O mother, who with your seven boys subverted the strength of the tyrant, frustrated his evil designs and showed the nobility of your faith! ³Like a roof nobly set upon the pillars of your boys, you endured, unmoved, the earthquake of the tortures. ⁴Take courage, then, holy-minded mother, as you keep firm your enduring hope in God. ⁵The moon in heaven with the stars is not so awesome as you. After lighting the path to piety for your seven star-like boys, you stand honored before God, firmly set in heaven with them. ⁶For your childbearing was from Abraam our father.

⁷ If it were possible for us to paint the story of your piety as on some surface^b, would not onlookers shudder when they saw the mother of the seven children enduring, for the sake of piety, diverse tortures even unto death? ⁸Indeed, it would be appropriate to inscribe the following words on their tomb itself as a reminder to the people of our nation^c:

⁹ "Here lie buried an aged priest, an aged woman and seven boys, victims of the violence of a tyrant who wished to destroy the polity of the Hebrews. ¹⁰They vindicated their nation, looking to God and enduring tortures even unto death."

¹¹ Truly the contest carried on by them was divine, ¹²for then virtue, testing them for their perseverance, offered rewards. Victory meant incorruptibility in long-lasting life. ¹³Eleazar contended first; the mother of seven boys entered the fray, and the brothers contended. ¹⁴The tyrant was the antagonist; the world and human society looked on. ¹⁵Godliness won the victory and crowned its own athletes. ¹⁶Who did not marvel at the athletes contending for the divine law code? Who were not astonished?

¹⁷ The tyrant himself and all his council marveled at their endurance, ¹⁸for which they now stand before the divine throne and live the life of the blessed age. ¹⁹For Moyses says, "All the sanctified ones are under your hands." ²⁰And these who have been divinely sanctified are honored not only with this honor, but also in that, thanks to them, our enemies did not prevail over our nation; ²¹the tyrant was punished, and the homeland was purified, since they became, as it were, a ransom for the sin of the nation. ²²And through the blood of those pious people and the ^dpropitiatory of their death^d, divine Providence preserved Israel, though before it had been afflicted.

²³ When the tyrant Antiochus saw the courage of their virtue and their endurance under the tortures, he proclaimed to his soldiers that they were an example for their own endurance. ²⁴He made them^e noble and courageous for fighting on foot and for siege and pillaged and conquered all his foes.

18 O Israelite children, offspring of the seed of Abraam, obey this law, and act piously in every way, ²knowing that pious reason is master of the passions and of pains, not only of those from within but also of those from without.

³ Wherefore those who, for the sake of piety, gave over their bodies to sufferings were not only admired by human beings but also deemed worthy of a divine inheritance. ⁴Thanks to them the nation gained peace; by reviving loyalty to the law in the homeland, they pillaged their enemies. ⁵The tyrant Antiochus was punished on earth, and now that he has died, he continues to undergo chastisement. For when he was in no way whatever able to compel the Hierosolymites to become allophytes

^aI.e. steel ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr memorial to these heroes of our nation ^dI.e. atonement wrought by their death ^eI.e. his soldiers

and change their way of life from their ancestral customs, he left Hierosolyma and marched against the Persians.

6 The mother of the seven boys spoke these righteous sayings to her children: 7 "I was a pure virgin and did not step outside my father's house, but I kept watch over ^athe built rib^a. 8 No seducer or corrupter on a desert plain corrupted me, nor did the seducer, the snake of deceit, defile the purity of my virginity. 9 At the time of my maturity I remained with my husband; when these sons came of age, their father died. Blessed was he, for he lived a life marked by the blessing of children and did not suffer the grief of the time of childlessness. 10 While he was still with you, he taught you the law and the prophets. 11 He read to you of Habel, who was murdered by Kain, of Isaak, who was offered as a whole burnt offering, of Ioseph in prison. 12 He told you of the zealot Phinees; he taught you about Hananias, Azarias and Misael in the fire. 13 He praised Daniel in the den of the lions and blessed him. 14 He reminded you of the scripture of Esaias, which says, 'Even if you should go through fire, the flame shall not consume you.' 15 He sang for you with words of the psalmist Daudid when he says, 'Many are the afflictions of the righteous.' 16 For you he cited the proverb of Salomon when he says, 'He is a tree of life to those who do his will.' 17 He affirmed the words of Iezekiel when he says, 'Shall these dry bones live?' 18 For he did not forget to teach the song that Moses taught which says, 19 'I will kill, and I will make alive; this is your life and the length of your days.' "

20 O bitter was that day—and yet not bitter—when the bitter tyrant of the Greeks quenched fire with fire in his cruel cauldron and with seething rage brought the seven boys of the daughter of Abraam to the catapult and again to his tortures, 21 pierced the pupils of their eyes, cut off their tongues and killed them with various tortures. 22 For these deeds divine justice has pursued and will pursue the accursed tyrant. 23 But the children of Abraam with their prizewinning mother are gathered together into the chorus of the fathers and have received pure and immortal souls from God, 24 to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

PSALMS

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of the book of Psalms has been based primarily on the edition of Alfred Rahlfs, Psalmi cum Odis (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Litterarum Göttingensis editum X [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1967 (1931)]). Although Rahlfs is not a full-fledged critical edition of the Greek Psalter, it is the best available and as such an appropriate text with which to begin. The present NETS translation has been revised from its first appearance in a separately published fascicle.¹

At not a few places, Rahlfs enclosed within square brackets items of text, which, although they could not in his judgment justifiably be regarded as original, nevertheless have widespread support in the textual traditions. Since in all of these cases I agree with Rahlfs' conclusion, I have taken the next step and have excluded these items from NETS without comment.

Further improvements to Rahlfs' edition have been made in the light of additional textual information (chiefly II–V CE; especially the famous P. Bodmer XXIV [Rahlfs 2110]) and more recent study. All these, however, have been included in the footnotes to NETS. Nevertheless, there remains good reason to emphasize that a liturgical text such as the Psalter, with its long and intensive transmission history, can hardly be expected to have been fully restored as yet to its pristine purity. I have therefore followed Rahlfs' lead and, in addition to changing his text, have placed within square brackets items whose originality I consider to be suspect. These may be eliminated altogether by a future editor more courageous than I or armed with additional evidence.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General Character

There can be no doubt that the NETS paradigm of the Greek as an interlinear translation of the Hebrew is applicable to the book of Psalms. That is to say, the linguistic relationship of the Greek text to the Hebrew text is one of dependence and subservience. Yet within that model it has its own profile. Its translation is literal, if literalness is understood to refer to a high degree of consistency in one-to-one equivalence, including not only so-called content words but structural words as well. Thus literalness might be labeled its central characteristic.

Literalness may, however, be nuanced in several ways. The number of many-to-one Hebrew-Greek equations is relatively high. That is to say, the translator often selected a single Greek word (or root) for several Hebrew counterparts. This feature, semantic leveling, is fully compatible with the interlinear paradigm and for that reason should not be attributed to the translator's lack of literary imagination. Included here are words and concepts that seem to have been his default stock-in-trade. Thus, for example, ἀντιλήμπτωρ ("supporter") and βοηθός ("helper") translate seven Hebrew words each, and their cognates further underscore the translator's predilection for them. Obviously, these readily came to mind when the translator looked for suitable equivalents to the Hebrew. Similarly, Greek words that convey relatedness to the "law" (νόμος) such as "lawlessness" (ἀνομία), "lawless" (ἄνομος), "to act in a lawless manner" (ἀνομέω), "to transgress the law" (παράνομέω), "transgressor of the law" (παράνομος)—are prominent. Or again a concept like "injustice" (ἀδικία + cognates) receives an emphasis in the Greek disproportionate to the Hebrew. As a result, the reader of NETS will read more about God's "supporting" and "helping" of humans, and similarly more about the law as a yardstick for "good," "evil" and "injustice," than will the reader of NRSV.

Not surprisingly perhaps the number of one-to-many Hebrew-Greek equations is relatively low. In such cases a single Hebrew word or root is translated by at least two or more Greek words. Some examples of such differentiation are “good” (טוֹב) rendered by “good” (ἀγαθός) and “kind” (χρηστός), and “servant/slave” (עַבְדֵּךְ) translated most often by “slave” (δούλος) but on a few occasions by “child/servant/slave” (παῖς). As might be expected, such differentiation of meaning happens with greater frequency on the verbal (more abstract) side of the language than on the nominal (more concrete) side. Hebrew “to turn” (שׁוּב), for instance, is rendered by twelve different Greek verbs. Nonetheless, though a measure of differentiation occurs, it is typically rather restricted. Thus, in the example just cited, ἐπι- and ἀποστρέφω account for nearly two-thirds of all instances. Again, this phenomenon of limited and restricted differentiation or an overemphasis on word-centered meaning may be said to be at home in an interlinear linguistic environment.

¹ Albert Pietersma, ed., A New English Translation of the Septuagint: The Psalms (New York: Oxford University Press, 2000).

The above does not preclude that leveling, and especially differentiation, cannot at times serve purely stylistic purposes, but given the general nature of the Greek translation of Psalms, leveling and differentiation are usually the better explanation.

An interesting example, which could be differentiation for purely stylistic reasons, is the equation of Hebrew “to answer” (עָנָה) with Greek “to listen to” (ἐπακούω or εἰσακούω), when God is the subject. Though it is not difficult to discern something of a semantic shift from Hebrew to Greek, it is not certain that one should make a distinction in meaning between the two Greek words. Interestingly, εἰσακούω also translates Hebrew “to hear” (שָׁמַע), though ἐπακούω does not. Thus, in part at least, here too a difference in the Greek echoes a difference in the Hebrew, and to that extent it is still expressive of literalness. For NETS I have opted for the synonyms “to listen” (εἰσακούω) and “to hearken” (ἐπακούω) respectively.

Other aspects of literalness—or better isomorphism—at both the lexical and grammatical levels add further flavor to the Greek of Psalms. As noted, expressive of the interlinear model, our translator had a strong tendency to overemphasize the importance of individual words and formal details of the Hebrew, at the expense of communicating its coherent meaning. For example, in a number of passages he mechanically transferred the Hebrew gender of a pronominal, thereby presenting an exegetical challenge to anyone reading the text independent of the Hebrew: 26.3–4; 73.18; 80.6; 108.27; 117.23; 118.50, 56; 131.6. (I have flagged such instances in the notes.) Indeed, the Greek translator’s starting point was at times almost directly opposite to that advocated by modern semanticists. Not infrequently, he began with the individual word and its supposed core meaning rather than with meaning as it is conveyed by the interrelationship of words in syntactic units. Differently put, one could say that he tends to maximize the individual word and to minimize the context in which it stands, rather than vice-versa.

Though at times the translator might be charged with throwing at his reader the Hebrew text in Greek guise, to call him a hack would be unfair. Instead, as has been suggested, his translating is heavily circumscribed by linguistic interlinearity, which informs his task. Indeed, from that perspective it clearly makes little sense to charge him with inadequate knowledge of Greek and lack of stylistic sensitivity. Even in the superscripts where no context comes to his assistance, he at times introduces an interpretive spin. One may note, for example, that although מִשְׁכִּיל (a type of song) is rather mechanically glossed by “understanding” (σύνεσις), usually the latter is interpretively put into the genitive case (31.1; 51.1; 52.1; 53.1; 54.1; 73.1; 77.1; 87.1; 88.1), with the result that the entire psalm in question might now be read as having to do with “understanding.” Yet, other such interpretive spins in the titles seem less transparent. When, for example, an individual composition is labeled both a psalm and song (in line with the parent text), he usually makes one an attributive of the other. So in Ps 29.1; 47.1; 66.1; 67.1; 74.1; 86.1; 91.1 we have “a psalm of a song” (ψαλμὸς ᾠδῆς) and in 65.1; 82.1; 87.1; 107.1 “a song of a psalm” (ᾠδῆ ψαλμοῦ). Since ψαλμός refers in the first instance to instrumental music and ᾠδή to vocal music, it is not impossible, as has been suggested ad loc., that he had in mind the relative predominance of these two aspects. But what of “praise-song of a song” (?) (αἶνος ᾠδῆς) in 90.1; 92.1; 94.1, since both terms seem to have a vocal reference? Thus, it is clear that the translator often puts the form of the text above its meaning. Admittedly, he is kinder to his readers in the acrostic Ps 118, when he not only gives the names of the letters of the Hebrew alphabet, which mark the beginning of each alphabetic strophe, but also supplies a standard Greek numerical equivalent.

Understandably, it is especially idiomatic and figurative language that tends to suffer severely at the hands of a heavily word-based, interlinear mode of translation. When in 34(35).3 “to empty out the spear” (הֲרִק חֲנִית) is translated by “to pour out the sword”—and a big sword at that!—(ἐκχεῖν ῥομφαίαν) we have decidedly unidiomatic Greek. NRSV translates idiomatically “draw the spear” and the Greek translator might have done likewise but did not.

To be sure, a modern translator, in the nature of the case, tends to overemphasize what is problematic about the work of an ancient translator and underemphasize what causes no problems. In spite of the translation model he used, most of what the Greek translator of Psalms did is intelligible—and that includes many passages in which the Hebrew text is less than clear—if not idiomatic. He will even at times introduce difference—where the Hebrew text is identical—perhaps for the sake of variation in style, though that is not the only available explanation. An instructive example is Ps 59.7–14 in comparison with Ps 107.7–14.

Indeed, one can even find some literary sparks, the exceptions that prove the rule of his regular mode. So at 48(49).3 where the Hebrew text speaks of “(sons of) man” (בְּנֵי אָדָם) and “(sons of) men” (בְּנֵי אֲדָמָה), the translator, rather than resorting to his standard equivalents, decided to render the first phrase by “earthborn” (γηγενεῖς) (a word virtually unknown in the Septuagint) and neatly balanced the pair by a “both . . . and” conjunctive. In 10(11).2 the phrase “to shoot in the dark (אֶפְסֵל) at the upright in heart” becomes “to shoot in a moonless night (σκοτομήνη) at the upright in heart,” thus employing a picturesque word rare in Greek and unattested elsewhere in the Septuagint corpus. Or again, in 26(27).9 Hebrew “to forsake” (אָנַח), elsewhere rendered simply as “to reject” (ἀπωθέω), is translated by the rare and graphic verb “to throw to the crows” (ἀποσκορακίζω), glossed in NETS by “to damn.” Ps 109.3 features “morning-star” (ἑωσφόρος) for Hebrew “morning” (רֶשֶׁת) rather than the less colorful “morning” (ῥῆθρος) he uses elsewhere. Such literary nuggets are admittedly not many, and one would scarcely expect them in a text whose evident purpose it is to point the reader away from itself, but they do exist, and they do add a dimension to our translator’s work. Yet, when all is said and done, it is the Psalter’s literality or isomorphism that establishes a baseline for translator and exegete alike.

Of Stereotypes, Calques and Isolates

The vast majority of words in the Psalms have standard Greek meanings, and that includes the so-called stereotypes, which, due to rigid equation with a single Hebrew counterpart, sometimes fit poorly into their context. Among these may be counted πικραίνω (“to embitter”) + cognates, θέλω (“to want”) + cognates, εἰς τέλος (“completely”), στέαρ (“fat” in a context where “prosperity” is needed), νεφρός (“kidney” in reference to the seat of the emotions), ψαλμός (“psalm”), εἰρήνη (“peace” in reference to a person’s well-being).

Calques (Greek words with Hebrew meaning, institutionalized prior to the translation) can be found in Psalms as well. The clearest example is διαθήκη, a word that probably began its life in Jewish usage as a stereotype but that in the Psalter is clearly a calque and therefore appropriately translated by “covenant” (the stock meaning of Hebrew בְּרִית, rather than the “testament” of extra-biblical Greek). It is also possible that νόμος (“law”) carries the added sense of “teaching,” derived from תּוֹרָה, its standard Hebrew counterpart but more likely represents a semantic shift of תּוֹרָה by the third century BCE.

The Greek translator’s overemphasis on individual words and his preoccupation with the lower levels of constituent structure are most clearly noticeable in his isolate renderings. Typically, in such cases, etymology of the Hebrew word plays a central role. By way of illustration, in Ps 7.7 Hebrew עֲבַרְהָא (“overflow/arrogance/fury”) is translated via עָבַר = πέραν (“across”) by πέρας (“end”)—a word representing entirely different Hebrew lexemes elsewhere in Psalms—and the Greek line as a whole must mean something like: “be exalted at the deaths of my enemies.” A glance at Ps 38.4 confirms that πέρας within the Psalter can indeed refer to the terminus of human life. Or does the line mean what Thomson thought it did: “Exalt Thyself in the borders of mine enemies”? Whatever the case, as a result of the translator’s adherence to interlinearity his text, on the one hand, means something quite different from MT and, on the other, is scarcely intelligible in Greek.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF PSALMS

General Approach

But if the Greek translator’s approach to his Hebrew text was all too often indeed what I have alleged it to be, namely, an isomorphic approach with a primary focus on representing the source text, not infrequently at the expense of coherent sense, what are the options of a NETS translator to render this “interlinear” Greek into English? Clearly as long as words are fully concordant with their context and the grammar is at least transparent, NETS can be expected to read relatively smoothly.

Though I have eschewed any rigid policy of one-to-one Greek-English equation, a reasonable effort has been made to reproduce word echoes in the Greek, which may or may not reflect echoes in the Hebrew. In passing it deserves to be mentioned that this effort has not infrequently meant that the reading of the NRSV has been replaced by a synonym in NETS.

By “reasonable effort” it should be understood that the more circumscribed a word’s meaning the better it lends itself to representation by a single English equivalent. Not surprisingly, therefore, there are many Greek terms, especially on the nominal (more concrete) side of the language, that have been given a single (or at least a default) English equivalent. Thus a word such as ὄρος (“mountain”) has been rendered throughout by “mountain,” even when NRSV, for literary reasons, had opted for “hill” to translate the identical Hebrew word (רֶהַב). Similarly, ἁμαρτωλός (+ cognates), the standard equivalent for both חַטָּאִים and רְשָׁעִים, has been uniformly rendered “sinner.” Countless others have been treated in the same way.

When I have judged that the Greek translator differentiates vis-à-vis the Hebrew for semantic reasons, I have typically differentiated in NETS.

The highest level of one-to-one Greek-English consistency in Psalms will be observable within individual psalms.

Perhaps the lowest level of one-to-one consistency has been feasible with respect to relational words, notably prepositions, including phrases that function as prepositions. The obvious reason for this is that such words play a primarily structural role and as such carry little fixed meaning. (See further below.)

I have already touched on the problem of idiomatic and figurative language. Although in a replacement type of translation idioms and figurative expressions in the source language are typically lost in the process, others are often gained from the target language, thus producing a kind of equilibrium of loss and gain. In Septuagint translationese, however, one would hardly expect that to be the case, and especially in a poetic book such as Psalms we see a decidedly unilateral process. In fact, because of its highly literal approach, what is figurative in Hebrew frequently becomes an oddity in Greek. For example, although Hebrew כִּלְיָה (‘‘kidney’’) often figuratively refers to human emotions, νεφρός in Greek means only ‘‘kidney.’’ Therefore any figurative sense is imposed by the (translated) context. Because NETS has opted for a representative translation style, what is unidiomatic and nonfigurative in the Greek will often be the same in English.

Selected Words and Phrases

The so-called superscriptions or titles to individual psalms cause a disproportionate grief to a translator, modern and ancient alike. The reason for this, in addition to frequent lexical obscurity, is that the words and expressions used are typically without context. Since there is reason to believe that the superscriptions grew in a piecemeal, atomistic fashion, I have treated them in NETS in an atomistic fashion even beyond the NRSV. The reader who is troubled by this may simply ignore the punctuation between discrete items and string them together.

The Greek translator’s word-based approach is as evident in the superscriptions as everywhere else. Yet within those parameters there is some evidence of differentiation, some of which has already been noted. Thus, for example, one encounters both nominatives and genitives without explicit warrant in the Hebrew, and datives as well as εἰς + accusative constructions reflecting Hebrew לְ +. All in all, whether as a result of differentiation or one-to-one equation with the Hebrew, there is a variety of words/phrases that may be labeled ‘‘expressions of general reference.’’ That is to say, they indicate without much specificity (partly due to lack of context) that x has something to do with y. Where the Greek differs in detail I have followed suit in NETS.

One of these ‘‘expressions of general reference’’ is τῷ Δαυίδ (τῷ Ἀσάφ et al.). Since the Greek translator clearly did not assign authorship per se to such Psalms, I have opted for the reasonably neutral phrase ‘‘Pertaining to David’’ (et al.), since it allows for a range of perceived connections with the person(s) in question.

NRSV’s ‘‘Psalm’’ has for reasons of tradition been retained in the superscriptions. It is by no means certain, however, that Greek ψάλλω (‘‘psalm’’), at the time of the Greek translator, was already a technical term. As noted earlier, I have regarded it as stereotype, which means that it still had its chiefly instrumental rather than vocal sense and as such referred in the first instance to a tune being played on a stringed instrument (harp or lyre), which was then plucked (ψάλλω) with the fingers rather than struck with a plectrum. Along the same lines, διάψαλμα, which consistently renders Hebrew סֵלָה (‘‘Selah’’), a word of uncertain meaning, has been interpreted to mean not simply an interlude but an interlude on strings and rendered accordingly in NETS. Evidently in recognition of the fact that it indicated a pause in the musical proceedings, the Greek translator did not represent ‘‘Selah’’ when it stood at the close of a psalm (3.9; 23.10; 45.12).

Another frequent item in the titles is ᾠδὴ, the regular translation of שִׁיר (‘‘song’’). Though ‘‘song’’ would have been defensible for NETS, I have opted, with some hesitation, for ‘‘Ode’’ instead. To be sure, ᾠδὴ is the standard equivalent of שִׁיר (36x) and may be a calque, since it already occurs in the Greek Pentateuch as an equivalent for שִׁיר; on five occasions within Psalms (32.3; 39.4; 95.1; 97.1; 149.1) the translator opted for ᾠσμα (“song”). This may suggest that he meant to differentiate the two. The presence of καινόν (“new”) with all five instances of ᾠσμα may further indicate that an ᾠδή was thought of as being more of a traditional song in distinction from a new and ad hoc composition. But the latter point can clearly not be pressed in light of ᾠδὴν καινήν (“new ode”) in 143.9. Consequently, whatever the precise difference in the Greek, I have sought to mirror a difference in NETS by translating the terms as “Ode” and “song” respectively.

Since the Greek Psalter provides no evidence that the translator made any serious attempt at distinguishing between the divine names יהוה (“Yahweh,” including the short form “Yah”) and אֲדֹנָי (“Adonai”), I have in accordance with NETS policy rendered all occurrences of κύριος, when representing either, by “Lord.”

Hades, one of very few translations into Greek, which has not been translated into English, is probably a calque. If that is correct, to translate it simply by English “hell” would seem to be as inappropriate as rendering its Hebrew counterpart, Sheol, by that term.

There is reason to believe that the translator’s chief reason for using σκῆνωμα, and by extension κατασκηνώω, is to reserve σκηνή for the Tabernacle, in line with Pentateuchal usage. Consequently, it appears unlikely that σκῆνωμα + is meant to carry any special nuance, apart from its general sense of non-permanence. In Psalms (and elsewhere in NETS), therefore, the noun has been rendered by “covert,” and the verb by “encamp,” in distinction from “tent” for σκηνή.

Greek δούλος in Psalms has been rendered, with some hesitation, by “slave.” The hesitation stems purely from the connotation “slave” carries in modern English. The Greek Pentateuch translated Hebrew עֶבֶד (“servant”/“slave”) almost exclusively by Greek παῖς, a word with a very similar semantic range. Leuitikon 25.44 and 26.13, where δούλος is found instead, confirm the difference between the two Greek terms. The translator of Psalms chose almost exclusively δούλος (“slave”) (53x) with only four occurrences of παῖς. Esaias and Jeremias present a mix with Iezekiel inclining toward δούλος and the Minor Prophets completely in the latter camp. There is no evidence for arguing that δούλος in Psalms is a calque.

Since ἀναβαθμός has no prior history within the LXX in the sense of “ascents,” it can scarcely be called a calque (if indeed its Hebrew counterpart has that meaning²). Since both inside and outside the LXX, the word is used only in the sense of steps (of a stairway), it evidently carries its normal semantic range. What we seem to have, therefore, is a stereotype, which arose because the translator insisted on the equation הַלָּעַל – ἀναβαίνω > הַלָּעַל – ἀναβαθμοί. Why he did not choose ἀνάβασις instead—which occurs in 83.6, but for a different Hebrew root—may be surprising but suggests in any case that he was not thinking of “ascending/ascension” as such. Accordingly, NETS readers will read of Songs of the Steps rather than Songs of Ascents. Of interest is that according to Jewish exegetical tradition these psalms were recited by the Levites on the fifteen steps leading from the court of the men to that of the women in the temple.³

Some Problems of Grammar

Since the Psalms are poetic literature and furthermore typically do not tell a story with a timeline of its own, the Hebrew verbal categories of tense-aspect presented something of a problem to the Greek translator. Quite clearly he ended up by working with a set of default or unmarked equations. Thus Hebrew yiqtol forms are normally translated by the Greek future indicative, the qatal by the aorist indicative, and the participle often by the present indicative. It should be noted, however, that participles are also often translated by participles, even though that may produce either strained syntax in the Greek or an obvious change in syntax.

Though he had his default equivalents, apparent awareness of contextual sense brought about some flexibility. Nevertheless, the defaults produced a certain stiltedness and abruptness in the use and sequence of Greek tenses. In an effort to communicate at least some of this quality to the reader of NETS, I have typically rendered all Greek aorists by the English simple past, even when the NRSV has used the present perfect—which is not to say that the Greek aorist and the English simple past are linguistically identical.

A second grammatical item that occasioned some discomfort is the preposition. The primary function of prepositions is grammatical; that is to say, prepositions forge relationships between constituents of ² See J. Day, Psalms (Old Testament Guides; Sheffield: Sheffield Academic Press, 1992) 61–62.

³ Adolf Neubauer, “The Authorship and the Titles of the Psalms according to Early Jewish Authorities,” SBE 2 (1890) 1–57.

sentences. Nonetheless, like full words or lexemes but unlike lexically empty structural markers such as case endings, prepositions have some lexical content. They may appropriately be referred to as (semantically) bleached words or lexemes in distinction from (semantically) full words or lexemes. Once this is realized, it comes as no surprise that when prepositions are treated as though they were full lexemes with a set meaning, idiomatic usage tends to go out the window (cf. the earlier note on idiomatic language). Yet this is precisely what often happens in the Greek Psalms due to the fact that its translator often read the Hebrew text in an atomistic manner. The result is that each Hebrew preposition was typically given a default equivalent in Greek, and this default tended to be used irrespective of whether it produced idiomatic Greek. Since the issue here is frequently one of infelicity in Greek style (which is difficult to mimic in English) rather than change in meaning from the Hebrew, such instances have been largely ignored for the purposes of NETS, lest one produce senseless English! The rule of thumb has been to ignore all instances of default equations between Hebrew and Greek but to take seriously instances of non-default equations, the assumption being that when the translator deviated from his routine he did so for a reason.

Greek καί ("and"), the standard equivalent of Hebrew ו ("and"), has been rendered routinely by "and," even where the NRSV suppresses Hebrew ו.

Since Greek Psalms often lacks articles when they are not explicitly warranted by the source text, such absence has been taken seriously in NETS.

EDITORIAL DETAIL

Punctuation in Rahlfs' edition of the Greek Psalter has been treated with respect but not regarded as normative.

Unlike "Selah" in the NRSV, its equivalent in NETS, "interlude on strings," is consistently followed by an empty line on the grounds that any interlude signals a pause.

In their division of materials the Masoretic and the Greek Psalters do not completely agree. Since MT Psalms 9 and 10 are a single psalm in the Greek (9) and Greek Psalm 113 is two psalms in MT (114, 115), between these points the numeration of LXX is up by one from MT. Further, since LXX Psalms 114 and 115 equal MT 116.1–9 and 116.10–19 respectively, and MT 147.1–11 and 12–20 constitute LXX 146 and 147, between these points we have an identical number of Psalms, though their enumeration varies by one.

Versification in MT, LXX and NRSV is potentially more confusing. While MT and LXX coincide, the NRSV excludes the psalm titles from the numbering and as a result is out of step with both MT and LXX. NETS follows the Rahlfs numbering for chapters and verses but gives the NRSV numbers in parentheses.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Apart from standard grammars and lexica, I have benefited from other English translations of the Greek Psalter such as those of Brenton (1844) and Thomson (1808) (see "TO THE READER OF NETS"), but particularly from the more recent renditions by A. Lazarus, The Holy Psalter from the Septuagint (Madras: Diocesan Press, 1966), by the Fathers of the Holy Transfiguration Monastery, The Psalter according to the Seventy (Boston, 1987), and by José M. de Vinck and Leonidas C. Contos, The Psalms Translated from the Greek Septuagint (Allendale NJ: Alleluia Press, 1993). A copy of the The Psalter acc. to the Seventy was kindly sent to me by Father Basil. It should be borne in mind, however, that the aim of NETS has been distinctly different from any of these. Among the more exegetical treatments, Martin Flashar's "Exegetische Studien zum Septuagintapsalter" (ZAW 32 [1912] 81–116, 161–198, 241–268) has been invaluable, as has been F. W. Mozley, The Psalter of the Church (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1905).

My graduate students in Septuagint at the University of Toronto, Cameron Boyd-Taylor, Paul McLean, Tony Michael, Marc Saunders, Tyler Williams, Jannes Smith and Wade White have been of great help. A special debt of gratitude I owe, however, to Cameron for his incisive and persistent critique, which has immeasurably improved the final product.

ALBERT PIETERSMA

BOOK I

(Psalms 1-40[41])

Psalm 1

- 1 Happy the man
 who did not walk by the counsel of the
 impious,
 and in the way of sinners did not stand,
 and on the seat of pestiferous people did not sit down.
- 2 Rather, his will is in the law of the Lord, and on his law he will meditate day and night.
- 3 And he will be like the tree that was planted by the channels of waters,
 which will yield its fruit in its season,
 and its leaf will not fall off.
 And in all that he^a does, he^a will prosper.
- 4 Not so the impious, not so!
 Rather, they are like the dust that the wind flings from off the land.
- 5 Therefore the impious will not rise up in judgment,
 nor sinners in the council of the
 righteous,
- 6 because the Lord knows the way of the
 righteous,
 and the way of the impious will perish.

Psalm 2

- 1 Why did nations grow insolent,
 and peoples contemplate vain things?
- 2 The kings of the earth stood side by side,
 and the rulers gathered together,
 against the Lord and against his anointed,
Interlude on strings
- 3 "Let us burst their bonds asunder and cast their yoke from us."
- 4 He who resides in the heavens will laugh at
 them,
 and the Lord will mock them.
- 5 Then he will speak to them in his wrath,
 and in his anger he will trouble them.
- 6 "But I was established king by him,
 on Sion, his holy mountain,
 by proclaiming the Lord's ordinance:
 The Lord said to me, 'My son you are;
 today I have begotten you.
- 8 Ask of me, and I will give you nations as your heritage,
 and as your possession the ends of the
 earth.
- 9 You shall shepherd them with an iron rod, and like a potter's vessel you will shatter
 them."

^aOr it

- 10 And now, O kings, be sensible;
 be instructed, all you who judge the
 earth.
- 11 Be subject to the Lord with fear, and rejoice in him with trembling.
- 12 Seize upon instruction, lest the Lord be angry,
 and you will perish from the righteous
 way,
 when his anger quickly blazes out.

Happy are all who trust in him.

Psalm 3

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Daud. When he was running away from his son Abessalom.
- 2(1) O Lord, why did those who afflict me multiply?
 Many are rising against me;
- 3(2) many are saying to me,
 "There is no deliverance for him in his God."
Interlude on strings
- 4(3) But you, O Lord, you are my supporter, my glory, and one who lifts up my
 head.
- 5(4) With my voice I cried to the Lord,
 and he hearkened to me from his holy mountain.
Interlude on strings
- 6(5) I lay down and slept;
 I woke again, because the Lord will support me.
- 7(6) I shall not be afraid of ten thousands of
 people
 who are setting themselves against me all around.
- 8(7) Rise up, O Lord!
 Save me, O my God,
 because you are the one who struck all who are hostile to me for nothing;
 the teeth of sinners you shattered.

- 9(8) Deliverance is the Lord's, and may your blessing be on your
 people!

Psalm 4

- 1 Regarding completion. Among psalms. An Ode.
 Pertaining to Daud.
- 2(1) When I would call, the God of my righteousness listened to me.
 In affliction you gave me room.
 Have compassion on me, and listen to my prayer.

3(2) You sons of men, how long will you be dull-witted^a?
Why do you love vanity and seek after falsehood?
Interlude on strings

4(3) And know that the Lord made marvelous his devout one;
the Lord will listen to me when I cry to him.

5(4) Be angry, and do not sin;
speak in your hearts,
and on your beds be pricked^b.
Interlude on strings

6(5) Sacrifice a sacrifice of righteousness, and hope in the Lord.

7(6) Many are saying, "Who will show us good things?
The light of your face was ^cmade a sign^c upon us, O Lord!"

8(7) You gave gladness in my heart;
from^d their season of grain and wine and oil they multiplied.

9(8) In peace altogether, I will lie down and sleep, because you alone, O Lord, settled me in hope.

Psalm 5

¹ Regarding completion. Over her that inherits. A Psalm. Pertaining to David.

2(1) To my words give ear, O Lord;
take note of my cry.

3(2) Pay attention to the voice of my petition,
my King and my God,
because to you I will pray, (3)O Lord.

4 In the morning you will listen to my voice;
in the morning I will present myself to you and will look on,

5(4) because you are not a god who wants lawlessness;
one^e who does evil will not sojourn with you.

6(5) Lawbreakers will not endure before your eyes;
you hated all who practice lawlessness.

7(6) You will destroy all those who speak the lie;
a bloodthirsty and deceitful man the Lord abhors.

8(7) But I, through the abundance of your mercy,
I will enter into your house;
I will do obeisance toward your holy shrine in awe of you.

9(8) O Lord, guide me in your righteousness for the sake of my enemies;

make straight your way before me.

10(9) Because there is no truth in their mouths, their heart is vain;
their throat is an opened grave;
with their tongues they would practice deceit.

11(10) Judge them, O God;
let them fall by their own schemes;
in accordance with their many impieties cast them out,
because they embittered you, O Lord.

12(11) And let all who hope in you be glad;
forever they will rejoice,
and you will encamp among them,
and those^f who love your name will boast in you,

13(12) because you will bless the righteous;
O Lord, you crowned us as with a shield of favor.

Psalm 6

¹ Regarding completion. Among hymns. Over the eighth. A Psalm. Pertaining to David.

2(1) O Lord, do not rebuke me in your anger, nor discipline me in your wrath.

3(2) Have mercy on me, O Lord, because I am weak; heal me, O Lord, because my bones were troubled.

4(3) And my soul also was troubled very much,
and you, O Lord—how long?

5(4) Turn, O Lord; rescue my soul;
save me for the sake of your mercy,

6(5) because in death there is no one who makes mention of you, and in Hades who will acknowledge you?

7(6) I was weary with my moaning;
every night I will bathe my bed;
with my tears I will drench my couch.

8(7) My eye was troubled due to anger;
I grew old among all my enemies.

9(8) Keep away from me, all you who practice lawlessness, because the Lord listened to the voice of my weeping.

10(9) The Lord listened to my petition;
the Lord accepted my prayer.

11(10) May all my enemies be ashamed and be very much troubled; may they be turned back and, in a moment, be very much put to shame.

^aOr heavy-hearted ^bPossibly stunned into silence or feel compunction ^cPossibly stamped ^dOr as a result of

^ePr and = Ra ^fPr all = Ra

Psalm 7

- 1 A Psalm pertaining to Daud, which he sang to the Lord over the words of Chousi son of Iemeni.
- 2(1) O Lord my God, in you I hoped;
save me from all my pursuers, and
rescue me,
- 3(2) lest he like a lion seize my soul,
with no one to redeem or save.
- 4(3) O Lord my God, if I did this,
if there is injustice in my hands,
- 5(4) if I repaid those who repaid me with evil, then may I ^afall away empty from ^amy
enemies;
- 6(5) may^b the enemy pursue and overtake my
soul
and trample my life to the ground and make my glory encamp in the dust.
Interlude on strings
- 7(6) Rise up, O Lord, in your wrath;
be exalted ^cat the deaths^c of my
enemies,
and^d awake, O my^e God, with the ordinance you commanded.
- 8(7) And a congregation of people will surround
you,
and above^f this return on high!
- 9(8) The Lord will judge peoples;
sdo me justices, O Lord, according to my
righteousness
and according to the innocence in me.
- 10(9) Do let evil of sinners be brought to an end,
and you shall direct the righteous.
God is one who tests hearts and kidneys^h.
- 11(10) Righteous is my help from God,
he who saves the upright in heart.
- 12(11) God is a righteous judge, ⁱ[and strong and patient]ⁱ,
one who does not bring on wrath every
day.
- 13(12) If you do not turn back, he will make his sword gleam;
his bow he bent and prepared it,
- 14(13) and on it he prepared implements of death;
he forged his arrows ⁱfor those that are being burntⁱ.
- 15(14) Look, he was in travail with injustice;
he conceived toil
and brought forth lawlessness.
- 16(15) A pit he dug and cleaned it out,
and he shall fall into the hole he made.
- 17(16) His toil shall return upon his own head, and on his own pate his injustice shall descend.

- 18(17) I will give to the Lord the acknowledgment due to his righteousness
and make music to the name of the Lord,
the Most High.

Psalm 8

- 1 Regarding completion. Over the wine vats. A Psalm. Pertaining to Daud.
- 2(1) O Lord, our Lord, how admirable is your name in all the
earth,
because your magnificence was raised beyond the heavens.
- 3(2) Out of mouths of infants and nurslings you furnished praise^k for yourself, for the sake of your enemies,
to put down enemy and avenger,
- 4(3) because I will observe the heavens, works of your fingers—
moon and stars—things you alone
founded.
- 5(4) What is man that you are mindful of him or son of man that you attend to him?
- 6(5) You diminished him a little in comparison with angels;
with glory and honor you crowned
him.
- 7(6) And you set him over the works of your
hands;
you subjected all under his feet,
- 8(7) sheep and cattle, all together^d,
and further the beasts of the plain, 9(8) the birds of the air and the fish of the sea
—the things that pass through paths of seas.
- 10(9) O Lord, our Lord, how admirable is your name in all the earth!

Psalm 9(-10)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over the secrets of the son. A Psalm. Pertaining to Daud.
- 2(1) I will acknowledge you, O Lord, with my
whole heart;
I will tell of all your wonderful deeds.
- 3(2) I will be glad and will rejoice in you;
I will make music to your name, O Most
High.
- 4(3) When my enemy turns back, rearwards, they shall grow weak and shall perish
from before you,
- 5(4) because you maintained my right and my
cause;

^aPossibly be totally ineffective against ^bPr then = Ra ^cPerhaps in the boundaries ^dOm = Ra ^ePr Lord = Ra ^fPossibly on behalf of ^gjudge me = Ra ^hI.e. emotions ⁱWithout [] = Ra ^jOr against those that are being set on fire ^kOr tale or saying

- you sat on a throne, you who judge with righteousness.
- 6(5) You rebuked nations, and the impious perished;
their name you blotted out forever and forever and ever.
- 7(6) The swords of the enemy failed completely, and cities you destroyed;
the memory of them perished resoundingly.
- 8(7) And the Lord remains forever;
he prepared his throne in judgment^a.
- 9(8) And it is he who will judge the world with righteousness;
he will judge peoples with uprightness.
- 10(9) And the Lord became a refuge for the needy,
a helper at opportune times in affliction.
- 11(10) And let those who know your name hope in you, because you did not forsake those who seek you, O Lord.
- 12(11) Make music to the Lord, who resides in Sion.
Declare his practices among the nations,
- 13(12) because while avenging blood he was mindful of them;
he did not forget the cry of the needy.
- 14(13) Have mercy on me, O Lord.
See my humiliation from my enemies;
you are the one who lifts me up from the gates of death
- 15(14) so that I may proclaim all your praises in the gates of daughter Sion;
I will rejoice in your deliverance.
- 16(15) Nations got stuck in the corruption they produced;
in this trap, which they hid, their own foot was caught.
- 17(16) The Lord is known when he executes judgments;
the sinner was caught in the work of his own hands.
^b*Ode of an interlude on strings*^b
- 18(17) Let sinners be turned away to Hades, all the nations that keep forgetting God.
- 19(18) Because the poor shall not be completely forgotten, the endurance of the needy shall not perish forever.
- 20(19) Rise up, O Lord! Do not let man prevail;
let nations be judged before you.
- 21(20) Set a lawgiver over them, O Lord;
- let nations know that they are human beings.
- Interlude on strings*
- 22(1) Why, O Lord, do you stand far off—
do you overlook at opportune times in affliction?
- 23(2) When the impious behaves arrogantly, the poor is set on fire;
they are being caught in the schemes they devise,
- 24(3) because the sinner commends himself for the lusts of his soul, and he who acts unjustly counts himself blessed.
- 25(4) The sinner provoked the Lord,
“According to the full extent of his wrath he will not seek out.”
God is not before him.
- 26(5) His ways are being defiled at every opportunity;
your judgments are being erased from before him;
over all his enemies he will exercise dominion.
- 27(6) For he said in his heart, “I shall not be shaken, from generation to generation without adversity”—
- 28(7) him whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness and deceit;
under his tongue are grief and hardship.
- 29(8) He sits in ambush with the rich,
in secret places to kill the innocent.
- His eyes focus on the needy;
- 30(9) he lurks in secret like a lion in its covert;
he lurks that he may seize the poor,
that he may seize a poor one by dragging him off.
- 31(10) In his trap he will humble him;
he shall stoop and fall when he exercises dominion over the needy.
- 32(11) For he said in his heart, “God has forgotten;
he turned away his face so as not to see it at all.”
- 33(12) Rise up, O Lord God; let your hand be lifted up;
do not forget the needy.
- 34(13) Why did the impious provoke God?
For he said in his heart, “He will not seek out!”
- 35(14) You see, because you note hardship and anger,
to hand them over into your hands;
the^c poor has abandoned himself to you;
you were one helping the orphan.

- 36(15) Crush the arm of the sinner and evildoer;
his sin shall be sought out,
and he shall no more be found on account of it.
- 37(16) The Lord ^ais king^a forever and forever and
ever;
you shall perish, O nations, from his land.
- 38(17)^bO Lord you^b listened to the desire of the needy;
your ear inclined to the readiness of their
heart,
- 39(18) to do justice for the orphan and the humble so that man on the earth may not add to brag.

Psalm 10(11)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.
- (1) In the Lord I trust; how will you say to my
soul,
"Flee to the mountains like a sparrow"[?]—
- 2 because, look, sinners bent a bow;
they prepared arrows for the quiver, to shoot in a moonless night at the upright in heart,
- 3 because what you fashioned they took
down.
But the righteous—what did he do?
- 4 The Lord is in his holy shrine;
the Lord's throne is in heaven.
His eyes focus on the needy;
his eyelids examine the sons of men.
- 5 The Lord examines the righteous and the
impious,
but he who loves injustice hates his own
soul.
- 6 On sinners he will rain down snares;
fire and sulfur and a wind of a tempest are the portion of their cup.
- 7 Because the Lord is righteous and he loved righteous deeds,
his face beheld uprightness.

Psalm 11(12)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over the eighth. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.
- 2(1) Save me, O Lord, a devout one has failed, because truths became scarce among the sons of men.
- 3(2) Each spoke vanities to his fellow;
lips are deceitful, ^cin the heart and in the heart^c they spoke.
- 4(3) May the Lord destroy all deceitful lips and a boastful tongue,
- 5(4) those who say, "Our tongue we will magnify;

our lips are our own
—who is our lord?"

- 6(5) "Due to the wretchedness of the poor and due to the groaning of the needy,
I will now rise up," says the Lord;
"I will place in safety; I will speak freely against it^d."
- 7(6) The sayings of the Lord are pure sayings, silver refined by fire, tested for soil, cleansed seven times.
- 8(7) You, O Lord, you will guard us, and you will preserve us from this generation and forever.
- 9(8) All around the impious are walking about;
according to your exalted state you showed regard for the sons of men.

Psalm 12(13)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.
- 2(1) How long, O Lord, will you totally forget
me?
How long will you turn your face from
me?
- 3(2) Until when shall I hold counsels in my soul,
have pains in my heart by day?
How long shall my enemy be exalted over
me?
- 4(3) Regard; listen to me, O Lord my God!
Give light to my eyes, lest I sleep unto
death,
- 5(4) lest my enemy say, "I prevailed against
him";
they who afflict me will rejoice if I am
shaken.
- 6(5) But I hoped in your mercy;
my heart shall rejoice in your deliverance.
- (6) I will sing to the Lord, my benefactor,
and make music to the name of the Lord,
the Most High.

Psalm 13(14)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.
- (1) The fool said in his heart, "There is no
God."
They caused corruption and were abominable in their practices;
there is no one practicing kindness;
there is not even one.
- 2 The Lord peered down from the sky on the
sons of men

to see if there was any who had
understanding
or who sought after God.

3 All turned away, as well they became useless;
there is no one practicing kindness;
there is not even one.

4 Shall they never learn, all those who practice
lawlessness?
Those who eat up my people like eating bread
did not call upon the Lord.

5 There they dreaded with fear,
where there was no fear,
because God is with a righteous generation.

6 The plan of the poor you put to shame, because the Lord is his hope.

7 Who shall give out of Sion the deliverance
of Israel?
When the Lord returns the captivity of his
people,
let Iakob rejoice and Israel be glad.

Psalm 14(15)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David.

(1) O Lord, who shall sojourn in your covert?
And who shall encamp on your holy
mountain?

2 One who walks spotless and practices
righteousness,
who speaks truth in his heart;
3 he who did not beguile with his tongue nor did evil to his fellow and did not take up reproach against his next of kin.

4 Before him one who acts wickedly is despised,
but those who fear the Lord he glorifies;
he who swears to his fellow and does not renege.

5 His money he did not give at interest, and gifts he did not take against the innocent.

He who does these things shall never be shaken.

Psalm 15(16)

1 A stele inscription. Pertaining to David.

(1) Guard me, O Lord, because in you I hoped.
2 I said to the Lord, "My Lord you are,
because you have no need of my goods."

3 As for the holy ones who are in his land—he made marvelous all his wants among
them.

4 Their infirmities were multiplied;
after that, they were quick;
I will not gather their gatherings due to spilled blood
or make mention of their names with my lips.

5 The Lord is the portion of my inheritance and of my cup;
you are the one who restores to me my inheritance.

6 Boundary lines dropped for me in the most excellent spots^a;
indeed, to me my inheritance is most excellent.

7 I will bless the Lord who makes me understand;
moreover, until night my kidneys instructed me.

8 I kept seeing the Lord always before me, because he is at my right, that I might not
be shaken.

9 Therefore my heart was glad,
and my tongue rejoiced;
moreover, my flesh will encamp in hope, 10 because you will not abandon my soul to Hades
or give your devout to see corruption.

11 You made known to me ways of life.
You will fill me with gladness along with
your face;
in your right hand are delights,
completely.

Psalm 16(17)

1 A Prayer. ^bPertaining to ^bDavid.

(1) Listen, O Lord, to my righteousness; attend
to my petition;
give ear to my prayer on lips not deceitful.
2 From before you may my judgment come forth;
let my eyes see acts of straightforwardness.

3 You tried my heart; you visited by night;
you grilled me, and no injustice was found in me.

4 That my mouth might not ⁽⁴⁾speak of the deeds of human beings,
on account of the words from your lips, I kept to difficult ways.

5 Restore my steps in your paths, lest my steps be shaken.

^aLacking in Gk ^bOf = Ra

- 6 I, I cried out, because you hearkened to me, O God;
incline your ear to me, and listen to my
words.
- 7 Wondrously show your mercies, you who save those that hope in you from those that withstand your right
hand.
- 8 Guard me as the eye's pupil;
with your wings' shelter you will shelter
me
from before the impious that distress me.
My enemies beset my soul;
their fat they shut up^a;
their mouth spoke arrogance.
- 11 Casting me out, they then encircled me;
their eyes they set to incline at the ground.
- 12 They seized me like a lion eager for prey and like a whelp living in hiding.
- 13 Rise up, O Lord; anticipate them, and trip
them up;
rescue my soul from the impious, your sword ⁽¹⁴⁾from the enemies of your
hand.
- 14 O Lord, from few things from earth separate them in their lives.
And with your hidden things their belly was filled;
they were fed with sons,
and they left the remnants to their infants.
- 15 But as for me, I shall appear to your face in
righteousness;
I shall be fed when your glory appears.

Psalm 17(18)

- 1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to Daudid the servant of the Lord, what he said to the Lord, the words of this ode in the day in which the Lord rescued him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saoul. ²and he said:
- (1) I will love you, O Lord, my strength.
- ³(2) The Lord is my firmness and my refuge and my rescuer;
my God is my helper, and I will hope in
him,
my protector and horn of my deliverance,
my supporter.
- ⁴(3) When I praise, I will call upon the Lord, and from my enemies I shall be saved.
- ⁵(4) Pangs of death encompassed me,
and wadis of lawlessness alarmed me;
- ⁶(5) pangs of Hades encircled me;
snares of death outran me.
- ⁷(6) And when I was being afflicted, I called upon the Lord,
and to my God I cried.
From his holy shrine he heard my voice, and my cry before him will enter into his ears.
- ⁸(7) And the earth shook and was atremble, and the foundations of the mountains were disturbed
and shook, because God was angry with
them.
- ⁹(8) Smoke went up in his wrath,
and fire flamed from before him;
coals were ignited by him^b.
- ¹⁰(9) And he sloped heaven and came down, and thick darkness was under his feet.
- ¹¹(10) And he mounted upon cheroubin and flew;
he flew upon the wings of winds.
- ¹²(11) And he made darkness his hideaway;
around him was his tent,
dark water in clouds of air.
- ¹³(12) From^c the brightness before him the clouds passed,
hail and coals of fire.
- ¹⁴(13) And the Lord thundered from heaven, and the Most High gave forth his voice.
- ¹⁵(14) And he sent out arrows and scattered them^d;
lightnings he multiplied and confounded
them.
- ¹⁶(15) And the springs of the waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were uncovered
at your rebuke, O Lord,
at the blast of the breath of your wrath.
- ¹⁷(16) He sent out from on high, and he took me;
he took me to himself out of many
waters.
- ¹⁸(17) He will rescue me from my powerful
enemies
and from those that hate me, because they were too stout for me.
- ¹⁹(18) They outran me in the day of my ill-
treatment,
and the Lord became my buttress.
- ²⁰(19) And he brought me out into spaciousness;
he will rescue me, because he wanted
me.
- ²¹(20) And the Lord will reward me according to
my righteousness,
and according to the cleanness of my hands he will ^egive back to^e me,
- ²²(21) because I kept the ways of the Lord and did not impiously depart from my
God,
- ²³(22) because all his judgments were before me and his statutes I did not put away from
me.

^aPerhaps they became unresponsive ^bOr it ^cOr due to ^dI.e. adversaries ^ereward = Ra

- 24(23) And I shall be blameless with him, and I shall keep myself from my
lawlessness.
- 25(24) And the Lord will reward me according to
my righteousness
and according to the cleanness of my hands before his eyes.
- 26(25) With the devout you will be deemed devout, and with the innocent man you will be
innocent,
- 27(26) and with the select you will be select,
and with the crooked you will pervert,
- 28(27) because it is you who will save a humble
people,
and the eyes of haughty you will humble,
- 29(28) because it is you who will light my lamp,
O Lord—
O my God, you will light my darkness—
- 30(29) because in you I shall be rescued from ^aa pirate's nest^a,
and in my God I will scale a wall.
- 31(30) My God—blameless is his way,
the sayings of the Lord, tried by fire;
he is a protector of all who hope in him,
- 32(31) because, who is god except^b the Lord?
And who is god besides our God?—
- 33(32) God who girded me with power, and he made my way blameless,
- 34(33) refitting^c my feet like a deer's and setting me on the heights, 35(34) training my hands for battle,
and my arms you made a bronze bow.
- 36(35) And you gave me protection for my
deliverance,
and your right hand supported me,
and your instruction set me straight
completely.
- 37(36) You made spacious my strides under me,
and my footsteps did not weaken.
- 38(37) I will pursue my enemies and overtake them, and I will not turn away until they fail.
- 39(38) I will much afflict them, and they will not be able to stand;
they shall fall under my feet.
- 40(39) And you girded me with power for battle;
you shackled under me those^d who rise up against me.
- 41(40) And as for my enemies—you gave me their back,
and those who hated me you destroyed.
- 42(41) They cried out, and there was no one to save,
to the Lord, and he did not listen to
them.
- 43(42) And I will pulverize them like dust before the wind;
like the mire of streets I will grind them
down.
- 44(43) You will rescue me from disputes with
people;
you will appoint me as head of nations;
a people whom I did not know was subject to me.
- 45(44) At the ear's hearing, it obeyed me.
Sons of strangers lied to me.
- 46(45) Sons of strangers grew old and limped from their paths.
- 47(46) The Lord lives! And blessed be my God, and let the God of my deliverance be exalted,
- 48(47) the God who gives me vengeance
and subdues peoples under me,
- 49(48) my rescuer from my irascible enemies;
from those who rise up against me you will lift me up;
you will rescue me from an unjust man.
- 50(49) Therefore I will acknowledge you among nations, O Lord,
and make music to your name,
- 51(50) magnifying the acts of deliverance of his king and doing mercy to his anointed, to David and his offspring forever.

Psalm 18(19)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
- 2(1) The heavens are telling of divine glory, and the firmament proclaims his handiwork.
- 3(2) Day to day spews forth utterance,
and night to night proclaims knowledge.
- 4(3) There are no conversations, nor are there
words,
the articulations of which are not heard.
- 5(4) Their sound went out to all the earth, and to the ends of the world their utterances.
- In the sun he pitched his covert, 6(5) and he himself, like a bridegroom going forth from his bride's chamber, will rejoice, like a giant, to run his course.
- 7(6) From the sky's extremity is his starting point,
and his goal is as far as the sky's extremity,
and there is no one that will be hid from his^f heat.
- 8(7) The law of the Lord is faultless, turning souls;
the testimony of the Lord is reliable,
making infants wise;
- 9(8) the statutes of the Lord are upright,
making glad the heart;
the commandment of the Lord is radiant, enlightening the eyes;
- 10(9) the fear of the Lord is pure,

^aPerhaps temptation ^bbesides = Ra ^cwho refits = Ra ^dPr all = Ra ^eLacking in Gk ^fOr its enduring forever and ever;

 the judgments of the Lord are valid, justified altogether, 11(10) ^athings desired^a beyond gold and much precious stone and sweeter beyond honey and honeycomb.

12(11) Indeed, your slave guards them;
 in guarding them there is great reward.
 13(12) Transgressions—who shall detect them?
 From my hidden ones clear me.
 14(13) Also from strangers spare your slave!
 If they will not exercise dominion over me,
 then I shall be blameless
 and be cleansed from great sin.

15(14) And the sayings of my mouth shall become good pleasure,
 and the meditation of my heart is before you always,
 O Lord, my helper and my redeemer.

Psalm 19(20)

1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.

2(1) May the Lord hearken to you in affliction's
 day!
 May the name of the God of Iakob protect you!

3(2) May he send you help from ^ab holy place and support you from Sion.

4(3) May he remember your every sacrifice, and let your whole burnt offering increase.

Interlude on strings

5(4) May he grant you according to your heart, and your every plan may he fulfill.

6(5) We shall rejoice in your deliverance, and in our God's name we shall glory.
 May the Lord fulfill all your requests.

7(6) Now I knew that the Lord saved his
 anointed;
 he will hearken to him from his holy
 heaven;
 the deliverance of his right hand is with acts of dominance.

8(7) These glory in chariots, and those in horses,
 but we will glory in the name of the Lord,
 our God.

9(8) They were shackled and fell,
 but we rose and were set upright.

10(9) O Lord, save your king, and hearken in the day we call upon
 you.

Psalm 20(21)

1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.

2(1) O Lord, in your power the king shall be glad,
 and at your deliverance he shall rejoice greatly!

3(2) The desire of his heart^c you gave him, and of the wish of his lips you did not deprive him.

Interlude on strings

4(3) Because you anticipated him with blessings of kindness,
 you set on his head a crown of precious
 stone.

5(4) Life he asked of you, and you gave it to
 him—
 length of days forever and ever.

6(5) His glory is great by your deliverance; glory and magnificence you will bestow on him.

7(6) Because you will give him blessing forever
 and ever,
 you will make him glad with joy through your presence,

8(7) because the king hopes in the Lord, and in the mercy of the Most High he shall not be shaken.

9(8) May your hand be found for^d all your
 enemies;
 may your right hand find all those who hate you.

10(9) You will make them like an oven of fire at the time of your presence.
 The Lord will confound them in his wrath,
 and fire will devour them.

11(10) Their seed you will destroy from earth,
 and their offspring from sons of men,

12(11) because they turned evil against you; they devised a plan they will never be able to realize,

13(12) because you make them ^ea back;
 in your survivors you will prepare their face.

14(13) Be exalted, O Lord, in your power!
 We will sing and make music to your dominance.

Psalm 21(22)

1 Regarding completion. Over the support at dawn. A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.

2(1) My God, my God, attend to me; why did you forsake me?
 Far away from my deliverance are the words of my transgressions.

^adesirable = Ra ^bOr the ^csoul = Ra ^dI.e. against ^ePerhaps turn tail

- 3(2) O my God, I will cry by day, and you will not listen,
and by night, and it becomes no folly for
me.
- 4(3) But you, the commendation of Israel, reside in ^aa holy place^a.
- 5(4) In you our fathers hoped;
they hoped, and you rescued them.
- 6(5) To you they cried and were saved;
in you they hoped and were not put to shame.
- 7(6) But as for me, I am a worm and not human,
a reproach of mankind and despised by
people.
- 8(7) All who saw me mocked at me;
they talked with the lips; they moved the
head:
- 9(8) "He hoped in the Lord; let him rescue him;
let him save him, because he wanted^b
him,"
- 10(9) because it was you who drew me from the belly,
my hope from my mother's breasts.
- 11(10) On you I was cast from the womb, and from my mother's stomach you have been my God.
- 12(11) Do not keep away from me, because affliction is near,
because there is no one to help.
- 13(12) Many bull calves encircled me;
fat bulls surrounded me;
- 14(13) they opened their mouth at me,
like ^aa lion that ravens and roars.
- 15(14) Like water I was poured out,
and all my bones were scattered;
my heart became like wax melting within my belly;
- 16(15) my strength was dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue is stuck to my throat,
and to death's dust you brought me
down,
- 17(16) because many dogs encircled me,
a gathering of evildoers surrounded me.
They gouged my hands and feet;
- 18(17) I counted all my bones,
but they took note and observed me;
- 19(18) they divided my clothes among
themselves,
and for my clothing they cast lots.
- 20(19) But you, O Lord, do not put my help far
away!
Attend to my support!
- 21(20) Rescue my soul from the sword,
and from a dog's claw my only life!
- 22(21) Save me from a lion's mouth, and my lowliness from the horns of unicorns!
- 23(22) I will tell of your name to my kindred;
in the midst of an assembly I will sing a hymn to you:
- 24(23) You who fear the Lord, praise him!
All you offspring of Iakob together glorify
him;
let all the offspring of Israel fear him, 25(24) because he did not despise or scorn
the petition of the poor, nor did he turn away his face from me,
and when I cried to him, he listened to me.
- 26(25) From you comes my commendation in a great assembly;
my vows I will pay before those who fear
him.
- 27(26) The needy shall eat and be satisfied, and those who seek him shall praise the Lord;
their hearts shall live forever and ever!
- 28(27) All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to the Lord,
and all the paternal families of the nations shall do obeisance before him^d,
- 29(28) because kingship is the Lord's,
and it is he who is master over the nations.
- 30(29) All the fat ones of the earth ate and did obeisance;
all who descend into the earth shall fall down before him.
And my soul lives for him,
- 31(30) and my offspring will serve him;
the coming generation will be announced
to the Lord,
- 32(31) and they shall announce his righteousness to a people to be born, because the Lord acted.

Psalm 22(23)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid.

(1) The Lord shepherds me, and I shall lack nothing.

2 In a verdant place, there he made me
encamp;

3 by water of rest he reared me;
my soul he restored.

4 He led me into paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

5 For even if I walk in the midst of death's shadow,
I will not fear evil, because you are with
me;
your rod and your staff—they comforted
me.

6 You prepared a table before me over against those that afflict me;

you anointed my head with oil,
and your cup was supremely (6)intoxicating.
6 And your mercy shall pursue me all the days of my life,
and my residing in the Lord's house is for length of days.

Psalm 23(24)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David^a.
(1) The Lord's is the earth and its fullness,
the world and all those who live in it;
2 it is he that founded it on the seas and prepared it on the rivers.
3 Who shall ascend onto the mountain of the Lord?
And who shall stand in ^bthe place of his sanctity^b?
4 One who is guiltless in hand and clean in
heart;
he who did not occupy his soul with what is vain
and did not swear deceitfully to his fellow.
5 He it is that will receive blessing from the Lord
and mercy from his divine deliverer.
6 This is the generation of people who seek
him,
who seek the face of the God of Iakob.
Interlude on strings
7 Raise the gates, O rulers of yours!
And be raised up, O perpetual gates!
And the King of glory shall enter.
8 Who is this King of glory?
The Lord, strong and powerful,
the Lord, powerful in battle.
9 Raise the gates, O rulers of yours!
And be raised up, O perpetual gates!
And the King of glory shall enter.
10 Who is this King of glory?
The Lord of hosts,
he is the King of glory.

Psalm 24(25)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
(1) To you, O Lord, I lifted up my soul, (2)O my
God.
2 In you I trust; may I not be put to shame,
nor let my enemies deride me.
3 Indeed, none of those who wait for you shall be put to shame;
let those who are wantonly lawless be shamed.
4 Make known to me, O Lord, your ways, and teach me your paths.

5 Guide me to your truth, and teach me, because you are God, my deliverer,
and for you I waited all day long.
6 Be mindful of your acts of compassion,
O Lord,
and your mercies, because they are from
of old.
7 The sins of my youth and my acts of ignorance do not remember;
you, according to your mercy, remember
me,
for the sake of your kindness, O Lord!
8 Kind and upright is the Lord; therefore he will set a law for people that sin in the way.
9 The meek he will guide in justice;
the meek he will teach his ways.
10 All the ways of the Lord are mercy and truth
for those who seek his covenant and his testimonies.
11 For the sake of your name, O Lord—and you will expiate my sin, for it is great.
12 Who is the person that fears the Lord?
He will set a law for him in the way he chose.
13 His soul will abide in prosperity,
and his offspring shall inherit land.
14 The Lord is empowerment for those who fear him,
and his covenant is for making clear to
them.
15 My eyes are ever toward the Lord, because it is he that will pull my feet out of a snare.
16 Look upon me and have mercy on me,
because I am an only child and poor.
17 The afflictions of my heart were broadened;
bring me out of my narrow straits.
18 See my humiliation and my trouble,
and forgive all my sins.
19 See my enemies, that they multiplied, and with an unjust hatred they hated
me.
20 O guard my soul, and rescue me;
may I not be put to shame, because I hoped in you.
21 The innocent and upright would attach themselves to me,
because I waited for you^c.
22 Redeem Israel, O God, out of all its afflictions.

^a + Of the first day of the week = Ra ^bhis holy place = Ra ^c+ O Lord = Ra

Psalm 25(26)

- 1 ^aPertaining to^a Dauid.
- (1) Vindicate^b me, O Lord,
because I walked in my guilelessness, and since I hope in the Lord, I shall not grow weak.
- 2 Prove me, O Lord, and try me;
test my kidneys and my heart.
- 3 Because your mercy is before my eyes,
and I was pleased in your truth.
- 4 I did not sit with a council of vanity, and with transgressors of the law I will not enter;
- 5 I hated the assembly of evildoers,
and with the impious I will not sit.
- 6 I will wash my hands in innocence and go around your altar, O Lord, 7 to hear a voice of praise and tell all your wondrous deeds.
- 8 O Lord, I loved your house's majesty and the spot of your glory's covert.
- 9 Do not destroy my soul together with the
impious
and my life with men of blood, 10 in whose hands are acts of lawlessness;
their right hand was filled with gifts.
- 11 But as for me, I walked in my guilelessness;
redeem me, and have mercy on me.
- 12 My^c foot stood in uprightness;
in assemblies I will bless you, O Lord.

Psalm 26(27)

- 1 ^aPertaining to^a Dauid. ^d[Before he was anointed.]^d
- (1) The Lord is my illumination and my
deliverer;
whom shall I fear?
The Lord is my life's protector;
of whom shall I be in dread?
- 2 When wicked people would approach me to devour my flesh—
those that afflict me and my enemies—
they became weak and fell.
- 3 Though a camp be arrayed against me,
my heart shall not fear;
though war rise up against me,
in this^e I hope.
- 4 One^e I requested of the Lord,
this^e will I seek^f,

- to live in the Lord's house
all the days of my life, to behold the pleasantness of the Lord
and to visit his shrine, 5 because he hid me in a tent in the day of troubless,
he sheltered me in the secret spot of his tent;
high on a rock he set me.
- 6 And now, look, he set my head high against my enemies;
I made the rounds and sacrificed in his tent a sacrifice with shouting;
I will sing and make music to the Lord.
- 7 Listen, O Lord, to my voice with which I cried aloud;
have mercy on me, and listen to me!
- 8 To you my heart said, "My face sought!"
Your face, Lord, will I seek.
- 9 Do not turn your face from me.
- Do not turn away from your slave in wrath;
be my helper. Do not damn me, and do not abandon me, O God, my
deliverer,
- 10 because my father and my mother abandoned me,
but the Lord took me to himself.
- 11 Make laws for me by your way, O Lord, and guide me on a straight path for the sake of my enemies.
- 12 Do not give me up to the souls of people that afflict me,
because unjust witnesses rose against me
and injustice lied to itself.

- 13 I believe, in order that I may see the good things of the Lord in the land of the living.
- 14 Wait for the Lord;
take courage, and let your heart be strong,
and wait for the Lord!

Psalm 27(28)

- 1 ^aPertaining to^a Dauid.
- (1) To you, O Lord, I cried;
my God, do not pass me by in silence, lest you pass me by in silence and I shall be like those who go down
into a pit.
- 2 Listen to the voice of my petition,
as I petition you,
as I lift up my hands toward your holy shrine.

3 Do not drag my soul away together with sinners;
together with workers of injustice do not destroy me,
those who speak peace with their fellows,
but wrongs are in their hearts.
4 Give them according to their works,
and according to the wickedness of their practices;
according to the works of their hands give them;
render them their due reward.
5 Because they took no notice of the works of the Lord and of the works of his hands, you will bring them down and build them up no more.

6 Blessed be the Lord,
because he listened to the voice of my petition.
7 The Lord is my helper and my protector;
in him my heart hoped,
and I was helped and my flesh revived,
and from my will I shall acknowledge him.
8 The Lord is empowerment for his people;
he is a protector of the deliverance of his anointed one.
9 O save your people, and bless your heritage, and shepherd them, and lift them up forever.

Psalm 28(29)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David^a.
(1) Bring to the Lord, O divine sons^b,
bring to the Lord glory and honor.
2 Bring to the Lord glory for his name;
do obeisance to the Lord in his holy court.
3 The Lord's voice is over the waters;
the God of glory thundered,
the Lord, over many waters, 4 the Lord's voice in strength,
the Lord's voice in magnificence.
5 The Lord's voice, as he crushes cedars, and the Lord will crush the cedars of Lebanon.
6 And he will pulverize them, as the bull calf,
the Lebanon,
and he that is beloved is like a son of unicorns.
7 The Lord's voice, as he divides flames of fire.
8 The Lord's voice, as he shakes a wilderness;

the^c Lord will shake the wilderness of Kades.

9 The Lord's voice, as he prepares deer, and he will uncover forests,
and in his shrine every last one speaks of glory.
10 The Lord will settle the flood, and the Lord will sit as king forever.
11 The Lord will give strength to his people!
The Lord will bless his people with peace!

Psalm 29(30)

1 ^dAe Psalm. Of an Ode^d of the dedication^f of the house. Pertaining to David.
2(1) I will exalt you, O Lord, because you upheld me and did not gladden my enemies over me.
3(2) O Lord my God, I cried to you, and you healed me.
4(3) O Lord, you brought up my soul from Hades;
you saved me from those that go down into a pit.
5(4) Make music to the Lord, O you his devout, and acknowledge the mentioning of his holiness, 6(5) because wrath is in his fury and life in his will.
Weeping will lodge for the evening,
and rejoicing comes with the morning.
7(6) But as for me, I said in my prosperity, "I shall never be shaken."
8(7) O Lord, by your will,
you furnished my beauty with power,
but you turned away your face,
and I became troubled.
9(8) To you, O Lord, I will cry,
and to my God I will petition: 10(9) "What profit is there in my blood,
when I go down to corruption?
Surely dust will not acknowledge you or tell of your truth?" 11(10) The Lord heard and had mercy on me;
the Lord became my helper.
12(11) You turned my mourning into a dance for me;
you tore my sackcloth
and girded me with gladness 13(12)so that my glory may make music to you and I shall not be stunned^g.

^a + Of the going forth of the tent = Ra ^b + bring to the Lord young rams = Ra ^cPr and = Ra ^dPossibly a psalm (instrumental music) accompanied by a song of praise (vocal music) ^ePr Regarding completion. = Ra ^fOr rededication ^gPerhaps stunned into silence

O Lord my God, I will acknowledge you
forever.

Psalm 30(31)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to David^a.
- 2(1) In you, O Lord, I hoped;
may I never be put to shame;
in your righteousness rescue me, and
deliver me.
- 3(2) Incline your ear to me;
be quick to deliver me.
Become to me a protector-god
and a house of refuge, to save me,
- 4(3) because you are my empowerment and my refuge,
and for your name's sake you will guide
me and nourish me;
- 5(4) you will bring me out of this snare, which they hid for me,
because you are my protector.
- 6(5) Into your hands I will entrust my spirit;
you redeemed me, O Lord, God of
truth.
- 7(6) You hated those who carefully guarded vanities uselessly,
but as for me, I hoped in the Lord.
- 8(7) I will rejoice and be glad in your mercy, because you looked upon my humiliation;
you saved my soul from dire straits
- 9(8) and did not imprison me in an enemy's
hands;
you set my feet in a spacious place.
- 10(9) Have mercy on me, O Lord, because I am
being afflicted;
my eye was troubled by vexation^b,
my soul and my belly.
- 11(10) Because my life failed in pain and my years in sighing,
my strength grew weak in poverty,
and my bones were troubled.
- 12(11) With all my enemies I became a reproach, and to my neighbors, very much,
and a fright to my acquaintances;
those who would see me outside fled
from me.
- 13(12) I passed out of mind like one who is dead;
I became like a broken vessel,
- 14(13) because I heard censure from many sojourning all around;
when they gathered together against me,
they plotted to take my soul.
- 15(14) But as for me, I hoped in you, O Lord;
I said, "You are my God."
- 16(15) My times are in your hands;

- rescue me from my enemies' hand and from my persecutors.
- 17(16) Shine your face upon your slave;
save me in your mercy.
- 18(17) O Lord, may I not be put to shame,
because I called on you;
may the impious be shamed and be brought down to Hades.
- 19(18) Let the deceitful lips become speechless, which speak lawlessness against the
righteous
with pride and contempt.
- 20(19) O how much is the abundance of your kindness,
which you hid for those who fear you;
you accomplished it for those who hope in
you,
before the sons of men!
- 21(20) You shall hide them in a secret place of your presence
from human disturbance;
you will shelter them in a tent from the contention of tongues.
- 22(21) Blessed be the Lord, because he wondrously showed his mercy
in a city under siege.
- 23(22) But as for me, I said in my alarm,
"I have^d been cast from before your eyes."
Therefore you listened to the voice of my petition,
when I cried out to you.
- 24(23) Love the Lord, all you his devout, because the Lord seeks out truth and repays those who act excessively with pride.
- 25(24) Take courage, and let your heart be strong,
all you who hope in the Lord.

Psalm 31(32)

- 1 Pertaining to David. Of understanding.
- (1) Happy are those whose lawless behavior was forgiven
and whose sins were covered over.
- 2 Happy the man whose sin the Lord will not reckon,
and in his mouth there is no deceit.
- 3 Because I kept silence, my bones grew old from my crying all day long.
- 4 Because day and night your hand was heavy
upon me,
I was turned to wretchedness when a thorn was stuck in me.
- Interlude on strings*
- 5 My sin I made known,
and my lawlessness I did not cover;

I said, "I will declare to the Lord, against myself, my lawlessness," and you, you forgave the impiety of my
sin.

Interlude on strings

6 Over this^a, every devout shall pray to you at an appropriate time, but at a flood of many waters,
these will not reach him.

7 You are my refuge from affliction that besets
me—
my enjoyment, redeem me from those that encircle me!

Interlude on strings

8 I will instruct you and teach you in this way in which you should go;
I will fix my eyes upon you.

9 Do not be like horse and mule, who have no understanding;
with bridle and muzzle squeeze their jaws
when they do not come near to you.

10 Many are the scourges of the sinner, but mercy will surround him that hopes in the Lord.

11 Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, O righteous,
and boast, all you upright in heart.

Psalm 32(33)

1 Pertaining to David.

(1) Rejoice in the Lord, O you righteous.
Praise befits the upright.

2 Acknowledge the Lord with a lyre; with a harp of ten strings make music to
him.

3 Sing to him a new song;
make music skillfully, with shouting,
because upright is the word of the Lord,
and all his works are in faithfulness.

5 He loves mercy and justice;
the earth is full of the mercy of the Lord.

6 By the word of the Lord the heavens were made firm,
and by the breath of his mouth all their host,

7 as he gathers the waters of the sea like a wineskin,
as he puts the deeps in storehouses.

8 Let all the earth fear the Lord, and due to him let all the inhabitants of the world be shaken,

9 because he it was that spoke, and they came to be;
he it was that commanded, and they were created.

10 The Lord scatters counsels of nations, and he frustrates thoughts of peoples and frustrates counsels of rulers.

11 But the counsel of the Lord remains
forever,
thoughts of his heart to generation and
generation.

12 Happy is the nation of whom the Lord is God,
a people he chose as a heritage for
himself.

13 From heaven the Lord looked down;
he saw all the sons of men.

14 From his prepared habitation he looked down on all the inhabitants of
the earth—

15 he who alone fashioned their hearts, he who keeps observing all their deeds.

16 A king is not saved by a great army, and a giant will not be saved by the greatness of strength.

17 Unreliable is a horse for deliverance, and by the greatness of its power it will not be saved.

18 Look, the eyes of the Lord are on those who fear him,

19 those who hope in his mercy, to rescue their souls from death
and to keep them alive in famine.

20 Our soul waits for the Lord, because he is our helper and protector, 21 because in him our heart will be glad,
and in his holy name we hoped.

22 May your mercy, O Lord, be upon us, even as we hoped in you.

Psalm 33(34)

1 Pertaining to David. When he ^bchanged his face^b before Abimelech, and he let him go, and he went away.

2(1) I will bless the Lord at every opportunity; continually shall his praise be in my
mouth.

3(2) In the Lord my soul shall be commended;
let the meek hear and be glad.

4(3) O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together.

5(4) I sought the Lord, and he hearkened to me, and from all my sojournings he rescued
me.

6(5) Come to him, and be enlightened, and your faces shall never be put to
shame.

7(6) This poor one cried, and the Lord listened
to him,
and from all his afflictions he saved him.

^aAntecedent unclear ^bPossibly feigned madness

- 8(7) An angel of the Lord will encamp around those who fear him
and will rescue them.
- 9(8) O taste, and see that the Lord is kind;
happy the man who hopes in him.
- 10(9) O fear the Lord, you his holy ones, because those who fear him have no want.
- 11(10) The rich became poor and hungry, but those who seek the Lord shall not suffer decrease in any good thing.
Interlude on strings
- 12(11) Come, O children; hear me;
the fear of the Lord I will teach you.
- 13(12) What person is he who wants life, coveting to see good days?
- 14(13) Stop your tongue from evil and your lips from speaking deceit.
- 15(14) Turn away from evil, and do good;
seek peace, and pursue it.
- 16(15) The Lord's eyes are on the righteous, and his ears are toward their petition.
- 17(16) But the Lord's face is against evildoers, to destroy the remembrance of them from earth.
- 18(17) The righteous cried, and the Lord listened to
them,
and from all their afflictions he rescued
them.
- 19(18) The Lord is near to the brokenhearted, and the humble in spirit he will save.
- 20(19) Many are the afflictions of the righteous, and from them all he will rescue them.
- 21(20) The Lord will guard all their bones;
not one of them will be crushed.
- 22(21) The sinners' death is wretched, and those who hate the righteous shall go wrong.
- 23(22) The Lord will redeem his slaves' souls;
none of those who hope in him will go wrong.

Psalm 34(35)

- 1 Pertaining to David.
- (1) Render judgment, O Lord, on those who do me wrong;
fight against those who fight against me!
- 2 Take hold of (circular) shield^a and (oblong) shield^a,
and rise up to help me!
- 3 Extend a sword,
and block against my pursuers;
say to my soul,
"I am your deliverance."
- 4 Let them be shamed
and embarrassed who seek my soul.
- 5 Let them be turned back, rearwards, and be put to shame who devise evil
against me.
- 5 Let them be like dust in front of the wind, and an angel of the Lord driving them
on.
- 6 Let their way be darkness and slipperiness, and an angel of the Lord pursuing them, 7 because without reason they hid for me their snare's destruction, without cause they cast reproach on my
soul.
- 8 Let the snare he^b does not recognize come upon him^b.
And let the chase, which he^b concealed,
catch him^b,
and in the snare—he^b shall fall in it.
- 9 But my soul shall rejoice in the Lord;
it will delight in his deliverance.
- 10 All my bones shall say,
"O Lord, who is like you in rescuing the poor from the hand of those too hard for him,
both poor and needy from those who despoil him?"
- 11 When unjust witnesses rose up, they kept asking me about what I was not familiar with.
- 12 They would repay me evil for good,
and my soul with barrenness.
- 13 But as for me, when they troubled me,
I would put on sackcloth
and would humble my soul with fasting, and my prayer shall return into my lap.
- 14 Like a fellow, like a brother of ours,
so I would please them;
as one grieving and sad,
so I would humble myself.
- 15 And against me they were glad and gathered together;
scourges gathered together against me,
and I did not know;
they were split apart and were not stunned^d;
- 16 they tried me; they mocked me with mocking;
they gnashed their teeth at me.
- 17 O Lord, when will you take a look?
Restore my soul from their ravages,
from lions my only one!
- 18 I will acknowledge you^e in a large assembly;
among a burdensome people I will praise
you.
- 19 May those who unjustly are my enemies not be happy over me,
those who hate me without cause and wink with the eyes,

^alarge in size ^bpl = Ra ^cOr childlessness ^dPossibly stunned into inactivity ^e + O Lord = Ra

20 because as they were speaking peace to me, they were also devising treachery in
wrath.

21 And they widened their mouth against me;
they said, "Good, Good,
our eyes saw."

22 You saw, O Lord; do not pass by in silence!
O Lord, do not be far from me!

23 Wake up^a! And pay attention to my trial, my God and my Lord, to my case!

24 Vindicate^b me, O Lord my God, according to your righteousness,
and may they not be happy over me.

25 May they not say in their hearts,
"Good^c for our soul!"
Nor may they say,
"We swallowed him up."

26 May those who are happy at my calamities be both shamed and embarrassed;
let those who brag against me be clothed with shame and embarrassment.

27 May those who want my vindication rejoice and be glad,
and let those who want the peace of his slave
say ever more,
"Let the Lord be magnified." 28 And my tongue shall declaim your
righteousness,
all day long your commendation.

Psalm 35(36)

1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to the slave of the Lord, to David.

2(1) Says the transgressor of the law in himself,
in order to sin:
there is no fear of the divine
before his eyes,
3(2) because he practiced deceit before him, that he might find lawlessness in him and hate^d.

4(3) The words of his mouth are lawlessness and deceit;
he did not want to be sensible to do
good.

5(4) Lawlessness he plotted on his bed;
he was set on every way that was not
good,
and evil he did not treat with contempt.

6(5) O Lord, your mercy is in the sky, and your truth as far as the clouds.

7(6) Your righteousness is like divine mountains;
your judgments are a great deep;
humans and animals you will save,
O Lord.

8(7) How you increased your mercy, O God!
But the sons of men will hope in the shelter of your wings.

9(8) They will be intoxicated with the fatness of
your house,
and you will give them drink from the
wadi of your delights^e,

10(9) because with you is life's fountain;
in your light we shall see light.

11(10) O prolong your mercy to those who know
you,
and your righteousness to the upright of
heart!

12(11) Let the foot of arrogance not come to me, and may the hand of sinners not shake me.

13(12) There those who practice lawlessness fell; they were thrust out and will be unable to stand.

Psalm 36(37)

1 ^fPertaining to^f David.

(1) Do not fret among wicked people, nor be envious of those that do
lawlessness,

2 because like grass they will quickly wither and like green herbs they will quickly fall off.

3 Hope in the Lord, and keep doing
kindness,
and encamp in the land^g, and you will be tended by its wealth.

4 Take delight in the Lord, and he will give you the requests of your
heart.

5 Disclose your way to the Lord, and hope in him, and he will act.

6 And he will publish your vindication like
light,
and your judgment like noonday.

7 Submit to the Lord, and supplicate him;
do not fret over the one that prospers in his way,
over a person that commits transgression
of the law.

8 Cease from wrath, and forsake anger.
Do not fret so as to do evil,

9 because the evil doers shall be destroyed, but those who wait for the Lord—they shall inherit land^g.

10 And yet a little while, and the sinner will be no more,
and you will seek his place and will not find.

11 But the meek shall inherit land^g

^a + O Lord = Ra ^bJudge = Ra ^c + Good = Ra ^dI.e. him ^edelight = Ra ^fOf = Ra ^gOr earth

- and take delight in an abundance of peace.
- 12 The sinner will closely watch the righteous and gnash his teeth at him, 13 but the Lord will laugh at him, because he foresees that his day will come.
- 14 A sword the sinners drew; they bent their bow
to bring down poor and needy,
to slay the upright in heart.
15 May their sword enter into their own heart,
and their bows be crushed.
- 16 Better is a little that the righteous has
than the great wealth of sinners, 17 because sinners' arms shall be crushed,
but the Lord upholds the righteous.
- 18 The Lord knows the ways of the blameless, and their heritage shall be forever;
19 they shall not be put to shame in an evil
time,
and in days of famine they shall be fed, 20 because the sinners will perish, and the enemies of the Lord, as soon as they are glorified and exalted, vanishing like smoke they vanished.
- 21 The sinner borrows and will not pay back, but the righteous is compassionate and keeps giving;
22 because those that bless him shall inherit land^a,
but those that curse him shall be destroyed.
- 23 A person's steps are directed by the Lord, and his way by will^b.
24 Should he fall, he will not crash, because the Lord steadies his hand.
- 25 Younger I used to be; indeed, I have grown old,
and I did not see a righteous one forsaken
or his offspring begging bread.
26 All day long he is merciful and lends, and his offspring shall become a blessing.
- 27 Turn from evil, and do good,
and encamp forever and ever.
28 Because the Lord loves justice and will not forsake his devout, they shall be kept safe forever.
- But the lawless shall be chased away, and the offspring of the impious shall be destroyed.
- 29 The^c righteous shall inherit land^a and encamp on it forever and ever.
- 30 The mouth of the righteous shall declaim wisdom,
and his tongue shall speak justice.
31 The law of his God is in his heart, and his steps shall not be tripped up.
- 32 The sinner watches for the righteous and seeks to put him to death.
33 But the Lord will not abandon him to his
hands
nor have him condemned, should he bring him to trial.
- 34 Wait for the Lord, and keep to his way,
and he will lift you up to inherit land^a;
when he destroys sinners, you will look
on.
- 35 I saw an impious one being highly lifted up and being raised up like the cedars of Lebanon.
36 And I passed by, and look, he was not,
and I sought him, but his place was not found.
- 37 Mark innocence, and behold uprightness, because there is a residue for the peaceable person.
38 But transgressors of the law shall be destroyed together;
the residue of the impious shall be destroyed.
- 39 But deliverance of the righteous is from the Lord,
and he is their protector in a time of affliction.
40 And the Lord will help them and rescue
them,
and he will deliver them from sinners and save them, because they hoped in
him.

Psalm 37(38)

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Dauid. As a reminder^d.
- 2(1) O Lord, do not rebuke me in your anger
or discipline me in your wrath, 3(2) because your arrows were stuck in me and you clamped your hand on me.
- 4(3) There is no healing in my flesh from before your wrath;
there is no peace for my bones
from before my sins,
5(4) because my acts of lawlessness went over my
head;
like a heavy burden they weighed on me.

6⁽⁵⁾ My wounds stank and festered from before my foolishness; 7⁽⁶⁾ I was wretched and bowed down
completely;
all day long I would go around looking sullen,
8⁽⁷⁾ because my loin muscles were filled with mockeries
and there is no healing in my flesh.
9⁽⁸⁾ I was vilified and humiliated utterly;
I would roar due to my heart's groaning.
10⁽⁹⁾ O Lord, before you is all my desire, and my groaning was not hidden from
you.
11⁽¹⁰⁾ My heart was troubled, my strength failed
me,
and as for the light of my eyes—it too is
not with me.
12⁽¹¹⁾ My friends and my fellows approached opposite me and stood,
and my next of kin stood far off.
13⁽¹²⁾ And those who seek my soul took to violence,
and those who seek my hurt spoke vanities,
and treacheries they contemplated all day long.
14⁽¹³⁾ But as for me, I, like the deaf, would not hear,
and like a mute not opening his mouth.
15⁽¹⁴⁾ And I became like a person that does not hear
and that has no retort in his mouth, 16⁽¹⁵⁾ because in you, O Lord, I hoped;
it is you, O Lord, my God, who will listen; 17⁽¹⁶⁾ because I said, "Only let not my enemies be happy over me,"
and when my feet were shaken, they bragged against me;
18⁽¹⁷⁾ because I am ready for scourges,
and my pain is ever with me;
19⁽¹⁸⁾ because my lawlessness I will report,
and I will show anxiety over my sin.
20⁽¹⁹⁾ But my enemies are alive and are stronger than I,
and those who hate me unjustly
multiplied.
21⁽²⁰⁾ Those who render me evil for good would slander me, since I would follow after righteousness,
and they cast off me, the beloved, like a horrid corpse.
22⁽²¹⁾ Do not forsake me, O Lord;
O my God, do not stand far from me;
23⁽²²⁾ attend to helping me,
O Lord of my deliverance.

Psalm 38(39)

1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to Idithoun.
An Ode. Pertaining to David.
2⁽¹⁾ I said, "I will guard my ways, that I may not sin with my tongue;
I set a watch to my mouth, when the sinner organized against
me."
3⁽²⁾ I became dumb and was humbled, and I ^awas silent from ^agood things,
and my suffering was renewed;
4⁽³⁾ my heart became hot within me.
And in my musing, a fire will burn.
I spoke with my tongue:
5⁽⁴⁾ "Make known to me, Lord, my end, and the number of my days—what it is—that I may know what I lack.
6⁽⁵⁾ Look, you made my days handbreadths, and my existence is as nothing before
you.
Surely, every person alive is the sum total of vanity.
Interlude on strings
7⁽⁶⁾ "In fact, a person passes through as a phantom.
Surely, for nothing are they in turmoil;
he lays up treasures
and does not know for whom he will gather them.
8⁽⁷⁾ "And now, what is my endurance? Is it not
the Lord?
Even my existence is from you.
9⁽⁸⁾ From all my acts of lawlessness rescue
me!
As a reproach to a fool you gave me.
10⁽⁹⁾ I became dumb, and I did not open my
mouth,
because ^bit is you who did it^b.
11⁽¹⁰⁾ Remove from me your scourges;
due to the force of your hand I fainted.
12⁽¹¹⁾ "With reproofs for lawlessness you disciplined a person and melted his soul like a spider's web; surely, every person is in turmoil for
nothing.
Interlude on strings
13⁽¹²⁾ "Listen to my prayer, O Lord, and to my petition give ear;
do not pass by my tears in silence,
because I am a sojourner with you,
and a visiting stranger, like all my fathers.
14⁽¹³⁾ Let me be, that I may revive before I depart and be no more."

^aPossibly stopped saying ^b*you are the one who made me* = Ra

Psalm 39(40)

- 1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to David. A Psalm.
- 2(1) Waiting, I waited for the Lord, and he paid attention to me and listened
to my petition.
- 3(2) And he brought me up out of a pit of wretchedness
and from miry mud,
and he set my feet upon a rock and directed my steps.
- 4(3) And he put a new song into my mouth,
a hymn to our God.
Many will see and fear
and put their hope in the Lord.
- 5(4) Happy the man, he whose hope is the name of the Lord,
and he did not look toward vanities and mad delusions.
- 6(5) Many things you made, O Lord my God, your wonders.
And as for your thoughts—
there is none that will be like you.
I proclaimed and told;
they multiplied beyond number.
- 7(6) Sacrifice and offering you did not want,
but ears you fashioned for me.
Whole burnt offering and one for sin
you did not request.
- 8(7) Then I said, "Look, I have come;
in a scroll of a book it is written of me.
- 9(8) To do your will, O my God, I desired—and your law, within my belly."
- 10(9) I told the glad news of righteousness in a great assembly;
look, my lips I will not restrain;
O Lord, you knew.
- 11(10) Your righteousness I did not hide in my
heart;
of your truth and your deliverance I spoke;
I did not conceal your mercy and your truth from a large gathering.
- 12(11) But as for you, O Lord, do not distance your compassion from me;
your mercy and your truth supported me always,
- 13(12) because evils encompassed me, of which there is no number,
my acts of lawlessness overtook me, and I was unable to see;
they multiplied beyond the hairs of my
head,
and my heart failed me.
- 14(13) Be pleased, O Lord, to rescue me;
O Lord, pay attention to helping me.

- 15(14) May those be put to both shame and embarrassment
who seek my soul to remove it;
may those be turned back, rearwards, and embarrassed,
who want my hurt.
- 16(15) Let those immediately be awarded shame, who say to me, "Good, Good!"
- 17(16) May all those rejoice and be glad in you, who seek you, O Lord,
and let those who love your deliverance say continually,
"Let the Lord be magnified!"
- 18(17) But as for me, poor I am and needy;
the Lord will take thought for me.
My helper and my protector you are;
O my God, do not delay.

Psalm 40(41)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
- 2(1) Happy is he who considers poor and needy;
in an evil day the Lord will rescue him.
- 3(2) May the Lord carefully guard him and quicken him
and make him happy in the land, and may he not give him up into his enemy's hands.
- 4(3) May the Lord help him on his bed of pain;
in his illness you ^aturned his whole bed^a.
- 5(4) As for me, I said, "O Lord, have mercy on
me;
heal my soul, because I sinned against
you."
- 6(5) My enemies spoke evil against me:
"When will he die and his name perish?"
- 7(6) And if he came in to visit, he would speak to no good end;
his heart gathered lawlessness to
himself;
he would go outside and talk.
- 8(7) Together all my enemies would whisper
against me;
against me they would devise evil for me.
- 9(8) A criminal phrase they put out against me:
"Surely, he that lies down will not add to rise up?"
- 10(9) Indeed, the person at peace with me, in whom I hoped,
he who would eat of my bread,
magnified trickery against me.
- 11(10) But as for you, O Lord, have mercy on me, and raise me up, and I will repay them.
- 12(11) By this I knew that you want me:
that^b my enemy shall not be happy over
me.

^aPossibly completely restored ^bOr because

13(12) But me you supported on account of my innocence
and secured me before you forever.

14(13) Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, from everlasting to everlasting.
May it be; may it be.

BOOK II

(Psalms 41[42]–71[72])

Psalm 41(42)

- 1 Regarding completion. Regarding understanding. Pertaining to the sons of Kore.
- 2(1) Just as the doe longs for the springs of water,
so my soul longs for you, O God.
- 3(2) My soul thirsted for the living God.
When shall I come and appear to the face of God?
- 4(3) My tears became my food day and night,
while it was said to me day after day,
“Where is your God?”
- 5(4) These things I remembered,
and I poured out my soul upon me, because I shall proceed to a place of a marvelous tent, as far as the house of God,
with a sound of rejoicing and acknowledging,
a noise of one who is feasting.
- 6(5) Why are you deeply grieved, O my^a soul,
and why are you throwing me into
confusion?
Hope in God, because I shall acknowledge
him;
my God is deliverance ⁽⁶⁾of my face.
- 7 My soul was troubled at myself;
therefore I shall remember you from a land of Jordan and Hermoniim, from a small mountain.
- 8(7) Deep calls to deep
at the sound of your cataracts;
all your surges and your billows passed over me.
- 9(8) By day the Lord will command his mercy,
and at night an ode is with me,
a prayer to the God of my life.
- 10(9) I will say to God, “My supporter you are;
wherefore did you forget me?
Why must I walk about sullenly,
as the^b enemy oppresses me?”
- 11(10) As my oppressors crushed my bones,
they insulted me,
while they say to me day after day,
“Where is your God?”

- 12(11) Why are you deeply grieved, O my^a soul,
and why are you throwing me into
confusion?
Hope in God, because I shall acknowledge
him;
my God is the deliverance of my face.

Psalm 42(43)

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Daudid.
- (1) Vindicate^c me, O God, and defend my cause
from a nation not devout;
from a person, unjust and deceitful,
rescue me!
- 2 Because you, O God, are my empowerment,
why did you reject me?
And why do I walk about sullenly
as the^b enemy oppresses me?
- 3 O send out your light and your truth;
these led me,
and they brought me to your holy mountain and to your coverts.
- 4 And I will enter to the altar of God,
to God who makes glad my youth.
I will acknowledge you with a lyre, O God,
my God.
- 5 Why are you deeply grieved, O my^d soul,
and why are you throwing me into
confusion?
Hope in God, because I shall acknowledge
him;
^edeliverance of my face and my God he is^e.

Psalm 43(44)

- 1 Regarding completion. For the sons of Kore.
Regarding understanding^f.
- 2(1) O God, we heard with our ears;
our fathers reported to us a deed which you wrought in their days, in days of old:
- 3(2) your hand destroyed nations,
and them you planted;
you distressed peoples,
and cast them out;
- 4(3) for not by their own sword did they inherit
land,
and their own arm did not save them;
rather, your right hand and your arm, and the illumination of your countenance,
because you delighted in them.
- 5(4) You are my very King and my God, he who commands acts of deliverance for Iakob.

- 6⁽⁵⁾ Through you we shall gore our enemies, and through your name we shall despise our opponents.
7⁽⁶⁾ For not in my bow shall I hope,
and my sword will not save me.
8⁽⁷⁾ For you saved us from those who afflict us,
and those who hate us you put to shame.
9⁽⁸⁾ In God we shall be commended all day
long,
and in your name we shall acknowledge
forever.

Interlude on strings

- 10⁽⁹⁾ But now, you rejected us and put us to shame and will not go out among our hosts.
11⁽¹⁰⁾ You turned us back rather than our enemies, and those who hate us kept snatching spoil for themselves.
12⁽¹¹⁾ You gave us like sheep for eating,
and among the nations you scattered us.
13⁽¹²⁾ You sold your people without price, and ^athere was no abundance in their exchange^a.
14⁽¹³⁾ You made us a reproach to our neighbors, a mockery and laughingstock to those around us.
15⁽¹⁴⁾ You made us into an illustration among the
nations,
a moving of the head among the peoples.
16⁽¹⁵⁾ All day long my embarrassment is before
me,
and the shame of my face covered me 17⁽¹⁶⁾ at the sound of one that reproaches and babbles,
from before enemy and pursuer.
18⁽¹⁷⁾ All this came upon us, and we did not forget you,
and we did no wrong against your covenant.
19⁽¹⁸⁾ And our heart did not stand back,
and you diverted our paths from your way, 20⁽¹⁹⁾ because you humbled us in a place of ill-
treatment
and death's shadow covered us.
21⁽²⁰⁾ If we had forgotten the name of our God and if we had spread out our hands to a foreign god,
22⁽²¹⁾ would not God search this out?
For he it is that knows the secrets of the
heart;
23⁽²²⁾ because for your sake we are being put to death all day long,
we were accounted as sheep for slaughter.
24⁽²³⁾ Wake up! Why do you sleep, O Lord?
Arise, and do not reject us totally!
25⁽²⁴⁾ Why do you turn away your face?
Why do you forget our poverty and our
affliction?

- 26⁽²⁵⁾ Because our soul was humbled down to the dust,
our stomach clung to the ground.
27⁽²⁶⁾ Rise up, O Lord; come to our help, and redeem us for the sake of your name.

Psalm 44(45)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over those^b that will be changed. Pertaining to the sons of Kore.
Regarding understanding. An Ode. Over the beloved.
2⁽¹⁾ My heart erupts with a goodly theme;
it is I that address my works to the king;
my tongue is a pen of a swift scribe.
3⁽²⁾ Youthful in beauty you are, beyond the sons
of men;
grace was poured on your lips;
therefore God blessed you forever.
4⁽³⁾ Gird your sword on your thigh, O powerful
one,
in your bloom and beauty,
5⁽⁴⁾ and draw^c, and prosper, and become king for the sake of truth and meekness and
righteousness,
and your right hand will guide you marvelously.
6⁽⁵⁾ Your arrows are sharp, O powerful one,
—peoples shall fall under you—
in the heart of the king's enemies.
7⁽⁶⁾ Your throne, O God, is forever and ever.
A rod of equity is of your rule;
8⁽⁷⁾ you loved righteousness and hated
lawlessness.
Therefore God, your God, anointed you with oil of rejoicing beyond your partners.
9⁽⁸⁾ Myrrh and myrrh oil and cassia waft^d from your clothes,
from ivory bastions, with which they made you glad;
10⁽⁹⁾ Daughters of kings are ^ein your^e honor;
the queen stood at your right in gold-woven clothing,
decked out in many colors.
11⁽¹⁰⁾ Hear, O daughter, and see, and incline your ear,
and forget your people and the house of
your father, 12⁽¹¹⁾ because the king desired your beauty,
because he is your lord.
13⁽¹²⁾ And daughters of Tyre will do obeisance to him with gifts;
your face the rich of the people ⁽¹³⁾will entreat.
14 Of a king's daughter—all her glory is within,
14⁽¹⁴⁾ decked out with golden tassels, in many colors.

^aPossibly they were exchanged for next to nothing ^bOr those things ^cI.e. the bow ^dLacking in Gk ^eI.e. among your ladies of

- 15 Virgins ^abehind her^a will be brought to the king; her companions will be brought to you.
- 16(15) They will be brought with gladness and rejoicing;
they will be led into a king's shrine.
- 17(16) In the place of your fathers ^byour sons were born^b;
you will appoint them rulers in all the earth^c.
- 18(17) I^d will remember your name in every generation and generation;
therefore the peoples will acknowledge you forever, even forever and ever.

Psalm 45(46)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over the sons of Kore. Over hidden things. A Psalm.
- 2(1) God is our refuge and power, very much a helper in afflictions that befall us.
- 3(2) Therefore we will not fear, when the earth is troubled and mountains be transposed into hearts of seas.
- 4(3) Their waters roared and were troubled;
the mountains were troubled by his force.
Interlude on strings
- 5(4) The river's strong currents make glad the city of God;
the Most High sanctified his covert.
- 6(5) God is in its^e midst; it shall not be shaken;
God will help it in the morning.
- 7(6) Nations were troubled, kingdoms tilted;
he gave forth his voice; the earth was shaken.
- 8(7) The Lord of hosts is with us;
our supporter is the God of Iakob.
Interlude on strings
- 9(8) Come, see the works of the Lord,
what feats he put on the earth,
- 10(9) canceling wars to the ends of the earth;
he will shatter bow and break armor,
and he will burn shields with fire.
- 11(10) "Relax, and know that I am God!
I will be exalted among the nations;
I will be exalted in the earth."
- 12(11) The Lord of hosts is with us;
our supporter is the God of Iakob.

Psalm 46(47)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over the sons of Kore. A Psalm.
- 2(1) All you nations, clap your hands;

- shout to God with a voice of rejoicing,
3(2) because the Lord Most High is awesome,
a great king over all the earth.
- 4(3) He subdued peoples to us, and nations under our feet.
- 5(4) He chose for us his own^f heritage,
the comeliness of Iakob, which he loved.
Interlude on strings
- 6(5) God went up with shouting,
the Lord with a sound of trumpet.
- 7(6) Make music to our God; make music;
make music to our King; make music, 8(7) because God is king of all the earth;
make music with understanding.
- 9(8) God became king over the nations;
God is seated on his holy throne.
- 10(9) Rulers of peoples gathered with the God of Abraam, because the strong of the earth are God's.
They were very much raised up.

Psalm 47(48)

- 1 ^gA Psalm. Of an Ode⁸. Pertaining to the sons of Kore. ^h[Pertaining to the second day of the week.]^h
- 2(1) Great is the Lord and very much praiseworthy
in our God's city, his holy mountain,
- 3(2) since he planted itⁱ well, for the enjoyment of the whole earth.
Mountains of Sion, the slopes of the north,
the city of the great King—
- 4(3) within its bastions God is known,
when he supports it,
- 5(4) because, look, the kings assembled;
they came together.
- 6(5) They, when they saw it so, were astounded;
they were troubled; they were shaken;
- 7(6) trembling took hold of them there, pains as of one in labor.
- 8(7) With a violent blast you will shatter ships of Tharsis.
- 9(8) As we heard, so we saw in a city of the Lord of hosts, in a city of our God.
God founded it forever!
Interlude on strings
- 10(9) We thought of your mercy, O God, in the midst of your shrine.
- 11(10) Like your name, O God, so also your praise is to the ends of the earth.
Full of justice is your right hand.
- 12(11) Let Mount Zion be glad;

^aI.e. in her train ^bsons were born to you = Ra ^cOr land ^dThey = Ra ^eI.e. the city's ^fOm = Ra ^gPossibly a psalm (instrumental music) accompanied by a song of praise (vocal music) ^hWithout [] = Ra ⁱLacking in Gk let the daughters of Judea rejoice, because of your judgments^a.

- 13(12) Surround Sion; embrace it;
recount in its towers; 14(13) dispose your hearts for its power,
and inspect its bastions,
that you may recount to the next generation 15(14) that^b this is God,
our God forever, even forever and ever.
He himself will shepherd us for ages.

Psalm 48(49)

- 1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to the sons of Kore. A Psalm.
- 2(1) Hear this, all you nations;
give ear, all inhabitants of the world,
3(2) both the earthborn^c and the sons of men, rich one and needy one together.
4(3) My mouth shall speak wisdom and the meditation of my heart
understanding.
5(4) I will incline my ear to an illustration;
I will work out my problem with a harp.
- 6(5) Why should I fear on an evil day?
The lawlessness at my heel will surround
me—
7(6) those who trust in their power and boast of the abundance of their riches.
8(7) A brother does not ransom; shall anyone ransom?
He will not give to God his atonement
9(8) and the price for redeeming his soul.
10 And he toiled forever⁽⁹⁾ and will yet^d live completely;
he^e will see corruption,
(10) when he sees wise people die!
- 11 Fool and dolt will perish together and leave their wealth to strangers.
12(11) And their graves are their homes forever, their coverts to generation and
generation.
They named their lands their own.
13(12) And a person held in honor did not understand.
He resembled senseless beasts and
became like them.
14(13) This way of theirs is a pitfall to them, and afterwards with their mouth they will express contentment.

Interlude on strings

- 15(14) Like sheep they were placed in Hades.
Death^f shall be^g their shepherd, and the upright shall exercise dominion
over them at dawn,

- and help for them will grow old in Hades, away from their glory.
16(15) On the other hand, God will ransom my
soul
from Hades' hand, when he receives me.
Interlude on strings
- 17(16) Do not be afraid when a person becomes rich
and when the glory of his house increases,
18(17) because, when he dies, he will take nothing, nor will his glory go down with him, 19(18) because in life his soul will be blessed;
he will acknowledge you when you treat him well;
20(19) he will enter the company of his fathers;
he will never again see light.
21(20) A person held in honor did not understand.
They swere comparable to beasts^g and became like them.

Psalm 49(50)

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Asaph.
- (1) God of gods, the Lord, spoke and summoned the earth
from the sun's rising even to its setting.
2 Out of Sion is the splendor of his beauty;
God will come conspicuously, 3 our God—and he will not pass by in silence; a fire will burn before him,
and all around him is a mighty tempest—very much.
4 He will summon the sky above and the earth, to judge his people discerningly.
5 Gather to him his devout, who make a covenant with him by sacrifices.
6 And the heavens will declare his
righteousness,
because God is judge.
Interlude on strings
- 7 "Hear, O my people, and I will speak to you,
O Israel, and I will testify against you.
God, your God, I am.
8 Not for your sacrifices will I rebuke you;
nay, your whole burnt offerings are continually before me.
9 I will not accept calves from your house nor young he-goats from your folds, 10 because all wild animals of the forest are
mine,
beasts on the mountains and cattle.
11 I know all the birds of the air,
and a field's beauty is with me.
12 "If I am hungry, I will not tell you,
for the world is mine and its fullness.

^a + O Lord = Ra ^b Or because ^c Or primeval men ^d Om = Ra ^e Pr because = Ra ^f is = Ra ^g resembled senseless beasts = Ra

13 Surely, I shall not eat flesh of bulls or drink blood of he-goats?
14 Offer to God a sacrifice of praise, and pay your vows to the Most High.
15 And call on me in a day of affliction, and I will deliver you, and you shall glorify me.”

Interlude on strings

16 But to the sinner God said:
“Why do you recite my statutes and take my covenant on your lips?
17 Nay, you hated discipline,
and you cast my words behind you.
18 If you saw a thief, you would join him, and with adulterers you would keep company.

19 “Your mouth increased evil, and your tongue would wrap deceitfulness.
20 Sitting, you would speak against your brother,
and you would place an obstacle against your own mother’s son.
21 These things you did, and I kept silent; you assumed lawlessness^a—that I would be like you.
I will disprove you and present against
you.

22 “Mark this, then, you who forget God, or he will seize you, and there will be no one to rescue.
23 A sacrifice of praise will glorify me,
and there lies a way by which I will show him the deliverance of God.”

Psalm 50(51)

1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to David. ²When the prophet Nathan came to him, after he had gone into Bersabee.

3(1) Have mercy on me, O God, according to your great mercy, and according to the abundance of your compassion
blot out my lawless deed.
4(2) Wash me thoroughly from my
lawlessness,
and from my sin cleanse me, 5(3) because my lawlessness I know and my sin is ever before me.
6(4) Against you alone did I sin, and what is evil before you I did,
so that you may be justified in your words and be victorious when you go to law.
7(5) For, look, I was conceived in lawlessness, and in sin did my mother crave for me.
8(6) For, look, you loved truth;

^aOr lawlessly ^b + O Lord = Ra ^cPossibly atonement the unclear and secret aspects of your wisdom you made clear to me.

9(7) You will sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be cleansed;
you will wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.
10(8) You will make me hear joy and gladness;
humbled bones will rejoice.
11(9) Turn away your face from my sins,
and all my lawless acts blot out.

12(10) A clean heart create in me, O God, and an upright spirit renew within me.
13(11) Do not cast me away from your face, and your holy spirit do not take from
me.
14(12) Restore to me the joy of your deliverance, and with a leading spirit support me.

15(13) I will teach lawless ones your ways, and impious ones will return to you.
16(14) Rescue me from bloodshed, O God,
O God of my deliverance;
my tongue will rejoice at your
righteousness.

17(15) O Lord, my lips you will open,
and my mouth will declare your praise, 18(16) because if you had wanted sacrifice, I would have given it;
with whole burnt offerings you will not be pleased.
19(17) Sacrifice to God is a broken spirit;
a broken and humbled heart God will not despise.

20(18) Do good^b to Sion in your good pleasure, and let the walls of Ierusalem be built; 21(19) then you will delight in a sacrifice of
righteousness,
in offering^c and whole burnt offerings;
then they will offer calves on your altar.

Psalm 51(52)

1 Regarding completion. Of understanding.
Pertaining to David. ²When Doek the Idumean came and reported to Saoul and said to him, “David came to the house of Abimelech.”

3(1) Why do you boast in malice, O powerful
one,
of lawlessness all day long?
4(2) Injustice your tongue devised.
Like a sharpened razor you produced treachery.
5(3) You loved evil more than goodness, injustice more than speaking justice.
Interlude on strings

6(4) You loved all words for drowning, a deceitful tongue.

7(5) Therefore God will break you down
completely;
may he snatch you and make you flee
from your covert,
and your rootedness from the land of the living.

Interlude on strings

8(6) And righteous ones will see and fear and will laugh at him and say, 9(7) "Look, a person who did not make God his helper
but pinned his hopes on the abundance of his riches
and was made powerful by his vanity!" 10(8) But I am like a fruitful olive tree in the house of God.
I hoped in the mercy of God
forever, even forever and ever.
11(9) I will acknowledge you forever, because of what you did,
and I will wait for your name,
because it is beneficial before your devout.

Psalm 52(53)

1 Regarding completion. Over Maeleth. Of understanding. Pertaining to Daudid.
2(1) A fool said in his heart, "There is no God."
They became corrupt and were abominable in lawless acts;
there is no one who is doing what is
good.
3(2) God peered down from the sky on the sons
of men
to see if there was any who had
understanding
or who sought after God.
4(3) All turned away; as well they became useless;
there is no one who is doing what is
good;
there is not even one.
5(4) Shall they never learn, all those who practice
lawlessness?
Those who eat my people like eating bread
did not call upon God.
6(5) There they were in great fear,
where there was no fear,
because God scattered bones of men-pleasers;
they were put to shame, because God despised them.
7(6) Who shall give out of Sion the deliverance
of Israel?

When the Lord returns the captivity of his
people,
Iakob will rejoice, and Israel will be glad.

Psalm 53(54)

1 Regarding completion. Among hymns. Of understanding. Pertaining to Daudid. 2When the Ziphites came and told Saoul, "Look, Daudid is in hiding among us."
3(1) O God, in your name save me,
and in your power you will^a judge me.
4(2) O God, listen to my prayer;
give ear to the words of my mouth, 5(3) because strangers rose up against me and strong ones sought my soul;
they did not set God before them.
Interlude on strings
6(4) For, look, God helps me, and the Lord is supporter of my soul.
7(5) He will repay the harm to my enemies.
With your truth, destroy them.
8(6) Freely I shall sacrifice to you;
I will acknowledge your name, O Lord,
because it is good,
9(7) because you rescued me from every
affliction,
and my eye looked among my enemies.

Psalm 54(55)

1 Regarding completion. Among hymns. Of understanding. Pertaining to Daudid.
2(1) Give ear, O God, to my prayer, and do not disdain my petition.
3(2) Attend to me, and listen to me;
I was vexed in my pondering and was troubled
4(3) by the noise of an enemy and by the affliction of a sinner,
because they tilted lawlessness against me,
and in wrath they kept being indignant at
me.
5(4) My heart was troubled within me,
and death's terror fell upon me.
6(5) Fear and trembling came upon me,
and darkness covered me.
7(6) And I said, "Who will give me wings like a dove,
and I shall fly away and be at rest?" 8(7) Look, I became a fugitive far away, and I lodged in the wilderness.
Interlude on strings
9(8) I would welcome the one that would save me from faintheartedness and tempest.

10(9) Drown, O Lord, and confuse their speech,
because I saw lawlessness and dispute in the city.

11(10) Day and night they will encircle it at its walls;
lawlessness and trouble are within it, (11)and injustice

12 and usury and deceit did not leave its streets.

13(12) Because if an enemy had reproached me,
I could have borne it,
and if he that hates me had bragged against
me,
I could have hidden from him.

14(13) But it is you, my fellow human,
my leader and my familiar friend, 15(14) who made food sweet together with me;
in the house of God we walked in harmony.

16(15) Let death come upon them;
let them go down to Hades alive, because evils are in their sojournings, in their midst.

17(16) Ja cried to God, and the Lord listened to me.

18(17) Evening and morning and at noon I will recount;
I will declare,
and he will listen to my voice.

19(18) He will redeem my soul in peace from those that approach me, because they were with me in ^bgreat number^b.

20(19) God will listen and will humble them,
he who existed before the ages.
Interlude on strings

For there is no change for them, and they did not fear God.

21(20) He stretched out his hand when he paid back.
They violated his covenant.

22(21) They were divided due to the anger of his face,
and his heart drew near;
his words became smoother than oil,
and they are missiles.

23(22) Cast your care on the Lord, and he himself will nurture you;
he will never give shaking to him who is
righteous.

24(23) But as for you, O God, you will bring them
down
into a well of corruption;
men of blood and treachery shall not live out half their days.
But as for me, I will hope in you,
O Lord.

Psalm 55(56)

1 Regarding completion. Over the people that are removed far away from their holy things.
Pertaining to Daudid. For a stele inscription.
When the allophyles seized him in Geth.

2(1) Have mercy on me, O Lord, because a person trampled on me;
all day long, while fighting, he afflicted
me;

3(2) my enemies trampled on me all day long, because many are they that fight against me from on high.

4(3) By day I shall be afraid; I^c will hope in you.

5(4) In God I will commend my words^d; in God I hoped; I will not fear what flesh may do to me.

6(5) All day long they would make my words loathsome;
all their thoughts against me are for evil.

7(6) They will sojourn and hide;
my heel they will watch,
as they waited to have my soul.

8(7) On no account will you save them;
in wrath you will bring down peoples,
O God!

9(8) My life I proclaimed to you;
you put my tears before you, as also by your promise.

10(9) My enemies will turn back in the day when I call upon you.
Look, I knew that you are my God.

11(10) In God I will praise with a word; in the Lord I will praise with a statement.

12(11) In God I hoped;
I will not fear what ^ea person^e may do to
me.

13(12) Inf me, O God, are the vows of praise to you, which I will pay, 14(13) because you rescued my soul from death and my feet from slipperiness so that I may be pleasing before God in the light of the living.

Psalm 56(57)

1 Regarding completion. Do Not Destroy.
Pertaining to Daudid. For a stele inscription. As he was running away from Saoul into the cave.

2(1) Have mercy on me, O God; have mercy on
me,
because in you my soul trusts and in the shadow of your wings I will hope
until lawlessness passes by.

3(2) I will cry to God the Most High,

to God who acts as my benefactor.
 4(3) He sent from heaven and saved me;
 he gave over to reproach those who were trampling on me.

Interlude on strings

God sent forth his mercy and his truth, 5(4) and he rescued my soul from among whelps.
 I slept, though troubled.
 As for sons of men—their teeth are a weapon and darts,
 and their tongue a sharp dagger.

6(5) Be exalted to the heavens, O God,
 and to all the earth be your glory.

7(6) A trap they prepared for my feet,
 and they bowed down my soul.
 They dug a hole in front of me,
 and they fell into it.

Interlude on strings

8(7) My heart is ready, O God;
 my heart is ready.
 I will sing and make music.

9(8) Awake, my glory!
 Awake, O harp and lyre!
 I will awaken at dawn.

10(9) I will acknowledge you, O Lord, among peoples;
 I will make music to you among nations, 11(10) because your mercy was magnified to the heavens,
 and to the clouds your truth.

12(11) Be exalted to the heavens, O God,
 and to all the earth be your glory.

Psalm 57(58)

1 Regarding completion. Do Not Destroy.
 Pertaining to Daudid. For a stele inscription.

2(1) Do you then truly speak righteousness?
 Do you judge fairly, O sons of men?

3(2) Indeed, in the heart you devise acts of lawlessness on the earth;
 injustice your hands braid.

4(3) Sinners were estranged from the womb;
 they erred from the belly; they spoke lies.

5(4) They have wrath in the likeness of the snake,
 like an adder, deaf and plugging its ears,

6(5) which will not listen to a voice of enchanters,
 nor of a charm being administered by a wise man.

7(6) God crushed their teeth in their mouth;
 the molars of lions the Lord shattered!

8(7) They shall vanish like water that flows through;
 he will bend his bow until they become weak.

9(8) Like wax that melts they will be removed;
 fire fell, and they did not see the sun.

10(9) ^aBefore your thistles take note of the thorn-shrub,
 as if in anger it will bestorm^b you, as if alive^a.

11(10) A righteous one will be glad when he sees vengeance done^c;
 he will wash his hands in the blood of
 the sinner.

12(11) And a person will say, "If then there is a return for the righteous, then God exists, judging them on the
 earth."

Psalm 58(59)

1 Regarding completion. Do Not Destroy.
 Pertaining to Daudid. For a stele inscription.
 When Saoul sent and watched his house to put him to death.

2(1) Deliver me from my enemies, O God, and redeem me from those who rise up against me.

3(2) Rescue me from those who practice
 lawlessness,
 and from men of blood save me,

4(3) because look, they hunted my soul;
 strong ones set themselves against me.
 Neither my lawlessness nor my sin,
 O Lord—

5(4) without lawlessness they ran straight on.

Rouse yourself to meet me, and see!
 6(5) And you, Lord God of hosts, God of Israel,
 pay attention to visiting all the nations;
 pity none of those who practice
 lawlessness.

Interlude on strings

7(6) Toward evening they will return
 and be famished like a dog
 and encircle a city.

8(7) Look, they will bellow with their mouth, and a sword is between their lips—
 because, "Who has heard?"

9(8) And you, you will laugh at them, O Lord;
 you will hold all the nations in contempt.

10(9) O my might, for you I will watch,
 because you, O God, are my supporter.

11(10) My God—his mercy will outrun me;
 my God will show me among my
 enemies.

- 12(11) Do not kill them, or they may forget my people;
scatter them by your power, and bring them down, O Lord, my protector—
13(12) sin^a of their mouth, a word of their lips, and let them be trapped in their pride.
And from curse and lie consummations will be noised abroad, 14(13) in wrath of consummation, and they will be no more.
And they will know that God is master over Iakob, over the ends of the earth.

Interlude on strings

- 15(14) Toward evening they will return
and be famished like a dog
and encircle a city.
16(15) They will be scattered in order to eat, but if they do not get their fill, then they will grumble.
17(16) But as for me, I will sing to your power and will rejoice in your mercy in the morning, because you became my supporter and a refuge in my day of affliction; 18(17) my helper, I will make music to you,
because you, O God, are my supporter,
my God, my mercy.

Psalm 59(60)

- 1 Regarding completion. For those that shall yet be changed. For a stele inscription. Pertaining to Daud. For teaching. ²When he set on fire Mesopotamia of Syria and Syria Soba, and Iob returned and struck the Ravine of Salt, twelve thousand.
3(1) O God, you rejected us and brought us down;
you became angry and had compassion on us.
4(2) You caused the land to quake and threw it into confusion;
heal its fractures, because it was shaken.
5(3) You showed your people hard things;
you gave us to drink wine of stupefaction.
6(4) You gave a signal to those who fear you,
to flee out from before a bow.
Interlude on strings
7(5) In order that your beloved might be rescued,
save with your right hand, and heed me.

- 8(6) God spoke in his holy place:
"I will rejoice, and I will divide up Sikima,

- and the vale of the tents I will portion out.
9(7) Mine is Galaad, and mine is Manasse,
and Ephraim is the strengthening of my head;
Ioudas is my king.
10(8) Moab is a cauldron of my hope;
on Idumea I will put my sandal;
to me allophyles were subjugated."
11(9) Who will bring me to a city of fortification?
Who will guide me as far as Idumea?
12(10) Are you not the one that rejects us, O God?
And you will not go out, O God, with our hosts.
13(11) Grant us help from affliction,
and worthless is human deliverance.
14(12) In^b God we shall produce power, and he it is that will treat with contempt those that afflict us.

Psalm 60(61)

- 1 Regarding completion. Among hymns. Pertaining to Daud.
2(1) Listen to my petition, O God;
pay attention to my prayer.
3(2) From the ends of the earth I cried to you,
when my heart was weary.
On a rock you exalted me.
4 You guided me, ⁽³⁾because you became my hope,
a tower of strength from before an enemy.
5(4) I will sojourn in your covert forever, find shelter in the shelter of your wings.
Interlude on strings
6(5) Because you, O God, you listened to my vows, you gave a heritage to those who fear your name.
7(6) You will add days to a king's days,
his years until days of generation and generation.
8(7) He will remain forever before God;
his mercy and truth, who will seek out?
9(8) So I will make music to your name forever and ever,
that I pay my vows day after day.

Psalm 61(62)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over Idithoun. A Psalm. Pertaining to Daud.
2(1) Shall not my soul be subject to God?

- For from him is my deliverance.
 3(2) Indeed, he is my God and my Savior, my supporter; I shall be shaken no more.
 4(3) How long do you assail against a person?
 You commit murder, all of you,
 as by means of a wall that leans and a fence that slants.
 5(4) But they planned to impugn my honor.
 They ran with a lie;
 with their mouth they would bless and curse with their heart.

Interlude on strings

- 6(5) But to God be subject, O my soul, because from him is my endurance.
 7(6) Because he is my God and my Savior,
 my supporter, I shall never be a fugitive.
 8(7) With God is my deliverance and my glory;
 O God of my help—and my hope is with
 God.
 9(8) Hope in him, all you congregation of people;
 pour out your hearts before him;
 God is our helper.

Interlude on strings

- 10(9) But the sons of men are vain;
 false are the sons of men, to do wrong with balances;
 they together are^a from vanity.
 11(10) Put no hope in wrong,
 and do not long for what is robbed;
 wealth, if it flows, do not^b add heart^b.
 12(11) Once God spoke;
 these two things I heard:
 13 that might is God's,
 (12) and to you, O Lord, belongs mercy, because^c you will repay to each according to his works.

Psalm 62(63)

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David. When he was in the wilderness of Judea.
 2(1) O God, my God, early I approach you;
 my soul thirsted for you.
 How many times did^d my flesh^d thirst for^d
 you
 in a land, desolate and trackless and waterless?
 3(2) So I appeared to you in the holy place,
 to behold your power and your glory.
 4(3) Because your mercy is better than lives,
 my lips will commend you.
 5(4) So I will bless you in my life;
 in your name I will lift up my hands.
 6(5) As though with fat and creaminess may my soul be satisfied,

- and with lips of rejoicing my mouth will praise you.
 7(6) If I made mention of you on my bed, in the early morning I would meditate on
 you,
 8(7) because you became my helper, and in the shelter of your wings I will rejoice.
 9(8) My soul clung to you;
 your right hand upheld me.
 10(9) But they sought my soul for no good reason;
 they shall enter into the deepest parts of
 the earth;
 11(10) they shall be given over to a sword's
 power;
 prey for foxes they shall be.
 12(11) But the king shall be glad in God; every one who swears by him shall be commended,
 because the mouth of people speaking unjust things was stopped up.

Psalm 63(64)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
 2(1) Listen to my voice, O God, when I petition;
 from fear of an enemy deliver my soul.
 3(2) You sheltered me from a swarm of wicked
 people,
 from a crowd of people who practice
 lawlessness,
 4(3) who whetted their tongues like a sword,
 who bent their bow—a cruel act, 5(4) to shoot in secret at a blameless one;
 suddenly they will shoot at him and will not fear.
 6(5) They empowered each other with a wicked
 word;
 they talked in order to hide snares;
 they said, "Who can see them?" 7(6) They searched out acts of lawlessness;
 they^e left off^e conducting their search.
 A person will come forward and his^d heart is deep,
 8(7) and God will be exalted.
 A dart of infants their blows became,
 9(8) and against them their tongues became weak.
 All who saw them were troubled.
 10(9) And every person feared, and they proclaimed the works of God,
 and what he had done they perceived.
 11(10) One who is righteous will be glad in the Lord
 and will hope in him.
 And all the upright in heart shall be commended.

^aPossibly derive ^bPossibly set your heart on it ^cOr that ^dLacking in Gk ^eOr expired while

Psalm 64(65)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to David. An Ode^a.
- 2(1) To you a hymn is due, O God, in Sion, and to you shall a vow be paid^b.
- 3(2) Listen to my prayer!
To you all flesh shall come.
- 4(3) Words of lawlessness overpowered us,
and our impieties you will expiate.
- 5(4) Happy is he whom you chose and took to yourself;
he shall encamp in your courts.
We shall be filled with the good things of
your house;
holy is your shrine, ⁽⁵⁾admirable in justice.
- 6(5) Hearken to us, O God, our savior,
the hope of all the ends of the earth,
and in a sea far away,
- 7(6) as he prepares mountains by his strength,
girded with dominance,
- 8(7) he who stirs the hollow of the sea,
roars of its waves.
The nations will be troubled,
and those who inhabit the limits will be awed by your signs.
- 9(8) Goings-out^c of morning and evening you will cheer.
- 10(9) You visited the earth and intoxicated it;
you ^dmultiplied enriching it^d;
the river of God was filled with water;
you prepared its^e nourishment,
because so is your preparation.
- 11(10) Intoxicate its furrows!
Multiply its crops;
it will be glad with its drops, when it sprouts.
- 12(11) You will bless the crown of the year of your goodness,
and your plains shall be filled with fatness.
- 13(12) The seasonable things of the wilderness will be made fat;
with rejoicing the hills will gird
themselves.
- 14(13) The rams of the flocks were clad,
and the valleys multiply grain;
they will cry out; indeed, they will sing a hymn.

Psalm 65(66)

- 1 Regarding completion. ^fAn Ode. Of a Psalm^f.
- (1) Make a joyful noise to God, all the earth;
2 do make music to his name;

- 3 give glory to his praise.
Say to God, "How awesome are your works!
Because of your great power, your enemies will play false with you.
- 4 Let all the earth do obeisance to you and make music to you;
let them make music to your name."
Interlude on strings
- 5 Come, and see the works of God;
he is awesome in his plans beyond the
sons of men,
- 6 he who turns the sea back into dry land;
in a river they will pass through on foot.
There we shall be glad in him,
7 who rules the ages in his dominance;
his eyes keep watch on the nations, those that provoke—let them not be exalted in themselves.
Interlude on strings
- 8 Bless our God, O nations, and make heard the voice of the praise of
him
- 9 who placed my soul in life and does not give my feet to wavering.
- 10 Because you, O God, tested us, you tried us as silver is tried.
- 11 You brought us into the snare;
you laid afflictions on our back; 12 you mounted persons on our heads;
we went through fire and water,
and you brought us out to revival.
- 13 I will enter into your house with whole burnt offerings
I will pay you my vows, 14 which my lips emitted and my mouth spoke in my affliction.
- 15 Fatted whole burnt offerings I will offer to
you,
with incense^h of rams;
I will do for you cows with goats.
Interlude on strings
- 16 Come, hear, and I will tell,
all you who fear God,
what all he did for my soul.
- 17 To him I cried with my mouth,
and I exalted beneathⁱ my tongue.
- 18 If I was contemplating injustice in my
heart,
let the Lord not listen.
- 19 Therefore God listened to me;
he gave heed to the voice of my petition.
- 20 Blessed be God,
who did not remove my prayer
and his mercy from me.

^a + Of Jeremias and Iezekiel from the account of the resident community, when they were about to set out = Ra
^b + in Ierusalem = Ra ^cPossibly onset ^dOr enriched it again and again ^eI.e. the water's ^fPossibly a song of praise (vocal music) accompanied by a psalm (instrumental music) ^gPerhaps eternity ^hPossibly fumigation ⁱPerhaps with

Psalm 66(67)

1 Regarding completion. Among hymns. ^aA Psalm. Of an Ode^a.

2(1) May God have compassion on us and bless us
and display his face to us,
Interlude on strings

3(2) that we may know your way upon the
earth,
among all nations your salvation.

4(3) Let peoples acknowledge you, O God;
let all peoples acknowledge you.

5(4) Let nations be glad and rejoice, because you will judge peoples with uprightness
and guide nations upon the earth.
Interlude on strings

6(5) Let peoples acknowledge you, O God;
let all peoples acknowledge you.

7(6) Earth yielded its crop;
may God, our God, bless us.

8(7) May God bless us,
and let all the ends of the earth revere
him.

Psalm 67(68)

1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to Dauid. ^bA Psalm. Of an Ode^b.

2(1) Let God rise up, and let his enemies be scattered,
and let those who hate him flee from
before him.

3(2) As smoke vanishes, let them vanish;
as wax melts from before fire,
so may sinners perish from before God.

4(3) And let the righteous be glad;
let them rejoice before God;
let them delight with gladness.

5(4) Sing to God; make music to his name; make a way for him who rides upon the sunset;
the Lord is his name—
[and rejoice before him.]^c

6(5) They shall be troubled from before him, who is the father of orphans and vindicator of widows;
God is in his place.

7(6) God settles solitary ones into a home, leading out prisoners with manliness, likewise those who embitter them that live in tombs.

8(7) O God, when you were going out before
your people,
when you were marching in the
wilderness,
Interlude on strings

9(8) earth quaked; indeed, the heavens dripped, from before God—this Sina did—from before the God of Israel.

10(9) Spontaneous watering, O God, you will ordain for your heritage, and it languished, but you restored it;

11(10) your animals live in it;
in your kindness you provided for the poor, O God.

12(11) The Lord will give a word to those who bring good news to a large host:

13(12) “The king of the hosts of the beloved, of the beloved,”
and to^d divide the spoil for the beauty of the house.

14(13) If you lie down among the allotments—a dove’s wings covered with silver and its back feathers with golden greenness.
Interlude on strings

15(14) When the Heavenly One sets apart kings over it,
they will be snow-covered in Selmon.

16(15) O mountain of God, fertile mountain;
O curdled mountain, fertile mountain!

17(16) Why do you suppose, O curdled
mountains,
that it is the mount which God was pleased to live in it?
Indeed, the Lord will encamp finally.

18(17) The chariot of God is ten thousand-fold, thousands of thriving ones;
the Lord is among them in Sina, in the holy place.

19(18) You ascended on high;
you led captivity captive;
you received gifts by a person, indeed, when^e they were disobedient to encamp.
The Lord God be blessed;

20(19) blessed be the Lord day by day;
the God of our deliverance will prosper us.
Interlude on strings

21(20) Our God is a god to save, and to the Lord Lord belong the escape routes of death.

22(21) But God will shatter his enemies’ heads, the hairy crown of those who walk in their errors.

^aPossibly a psalm (instrumental music) accompanied by a song of praise (vocal music) ^bPossibly a song of praise (vocal music) accompanied by a psalm (instrumental music) ^cWithout [] = Ra ^dPerhaps that he ^eOr although

23(22) The Lord said,
 "From Basan I will turn round;
 I will turn round by depths of sea 24(23) so that your foot may be dipped in blood, the tongue of your dogs, from enemies,
 by him."
 25(24) Your processions were viewed, O God, the processions of my God, my King in the holy place—26(25) rulers got a head start, near strummers, among young female drummers:
 27(26) "Bless God in assemblies, the Lord from Israel's fountains!" 28(27) There is Benjamin, the youngest, in a trance, rulers of Ioudas, their leaders, rulers of Zaboulon, rulers of Nephthali.
 29(28) Command your power, O God; make powerful, O God, that which you wrought for us.
 30(29) Resulting from your shrine at Ierusalem kings will offer gifts to you.
 31(30) Rebuke the wild animals of the reeds;
 the gathering of the bulls is among the heifers of the peoples
 in order that those tested by silver not be shut out.
 Scatter nations that want wars.
 32(31) Envoys will come from Egypt;
 Ethiopia will outstrip its^a hand to God.
 33(32) As for the kingdoms of the earth—sing to God;
 make music to the Lord,
Interlude on strings
 34(33) to^b him who rides to the sky of the sky, in the east;
 look, he will let out, with his voice, a voice of power.
 35(34) Give glory to God;
 over Israel is his magnificence,
 and his power is in the clouds.
 36(35) Admirable is God among his saints; the God of Israel, he will give power and strength to his people.

Blessed be God!

Psalm 68(69)

¹ Regarding completion. Over those that shall be changed. Pertaining to Dauid.
 2(1) Save me, O God,
 because waters came as far as my soul.
 3(2) I was stuck in deep mire,
 and there is no foothold;
 I came into the depths of the sea,
 and a tempest overwhelmed me.
 4(3) I grew weary of crying;

my throat was hoarse.
 My eyes failed
 from hoping in my God.
 5(4) They multiplied beyond the hairs of my
 head,
 those who hate me without cause;
 my enemies who persecuted me unjustly became strong.
 What I did not seize
 I would then repay.
 6(5) O God, you knew my folly, and the wrongs I did were not hidden
 from you.
 7(6) May those who wait for you not be put to shame because of me,
 O Lord, Lord of hosts;
 may those who seek you not be embarrassed
 because of me,
 O God of Israel,
 8(7) because for your sake I bore reproach;
 embarrassment covered my face.
 9(8) I became estranged from my brothers,
 a visitor to the sons of my mother, 10(9) because the zeal for your house consumed
 me,
 and the reproaches of those who reproach you fell on me.
 11(10) And I bent my soul with fasting, and it became reproaches^c to me.
 12(11) And I made sackcloth my clothing and became an illustration to them.
 13(12) About me those who sit in a gate would gossip,
 and against me those who drink wine would make music.
 14(13) But as for me, with my prayer to you,
 O Lord!
 It is a time of favor, O God, in the abundance of your mercy.
 Hearken to me with truth of ⁽¹⁴⁾your deliverance.
 15 Save me from the mud so that I shall not get stuck;
 may I be rescued from those who hate
 me
 and from the deep waters.
 16(15) Do not let a tempest of water overwhelm
 me
 or a deep swallow me up or a cistern close its mouth over me.
 17(16) Listen to me, O Lord, because your mercy is kind;
 according to the abundance of your compassion look upon me.
 18(17) Do not turn away your face from your servant;
 because I am in affliction, quickly
 hearken to me.

^ai.e. Egypt's ^bPr make music to God = Ra ^creproach = Ra

- 19(18) Pay attention to my soul, and redeem it;
for the sake of my enemies rescue me.
- 20(19) For you know my reproach and my shame and my embarrassment;
before you are all those who afflict me.
- 21(20) Reproach my heart^a expected—and misery,
and I waited for one that would sympathize, and none existed, and for comforters, but I did not find.
- 22(21) And they gave gall as my food, and for my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink.
- 23(22) Let their table become a trap before them,
and a retribution and a stumbling block.
- 24(23) Let their eyes be darkened so that they cannot see,
and bend their back permanently.
- 25(24) Pour out upon them your wrath, and may the anger of your wrath overtake
them.
- 26(25) Let their steading become desolated, and let there be no one who lives in their coverts,
- 27(26) because they persecuted him whom you struck,
and to the pain of your wounded they added.
- 28(27) Add lawlessness to their lawlessness, and let them not enter in your
righteousness.
- 29(28) Let them be blotted out of the book of the
living,
and let them not be enrolled among the
righteous.
- 30(29) Poor and in pain I am,
and the deliverance of your face, O God, supported me.
- 31(30) I will praise the name of God with an ode;
I will magnify him with praise.
- 32(31) And it will please the Lord more than a young bull calf
bearing horns and hoofs.
- 33(32) Let the poor see it and be glad;
seek God, and your soul shall live,
- 34(33) because the Lord listened to the needy and his own that are in bonds he did not despise.
- 35(34) Let the heavens and the earth praise him,
sea and everything that creeps in them,
- 36(35) because God will save Sion,
and the cities of Judea will be built,
and they shall live there and inherit it.
- 37(36) And the offspring of his slaves shall possess
it,
and those who love his name shall encamp in it.

Psalm 69(70)

- 1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to Daudid. As a reminder, ²(1) for the Lord to save me.
- O God, attend to helping me!
- 3(2) May those be put to shame and embarrassment
who seek my life.
May those be turned back and be put to
shame
who wish my hurt.
- 4(3) May those who say^b, “Good, Good!”
be turned back promptly with shame.
- 5(4) Let all who seek you rejoice and be glad in you.
And let those who love your deliverance say ever more, “Let God be magnified!”
- 6(5) But I am poor and needy;
help me, O God!
My helper and my rescuer you are;
O Lord, do not delay!

Psalm 70(71)

- 1 Pertaining to Daudid^c.
- (1) O God, in you I hoped;
may I never be put to shame.
- 2 In your righteousness, rescue me, and
deliver me;
incline your ear to me, and save me.
- 3 Be to me a protector-god,
and a strong place, to save me, because you are my firmness and my refuge.
- 4 O my God, rescue me from a sinner’s hand,
from the hand of transgressor of the law and wrongdoer,
- 5 because you are my endurance, O Lord;
the Lord is my hope from my youth.
- 6 Upon you I leaned from my birth; from my mother’s belly it was you who sheltered me.
Of you is my hymn-singing continually.
- 7 Like a portent to the many I became,
and you are a strong helper.
- 8 Let my mouth be filled with praise,
that I may sing a hymn to your glory,
all day long to your magnificence.
- 9 Do not cast me off in the time of old age;
when my strength fails, do not forsake me,
- 10 because my enemies spoke with reference to
me,
and those who watch for my soul consulted together, 11 saying, “God abandoned him;
pursue, and seize him,
because there is no one to rescue.”

^asoul = Ra ^b + to me = Ra ^c + Of the sons of Ionadab and the first of those taken captive = Ra

12 O God, do not be far from me;
O my God, attend to helping me!

13 Let those that slander my soul be put to shame, and let them expire;
let those who seek to hurt me be covered with shame and embarrassment.

14 But as for me, I will hope continually and will add to all your praise.

15 My mouth will proclaim your
righteousness,
all day long your deliverance,
because I do not know scribal art.

16 I will enter in the Lord's dominance;
O Lord, I will recall righteousness of you
alone.

17 ^aO God^a, you taught me from my youth, and I will still proclaim your wondrous
deeds.

18 And to old age and advanced years,
O God, do not abandon me until I proclaim your arm to every generation to come,
your dominance ⁽¹⁹⁾and your
righteousness.

19 O God, what magnificent things you did are the highest heights.
O God, who is like you?

20 What afflictions, many and bad, did you show me!
And having turned, you revived me,
and from the depths of the earth
you brought me up again.

21 You made your greatness increase,
and having turned, you comforted me.

22 Indeed, I will acknowledge your truth to
you
with the use of a melody, O God;
I will make music to you with a lyre,
O Holy One of Israel.

23 My lips will rejoice,
when I make music to you;
my soul also, which you redeemed.

24 Furthermore, all day long my tongue will contemplate your righteousness, when those who seek to hurt me are put to shame and embarrassment.

Psalm 71(72)

1 Regarding Salomon.

(1) O God, give the king your judgment, and your righteousness to the son of the king,
2 to judge your people with righteousness and your poor with justice.
3 Let the mountains restore peace for your
people,

and the hills, in righteousness.

4 He will judge the poor of the people and save the sons of the needy and humble an extortioner.

5 And he will endure along with the sun and longer than the moon, generations of generations.

6 He^b will descend like rain on a fleece,
and like drops dripping on the earth.

7 In his days righteousness will sprout, and an abundance of peace, until the moon vanishes.

8 And he shall exercise dominion from sea to sea
and from river to the world's limits.
9 Before him Ethiopians will fall down, and his enemies will lick dust.

10 Kings of Tharsis and the isles will present gifts;
kings of Arabs and Saba will bring gifts.

11 And all kings shall do obeisance to him;
all nations shall be subject to him.

12 Because he rescued a poor one from^c a mighty one
and a needy one who has no helper, 13 he will spare poor and needy,
and the souls of the needy he will save.

14 From usury and from injustice he will redeem their soul,
and precious is their name in his sight.

15 And he shall live long,
and there will be given to him of the gold of Arabia.
And they will pray for him continually,
and all day long they will bless him.

16 There will be sustenance in the land on the tops of the mountains;
its^d fruit will surpass Lebanon, and they will blossom forth from a city
like the grass of the field.

17 Let his name be blessed through the ages;
his name shall endure longer than the sun.
And all the tribes of the earth will be blessed in him;
all the nations will pronounce him
happy.

18 Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who alone does wondrous things.

19 And blessed be the name of his glory forever, even forever and ever,
and the whole earth will be filled with
his glory.
May it be; may it be.

20 The hymns of Daudid son of Iessai have ended.

^aTr after me = Ra ^bPr and = Ra ^c + the hand of = Ra ^dI.e. sustenance

BOOK III

(Psalms 72[73]–88[89])

Psalm 72(73)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Asaph.

(1) How good is God to Israel, to the upright in heart!

2 But as for me, my feet were almost shaken;
my steps nearly slipped,

3 because I was envious of the lawless,
as I observed sinners' peace,

4 because there is nothing negative in their death
and no firmness in their scourge.

5 They are not in trouble of human beings, and with human beings they will not be scourged.

6 Therefore pride seized them;
they clothed themselves with injustice
and their impiety.

7 Their injustice will go forth as though from fat;
they progressed according to their heart's disposition.

8 They schemed and spoke with malice;
injustice they spoke against ^athe heights.

9 They set their mouths against heaven,
and their tongues ranged over the earth.

10 Therefore my people will return here,
and full days will be found for them.

11 And they said, "How did God know?" and "Is there knowledge in the Most High?"

12 Look, these are sinners and ^bbare flourishing;
always did they possess wealth.

13 And I said, "So, in vain did I keep my heart just
and washed my hands in innocence.

14 And I became scourged all day long,
and my rebuke lasted till morning."

15 If I said, "I will talk in this way," look, I would have been faithless to the family of your sons.

16 And I thought how to understand this;
a wearisome task was before me

17 until I went into the sanctuary of God, and perceived their end.

18 But on account of deceits, you set ^cfor them;
you brought them down, when they were raised up.

19 How they became desolate in a moment!
They failed; they perished on account of their lawlessness.

20 Like a dream when one awakes, O Lord, in your city you will despise their phantom.

21 Because my heart was burnt up and my kidneys were changed

22 and I was of no account and ignorant,
I became beastlike in your sight.

23 And I am continually with you;
you seized my right hand.

24 With your counsel you guided me,
and with glory you received me.

25 For what do I have in the sky, and from you what did I want on the
earth?

26 My heart and my flesh failed;
God is the God of my heart and is my portion forever,

27 because, look, those who distance themselves from you will perish;
you destroyed every one who whored away from you.

28 But for me, to cling to God is good,
to put my hope in the Lord,
that I may tell of all your promises^d e[in the gates of daughter Zion]^e.

Psalm 73(74)

1 Of understanding. Pertaining to Asaph.

(1) Why did you reject, O God, totally;
was your anger aroused against sheep of your pasture?

2 Remember your congregation, which you acquired long ago;
you redeemed a rod of your heritage; ^fyou redeemed^f this Mount Zion, whereon you encamped.

3 Raise your hands against their acts of pride, totally,
which evils the enemy committed among your saints.

4 And those who hate you boasted within your feast;
they set up their emblems as emblems and did not know.

5 As though into the ^gentrance above—
as though they were in a forest of trees, they felled its doors with axes;
(6) together, with wood-cutter's ax and stone-cutter's chisel, they smashed it.

7 They set on fire your sanctuary with fire;
to the ground they desecrated the covert of your name.

8 They said in their heart—the clan of them
together—
"Come, and let us burn all the feasts of God from off the land."

9 Our emblems we did not see;
there is no longer a prophet,
and us he will know no longer.

10 How long, O God, will the enemy reproach,

^aPossibly the sky ^b*they flourish* = Ra ^cPerhaps set an obstacle ^d*praises* = Ra ^eWithout [] = Ra ^fLacking in Gk ^gOr upper entrance

11 the opponent utterly provoke your name?
Why do you turn away your hand, and your right hand from within your bosom, totally?

12 Yet God is our King from of old;
he worked deliverance in the midst of the
earth.

13 It was you who strengthened the sea by your
power;
you^a shattered the heads of the dragons
upon the water.

14 It was you who crushed the heads of the dragon;
you gave him as food to the Ethiopian
peoples.

15 It was you who broke through springs and wadis;
it was you who dried up streams of Etham.

16 Yours is the day, and yours is the night;
it was you who established lighting and
sun.

17 It was you who made all the bounds of the
earth;
summer and spring, it was you who fashioned them.

18 Remember this^b; an enemy reproached the Lord,
and a foolish people provoked your
name.

19 Do not deliver a soul that acknowledges you to the wild animals;
the souls of your needy do not forget
totally.

20 Have regard for your covenant, because the darkened ones^c of the land were filled with houses of
lawlessness.

21 Let not a humbled one be turned away in
shame;
poor and needy will praise your name.

22 Rise up, O God; plead your cause; remember how you are reproached by the fool all day long.

23 Do not forget the voice of your suppliants;
the pride of those who hate you went up to you continually.

Psalm 74(75)

1 Regarding completion. Do Not Destroy. ^dA
Psalm^d. Pertaining to Asaph. ^dOf an Ode^d.

2(1) We will acknowledge you, O God;
we will acknowledge and call upon your
name.

3 I will tell of^e your wondrous deeds, (2)when I seize an opportune moment;

I will judge with uprightness.
4(3) The earth melted, and all who live in it;
it was I who firmed up its pillars
Interlude on strings

5(4) I said to those who break the law, "Do not break the law," and to those that sin, "Do not raise a horn;

6(5) do not lift up your horn on high;
do not speak injustice against God,"

7(6) because neither from egresses^f nor from settings

nor from desolate mountains—8(7) because God is judge, this one he humbles and that one he exalts;

9(8) because there is a cup in the Lord's hand, of pure wine, full of a mixture,
and he tipped it from side to side,
but its dregs were not emptied out;
all the sinners of the earth shall drink.

10(9) But as for me, I will rejoice forever;
I will make music to the God of Iakob.

11(10) And all the horns of sinners I will break
off,
and the horns of the righteous one shall
be exalted.

Psalm 75(76)

1 Regarding completion. Among hymns. A Psalm.
Pertaining to Asaph. An Ode^g.

2(1) God is known in Judea;
in Israel his name is great.

3(2) And his place was in peace, and his place of settlement was in Zion.

4(3) There he crushed the power of the bows, shield and sword and war.

Interlude on strings

5(4) It is you who gives light marvelously from everlasting mountains.

6(5) All the stupid in heart were troubled;
they slept their sleep and found
nothing—

all the men of wealth, with their hands.

7(6) At your rebuke, O God of Iakob, those mounted on horses became drowsy.

8(7) You—awesome you are!
Who shall withstand you?
From then is your anger.

9(8) From the sky you made judgment heard;
earth feared and was still,

10(9) when God rose up to establish judgment, to save all the meek of the earth.

Interlude on strings

^ait was you = Ra ^bAntecedent unclear ^cPossibly places ^dPossibly a psalm (instrumental music) accompanied by a song of praise (vocal music) ^e+ all = Ra ^fPossibly east and west ^g+ Referring to the Assyrian = Ra

- 11(10) Because human thought will acknowledge you,
and a remnant of thought will celebrate you.
- 12(11) Make vows, and pay to the Lord your God;
all who are around him will bring gifts to the one who is awesome and ⁽¹²⁾who cuts off the spirit of rulers, awesome to the kings of the earth.

Psalm 76(77)

- 1 Regarding completion. Over Idithoun.
Pertaining to Asaph. A Psalm.
- 2(1) With my voice I cried to the Lord,
with my voice to God, and he paid attention to me.
- 3(2) In a day of my affliction I sought God, with my hands, at night, before him, and I was not deceived;
my soul refused to be comforted.
- 4(3) I thought of God, and I was glad;
I pondered, and my spirit became discouraged.
- Interlude on strings*
- 5(4) With watches^a my eyes were preoccupied;
I was troubled and did not speak.
- 6(5) I considered days of old,
and years of long ago I remembered and meditated;
- 7(6) at night I would commune with my heart,
and ^bI would probe my spirit^b;
- 8(7) "Surely the Lord will not spurn forever and will not add to be well pleased any longer?"
- 9(8) Or will he completely cut off his mercy from generation to generation?
- 10(9) Or will God forget to be compassionate?
Or will he in his anger shut up his compassion?"
- Interlude on strings*
- 11(10) And I said, "Now I have begun:
this change was of the right hand of the Most High!"
- 12(11) I called to mind the works of the Lord, because I will remember your wonders from of old.
- 13(12) And I will meditate on all your works, and among your practices I will ponder.
- 14(13) O God, your way is in ^cthe holy place^c.
What god is great like our God?
- 15(14) You are the God who works wonders;
you made known your power among the peoples.
- 16(15) You redeemed your people with your strong arm,
the sons of Iakob and Ioseph.
- Interlude on strings*

- 17(16) Waters saw you, O God;
waters saw you, and they were afraid,
and the deep was troubled, a great roaring of waters.
- 18(17) A voice the clouds gave forth;
indeed, your arrows are passing through.
- 19(18) A voice of your thunder was in the circuit^d;
your lightnings gave light to the world;
the earth shook and was set a-tremble.
- 20(19) In the sea was your way,
and your paths in many waters,
and your footprints will not be known.
- 21(20) You guided your people like sheep
by the hand of Moyses and Aaron.

Psalm 77(78)

- 1 Of understanding. Pertaining to Asaph.
- (1) Pay attention, O my people, to my law;
incline your ears to the words of my mouth.
- 2 I will open my mouth in a parable;
I will utter problems from of old,
things that we heard, and we knew them,
and our fathers told us.
- 3 They were not hidden from their children to a next generation, as they kept telling of the praises of the Lord and of his dominance
and of the wonders that he did.
- 4 He established a witness in Iakob and set a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers to make them known to their sons, that a next generation might know them,
sons that will be born,
and they shall rise up and tell them to their sons
so that they should set their hope in God and not forget the works of God and seek^f out his commandments, that they should not be like their fathers,
a generation, crooked and embittering,
a generation which did not set its heart aright,
and its spirit was not faithful to God.
- 5 Ephraim's sons, though bending and shooting their bows, were turned back on a day of war.
- 6 They did not keep the covenant of God,
and in his law they did not want to walk.
- 7 And they forgot his benefactions and his marvels that he showed them in the sight of their fathers, which marvels he worked in the land of Egypt, in Tanis' plain.
- 8 He broke asunder a sea and brought them through

^ai.e. of the night ^bmy spirit would probe = Ra ^cOr what is holy ^di.e. of the earth ^eparables = Ra ^fPr they will = Ra

- 14 and made waters stand like a wineskin.
 And he led them with a cloud by day,
 and all night long with an illumination of fire.
- 15 He broke asunder a rock in a wilderness and gave them drink as from a voluminous deep.
- 16 And he brought out water from a rock and brought down waters like rivers.
- 17 And they added still to sin against him;
 they embittered the Most High in a waterless land.
- 18 And they tested God in their hearts
 by demanding food for their souls.
- 19 And they spoke against God and said,
 "Surely, God will not be able to spread a table in a wilderness?"
- 20 Even though he struck a rock and waters gushed out
 and wadis deluged,
 surely, he cannot also give bread or spread a table for his people?"
- 21 Therefore, the Lord heard and was put out, and a fire was kindled in Iakob,
 and anger mounted against Israel, 22 because they had no faith in God nor did they hope in his saving power.
- 23 And he commanded clouds above and opened heaven's doors, 24 and he rained down manna for them to eat,
 and heaven's bread he gave them.
- 25 Bread of angels man ate;
 provisions he sent them in abundance.
- 26 He removed a south wind from heaven, and he led on, by his dominance, a southwest wind,
 27 and he rained upon them flesh like dust and winged birds like the sand of seas, 28 and they fell in the midst of their camp,
 all around their coverts.
- 29 And they ate and were well filled,
 and what they craved he brought them;
 30 they were not deprived of what they craved.
 While their food was still in their
 mouth,
- 31 God's wrath also rose against them,
 and he killed among their sleek ones,
 and the select of Israel he shackled.
- 32 Amidst all these things they still sinned, and they did not believe in his marvels.
- 33 And in vanity did their days end,
 and their years with haste.
- 34 When he was killing them, they would seek him out;
 they would turn to God and be early.
- 35 And they remembered that God was their helper
 and God the Most High was their redeemer.
- 36 And they deceived him with their mouth;
 with their tongue they lied to him.
- 37 And their heart was not upright with him,
 nor were they true to his covenant.
- 38 Yet he is compassionate and will atone their sins and not destroy
 them,
 and he will increase to turn away his anger
 and not ignite all his wrath.
- 39 And he remembered that they were flesh, a breath that passes and does not come again.
- 40 How often they embittered him in the
 wilderness;
 they provoked him to anger in an arid
 land!
- 41 And they turned about and tested God, and the Holy One of Israel they provoked.
- 42 They did not keep in mind his hand,
 the day on which he redeemed them
 from an oppressor's hand;
- 43 how he displayed in Egypt his signs,
 and his wonders in Tanis' plain.
- 44 And he turned their rivers into blood, and their pools, so that they could not drink.
- 45 He sent a dog-fly among them, and it devoured them,
 and a frog, and it destroyed them.
- 46 And he gave their crops over to the rust,
 and their labors to the grasshopper.
- 47 He killed their vine with hail and their mulberry trees with the hoar-frost.
- 48 And he gave over their cattle to hail and their property to the fire.
- 49 He sent among them his anger's wrath, anger and wrath and affliction,
 a dispatch through wicked angels.
- 50 He made a path for his wrath;
 he did not spare their souls from death,
 and their cattle he consigned to death.
- 51 And he struck every firstborn in Egypt, first fruit of their labors in the coverts of Cham.
- 52 And he removed his people like sheep and brought them up like a flock in a wilderness.
- 53 And he guided them in hope, and they were not in dread,
 but their enemies a sea covered.
- 54 And he brought them to a territory of his holy precinct,
 this mountain that his right hand acquired.
- 55 And he threw out nations from before them, and he distributed to them shares by measuring line
 and made the tribes of Israel encamp in their coverts.
- 56 And they tested and embittered God the Most High.
 And his testimonies they did not observe

57 and turned away and were faithless as also their fathers;
 they^a were twisted into a crooked bow.
 58 And they provoked him to anger with their hills,
 and with their carved images they moved him to jealousy.
 59 God heard and disdained, and he treated Israel with utter
 contempt.
 60 And he rejected his tent at Selob,^b a^c covert where he encamped among
 human beings,
 61 and gave their strength over to captivity and their comeliness into an enemy's
 hands.
 62 And he consigned his people to a sword,
 and his heritage he disdained.
 63 Their young men fire devoured, and their girls were not bewailed.
 64 Their priests fell by sword, and their widows will not be lamented.
 65 And the Lord awoke as one that sleeps, like a strong man intoxicated with wine.
 66 And he struck his enemies backwards; everlasting disgrace he put them to.
 67 And he rejected the covert of Ioseph, and the tribe of Ephraim he did not choose,
 68 and he chose the tribe of Ioudas,
 Mount Zion, which he loved.
 69 And he built his holy precinct like that of
 unicorns,
 in the land—he founded it^d forever.
 70 And he chose Dauid his slave and took him from the sheepfolds; 71 from behind the lambing ewes he took him to shepherd Iakob his people and Israel his inheritance.
 72 And he shepherded them in the innocence of his heart,
 and by the cleverness of his hands he guided them.

Psalm 78(79)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Asaph.
 (1) O God, nations came into your inheritance;
 they defiled your holy shrine;
 they made Ierousalem into a gardenwatcher's hut.
 2 They placed the carcasses of your slaves as food for the birds of the air, the flesh of your devout for the wild animals of the earth.
 3 They poured out their blood like water
 all around Ierousalem,
 and there was no one to bury.
 4 We became a reproach to our neighbors, mockery and derision to those around us.

5 How long, O Lord, will you be utterly angry, will your jealousy burn like fire?
 6 Pour out your wrath on nations that do not know you
 and on kingdoms
 that did not call on your name, 7 because they devoured Iakob and his place they laid waste.
 8 Do not remember our lawless deeds of long ago;
 let your compassion speedily preoccupy
 us,
 because we became very poor.
 9 Help us, O God our savior;
 for the sake of the glory of your name, O Lord, rescue us,
 and atone for our sins, for the sake of
 your name,
 10 so that the nations may not say,
 "Where is their God?"—
 and let the avenging of the outpoured blood of your slaves
 be known among the nations before our eyes.
 11 Let the groaning of the prisoners come
 before you;
 according to the greatness of your arm preserve the sons of those put to death.
 12 Return sevenfold into the bosom of our neighbors
 their reproaching with which they reproached you, O Lord!
 13 But we, your people and sheep of your pasture,
 will acknowledge you openly forever;
 to generation and generation we will recount your praise.

Psalm 79(80)

1 Regarding completion. Over those that will be changed. A witness. Pertaining to Asaph. A Psalm^e.
 2(1) You who shepherd Israel, pay attention,
 you who guide Ioseph like sheep!
 You who sit upon the cherubim, appear!
 3(2) Before Ephraim and Beniamin and Manasse arouse your dominance,
 and come in order to save us!
 4(3) O God, bring us back, and show your face, and we shall be saved.
 5(4) O Lord God of hosts, how long will you be angry with the prayer of your slave, 6(5) will you feed them^f with bread of tears,
 and give them^f tears to drink in measure?

^aPr and = Ra ^bSelom = Ra ^chis = Ra ^dPossibly Sion ^e+ Over the Assyrian = Ra ^fus = Ra

7(6) You made us a controversy to our neighbors, and our enemies mocked us.

8(7) O^a God of hosts, bring us back,
and show your face, and we shall be
saved.

Interlude on strings

9(8) A vine you transferred from Egypt;
you threw out nations and planted it.

10(9) You cleared the way for it, and you planted its roots and ^bit filled the land^b.

11(10) Its shade covered mountains, and its tendrils the cedars of God;

12(11) it sent out its branches as far as the sea, and as far as the river its shoots.

13(12) Why did you bring down its fence, and all who pass along the way pluck its fruit?

14(13) A boar from the forest ravaged it, and a lone wild beast fed on it.

15(14) O God of hosts, do bring back;
look down from heaven, and see,
and have regard for this vine,

16(15) and restore that which your right hand planted—

and look^c upon a son of man, whom you made strong for yourself.

17(16) Burnt with fire and dug up it^d was;
at the rebuke of your face they will perish.

18(17) Let your hand be upon the man at your right hand,
and upon a son of man, whom you made strong for yourself.

19(18) And we will never turn away from you;
you will revive us, and we will call on
your name.

20(19) O Lord God of hosts, bring us back,
and show your face, and we shall be
saved.

Psalm 80(81)

1 Regarding completion. Over the wine vats.
Pertaining to Asaph^e.

2(1) Rejoice in God our helper;
shout for joy to the God of Iakob.

3(2) Raise a melody; sound a drum, delightful harp with lyre.

4(3) Trumpet with a trumpet at a new moon,
at a high day of our feast,

5(4) because it is an ordinance for Israel and a judgment belonging to the God of Iakob.

6(5) A testimony in Ioseph he made him^f, when he went out from the land of Egypt.

A tongue he heard, which he did not know;

7(6) he removed his back from burdens;
his hands slaved at the basket.

8(7) "In affliction you called upon me, and I rescued you;

I hearkened to you in a secret spot of a tempest;

I tested you at a water of contention.

Interlude on strings

9(8) "Hear, O my people, and I will admonish
you;

O Israel, if you would hear me!

10(9) There shall be no recent god among you, nor shall you do obeisance to a foreign
god.

11(10) For I am the Lord your God, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt.

Open wide your mouth, and I will fill it.

12(11) "And my people did not hear my voice;
and Israel paid no attention to me.

13(12) And I sent them away in accordance with the practices of their hearts;
they shall walk in their practices.

14(13) If my people had heard me,
if Israel had walked by my ways,

15(14) in no time I would have humbled their
enemies,

and on those that afflict them I would have put my hand."

16(15) The enemies of the Lord lied to him, and their season will be forever.

17(16) And he fed them with wheat's fat, and from a rock he satisfied them with honey.

Psalm 81(82)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to Asaph.

(1) God stood in a gathering of gods, but in their midst he discerningly judges
gods:

2 "How long will you judge with injustice and to sinners show partiality?"

Interlude on strings

3 "Give justice to orphan and poor;
of lowly and needy maintain the right.

4 Deliver needy and poor;
from a sinner's hand rescue them."

5 They had neither knowledge nor
understanding;
in darkness they walk around;
all the foundations of the earth will be shaken.

6 I said, "Gods you are,

^a + Lord = Ra ^bthe land was filled = Ra ^cLacking in Gk ^dI.e. the vine ^e + A Psalm = Ra ^fPossibly Israel or Iakob

7 and sons of the Most High,
but you all^a are dying like human beings,
and like one of the rulers you fall.”

8 Rise up, O God, judge the earth, because you will gain possession of all
the nations.

Psalm 82(83)

1 ^bAn Ode. Of a Psalm^b. Pertaining to Asaph.

2(1) O God, who shall be likened to you?
Do not keep silent nor be appeased,
O God,
3(2) because, look, your enemies made a tumult,
and those who hate you raised their
head.
4(3) Against your people they laid villainous plans,
and they conspired against your saints.
5(4) They said, “Come, and let us destroy them from being a nation, and the name of Israel shall be remembered no more,”
6(5) because they conspired together with one accord;
against you they made a covenant—7(6) the coverts of the Idumeans and the Ismaelites,
Moab and the Hagarites,
8(7) Gebal and Ammon and Amalek, and allophyles with the inhabitants of Tyre;
9(8) indeed, even Assour came along with them;
they came as support for sons of Lot.
Interlude on strings

10(9) Do to them as to Madiam and to Sisara, as Iabin was at Wadi Kison!
11(10) They were destroyed at Aendor;
they became dung^c for the ground.
12(11) Make their rulers like Oreb and Zeb and Zebue and Salmana—all their rulers, 13(12) who said, “Let us take for our own possession the sanctuary of God.”

14(13) O my God, make them like a wheel, like a straw in the wind.
15(14) Like a fire that will blaze through a forest,
as a flame might burn up mountains, 16(15) so you will pursue them with your tempest, and with your wrath dismay them.
17(16) Fill their faces with dishonor, and they will seek your name, O Lord.
18(17) Let them be put to shame and be dismayed
forever and ever,
and let them be embarrassed and perish.
19(18) And let them know that your name is the Lord;

you alone are Most High over all the
earth.

Psalm 83(84)

1 Regarding completion. Over the wine vats.
Pertaining to the sons of Kore. A Psalm.

2(1) How beloved are your coverts,
O Lord of hosts!
3(2) My soul longs and faints for the courts of the Lord;
my heart and my flesh rejoiced in a living
God.

4(3) Indeed, a sparrow found itself a home,
and a turtle-dove a nest for herself,
where she will lay her young:
your altars, O Lord of hosts,
my King and my God.
5(4) Happy are those who live in your house;
for ages upon ages they will praise you.
Interlude on strings

6(5) Happy the man whose support is from you,
O Lord;
ascents^d he arranged in his heart, 7(6) in the valley of weeping, to a place which he appointed.
Indeed, the lawgiver will give blessings.
8(7) They will go from strength to strength;
God of gods will be seen in Zion.

9(8) O Lord God of hosts, listen to my prayer;
give ear, O God of Iakob!
Interlude on strings

10(9) O God our protector, see,
and look on the face of your anointed, 11(10) because one day in your courts is better—beyond thousands.
I chose to be cast aside in the house of God
rather than to live in coverts of sinners.
12(11) Because mercy and truth the Lord God loves, favor and glory he will bestow.
The Lord will not withhold good things from those who walk in innocence.
13(12) O Lord of hosts,
happy is the person who hopes in you.

Psalm 84(85)

1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to the sons of Kore. A Psalm.

2(1) You took pleasure, Lord, in your land;
you turned away the captivity of Iakob.
3(2) You forgave your people their acts of
lawlessness;
you covered all their sins.
Interlude on strings

^aTr post High = Ra ^bPossibly a song of praise (vocal music) accompanied by a psalm (instrumental music)

^cPr like = Ra ^dPerhaps ascents to Zion

- 4(3) You put a stop to all your wrath;
you turned away from your hot anger.
- 5(4) Bring us back, O God of our deliverance, and turn away your anger from us.
- 6(5) Surely, you will not be angry with us forever or prolong your anger from generation to generation?
- 7(6) O God, when it is you who brings us back
you will revive us,
and your people will be glad in you.
- 8(7) Show us, O Lord, your mercy, and your deliverance may you grant us.
- 9(8) I will hear what the Lord God will speak with me,
because he will speak peace to his people and to his devout
and to those who turn to him their heart.
- 10(9) But for those who fear him his deliverance is at hand,
that glory may encamp in our land.
- 11(10) Mercy and truth met; righteousness and peace kissed.
- 12(11) Truth sprouted from the ground, and righteousness peered down from the sky.
- 13(12) Indeed, the Lord will give kindness, and our land will yield its crop.
- 14(13) Righteousness will go before him and will place his steps in the way.
- 10 Because you are great and one who does wondrous things,
you alone are God^a.
- 11 Guide me, O Lord, by your way,
and I shall walk in your truth;
let my heart be glad to revere your
name.
- 12 I will acknowledge you, O Lord my God,
with my whole heart,
and I will glorify your name forever,
because your mercy toward me is great,
and you rescued my soul from deepest Hades.
- 14 O God, transgressors of the law rose up
against me,
and a band of strong ones sought my
soul,
and they did not set you before them.
- 15 But you, O Lord God, are compassionate and merciful,
slow to anger and abounding in mercy
and true.
- 16 Look upon me, and have mercy on me;
give your might to your servant,
and save the son of your serving girl.
- 17 Make with me a sign for good,
and let those who hate me see and be put to shame,
because it is you, O Lord, who helped me and comforted me.

Psalm 85(86)

- 1 A Prayer. Pertaining to David.
- (1) Incline your ear, O Lord, and hearken to me, because poor and needy I am.
- 2 Preserve my life, because I am a devotee;
save your slave who hopes in you, O my
God.
- 3 Have mercy on me, O Lord,
because to you I will cry all day long.
- 4 Gladden the soul of your slave, because to you, O Lord, I lifted up my soul, because it is you, O Lord, who are kind and gentle
and abounding in mercy to all who call
on you.
- 6 Give ear, O Lord, to my prayer,
and attend to the voice of my petition.
- 7 In a day of my affliction I cried to you, because you listened to me.
- 8 There is none like you among gods, O Lord,
and there are no works like yours.
- 9 All the nations, as many as you made, shall come
and do obeisance before you, O Lord,
and shall glorify your name.

Psalm 86(87)

- 1 Pertaining to the sons of Kore. ^bA Psalm. Of an Ode^b.
- (1) His foundations are on the holy
mountains;
2 the Lord loves the gates of Sion more than all the coverts of Iakob.
- 3 Glorious things were spoken of you,
O city of God.
- Interlude on strings*
- 4 I will mention Raab and Babylon to those who know me.
And look, allophyles and Tyre and a people of Ethiopians—
these were born there.
- 5 ^cWith regard to Sion, surely no^c person will
say,
“And ^da person^d was born in it?”
And himself founded it—the Most High!
- 6 The Lord will recount, in a list of peoples and rulers, those that were born in it.
- Interlude on strings*
- 7 Seeing that they are glad, the habitation of all is in you.

Psalm 87(88)

1 ^aAn Ode. Of a Psalm^a. Pertaining to the sons of Kore. Regarding completion. Over Maeleth in order that he be answered. Of understanding. Pertaining to Haiman the Israelite.

2(1) O Lord, God of my deliverance, by day I cried out, and at night, before
you;
3(2) let my prayer come before you;
incline your ear to my petition^b.
4(3) Because my soul was full of troubles and my life drew near to Hades, 5(4) I was counted among those who go down
into a pit;
I became like a helpless person, free
among corpses,
6(5) like casualties^c lying asleep in a grave, whom you remembered no more,
and they were thrust away from your
hand.
7(6) They put me in a very deep pit,
in dark places and in death's shadow.
8(7) Upon me your anger was fixed, and all your billows you brought upon
me.

Interlude on strings

9(8) You distanced my acquaintances from me;
they made me an abomination to
themselves.
I was handed over and could not walk
away;
10(9) my eye^d grew weak through poverty.
I cried out to you, O Lord, all day long;
I spread out my hands to you.
11(10) Surely, you shall not work wonders for the dead?
Or will physicians raise up, and they^e acknowledge you?

Interlude on strings

12(11) Surely, no one will declare your mercy in a grave
and your truth in the ruin?
13(12) Surely, your wonders will not be known in the darkness,
and your righteousness in a land
forgotten?
14(13) And I, O Lord, I cried out to you, and in the morning my prayer will anticipate you.
15(14) Why, O Lord, do you cast off my soul,
do you turn away your face from me?
16(15) Poor I am and in troubles from my youth, and after being exalted I was humbled and became perplexed.
17(16) Your wrath swept over me;

your^f scares threw me in disarray.
18(17) They surrounded me like water all day
long;
they closed in on me at once.
19(18) You distanced from me friend and fellow and my acquaintances due to misery.

Psalm 88(89)

1 Of understanding. Pertaining to Aithan the Israelite.
2(1) Of your mercies, O Lord, I will sing forever; to generation and generation I will proclaim your truth with my
mouth,
3(2) because you said, "Forever mercy will be built."
In the heavens your truth will be prepared.
4(3) "I made a covenant with my chosen ones;
I swore to Daudid my slave:
5(4) 'Forever I will provide offspring for you and will build your throne for generation and generation.' "
Interlude on strings
6(5) The heavens will acknowledge your wonders, O Lord,
indeed^g, your truth in an assembly of holy ones,
7(6) because who in the clouds shall be deemed equal to the Lord?
And who among divine sons shall be compared with the Lord?
8(7) God is glorified in a council of holy ones, great and awesome to all that are around
him.
9(8) O Lord God of hosts, who is like you?
You are powerful, O Lord, and your truth is around you.
10(9) It is you who rule the might of the sea, and the surge of its waves you calm.
11(10) It is you who brought low a proud one like one wounded;
with^f the arm of your power you scattered
your enemies.
12(11) Yours are the heavens, and yours is the
earth;
the world and all that is in it you
founded.
13(12) The north and seas you created; Thabor and Hermon will rejoice in your
name.
14(13) Yours is the arm with dominance;
let your hand be strong;
let your right hand be exalted.
15(14) Righteousness and judgment are a provision of your throne;
mercy and truth will go in front of you.

^aPossibly a song of praise (vocal music) accompanied by a psalm (instrumental music) ^b+ O Lord = Ra

^cPr prostrate = Ra ^deyes = Ra ^ei.e. the dead ^fPr and = Ra ^gand = Ra

16(15) Happy are the people who know a shout for joy;
 O Lord, in the light of your countenance they will walk, 17(16) and in your name they will rejoice all day long,
 and in your righteousness they will be exalted, 18(17) because you are the boast of their power and by your favor our horn shall be exalted, 19(18) because support is of the Lord and of the Holy One of Israel, our king.
 20(19) Then you spoke in a vision to your devout ones and said:
 "I added help to one who is powerful;
 I exalted one chosen from my people.
 21(20) I found David my slave;
 with my holy oil I anointed him.
 22(21) Indeed, my hand shall sustain him;
 my arm also shall strengthen him.
 23(22) An enemy shall not profit by him, and a son of lawlessness shall not add to harm him.
 24(23) And I will crush his enemies from before him, and those who hate him I will rout.
 25(24) And my truth and my mercy shall be with him, and in my name his horn shall be exalted.
 26(25) And I will set his hand in a sea,
 and in rivers his right hand.
 27(26) He shall call upon me, 'My Father you are,
 my God and supporter of my deliverance!' 28(27) And I will make him a firstborn, high among the kings of the earth.
 29(28) Forever I will keep my mercy for him,
 and my covenant with him will stand firm.
 30(29) And I will establish his seed forever and ever and his throne as the days of the sky.
 31(30) If his sons forsake my law and by my judgments do not walk, 32(31) if my statutes they shall violate and my commandments they do not keep, 33(32) I will visit their lawlessness with a rod,
 and with scourges their sins, 34(33) but my mercy I will never disperse from him nor be unjust in my truth, 35(34) nor will I violate my covenant and set aside what proceeds from my lips.
 36(35) Once and for all I swore ^aby my holiness^a,
 'If I will lie to David.'
 37(36) His seed shall remain forever, and his throne is like the sun before me, 38(37) and like the moon, established forever.
 And the witness in heaven is faithful."
Interlude on strings

39(38) But you, you spurned and rejected;
 you put off your anointed.
 40(39) You renounced the covenant with your slave;
 you defiled his sanctity^b in the dust.
 41(40) You broke down all his defenses;
 you reduced his strongholds to cowardice.
 42(41) All the way-farers plundered him;
 he became a reproach to his neighbors.
 43(42) You exalted the right hand of his enemies;
 you made glad all his enemies.
 44(43) You turned away the help of his sword, and you did not support him in battle.
 45(44) You dismissed him from purification;
 his throne you smashed to the ground.
 46(45) You diminished the days of his time;
 you covered him with shame.
Interlude on strings

47(46) How long, O Lord? Will you turn away completely?
 Will your wrath burn like fire?
 48(47) Remember what my substance is.
 For, surely, you did not create all the sons of men in vain?
 49(48) Who is the person who shall live and not see death, shall rescue his soul from the power of Hades?
Interlude on strings

50(49) Lord, where are your mercies of long ago, which you swore to David by your truth?
 51(50) Remember, O Lord, the reproach against your slaves, which I bore in my bosom, from many nations, 52(51) with which your enemies reproached,
 O Lord,
 with which they reproached what had been exchanged for your anointed.
 53(52) Blessed be the Lord forever.
 May it be; may it be.

BOOK IV

(Psalms 89[90]–105[106])

Psalm 89(90)

- 1 A Prayer. ^cPertaining to ^cMoyses, man of God.
- (1) Lord, you became a refuge to us in generation and generation.
 2 Before mountains were brought forth and the earth and the world were formed, and from everlasting to everlasting you are.
- 3 Do not turn man away to humiliation.
 And you said, "Return, you sons of men,"

4 because a thousand years in your sight are like the day of yesterday that passed and a watch in a night.

5 Years shall be the objects of their scorn;
in the morning may it^a pass like young growth;

6 in the morning may it flourish and pass;
in the evening may it fall, become hard and wither.

7 Because we expired by your wrath and by your anger we were troubled, 8 you set our lawless deeds before you;
our lifetime became an illumination of
your face.

9 Because all our days expired and by your wrath we expired
our years I^b would ponder like a cobweb.

10 The days of our years—in them are seventy years,
but if in acts of dominance eighty years, and the greater part of them is toil and trouble,
because meekness came upon us, and we shall become disciplined.

11 Who knows the might of your wrath, and your anger from your fear?

12 ^cMake thus known to reckon up your right
hand
and those fettered in heart by wisdom^c.

13 Bring back, O Lord! How long?
And be consoled over your slaves!

14 In the morning we were filled with your mercy,
and we rejoiced and were glad in all our days.

15 We were glad as many days as you humbled
us,
years as we saw evil.

16 And look upon your slaves and upon^d your works,
and guide their sons.

17 Let the splendor of the Lord our God be upon us
and prosper upon us the work of our
hands.

Psalm 90(91)

1 ^eA laudation. Of an Ode^e. Pertaining to David.

(1) He who lives by the help of the Most High, in a shelter of the God of the sky he will lodge.

2 He will say to the Lord, "My supporter you are and my refuge;
my God, I will hope in him,"

3 because it is he who will rescue me from a trap of hunters
and from a troublesome word;

4 with the broad of his back he will shade you,
and under his wings you will find hope;
with a shield his truth will surround you.

5 You will not be afraid of nocturnal fright, of an arrow that flies by day, 6 of a deed that travels in darkness, of mishap and noonday demon.

7 At your side a thousand will fall,
and ten thousand at your right,
but it will not come near you.

8 Only with your eyes will you perceive,
and the requital of sinners you will see.

9 Because you, O Lord, are my hope,
the Most High you made your refuge.

10 No evil shall come before you, and no scourge shall come near your covert,

11 because he will command his angels concerning you
to guard you in all your ways; 12 upon hands they will bear you up so that you will not dash your foot against a stone.

13 On asp and cobra you will tread, and you will trample lion and dragon under foot.

14 Because in me he hoped, I will also rescue
him;
I will protect him, because he knew my
name.

15 He will call to me, and I will listen to him;
I am with him in trouble;
I^f will rescue them and glorify him.

16 With length of days I will satisfy him and show him my deliverance.

Psalm 91(92)

1 ^gA Psalm. Of an Ode^g. Regarding the day of the sabbath.

2(1) It is good to acknowledge the Lord and to make music to your name, O Most
High,

3(2) in order to declare your mercy in the morning
and your truth every night

4(3) on a ten-stringed harp, with an ode on a lyre,

5(4) because you, O Lord, made me glad by your work,
and at the deeds of your hands I will rejoice.

6(5) How were your deeds extolled, O Lord!

^aOr years as objects of scorn ^bOr they ^cGk uncertain ^dOm = Ra ^ePerhaps a song of praise sung without accompaniment ^fPr and = Ra ^gPossibly a psalm (instrumental music) accompanied by a song of praise (vocal music)

Your thoughts reached great depth!
 7(6) A foolish man cannot know, and a stupid one will not understand these things.
 8(7) When sinners sprang up like grass also all who practice lawlessness popped up
 so that they may be destroyed forever and
 ever.
 9(8) But you are most high forever, O Lord, 10(9) because, look, your enemies, O Lord, because, look, your enemies shall perish and all those who practice lawlessness shall be scattered.
 11(10) And my horn will be exalted like a unicorn's, and my old age with thick oil.
 12(11) And my eye looked at my enemies, and among those who keep rising against me, doing evil, my ear will hear.
 13(12) A righteous one will flourish like a palm, and like a cedar in^a Lebanon he will increase.
 14(13) Planted in the house of the Lord, in the courts of our God, they will flourish.
 15(14) In prosperous old age they will still increase,
 and they will be living in comfort, 16(15) to declare that the Lord my God is upright, and there is no injustice in him.

Psalm 92(93)

1 ^{bAc} laudation. Of an Odeb. Pertaining to David.
 (1) The Lord became king; he was robbed in majesty;
 the Lord was robbed in power and girded
 himself.
 Indeed, he made firm the world, that it shall not be shaken;
 2 your throne is prepared from then on;
 from everlasting you are.
 3 The streams lifted up, O Lord;
 the streams lifted up their voices.
 4 Due to the voices of many waters wondrous are the billows of the sea;
 wondrous on high is the Lord!
 5 Your testimonies were made very sure;
 sanctity befits your house,
 O Lord, unto length of days.

Psalm 93(94)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David. ^d[Pertaining to the fourth day of the week.]^d
 (1) The Lord is God of vengeance;

the God of vengeance spoke openly!
 2 Be exalted, O you who judge the earth;
 give to the proud what they deserve!
 3 How long shall sinners, O Lord,
 how long shall sinners boast, 4 shall they utter and talk injustice, shall they talk—all those who practice
 lawlessness?
 5 Your people, O Lord, they humbled, and your heritage they wronged.
 6 Widow and guest they killed,
 and orphans they murdered, 7 and they said, "The Lord will not see, nor will the God of Iakob understand." 8 Do understand, O fools among the people, and, O stupid ones, think for once!
 9 He who planted the ear, does he not hear?
 Or he who formed the eye, does he not perceive?
 10 He who disciplines nations, will he not chastise,
 he who teaches man knowledge?
 11 The Lord knows the thoughts of human beings,
 that they are vain.
 12 Happy the person whom you discipline,
 O Lord,
 and teach him out of your law, 13 to calm him due to wicked days until a hole is dug for the sinner, 14 because the Lord will not reject his people and his heritage he will not abandon 15 until justice turns into judgment, and with all the upright in heart clinging to it. Interlude on strings 16 Who will rise up for me against wicked
 people?
 Or who will stand with me against people that practice lawlessness?
 17 If it had not been that the Lord had helped
 me,
 my soul would virtually have sojourned
 in Hades.
 18 If I were to say, "My foot has been shaken," your mercy, O Lord, ^ewould help^e me.
 19 According^f to the multitude of my pains in my heart
 your consolations loved my soul.
 20 Surely a throne of lawlessness shall not be in your presence,
 he who shapes mischief by ordinance?
 21 They will hunt down the soul of a righteous
 one,
 and innocent blood they condemn.
 22 And the Lord became to me a refuge, and my God my hoped-for helper.
 23 And he will repay them for their lawlessness,

^a + which is = Ra ^bPossibly a song of praise sung without accompaniment ^cPr Regarding the day of the pre-sabbath, when the earth had been settled = Ra ^dWithout [] = Ra ^ehelps = Ra ^fPr O Lord and according to their wickedness

the Lord our God will wipe them out.

Psalm 94(95)

1 ^aA laudation. Of an Ode^a. Pertaining to Daud.

- (1) O come, let us rejoice in the Lord;
let us make a joyful noise to God our savior!
- 2 Let us anticipate his face with acknowledgment,
and with melodies let us make a joyful noise to him,
- 3 because the Lord is a great God
and a great King over all the gods, 4 because in his hand are the ends of the
earth
and the heights of the mountains are his,
- 5 because his is the sea and he made it and the dry land his hands formed!
- 6 O come, let us do obeisance and prostrate ourselves before him, and let us weep before the Lord, who made us,
- 7 because he is our God and we are people of his pasture and sheep of his hand!

- 8 Today if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts, as at the embittering,
like the day of the trial in the wilderness, 9 where your fathers tried me;
they put me to the proof and saw my
works.
- 10 For forty years I loathed that generation, and said, "Always do they stray in heart,
and they did not know my ways." 11 As I swore in my wrath,
"If they shall enter into my rest!"

Psalm 95(96)

- 1 ^b[When the house was being rebuilt after the captivity.]^b An Ode. Pertaining to Daud.
- (1) Sing to the Lord a new song;
sing to the Lord, all the earth.
- 2 Sing to the Lord; bless his name;
tell of his deliverance from day to day.
- 3 Declare his glory among the nations, among all the peoples his marvelous
works,
- 4 because great is the Lord and very much praiseworthy;
he is terrible to all the gods,
5 because all the gods of the nations are demons,

- 6 but the Lord made the heavens.
Acknowledgment and beauty are before
him;
holiness and magnificence comprise his sanctity^c.
- 7 Bring to the Lord, O paternal families of the
nations;
bring to the Lord glory and honor.
- 8 Bring to the Lord glory due his name;
raise offerings, and enter into his courts.
- 9 Do obeisance to the Lord in his holy court;
let all the earth shake from before him.
- 10 Say among the nations, "The Lord became
king!
Indeed, he set right the world, which shall not be shaken.
He will judge peoples with forthrightness."
- 11 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth
rejoice;
let the sea shake, and all that fills it;
12 let the plains exult, and everything in them.
Then shall all the trees of the forest
rejoice
13 before the Lord, because he is coming, because he is coming to judge the earth.
He will judge the world with righteousness
and peoples with his truth.

Psalm 96(97)

- 1 Pertaining to Daud. ^b[When his land is being brought to order.]^b
- (1) The Lord became king! Let the earth rejoice;
let many islands be glad!
- 2 Cloud and thick darkness are around him; righteousness and judgment keep his throne straight.
- 3 Fire will go before him and blaze around his enemies.
- 4 His lightnings gave light to the world;
the earth saw and shook.
- 5 The mountains melted like wax from before
the Lord,
from before the Lord of all the earth.
- 6 The heavens proclaimed his righteousness,
and all the peoples beheld his glory.
- 7 Let all who do obeisance to carved images be put to shame,
those who make their boast in their idols.
Do obeisance to him, all his angels!
- 8 Sion heard and was glad,
and the daughters of Judea rejoiced on account of your judgments, O Lord.
- 9 Because you are the Lord most^d high over all
the earth,
you were exalted far above all the gods.

^aPerhaps a song of praise sung without instrumental accompaniment ^bWithout [] = Ra ^cOr holy precinct ^dPr the = Ra

10 You who love the Lord, hate evil!
 He^a guards the souls of his devout;
 from the hand of sinners he will rescue
 them.
 11 Light dawned for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart.
 12 Be glad in the Lord, O you righteous, and acknowledge the mention of his holiness!

Psalm 97(98)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
 (1) Sing to the Lord a new song,
 because the Lord did marvelous things.
 His right hand saved for him,
 and his holy arm.
 2 The Lord made known his deliverance;
 before the nations he revealed his
 righteousness.
 3 He remembered his mercy to Jakob and his truth to the house of Israel.
 All the ends of the earth saw the deliverance of our God.
 4 Make a joyful noise to ^bthe Lord^b, all the
 earth;
 sing, and rejoice, and make music.
 5 Make music to the Lord with a lyre, with a lyre and the sound of a tune.
 6 With metal trumpets and the sound of a horn trumpet
 make a joyful noise before the King, the
 Lord.
 7 Let the sea shake, and all that fills it,
 the world and those who live in it.
 8 Streams will together clap their hands;
 the mountains will rejoice, 9 because he has come to judge the earth.
 He will judge the world with righteousness
 and peoples with uprightness.

Psalm 98(99)

1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
 (1) The Lord became king; let peoples grow angry!
 He who sits upon the cheroubin—let the earth shake!
 2 The Lord is great in Sion,
 and he is high over all the peoples.
 3 Let them acknowledge your great name, because it is awesome and holy!
 4 A king's honor loves justice;
 it was you who provided uprightness;
 it was you who executed justice and righteousness in Iakob.
 5 Exalt the Lord our God,

and do obeisance at the footstool of his feet,
 because holy is he!

6 Moyses and Aaron were among his priests, and Samouel among those who called on his name.
 They called on the Lord,
 and he hearkened to them.
 7 In a pillar of cloud he would speak to them;
 they would keep his testimonies and the ordinances that he gave them.
 8 O Lord our God, it was you who would hearken to them;
 O God, it was you who was being very merciful to them
 and an avenger of all their practices.
 9 Exalt the Lord our God,
 and do obeisance toward his holy
 mountain,
 because the Lord our God is holy.

Psalm 99(100)

1 A Psalm. Regarding acknowledgment.
 (1) Make a joyful noise to the Lord, all the
 earth.
 2 Be subject to the Lord with gladness;
 enter before him with rejoicing.
 3 Know that the Lord, he is God.
 It is he who made us, ^cand not we^c;
 his people ^dwe are^d,
 and sheep of his pasture.
 4 Enter into his gates with acknowledgment, into his courts with hymns.
 Acknowledge him; praise his name, 5 because the Lord is kind;
 his mercy endures forever,
 and to generation and generation is his
 truth.

Psalm 100(101)

1 Pertaining to David. A Psalm.
 (1) Of mercy and of justice I will sing to you,
 O Lord;
 2 I will make music
 (2) and take note of a blameless way.
 When will you come to me?
 I would walk in my innocence of heart within my house.
 3 I did not set before my eyes
 an act against the law.
 People who practice transgression I hated;
 a crooked heart did not cling to me.

^aThe Lord = Ra ^bGod = Ra ^cPerhaps and not we him ^dLacking in Gk

When the wicked kept turning away from
me,
I would no longer know him^a.

5 The one who was secretly slandering his fellow,
him I would chase away.
With a haughty eye and insatiate heart—
with him I would not eat.

6 My eyes would be on the faithful in the
land
so that they might sit with me.
If one walked in a blameless way,
he would minister to me.

7 No one who practiced haughtiness would live in my house;
no one who uttered injustice would prosper before my eyes.

8 Morning by morning I would kill all the sinners in the land in order to destroy from the Lord's city all who practice lawlessness.

Psalm 101(102)

1 A prayer. Pertaining to the poor one. When he is weary and pours out his petition before the Lord.

2(1) bO Lord^b, listen to my prayer,
and let my cry come to you.

3(2) Do not turn away your face from me.
In the day when I am afflicted,
incline your ear to me;
in the day when I call upon you,
listen to me speedily,

4(3) because my days vanished like smoke and my bones were burnt up like firewood.

5(4) My heart was stricken like grass and it withered,
because I forgot to eat my bread.

6(5) Due to the sound of my groaning, my bone clung to my flesh.

7(6) I resembled a desert pelican,
I became like a ^clong-eared owl^c on a building-site.

8(7) I lay awake,
and I became like a lone sparrow on a housetop.

9(8) All day long my enemies would reproach
me,
and those who used to commend me
would swear against me,

10(9) because I ate ashes like bread and would mix my drink with weeping,

11(10) from before your wrath and your anger, because when you had lifted me up you dashed me down.

12(11) My days faded like a shadow, and I, like grass, I withered away.

13(12) But you, O Lord, remain forever, and the mention of you to generation
and generation.

14(13) When you rise up you will have compassion on Zion,
because it is the appointed time to have compassion on it,

15(14) because the appointed time has come, because your slaves held its stones dear and on its dust they will have compassion.

16(15) And the nations will fear the name of the Lord,
and all the kings of the earth your glory,

17(16) because the Lord will build up Zion, and he will be seen in his glory.

18(17) He regarded the prayer of the lowly and did not despise their petition.

19(18) Let this^d be recorded for another generation, and a people, which is being created, will praise the Lord,

20(19) because he peered down from his holy height,
the Lord from heaven looked at the earth,

21(20) to hear the groaning of the prisoners,
to set free the sons of those put to death,

22(21) so that the name of the Lord might be declared in Zion,
and his praise in Jerusalem,

23(22) when peoples gather together, and kingdoms, to be subject to the Lord.

24(23) He answered him in the way of his strength,
"Tell me the paucity of my days.

25(24) Do not take me away at the mid-point of my days,
while your years are^e in generation of
generations!"

26(25) At the beginning it was you, O Lord, who founded the earth,
and the heavens are works of your hands.

27(26) They will perish, but you will endure, and they will all become old like a garment.

Like^f clothing you will change them,
and they will be changed.

28(27) But you are the same,
and your years will not fail.

29(28) The sons of your slaves shall encamp, and their offspring shall prosper for ever.

Psalm 102(103)

1 Pertaining to David.

(1) Bless the Lord, O my soul,
and all that is within me, his holy name.

2 Bless the Lord, O my soul,

^aLacking in Gk ^bTr after listen = Ra ^cOr night raven ^dI.e. prayer/petition ^ePossibly last ^fPr and = Ra and do not forget all his repayments—3 who is very conciliatory toward all your acts of lawlessness,

 4 who heals all your diseases,
 who redeems your life from corruption, who crowns you with mercy and
 compassion,
 5 who satisfies your desire with good,
 and your youth will be renewed like an eagle's.

6 One who performs ^aacts of pity^a is the Lord
 and judgment for all who are being wronged.

7 He made known his ways to Moyses, to the sons of Israel his will.

8 Compassionate and merciful is the Lord,
 slow to anger and abounding in mercy.

9 He will not be totally angry, nor will he keep his wrath forever.

10 Not according to our sins did he deal with
 us,
 nor according to our acts of lawlessness
 did he repay us,

11 because, as the sky is high above the earth, he^b strengthened his mercy toward those
 who fear him;

12 as far as east is from west, he has removed from us our acts of
 lawlessness.

13 As a father has compassion for sons, the Lord has had compassion for those
 who fear him,

14 because he knew our makeup.
 Remember that we are dust!

15 As for man, his days are like grass; like a flower of the field, so it will
 bloom,

16 because a breath passed through it, and it will be gone,
 and it will no longer recognize its place.

17 But the mercy of the Lord is from everlasting even to everlasting
 on those who fear him,
 and his righteousness on sons' sons,

18 for those who keep his covenant and remember his commandments, to do
 them.

19 The Lord prepared his throne in the sky, and his kingdom rules over all.

20 Bless the Lord, O all you, his angels, powerful in strength doing his bidding,
 to obey the voice of his words.

21 Bless the Lord, all his hosts, his ministers doing his will.

22 Bless the Lord, all his works, in every place of his dominion.
 Bless the Lord, O my soul.

Psalm 103(104)

1 Pertaining to David.

(1) Bless the Lord, O my soul.
 O Lord my God, you were greatly magnified.
 With acknowledgment and splendor you were clothed,

2 wrapping yourself in light as in a garment, stretching out the sky like a skin.

3 He who covers his upper stories with waters, he who makes cloud masses his step-up,
 he who walks about on wings of winds.

4 He who makes spirits his messengers^c, and flaming fire his ministers.

5 He founded the earth on its stability;
 it will never ever be tilted.

6 The deep like a garment is his clothing;
 above the mountains the waters will stand.

7 At your rebuke they will flee;
 at a voice of your thunder they will cower with fright.

8 Mountains ascend, and plains descend to a spot that you founded for them.

9 A boundary you set that they shall not pass, nor shall they return to cover the earth.

10 He who make springs gush forth in ravines;
 between the mountains they^d will flow.

11 They will give drink to all the animals of the field;
 onagers will receive for their thirst.

12 On them^e the birds of the air will encamp;
 from among the rocks they will give forth sound.

13 When he waters mountains from his upper stories,
 with the fruit of your work the earth shall
 be fed,

14 when he causes grass to grow for the cattle, and plants for the service of human
 beings,
 to bring forth bread from the earth.

15 And wine gladdens a human heart, to brighten a face with oil,
 and bread sustains a human heart.

16 The trees of the plain shall be fed, the cedars of Lebanon, which he planted.

17 There sparrows will build their nests;
 the home of the heron ^fleads them^f.

18 The high mountains are for the does;
 a rock is a refuge for the hares^g.

19 He made a moon for seasons;
 the sun knew its setting.

20 You set darkness, and it became night;
 in it^h all the animals of the forest will pass through,

^aPerhaps alms ^bthe Lord = Ra ^cOr angels ^dwaters = Ra ^ePossibly the mountains ^fPossibly is already there ^hhedgehogs = Ra ^hi.e. the night

21 the^a whelps roaring to seize and to seek their food from God.
22 The sun rose, and they gathered,
and in their dens they will lie down.
23 A person will go out to his work and to his labor until the evening.
24 How magnified were your works, O Lord!
In wisdom you made them all;
the earth was filled with your acquisition.
25 This great and wide sea;
there creeping things innumerable,
living things, small with great.
26 There ships travel, this dragon that you formed to mock at
him.
27 All look to you
to give them food in due season; 28 when you give to them, they will gather,
and when you open your hand, all things together^b will be filled with
kindness.
29 But when you turn away your face, they will be dismayed;
you cancel their spirit, and they will fail
and return to their dust.
30 You will send forth your spirit, and they will be created,
and you will renew the face of the
ground.
31 Let the glory of the Lord be forever.
The Lord will be glad at his works—32 he who looks on the earth and makes it tremble,
he who touches the mountains and they
smoke.
33 I will sing to the Lord in my life;
I will make music to my God while I
have being.
34 May my conversation be pleasing to him, and I will be glad in the Lord!
35 May sinners fail from the earth, and the lawless, so that they be no more.
Bless the Lord, O my soul.

Psalm 104(105)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) Acknowledge the Lord, and call on his
name;
announce his deeds among the nations.
2 Sing to him, and make music to him;
tell of all his wonderful things.
3 Be commended in his holy name;
let the heart of people that seek the Lord be glad.
4 Seek the Lord and be strengthened;
seek his face continually.

5 Remember the wonderful things which he did,
his miracles and the judgments of his
mouth,
6 O offspring of Abraam, his slaves, sons of Iakob, his chosen.
7 The Lord himself is our God;
in all the earth are his judgments.
8 He remembered his covenant forever, a word that he commanded for a thousand generations 9 —that he pledged to Abraam—
and his oath to Isaak 10 And he established it^c for Iakob as an ordinance
and for Israel as an everlasting covenant, 11 saying, "To you I will give the land of Chanaan
as a parcel for your inheritance." 12 When they were small in number,
very few and resident aliens in it, 13 they also passed from nation to nation,
from kingdom to another people.
14 He allowed no person to do them wrong,
and he rebuked kings on their account, 15 "Do not touch my anointed ones,
and among my prophets do no harm."
16 And he summoned famine against the land, and every sustenance of bread he crushed;
17 he sent a person ahead of them;
Ioseph was sold as a slave.
18 They debased his feet with fetters;
his soul passed through iron 19 until what he had said came to pass;
the saying of the Lord purified him.
20 A king sent and released him,
a ruler of peoples, and set him free.
21 He made him lord of his house and ruler of all his possessions, 22 to educate his officials to be like himself and to teach his elders wisdom.
23 And Israel entered into Egypt, and Iakob lived as a resident alien in Cham's land.
24 And he^d increased his people very much and made them strong beyond their
enemies.
25 He changed their hearts to hate his people, to deal craftily with his slaves.
26 He sent out Moyses, his slave,
Aaron, him whom he chose.
27 In them he placed the words of his signs and wonders in Cham's land.
28 He sent darkness, and it grew dark,
and they embittered his words.
29 He changed their waters into blood and killed their fish.

^aOm = Ra ^bOr the universe ^cI.e. covenant ^dI.e. God

30 Their land crawled with frogs, in the chambers of their kings.
31 He spoke, and dog-flies came,
and gnats in all their territories.
32 He made their showers hail,
and consuming fire was in their land.
33 And he struck their vines and their fig trees and shattered a^a tree of their territory.
34 He spoke, and the grasshopper came,
and locust larva without number, 35 and they devoured all the vegetation in their
land
and devoured the fruit of their land.
36 And he struck down every firstborn in their
land,
first fruit of all their toil.
37 And he brought them out with silver and
gold,
and there was no one among their tribes
who was weak.
38 Egypt was glad at their exodus, because fear of them fell upon it.
39 He spread a cloud as a covering^b, and fire to give light^b during the night.
40 They asked, and quails^c came,
and with heaven's bread he filled them.
41 He split a rock, and waters gushed out;
rivers ran in waterless terrain, 42 because he remembered his holy word to Abraam, his slave.
43 And he brought his people out with rejoicing, and his chosen ones with gladness.
44 And he gave them lands of nations, and labors of peoples they inherited, 45 that they might keep his statutes and seek out his law.

Psalm 105(106)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) Acknowledge the Lord, because he is kind,
because his mercy is forever.
2 Who shall speak of the acts of dominance of
the Lord,
make heard all his praises?
3 Happy are those who observe justice and do righteousness at every opportunity.
4 Remember us, O Lord, in the good pleasure of your people;
regard us in your deliverance, 5 that we may look at the kindness of your chosen ones,
that we may be glad in the gladness of
your nation,
that we may be commended with your heritage.

6 We sinned together with our fathers;
we acted lawlessly; we committed injustice.
7 Our fathers in Egypt did not consider your wonderful works;
they did not remember the abundance of your mercy
and embittered, when going up at the Red Sea.
8 And he saved them for his name's sake,
to make known his dominance.
9 And he rebuked the Red Sea, and it became dry,
and he guided them in the deep as in a
wilderness.
10 And he saved them from the hand of people that hate
and redeemed them from an enemy's
hand.
11 And water covered those that afflicted them;
not one of them was left.
12 And they believed in his words,
and they sang his praise.
13 They were quick to forget his works;
they did not wait for his counsel.
14 And they craved with craving in the wilderness
and put God to the test in a waterless region,
15 and he gave them their request and sent surfeit into their souls.
16 And they angered Moyses in the camp,
Aaron^d, the holy one of the Lord.
17 The earth opened and swallowed up Dathan and covered the company of Abiron.
18 And fire broke out in their company;
a flame burned up sinners.
19 And they made a calf at Choreb and did obeisance to the carved image.
20 And they exchanged their glory for a likeness of a bull calf that eats grass.
21 They forgot the God who was saving them,
who did great things in Egypt, 22 wondrous works in Cham's land and awesome things by the Red Sea.
23 And he spoke in order to destroy them—had not Moyses, his chosen one, stood in the breach before him,
to turn away his wrath from destroying.
24 And they despised a desirable land;
they had no faith in his word.
25 And they grumbled in their coverts;
they did not listen to the voice of the Lord.
26 And he raised his hand against them,
to cast them down in the wilderness

^aevery = Ra ^b + for them ^cEvidently not the quail itself but a bird of uncertain species that migrates with the quail.
^dPr and = Ra

27 and to cast down their offspring among the
nations
and scatter them in the lands.

28 And they were initiated to Beelphegor and ate sacrifices of the dead, 29 and they provoked him with their practices, and the falling broke out among them.
30 And Phinees stood and made atonement, and the breach abated.
31 And it was reckoned to him as righteousness to generation and generation forever.

32 And they angered him at a water of contention,
and it went ill with Moyses on their
account,
33 because they made his spirit bitter,
and he ^aparted with his lips^a.
34 They did not destroy the nations, which the Lord told them,
35 and they mingled with the nations and learned their works.
36 And they were subject to their carved images,
and it became to them a stumbling block.
37 And they sacrificed their sons and their daughters to the demons, 38 and they poured out innocent blood, blood of their sons and daughters whom they sacrificed to the carved images of Chanaan,
and the land was ^bmurdered with blood^b.
39 And it was defiled by their acts, and they played the prostitute in their practices.

40 And the Lord became furiously angry with his people,
and he abhorred his heritage, 41 and he gave them into the hands of nations, and those who hated them ruled over
them.
42 And their enemies oppressed them, and they were brought low under their
hands.
43 Many times he rescued them, but they embittered him by their purposes
and were brought low by their
lawlessness.
44 And he regarded them when they were
being afflicted,
when he listened to their petition.
45 And he remembered his covenant and showed regret according to the abundance of his mercy.
46 And he gave them over to be pitied before all who took them captive.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the nations, that we may acknowledge your holy

name;
boast in your praise.

48 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, from everlasting even to everlasting.
And all the people shall say, "May it be;
may it be."

BOOK V

(Psalms 106[107]–151)

Psalm 106(107)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) Acknowledge the Lord, because he is kind,
because his mercy is forever.
2 Let those redeemed by the Lord say so, whom he redeemed from an enemy's
hand.
3 From the lands he gathered them in,
from east and west and north and sea.
4 They wandered in the wilderness in a waterless region;
a way to a city of habitation they did not find,
5 being hungry and thirsty;
their soul fainted within them.
6 And they cried to the Lord when they were
being afflicted,
and from their anguish he rescued them 7 and led them by a straight way, to go to a city of habitation.
8 Let them acknowledge the Lord for his mercies
and for his wonderful works to the sons
of men,
9 because he fed an empty soul and a hungry soul he filled with good
things,
10 when they sat in darkness and death's
shadow,
imprisoned in poverty and in iron, 11 because they had embittered the sayings of God,
and the counsel of the Most High they had provoked.
12 And their heart was brought low by exertion;
they became weak, and there was no one to help.
13 And they cried to the Lord when they were
being afflicted,
and from their anguish he saved them, 14 and he brought them out of darkness and death's shadow,
and their bonds he broke asunder.
15 Let them acknowledge the Lord for his
mercies

^aPossibly spoke rashly ^bI.e. rendered lifeless with bloodshed

and for his wonderful works to the sons
of men,
16 because he shattered bronze gates and iron bars he crumpled.
17 He aided them from their lawless way, for on account of their lawless acts they were brought low;
18 any kind of food their soul loathed,
and they drew near to the gates of death.
19 And they cried to the Lord when they were
being afflicted,
and from their anguish he saved them;
20 he sent out his word and healed them and rescued them from their destruction.
21 Let them acknowledge the Lord for his
mercies
and for his wonderful works to the sons
of men.
22 And let them sacrifice a sacrifice of praise and tell of his deeds with rejoicing.
23 Those who used to go down to the sea in ships,
doing business on many waters—24 it was they who saw the deeds of the Lord and his wondrous works in the deep.
25 He spoke and the tempest's blast stood,
and its waves were raised on high.
26 They mount up as far as the heavens,
and they go down as far as the depths;
their soul would melt away in calamity; 27 they were troubled; they staggered like the drunkard,
and all their wisdom was gulped down.
28 And they cried to the Lord when they were
being afflicted,
and out of their anguish he brought
them,
29 and he ordered the tempest, and it subsided to a breeze,
and its waves became silent.
30 And they were glad, because they had quiet, and he guided them to a haven of their
want.
31 Let them acknowledge the Lord for his mercies
and for his wonderful works to the sons
of men.
32 Let them exalt him in an assembly of people and in a session of elders praise him.
33 He turned rivers into a wilderness and channels of water into thirst, 34 a fruitful land into a salt marsh,
due to the evil of its inhabitants.
35 He turned a wilderness into pools of water and a parched land into channels of
water.
36 And there he settled hungry ones,
and they established a city for settlement,

and they sowed fields and planted vineyards and produced a fruit of a yield.
38 And he blessed them, and they were multiplied greatly,
and their cattle he did not decrease.
39 And they were diminished and maltreated through affliction, wrong and sorrow.
40 Contempt poured down on rulers, and he a made them wander in an impassable and trackless region, 41 and he helped a needy one out of poverty and made their paternal families like sheep.
42 The upright will see it and be glad,
and all lawlessness will stop its mouth.
43 Who is wise and will keep these things?— and will they take note of the mercies of
the Lord?

Psalm 107(108)

1 ^aAn Ode. Of a Psalm^a. Pertaining to Daud.
2(1) Ready is my heart, O God; ready is my
heart;
I will sing and make music in my glory.
3(2) Awake, O harp and lyre!
I will awaken at dawn.
4(3) I will acknowledge you among peoples,
O Lord,
and I will make music to you among
nations,
5(4) because great above the heavens is your
mercy,
and as far as the clouds is your truth.
6(5) Be exalted to the heavens, O God,
and over all the earth your glory.
7(6) In order that your beloved might be rescued,
save with your right hand, and heed me.
8(7) God spoke in his holy place:
"I will be exalted, and I will divide up Sikima,
and the vale of the tents I will portion out.
9(8) Mine is Galaad, and mine is Manasse,
and Ephraim is the support of my head;
Ioudas is my king.
10(9) Moab is a cauldron of my hope;
on Idumea I will hurl^b my sandal;
to me allophyles were subjugated."
11(10) Who will bring me ^cas far as a strong city?
Who will guide me as far as Idumea?
12(11) Are you not the one that rejects us, O God?
And you will not go out, O God, with our armies.
13(12) Grant us help from affliction,
and worthless is human deliverance.
14(13) In God we shall do valiantly,

^aPossibly a song of praise (vocal music) accompanied by a psalm (instrumental music) ^bput = Ra ^cto a city of fortification = Ra and he it is who will treat our enemies with contempt.

Psalm 108(109)

1 Regarding completion. Pertaining to David. A Psalm.

(1) O God, do not pass over my praise in silence,
2 because a sinner's mouth and a deceiver's mouth—it was opened against me;
they spoke against me with a deceitful
tongue.
3 And they surrounded me with words of hate
and made war on me without cause.
4 In return for my love they would slander
me,
but I, I would pray.
5 And they rewarded me evil for good and hatred for my love:
6 "Appoint a sinner against him,
and let a slanderer stand on his right.
7 When he is tried, may he come out condemned,
and let his prayer be counted as sin.
8 Let his days become few,
and may another seize his position.
9 Let his sons become orphans, and his wife a widow.
10 As they totter, let his sons wander about and beg;
let them be driven out of their homesteads.
11 Let a creditor scrutinize all that he has;
let strangers plunder his toils.
12 Let there be no one to support him nor anyone to pity his orphans.
13 Let his children go to destruction;
in one generation let his name be blotted
out.
14 May the lawlessness of his fathers be remembered before the Lord, and may the sin of his mother not be blotted out.
15 Let them be before the Lord continually, and may their memory be destroyed from
earth,
16 since he did not remember to do mercy and pursued to death a person needy and poor and stunned in heart.
17 And he loved cursing, and it shall come on
him.
And he did not want blessing, and it shall be put far away from him.
18 And he clothed himself with cursing as his coat,
and it entered into his inwards like water
and like oil in his bones.

19 Let it be like a coat that he wraps around
himself
and like a belt that he always wears." 20 "This is^a the work from the Lord against those that slander me
and those that speak evil against my
soul.
21 And you, O Lord, Lord, do mercy with me for your name's sake,
because your mercy is kind.
22 Rescue me, (22) because poor and needy I am,
and my heart is troubled within me.
23 Like a shadow when it fades, I was erased;
I was shaken off like grasshoppers.
24 My knees became weak from fasting, and my flesh was changed because of oil.
25 And I, I became a reproach to them;
they saw me; they shook their heads.
26 Help me, O Lord, my God!
Save me according to your mercy.
27 And let them know that this is your hand, and you, O Lord, you did it^b.
28 They will curse, but you will bless.
Let my opponents be put to shame,
but your slave will be glad.
29 Let those who slander me be clothed with embarrassment,
and let them be wrapped in their own shame as in a ^cdouble cloak.
30 I will greatly acknowledge the Lord with my
mouth,
and in the midst of many I will praise
him,
31 because he stood at the right of a needy one,
to save my soul from those that keep pursuing.

Psalm 109(110)

1 Pertaining to David. A Psalm.

(1) The Lord said to my lord, "Sit on my right until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet."
2 A rod of your power the Lord will send out from Sion.
And exercise dominion in the midst of
your enemies!
3 With you is^d rule on a day of your power among the splendors of the holy ones.
From the womb, before Morning-star, I brought you forth.
4 The Lord swore and will not change his mind,
"You are a priest forever according to the order of Melchisedek."

^aOr May this be ^bAntecedent unclear ^cGk diplois, a particular kind of garment, worn especially by the Cynics ^dOr be

5 The Lord at your right shattered kings on a day of his wrath.
6 He will judge among the nations, will make full with corpses^a;
he will shatter heads ^bon the land of many^b.
7 From a wadi by a road he will drink;
therefore he will raise head^c high.

Psalm 110(111)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) I will acknowledge you, O Lord, with my
whole heart,
in a council of upright and a congregation.
2 Great are the works of the Lord; sought out are his wants regarding all
things.
3 Acknowledgment and magnificence are his
work,
and his righteousness endures forever and
ever.
4 He made mention of his wonderful deeds;
merciful and compassionate is the Lord.
5 Food he provided for those who fear him;
he will be ever mindful of his covenant.
6 Strength of his works he proclaimed to his
people,
to give them heritage of nations.
7 Works of his hands are truth and justice;
trustworthy are all his commandments, 8 fixed forever and ever,
made in truth and uprightness.
9 Redemption he sent to his people;
he commanded his covenant forever.
Holy and awesome is his name.
10 Fear of the Lord is wisdom's beginning;
a good understanding belongs to all who practice it^d.
His praise endures forever^e.

Psalm 111(112)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) Happy the man who fears the Lord;
in his commandments he will greatly
want.
2 Powerful in the land his offspring will be;
a generation of upright will be blessed.
3 Glory and riches are in his house,
and his righteousness endures forever and
ever.
4 In darkness light dawned for the upright
ones;
merciful and compassionate and righteous is he.
5 Kind is the man who is compassionate and lends;
he will manage his words with discretion.

6 Because he will never be shaken, a righteous person will be remembered
forever.
7 Of evil tidings he will not be afraid;
prepared is his heart to hope in the Lord.
8 Firm is his heart; he will never be afraid until he looks on his enemies.
9 He scattered^f; he gave to the needy;
his righteousness endures forever and
ever;
his horn will be exalted in glory.
10 A sinner will see it and be angered;
he will gnash his teeth and melt away;
sinners' desire will come to nothing.

Psalm 112(113)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) Praise the Lord, O servants;
praise the name of the Lord.
2 May the name of the Lord be blessed from now on and forevermore.
3 From the sun's rising to its setting,
praise the name of the Lord!
4 High is the Lord to all nations;
to the heavens is his glory.
5 Who is like the Lord our God, who resides on high,
6 and looks upon that which is lowly
in the sky and on the earth?
7 It is he who raises a poor one from the
ground,
and from a trash heap he lifts a needy one, 8 to make him sit with rulers,
with rulers of his people.
9 It is he who establishes a barren one in a home,
a gladdened mother of children.

Psalm 113(114, 115)

1 Hallelouia.
(1) At Israel's exodus from Egypt,
of Iakob's house from a barbarian people,
2 Judea became his holy precinct,
Israel his seat of authority.
3 The sea saw it and fled;
Jordan was turned backwards.
4 The mountains skipped like rams, and the hills like lambs of sheep.
5 Why was it, O sea, that you fled?
And why was it, O Jordan, that you withdrew backwards?
6 O mountains, that you skipped like rams?
O hills, like lambs of sheep?
7 From before the Lord, the earth was shaken,

^aPossibly things fallen ^bOr of many on earth ^cPossibly his head ^d*l.e. wisdom* ^e + and ever = Ra ^f*l.e. his enemies*

8 from before the God of Iakob, who turned the rock into pools of water and the flint into springs of water.

9(115.1) Not to us, O Lord, not to us, rather to your name give glory,
for your mercy and your truth,

10(2) lest the nations say,
“Where is their God?”

11(3) But our God is in the sky ^a[above, in the heavens and on the earth]^a;
whatever he wanted he did.

12(4) The idols of the nations are silver and gold,
works of human hands.

13(5) A mouth they have and will not speak;
eyes they have and will not see.

14(6) Ears they have and will not hear;
nostrils they have and will not smell.

15(7) Hands they have and will not feel;
feet they have and will not walk about;
they will not articulate in their throats.

16(8) May those who make them become like
them,
and all who trust in them!

17(9) Israel’s house hoped in the Lord.
Their helper and their protector is he.

18(10) Aaron’s house hoped in the Lord.
Their helper and their protector is he.

19(11) Those who fear the Lord hoped in the Lord.
Their helper and their protector is he.

20(12) The Lord was mindful of us and blessed us;
he blessed the house of Israel;
he blessed the house of Aaron;

21(13) he blessed those who fear the Lord,
the small with the great.

22(14) May the Lord add to you, to you and your sons.

23(15)^bBlessed are you^b to the Lord,
who made the sky and the earth.

24(16) The sky of the sky belongs to the Lord, but the earth he gave to the sons of men.

25(17) The dead will not praise you, O Lord, nor will all who go down to Hades.

26(18) But we that are alive will bless the Lord,
from now on and forevermore.

Psalm 114(116.1–9)

1 Hallelouia.

(1) I loved, because the Lord will listen to the voice of my petition,
because he inclined his ear to me,
and in my days I will call.

3 Pangs of death encompassed me;
hazards of Hades found me;
affliction and grief I found.

4 And on the name of the Lord I called:
“Ah Lord, rescue my soul!”

5 Merciful is the Lord, and righteous, and our God shows mercy.

6 The Lord is one who protects infants;
I was brought low, and he saved me.

7 Return, O my soul, to your rest, because the Lord acted as your benefactor,

8 because he delivered my soul from death,
my eyes from tears,
my^c feet from slipping.

9 I will be well pleasing before the Lord in the country of the living.

Psalm 115(116.10–19)

1 Hallelouia.

(116.10) I believed; therefore I spoke, but I, I was brought very low.

2(11) I, I said in my alarm,
“Every person is a liar.”

3(12) What shall I return to the Lord for all that he returned to me?

4(13) A cup of deliverance I will take,
and the name of the Lord I will call upon.

6(15) Precious before the Lord is the death of his devout ones.

7(16) Ah Lord, I am a slave of yours;
I am a slave of yours and son of your serving girl.

You broke through my bonds.

8(17) To you I will sacrifice a sacrifice of praise.

9(18) My vows I will pay to the Lord before all his people,

10(19) in courts of the Lord’s house,
in your midst, O Ierusalem.

Psalm 116(117)

1 Hallelouia.

(1) Praise the Lord, all you nations!
Commend him, all you peoples,

2 because his mercy became strong toward us, and the truth of the Lord endures forever.

Psalm 117(118)

1 Hallelouia.

(1) Acknowledge the Lord, because he is good,
because his mercy is forever.

2 Do let Israel’s house say that he is good,
because his mercy is forever.

3 Do let Aaron’s house say that he is good,
because his mercy is forever.

4 Do let all those who fear the Lord say that he is good,
because his mercy is forever.

5 In affliction I called on the Lord, and he hearkened me into^a spaciousness.

6 The Lord is a helper to me;
I will not fear what a person may do to
me.

7 The Lord is a helper to me,
and I, I shall observe my enemies.

8 It is better to trust in the Lord than to trust in a person.

9 It is better to hope in the Lord than to hope in rulers.

10 All nations surrounded me,
and in the name of the Lord I fended
them off!

11 In surrounding they surrounded me,
and in the name of the Lord I fended
them off!

12 They surrounded me like bees a honeycomb,
and they blazed like a fire among thorns,
and in the name of the Lord I fended
them off!

13 Pushed hard I turned to fall, and the Lord supported me.

14 My strength and my celebration is the Lord;
he became deliverance for me.

15 There is a voice of rejoicing and deliverance
in the righteous' tents:
"The Lord's right hand produced power;
the Lord's right hand exalted me;
the Lord's right hand produced power." 16 I shall not die, but I shall live and recount^b the deeds of the Lord.

18 In disciplining the Lord disciplined me, and to death he did not surrender me.

19 Open to me gates of righteousness;
when I enter in them,
I will acknowledge the Lord.

20 This is the gate of the Lord;
righteous ones shall enter in it.

21 I will acknowledge you because you
hearkened to me
and became deliverance for me.

22 A stone which the builders rejected, this one became the chief cornerstone.

23 This^c was from the Lord, and it is marvelous in our eyes.

24 This is the day that the Lord made;
let us rejoice and be glad in it.

25 Ah Lord, do save!
Ah Lord, do give success!

26 Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord.
We bless you from the house of the Lord.

27 The Lord is God, and he showed us light.
Arrange a feast with the ^dthick ones^d,
up to the horns of the altar.

28 My God you are, and I will acknowledge
you;
my God you are, and I will exalt you.
I will acknowledge you because you
hearkened to me
and became deliverance for me.

29 Acknowledge the Lord, because he is good,
because his mercy is forever.

Psalm 118(119)

1 Hallelouia.

1 alph.

(1) Happy are the blameless in way, who walk in the Lord's law.

2 Happy are those who search out his
testimonies;
wholeheartedly they will seek him.

3 For those who practice lawlessness did not walk in his ways.

4 It is you who commanded your
commandments
to keep diligently.

5 O that my ways may be directed to keep your statutes!

6 Then I shall not be put to shame,
as I regard all your commandments.

7 I will acknowledge you^e with uprightness of
heart,
when I have learned the judgments of your righteousness.

8 Your statutes I will observe;
do not utterly forsake me.

9 2 beth.

How shall the young keep his way straight?
By observing your words!

10 With my whole heart I sought you; do not thrust me aside from your
commandments.

11 In my heart I hid your sayings
so that I may not sin against you.

12 Blessed are you, O Lord;
teach me your statutes.

13 With my lips I declared all the judgments of your mouth.

14 In the way of your testimonies I delighted as much as in all riches.

15 In your commandments I will ponder and put my mind to your ways.

16 In your statutes I will meditate;
I will not forget your words.

^aPossibly and brought me into ^b + in detail = Ra ^cAntecedent unclear; possibly cornerstone ^dPerhaps garlands
^e + O Lord = Ra

17 3 gimal.
 Requite your slave;
 I shall live and observe your words.
 18 Uncover my eyes,
 and I will put my mind to the^a wondrous things out of your law.
 19 I am a resident alien in the land;
 do not hide your commandments from me.
 20 My soul was consumed with longing for your judgments in every situation.
 21 You rebuked arrogant ones;
 accursed are those who deviate from your
 commandments;
 22 take away from me reproach and contempt,
 because I sought your testimonies.
 23 Indeed, rulers sat and kept railing at me, but your slave would ponder in your statutes.
 24 Indeed, your testimonies are my meditation, and your statutes are my counsels.
 25 4 delth.
 My soul clung to the ground;
 quicken me according to your word.
 26 I told of my ways, and you hearkened to me;
 teach me your statutes.
 27 Your statutes' way make me understand,
 and I will ponder in your wondrous works.
 28 My soul was drowsy from exhaustion;
 confirm me in your words.
 29 Injustice's way put far from me,
 and by your law have mercy on me.
 30 Truth's way I chose;
 your judgments I did not forget.
 31 I clung to your testimonies;
 O Lord, do not put me to shame.
 32 I ran the way of your commandments, when you made my heart^b spacious.
 33 5 he.
 Make the way of your statutes, O Lord, my
 law,
 and I will seek it continually.
 34 Make me understand, and I will search out your law
 and observe it with my whole heart.
 35 Guide me in a path of your commandments, because I wanted it.
 36 Incline my heart to your testimonies and not to greediness.
 37 Turn my eyes from looking at vanity;
 in your way quicken me.
 38 Establish for your slave your saying,
 for fear of you.
 39 Take away my scorn, which I suspected,
 for your judgments are kind.
 40 See, I longed for your commandments;
 in your righteousness quicken me.
 41 6 ouau.
 And may your mercy come upon me,
 O Lord,

your deliverance according to your
 saying.
 42 And I shall have a word for those who reproach me,
 because I hoped in your words.
 43 And do not remove a word of truth utterly from my mouth,
 because I pinned my hopes on your judgments.
 44 And I will keep your law continually, forever and forever and ever.
 45 And I would walk in spaciousness, because your commandments I sought.
 46 And I would speak of your testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed.
 47 And I would meditate on your
 commandments,
 which I loved very much.
 48 And I raised my hands to your commandments, which I loved,
 and I would ponder in your statutes.
 49 7 zai.
 Remember your word to your slave,
 by which you buoyed me with hope.
 50 This^c comforted me in my humiliation, because your saying quickened me.
 51 Arrogant ones would blatantly transgress the
 law,
 but from your law I did not deviate.
 52 I remembered your judgments from of old,
 O Lord,
 and I took comfort.
 53 Despondency beset me due to sinners,
 those who keep forsaking your law.
 54 Your statutes were musical to me in my place of sojourn.
 55 I remembered your name at night, O Lord, and kept your law.
 56 This^c fell to me,
 because I sought your statutes.
 57 8 heth.
 You are my portion, O Lord;
 I said that I should keep your law.
 58 I implored your face with all my heart; have mercy on me according to your
 saying.
 59 Your ways I considered,
 and I turned my feet to your testimonies; 60 I was prepared and not troubled to keep your commandments.
 61 Cords of sinners ensnared me,
 and your law I did not forget.
 62 At midnight I would rise to acknowledge
 you,
 because of your righteous judgments.
 63 I am a partner with all who fear you and with those who keep your
 commandments.
 64 The earth, O Lord, is full of your mercy;
 teach me your statutes.

65 9 teth.
 You practiced kindness with your slave,
 O Lord, according to your word.
 66 Kindness and discipline and knowledge teach me,
 because in your commandments I believed.
 67 Before I was humbled I was in error;
 therefore I kept your saying.
 68 You are kind, O Lord, and in your kindness
 teach me your statutes.
 69 Injustice of the arrogant filled out against
 me,
 but I, with my whole heart, I will examine your commandments.
 70 Their heart was curdled like milk,
 but I, on your law I meditated.
 71 It was good for me that you humbled me so that I might learn your statutes.
 72 Better to me is the law of your mouth than thousands of gold and silver.
 73 10 ioth.
 Your hands made and fashioned me;
 give me understanding, and I will learn
 your commandments.
 74 Those who fear you shall see me and be glad,
 because on your words I pinned my hopes.
 75 I knew, O Lord, that your judgments are
 righteousness
 and that with truth you humbled me.
 76 Do let your mercy come to comfort me
 according to your saying to your slave.
 77 Let your compassion come to me, and I shall live,
 because your law is my meditation.
 78 Let arrogant ones be put to shame, because they acted unjustly and lawlessly
 against me,
 but as for me, I will ponder in your
 commandments.
 79 Let those who fear you turn to me,
 and those who know your testimonies.
 80 Let my heart become blameless by your statutes
 so that I may not be put to shame.
 81 11 chaph.
 My soul fails for your deliverance,
 and on your word I pinned my hopes.
 82 My eyes failed for your saying, saying, "When will you comfort me?" 83 Because I became like a wineskin in hoarfrost, your statutes I did not forget.
 84 How many are the days of your slave?
 When will you do me right against those who persecute me?
 85 Transgressors of the law told me tales,
 but not so your law, O Lord.
 86 All your commandments are truth;
 unjustly did they persecute me; help me!

87 They almost made an end of me on the earth, but as for me, I did not forsake your
 commandments.
 88 In your mercy quicken me, and I will keep the testimonies of your
 mouth.
 89 12 labd.
 Forever you are, O Lord;
 your word endures in the sky, 90 your truth to generation and generation;
 you founded the earth, and it endures.
 91 By your arrangement the day endures, because ^aall things together^a are slaves of yours.
 92 If it were not for the fact that your law was my meditation,
 then I would have perished in my
 humiliation.
 93 Your statutes I will never forget, because by them you quickened me^b.
 94 Yours I am; save me, because your statutes I sought.
 95 Sinners waited for me to destroy me;
 your testimonies I considered.
 96 I saw a limit to all perfection^c;
 your commandment is exceedingly spacious.
 97 13 mem.
 Oh, how I loved your law, O Lord!
 All day long it is my meditation.
 98 Wiser than my enemies you made me regarding your commandment, because it is mine forever.
 99 More than all who were teaching me, I understood,
 because your testimonies were my meditation.
 100 More than the aged^d, I understood, because I sought out your commandments.
 101 From every way of evil I held back my feet in order to keep your words.
 102 From your judgments I did not deviate, because you legislated for me.
 103 How sweet are your sayings to my throat, beyond honey and honeycomb to my
 mouth!
 104 Due to your commandments, I understood;
 therefore I hated every way of injustice.
 105 14 noun.
 Your word is a lamp to my feet
 and a light to my paths.
 106 I have sworn an oath and confirmed, to observe your righteous judgments.
 107 I was deeply humbled; O Lord, quicken me according to your
 word.
 108 With the freewill offerings of my mouth do be pleased, O Lord,
 and your judgments teach me.

- 109 My soul was in my hands continually,
and your law I did not forget.
- 110 Sinners laid a snare for me, and from your commandments I did not stray.
- 111 Your testimonies were my heritage forever, because they are my heart's joy.
- 112 I inclined my heart to perform your statutes forever on account of an exchange.
- 113 15 samch.
Transgressors of the law I hated,
and your law I loved.
- 114 You are my helper and my supporter;
I pinned my hopes on your word.
- 115 Go away from me, you evildoers, and I will examine the commandments of my God.
- 116 Support me according to your saying, and I shall live,
and do not put me to shame due to my expectation.
- 117 Help me, and I shall be saved and shall meditate on your statutes continually.
- 118 You despised all who stood aloof from your
statutes,
because their notion^a was wrong.
- 119 All the sinners of the earth I counted as transgressors;
therefore I loved your testimonies^b.
- 120 Nail down my flesh from fear of you,
for I was afraid of your judgments.
- 121 16 ain.
I did what was just and right;
do not hand me over to those that do me
wrong.
- 122 Accept your slave for good;
let not arrogant ones extort from me.
- 123 My eyes failed for your deliverance and for the saying of your righteousness.
- 124 Deal with your slave according to your mercy,
and teach me your statutes.
- 125 Your slave I am; give me understanding, and I shall know your testimonies.
- 126 It is time for the Lord to act;
they scattered your law.
- 127 Therefore I loved your commandments beyond gold and topaz.
- 128 Therefore I would ^cset myself straight by^c all
your commandments;
every wrong way I hated.
- 129 17 phe.
Your testimonies are wonderful;
therefore my soul searched them out.
- 130 The exposition of your words will enlighten and will impart understanding to infants.
- 131 I opened my mouth and drew breath, because I was longing for your
commandments.
- 132 Look upon me, and be merciful to me, as is your judgment toward those who love your name.
- 133 Direct my steps according to your saying,
and do not let any lawlessness exercise dominion over me.
- 134 Redeem me from extortion of human beings, and I will keep your commandments.
- 135 Make your face shine upon your slave,
and teach me your statutes.
- 136 My eyes shed streams of water, since your law was not kept.
- 137 18 sade.
Righteous you are, O Lord,
and upright is your judgment.
- 138 You commanded your testimonies to be righteousness and truth, very much.
- 139 Zeal for you^d wasted me, because my enemies forgot your words.
- 140 Your saying was well tried,
and your slave loved it.
- 141 Rather young I am and of no account;
your statutes I did not forget.
- 142 Your righteousness is righteousness forever,
and your law is truth.
- 143 Affliction and anguish found me;
your commandments are my meditation.
- 144 Your testimonies are righteousness forever;
give me understanding, and I shall live.
- 145 19 koph.
I cried with my whole heart; hearken to me,
O Lord.
Your statutes will I seek.
- 146 I cried for you; save me,
and I will observe your testimonies.
- 147 I got a head start at an unseemly hour, and I cried;
on your words I pinned my hope.
- 148 My eyes got a head start at dawn,
that I may meditate on your sayings.
- 149 Hear my voice, O Lord, according to your
mercy;
by your judgment quicken me.
- 150 Those who persecute me with lawlessness drew near,
but they were put far from your law.
- 151 You are near, O Lord,
and all your commandments are truth.
- 152 Long ago I learned from your testimonies that you established them forever.
- 153 20 res.
Look on my humiliation, and deliver me,
because your law I did not forget.
- 154 Plead my cause, and redeem me;
because of your word quicken me.
- 155 Deliverance is far from sinners, because they did not seek your statutes.
- 156 Your compassion is great, O Lord;
by your judgment quicken me.

^aOr reasoning ^b + continually = Ra ^cOr direct myself toward ^dyour house = Ra

157 Many are those who persecute and afflict me;
from your testimonies I did not deviate.
158 I looked at faithless ones and wasted away, because they did not keep your sayings.
159 See how I loved your commandments;
O Lord, by your mercy quicken me.
160 The beginning of your words is truth, and forever are all the judgments of your
righteousness.

161 21 sen.
Rulers persecuted me without cause,
and my heart was in dread of your words.
162 I will rejoice at your sayings like him who finds much spoil.
163 Injustice I hated and abhorred, but your law I loved.
164 Seven times a day I praised you for the judgments of your righteousness.
165 Great peace have those who love your law,
and nothing can make them stumble.
166 I kept waiting for your deliverance, O Lord, and your commandments I loved.
167 My soul kept your testimonies, and I loved them exceedingly.
168 I kept your commandments and your
testimonies,
because all my ways were before you,
O Lord.

169 22 thau.
Let my petition come before you, O Lord;
according to your saying give me
understanding.
170 May my request come before you;
according to your saying rescue me.
171 May my lips pour forth a hymn,
when you teach me your statutes.
172 May my tongue articulate your saying, because all your commandments are
righteousness.
173 Let your hand be ready to save me, because your commandments I chose.
174 I longed for your deliverance, O Lord, and your law is my meditation.
175 My soul shall live and praise you, and your judgments will help me.
176 I went astray like a lost sheep;
seek your slave, because I did not forget
your commandments.

Psalm 119(120)

1 An Ode of the Steps.
(1) When I was being afflicted, I cried to the Lord, and he listened to me:
2 "O Lord, rescue my soul from unjust lips and from a deceitful tongue." 3 What might be given to you, and what might be added to you,

against a deceitful tongue?
4 The arrows of the powerful one are sharp, together with desolating coals!
5 Woe is me, that my place of sojourn was put
at a distance;
I encamped among the coverts of Kedar.
6 Very much did my soul sojourn.
7 Among those who hate peace ⁽⁷⁾I was for peace;
when I would speak to them,
they would fight me without reason.

Psalm 120(121)

1 An Ode of the Steps.
(1) I lifted up my eyes to the mountains—
from where will my help come?
2 My help comes from the Lord,
who made the sky and the earth.
3 Do not give your foot to shaking,
nor let him who keeps you slumber.
4 Look, he who keeps Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.
5 The Lord will keep you;
the Lord is your shelter at your right hand.
6 By day the sun shall not burn you up,
nor the moon during the night.
7 The Lord will keep you from every evil;
he will keep your soul.
8 The Lord will keep your coming in and your going out
from now on and forevermore.

Psalm 121(122)

1 An Ode of the Steps. ^aPertaining to David^a.
(1) I was glad in those who had said to me,
"To the Lord's house we shall go!" 2 Our feet stood in your courts, O Ierousalem.
3 Ierousalem—being built as a city that is shared in common.
4 For there the tribes went up, tribes of the Lord, as a testimony to Israel,
to acknowledge the name of the Lord, 5 because there thrones for judgment sat, thrones for David's house.
6 Do request what pertains to the peace of Ierousalem,
and ^bmay there be ^babundance for those who love you.
7 Do let there be peace in your power and abundance in your towered strongholds.

8 For the sake of my brothers and my fellows,
I would surely speak of peace concerning
you.
9 For the sake of the house of the Lord our
God,
I sought out your good.

Psalm 122(123)

1 An Ode of the Steps.
(1) To you I lifted up my eyes,
you who reside in the sky.
2 Look, as slaves' eyes look to their masters'
hands,
as a maid's eyes to her mistress' hands,
so our eyes look to the Lord our God until he has compassion on us.
3 Have mercy upon us, O Lord; have mercy
upon us,
because we have more than our fill of
contempt.
4 Our soul has had more than its fill.
Reproach is for those who are prosperous,
and contempt for the proud!

Psalm 123(124)

1 An Ode of the Steps. ^aPertaining to David^a.
(1) If it had not been that the Lord was among
us
—do let Israel say—
2 if it had not been that the Lord was among
us,
when people rose up against us, 3 then they would have swallowed us up alive,
when their anger was kindled against us;
4 then the water would have drowned us; through a wadi our soul would have passed;
5 then our soul would have passed through the irresistible water.
6 Blessed be the Lord who did not give us
as prey to their teeth.
7 Our soul was rescued like a sparrow from the snare of the fowlers;
the snare was crushed,
and we were rescued.
8 Our help is in the Lord's name,
who made the sky and the earth.

Psalm 124(125)

1 An Ode of the Steps.
(1) Those who trust in the Lord are like Mount Sion;

he who inhabits Jerusalem will never be shaken.
2 Mountains are around her,
and the Lord is around his people,
from now on and forevermore,
3 because he shall not allow the rod of the sinners
over the allotment of the righteous so that the righteous might not stretch out their hands in lawlessness.
4 Do good, O Lord, to those who are good and to those who are upright in heart.
5 But those who turn aside to strangulations the Lord will lead away with those that practice lawlessness.
Peace be upon Israel!

Psalm 125(126)

1 An Ode of the Steps.
(1) When the Lord returned the captivity of Sion, we became like people comforted.
2 Then our mouth was filled with joy, and our tongue with rejoicing;
then they will say among the nations,
"The Lord did great things for them."
3 The Lord did great things for us, and we became people gladdened.
4 Return our captivity, O Lord, like wadis in the south.
5 Those who sow in tears with rejoicing will reap—6 going they would go and weep, carrying their seed,
but coming they shall come with rejoicing,
carrying their sheaves.

Psalm 126(127)

1 An Ode of the Steps. Pertaining to Salomon.
(1) Unless the Lord builds a house,
those who build it labored in vain.
Unless the Lord guards a city,
the guard kept awake in vain.
2 It is in vain for you to rise up early,
to get up after sitting down,
O you who eat bread of pain,
when he gives sleep to his beloved ones.
3 Look, the heritage from the Lord are sons,
the wage of the fruit of the womb.
4 Like arrows in the hand of a powerful one,
so are the sons of those expelled.
5 Happy the person who will satisfy his desire with them.
They shall not be put to shame when they speak with their enemies in a gate.

Psalm 127(128)

- 1 An Ode of the Steps.
- (1) Happy are all who fear the Lord, who walk in his ways.
- 2 The labors of your crops you shall eat;
happy you are, and it shall be well with
you.
- 3 Your wife is like a thriving vine
on the sides of your house;
your sons are like shoots of olives around your table.
- 4 Look, thus shall a person be blessed
who fears the Lord.
- 5 May the Lord bless you from Zion, and may you see the good of Ierousalem
all the days of your life.
- 6 And may you see your sons' sons.
Peace be upon Israel!

Psalm 128(129)

- 1 An Ode of the Steps.
- (1) "Often they made war against me from my youth"
—do let Israel say—
- 2 "often they made war against me from my
youth;
indeed, they did not prevail against me.
- 3 On my back the sinners were practicing their skill;
they prolonged their lawlessness."
The righteous Lord cut up necks of sinners.
- 4 Let all who hate Zion be put to shame and turned backward.
- 5 Let them become like grass on rooftops that withered before it was pulled out, with which no reaper filled his hand and a gatherer of sheaves the fold of his garment.
- 6 And those who were passing by did not
say,
"The blessing of the Lord be upon you!
We have blessed you in the name of the Lord!"

Psalm 129(130)

- 1 An Ode of the Steps.
- (1) Out of depths I cried to you, O Lord.
Lord, listen to my voice!
Let your ears become attentive
to the voice of my petition!
- 3 If you mark lawlessness, O Lord, Lord, who shall stand?—
because with you there is atonement.

- 5 For the sake of your law ⁽⁵⁾I waited for you,
O Lord.
My soul waited for your word.
- 6 My soul hoped in the Lord
from morning watch until night;
from morning watch, ⁽⁷⁾let Israel hope in
the Lord,
- 7 because with the Lord there is mercy and much redemption is with him.
- 8 And it is he who will redeem Israel from all its acts of lawlessness.

Psalm 130(131)

- 1 An Ode of the Steps. Pertaining to Daudid.
- (1) O Lord, my heart was not exalted, nor were my eyes raised too high,
nor did I occupy myself with great things,
nor with marvelous things beyond me.
- 2 If I was not humble-minded
but exalted my soul,
like the weaned child against its mother,
like a requital it is, against my soul.
- 3 Let Israel hope in the Lord
from now on and forevermore.

Psalm 131(132)

- 1 An Ode of the Steps.
- (1) O Lord, remember Daudid and all his meekness,
how he swore to the Lord;
he vowed to the God of Iakob,
"If I will enter into a covert of my house,
if I go up on a bed of my spreading,
if I will give sleep to my eyes and slumber to my eyelids and rest to my temples, until I find a place for the Lord,
a covert for the God of Iakob!"
- 6 Look, we heard of it^a in Ephratha;
we found it^a in the plains of the forest.
- 7 "We shall enter into his coverts;
we shall do obeisance at the place where his feet stood."
- 8 Rise up, O Lord, into your rest,
you and the ark of your sanctity^b!
- 9 Your priests will clothe themselves with
righteousness,
and your devout will rejoice.
- 10 For your slave Daudid's sake do not turn away the face of your anointed one.
- 11 The Lord swore to Daudid the truth,
and he will never annul it:
"Of your belly's fruit

^aAntecedent unclear ^bOr holy precinct

12 I will set on your throne.
 If your sons keep my covenant and these my testimonies that I shall teach them,
 also their sons, forevermore, shall sit on your throne.”

13 Because the Lord selected Sion, he chose it as a habitation for himself:
 14 “This is my repose forever and ever;
 here I will reside, because I chose it.
 15 Its pursuits I will bless when blessing;
 its poor I will feed with bread.
 16 Its priests I will clothe with deliverance, and its devout will rejoice with rejoicing.
 17 There I will cause a horn to sprout up for Daud;
 I prepared a lamp for my anointed one.
 18 His enemies I will clothe with disgrace, but on him my sanctity will blossom.”

Psalm 132(133)

1 An Ode of the Steps. Pertaining to Daud.

(1) Look now, what is good or what is pleasant more than that kindred live together?
 2 It is like the perfume on the head, which descends upon the beard,
 on the beard of Aaron,
 which^a descends upon the fringe of his clothing.
 3 It is like the dew of Haërmón, which descends onto the mountains of Sion,
 because there the Lord commanded the
 blessing,
 life^b forevermore.

Psalm 133(134)

1 An Ode of the Steps.

(1) Look now, bless the Lord, all you slaves of
 the Lord,
 who stand in the Lord’s house!
 ¶[in courts of our God’s house.]^c 2 In the nights lift up your hands to the holy precincts,
 and bless the Lord.
 3 The Lord will bless you from Sion, he who made the sky and the earth.

Psalm 134(135)

1 Hallelouia.

(1) Praise the name of the Lord;
 praise, O slaves, the Lord, 2 you that stand in the Lord’s house,
 in courts of our God’s house.

3 Praise the Lord, because the Lord is good;
 make music to his name, because it is beautiful,
 4 because the Lord chose Iakob for himself,
 Israel as his valued possession, 5 because I knew that the Lord is great, and our Lord in comparison with all the gods.
 6 Whatever the Lord wanted he did,
 in the sky and on the earth,
 in the seas and in all deeps.
 7 Bringing up clouds from the earth’s end, he made lightnings into rain, he who brought out winds from his storehouses.
 8 He who struck down the firstborn of Egypt,
 from human to animal, 9 he sent out signs and wonders in your midst, O Egypt,
 against Pharaoh and against all his slaves.
 10 He who struck down many nations and killed mighty kings—11 Seon, king of the Amorrites,
 and Og, king of Basan,
 and all the kingdoms of Chanaan—12 and he gave their land as a heritage, a heritage to his people Israel.
 13 O Lord, your name is forever; O Lord your renown is to generation and
 generation,
 14 because the Lord will judge his people,
 and over his slaves he will be consoled.
 15 The idols of the nations are silver and gold,
 works of human hands.
 16 A mouth they have and will not speak;
 eyes they have and will not see;
 17 ears they have and will not hear,
 for there is not even breath in their mouth.
 18 May those who make them and all who trust them become like
 them.
 19 O house of Israel, bless the Lord!
 O house of Aaron, bless the Lord!
 20 O house of Leui, bless the Lord!
 You that fear the Lord, bless the Lord!
 21 Blessed be the Lord from Sion, he who resides in Ierousalem.

Psalm 135(136)

1 Hallelouia.

(1) Acknowledge the Lord, because he is kind,
 because his mercy is forever.
 2 Acknowledge the God of gods,
 because his mercy is forever.
 3 Acknowledge the Lord of lords,
 —because his mercy is forever—

^ai.e. perfume ^bPr and = Ra ^cWithout [] = Ra

4 him, who alone is doing great wonders,
—because his mercy is forever—5 him, who by understanding made the heavens,
—because his mercy is forever—
6 him, who made firm the earth upon the
waters,
—because his mercy is forever—
7 him, who^a made great lights,
—because his mercy is forever—
8 the sun to have authority over the day,
—because his mercy is forever—
9 the moon and the stars to have authority over the night,
—because his mercy is forever—
10 him, who struck Egypt together with their firstborn
—because his mercy is forever—
11 and brought Israel out from among them
—because his mercy is forever—12 with a strong hand and a raised arm,
—because his mercy is forever—13 him, who divided the Red Sea into divisions
—because his mercy is forever—
14 and brought Israel through the midst of it
—because his mercy is forever—
15 and shook off Pharaoh and his force into the Red Sea,
—because his mercy is forever—16 him, who brought through his people in the wilderness,
—because his mercy is forever—
b[him, who brought water out of a sharp rock,
—because his mercy is forever—]b 17 him, who struck down great kings
—because his mercy is forever—
18 and killed strong kings,
—because his mercy is forever—
19 Seon, king of the Amorrites,
—because his mercy is forever—
20 and Og, king of Basan,
—because his mercy is forever—21 and gave their land as a heritage,
—because his mercy is forever—
22 a heritage to Israel his slave,
—because his mercy is forever,
23 because in our humiliation the Lord remembered us
—because his mercy is forever—24 and redeemed us from our enemies,
—because his mercy is forever—
25 he, who gives nourishment to all flesh,
—because his mercy is forever.
26 Acknowledge the God of the sky, because his mercy is forever^c.

Psalm 136(137)

1 By^d the rivers of Babylon—there we sat down, also wept when we remembered Sion.
2 On the willows in its midst
we hung up our instruments, 3 because there our captors asked us for words of odes, and those who led us away
for a hymn,
“Sing us some of the odes of Sion!”
4 How could we sing the Lord’s ode in a foreign land?
5 If I forget you, O Jerusalem, may my right hand be forgotten!
6 May my tongue stick in my throat,
if I do not remember you,
if I do not set Jerusalem at the beginning of my joy.
7 Remember, O Lord, against the sons of Edom, the day of Jerusalem,
how they said, “Clear out! Clear out!
As long as its foundation is in it!”
8 O daughter Babylon, you wretch!
Happy shall he be who will requite you with the requital
with which you requited us!
9 Happy shall he be who will grab your infants
and dash them against the rock!

Psalm 137(138)

1 Pertaining to David.
(1) I will acknowledge you, O Lord, with my
whole heart,
because you heard the words of my mouth,
and before angels I will make music to
you.
2 I will do obeisance toward your holy shrine and acknowledge your name for your mercy and your truth, because you magnified your saying upon^e every name.
3 In the day I call upon you, hearken to me quickly;
you will care for me with power in my
soul.
4 Let all the kings of the earth acknowledge you, O Lord,
because they heard all the words of your
mouth.
5 And let them sing in the ways of the Lord, because great is the glory of the Lord, 6 because the Lord is high and he regards things that are lowly

a + alone = Ra bWithout [] = Ra c + Acknowledge the Lord of lords, because his mercy is forever = Ra dPr Pertaining to David = Ra ePossibly above and things that are high he perceives from far away.

- 7 If I walk in the midst of affliction, you will
quicken me;
against wrath of my enemies you stretched out your hand,
and your right hand saved me.
8 The Lord will repay on my behalf;
O Lord, your mercy is forever.
The works of your hands do not disregard.

Psalm 138(139)

- 1 Regarding completion. ^aPertaining to Daud. A Psalm^a.
- (1) O Lord, you examined me and knew me.
2 It was you who knew my sitting down and my rising up;
it was you who discerned my thoughts
from far away.
3 My path and ^bmy miles^b you tracked and all my ways foresaw, 4 because there was no word on my
tongue—
5 look, O Lord; it was you who knew all things, the last and the first.
It was you who shaped me and placed your hand upon me.
6 Your knowledge was made wonderful from
me;
it became strong; I can never attain to it.
- 7 Where should I go from your spirit?
And from your face where should I flee?
8 If I ascend to the sky, you are there;
if I descend to Hades, you are present.
9 If I were to take my wings at dawn and make my covert at the farthest limits of the sea,
10 indeed, there your hand shall guide me,
and your right hand shall hold me fast.
11 And I said, "So then, darkness shall trample
me,
and night be illumination in my delight," 12 because darkness will not be made dark due
to you,
and night will be illumined as day;
as its darkness, so also its light.
- 13 Because it was you who procured my kidneys, O Lord,
you supported me from my mother's womb.
14 I will acknowledge you, for I was made awesomely wonderful.
Wonderful are your works,
and my soul knows very well.
15 My frame was not hidden from you,

which you made in secret, and my substance in the deepest parts of
the earth.

- 16 My unwrought state your eyes beheld,
and in your book all shall be written; ^din a day^d they will be formed ^eand no one among them^e.
17 But to me your friends were very much prized, O God.
Their beginnings^f were much strengthened.
18 I shall count them, and they will be multiplied beyond sand;
I awoke—I am still with you.

- 19 If you kill sinners, O God—
O men of blood, depart from me!
20 Because you will speak against contriving, they will take your cities into vanity.
21 Did I not hate those who hate you, O Lord?
And at your enemies was I not wasting
away?
22 I would hate them with perfect hatred;
I counted them my enemies.
23 Examine me, O God, and know my heart;
test me, and know my paths.
24 And see if there is a way of lawlessness in
me,
and guide me in a way everlasting.

Psalm 139(140)

- 1 Regarding completion. A Psalm. Pertaining to Daud.
- 2(1) Deliver me, O Lord, from an evil person;
from an unjust man rescue me, 3(2) whoever schemed acts of injustice in theirs
heart;
all day long they kept waging wars.
4(3) They made their tongue sharp as a snake's;
venom of vipers is under their lips.
Interlude on strings
- 5(4) Guard me, O Lord, from a sinner's hand;
from unjust people deliver me—whoever schemed to trip up my steps.
6(5) Arrogant ones hid a trap for me, and they stretched cords, traps for my
feet;
close to a path they set an obstacle for me.
Interlude on strings
- 7(6) I said to the Lord, "My God you are;
give ear, O Lord, to the voice of my petition."
8(7) O Lord, Lord, power of my deliverance, you shaded my head in a day of battle.
9(8) Do not hand me over, O Lord, to a sinner due to my desire^h;
they schemed against me;

^aPert. to Daud/A Psalm tr = Ra ^bI.e. the miles I traveled; Gk 1 schoinos = ca.11 km ^cPerhaps beyond ^dOr by day ^ePerhaps when none of them as yet existed ^fPerhaps authorities ^gLacking in Gk ^hOr craving do not abandon me, that they not be exalted!

Interlude on strings

- 10(9) The head^a of their encirclement—mischief of their lips will cover them!
11(10) Coals will fall on them;
with fire you will throw them down;
in misery they will not bear up.
12(11) A garrulous man will not succeed in the
land;
evil will hunt down an unjust man to
destruction!
13(12) I knew that the Lord would maintain the cause of the poor one and the case of the needy.
14(13) But the righteous shall acknowledge your
name,
and the upright shall live together with your presence^b.

Psalm 140(141)

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David.
(1) O Lord, I cried to you; listen to me;
pay attention to the voice of my petition
when I cry to you.
2 Let my prayer succeed as incense before you,
a lifting up of my hands be an evening sacrifice.
3 Set a guard over my mouth, O Lord,
and a door of constraint about my lips.
4 Do not incline my heart to words of evil,
to concocting pretexts for sins,
in company with people practicing
lawlessness,
and I shall not team up with their choice
ones.
5 A righteous one shall discipline me with mercy and correct me, but let not a sinner's oil anoint my
head,
because my prayer is continually against their contentment.
6 Their judges were swallowed up close to a rock;
they shall hear my words, because they were made sweet.
7 As a clod of earth was crushed on the land,
our bones were strewn beside Hades, because toward you, O Lord, Lord, were my
eyes;
in you I hoped; do not erase my soul.
9 Keep me from a trap that they set for me and from obstacles of those who practice
lawlessness.
10 Sinners will fall into his net;
alone I am until I pass by.

Psalm 141(142)

- 1 Of understanding. Pertaining to David. When he was in the cave. A Prayer.
2(1) With my voice I cried to the Lord;
with my voice I petitioned the Lord.
3(2) I will pour out my petition before him;
my affliction I will announce before him.
4(3) When my spirit was failing me,
you also knew my paths.
In the very way in which I would walk,
they hid a trap for me.
5(4) I would look to my right and would observe that there was no one who recognized me;
escape^c vanished from me,
and there was no one to seek out my
soul.
6(5) I cried to you, O Lord;
I said, "You are my hope,
my portion in the land of the living." 7(6) Pay attention to my petition, because I was brought very low.
Rescue me from those that persecute me,
because they became too strong for me.
8(7) Bring my soul out of prison
so that I may acknowledge your name^d.
Righteous ones will wait for me until you requite me.

Psalm 142(143)

- 1 A Psalm. Pertaining to David^e.
(1) O Lord, listen to my prayer;
give ear to my petition in your truth;
hearken to me in your righteousness.
2 And do not enter into judgment with your
slave,
because no one living will be counted righteous before you.
3 Because the enemy pursued my soul,
he humbled my life to the ground;
he made me sit in dark places like those long dead.
4 And my spirit became weary in me;
within me my heart was troubled.
5 I remembered days of old,
and I meditated on all your deeds;
on works of your hands I would meditate.
6 I spread out my hands to you;
my soul was like a parched land.
Interlude on strings
7 Listen to me quickly, O Lord;
my spirit failed.

^aPerhaps chief gain ^bOr face ^cPossibly place of refuge ^d+ O Lord = Ra ^e+ When his son is pursuing him = Ra

Do not turn your face from me,
and I shall be like those who go down
into a pit.
8 Make me hear your mercy in the morning, because in you I hoped.
Make known to me, O Lord, a way in which I should go,
because to you I lifted up my soul.
9 Deliver me from my enemies, O Lord;
I^a fled to you for refuge.
10 Teach me that I do your will, because you are my God.
Your good spirit will guide me on level
ground.
11 For your name's sake, O Lord, you will
quicken me.
In your righteousness you will bring my soul out of affliction.
12 And in your mercy you will destroy my
enemies
and ruin all who afflict my soul, because your slave I am.

Psalm 143(144)

1 Pertaining to Daud^b.
(1) Blessed be the Lord, my God, who trains my hands for battle and my fingers for war;
2 my mercy and my refuge,
my supporter and my rescuer,
my protector in whom I hoped,
who subdues my people under me.
3 O Lord, what is man that you became known to him
or a son of man that you reckon with
him?
4 He became like vanity;
his days are passing like a shadow.
5 O Lord, tilt your heavens, and come down; touch the mountains, and they will
smoke.
6 Flash a lightning flash, and you will scatter
them;
send out your arrows, and you will throw them into disarray.
7 Send out your hand from on high;
deliver me, and rescue me from many
waters,
from the hand of sons of strangers, 8 whose mouth spoke vanity,
and their right hand was a right hand of
injustice.
9 O God, a new ode I will sing to you;
with a ten-stringed harp I will make music to you,

10 to you, who gives deliverance to kings, to you, who redeems his slave Daud from an evil sword.
11 Rescue me, and deliver me from the hand of sons of strangers,
whose mouth spoke vanity,
and their right hand was a right hand of
injustice,
12 whose sons are like young plants mature in their youth.
Their daughters have been beautified, decorated like a replica of a shrine.
13 Their storehouses are full, bursting ^cfrom side to side^c.
Their sheep are prolific, multiplying in their issue.
14 Their cattle are massive.
There is no collapsing of fence nor a break-through
nor a cry in their streets.
15 They counted happy the people to whom these things fall;
happy are the people, those whose God is
the Lord.

Psalm 144(145)

1 Praise. Pertaining to Daud.
(1) I will exalt you, my God, my King, and bless your name forever and forever
and ever.
2 Every day I will bless you and praise your name forever and forever
and ever.
3 Great is the Lord, and very much
praiseworthy,
and to his greatness there is no limit.
4 Generation and generation shall commend your works,
and your power they shall declare.
5 Of the magnificence of the glory of your holiness they shall speak, and your wondrous works they shall
recount.
6 And the power of your awesome deeds they shall relate,
and your greatness they shall recount.
7 Mention of the abundance of your kindness
they shall gush forth,
and at your righteousness they shall rejoice.
8 Compassionate and merciful is the Lord,
slow to anger and abounding in mercy.
9 Kind is the Lord to ^dall things together^d,
and his compassion is over all his works.
10 Let all your works acknowledge you, O Lord, and let all your devout bless you.
11 Your kingdom's glory they shall relate,

^aPr for = Ra ^b + Referring to Goliad = Ra ^ci.e. on all sides ^dOr the universe

12 and of your dominance they shall speak, to make known to the sons of men your
dominance
and the glory of the magnificence of your kingdom.
13 Your kingdom is a kingdom of all the ages, and your dominion is in every generation
and generation.

13a Faithful is the Lord in all his words,
and devout in all his works.
14 The Lord upholds all who are falling and sets upright all who are cast down.
15 The eyes of all hope in you, and it is you who give them their food in due season.
16 You, you open your hand and satisfy every living thing with^a good pleasure.
17 Just is the Lord in all his ways,
and devout in all his works.
18 Near is the Lord to all who call on him,
to all who call on him in truth.
19 The will of all who fear him he will do, and to their petition he will hearken and will save them.
20 The Lord watches over all who love him,
and all the sinners he will destroy.
21 Praise of the Lord my mouth will speak, and let all flesh bless his holy name
forever and forever and ever.

Psalm 145(146)

1 Hallelouia^b.
(1) Praise the Lord, O my soul!
2 I will praise the Lord in my life;
I will make music to my God while I
have being.
3 Do not put your trust in rulers and in sons of men, who have no
deliverance.
4 His breath will depart, and he will return to his earth;
in that very day all their designs will
perish.
5 Happy is he whose helper is the God of Iakob;
his hope is in the Lord his God, 6 who made the sky and the earth,
the sea and all that is in them,
who guards truth forever, 7 executing judgment for the wronged, giving food to the hungry.
The Lord releases prisoners.
8 The Lord sets upright those cast down;
the Lord makes the blind skilled;

9 The Lord loves the righteous.
The Lord watches over the guests;
orphan and widow he will pick up,
and a way of sinners he will wipe out.

10 The Lord will be king forever, your God, O Sion, for generation and
generation.

Psalm 146(147.1-11)

1 Hallelouia^b.
(1) Praise the Lord,
because a melody is a good thing;
to our God may praise be pleasing.
2 When the Lord builds Ierousalem, he will also gather in the dispersions of Israel,
3 he who heals the broken in heart and binds up their fractures, 4 he who numbers multitudes of stars and to all of them gives names.
5 Great is our Lord, and great is his strength, and of his understanding there is no sum, 6 when the Lord picks up the meek but humbles sinners to the ground.
7 Lead off to the Lord with acknowledgment;
make music to our God on a lyre, 8 to him who cloaks the sky with clouds,
to him who prepares rain for the earth, to him who makes grass grow on
mountains,
9 giving to the animals their food and to the young of ravens that call on
him.
10 To the dominance of the horse he will not be disposed,
nor with the shanks of the man is he pleased.
11 The Lord is pleased with those who fear him and with those who hope in his mercy.

Psalm 147(147.12-20)

1 Hallelouia^b.
(12) Commend the Lord, O Ierousalem; praise your God, O Sion, 2(13) because he strengthened the bars of your gates;
he blessed your sons within you, 3(14) he who makes your borders peaceful and keeps filling you with fat^c of wheat, 4(15) he who sends out his saying to the earth;
his word will run swiftly, 5(16) ^dthe word^d of him who gives snow like wool,
who scatters fog like ashes,
6(17) who hurls down his ice like crumbs.
Who shall stand against his cold?

^aOr of ^b + Of Haggaios and Zacharias = Ra ^ci.e. finest ^dLacking in Gk

7⁽¹⁸⁾ He will send out his word and will melt them;
 he will blow his breath, and waters will flow.
 8⁽¹⁹⁾ In declaring his word to Iakob, his statutes and judgments to Israel, 9⁽²⁰⁾ he did not deal thus with every nation, and his judgments he did not explain to
 them.

Psalm 148

1 Hallelouia^a.
 Praise the Lord from the heavens;
 praise him in the highest heights!
 2 Praise him, all his angels;
 praise him, all his hosts!
 3 Praise him, sun and moon;
 praise him, all the stars and the light!
 4 Praise him, you heavens of heavens and you water above the heavens!
 5 Let them praise the name of the Lord,
 for he ^b[spoke, and they came to be;
 he]^b commanded, and they were created.
 6 He established them forever and forever and
 ever;
 an ordinance he issued, and it will not pass away.
 7 Praise the Lord from the earth,
 you dragons and all deeps, 8 fire, hail, snow, ice, tempest blast, those things that do his
 word!
 9 The mountains and all the hills,
 fruit trees and all cedars!
 10 The wild animals and all the cattle, creeping things and winged birds!
 11 Kings of the earth and all peoples, rulers and all judges of earth!
 12 Young men and unmarried women, old with young!
 13 Let them praise the name of the Lord, because the name of him alone was
 exalted;
 acknowledgement of him is in earth and
 sky.
 14 He will exalt his people's horn;
 a hymn belongs to all his devout, the sons of Israel, a people drawing near
 to him.

Psalm 149

1 Hallelouia.
 Sing to the Lord a new song;

his praise is in an assembly of devout.
 2 Let Israel be glad in the one who made it, and let the sons of Sion rejoice in their
 king.
 3 Let them praise his name with a dance;
 with drum and harp let them make music
 to him,
 4 because the Lord takes pleasure in his
 people,
 and he exalts the meek with deliverance.
 5 The devout will boast in glory,
 and they will rejoice on their beds.
 6 The exaltations of God are in their throats, and two-edged swords in their hands, 7 to execute vengeance among the nations, rebukes among the peoples, 8 to bind their kings with fetters and their nobles with iron handcuffs, 9 to execute among them a judgment inscribed.
 This glory is for all his devout.

Psalm 150

1 Hallelouia.
 Praise God among his saints;
 praise him in the firmament of his
 power!
 2 Praise him for his acts of dominance; praise him according to the abundance of his greatness!
 3 Praise him with trumpet sound;
 praise him with harp and lyre!
 4 Praise him with drum and dance;
 praise him with strings and instrument!
 5 Praise him with tuneful cymbals;
 praise him with loud clashing cymbals!
 6 Let all breath praise the Lord!
 Hallelouia.

Psalm 151

1 This Psalm is autographical. Regarding Daud and outside the number^c.
 I was small among my brothers and the youngest in the house of my father;
 I would shepherd the sheep of my father.
 2 My hands made an instrument;
 my fingers tuned a harp.
 3 And who will report to my lord?
 The Lord himself, it is he who listens.
 4 It was he who sent his messenger^d and took me from the sheep of my father and anointed me with the oil of his anointing.

^a + Of Haggaios and Zacharias = Ra ^bWithout [] = Ra ^c + When he fought Goliad in single combat. = Ra ^dPossibly angel

5 My brothers were handsome and tall, and the Lord did not take delight in them.

6 I went out to meet the allophyle, and he cursed me by his idols.

7 But I, having drawn the dagger from him,
I beheaded him
and removed reproach from Israel's sons.

PRAYER OF MANASSES

(Rahlf's Ode 12)

1 O Lord Almighty,
God of our fathers,
of Abraam and Isaak and Iakob
and of their righteous offspring, 2 you who made the sky and the earth together with all their order, you who shackled the sea by the word of your ordinance,
3 you who shut up the deep and sealed it with your awesome and notable name,
4 at whom all things shudder and tremble from before your power, 5 because the magnificence of your glory cannot be borne,
and the wrath of your threat against sinners cannot be withstood;
6 both immeasurable and inscrutable is the mercy of your promise, 7 because you are Lord Most High, compassionate, slow to anger and abounding in mercy
and repenting at ills of human beings.
8 So you, O Lord God of the righteous, you did not appoint repentance for righteous ones,

for Abraam and Isaak and Iakob, who had not sinned against you, but you appointed repentance for me, the sinner, 9 because I sinned beyond the number of the sand of the sea.
My acts of lawlessness multiplied, O Lord,
they multiplied,
and I am not worthy to gaze at and see the height of the sky,
due to the multitude of my injustices.
10 Bent down I am by many a fetter of iron,
for me to say, "No," over my sins.
And I find no relief,
because I provoked your anger and did what was evil before you, having set up abominations and having multiplied objects of wrath.
11 And now I bend my heart's knee, begging for kindness from you.
12 I have sinned, O Lord; I have sinned, and my lawless acts I know.
13 I plead, begging you;
relieve me, O Lord; relieve me!
Do not destroy me together with my acts of
lawlessness
nor be angry forever and retain evil for
me
nor condemn me in the deepest places of
the earth,
because you, O Lord, are the God of those who repent,
14 and in me show your goodness, because, though unworthy, you will save
me
according to your abundant mercy, 15 and I will praise you always throughout the days of my life,
because all the host of the heavens will sing
a hymn to you,
and yours is the glory forever. Amen.

PROVERBS¹

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of Proverbs follows the Greek edition by Alfred Rahlfs, which is at present the best available (Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes [Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935]). The fact that this book has not yet been edited for the Göttingen Septuagint series (editio maior) poses a problem. In some chapters (chap. 20, for example) a large percentage of text (vv. 14–22) is absent from Rahlfs, but to some extent corresponds to additions in v. 9.² Whether their absence is due to deliberate omission, transposition or simply to inner-Greek corruption is not clear. Issues of transmission, although important, have not been addressed in this translation but must wait for the commentary (SBLCS).

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General Character

The Septuagint of Proverbs represents translation with certain unique features. Many textual phenomena that occur only occasionally in other books are well attested in Proverbs. So, for example, it has a rather large number of pluses vis-à-vis the Masoretic Text and other textual witnesses, though minuses are to be noted as well. Furthermore, differences in the order of chapters from chapter 24 onward are paralleled most closely in Jeremiah (Jeremias). Lastly, the translation reflects an atypical approach to the parent text. Elsewhere,³ I have characterized its modus operandi as often extremely free, while in other cases the parent text was rendered in a rather literal way. Hence its approach might be described as characterized by both diversity and uniformity to be observed at various levels. On a lexical level, one sees extensive differentiation but at the same time strict correspondence. Although this phenomenon is difficult to quantify, the translator's flexible attitude to his subject matter is most conspicuous.

Some Specifics

In light of the above, it is not possible to speak of a high level of translational predictability. The translator's⁴ penchant for both consistency and diversity affords him plenty of leeway for following his own instinct in individual instances. Thus, he may or may not render a specific Hebrew word by the same Greek word. A case in point is δόσβης, which appears in 1.7 for אִיִל, in 1.10 for חָטָא, in 1.22, 32 for כִּסְיִל, and in 2.22 etc. for רִשָׁע. It occurs 92x in Proverbs, and it represents Hebrew רִשָׁע 67x. This is 73% of the total occurrences. Though at first glance this seems to be a case of stereotyping, a different picture emerges when the individual equivalents are analysed. Practically all the deviations from this pattern appear in Proverbs 1, namely, in 1.7 (אִיִל); 1.10 (חָטָא); 1.22, 32 (כִּסְיִל). Whereas the Hebrew refers to three categories of people—the fool, the sinner, and the ignorant—the LXX has reduced them to one category, namely, the impious. It is therefore clear that stereotyping is not the whole story. In this case, the broader picture of Proverbs 1 needs to be taken into account.

Exegetical Interest

The translator of Proverbs, unlike many of his Septuagintal colleagues, had a marked interest in exegeting his source text. Elsewhere⁵ I have delineated three aspects of that interest: (1) his emphasis on the positive aspect of religion, that is to say, his underscoring of righteousness and the righteous, etc.; (2)

¹ I hereby acknowledge the financial assistance of various institutions towards the preparation of this translation. Firstly, I should like to thank the NWO for their financial support. Secondly, the South African NRF and the University of Stellenbosch. In the same vein I need to express my gratitude towards the Van Ewijkstiging in Cape Town. Without this assistance I would not have been able to complete this research.

² Cf. Johann Cook, "Textual problems in the Septuagint of Proverbs," JNSL 26/1 (2000) 163–173.

³ Johann Cook, The Septuagint of Proverbs—Jewish and/or Hellenistic Proverbs? Concerning the Hellenistic Colouring of LXX Proverbs (VTSup 69; Leiden: Brill, 1997) esp. 402.

⁴ The use of the singular is not intended to preclude more than one translator.

⁵ J. Cook, "Exegesis in the Septuagint," JNSL 30/1 (2004) 1–19.

its corollary, namely, his strong disapproval of evil; and, as a result of this juxtaposition, the Greek text (3) contains more contrasts than its parent text.

First, the translator frequently adds references to "righteousness." In 3.9 "labors" are not merely "labors" (= MT) but "just labors," and "fruits" (= MT) are typified as "firstfruits of righteousness." Verse 16 contains two extra stichs that likewise refer to righteousness and two of its concomitants: ". . . out of her mouth righteousness comes forth, and she carries law and mercy upon her tongue." Other examples are: 10.18 where "lying lips conceal hatred" becomes "righteous lips conceal enmity." Similarly in 10.22, whereas in MT the blessing of the Lord simply leads to riches, in the Greek it does so via "the head of a righteous person." Thus the Greek amplifies the theme of the context—vv. 20–25—in which the righteous and the wicked are contrasted. A similar amplification can be found in 12.25 when the generous person of MT (בלב אִישׁ) becomes a righteous man in the Greek (ἀνδρὸς δικαίου). In 13.2 fruits "of justice" are specifically noted, even though MT provides no warrant for this. The same is true for v. 11 in MT where the Greek adds: "A just person is compassionate and lends." The theme continues in chapter 15. In v. 27 an additional stich speaks of acts of mercy and faithfulness as means to purge sins (the sin in context being bribery). Though MT of 15.28 already contains a contrast between the righteous and unrighteous, the translator adds that the ways of the righteous are acceptable to the Lord. Other examples are 15.29; 16.7, 11; 17.14, 26; 20.8, 28; 23.31.

Second, corresponding to an emphasis on righteousness and the righteous is a commensurate highlighting of unrighteousness and the unrighteous. Proverbs 1.18 amplifies this negative side of the equation, and v. 19 pointedly refers to lawless deeds (τὰ ἄνομα) and impiety (ἀσβεία). In v. 22 the innocent (ἄκακοι) are linked to righteousness, but the fools (ἄφρονες) are described as impious. In v. 28 the subject is made explicit by the addition of "evil people" (κακοί). Madam wisdom is described in 3.15, where (contra MT) it is also stated that nothing evil (οὐδὲν πονηρὸν) will withstand her. Proverbs 6.3 introduces "the hands of evil" without explicit warrant in the Hebrew. Chapter 8.13 shows that the translator's ideological interests are capable of producing literary felicity, whether by inadvertence or design. By rendering ופִי תהפכוֹת ("perverted speech") as διεστραμμένας ὁδοὺς κακῶν ("perverse ways of evil people"), he creates the parallel phrases ὁδοὺς πονηρῶν (13b) and ὁδοὺς κακῶν (13c), which includes an end rhyme. In 10.15 the Hebrew noun רִשְׁוֹן ("poor") is made into "the impious" (ἀσέβων) in the Greek. In 10.26 "the lazy" (העצל) is linked to "lawlessness"; in 11.18 the works of the wicked (פעלת שקר) are glossed as "unjust works" (ἔργα ἄδिका), and in 13.16 folly (אורל) is associated with evil (κακία). Furthermore, 14.22 elaborates on the perpetration of evil beyond MT, and 15.18 contains a prominent plus, "A man slow to anger will extinguish disputes, but an impious person stirs them up exceedingly." Proverbs 15.23 is rewritten with "the evil person" as subject, whereas MT is quite secular. In 19.6 הָרֵעַ ("friend") is perhaps deliberately read with different vowelings as הָרֵעַ ("the evil person"). This is an apt example of a different interpretation based upon an unpointed Hebrew text. As in 10.26 "the lazy" is understood as an unjust person in 19.24. In 21.22 the impious (οἱ ἀσέβεις) are identified as the opponents of the wise man, and the arrogant of v. 24 is likened to "a transgressor of the law" (παράνομος). Proverbs 24.22 interprets the people who are punished by God and the king as being "the impious." Perhaps the most convincing example of this trend to interpret exegetically occurs in 30.11–14. On all four occasions Hebrew דור ("posterity") is translated by ἔγγονοκακόν ("wicked progeny"). דור appears only in these verses (apart from a Qere reading in 27.24), and its rendering by ἔγγονο is unique in the LXX. More importantly, κακόν has no counterpart in the Hebrew, even though it may be said to render explicit what in the source is implicit.

Third, there is the phenomenon of direct contrast, that is to say, antithetical arrangements of religio-ethical categories. Proverbs has many of those, a case in point being chapter 11, where already in the Hebrew we have a number of them. In v. 1 a false balance is compared with an accurate one. Pride and humility are contrasted in v. 2, as are the merciful and the merciless in v. 17. Moreover, the pious and the impious are contrasted in many verses (3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 18, 19, 21, 23, 31). Elsewhere I have demonstrated that the translator of Proverbs amplifies the use of such antithetical statements, to the extent that it can be taken as characteristic of his translation style.⁶ As an example one might cite 2.11 "good counsel" (βουλὴ καλὴ) and 2.17 "bad counsel" (κακὴ βουλὴ)—the chiasm is of added interest—13.19a "pious" (εὐσεβῶν) and 13.19b "impious" (ἀσεβῶν), 13.23a "just" (δίκαιοι) and 13.23b "unjust" (ἄδικοι), 15.29αα "with justice" (μετὰ δικαιοσύνης) and 15.29αβ "with injustice" (μετὰ ἀδικίας), 17.6αα "the faithful" (τοῦ πιστοῦ) and 17.6αβ "the faithless" (τοῦ ἀπίστου). Needless to say, not all such cases can with certainty be attributed to the translator.

⁶ J. Cook, "Contrasting as a Translation Technique," in From Tradition to Interpretation: Studies in Intertextuality in Honor of James A. Sanders (ed. C. A. Evans & S. Talmon; Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1997) 403–414.

Style and Syntax

The preceding paragraph has provided a suitable transition to the present section, since antithetical arrangement, while having an influence on substance, at the same time has an impact on style. A further indication of the translator's interest in style is the use he makes of particles, particularly when the Hebrew offers no explicit warrant for their employment, a case in point being γάρ as a standard gloss for Hebrew וְ and other conjunctions, including zero equivalent. Another one is the particle τε that appears occasionally in this book, e.g., in 1.2, 3, 4, 6; 3.3 (sub ÷); 6.8, 8a, 33; 7.21; 8.13; 15.3; 23.20. This seems to be characteristic of a freer translation style, and as such is what one would expect in Proverbs. Claude Cox has demonstrated that the same occurs in LXX Job.⁷ There is thus some evidence to suggest that the translator of Proverbs, like the Job translator, worked much more at the discourse level than did most others within the LXX corpus.

The same, freer approach can be observed at the level of syntax. Whereas the translator of Gen 1.20–33 followed the syntax of the Hebrew to a large extent but often construed individual clauses in a typically Greek linguistic manner, Proverbs pays comparatively little attention to the minutiae of Hebrew syntax. Perhaps the most drastic intervention by the translator in his source text is his reordering and rearranging of chapters towards the end of the book (24–31), seemingly for thematic and other reasons.⁸ Yet, what he did there is hardly incompatible with his penchant for inserting new proverbs into his book along the way as he thought fit, many apparently without Hebrew base.

A Conspicuous Case

We close this section with a specific verse that graphically illustrates what the translator of Proverbs was capable of doing to his source at a number of different levels. Due to limitations of space, I will refrain from a full discussion of 1.22 in the context of 1.20–33.

עד מתי פתים תאהבו פתי
ולצים לצון חמדו להם וכסילים ישנאו דעת

How long, O simple ones, will you love being simple?
How long will scoffers delight in their scoffing and fools hate knowledge?

ὅσον ἂν χρόνον ἄκακοι ἔχωνται τῆς δικαιοσύνης οὐκ αἰσχυνθήσονται οἱ δὲ ἄφρονες τῆς ὑβρεως ὄντες ἐπιθυμηταὶ ἀσεβείας γενομένοι ἐμίσησαν αἴσθησιν

As long as the innocent hold on to righteousness, they will not be ashamed, but the fools, since they are lovers of pride, after they became impious they hated perception.

To be sure a certain transparency to the source text is retained, but the deviations from the Hebrew stand in bold relief. On the syntactic level the temporal clause in the first stich in MT is changed into the protasis of a conditional sentence, with the apodosis (οὐκ αἰσχυνθήσονται) supplied de novo. On a semantic level the first stich is revamped from positive to negative. That is to say, “the simple-minded/foolish” of the Hebrew (פְּתִים) is remodeled as “the innocent who hold on to righteousness” of the Greek, and along the way many unpredictable Hebrew-Greek equivalences are forged. On the discourse level, v. 22 retains its role as the incipit of Wisdom's call, but it sets an entirely different tone for what follows.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF PROVERBS

All these phenomena together make translating LXX Proverbs a problematic but at the same time an intriguing endeavor. The freedom with which the translator approached his parent text naturally does not mean that the translator should also render his text freely. Trying to relate this translation to the NRSV proved impossible in many instances.

⁷ C. Cox, “Tying it all Together: The Use of Particles in Old Greek Job,” BIOSCS 38 (2005) 41–54.

⁸ Cf. J. Cook, “The Greek of Proverbs—Evidence of a Recensionally Deviating Hebrew Text?” in Emanuel—Studies in the Hebrew Bible, Septuagint and Dead Sea Scrolls in Honor of Emanuel Tov (ed. S.M. Paul, R. A. Kraft, L. H. Schiffman and W.W. Fields; Leiden-Boston: E. J. Brill, 2003) 605–618.

Finally I need to express my gratitude towards various persons who assisted me with this research. First and foremost there is Albert Pietersma, who acted as corrector for my translation. I benefited immensely from his vast experience and expertise. During the initial stages of the project, Arie van der Kooij read parts of my translation, and Detlev Krige, one of my former students, helped with the preparation of the Greek and Hebrew texts.

JOHANN COOK

-
- 1 Proverbs of Salomon son of Daud, who reigned in Israel:
- 2 To learn wisdom and discipline and to understand words of prudence 3 and to grasp subtlety of words and to understand true righteousness and to direct judgment
4 in order that he might give shrewdness to the innocent
and both perception and insight to the young child,
5 for by hearing these things the wise will become wiser
and the discerning will acquire direction, 6 and he will understand an illustration^a and an obscure word,
both the sayings and the riddles of the
wise.
- 7 Beginning of wisdom is fear of God, and understanding is good for all those who practice it,
and piety unto God is the beginning of
perception;
the impious, however, will despise wisdom and discipline.
- 8 Hear, my son, your father's discipline,
and do not reject your mother's precepts, 9 for you will receive a crown of graces for your head
and a golden collar around your neck.
10 My son, let not impious men lead you astray, and do not consent, if they invite you
saying:
11 "Come with us; partake in bloodshed, and let us hide a just man unjustly in the
earth,
12 and let us swallow him alive like Hades, and let us remove his remembrance from
the earth;
13 let us take his valuable possessions,
and let us fill our homes with booty.
14 But throw your lot among us,
and let us all acquire a common purse,
and let us have one wallet." 15 Do not walk in the way with them, but keep your foot from their paths, 16 for their feet run to evil and they are quick to shed blood,
- 17 for nets are not spread without reason for winged creatures.
18 For they who take part in murder store up evil for themselves,
and the ruin of transgressing men is evil.
19 These are the ways of all who perform lawless deeds,
for by impiety they take away their own
life.
- 20 Wisdom sings hymns in the streets,
and in the squares she leads frankly, 21 and on the top of the walls she proclaims, and at the gates of the powerful she waits,
and at the gates of the city she speaks boldly:
22 "As long as the innocent hold on to
righteousness,
they will not be ashamed,
but the fools, since they are lovers of pride, after they became impious they hated
perception,
and they became liable to reproofs.
23 Look, I will bring forth to you the expression of my breath,
and I will teach you my word.
24 Since I would call but you did not heed and I would prolong words but you were not paying attention, 25 but you would make my counsels invalid,
and you disregarded my reproofs;
26 therefore I in turn will also laugh at your
destruction,
and I will rejoice when ruin comes upon
you.
27 Yes, when confusion strikes you unexpectedly and destruction arrives like a whirlwind and when affliction and siege come upon
you
or when ruin comes upon you, 28 for it shall be when you call upon me, then I will not listen to you;
evil people will seek me but will not find
me,
29 for they hated wisdom and did not choose the fear of the Lord, 30 nor were they willing to pay attention to my counsels
but despised my reproofs.
31 Therefore they shall eat the fruits of their own way

^aOr analogy

32 and be filled with their own impiety, for, because they would wrong the simple,
 they will be murdered
 and an inquiry will ruin the impious.
 33 But he who hears me will encamp in hope and will be at ease without fear of any evil.”

2 My son, if, when you accept the saying of my commandment,
 you hide it with yourself,
 2 your ear will be attentive to wisdom, and you shall incline your heart to
 understanding;
 yes, you shall incline it to the admonition
 of your son.
 3 For if you call upon wisdom and raise your voice for understanding, as well as seek perception with a loud
 voice,
 4 and if you seek it like silver and search for it like treasures, 5 then you will understand the fear of the Lord,
 and you will find divine knowledge.
 6 Because the Lord gives wisdom, also from his presence come knowledge and understanding,
 7 and he stores up salvation for those who succeed;
 he will shield their journey 8 to guard the ways of righteous deeds, and he will protect the way of the ones who revere him.
 9 Then you will understand righteousness and
 judgment,
 and you will make all good courses
 straight.
 10 For if wisdom comes into your mind and perception seems pleasing to your soul, 11 good counsel will guard you,
 and holy insight will protect you 12 in order that it can rescue you from an evil
 way
 and from a man who speaks nothing
 reliable.
 13 Oh, those who abandon straight ways,
 to walk in ways of darkness, 14 who rejoice in evil
 and are happy about evil perverseness, 15 whose paths are crooked and their courses are bent 16 in order to remove you far from the straight way
 and to make you a stranger to a righteous opinion.
 17 My son, do not let bad counsel overtake you, that which forsakes the teaching of youth and has forgotten the divine covenant; 18 for it has set her house near death and its courses by Hades with the shades^a; 19 all those who walk in her will not come back,

nor will they seize straight paths, for they are not being seized by years of
 life.

20 For if they were walking good paths, they would have found the smooth paths of righteousness.
 21 The kind will be inhabitants of the earth, and the innocent will be left in it, because the upright will encamp on the
 earth
 and the holy will be left in it; 22 the ways of the impious will perish from the
 earth,
 and the transgressors will be banished
 from it.

3 My son, do not forget my ordinances, but let your heart keep my sayings;
 2 for longevity and years of life,
 as well as peace, they will add to you.

3 Let acts of charity and loyalty not fail you;
 rather fasten them on your neck, and you will find favor,
 4 and think of what is noble
 in the sight of the Lord and of people.

5 Trust in God with all your heart, and do not be excited by your wisdom.
 6 In all your ways make her known,
 that she may make straight your ways,
 [and your foot will not stumble].
 7 Be not clever in your own eyes, but fear God, and turn away from every
 evil.
 8 Then it will be a healing to your body
 and treatment for your bones.

9 Honor the Lord from your just labors, and offer him of your firstfruits of
 righteousness
 10 in order that your storerooms may be filled with an abundance of grain and that your vats may gush with wine.

11 My son, do not belittle the Lord’s discipline nor break down when you are reproved
 by him;
 12 for whom the Lord loves, he disciplines, and he punishes every son he accepts.

13 Happy is the person who has found wisdom, and the mortal who perceived insight; 14 for it is better to trade in her than in treasures of gold and silver.
 15 And she is more precious than precious stones;
 nothing evil shall resist her;
 she is well-known to all those who draw near to her,
 and nothing valuable is worthy of her;

^ai.e. dead

16 for longevity and years of life are in her
 right hand,
 and in her left hand are riches and repute; 16a out of her mouth righteousness comes forth, and she carries law and mercy upon her
 tongue.
 17 Her ways are good ways,
 and all her paths are peaceful.
 18 She is a tree of life to all those who lay claim to her,
 and she is steadfast to those who lean upon her, as on the Lord.
 19 God by wisdom founded the earth, and he prepared the heavens by prudence.
 20 By perception the deeps were broken open,
 and the clouds poured dew.
 21 My son, do not break away, but keep my counsel and insight 22 so that your soul may live and that there may be grace round your neck.
 22a And it shall be healing to your flesh
 and treatment for your bones, 23 that you may walk all your ways confidently in peace
 and that your foot will not stumble.
 24 For if you sit down, you will be without fear, and when you lie down, you will sleep pleasantly.
 25 And you shall not be afraid of intimidation when it comes,
 nor of attacks of the impious, when they approach.
 26 For the Lord will be over all your ways and he will support your foot in order that you may not be unsettled.
 27 Do not withhold to do good to the needy,
 when your hand can help.
 28 Do not say, "Go, come back, and tomorrow I will give,"
 when you are able to do good,
 for you do not know what the next day will bring.
 29 Do not plan evil against your friend when he lives besides you and trusts in
 you.
 30 Do not quarrel with anyone without a cause, lest he does some harm to you.
 31 Do not acquire the disgrace of evil men, and do not strive after their ways 32 for every transgressor is impure before the Lord,
 and he does not sit in council among the
 righteous.
 33 A divine curse is in the homes of the
 impious,
 but the abodes of the just are blessed.
 34 The Lord resists the arrogant, but he gives grace to the humble.
 35 The wise will inherit glory,
 but the impious have exalted disgrace.

4 Listen, children, to a father's discipline, and pay attention, that you may come to know insight,
 2 for I present to you a good gift;
 do not abandon my law.
 3 For I became a son, and I am obedient to my father
 and beloved in the eyes of my mother, 4 who would speak and instruct me:
 "Let our word become fixed in your heart.
 5 Keep the commandments; do not forget nor disregard the saying of my mouth.
 6 Nor abandon her, and she will cleave to you;
 love her, and she will guard you.
 8 Secure her, and she will exalt you;
 honor her, that she may embrace you 9 in order that she may grant your head a garland of graces
 and may protect you with a garland of delight."
 10 Listen, my son, and accept my words, and the years of your life shall be increased,
 that the ways of living may become many
 for you,
 11 for I teach you the ways of wisdom and I put you in straight tracks.
 12 For if you walk, your steps will not be hemmed in,
 and if you run, you will not grow weary.
 13 Take hold of my discipline; do not let go,
 but keep her for yourself for your life.
 14 Do not enter the ways of the impious, and do not covet the ways of transgressors.
 15 Wherever they put up camp, do not enter
 there,
 but turn from them, and pass by, 16 for they will not sleep, unless they have done wrong;
 their sleep has been taken away, and they do not fall asleep, 17 for these people eat the bread of impiety and they get drunk with illicit wine.
 18 But the ways of the righteous shine like a
 light;
 they proceed and give light until the day
 is fully dawned.
 19 The ways of the impious, however, are dark;
 they do not know how they stumble.
 20 My son, pay attention to my saying,
 and incline your ear to my words.
 21 So that your fountains may not fail you, keep them within your heart, 22 for it is life to those who find them and healing to all their flesh.
 23 Keep your heart with all vigilance, for from these things are the issues of life.
 24 Remove from yourself a crooked mouth, and thrust unjust lips far away from you.
 25 Let your eyes look straight, and let your eyelids incline to just things.
 26 Make straight tracks for your feet,
 and straighten your ways.

27 Do not incline to the right or to the left;
 rather turn away your foot from an evil
 way, 27a for God knows the ways on the right,
 but those on the left are twisted.
 27b But it is he who will make your tracks
 straight,
 and he will guide your journeys in peace.

5 My son, pay attention to my wisdom,
 and incline your ear to my words,
 2 that you may keep insight, and I shall command perception of my lips unto you.
 3 Pay no attention to a worthless woman, for honey drips from the lips of a prostituting woman,
 who for a period pleases your palate.
 4 Later, however, you will find it more bitter than gall
 and sharper than a two-edged dagger; 5 for the feet of folly bring down those who deal with her, to Hades with
 death,
 and her footprints are not being established,
 6 for she does not come to the ways of life, but her courses are slippery and unfamiliar.

7 Now then, my son, listen to me,
 and do not make my words invalid.
 8 Make your way far from her;
 do not go near the doors of her houses in order that you will not give away your life to others
 and your living to the merciless, 10 lest strangers be filled with your strength and your labors go into the homes of strangers.
 11 You, however, will repent at the end,
 when the flesh of your body is consumed, 12 and you will say, "How I hated discipline, and my innermost turned away reproofs!
 13 I would not listen to the voice of one instructing me and teaching me, nor did I incline my ear.
 14 I was almost in every evil situation, in the midst of an assembly and
 congregation."

15 Drink water from your vessels and from the cisterns of your well.
 16 Let not the waters out of your well overflow
 for you;
 rather let your waters flow into your streets.
 17 Let them be at the disposal of you alone, and let no stranger share with you.
 18 Let your well of water be solely your own, and rejoice with the woman from your
 youth.
 19 Let the fawn of your love and the foal of your favors
 consort with you,

and let her be considered your very own and be with you
 on every occasion,
 for while indulging in her love you will be increased immeasurably.
 20 Do not be for long with a strange woman, nor be held in the arms of someone not your own;
 21 for the ways of a man are before the eyes of God,
 and he observes all their courses.
 22 Transgressions ensnare a man, and each one is bound by the ropes of his own sins.
 23 He comes to an end with the uninstructed, and he was cast forth from the abundance of his own sustenance and perished through folly.

6 My son, if you stand security for your friend,
 you will surrender your hand to an enemy, 2 for a man's own lips are a strong snare, and he is caught by the lips of his own
 mouth.
 3 My son, do what I command you and save yourself,
 for through your friend you have fallen into the hands of evil;
 go; do not falter; rather spur on even your friend
 for whom you stood security.
 4 Give your eyes no sleep, nor slumber with your eyelids 5 in order to rescue yourself like a gazelle from a noose
 and like a bird from a snare.

6 Go to the ant, O lazybones, and zealously observe its ways, and become wiser than it;
 7 for without having any cultivated land nor anyone that forces it nor being under any master,
 8 it prepares its food in summer, and it makes its provision plentiful in harvest time.
 8a Or go to the bee,
 and learn how industrious she is and how seriously she performs her work 8b whose products kings and commoners use for their health.
 Yes, she is desired by all and honored.
 8c Although she is physically weak,
 by honoring wisdom she was promoted.
 9 How long, lazybones, will you lie?
 And when will you be roused from your sleep?
 10 Indeed you sleep a little, and you sit a little,
 and you slumber a little,
 and you fold your arms over your breast a little.
 11 Then poverty will come upon you like an evil traveler,
 and want like a good runner.

- 11a If, however, you are diligent, your harvest will arrive like a fountain, and want will desert you like a bad runner.
- 12 A foolish and lawless man walks roads that are no good, 13 and he winks with his eye and makes a sign with his foot,
and he teaches with motions of his fingers.
- 14 And with a perverse heart he plans evil at every opportunity;
such a person concocts upheavals for a city.
- 15 Therefore his destruction arrives suddenly,
calamity and ruin beyond repair, 16 for he rejoices in everything that the Lord hates;
yes, he is ruined by impurity of soul.
- 17 An eye of an insolent one, an unjust
tongue,
hands that shed blood of a righteous
person
18 and a heart that plans wicked schemes and feet that hurry to do evil.
- 19 A false witness kindles falsehood and sows discord among kindred.
- 20 My son, keep your father's laws,
and do not forsake your mother's precepts.
- 21 But always bind them upon your soul,
and make them a collar on your neck.
- 22 When you walk, bring it, and let it be with
you,
and when you lie down, let it watch over
you
in order that it may communicate with you when you awake,
- 23 for the law's commandment is a lamp and a
light
and a way of life, reproof and discipline, 24 to keep you from a married woman and from the slander of a strange tongue.
- 25 Let not her desire for beauty conquer you,
nor be captured by your eyes;
neither be captivated by her eyelashes,
- 26 for the price of a prostitute is just about as much as a loaf of bread and a men's lady hunts for precious souls.
- 27 Can anyone put fire in his lap
and not burn his clothes?
28 Or can anyone walk on coals of fire and not scorch his feet?
- 29 So is he who goes in to a married woman.
He shall not be held guiltless, nor anyone who touches her.
- 30 It is not to be marveled at if someone is caught stealing,
for he steals in order to fill himself when he is hungry.
- 31 Yet, if he is caught, he will pay sevenfold, and he will rescue himself by surrendering all his possessions.
- 32 But the adulterer procures destruction to
himself
through lack of sense.
- 33 He experiences both pain and disgrace,
and his dishonor will never be wiped out;
- 34 for filled with jealousy is the anger of her husband;
he will show no constraint in the day of
judgment;
- 35 neither will he take any compensation as exchange for his hate,
nor will he at all be reconciled by many gifts.
- 7 My son, keep my words,
and hide my commandments with yourself.
- 1a My son, honor the Lord, and you will grow strong,
and fear no other but him.
- 2 Guard my commandments, and you will live,
and my words like the apples of your
eyes.
- 3 And bind them on your fingers, and engrave them on the surface of your
heart.
- 4 Say that wisdom is your sister, and secure prudence as an intimate friend
for yourself,
- 5 that she may keep you from a strange and sinful woman,
if she should assail you with words to charm;
- 6 for from a window out of her house
she peeps into the streets, 7 at whom she may observe of the foolish
children,
a youngster lacking sense, 8 passing by the corner
in the passages of her dwellings 9 and conversing in the evening twilight, when there happens to be nocturnal quiet and gloom.
- 10 Then the woman meets him,
looking like a prostitute, who causes the hearts of young men to flutter.
- 11 And she is excited and debauched,
and her feet cannot stay at home;
- 12 for some time she roams outside, and at another time she lies in wait in the streets,
at every corner.
- 13 Then she seized and kissed him,
and with a shameless face addressed him:
- 14 "I have a peace offering;
today I am paying my vows;
15 therefore I came out to meet you, longing for your face; I have found you.
- 16 With coverings I have spread my couch, and with double tapestry from Egypt I have decked it.
- 17 I have sprinkled my bed with saffron

18 and my house with cinnamon.
 18 Come, and let us enjoy love until the early morning;
 19 come here, and let us embrace in love,
 for my husband is not at home
 but has gone on a long journey, 20 since he took a bag of money with him, after many days he will return to his house.”
 21 And with a lot of chatting she seduced him, and with the snares of her lips she compelled him.
 22 And he followed her, ensnared;
 like an ox he is led to slaughter,
 and like a dog towards chains 23 or like a deer shot with an arrow in the liver, and he hurries like a bird into a trap, not realizing that he is running for his
 life.
 24 Now then, my son, listen to me and pay attention to the words of my
 mouth.
 25 Do not let your heart incline to her ways, 26 for many she has wounded and laid low and innumerable are those whom she has slain.
 27 Roads of Hades are her house, leading down to the chambers of death.

8 You will proclaim wisdom in order that prudence may be obedient to
 you;
 2 for on the highest tops she is,
 and between the paths she has taken her
 stand;
 3 for beside the gates of rulers she takes her seat,
 and at the entrances she sings hymns:
 4 “You, O people, I exhort, and I lift my voice to the sons of men.
 5 O innocent ones, be aware of trickery, and you uneducated take heart.
 6 Listen to me, for I will talk about serious
 things,
 and I will bring forth from my lips what
 is right;
 7 for my throat will declaim truth,
 but false lips are abominable to me.
 8 With righteousness are all the words of my
 mouth;
 in them nothing is twisted nor crooked.
 9 They are all straightforward to those who understand
 and upright to those who find
 knowledge.
 10 Take discipline and not silver,
 and knowledge rather than choice gold;
 yes, choose perception instead of pure
 gold,
 11 for wisdom is better than costly stones,
 and nothing valuable is worthy of her.
 12 I, wisdom, I encamped with counsel, and knowledge and insight I summoned.” 13 The fear of the Lord hates injustice, also pride and arrogance and the ways of the wicked;

 yes, it is I who hate the perverse ways of evil people.
 14 Mine are counsel and security, mine prudence and mine strength.
 15 Through me kings rule,
 and rulers prescribe justice.
 16 Through me nobles are magnified, and tyrants through me rule the earth.
 17 It is I who am fond of those who love me,
 and those who seek me find me.
 18 Wealth and honor are at my disposal, and the acquisition of many things and
 justice.
 19 To enjoy my fruits is better than gold and precious stone,
 and my yield better than choice silver.
 20 I walk in ways of justice, and along paths of what is right I wander 21 in order that I may apportion possessions to those who love me
 and fill their treasuries with good things.
 21a If I report to you the things that happen daily,
 I will remember to enumerate the things
 of old.
 22 The Lord created me as the beginning of his ways,
 for the sake of his works.
 23 Before the present age he founded me, in the beginning.
 24 Before he made the earth and before he made the depths,
 before he brought forth the springs of the
 waters,
 25 before the mountains were established and before all the hills, he begets me.
 26 The Lord made countries and uninhabited spaces
 and the habitable heights of that beneath
 the sky.
 27 When he prepared the sky, I was present
 with him,
 and when he marked out his own throne
 on the winds.
 28 When he made strong the clouds above and when he made secure the springs beneath the sky,
 29 when he made strong the foundations of
 the earth,
 30 I was beside him, fitting together;
 it is I who was the one in whom he took
 delight.
 And each day I was glad in his presence at every moment, 31 when he rejoiced after he had completed the world
 and rejoiced among the sons of men.
 32 Now then, my son, listen to me.
 34 Happy is the man who will listen to me and the person who will guard my ways, keeping watch at my doors daily,

 protecting the posts of my entrances.
 35 For my egressions are the egressions of life, and the incentive is prepared by the Lord.
 36 But those who sin against me treat their own souls with impiety,
 and those who hate me love death.

9 Wisdom built herself a house and supported it with seven pillars.
 2 She slaughtered her own sacrificial victims;
 she mixed her own wine in a mixing bowl,
 and she prepared her own table.
 3 She sent out her slaves, summoning with a stately proclamation to the drinking feast, saying, 4 "He who is a fool, let him turn aside to me,"
 and to those lacking sense she said:
 5 "Come, eat of my bread, and drink wine, which I have mixed for
 you.
 6 Abandon folly, and you will live, and seek prudence in order that you may
 live,
 and erect understanding with
 knowledge."

7 He who instructs evil people will gather disgrace unto himself,
 and he who rebukes an impious person will find fault with himself.
 8 Do not rebuke evil people, lest they should
 hate you;
 rebuke a wise person, and he will love
 you.
 9 Give a wise person an opportunity, and he will become wiser;
 inform a just person, and he will continue to receive.
 10 The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord,
 and counsel of the saints is
 understanding,
 10a for to know the law is the sign of a sound
 mind;
 11 for in this way you will live a long time, and years of your life will be added to
 you.
 12 My son, if you become wise for yourself, you will be wise for your neighbors as well;
 however, if you turn out evil, you will bear the evil alone.
 12a He who supports himself with lies will as well herd winds,
 and the same person will pursue flying
 birds,
 12b for he has forsaken the ways of his vineyard and has caused the axles on his own farm to go astray.

12c Yes, he travels through an arid wilderness and a land destined to drought and gathers barrenness with his hands.
 13 A foolish and audacious woman who knows no shame
 comes in need of a morsel of food.
 14 She sat at the doors of her own house,
 on a seat, openly in the streets, 15 inviting those who are passing by and who are keeping straight in their ways.
 16 "He of you who is most foolish, let him turn aside to me,
 and to those that are in need of prudence
 I urge, saying,
 17 'Take secret bread gladly,
 and sweet water of theft.' " 18 But he does not know that the shades^a perish with her,
 and he meets up with a springboard of Hades.
 18a On the contrary, run away; do not linger in the place;
 neither fix your eye upon her, 18b for so you will cross strange water and pass through a strange river.
 18c However, abstain from strange water, and do not drink from a strange well, 18d that you may live for a long time and years of life may be added to you.

10 A wise son makes a father glad,
 but a foolish son is a mother's grief.
 2 Treasures shall not profit the lawless, but righteousness shall deliver from
 death.
 3 The Lord will not let a righteous person starve,
 but the life of the impious he will ruin.
 4 Poverty makes a man humble,
 but the hands of the vigorous enrich.
 4a A son who is instructed shall be wise,
 and he will use the fool as a servant.
 5 An intelligent son was rescued from heat of the day,
 but a transgressing son is blasted by the wind in harvest time.
 6 The blessing of the Lord is upon the head of
 the righteous,
 but the mouth of the impious will conceal untimely sorrow.
 7 The memory of the righteous comes with eulogies,
 but the name of the impious is extinguished.
 8 A wise of heart will accept commandments, but he who is unable to keep his mouth shut,
 being crooked, will be tripped up.
 9 He who walks in integrity walks confidently, but he who perverts his ways will be found out.

^ai.e. dead

10 He who winks with his eyes deceitfully garners grief for men,
 but he who reproveth openly makes peace.
 11 A spring of life is in the hand of a righteous
 person,
 but destruction covers the mouth of the
 impious.
 12 Hatred stirs up strife, but friendship covers all who are not fond of strife.
 13 He who produces wisdom from his lips strikes a heartless man with a rod.
 14 The wise will conceal perception, but the mouth of the reckless brings ruin near.
 15 The possessions of the rich are a strong city,
 but poverty is the ruin of the impious.
 16 The deeds of the righteous produce life but the fruits of the impious sins.
 17 Discipline guards the ways of a righteous
 life,
 but unchastened instruction leads astray.
 18 Righteous lips conceal enmity, but they who utter slander are most foolish.
 19 By a multitude of words you will not escape
 sin,
 but if you restrain your lips, you will be intelligent.
 20 The tongue of the righteous is choice silver,
 but the heart of the impious will fail.
 21 The lips of the righteous are versed in sublime things,
 but fools die in want.
 22 The blessing of the Lord is upon the head of a righteous person;
 it enriches, and grief of heart will not be added to it.
 23 With laughter a fool practices evil, but wisdom gives birth to prudence for a man.
 24 An impious person is engulfed in
 destruction,
 but the desire of a righteous person is acceptable.
 25 When the tempest passes, an impious person vanishes,
 but a righteous person, since he turned aside, is saved for ever.
 26 As unripe grapes are harmful to the teeth,
 and smoke is to the eyes,
 so transgression is to those that practice it.
 27 The fear of the Lord adds days, but the years of the impious will be few.
 28 Gladness lingers with the righteous,
 but the hope of the impious will perish.
 29 The fear of the Lord is a stronghold for the devout,
 but ruin for those who do evil.
 30 The righteous will never give up, and the impious will not inhabit the
 land.
 31 The mouth of the righteous drips wisdom,
 but the tongue of the unjust will perish.

32 The lips of the righteous drip charm, but the mouth of the impious turns people away.

11 False balances are an abomination before
 the Lord,
 but a just weight is acceptable to him.
 2 Where pride enters, there will also be disgrace,
 but the mouth of the humble attends to
 wisdom.
 3 When a righteous person died, he left regret, but destruction of the impious is at hand,
 and joyous.
 5 Righteousness cuts out blameless paths,
 but impiety is beset with injustice.
 6 The righteousness of upright men rescues
 them,
 but transgressors are taken captive by their destruction.
 7 When a righteous man dies, hope does not
 perish,
 but the boast of the impious perishes.
 8 A righteous person eludes from a chase, and the impious is handed over in his stead.
 9 In the mouth of the impious is a snare to citizens,
 but the perception of the righteous is free from difficulties.
 10 By the good deeds of the righteous a city succeeded,
 11 but by the mouths of the impious it was leveled.
 12 A person who lacks sense scorns citizens,
 but an intelligent man keeps quiet.
 13 A double-tongued man discloses counsels in a meeting,
 but a person loyal in spirit conceals matters.
 14 They who have no direction fall like leaves,
 but in much counsel there is safety.
 15 A wicked person does evil whenever he mingles
 with a righteous person,
 and he hates the sound of security.
 16 A gracious wife procures honor for her husband,
 but a seat of dishonor is a woman who hates justice.
 The deficient shrink from wealth, but the diligent support themselves with wealth.
 17 A merciful man does good to his own self, but the merciless person destroys his body.
 18 An impious person performs unjust works, but the seed of the just is a reward of
 truth.
 19 A righteous son is born to life, but the pursuit of the impious leads to
 death.
 20 Crooked ways are an abomination to the Lord,

- but acceptable to him are all who are blameless in their ways.
- 21 One who ^aunjustly joins hands^a will not go unpunished, but he who sows righteousness will receive an assured reward.
- 22 Like a ring in a pig's snout,
so is beauty to an imprudent woman.
- 23 All the desire of the righteous is good,
but the hope of the impious will perish.
- 24 There are those who by distributing their livelihood increase it, and there are others who gather, yet have less.
- 25 Every totally sincere person is blessed,
but an ill-tempered man is not respected.
- 26 May he who withholds grain leave it to the nations, and may a blessing be on the head of him who shares it.
- 27 He who devises good seeks good favor, but as for him who seeks out evil, it will overtake him.
- 28 As for him who puts his trust in wealth, he will fall, but as for him who supports the righteous, he will flourish.
- 29 He who does not deal graciously with his own household will inherit wind, and the fool will be a slave to the intelligent.
- 30 From the fruit of righteousness grows a tree of life, but the souls of transgressors are cut off untimely.
- 31 If the righteous is scarcely saved,
where will the impious and the sinner appear?
- 12 He who loves discipline loves perception,
but he who hates reproofs is a fool.
- 2 He who finds favor with the Lord is superior,
but a lawless man will be passed over in silence.
- 3 No person will prosper from what is lawless,
but the roots of the just will not be removed.
- 4 A courageous wife is a crown to her husband, but like a worm in wood, so a mischievous wife destroys a man.
- 5 The thoughts of the just are judgments,
but the impious guides treachery.
- 6 The words of the impious are crafty,
but the mouth of the upright will deliver them.
- 7 Wherever the impious turns, he disappears,
but the households of the righteous endure.
- 8 The mouth of an intelligent person is praised by a man,
but the slow-on-the-uptake is mocked.
- 9 Better is a man in dishonor, being a slave to himself, than one who confers honor upon himself while he lacks food.
- 10 A just person takes pity on the lives of his cattle, but the feelings of the impious are without mercy.
- 11 He who tills his own land shall be satisfied with food, but those who pursue vanities lack sense.
- 11a He who enjoys himself in banquets of wine shall leave behind disgrace in his own strongholds.
- 12 The desires of the impious are evil,
but the roots of the pious are in secure places.
- 13 Through the sin of his lips a sinner falls into snares, but a just person escapes from them.
- 13a He who looks gentle will be pitied,
but he who contends in the gates will afflict souls.
- 14 From the fruit of the mouth a man's soul will be filled with good, and the rewards of his lips shall be given to him.
- 15 The ways of fools are right in their own eyes,
but a wise man listens to advice.
- 16 A fool expresses his anger at once,
but the prudent hides his own disgrace.
- 17 A just person proclaims trust as it is,
but the witness of unjust things is deceitful.
- 18 Some, when they speak, wound with a dagger,
but the tongues of wise men heal.
- 19 Truthful lips establish testimony,
but a hasty witness has a dishonest tongue.
- 20 Deceit is in the heart of him who devises evil,
but those who intend peace will rejoice.
- 21 Nothing unjust will be pleasing to the just,
but the impious will be filled with evil.
- 22 False lips are an abomination to the Lord,
but he who acts faithfully is acceptable to him.
- 23 An intelligent man is a seat of perception,
but the heart of fools will meet with curses.
- 24 The hand of the elected will easily govern,
but the deceitful will become a prey.
- 25 Terrifying news troubles the heart of a just man,
but a good message cheers him up.
- 26 A just arbiter will be his own friend,
but the opinions of the impious are unfair.
Evil will pursue those that sin,
and the way of the impious shall lead them astray.

^ai.e. assists in the making of false pledges

27 The deceitful will obtain no game, but a pure man a valuable possession.
28 In the ways of justice there is life, but the ways of those who bear grudges
lead to death.

13 A smart son is obedient to his father, but a disobedient son is on course to
destruction.

2 A good person will eat of the fruits of
justice,
but the souls of transgressors will perish untimely.
3 He who guards his own mouth keeps his own life,
but he who is rash with his lips will bring terror upon himself.
4 Every lazy person has desires, but the hands of the courageous are diligent.
5 A just person hates an unjust word, but the impious is ashamed and will have no confidence.
6 Justice guards the innocent,
but sin makes the impious worthless.
7 There are some who, while having nothing, enrich themselves,
and there are others who humble themselves in much wealth.
8 A man's own wealth is the ransom of his soul,
but the poor does not experience threat.
9 The just always have light, but the light of the impious is
extinguished.
9a Crafty souls go astray in sins, but just people are compassionate and have pity.
10 An evil person does evil with pride, but they that are judges of themselves are
wise.
11 Property gotten hastily with lawlessness is diminished,
but he who gathers for himself with piety
will be increased.
A just person is compassionate and lends.
12 Better is he that begins to help heartily than he that promises and leads another to hope,
for a good desire is a tree of life.
13 He who despises a matter will be despised
by it,
but as for him who fears the commandment, he is healthy.
13a To a crafty son nothing will be good, but a wise domestic will have prosperous business,
and his way shall be guided.
14 The law of a wise man is a fountain of life,
but he who is stupid will die by a snare.
15 Sound discretion wins favor, and to know the law is the sign of a sound mind,
but the ways of scorners end in
destruction.

16 Every smart person acts with knowledge,
but the fool displayed his own evil.
17 A rash king will fall into evil,
but a reliable messenger will deliver him.
18 Discipline removes poverty and disgrace, and he who rebukes will be honored.
19 The desires of the pious sweeten his soul, but the deeds of the impious are far from
knowledge.
20 He who walks along with the wise will be
wise,
but he who walks along with fools will be known as one.
21 Evil will pursue sinners, but good will overtake the just.
22 A good man will leave an inheritance for his sons' sons,
and the wealth of the impious is stored
up for the righteous.
23 The just will spend many years in wealth,
but the unjust will perish suddenly.
24 He who spares the staff hates his son, but he who loves him carefully disciplines him.
25 A just man when eating satisfies his appetite,
but the appetites of the impious are deficient.

14 Wise women built homes, but a foolish one tore it down with her
hands.

2 He who walks uprightly fears the Lord, but he who is devious in his ways will be dishonored.
3 From the mouth of fools comes a staff of
pride,
but the lips of the wise preserve them.
4 Where there are no oxen, the cribs are clean, but where there is much produce, the strength of an ox is apparent.
5 A faithful witness does not lie,
but an unjust witness kindles falsehoods.
6 You may seek wisdom with evil men and will not find it,
but perception is easily available among the clever.
7 All things are against a foolish man, but wise lips are the weapons of
perception.
8 The wisdom of the smart will become familiar with their ways,
but the folly of fools misleads.
9 The homes of transgressors are subject to cleansing,
but the homes of the just are acceptable.
10 A man's heart is sensitive; his soul is grieved,
and when he rejoices, he does not mingle with pride.
11 The homes of the impious will be destroyed,
but the tents of the upright will stand.
12 There is a way that seems to be right among
people,

but its end reaches to the bottom of Hades.
13 Grief mingles not with mirth,
and joy in the end comes to sorrow.
14 A bold-hearted person will be filled with his own ways,
and a good man with his own thoughts.
15 The innocent believes every word,
but the smart comes to a change of mind.
16 A wise man feared and turned away from
evil,
but the fool trusts in himself and associates with the lawless.
17 A passionate person acts with thoughtlessness,
but a sensible man endures many things.
18 Fools will partake of evil,
but the smart will lay hold of perception.
19 The evil will fall down before the good, and the impious will serve at the gates of the just.
20 Friends will hate poor friends, but the friends of the rich are many.
21 He who dishonors the needy sins, but one who pities the poor is deemed most happy.
22 They who go astray devise evil,
but the good devise pity and truth.
The planners of evil do not understand pity and loyalty,
but acts of mercy and of loyalty are with planners for good.
23 With everyone who is careful there is abundance,
but the hedonist and indolent shall have
want.
24 A crown for the wise is a smart man,
but the pastime of fools is evil.
25 A faithful witness will rescue a soul from
evil,
but a deceitful person kindles falsehoods.
26 In the fear of the Lord is hope in strength, and he leaves his children support.
27 An ordinance of the Lord is a fountain of
life,
and it causes people to turn away from the snare of death.
28 In a populous nation is a king's glory, but in the failing of people is the ruin of
a ruler.
29 A man slow to anger is abundant in
prudence,
but an impatient man is extremely
foolish.
30 A meek-spirited man is a healer of hearts, and a sensitive heart a moth^a in the bones.
31 He who cheats the needy upsets his maker,
but he who honors him pities the poor.
32 The impious will be driven away by his evil, but he who is secure in his own piety is
just.

33 There is wisdom in the good heart of a man, but in the heart of fools it is not discerned.
34 Justice lifts up a nation,
but sins diminish tribes.
35 A thoughtful subordinate is acceptable to a
king,
and by his own good behavior he removes disgrace.

15 Anger destroys even the prudent;
yet a submissive answer turns away
wrath,
but a harsh word stirs up anger.
2 The tongue of the wise understands what is
good,
but the mouth of the foolish will proclaim evil.
3 The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding both the evil and the good.
4 A tongue's healing is a tree of life, and he who keeps it will be filled with spirit.
5 A fool scorns his father's discipline, but he who keeps commandments is smarter.
6 In abounding righteousness is great
strength,
but the impious will be removed root and branch from the earth.
In the homes of the righteous there is much
strength,
but the fruits of the impious will perish.
7 The lips of the wise are devoted to
perception,
but the hearts of fools are not steadfast.
8 The sacrifices of the impious are an abomination to the Lord,
but the prayers of the upright are acceptable to him.
9 The ways of the impious are an abomination to the Lord,
but he loves those who pursue
righteousness.
10 The discipline of the innocent is known by passersby,
but those who hate rebukes die disgracefully.
11 Hades and destruction are manifest to the Lord;
how much more also human hearts!
12 An uninstructed person will not like those who rebuke him,
and neither will he associate with the
wise.
13 When the heart rejoices the countenance is cheerful,
but when it is in sorrow, the countenance is sad.
14 An upright heart seeks perception, but the mouth of the uninstructed will know evil.

^ai.e. a cause of decay

15 The eyes of the wicked are continually expecting evil,
 but the good are always quiet.
 16 Better is a small portion with the fear of the Lord
 than great treasures without fear.
 17 Better is entertainment of vegetables with friendliness and kindness than a serving of calves with enmity.
 18 A passionate man stirs up fights, but he who is slow to anger appeases even an incipient one.
 18a A man slow to anger will extinguish disputes,
 but an impious person stirs them up exceedingly.
 19 The ways of the idle are strewn with thorns,
 but those of the courageous are beaten.
 20 A wise son gladdens his father,
 but a foolish son scorns his mother.
 21 The paths of the foolish are void of sense, but the prudent man proceeds in a straight course.
 22 They who do not honor councils delay deliberations,
 but counsel prevails in the hearts of those giving advice.
 23 The evil person will not heed it; neither will he say anything appropriate or good for the public.
 24 The thoughts of the intelligent person are ways of life
 in order that one turn aside and escape
 from Hades.
 25 The Lord tears down the homes of the insolent,
 but he established the border of the widow.
 26 An unjust thought is an abomination to the Lord,
 but the sayings of the pure are solemn.
 27 A receiver of bribes destroys himself, but he who hates the receiving of bribes is saved.
 27a By acts of mercy and by faithfulness sins are purged,
 but by the fear of the Lord everyone turns away from evil.
 28 The hearts of the righteous ponder faithfulness,
 but the mouth of the impious answers evil things.
 28a The ways of righteous persons are acceptable
 to the Lord,
 and through them even enemies become friends.
 29 God is far from the impious, but he hears the prayers of the righteous.
 29a Better is a small intake with righteousness than abundant produce with injustice.
 29b Let the heart of a man think righteous
 things,

that his steps may be directed by God.
 30 The eye that observes good things rejoices
 the heart,
 and good news refreshes the bones.
 32 He who rejects discipline hates himself, but he who heeds rebukes loves his soul.
 33 Fear of God is discipline and wisdom, and the beginning of glory will respond to it.

16 ²All the works of the humble are manifest with God,
 but the impious shall perish in an evil
 day.
 5 Everyone who is arrogant is impure with God,
 and he who ^aunjustly joins hands^a will not be deemed innocent.
 7 The beginning of a good way is to do righteous things,
 and they are more acceptable with God
 than to bring sacrifices.
 8 He who seeks the Lord will find knowledge with righteousness,
 and they who seek him rightly will find
 peace.
 9 All the works of the Lord are done with
 righteousness,
 but the impious is kept for an evil day.
 10 There is an oracular shrine upon the lips of a king,
 and his mouth will not err in judgment.
 11 The tipping of the scale is righteousness with the Lord,
 and his works are righteous measures.
 12 An evildoer is an abomination to a king, for the throne of government is established by righteousness.
 13 Righteous lips are acceptable to a king,
 and he loves right words.
 14 The anger of a king is a messenger of
 death,
 but a wise man will pacify him.
 15 The son of a king is in the light of life, and they that are acceptable to him are like a late cloud.
 16 The young of wisdom are more desirable than gold,
 and the young of prudence more desirable than silver.
 17 The paths of life turn away from evil, and the ways of righteousness are length of existence.
 He who receives discipline will prosper, and he who heeds rebukes will become
 wise.
 He who heeds his ways preserves his own
 soul,
 and he who loves his life will spare his
 mouth.
 18 Pride goes before ruin,
 and malice before a fall.

^ai.e. assists in the making of false pledges

- 19 Better is a person of gentle mind with humility
than he who divides spoils with the proud.
- 20 One who is capable in business is a discoverer of good things, but he who trusts in God is most fortunate.
- 21 Some call the wise and intelligent worthless,
but they who are pleasant in speech will be heard more.
- 22 Insight is a fountain of life to its possessors,
but the discipline of fools is evil.
- 23 The heart of the wise will consider what comes from his own mouth,
and on his lips he will bear prudence.
- 24 Noble words are honeycombs, and its sweetness a healing for the soul.
- 25 There are ways that seem to be right for a
man,
but their ends look towards Hades' depth.
- 26 A man at labor labors for himself and fences off his own destruction, but the crooked carries destruction in his own mouth.
- 27 A foolish man digs up evil for himself, and treasures fire on his own lips.
- 28 A crooked man spreads evil and will kindle with evil a torch of deceit,
and he separates friends.
- 29 A man who transgresses makes trial of friends
and leads them in ways that are not good.
- 30 He who fixes his eyes considers perverse
things,
and he marks out with his lips all evil;
he is a furnace of evil.
- 31 Old age is a crown of boasting;
however, it is gained in the ways of
righteousness.
- 32 A man who is slow to anger is better than the mighty,
and he who controls his temper better than one who captures a city.
- 33 All things come upon the unrighteous into their laps,
but all righteous things come from the Lord.
- 17 Better is a morsel with pleasure in peace than a house full of many good things and unjust sacrifices with strife.
- 2 An intelligent domestic will rule over foolish masters
and will divide portions among brothers.
- 3 As silver and gold are tried in a furnace,
so are choice hearts with the Lord.
- 4 A bad person listens to the tongue of
transgressors,
but a righteous person does not give heed to false lips.
- 5 He who laughs at the poor provokes his maker,
and he who rejoices at one being destroyed will not go unpunished.
But he who has compassion will find
mercy.
- 6 Children's children are a crown for the aged, and their fathers are the boast of
children.
- 6a The faithful has the whole world full of
money,
but the faithless not even a farthing.
- 7 Faithful lips will not suit a fool,
nor false lips the righteous.
- 8 Discipline is a gracious wage to them that use it,
and wherever it turns, it will prosper.
- 9 He who conceals wrongdoings seeks friendship,
but he who hates to conceal them separates friends and family.
- 10 A threat shatters the heart of a prudent
person,
but a fool, though whipped, does not comprehend.
- 11 Every bad person stirs up controversies, but the Lord will send out against him a cruel messenger.
- 12 Care will befal a man of understanding, but fools will consider evil.
- 13 He who requites evil for good—evil shall not be moved from his house.
- 14 Righteous rule gives power to words, but sedition and strife precede want.
- 15 He who judges the unjust just and the just unjust
is unclean and abominable with God.
- 16 Why should fools have money?
For the heartless will not be able to buy
wisdom.
- 16a He who makes his own house high is looking for ruin,
and the one who is too crooked to learn will fall into evil.
- 17 You should have a friend for every season, but let brothers be supportive in
distress,
for on this account are they born.
- 18 A foolish man applauds and rejoices over
himself;
as well, he who pledges himself ought to answer for his own friend.
- 19 A lover of sin rejoices in fights, 20 but the hard-hearted does not meet up with good things.
- A man who is fickle of tongue will fall into
evil, 21 and the heart of a fool is grief to its possessor.
- A father does not rejoice over an uninstructed son,
but a prudent son gladdens his mother.
- 22 A cheerful heart promotes well-being,
but the bones of a depressed man dry up.

23 The ways of one who unjustly receives bribes in his pocket do not prosper, and the impious perverts the ways of
righteousness.
24 The face of a wise person is intelligent, but the eyes of the fool are on the ends of
the earth.
25 A foolish son is a cause of anger to his father
and a grief to her who bore him.
26 It is not good to punish a righteous man, nor is it pious to plot against righteous rulers.
27 He who is careful to utter a harsh word is discreet,
and a patient man is sensible.
28 Wisdom will be imputed to a silly person who asks after wisdom,
but someone who keeps himself speechless will seem to be sensible.

18 A man who wishes to separate from friends is looking for excuses, but he will be liable to reproach at all times.

2 A person lacking in sense feels no need for
wisdom,
for he is much more led by folly.
3 When the impious comes into a depth of evils, he shows contempt, but disgrace and reproach come upon
him.
4 A word in the heart of a man is deep water, and a river and a fountain of life spring
forth.
5 It is not good to respect the person of the
impious,
nor is it pious to pervert justice in
judgment.
6 A fool's lips bring him into troubles,
and his bold mouth calls upon death.
7 A fool's mouth is his ruin,
and his lips are a snare to his soul.
8 Fear casts down the timid, and the souls of the effeminate will suffer hunger.
9 He who does not cure himself by his labor is akin to him who injures himself.
10 The name of the Lord is of majestic
strength,
and the righteous, when they run to it,
are exalted.
11 The substance of a rich man is a strong city,
and its glory casts a huge shadow.
12 Before ruin a man's heart is exalted,
but before honor it is humble.
13 He who gives an answer before listening—it is folly and reproach to him.
14 A sensible attendant calms a man's anger,
but who can endure a faint-hearted man?
15 The heart of the sensible acquires
perception,
and the ears of the wise seek insight.
16 A person's gift gives him space and seats him among the powerful.

17 The righteous accuses himself in his introduction,
but when he attacks, the adversary is refuted.
18 Casting the lot puts an end to disputes and decides between the powerful.
19 A brother helped by a brother is like a fortified and lofty city and is as strong as a firmly founded palace.
20 With the fruits of his mouth a man fills his belly,
and with the fruits of his lips he will be satisfied.
21 Death and life are in the power of the
tongue,
and they who control it will eat its fruits.
22 He who has found a good wife has found favors
and has received cheerfulness from God.
22a He who rejects a good wife rejects the
good,
but he who keeps an adulteress is foolish and impious.

19 ³A man's folly corrupts his ways; yet in his heart he blames God.
4 Wealth adds many friends, but the poor is deserted even by the only friend he has.
5 A false witness will not go unpunished, and he who accuses unjustly will not escape.
6 Many render service to the persons of kings, but every evil one becomes a reproach to a man.
7 Every one who hates a poor brother will also be far from friendship.
Insight will draw near to them who know it,
and a prudent man will find it.
He who does much evil perfects wickedness, and he who uses provoking words will
not be saved.
8 He who procures prudence loves himself, and he who guards prudence will find
good.
9 A false witness will not go unpunished, and whosoever will kindle evil will perish
by it.
10 It is not fitting for a fool to have delights, nor if a domestic should begin to rule with hubris.
11 A merciful man is long-suffering, and his boast comes upon transgressors.
12 The threat of a king is like the roaring of a lion,
but as dew on grass, so is his cheerfulness.
13 A foolish son is a disgrace to his father, and vows from the price of a prostitute are not pure.
14 Fathers distribute house and substance to their children,

- but a woman is joined to a man by God.
 15 Timidity restrains the effeminate, and the soul of the idle will suffer
 hunger.
 16 He who keeps a commandment preserves his own soul,
 but he who despises his own ways will
 perish.
 17 He who has compassion on the poor lends to God,
 and he will repay him according to his
 gift.
 18 Discipline your son, for thus he will be hopeful,
 but do not be roused in your soul to hubris.
 19 A malicious man will be severely punished, and if he causes injury, he will even add his soul.
 20 My son, listen to the discipline of your
 father,
 that you may become wise for the future.
 21 There are many thoughts in a man's heart,
 but the counsel of the Lord remains
 forever.
 22 Compassion is a profit for a man, and a poor righteous person is better than a rich liar.
 23 The fear of the Lord becomes life for a man, and he who is without fear will stay in places
 where knowledge does not keep watch.
 24 He who unjustly hides his hands in his bosom
 will never ever bring them to his mouth.
 25 When a pestiferous person is being whipped, a fool will become more crafty,
 but if you reprove a prudent man, he will gain perception.
 26 He who disgraces his father and drives away his mother
 will be put to shame and will become rebuked.
 27 The son who stops keeping the discipline of his father
 will contemplate evil sayings.
 28 He who gives surety for a foolish child will insult what is deemed right, and the mouth of the impious will devour judgments.
 29 Lashes are prepared for the intemperate, and flogging for the backs of the foolish.
- 20 Wine is an intemperate thing, and strong drink is something insolent, and everyone who mixes with it will not
 be wise.
 2 The threat of a king does not differ from the rage of a lion,
 and he who provokes him sins against his
 own life.
 3 It is good repute for a man to refrain from strife,
 but every fool is entangled in such things.
 4 Though the lazy is reproached, he is not ashamed;
 likewise also to the one who borrows grain in harvest.
 5 The counsel in a man's heart is deep water,
 but a sensible man will extract it.
 6 Humankind is something great, and a compassionate man something precious,
 but to find a faithful man is a chore.
 7 He who dwells blameless in righteousness will leave his children happy.
 8 When a righteous king sits on his throne, he does not oppose anything wicked with his eyes.
 9 Who can boast that he keeps his heart pure?
 Or who can declare confidently that he is pure from sins?
 9a The lamp of one who curses father or mother will be extinguished, and the pupils of his eyes will see darkness.
 9b A portion quickly acquired at first will not be blessed in the end.
 9c Do not say: I will repay my enemy, but wait for the Lord that he may help
 you.
 10 A large and a small weight, and double measures,
 are impure in the eyes of the Lord—both
 of them,
 11 and he who makes these will be shackled
 by his practices.
 A young man in the company of a pious
 person—
 straight indeed will be his way.
 12 The ear hears, and the eye sees;
 both are works of the Lord.
 13 Do not love calumny, lest you be destroyed;
 open your eyes, and be filled with bread.
 23 An ambiguous weight is an abomination to
 the Lord,
 and a false balance is not a good thing
 before him.
 24 A man's steps are directed by the Lord, and a mortal—how could he understand his ways?
 25 Quickly to consecrate something of his own is a snare to a man,
 for after making a vow a change of mind
 can happen.
 26 A wise king is a winnow of the impious,
 and he will put a wheel on them.
 27 The light of the Lord is the breath of humans,
 he who searches the innermost parts of the belly.
 28 Compassion and truth are a guard to a king, and they will encircle his throne with
 righteousness.
 29 Wisdom is an ornament to young men, and grey hair the glory of the aged.
 30 Bruises and wounds befall evil men, and plagues in the innermost parts of the belly.

- 21 Like a stream of water, so is the heart of a king in God's hand.
Wherever he decides to turn it, thither he inclines it.
- 2 Every man seems righteous to himself; however, the Lord directs hearts.
- 3 To do right and to be truthful is more pleasing with God than blood of sacrifices.
- 4 An arrogant person is bold-hearted in hubris, and sin is the lamp of the impious.
- 6 He who obtains treasures by a lying tongue pursues vanity into the snares of death.
- 7 Ruin will be entertained by the impious, because they do not want to do what is just.
- 8 To the crooked God sends crooked ways, for his works are pure and upright.
- 9 It is better to live in a corner in the open than in plastered quarters and in a shared^a house with injustice.
- 10 The soul of the impious will not receive compassion from anybody.
- 11 When the intemperate is punished, the innocent becomes more wily, but a wise man understands he will gain knowledge.
- 12 A righteous person understands the heart of the impious and despises the impious because of their evil.
- 13 He who blocks his ears so as not to hear the weak will himself also call, and there will be nobody who listens.
- 14 A secret gift averts anger, but he who is sparing with gifts arouses fierce wrath.
- 15 It is a joy to the righteous to do justice, but according to evildoers a devout person is impure.
- 16 A man who strays from the path of righteousness will rest in the gathering of giants.
- 17 A needy man loves joy; he likes wine and oil in abundance.
- 18 And a lawless person is the refuse of a righteous one.
- 19 It is better to live in a desert land than with a quarrelsome and talkative and irritable wife.
- 20 A desirable treasure will rest in the mouth of the wise, but foolish men will swallow it.
- 21 A way of righteousness and compassion will find life and honor.
- 22 A wise person attacked strong cities and demolished the strongholds in which the impious trusted.

- 23 He who guards his mouth and tongue keeps his soul out of trouble.
- 24 The bold and audacious and pretentious is called a pest, and he who contemplates evil is a transgressor of the law.
- 25 Desires kill the lazy, for his hands choose not to do anything.
- 26 The impious longs for wicked desires all day long, but the righteous has compassion and pity unsparingly.
- 27 The sacrifice of the impious is an abomination to the Lord, for they even offer them unlawfully.
- 28 A false witness will perish, but an obedient man will speak cautiously.
- 29 An impious man impudently resists with his face, but the upright—he understands his ways.
- 30 There is no wisdom; there is no counsel against the impious.
- 31 A horse is prepared for the day of battle, but assistance is from the Lord.

- 22 A good name is a better choice than great wealth, and good favor is above silver and gold.
- 2 The rich and the poor have encountered each other, but the Lord has made them both.
- 3 When the clever sees the wicked severely punished, he himself is being educated, but the fools passed by and were penalized.
- 4 The offspring of wisdom is the fear of the Lord as well as riches and honor and life.
- 5 Thorns and snares are in crooked ways, but he who guards his own soul will keep far from them.
- 7 The rich rule over the poor, but domestics will lend to their own masters.
- 8 He who sows what is cheap will reap what is bad and will complete the impact of his deeds.
- 8a God blesses a cheerful and generous man, but he will bring to an end the vanity of his deeds.
- 9 He who has compassion over the poor will himself be nourished, because he gave his own food to the poor.
- 9a He who hands out gifts secures victory and honor;

^ai.e. with a wife

moreover, he takes away the soul of those who have possessions.

10 Expel from the council an irritating person and strife will exit with him, for when he takes a seat in the council,
 he disgraces all.

11 The Lord loves devout hearts, and all the blameless are acceptable to
 him.
 A king herds with his lips.

12 Now the eyes of the Lord keep watch over
 perception,
 but the transgressor holds words cheap.

13 A lazy person makes excuses and says:
 "There is a lion on the roads and murderers in the streets!"

14 The mouth of the transgressor is a deep hole,
 and he who is hated by the Lord will fall into it.

14a There are bad ways before a man, and he prefers not to avoid them, even though he should avoid a crooked and bad way.

15 Folly clings to the heart of a young boy, but the rod and discipline are far away
 from him.

16 He who oppresses the needy makes many things his own,
 yet gives to the rich to make it less.

17 Incline your ear to the words of the wise,
 and hear my word,
 and apply your heart, that you may know that they are good.

18 And if you take them to heart, they will also give you pleasure on your
 lips

19 in order that your hope be upon the Lord and that he may reveal to you his way.

20 Now then, copy them for yourself three times over,
 for counsel and knowledge on the surface of your heart.

21 Therefore I teach you a true word and good knowledge to heed
 in order that you may answer words of truth to them who question you.

22 Do not treat the needy with violence, for he is poor,
 nor disgrace the weak at the gates.

23 For the Lord will judge his case, and you shall rescue your life inviolate.

24 Be no companion of a fierce man, nor associate with a passionate friend, lest you learn from his ways and take snares to your soul.

26 Do not give yourself as surety because you feel shame before a
 person;

27 for if you have nothing with which to pay, they will take the bed that is under your side.

28 Do not remove ancient borders which your fathers set up.

29 A man with vision and skilled in his work should serve before kings and should not serve slothful men.

23 If you sit down to eat at the table of rulers, observe carefully what has been set for
 you,

2 and extend your hand, since you know that you will have to prepare such things.

3 And if you are rather insatiate, do not desire his delicacies,
 for these pertain to a fake life.

4 If you are poor, do not measure yourself with the rich,
 but be restrained by your own insight.

5 If you set your eyes upon him, he will disappear totally,
 for he has been equipped with wings as
 of an eagle
 and he returns to the house of his master.

6 Do not dine with a malicious man, nor should you desire his food.

7 For in the same manner as one swallows a hair
 so he eats and drinks.

8 Do not bring him in to you, nor eat your morsel with him,
 for he will vomit it up and will spoil your noble words.

9 Say nothing in the ears of a fool, lest he despise your judicious words.

10 Do not relocate ancient borders, nor enter the possession of orphans,
 for the Lord who redeems them is strong and he will plead their case with you.

11 Give your heart to discipline, and prepare your ears for words of
 perception.

12 Do not refrain from disciplining a child, for if you beat him with a rod, he will not die;

14 for indeed you shall beat him with a rod and will rescue his soul from death.

15 My son, if your heart is wise,
 you will gladden my heart as well.

16 And your lips will hold conversation with my lips, if they are upright.

17 Let your heart not envy sinners, but be in the fear of the Lord throughout
 the day.

18 For if you keep these things you will have progeny,
 and your hope will not be removed.

19 Listen my son, and become wise, and direct the insight of your heart.

20 Be not a winebibber, nor prolong in shared meals or at the purchasing of meat.

21 For every drunkard and glutton will become poor,

and every sluggard will clothe himself with tatters and rags.

22 Listen, my son, to your father who begot
you,
and do not despise her when your mother gets old.

24 A righteous father raises well,
and his soul rejoices in his wise son.

25 Let father and mother be glad over you,
and let her who bore you rejoice.

26 My son, give me your heart, and let your eyes observe my ways.

27 For a pierced cask is a strange house, and a strange well is narrow.

28 For it will quickly perish, and every transgressor will be destroyed.

29 Who has woe? Who has trouble? Who has strife?
Who has vexations and squabbles?
Who has wounds without reason?
Who has blood-shot eyes?
30 Are they not those who linger long over wine,
who frequent places where drinking takes place?
31 Do not get drunk from wine;
rather converse with righteous people,
and converse in public places;
for if you give your eyes to saucers and goblets,
you will afterwards walk around more naked than a pestle.

32 But finally he stretches himself out like one struck by a snake,
and venom is diffused in him as by a horned serpent.

33 When your eyes see a strange woman, then your mouth will speak perversely.

34 And you will lie as in the heart of the sea and like a navigator in a large wave.

35 Then you will say: "They struck me, but I felt no pain,
and they insulted me, but I did not realize it.
When will it be morning, that I may go and seek with whom I will go together?"

24 My son, do not envy wicked men, nor desire to be with them, 2 for their hearts contemplate lies and their lips utter trouble.

3 With wisdom a house is built,
and with understanding it is established.

4 With perception the storerooms are filled from all precious and beautiful riches.

5 The wise is better than the strong, and a man who has prudence than he who has a large field.

6 With strategic planning war is conducted,
and help with a counseled heart.

7 Wisdom and insight are to be found in the gates of the wise,
and the wise do not turn away from the mouth of the Lord.

8 But they caucus in the assemblies;
death meets the uninstructed, 9 and a fool dies by sin, and a pestilent man will be polluted by impurity
10 in an evil day and a day of affliction until he deceases.

11 Rescue them who are led to death, and buy back those who are to be slaughtered; do not delay!

12 If you say: "I do not know this person," be aware that the Lord is familiar with the heart of everyone,
and he who formed breath for all, he knows
everything,
he who will render to each according to his deeds.

13 My son, eat honey, for the honeycomb is
good,
that your palate may be sweetened.

14 Thus you shall perceive wisdom with your
soul,
for if you find it, your end will be good and hope will not forsake you.

15 Do not lead the impious to the pastures of
the righteous;
also do not be misled by a full stomach.

16 For the righteous may fall seven times, but he will rise again,
but the impious will be powerless in evil.

17 If your enemy falls, do not rejoice over him, nor be elated by his stumbling;

18 for the Lord will observe it, and it will not please him,
and he will turn away his anger from
him.

19 Do not rejoice over evildoers, nor envy sinners.

20 For progeny of the wicked will not continue,
and the lamp of the impious will be
extinguished.

21 My son, fear God and the king, and disobey neither of them, 22 for they will unexpectedly punish the
impious
and who shall know their punishments?

22a A son who keeps the word will be far removed from destruction, for he received it willingly.

22b Let no falsehood be spoken to the king from the tongue,
and no falsehood will proceed from his
tongue.

22c The tongue of the king is a dagger and not of flesh,
and whoever is handed over will be
destroyed;
22d for if his anger is sharpened
it kills people with thongs, 22e and it devours the bones of people and consumes them like a flame so that they are not food for young eagles!

30 My son, fear my words, and repent when you receive them;
this is what the man says to those who believe in God:
Now I stop,
2 for I am the most foolish of all people and I have not the prudence of people.
3 God has taught me wisdom, and I have gained knowledge of holy
things.
4 Who has ascended to heaven and come
down?
Who has gathered the wind in his bosom?
Who has wrapped the water in his garment?
Who has taken control of all the ends of
the earth?
What is his name?
Or the name of his children that you may know them?
5 All divine words are tried by fire,
and he himself shields those who revere
him.
6 Do not add to his words,
lest he rebuke you and you become a liar.
7 Two things I ask of you;
do not remove my favor before I die.
8 Put far from me a vain word and lies,
and give me neither riches nor poverty, but order what is necessary and sufficient for me,
9 lest I be filled and become a liar and say:
"Who sees me?"
Or lest I become poor and steal and swear by the name of God.
10 Do not deliver a domestic in the hands of a master,
lest he curse you and you vanish.
11 Wicked progeny curses its father and does not bless its mother.
12 Wicked progeny judges itself righteous but did not wash off its anus.
13 Wicked progeny has lofty eyes,
and it raises its eyebrows.
14 Wicked progeny has daggers for teeth and knives for molars in order to destroy and to consume the humble from the earth and their needy from among mankind.

24 ²³Now these things I also say to you who are wise, that you know them:

"It is not good to be in awe of a person in judgement." 24 He who says of the impious "He is
righteous"
will be cursed by peoples and be hateful to nations.
25 But those who rebuke will appear better, and a good blessing will come upon
them.
26 And they will kiss lips that answer good words.
27 Prepare your work for your departure, and be fully prepared for the field;
also follow behind me,
and you will rebuild your house.
28 Do not be a false witness against your fellow citizen,
nor overstate with your lips.
29 Do not say: "I will use him in the same way as he has used me,
and I will punish him for the injustice he did to me."
30 A foolish man is like a tilled field, and a person lacking sense is like a vineyard.
31 If you leave it alone, it will become barren and will be totally overrun by weeds and neglected,
and its stone fences will be broken
down.
32 Thereafter I repented;
I looked around in order to glean discipline.
33 I doze a little; then I slumber a little,
and I fold my arms over my breast a little.
34 But if this is what you do, poverty will come over you, when it advances, and want like a good courier.

30 ¹⁵The leech has three lovingly beloved daughters,
but these three did not satisfy her,
and the fourth was not pleased to say, "It is enough."
16 Hades and love of a woman and Tartarus and earth not filled with
water,
water and fire also will never say, "It suffices."
17 An eye that derides a father and scorns the old age of a mother—may ravens from the ravines peck it out, and may the young eagles devour it.
18 Now there are three things impossible for me to understand,
and with the fourth I am not familiar: 19 The tracks of a flying eagle and the ways of a snake on a rock and the paths of a ship passing through the

 sea
 and the ways of a man in his youth.

- 20 Such is the way of an adulterous woman who, when she has performed the act, will wash herself and say that she has done nothing improper.
- 21 Through three things the earth is shaken,
 and the fourth it is not able to bear:
 22 If a domestic becomes king and if a fool is filled with food, 23 also a female domestic if she throws out her mistress,
 and a hateful woman if she finds a good
 husband.
- 24 There are also four things on earth that are very small;
 yet they are wiser than the wise:
 25 The ants, which, though they are not strong,
 do prepare their food in summer;
 26 the hedgehogs are also not a strong species,
 who made their homes in the rocks; 27 the grasshopper is without a king;
 yet they march orderly at the command of one;
 28 and the lizard, though dependent on its hands and being easily caught, it lives in the king's fortresses.
- 29 There are indeed three things which move easily,
 and the fourth which walks well:
 30 a lion's whelp, strongest of the animals, which does not back-off nor fears any animal, 31 also a cock strutting courageously among the hens,
 and the he-goat leading the herd,
 and a king making a speech in a nation.
- 32 If you lose yourself in merriment and stretch out your hand in a fight, you will be disgraced.
- 33 Press out milk, and there will be butter, and if you squeeze nostrils, blood will come out,
 and if you extort words, quarrels and fights will ensue.

31 My words have been spoken by God, the oracular response of a king, whom his mother instructed.

- 2 What, my child, will you keep? What?
 Divine sayings.
 My firstborn, I speak to you, my son.
 What, child of my womb?
 What, child of my vows?
- 3 Do not give your wealth to women and your mind and life to remorse.
- 4 Do everything with counsel;
 drink wine with counsel.

- Those in power are wrathful,
 but let them not drink wine, 5 lest they drink and forget wisdom and will not be able to judge the powerless rightly.
- 6 Give strong drink to those who are in pain and wine to drink to those in sorrow, 7 that they may forget their poverty and not remember their labor any more.
- 8 Open your mouth with a divine word, and judge all fairly.
- 9 Open your mouth, and judge justly, and plead the cause of the poor and
 weak.

25 These are the miscellaneous systems of education of Salomon, which the friends of Hezekias, king of Judea, copied.

- 2 Divine glory conceals a matter,
 but the glory of a king honors action.
- 3 Heaven is high, and earth is deep,
 and a king's heart is unfathomable.
- 4 Strike the unrefined silver, and everything pure will be purified.
- 5 Cut off the impious from the presence of the king,
 and his throne will be established in
 righteousness.
- 6 Do not boast in front of the king;
 and do not linger in the places of rulers, for it is better that it be said to you: "Come to me"
 than to humiliate you in the presence of
 a ruler.
- What your eyes have seen say.
- 8 Do not get involved in a fight quickly in order that you may not regret it in the end.
- When your friend reproaches you,
 9 withdraw; do not show contempt,
 10 lest your friend reproach you and your quarrel and enmity will not end but will be tantamount to death.
- 10a Favor and friendship bring freedom;
 keep them for yourself, that you may not be subject to reproach, but guard your ways with fair dealing.
- 11 As an apple of gold in a necklace of Sardian
 stone,
 so it is to speak a word.
- 12 A costly Sardian stone is fastened to a golden earring—
 a wise word to an obedient ear!
- 13 As snowfall during harvest is beneficial against the heat,
 so is a faithful messenger to those who sent him,
 for he benefits the souls of those who make use of him.
- 14 As winds and clouds and rains are exceedingly apparent,
 so are they who boast over a false gift.

- 15 With patience a king has a safe journey, and a soft tongue breaks bones.
- 16 If you find honey eat just enough, lest you be sated and vomit.
- 17 Lead your foot sparingly to your own friend, lest he get too much of you and hate you.
- 18 Pointed is a nail and a dagger and an arrow;
so also is a man who bears false witness against his friend.
- 19 The ways of an evil person and the foot of a transgressor
will be destroyed in an evil day.
- 20 As vinegar is harmful to a wound, so a calamity that befalls the body pains
the heart.
- 20a As a moth is to a garment and a worm is to wood,
so a man's pain hurts the heart.
- 21 If your enemy is hungry, nourish him;
if he is thirsty, give him to drink.
- 22 For by doing this you will heap coals of fire
on his head,
and the Lord will reward you with good
things.
- 23 The north wind raises clouds, and an impudent face provokes the
tongue.
- 24 It is better to live in the corner of a room than with an abusive wife in a shared^a
house.
- 25 As cold water is soothing to a thirsty soul,
so is good news from a far away land.
- 26 Just as, if one should block a fountain and destroy an outlet of water, so it is unseemly that a righteous person fall before the impious.
- 27 It is not good to eat much honey, but it is necessary to honor notable
words.
- 28 As a city is with its walls cast down and unfortified,
so is a man who does everything without counsel.
- 26 Like dew in harvest and like rain in summer,
so honor is impossible to the fool.
- 2 As birds fly—and sparrows, so a vain curse will not come upon anyone.
- 3 Like a whip for a horse and a goad for a donkey,
so is the rod for a lawless nation.
- 4 Do not answer a fool in accordance with his folly,
lest you become like him.
- 5 But answer a fool according to his folly, lest he appear to be wise to himself.
- 6 He who sends a message through a foolish messenger,
from his own feet he will imbibe
reproach.
- 7 As it is to take away traveling from legs,
so is a proverb from the mouth of fools.
- 8 He who ties down a stone in a sling is like him who gives glory to a fool.
- 9 Thorns grow in the hand of the drunkard, and slavery in the hand of fools.
- 10 All flesh of fools is much exposed to winter cold,
for their trance is being shattered.
- 11 Like a dog, when he returns to his vomit,
also becomes the more hated,
so is a fool, when by his own wickedness,
he returns to his own sin.
- 11a There is a sense of shame that leads to sin, and there is a sense of shame that is glory
and grace.
- 12 I have seen a man who thought himself to
be wise,
but there is more hope for a fool than for
him.
- 13 A lazy person being sent on a journey says:
"There is a lion on the road."
- 14 As a door turns on its socket, so is a lazy person on his couch.
- 15 When a lazy person hides his hand in his bosom,
he will not be able to bring it to his
mouth.
- 16 A lazy person to himself seems wiser than he who, with satisfaction, returns a message.
- 17 Like one grabbing a dog's tail, so is he who champions a cause not his own.
- 18 As those who are being treated propound tales to people
and he who encounters the tale will be the first to be tripped up,
so are all who trick their own friends,
and when they are discovered, they say: "I did it in jest."
- 20 With much wood a fire is fueled, but where there is no agitator strife ceases.
- 21 A hearth is for coals, and wood for fire,
and an abusive man is for stirring up strife.
- 22 The words of knaves are soft, but they strike into the deepest of one's inwards.
- 23 Silver given with deceit must be considered
like a potsherd;
smooth lips conceal a heart that causes sorrow.
- 24 A weeping enemy consents to everything with his lips,
but in his heart he devises deceit.
- 25 If an enemy begs you with a loud voice, do not be convinced,
for there are seven iniquities in his soul.
- 26 He who conceals enmity contrives deceit, but he exposes his own sins, being well-known in the councils.

^ai.e. with a wife

27 He who digs a hole for his neighbor will fall into it, and he who rolls a stone rolls it on himself.
28 A false tongue hates truth,
and an unguarded mouth works instability.

27 Do not boast about tomorrow, for you do not know what the next day will bear.

2 Let someone near to you praise you and not your mouth,
a stranger, and not your lips.
3 A stone is heavy and sand is weighty,
but the rage of a fool is heavier than both.
4 Wrath is merciless and anger is passionate,
but jealousy can bear no one.
5 Better is open rebuke than hidden love.
6 More trustworthy are the wounds of a friend than the spontaneous kisses of an enemy.
7 A soul in plenitude scorns honeycombs, but to the needy soul even bitter things appear sweet.
8 Like when a bird flies down from its nest, so a person becomes a slave when he is driven from his own place.
9 With ointments and wines and perfumes the heart is delighted,
but through misfortunes the soul is torn to pieces.
10 Do not forsake your friend nor the friend of your father, and do not go to the house of your brother when you have bad luck.
A friend nearby is better than a brother who lives far away.
11 My son, be wise that my heart may be gladdened, and remove from you reproachable words.
12 When evils approached, a clever person hid,
but fools proceed and will pay the penalty.
13 Remove his garment, for he passed by—an insolent person who destroys what belongs to others.
14 Whoever blesses a friend early in the morning with a loud voice will seem not to be different from one who is cursing.
15 Drops on a rainy day drive a person from his house, likewise also an abusive wife, from his very own house.
16 The north wind is a harsh wind, even though it is called by an auspicious name.
17 Iron sharpens iron,
and one man spurs on the person of his fellow.
18 He who plants a fig tree will eat its fruit, and he who guards his own master will be honored.

19 As faces are not similar to other faces,
so neither the hearts of people.
20 Hades and destruction are never satisfied;
likewise insatiable are the eyes of people.
20a An abomination to the Lord is a person who fixates his eye, also the uneducated, unable to control their tongue.
21 Burning is a test for silver and gold, but a man is tested by the mouth of them who praise him.
21a The heart of a lawless person seeks out evil,
but an upright heart seeks out knowledge.
22 If you beat a fool when he is disgraced in the council, you will never remove his folly.
23 You shall know well the souls of your flock,
and you shall fasten your heart to your herds, 24 for a man's power and strength do not last forever;
neither can he transmit it from one generation to another.
25 Take care of the greens on the plain, and you will cut grass;
also gather the fodder from the hills, 26 that you may have sheep for clothing.
Value a plain that you may have lambs.
27 My son, you have sayings from me powerful for your life and for the life of your attendants.

28 The impious flees when no one is pursuing,
but the righteous is confident like a lion.
2 By the sin of the impious disputes arise,
but a clever man will quell them.
3 A bold man blackmails the poor with impious acts.
Like a violent and useless rain, 4 so those who forsake the law praise impiety, but those who love the law build a wall around themselves.
5 Evil men will not consider judgment,
but those who seek the Lord will understand in everything.
6 Better is a poor person who walks in truth than a rich liar.
7 An intelligent son keeps the law,
but he who feeds debauchery disgraces his father.
8 He who increases his wealth with interest and excess gathers it for him who has empathy for the poor.
9 He who turns away his ear not to listen to the law—
he too has made his prayer abominable.

10 He who misleads the upright into an evil way will himself fall into destruction.
And the lawless will pass through good things but will not enter into them.

11 A rich man is wise in his own eyes,
but an intelligent poor person will see through him.

12 For helping the righteous there is great honor,
but in the places of the impious people are trapped.

13 He who conceals his own impiety will not prosper,
but he who expounds reproofs will be loved.

14 Happy is the man who reveres everything with discretion, but he who is hard of heart will fall into evil.

15 A hungry lion and a thirsty wolf is he who rules a needy nation while he himself is poor.

16 A king deficient in revenues is a great swindler, but he who hates injustice will live for a long time.

17 He who acts as surety for a man charged with murder will be a fugitive but not in safety.

17a Instruct a son, and he will love you,
and he will give your soul an ornament.
You shall not obey a lawless nation.

18 He who walks righteously has been helped,
but he who walks in crooked ways will get entangled.

19 He who tills his own land will have plenty of bread,
but he who pursues idleness will have plenty of need.

20 A trustworthy man will be much praised,
but the evil will not go unpunished.

21 He who does not feel shame before the person of the righteous is not good;
such a person will hand over a man for a piece of bread.

22 An envious man is in a hurry to get rich and he does not know that one who is merciful will prevail over him.

23 He who rebukes the ways of man will have greater favor than he who has a flattering tongue.

24 He who rejects father and mother and thinks that he does not sin, he is indeed the partner of an impious man.

25 A greedy man judges rashly,
but he who trusts in the Lord will be attentive.

26 He who trusts in a bold heart, such a one is a fool,

but he who walks in wisdom will be saved.

27 He who gives to the poor will not have want, but he who turns a blind eye will be in dire straits.

28 In the places of the impious the righteous groan, but by the destruction of them the righteous will be multiplied.

29 A man who reproves is better than a stubborn man, for, when he is suddenly set on fire, there is no healing.

2 When the righteous are praised, the people will rejoice, but when the impious rule, men groan.

3 When a man loves wisdom, his father is glad,
but he who cherishes prostitutes will squander wealth.

4 A righteous king raises up a land, but a lawless man undermines it.

5 He who prepares a net before the face of his own friend spreads it for his own feet.

6 For a man who sins there is a great snare, but a righteous person will have joy and mirth.

7 The righteous knows how to judge for the needy,
but the impious will not understand knowledge,
and the poor person does not have a discriminating mind.

8 Pestilent men set a city aflame, but the wise turned away wrath.

9 A wise man judges nations, but when a worthless man is angry he ridicules and has no fear.

10 Men who are partakers in bloodshed will hate the devout, but the upright will seek out his soul.

11 A fool declares his whole anger, but the wise reserves it in part.

12 When a king listens to an unjust word,
all under him are lawless.

13 When creditor and debtor meet each other,
the Lord makes an inspection of both.

14 If a king judges the poor with truthfulness, his throne will be established as a testimony.

15 Blows and reproofs bring wisdom,
but a boy going astray disgraces his parents.

16 When the impious multiply, sins become many,
but when these stumble, the righteous become cautious.

17 Instruct your son, and he will give you rest,
and he will give your soul an ornament.

18 A lawless nation has no interpreter, but he who keeps the law is most happy.

- 19 A stubborn domestic will not be instructed by words,
for even if he understands, he will nonetheless not obey.
- 20 If you see a man hasty in speech, be sure there is more hope for a fool than
for him.
- 21 He who lives luxuriously from his childhood will be a domestic,
but in the end he will be grieved over
himself.
- 22 A passionate man digs up strife,
and a quick-tempered man digs out sins.
- 23 Pride humbles a man,
but the Lord supports the humble-minded with glory.
- 24 He who shares with a thief hates his own
soul,
and if, having heard an oath proposed,
they do not disclose it, since they were afraid and felt shame before
people,
they were tripped up.
But the one who trusts in the Lord will be gladdened.
- Impiety gives a man a stumble, but he who trusts in his master will be saved.
- 26 Many show deference to the persons of leaders,
but from the Lord a man obtains that which is right.
- 27 An unjust man is an abomination to the
righteous,
and the direct way is an abomination to the lawless.

[30.1–14 precedes 24.23 and 30.15–31.9 follows 24.34]

- 31 ¹⁰Who can find a courageous wife?
Yes, such a one is more precious than valuable jewels.
- 11 The heart of her husband is confident about her,
such a one will have no need of good spoils,
12 for she toils for the benefit of her husband
all her life.
- 13 After spinning wool and flax,
she made it useful with her hands.
- 14 She became like a ship that sails from afar,
and it is she who gathers a livelihood.

- 15 And she got up in the night and supplied food for her household and work for her attendants.
- 16 After considering a field, she bought it, and with the fruits of her hands she planted the purchase.
- 17 After strongly girding her loins,
she strengthened her arms for work.
- 18 She experienced that it was good to work, and her lamp is not extinguished the whole night.
- 19 She extends her forearms to what is profitable,
and she strengthens her hands at the spindle.
- 20 And she opens her hands to the needy and reaches out her fruit to the poor.
- 21 Her husband has no concern for his household,
when he spends time somewhere,
for all that are hers are being clothed.
- 22 She duplicated cloaks for her husband, and for herself clothes of fine linen and purple.
- 23 And her husband is admired in the gates, when he sits in the council with elderly inhabitants of the land.
- 24 She made linen garments and sold them,
and girdles for the Chananites.
- 25 She opened her mouth cautiously and legitimately
and reined in her tongue.
- 26 She is clothed in strength and dignity,
and she was happy in her last days.
- 27 The way she ran her household was careful,
and she did not eat the bread of idleness.
- 28 And she opens her mouth wisely and lawfully,
and her compassion built up her children, and they became rich, and her husband praised her:
- 29 “Many daughters have obtained wealth;
many did mighty things, but you, you have surpassed and transcended all.”
- 30 Allurements are false, and the beauty of a woman is vain,
but an intelligent woman is spoken well
of;
yes, let her praise the fear of the Lord.
- 31 Give her of the fruits of her hands, and let her husband be praised in the gates!

ECCLESIAST TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation is based on the edition of Alfred Rahlfs (Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes, 2 vols. [Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935]), since at present no fully critical text is available, though one is in progress.

In one case I have deviated from Rahlfs' edition. In 1.17 Rahlfs has παραβολάς ("comparisons," "analogies," or "parables"), a reading supported by all Greek manuscripts (La = errores = α', cf. Vulg.). This is contrary, however, to the translation technique of the Greek translator. The Hebrew word being translated in 1.17 is הוֹלָל וְהָ ("madness"). This is rendered by περιφορά in 2.12 and 7.25 and also by περιφέρεια, a cognate noun, in 9.3. Similarly, הוֹלָל וְהָ ("madness") is rendered by περιφέρεια in 10.13 and הוֹלָל ("mad") by περιφορά in 2.2. Conversely, the Greek translator uses παραβολή for the only occurrence of בִּשְׁוֹל ("comparison," "proverb") in 12.9. Therefore, the original text at 1.17 was probably περιφοράς for which παραβολάς represents an error of hearing and sight occurring so early that it dominated the textual tradition that has come down to us. Earlier proposals are περιφοράν (Grabe) and παραφοράς (R. Gordis, "Ecclesiastes 1.17—Its Text and Interpretation," JBL 56 (1937) 323–330 = θ' 248^{mg}).

TITLE OF THE BOOK

The title for this book in NETS requires some explanation. In the English versions it is called "Ecclesiastes," a title adopted from the Latin Vulgate and derived originally from the Greek Ἐκκλησιαστής. The title in Hebrew reads "The Words of Qoheleth, the son of David, king in Jerusalem," or just "Qoheleth" (Eccl 1.1). "Qoheleth" occurs only seven times in the book and nowhere else in the canonical Hebrew writings. It may be construed as a feminine singular active participle of the verb לָקַד, which has the basic meaning of "assembling." Analogous forms are found in the list of the "Servants of Solomon" in Ezra and Nehemiah to designate public officials. For example, "Hassophereth" in Ezra 2.55 and Nehemiah 7.57 may mean "Official Scribe," and "Pokereth-Hazzebaim" in Ezra 2.55 and Nehemiah 7.59 may mean "Gazelle-Warden." If this analysis is correct, Qoheleth could perhaps designate the "Officer of the Qahal" or "Master of Ceremonies of the Assembly," a role similar to the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The Greek translator related this term to the noun ἐκκλησία, "assembly" and translated rather than transliterated the word by an agent noun in Greek which means "one who participates in a popular assembly." Jerome interpreted this in Latin by the use of the term concionator, or "speaker before an assembly," a meaning unattested in Greek prior to the Greek translation. It was from this meaning that the English concept of "Preacher" was derived. The English equivalent used here is Ecclesiast. Since the term is known in English, it is spelled here accordingly, though its intended meaning is "member of an assembly."

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

The Greek translation of Ecclesiast is characterised by extreme formal equivalence, so much so that scholars have suggested that it is the work of Aquila himself, a revisor of the Septuagint who flourished c. 120 CE.¹ While the identity of the translator is still uncertain and undetermined according to the most recent research, the character of the translation reveals that in fact some patterns are identical to those considered classical Aquila, while others are clearly not Aquila.

The approach of the translator to his task is one where faithfulness is defined and measured by the degree of quantitative alignment between Greek translation and Hebrew original. As a result, the text is dif-

¹ This is not an appropriate forum to debate whether or not Ecclesiast represents the work of Aquila either as an early edition or an edition in final form, and in any case the most recent research suggests the verdict is non liquet. See John Jarick, "Aquila's Koheleth," Textus 15 (1990) 131–139 and bibliography in his footnotes for earlier contributions to the debate.

difficult to read in places and almost incomprehensible at times from the point of view of the native speaker of Hellenistic Greek who had no knowledge of or recourse to the source text. The attempt of the translator to align his translation with the source language and text affects both lexical and syntactic choices in Greek. Choosing the same lexeme in Greek for every occurrence of a particular lexeme in the Hebrew regardless of the contextual meaning results in a high degree of stereotyping. Few calques or isolate renderings, however, are to be found. Like Aquila, then, consistency and uniformity in Hebrew-Greek equivalents is extremely rigid. Unlike Aquila, however, we do not see a set of Hebrew-Greek equivalents that is so highly refined and specialized that distinct equivalents are employed for each Hebrew lexeme, nor does the translator attempt to represent the root system of Hebrew by forming a set of equivalents from a single Greek stem to be used for nouns and verbs derived from a single root. Even more than in lexical equivalents, it is in the morpho-syntactic structures that the attempt to align the Greek and the Hebrew is most apparent and also where the results are so awkward or even absurd. One obvious and outstanding example is the rendering of וַיִּשָׂא by σύν (1.14; 2.12, 17, 18; 3.10, 11*bis*, 17*bis*; 4.1, 2, 3, 4*bis*, 15; 5.3, 6; 7.14, 15, 18, 26, 29; 8.8, 9, 15, 17*bis*; 9.1*bis*, 15; 10.19, 20; 11.5, 7; 12.9, 14).² That σύν is found with the dative in 9.11 is normal (σὺν παῶσι ἀὐτοῖς); that it is found, however, with the genitive (9.15) or accusative (rel.) to mark the direct object is contrary to Greek grammar. This characteristic may be further illustrated. In 2.1 וַיִּשָׂא וַיִּרְאֶה is rendered by καὶ ἰδεῖ ἐν ἀγαθῷ. The verb וַיִּרְאֶה followed by וַיִּשָׂא here is idiomatic, conveying the sense “to enjoy” (so NRSV). The Greek translator rigidly renders וַיִּרְאֶה by εἶδον and וַיִּשָׂא by ἐν. Contextually, “to see in good” makes no sense in Greek. Again, a construction article + πᾶς + noun normally contrasts the whole with the part.³ Yet in 3.17 כִּי־עַתָּה לְכָל־הַפֶּיַךְ is rendered ὅτι καιρὸς τῷ παντὶ πράγματι (cf. 3.1; 4.8, 16). The article τῷ is employed to represent the לְ; this effect creates difficulties for the Greek reader and skews the meaning of the Hebrew while attempting to represent it formally in all respects. Other cases are perhaps readable, but awkwardly so. Note, for example, that עַד אֲשֶׁר לֹא יִבְאוּ יְמֵי הַרְעָה in 12.1 is rendered by ἕως ὅτου μὴ ἔλθωσιν ἡμέραι τῆς κακίας. With the negative μὴ, the result is awkward but not necessarily impossible Greek. Elsewhere the rigid approach of the translator is carried off more cleverly. Hebrew וַיִּשָׂא (1.17; 2.1, 7, 8, 14, 15*bis*, 19, 21, 23, 23, 24, 26; 3.11; 4.4, 8*tris*, 11, 14, 16*bis*, 16; 5.9, 16, 18; 6.5, 9; 7.14, 21, 22*bis*; 8.10, 12, 14, 16; 9.1*bis*, 6*bis*, 12, 13; 10.20; 12.5) or וַיִּנָּח is (1.11; 3.13; 5.15; 6.3, 7; 7.6, 18; 8.17; 9.3, 11*tris*; 10.3; 11.2) is always rendered by καίγε except in a double translation in 7.22*b* where the equivalent is simply καί. Nonetheless, the equivalence וַיִּנָּח = καίγε, while illustrating the spirit of the Greek translator, is unlikely to have originated with him. Here the translator extends and perpetuates a tradition. Clearly, then, the Greek translator of Ecclesiast belongs to the so-called καίγε tradition of translators.

THE NETS TRANSLATION

An attempt has been made to capture and represent in the NETS translation something of the approach, characteristics, and spirit of the Greek translation. Naturally, English that is ungrammatical is avoided. Formal equivalence, however, is frequently given higher priority than idiomatic English.

In some cases, formal equivalence in the Greek vis-à-vis the Hebrew is possible or has been reproduced where the English would be ungrammatical. The representation of וַיִּשָׂא by σύν, for example, must be ignored in NETS. Another example is the frequent use of the independent pronoun אֲנִי in the Hebrew where the verb is already marked for first person, carefully reproduced by ἐγώ in the Greek translation (1.12, 6*bis*; 2.1, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15*tris*, 18*bis*, 20, 24; 3.17, 18; 4.1, 2, 4, 7, 8; 5.17; 7.25, 26; 8.12, 15; 9.16). This has only been represented in NETS in 1.12. In cases like 2.1, discussed earlier, no attempt is made to represent rigidly the preposition in Greek with its formal equivalent in the English language, even though that is what the Greek translator has done in order to represent the Hebrew exactly.

The attempt to follow a model of translation similar to that of the Greek translator has occasionally created clashes with the NRSV. For example, in 5.9 NRSV has a dynamic and idiomatic rendering of the Hebrew: “But all things considered, this is an advantage for a land: a king for a plowed field.” The Greek renders the same Hebrew in extreme literalism. The differences between NETS and NRSV are due partly to the fact that the Greek translation interprets the Hebrew differently but are also due partly to the fact that the literalism is reproduced in NETS.

Aligning NETS with NRSV has been difficult not only where NRSV is more dynamic than the Greek in rendering the same text. On occasion the gender inclusive language policy of NRSV must be abandoned

² 2.12 and 9.11 are included against Ra; see J. Ziegler, “Die Wiedergabe der nota accusativi ‘et, ‘aet- mit su/n,” ZAW 100 Sup (1988) 222–233. This, of course, does not affect the NETS translation.

³ F. Blass and A. Debrunner, A Greek Grammar of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature (9th–10th ed.; Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1961) § 275.7.

in order to represent the Greek faithfully. For example, according to the approach of the Greek translator, all 49 instances of אָנָשׁ are rendered by ἄνθρωπος and all 10 instances of אָנָּה are rendered by ἀνήρ. This translation technique enables the Greek reader to track the differences between אָנָשׁ and אָנָּה in the parent text. In NETS, while gender inclusive renderings may be maintained for ἄνθρωπος, ἀνήρ must be rendered by "man" in English, even when אָנָּה functions as an indefinite pronoun, in order to represent properly the work of the Greek translator. There are also instances where gender inclusive language has been achieved by converting generic masculine singular pronouns and verbs to common gender plural pronouns and verbs or by altering active constructions to passive. Sometimes this practice so alters the formal equivalence between NRSV and the Hebrew that the formal equivalence between the Greek and the Hebrew cannot be fairly represented this way. Ecclesiast 4.14 and 8.12 may illustrate the attempt in NETS to represent the exact way in which the Greek reproduces the Hebrew text.

EDITORIAL POLICY

While the Greek translator does not always read the beginning and ending of sentences or connections between clauses in the Hebrew in the same way as NRSV, in essence the same versification is used. Differences can be indicated by different grammar and punctuation.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

NETS is for the most part a fresh translation of the Greek adapted to NRSV. Occasionally, the translation of Brenton was consulted and found to be useful.

PETER J. GENTRY

1 The words of the Ecclesiast^a, son of Daud, king of Israel in Ierousalem.
2 Vanity of vanities, said the Ecclesiast, Vanity of vanities! All things are vanity.
3 What surplus exists for people in all their toil at which they toil under the sun?
4 A generation goes, and a generation comes,
and the earth stands forever.
5 The sun rises, and the sun goes down and draws along to its place.
6 When it rises there, it goes to the south and circles to the north.
It circles, going in circles—so^b proceeds the spirit^c,
and on its circuits the spirit^c returns.
7 All the wadis go to the sea, and the sea will not be full;
to the place where the wadis go,
there they turn back to go.
8 All words are ^dworn out^d;
a man will not be able to speak;
the eye will not be satisfied with seeing,
and the ear will not be filled with hearing.
9 What is that which has happened? It is that which will happen!
And what is that which has been done? It is that which will be done.
And there is nothing novel under the sun.
10 As for the person who will speak and say,
"See, this is new!"— it has already happened in the ages

that have been before us.
11 There is no remembrance of earlier people, indeed, of those born later—
there will not be a remembrance of them with those who will be born at the last.
12 I, the Ecclesiast, was king over Israel in Ie-rousaleam. ¹³And I applied my heart to seek out and to examine by wisdom concerning all things that happen under heaven, for an unhappy preoccupation^e God has given to human beings with which to be preoccupied. ¹⁴I saw all the deeds that have been done under the sun, and see, all are vanity and preference of spirit.
15 Something crooked will not be able to be set in order,
and what is lacking will not be able to be counted.
16 I spoke in my heart by saying, "As for me, see, I have become great and have added wisdom to all who were before me in Ierousalem, and my heart saw many things regarding wisdom and knowledge." ¹⁷And I applied my heart to know wisdom and knowledge; derangements and understanding I understood, that, indeed, this is preference of spirit.
18 For in a great quantity of wisdom is a great quantity of knowledge, and those who increase knowledge will increase suffering.

2 I said in my heart, "Come now; let me test you with enjoyment; see in good!" And see, indeed, this was vanity. ²Of laughter I said, "Madness," and of enjoyment, "Why are you doing this?" ³I looked about in my heart whether to draw my flesh into wine—and my heart guided in wisdom—and whether to lay hold on folly until I might see what kind of thing is good for human beings to do under the sun, the number of the days of their life. ⁴I made my work great; I built houses for myself; I planted vineyards for myself. ⁵I made myself gardens and parks, and I planted in them every fruit tree. ⁶I made myself pools of water to water from them a grove sprouting trees. ⁷I acquired male and female slaves, and I had homebred; indeed, I had great possessions of herds and flocks, more than all who had been before me in Jerusalem. ⁸I gathered for myself, indeed, silver and gold and valued possessions of kings and of the territories; I got male singers and female singers and the delights of human beings, a cupbearer and pitchers^a.

^aI.e. a member of an Assembly ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr wind ^dPossibly overworked ^eOr distraction

⁹ And I became great and increased more than all who were before me in Jerusalem; indeed, my wisdom stood firm for me. ¹⁰Anything for which my eyes begged, I did not take away from them; I did not hinder my heart from any enjoyment, because my heart rejoiced in all my toil and this was my portion from all my toil. ¹¹And I looked at all my works that my hands had done and at the toil wherein I toiled to do it^b and see, all were vanity and preference of spirit, and there is no surplus under the sun.

¹² And I looked to see wisdom and madness and folly, for who is the person who will come to follow the plan^c in as many things as he made it. ¹³And I saw that wisdom excels folly as light excels darkness.

¹⁴ As for the wise, their eyes are in their head, and the fool goes in darkness, and I know, indeed I, that one eventuality will befall them all. ¹⁵And I said in my heart, "As it befalls the fool, indeed, it will befall me, and why have I become wise?" I then spoke excessively in my heart, because a fool will speak from excess, that, indeed, this is vanity. ¹⁶For there is no remembrance ever of the wise with the fool, inasmuch as already the coming days, even all things, are forgotten, and how will the wise die with the fool? ¹⁷And I hated life, because the work that is done under the sun was grievous to me, for all things are vanity and preference of spirit.

¹⁸ I hated all my toil in which I am toiling under the sun, because I am leaving it to the person being born after me ¹⁹—and who knows whether he will be wise or foolish? And he will have authority over all my toil at which I toiled and became wise under the sun; indeed, this is vanity. ²⁰And I turned to bid farewell with my heart to all the toil at which I toiled under the sun. ²¹For there is a person whose toil is with wisdom and knowledge and manliness, and a person who did not toil at it: he will give him his portion; indeed, this is vanity and a great evil. ²²For what happens^d to mortals in all their toil and in the preference of their heart with which they toil under the sun? ²³For all their days are days^b of pains, and their preoccupation is of anger; indeed, at night their heart does not sleep. Indeed, this is vanity.

²⁴ ^eIt is not good in humans^e what they will eat and what they will drink and what they will show to their soul as good in their toil. Indeed, this, I saw, is from the hand of God. ²⁵For who will eat and who will refrain from eating^b apart from him? ²⁶For to the one who is good before him he gave wisdom and knowledge and enjoyment, and to the sinner he gave a preoccupation to add and to gather, to give to the one who is good before God, because, indeed, this is vanity and preference of spirit.

3 For everything there is a time, and a right time for every matter under heaven:

- ² a right time to give birth, and a right time to die;
- a right time to plant, and a right time to pluck up what is planted;
- ³ a right time to kill, and a right time to heal; a right time to tear down, and a right time to build;
- ⁴ a right time to weep, and a right time to laugh; a right time to mourn, and a right time to dance;
- ⁵ a right time to throw stones, and a right time to gather stones; a right time to embrace, and a right time to be far from embracing;
- ⁶ a right time to seek, and a right time to lose; a right time to keep, and a right time to throw away;
- ⁷ a right time to tear, and a right time to sew; a right time to keep silence, and a right time to speak;
- ⁸ a right time to love, and a right time to hate; a right time for war, and a right time for peace.

⁹ What surplus has the maker in what he toils? ¹⁰I saw all the preoccupation which God has given to humans to be preoccupied with. ¹¹He made everything fine in its right time; indeed, he granted eternity in their heart so that they should not find the work that God has done from the beginning even to the end. ¹²I know that there is ^fno good in them^f except to be glad and to do good in their life. ¹³Indeed, everyone who will eat and drink and should see good in their toil—it is a divine gift. ¹⁴I know that everything that God has done—it will be forever; to it there is nothing to add, and from it there is nothing to take away; God has done this so that all should stand in awe before him. ¹⁵That which happened, already is, and what is to happen, already took place, and God will seek out the one being pursued.

¹⁶ Moreover, I saw under the sun the place of justice—the impious was there, and the place of ^aPossibly female cupbearers ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr counsel humans than ^dPerhaps nothing better for them

^ePerhaps belongs ^ePerhaps There is nothing better in the righteous—the impious was there. ¹⁷I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the impious, for there is a right time for every matter and for every work. ¹⁸There I said in my heart concerning the speech of human beings, that God will discern them, indeed, to show even to them that they are cattle. ¹⁹For what befalls humans and what befalls cattle—one eventuality is for them; as the death of the one, so is the death of the other. They all have one spirit^a, and in what way did humans excel above cattle? Nothing, because all things are vanity. ²⁰All things go to one place; all things came from the dust, and all things return to the dust. ²¹And who knows the spirit of humans, whether it ascends upward, and the spirit of cattle, whether it descends downward to the earth? ²²And I saw that there is ^bno good^b except that people will enjoy themselves in their works, because that is their portion, for who will bring them to see whatever happens after them?

4 And I turned, and I saw all the extortions that take place under the sun. Look, the tear of the oppressed—and there is no one to comfort them! From the hand of those oppressing them is strength—and there is no one to comfort them. ²And I praised the dead, who have already died, more than the living who are living until now. ³And better than both is whoever has not yet been, who has not seen the grievous work that is done under the sun.

⁴ And I saw all toil and all manliness of work, that it is a man's envy of his companion. Indeed, this is vanity and preference of spirit.

⁵ Fools folded their hands and consumed their own flesh.

⁶ Better is a handful of repose than two handfuls of toil, and preference of spirit.

⁷ And I turned and saw vanity under the sun: ⁸there is one, and there is no second; indeed, he has neither son nor brother, and there is no end to all his toil; indeed, his eye is not satisfied with riches. "For whom do I toil and deprive my life from goodness?" Even this is vanity and an unhappy preoccupation.

⁹ Better are two than one, because they have a good reward in their toil. ¹⁰For if they fall, the one will raise his partner up, and woe to the one, when he falls, and there should be no second to raise him up. ¹¹Indeed, if two sleep, they also have warmth, and the one, how should he be warmed? ¹²Even if the one should prevail, two will stand against him. A threefold cord will not be quickly broken.

¹³ Better a child poor and wise than a king old and foolish, who did not know to give heed any longer; ¹⁴for from the house of prisoners he^c will come out to reign, for, indeed, in his kingdom he was born poor. ¹⁵I saw all the living, who were walking about under the sun, with the second youth, who will stand in his^d place. ¹⁶There is no end to all the people, to all who were born before them; indeed, those who came later will not rejoice in him, for, indeed, this is vanity and preference of spirit. ¹⁷(^{5.1})Guard your foot, whenever you go to the house of God and are near to hear. Above a gift of fools is your sacrifice, for they do not know how to do evil.

5 ⁽²⁾Never be in a hurry with your mouth, nor let your heart be quick to utter a word before God, for God is in heaven and you upon earth; therefore let your words be few.

²(³) For a dream comes with a great amount of distraction^e, and a fool's voice with a great quantity of words.

³(⁴) Whenever you make a vow to God, do not delay to fulfill it, for there is no will in fools. Whatever you vow, pay up. ⁴(⁵)It is better that you do not vow than that you vow and do not pay up. ⁵(⁶)Do not allow your mouth to lead your flesh into sin, and do not say before God, "It is ignorance," in order that God should not be angry at your utterance and destroy the works of your hands.

⁶(⁷) For with a great quantity of dreams are both vanities and many words; so fear God!

⁷(⁸) If you see in a territory the extortion of the poor and the snatching away of justice and right, do not be amazed at the matter, for there is a high one to watch over a high one and higher ones over them. ⁸(⁹)And the surplus of the land in everything is a king over the worked field.

⁹(¹⁰) One who loves money will not be satisfied with money. And who loved produce in a great quantity of them? Indeed, this is vanity.

¹⁰(¹¹) With an abundance of goodness, eaters of it were increased. And what is manliness to him who has it, except to see with his eyes?

¹¹(¹²) Sweet is the sleep of a slave, whether he eats little or much, and for the person filled full with being rich, there is no sending him away to sleep.

¹²(¹³) There is an illness that I saw under the sun: riches being kept by him who has them to his misfortune. ¹³(¹⁴)And those riches will be lost in an unhappy preoccupation, and he begot a child, and there is nothing in his hand. ¹⁴(¹⁵)Just as he came out from his mother's womb naked, he will return to go as he came, and he will not take anything for his toil that may go in his hand. ¹⁵(¹⁶)Indeed, this is a grievous ill: for as he arrived, so also he will go away, and what is his surplus, at which he toils for wind? ¹⁶(¹⁷)Indeed, all his days are in darkness and mourning, and with much anger and sickness and bitterness^f.

¹⁷(¹⁸) See what I saw as good, what is fine: to eat and to drink and to see goodness in all his toil at whatever he toils under the sun, the number of the days of his life which God gave to him, for this is his portion. ¹⁸(¹⁹)Indeed, all to whom God has given to them wealth and possessions and they have authority over them to eat from it and to take their portion and to enjoy themselves in their toil—this is a divine gift. ¹⁹(²⁰)For not in many respects will they remember the days of their lives, because God keeps them preoccupied with the merriment of their hearts.

^aPossibly breath ^bPerhaps nothing better ^cI.e. the child ^dI.e. the king's ^eOr preoccupation ^fOr resentment

6 There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, and it is great upon humankind: ²there is a man to whom God will give to him wealth and possessions and honor, and he is not lacking with respect to his soul from all things that he desires, and God does not give authority to him to eat from it, because a stranger will eat it. This is vanity and a grievous illness. ³If a man begets a hundred children and will live many years and a great number is what will be the days of his years and his soul will not be satisfied with goodness, indeed, he has no burial; I said: A miscarriage^a is better than he. ⁴For it came in vanity, and it goes in darkness, and in darkness its name will be covered; ⁵indeed, it did not see the sun and did not know; this one has more rest than he. ⁶Even if he lived recurrences of a thousand years and he did not see goodness—do not all things go to one place?

⁷ All toil of humankind is for their mouth; indeed, their soul will not be satisfied. ⁸For what surplus has the wise over the fool, since the needy knows to walk before life? ⁹Better is the sight of the eyes than going on spirit^b; indeed, this is vanity and preference of spirit.

¹⁰ If anything has happened, it has already been named, and it is known what human beings are, and they will not be able to dispute with those stronger than they. ¹¹For many words are multiplying vanity; what surplus has one? ¹²For who knows what is good for mortals in their life, the number of the days of their life of vanity, and they passed them in shadow? For who will tell them what will be after them under the sun?

7 A good name is better than good anointing-oil, and the day of death is better than the day of one's birth.

² It is better to go to a house of mourning than that to go to a house of drinking, because this is the end of everyone, and the living will give it to his heart.

³ Better is anger than laughter, for by a bad countenance the heart will be made good.

⁴ The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning, and the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.

⁵ It is better to hear the rebuke of the wise than a man hearing the song of fools.

⁶ For as the sound of thorns under a cauldron, so is the laughter of fools;
indeed, this is vanity.

⁷ For extortion turns a wise person mad, and it will destroy his heart of courage.

⁸ Better is the end of words than its beginning;
better is a patient person than one proud in spirit.

⁹ Do not be hasty in your spirit to become angry, for anger will rest^c in the bosom of fools.

¹⁰ Do not say, "Why did it happen that the former days were better than these?"
For it is not with wisdom you have asked concerning this.

¹¹ Wisdom is good with distribution of land^d,
and a surplus to those who see the sun.

¹² For wisdom, in its shade, is like the shade of money, and a surplus of knowledge of wisdom will give life to the one who has it.

¹³ Consider the works of God; who will be able to set in order whomever God has made crooked?

¹⁴ In a day of prosperity live in prosperity, and in a day of misfortune, consider; indeed, the one in proportion to the other God has made concerning speech so that mortals may not find anything after them.

¹⁵ I saw all things in my days of vanity; there are righteous people perishing in their righteousness, and there are impious people remaining in their wickedness. ¹⁶Do not be very righteous, and do not be excessively wise, lest you be horrified. ¹⁷Do not be very ungodly, and do not become hard so that you should not die when it is not your time. ¹⁸It is good that you hold on to the one; indeed, do not let your hand go from the other, for the one who fears God will go forth in all things.

¹⁹ Wisdom will give help to the wise more than ten having authority over those who are in the city.

²⁰ For as to humanity, there is not a just person in the earth who will do good and will not sin.

²¹ Indeed, to all the words that people will speak do not give your heart so that you do not hear your slave cursing you, ²²for frequently he will do you evil and many times he will bring hurt to your heart as, indeed, you have cursed others.

²³ All these things I tested by wisdom; I said, "I will become wise," ²⁴and it was far from me, far beyond what was, and a deep depth, who will find it? ²⁵I—in fact my heart—went full circle to know and to examine and seek wisdom and a reckoning and to know the folly of the impious and hardness and madness. ²⁶And I find more bitter than death the woman who is hunted prey, and her heart is hunting-nets; her hands are fetters; one who is good before God will be delivered from her, and one sinning will be taken by her. ²⁷See, this I found, said the Ecclesiast, adding one to one to find the calculation ²⁸which my soul still sought but did not find. One man from a thousand I found, and a woman among all these I did not find. ²⁹Albeit, see, this I found what God made:

^aOr premature stillbirth ^bI.e. courage ^cOr settle ^dPossibly inheritance man upright. And they themselves have searched out many schemes^a.

8 Who knows the wise?
And who knows the interpretation^b of what is said?
A person's wisdom will illuminate his face, and one without shame in his face will be hated.

2 Keep a king's utterance, and do not be hasty about the expression of a sacred oath. ³From his presence you will go; do not stand still because of painful words, for all that he wants he will do. ⁴Just as a king will speak having authority, and who will say to him, "What will you do?" ⁵Whoever keeps a command will not know anything harmful, and the heart of the wise knows the right time of decision. ⁶For to every matter there is a right time and decision, for the knowledge of mortals is great upon them. ⁷For they do not know what is going to be, for who will tell them just how it will be? ⁸There is no one having authority over the spirit to restrain the spirit, and there is no authority over the day of death; there is no discharge from the battle, and impiety will not deliver those at home with it. ⁹All this I observed, and I gave my heart to every work that is done under the sun—things that one person exercised authority over another to hurt them.

10 Then I saw the impious carried into tombs; they went from the holy place, and they were praised in the city that they did so. Indeed, this is vanity. ¹¹Because a refutation of those doing evil there does not happen quickly—on account of this the heart of humans was fully convinced in them to do evil. ¹²He who sinned did what was evil from then and from ^ca length to it; for, indeed, I know that it will be well with those who fear God so that they should fear before him, ¹³and it will not be well for the impious, and they will not prolong days in shadow who do not stand in fear before God.

14 There is a vanity that is done on earth, that there are righteous people that it overtakes them according to the work of the impious, and there are ungodly that it overtakes them according as the work of the righteous. I said that, indeed, this is vanity.

15 And I praised enjoyment, for there is ^dno good^d for people under the sun except to eat and to drink and to enjoy themselves, and this will be there with them in their toil through the days of their life that God has given to them under the sun.

16 When I gave my heart to know wisdom and to see the preoccupation that is done on earth, because, indeed, by day and by night there is no seeing sleep with one's eyes, ¹⁷then I saw all the works of God, that no one will be able to find out the work that is done under the sun; as much as one may toil to search out, he will not find; indeed, whatever the wise say they know, they will not be able to find it out.

9 For all this I gave to my heart, and my heart saw all this: how the righteous and the wise and their deeds^e are in the hand of God; indeed, love and, indeed, hate there is no person in the know; all things are before them; ²vanity is in all things. One eventuality is for the righteous and the impious, for the good and for the evil, for the clean and for the unclean, for the one who sacrifices and for the one who does not sacrifice. As are the good, so are the sinners; so are those who swear, just as those who fear an oath. ³This is an evil in all that is done under the sun, that one eventuality is for all. Indeed, the heart of humans was filled with evil; madness is in their heart while they live, and after them they go to the dead. ⁴For who are they who have a part with all the living? There is hope, because a living dog is better than a dead lion. ⁵For the living will know that they will die, and the dead are not knowing anything; they have no more reward, because their memory is forgotten. ⁶Indeed, their love and their hate and their jealousy have already perished, and they have no further portion forever in all that is done under the sun.

7 Go, eat your bread with enjoyment, and drink your wine with a good heart, for God has already approved your works. ⁸At every time let your garments be white; do let not oil be lacking upon your head. ⁹See life with the wife ^fwhom you loved^f, all the days of your life of vanity that are given to you under the sun—all your days of vanity, because it is your portion in your life and in your toil at which you toil under the sun. ¹⁰Whatever your hand finds to do, as is your might, do! For there is no work and reasonings and knowledge and wisdom in Hades, where you are going.

11 I turned, and I saw under the sun that the race is not to the nimble, nor the battle to the strong, nor, indeed, bread to the wise, nor, indeed, riches to the intelligent, nor, indeed, favor to those who are perceptive, because time and chance will happen to them all. ¹²For, indeed, no one knows their time. Like fish being taken with a pernicious net and like birds being caught in a snare, like them mortals are snared at a time of ruin, when it suddenly falls upon them.

13 Indeed, this I saw as wisdom under the sun, and it was great according to me. ¹⁴There was a little city and few men in it, and a great king would come against it and surround it and would build ^ha great palisaded camp^h against it, ¹⁵and he would find in it a poor wise man, and he himself will deliver the city by his wisdom. And no one remembered that poor man. ¹⁶And I said, "Better is wisdom than might, and the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not being heard."

¹⁷ The words of the wise in rest are heard above

^aOr reasonings ^bOr solution ^cPossibly a long time before ^dPerhaps nothing better ^eOr productions ^fPossibly with whom you made love ^gOr thought ^hPerhaps great siege works

the shouting of those exercising authority in follies.
18 Wisdom is better than instruments of war, and one sinner will destroy much good.

10 Deadly flies will make a preparation of aromatic oil give off a foul odor;
a little wisdom is of more worth than honor derived from great folly.
2 The heart of the wise is to his right, and the heart of the fool is to his left.
3 Indeed, when a fool walks on the road, his heart will be lacking,
and all he will consider is foolishness.
4 If the spirit of the one holding authority rises against you,
do not leave your place,
for healing will put a stop to great offenses.
5 There is an evil, which I saw under the sun, like an involuntary offense, which proceeded from the one in authority: ⁶a fool was allowed in great heights, and the rich will sit in a low place. ⁷I have seen slaves upon horses and rulers walking on the ground like slaves.
8 The one digging a hole will fall into it, and the one who demolishes a wall—a snake will bite him.
9 One who lifts stones will be hurt^a by them;
one who splits trees will be endangered by them.
10 If the iron tool fails^b, he himself has also troubled his face,
and he will put power into his efforts,
and the extra of being a man is skill.
11 If the snake bites when there is no whispering^c,
in fact there is no surplus to the charmer.
12 The words of the mouth of the wise are grace,
and the lips of the fool will plunge him into the sea.
13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness,
and the last of his speech is wicked
madness,
14 and the fool multiplies words.
No one knows what has happened,
and what will be after them who can tell
them?
15 The toil of fools will weary them—one who did not know how to go into the city.
16 Alas for you, O city, whose king is young,
and your rulers eat in the early morning!
17 Happy are you, O land, whose king is the son of freemen,
and your rulers at the proper time will eat ^din strength^d,
and they will not be ashamed.

18 Through hesitations the roofing will be debased^e,
and in idleness of hands the house will drip.
19 They make bread for laughter;
wine gladdens the living and will obey money in all respects.
20 Indeed, in your consciousness do not curse
the king,
and in your bedrooms do not curse the
rich,
for a bird of heaven will carry off your
voice,
and one having wings will bring back
word.

11 Send out your bread upon the face of the
water,
for in a great number of days you will find it.
2 Give a portion to seven, indeed, to eight,
for you do not know what bad condition will be upon the earth.
3 If the clouds are full of rain,
upon the earth they will pour out;
whether a tree falls to the south or to the
north,
in the place where the tree will fall, there it will be.
4 One who watches the wind will not sow,
and one who looks at the clouds will not reap.

5 When one does not know what the way of the spirit is, like bones in the belly of the pregnant woman, so you will not know the works of God, whatever he will do.

6 In the morning, sow your seed, and to the evening do not let your hand be slack, for you do not know what sort will fit, whether this or that and whether the two are good together.

7 Light is sweet, and it is good for the eyes to see the sun.

8 For even if a person will live many years, in them all he will be merry, and he will remember the days of darkness, because^f they will be many.
All that is coming is vanity.

9 Rejoice, young man, in your youth, and let your heart do you good in the days of your youth.
Walk in the ways of your heart and by the sight of your eyes, and know that for all these things God will bring you into judgment.

10 Put away anger from your heart, and divert pains^g from your body, for youth and lack of understanding are vanity.

12 Remember your creator in the days of your youth, before the days of trouble come and the years arrive in which you will say, "I have no wish for them." ²Before the sun and the light and the moon and the stars are darkened and the ^aPossibly worn out ^bOr becomes dilapidated ^ci.e. by a snake-charmer ^dPossibly with gusto ^ePossibly deteriorated ^fOr that ^gOr evil

clouds return after the rain; ³in the day when the guards of the house shake and the strong men are twisted, and the women who grind ceased working, because they are few, and those who look through the windows will be dimmed, ⁴and they will lock the doors in the market, because of the weakness of the sound of the woman who grinds, and one will rise up at the sound of the sparrow, and all the daughters of song will be brought low. ⁵Indeed, they will see from heights, and terrors will be in the road; when the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper becomes fat, and the caperberry is scattered, because mortals went to their eternal home, and the mourners circled in the market; ⁶before the cord of silver^a is ruined and the blossom of gold is crushed and the pitcher is broken at the fountain and the wheel at the cistern races together ⁷and the dust returns to the earth as it was and the spirit returns to the God who gave it. ⁸Vanity of vanities, said the Ecclesiast; all is vanity.

⁹Beyond the fact that the Ecclesiast was wise, he also taught the people knowledge, and an ear will track out an arrangement of parables. ¹⁰The Ecclesiast sought many ways to find the words he wanted, even something written of straightforwardness, words of truth.

¹¹The words of the wise are like ox-goads and like nails firmly planted; those from the collections were given from one ^bshepherd and a surplus of them. ¹²My son^b, beware of making many books; there is no end, and much study is a wearying of the flesh.

¹³The end of the message; all is heard. Fear God, and keep his commandments, for this is every person. ¹⁴For God will bring every work in judgment, in everything overlooked, whether good or whether evil.

^aOr money ^bPossibly shepherd. And beyond them, my son

SONG OF SONGS

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

This translation of the Song of Songs follows the critical Greek text provided in my study, Lost Keys: Text and Interpretation in Old Greek Song of Songs and its Earliest Manuscript Witnesses (Ph.D. Dissertation, University of Pennsylvania, 1996).¹ Apart from punctuation, this Greek text is substantially the same as that of Alfred Rahlfs' edition (Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes, 2 vols. [Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935]). Footnotes mark the points where the two texts vary.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General Character

Old Greek Song of Songs (hereafter, Greek Song) is a consistently literal (word-for-word) translation rather than a literary (sense-for-sense) translation. It is a formal-equivalence translation. Its register is very much that of a study aid to a text in another language. The Song of Songs is one of the Old Greek translations that most closely fits the paradigm of an interlinear translation, as the NETS project uses that term.²

In comparison with other Old Greek translations, Greek Song is among the most consistent in its interlinear representation of Hebrew.³ In trying to be completely faithful to its Hebrew source, Greek Song represents each separable piece (word or morpheme) of the Hebrew with a formal equivalent in Greek, and to the extent possible, it puts the Greek equivalents in the same order as the Hebrew originals.

In addition, the Greek translator very often translates atomistically rather than contextually. In other words, he or she (see below) tends to choose a Greek word whose meaning corresponds to the meaning (or a presumed etymological meaning) of the Hebrew word rather than to its meaning in the context. The translator occasionally brings a clever mastery of Greek vocabulary or even a flash of brilliance to the task but more often provides a wooden pony for understanding the Hebrew.

Unfortunately, a pony is often inadequate for this Hebrew text, which is figurative and polyvalent, often enigmatic and sometimes obscure. Very frequently the Hebrew uses words that are unique or rare, and some of these are unfamiliar to our translator. He guesses their meanings from context, from etymology,⁴ and from their use in other books. Sometimes he apparently coins new words, such as καλλιόω and καρδιόω (in 4.9–10) and ἐκλοχίζω (in 5.10). Sometimes he makes a Greek word serve as it was never meant to serve. When all else fails, he transliterates. He is so focused on formal fidelity to the original text and so committed to his interlinear approach that his translation is sometimes difficult to understand as Greek.

Hebrew Text and Vocalization

The presumed Hebrew Vorlage of Greek Song varies quantitatively from the Masoretic Text about 29 times.⁵ In addition, the Greek translator assumes a vocalization different from the traditional vocalization of the Masoretic Text about 23 times.⁶ We may give one example that long influenced other translations, such as the Vulgate. In five places (Song 1.2, 4; 4.10; 6.11; 7.13), the Hebrew word דָּדִים is rendered as if vocalized dadim ("breasts") instead of dodim ("loving"), which is the preferable reading found in the Masoretic Text.

¹ Available as UMI Microform 9628015 from UMI Dissertation Services.

² See Pietersma, "Paradigm."

³ It ranks with Ruth and Ecclesiast in its consistent representation of all elements of all Hebrew words without addition or subtraction, in its consistent representation of Hebrew words in the same order, and in its consistent representation of Hebrew words by the same stereotyped Greek words. For this analysis, see Chapter 2 of Benjamin G. Wright III, No Small Difference: Sirach's Relationship to its Hebrew Parent Text (SBLSCS 26; Atlanta, Georgia: Scholars Press, 1989).

⁴ Greek Song provides a translation based on a presumed etymology about 25 times, according to The Parallel Aligned Hebrew-Aramaic and Greek Texts of Jewish Scripture (Computer Assisted Tools for Septuagint Studies, at Hebrew University and The University of Pennsylvania, under the direction of Emanuel Tov).

⁵ The original translation was revised toward a changing Hebrew text several times, most famously in Origen's Hexapla. The evidence suggests at least five slightly different forms of the Hebrew text.

⁶ According to The Parallel Aligned Hebrew-Aramaic and Greek Texts of Jewish Scripture.

In a failure to understand the parallelism of 1.10, the rare word הָוֶה ("turn, plait") is translated as if it were הַיֶּהוּ ("turtledove"), which appears in 2.12. In 1.11, ὁμοιώματα ("images, likenesses") renders the same root, apparently read as הִאָּר ("appearance"). Reading שִׁימ ("and teeth") instead of שִׁי ("of the sleepers") made a very difficult passage (Song 7.10) less difficult.

Occasional odd readings in Greek Song may be attributed to dividing words differently from the Masoretic Text. In 5.14, for example, the Greek translator may have read מְעַלְפֵת ("encrusted") as מְעַל פֵּת ("on a piece"), rendered ἐπὶ λίθου ("on a . . . stone"). Word division may also serve in part to explain how the relatively simple מִן הַמִּדְבָּר ("from the desert") in 8.5 might turn into λελευκανθισμένη ("made white").⁷

Semantic Adequacy

The Greek translator sometimes had difficulty rendering the particularly large number of hapax legomena and other rare and obscure words in Hebrew Song of Songs. For example, he uses κοιλωμάτων to translate the obscure hapax legomenon, בָּהָר, (meaning uncertain) in 2.17. In 4.1 and 6.5, the root גָּלַשׁ ("go up, go down"), found nowhere else, is treated as if it were גָּלַה ("to uncover"). In 7.2, he renders the hapax חֲמוּקֵי ("turnings?") by ῥυθμοί ("rhythms, forms"), probably based on the context.

In Song 7.6, the Greek translator encountered the rare word רִהַט (elsewhere, "watering trough"; here, something like "tress"). He takes his cue from Aramaic רִהַט (= Heb. רוץ, "run") and translates using παραδρομή, a Greek word that usually means something like "a running beside or across, traversal, passage, attendant." Readers ever after have been left to guess what this isolate translation might mean in this context.

One of the more interesting renderings recurs in the adjuration formula in 2.7; 3.5; 5.8; 8.4. The Hebrew nouns (צִבְאוֹת, "female gazelles"; אֵילֵי וַת, "female deer"; שָׂדֵה, "field") resemble divine epithets (צִבְאוֹת, "hosts"; אֱלֹהִים, "gods, goddesses"; שֵׁדַי, "Shaddai") in an invocation of divine beings. The OG rendering, ἐν ταῖς δυνάμεσιν καὶ ἐν ταῖς ἰσχύσεσιν τοῦ ἀγροῦ ("by the powers and by the forces of the field") does little to tone down the implied polytheism.

Another recurring oddity of Greek Song is its translation of צִמְחָה ("veil") as σιωπήσις ("taciturnity") in 4.1, 3; 6.7. This rendering, which is not easy to understand contextually, seems to be based on misunderstanding the root of this rare noun to be צָמַח ("to silence").⁸

Semantic Leveling

Although Greek Song has a strong tendency to use the same Greek word to translate a given Hebrew word, it also occasionally shows a slight tendency to semantic leveling (that is, using the same Greek word to express more than one Hebrew word). Examples include ἐκλεκτός for בְּחֹרֶךְ in 5.15 and for בְּרֵהָ in 6.9, 10, and θάμβος for פֶּחַד in 3.8 and for אֵימָה in 6.4, 10.

Transliteration

At several points, we observe the last device of a desperate translator: the transliteration of an otherwise untranslatable term. In 4.1, an obscure hapax legomenon translated "courses" in NRSV is transliterated as θαλιπῶθ in 4.4. אֲהַלֹּת ("aloes") is transliterated αλωθ in 4.14.⁹ הַרְשִׁישׁ is transliterated θαρσ(ε)ῖς in 5.14.¹⁰ The word פֶּזָה ("refined gold") appears twice, transliterated φαζ in 5.11 and translated χρυσῶς ("gold") in 5.15.¹¹

Transliteration is an admirable course of action for proper names, but Αμιναδαβ (in 6.12 for נְדִיב עַמִּי, possibly "princely people") and Ναδαβ (in 7.2 for נְדִיב יָב, "noble") are transliterations where one might expect a translation instead. At four points, Greek Song uses translations where one might expect a transliterated name. In 2.1, τοῦ πεδίου ("the plain") translates the relatively rare term, הַשָּׂרֵן ("Sharon"). In 4.8, πίσσεως ("faithfulness") translates the rare אַמְנָה ("Amana") along etymological lines.¹² In 6.4, εὐδοκία ("goodwill") translates the relatively rare תִּרְצָה ("Tirzah") along etymological lines. Finally, in 7.5, θυγατρὸς πολλῶν ("daughter of many") translates בַּת־רַבִּים ("Bath-Rabbim").

⁷ See the commentaries.

⁸ Pace E. Blakeney, "A Note on the Word σιωπήσις: Canticles iv.1,3; vi.6," Expository Times 55 (1943–44) 138.

⁹ The Hebrew Bible contains only one other instance of the word אֲהַלֹּת, in Psalm 45.9 (= LXX 44.8), where it is translated σακτή.

¹⁰ The same transliteration is used for הַרְשִׁישׁ in Ezekiel 1.16 and Daniel (Theodotion) 10.6 (and for הַרְסִיתָ in Jeremiah 19.2).

¹¹ Perhaps it was transliterated in Song 5.11 because χρυσίου had just been used to translate בָּהָם.

¹² Compare Nehemiah 10.1 in MT = 2 Esdras 20.1 in LXX = Nehemiah 9.38 in NRSV.

Idioms

Idioms do not lend themselves easily to interlinear translation. For example, the idiomatic expression לך הָלַךְ (“it went”) in Song 2.11 becomes $\epsilon\pi\omicron\rho\epsilon\upsilon\theta\eta\ \acute{\epsilon}\alpha\upsilon\tau\acute{\omega}$ (“it went on its own”) and לִי אֵלֵךְ (“I will go”) in 4.6 is rendered $\rho\omicron\rho\epsilon\upsilon\sigma\omicron\mu\alpha\iota\ \acute{\epsilon}\mu\alpha\upsilon\tau\acute{\omega}$ (“I will go on my own”). Unlike the Greek rendering of the similar expression לך לך (“go!”) in Gen 12.1, Greek Song renders these idioms in interlinear mode.¹³ A similar idiom occurs in 1.8, where $\text{לֹא יָדַעְתָּ לָּךְ אִם יָדַעְתָּ}$ (“if you do not know”) is rendered $\acute{\epsilon}\alpha\nu\ \mu\eta\ \gamma\nu\omega\varsigma\ \sigma\epsilon\alpha\upsilon\tau\eta\nu$ (“if you do not know yourself”), which creates a misleading resonance with the ancient Greek adage, $\gamma\nu\omega\theta\iota\ \sigma\epsilon\alpha\upsilon\tau\acute{\omega}\nu$ (“Know yourself”).

Relation to Kaige Translations

Greek Song shares some family resemblances with the even more mechanical translational practices of the $\kappa\alpha\iota\gamma\epsilon$ group of translations identified by Barthélemy, but it does not exhibit all of the characteristics of the group. Like the $\kappa\alpha\iota\gamma\epsilon$ group, Greek Song (in 3.8; 8.11) translates כֻּלָּם (with the idiomatic meaning “each”) with the wooden $\acute{\alpha}\nu\eta\rho$ (“man”), instead of $\acute{\epsilon}\kappa\alpha\sigma\tau\omicron\varsigma$ (“each”), the more usual OG rendering for this meaning. Greek Song uses both $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \gamma\epsilon$ (“and indeed,” 1.16; 8.1) and adverbial $\pi\rho\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ (“as well,” 1.16; 7.14) as alternate, synonymous translations of both אֲפִלּוּ (“also, even”) and אֲפִלְּאֵי (“also”).¹⁴

Date

Greek Song may represent a transitional stage on the way to consistent $\kappa\alpha\iota\gamma\epsilon$ practice—or it may simply represent a partial acceptance of some of the principles of the $\kappa\alpha\iota\gamma\epsilon$ revisers. At any rate, its similarity to the $\kappa\alpha\iota\gamma\epsilon$ translators may suggest that it was created at a similar time, somewhere in the first century before or after the turn of the era. Some of the forms of Greek words may also suggest a time of translation after 100 BCE.¹⁵

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF SONG OF SONGS

General Approach

The purpose of NETS is to represent (to the extent possible) the original meaning of the Greek translation. Most of its ancient and medieval readers, scribes and interpreters found rather different meanings in it, but these are not our concern in the present work.

Our method takes the NRSV to represent the Hebrew text so that differences between NRSV and NETS often correspond to differences between Hebrew and Greek. However, similarities between NRSV and NETS can be misleading, because the NRSV sometimes follows the Greek text instead of the Masoretic Text. For example, the NRSV follows the Greek text at two points where the Masoretic Text contains nothing: namely, the last line of 3.1, and the third line of 8.2. The Masoretic Text contains these lines, not in these points, but in parallel passages (for 3.1 see 5.6; for 8.2 see 3.4).

Differences between NRSV and NETS can also be misleading. Many of the differences between NRSV and NETS result from the fact that the Greek gives a very literal, word-for-word translation and the NRSV gives a more contextual, meaning-for-meaning translation of the same text. I have attempted to preserve some contextual translations of the NRSV, except where the mechanical nature of the Greek would be misrepresented in the process. Because Greek Song is a mechanical and atomistic translation, this NETS translation is often deliberately mechanical and atomistic rather than contextual. As a result, the reader will no doubt find the NETS translation wooden and awkward in comparison to the NRSV. Wondering what a NETS passage means will be similar to the experience a reader would have with Greek Song.

I have often substituted words in the same semantic domain when the NRSV picks up a sense of the Hebrew that the Greek does not necessarily carry, except perhaps by connotation; e.g., NRSV has “make haste” for $\delta\rho\alpha\mu\omicron\upsilon\mu\epsilon\nu$ (NETS “run”) in 1.4 and for $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\gamma\epsilon$ (NETS “flee”) in 8.14.

For the sake of making literary echoes clearer, I have often provided translations used elsewhere in NETS. For example, in 5.7, I have translated $\theta\acute{\epsilon}\rho\iota\sigma\tau\rho\nu$ as “light summer garment,” to show a resonance with the same word in Gen 24.65 and 38.14. Within NETS Song, I have been able to give consistent ren-

¹³ As far as I can tell, Song 2.11 and 4.6 are the only times in the Septuagint corpus that a form of $\rho\omicron\rho\epsilon\upsilon\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ is followed by a reflexive pronoun.

¹⁴ For more on the relation to the $\kappa\alpha\iota\gamma\epsilon$ group, see chapter 2 of Treat, Lost Keys.

¹⁵ Forms that may suggest a date after 100 BCE include $\tau\alpha\mu\epsilon\iota\omicron\nu$ (1.4; 3.4; 8.2), $\lambda\epsilon\lambda\omicron\upsilon\sigma\mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu\alpha\iota$ (in 5.12), and $\acute{\epsilon}\chi\theta\upsilon\delta\epsilon\nu\acute{\omega}\sigma\omicron\upsilon\sigma\iota\nu$ (in 8.1, 7). For more details on dating, consult chapter 2 of Treat, Lost Keys.

derings for certain Greek words; for example, ὄρος is consistently translated as “mountain”; καί γε as “and indeed”; adverbial πρὸς as “as well”; and δυνατοί (translating גִּבּוֹרִים) as “mighty men.”

Articles, Simple Conjunctions and Prepositions

In several cases, the presence or absence of articles, simple conjunctions and common prepositions is governed by English usage or by an attempt to follow a contextual translation of the NRSV, rather than an effort to show presence or absence in Greek or to show differences between Hebrew and Greek.

A frequent case deserves mention. In Hebrew the first noun of a “construct” (shmikhut) expression does not have an article; for example, שִׁיר הַשִּׁירִים, literally, “song of the songs.” Following his Hebrew model, the translator of the OG does not use an article for the first noun, even when good Greek usage would call for an article. The NETS translation retains this article only in cases where the English seems to require it; for example, “the fragrance of your anointing oils” (1.3, 4).

Selected Words and Phrases

Greek Song, because it represents the Hebrew mechanically, often feels awkward or strange. For example, in Song 2.2, בָּנוֹת (“the daughters”) is translated literally as τῶν θυγατέρων (“the daughters”), but the NRSV translation “maidens” fits the context better. In Song 7.9, the NRSV translates רִיחַ אֶפְרַיִם contextually and metonymically: “and the scent of your breath.” Greek Song translates mechanically: καὶ ὀσμὴ ῥίνος σου (“and your nose’s fragrance”). Similarly and even less fittingly, in 7.5(4) where אֶרֶץ is likened to a tower, Greek Song insists on μυκτῆρ (“nostril”).

One of the least felicitous renderings in the book occurs in 4.9c, where we read: ἐν μιᾷ, ἐνθέματι τραχήλων σου. This line is a mechanically atomistic translation of Hebrew,¹⁶ at the sacrifice of a translation that easily makes sense in Greek. First, the feminine μιᾷ (“one”) leaves the reader to wonder what feminine Greek substantive might be implied—certainly not the neuter ἐνθέματι. Then, the use of the word ἐνθεμα (“thing put in or on,” often understood by early exegetes either contextually as “ornament” or allegorically as “yoke”) is no easier to understand. Finally, the Greek translates צַוּרִים (a hapax legomenon, apparently meaning “necklaces”) as if it were צַוּרִים (“neck”), the plural of צַוּר (“neck”). NETS renders the line atomistically (“in one, with an emplacement of your necks”) and with a footnote suggests one of several ways in which an ancient reader might have made sense of it in context.

The Greek word λίβανος translates both לְבוֹנָה (“frankincense”) and לְבוֹנוֹן (“Lebanon”). Until modern editors began capitalizing λίβανος when it is a proper noun, no reader of Greek could have distinguished between the meanings “frankincense” and “Lebanon” except by context. NETS Song translates as the OG translator would have understood the Hebrew, but Greek readers could well be uncertain. For example, in 4.14, ξύλων τοῦ λιβάνου could be understood either as “trees of Lebanon” (as in Rahlfs) or as “woods of frankincense” (as in Hebrew).

Two Terms of Endearment

In the Hebrew text, the female lover is frequently addressed as רַעִיָּה (“my companion, my friend, my fellow,” translated by the NRSV as “my love”). The Old Greek translates רַעִיָּה fairly literally as ἡ πλησίον μου (“the one near me, my neighbor, my companion”), and our NETS translation of Greek Song consistently renders this term into English as “my mate.”¹⁷

In the Hebrew, the male lover is frequently addressed as אָבִיר (translated by the NRSV as “my beloved”). The term אָבִיר can be used either as a term of endearment (like “sweetheart” or “true love”) or to denote a family relationship (such as “father’s brother” as in 1 Sam. 10.14). Greek Song translates the term with ἀδελφίδος (“little brother”).¹⁸ I have found no evidence that ἀδελφίδος was used outside Greek Song (and later commentary on it); it appears that our OG translator coined this diminutive form of ἀδελφός (“brother”). Its use in 5.9 and in 8.1, where it translates אָבִיר (“brother”), shows that Greek Song is using this diminutive as a term of endearment. Its use may suggest that the translator was a woman. Because ἀδελφίδος must have sounded unusual in Greek ears, the NETS translation consistently renders it with a formal equivalent that sounds unusual in English: “brotherkin.”

¹⁶ The translator’s Hebrew text apparently varies slightly from the Masoretic Text, even in its qere reading.

¹⁷ The translation “mate” is also used for πλησίον in 5.1 and for the male πλησίον μου in 5.16.

¹⁸ Judges 10.1 (A and B); 2 Rgns 23.9, 24, and 1 Suppl (1 Chr) 27.32 use πατράδελφος “father’s brother” to translate dwd. In Song, Aquila uses πατράδελφος μου, Symmachus uses ὁ ἀγαπητός μου (“my beloved”), and Quinta uses ὁ ἐταῖρος μου (“my companion”).

Adjectives

Hebrew does not have a separate form for adjectives in the comparative and superlative degrees. Greek Song consistently puts adjectives in the unmarked, positive form, even when the context clearly calls for a comparative or superlative form. In 1.2, for example, טוֹבִים מִיַּיִן ("better than wine") is translated ἀγαθοὶ ὑπὲρ οἶνον ("good beyond wine"). Again, in 1.8, הַיְפֹתָ בַנְּשִׁים ("O fairest among women") becomes ἡ καλὴ ἐν γυναιξίν ("O fair one among women"). The NRSV translates the adjective contextually. NETS preserves some of the awkwardness of the Greek.

Tense and Mood

The Greek translator usually renders Hebrew verbs in the imperfect tense by Greek verbs in the future tense and renders the Hebrew perfect tense by the imperfect or aorist in Greek. I have used the English present perfect for past tenses that seem contextually to apply to the present or very recent past; e.g., ὤρκισα for השבֵּעְתִּי in 2.7; 3.5; 5.8.

The Greek translator's stereotyped rendition of tenses becomes particularly awkward when future tenses are used, as in 7.9; 8.1–3, to express a wish or unreal condition that we would normally expect a subjunctive or an imperfect to convey. In some of these cases, I have bowed to context and used modals such as "would" in the NETS translation rather than violate common English usage.

Gender and Number

In the Song of Songs, gender-neutral language can confuse the reader. Because Song of Songs is largely composed of dialogues between male and female lovers and their companions, the language is often necessarily gender-specific. The Hebrew text often depends on gender-specific and number-specific verbal cues to signal when speakers change; for example, when a woman addressing a man stops speaking and the man replies to the woman. There are fewer of these cues in Greek and even fewer in English. This can make it difficult to follow dialogue. Greek readers soon solved this problem by adding rubrics to many of their manuscripts of Song of Songs; the rubrics clarified who was speaking to whom at various points in the text. Without a similar aid for the reader in English, it is sometimes difficult to tell who is speaking to whom or even whether an addressee ("you") is singular or plural.

In most instances, of course, there is no difference between the Hebrew and Greek on matters of gender or number. In 8.13, however, the addressee is female in the Masoretic Text and male in the Old Greek.

EDITORIAL DETAIL

This translation follows the versification used in Rahlfs, which is almost identical to that in the Masoretic Text. Where NRSV verse numbers differ, they appear in parentheses.

Old Greek manuscripts appear to show a tradition of breaking lines according to sense. This NETS translation attempts to preserve these ancient sense-breaks, which occasionally differ from those of the NRSV. In addition, blank space separates both new sections and new speakers.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Especially at difficult points, I have consulted several translations of the Greek text, including especially the Old Latin translations (in Donatien De Bruyne, "Les Anciennes versions latines du Cantique des cantiques," Revue Bénédictine 38 [1926] 97–122) and the English translations of Thomson and Brenton. At numerous points, Albert Pietersma's insightful consultation and expertise in the theory and practice of translating OG texts improved this translation substantially.

JAY C. TREAT

1 Song of Songs, which is Salomon's.
 2 Let him kiss me from his mouth's kisses!
 For your breasts are good beyond wine, 3 and the fragrance of your anointing oils beyond any spice.
 Your name is perfume poured out;
 therefore maidens loved you, 4 drew you.
 We shall run after you into the fragrance of your anointing oils.
 The king has brought me into his chamber.
 Let us exult and rejoice in you;
 we will love your breasts beyond wine.
 Uprightness has loved you.
 5 I am black and beautiful,
 O daughters of Ierusalem,
 like coverts of Kedar,
 like Salomon's skins.
 6 Do not look at me, because I am darkened,
 because the sun has looked down on
 me.
 My mother's sons fought with me;
 they made me a keeper in vineyards.
 My own vineyard I have not kept!
 7 Tell me, you whom my soul loved,
 where you pasture your flock,
 where you lie down at noon,
 lest I become like one who wraps herself up by your companions' flocks.
 8 If you do not know yourself,
 O fair one among women,
 go forth in tracks of the flocks, and pasture your kids
 by the shepherds' coverts.
 9 I have compared you, my mate,
 to my mare among Pharaoh's chariots.
 10 How beautiful your cheeks have become,
 like turtle-doves,
 your neck like necklaces.
 11 We will make you images of gold, with points of silver.
 12 While^a the king was on his couch,
 my nard gave forth its fragrance.
 13 My brotherkin is to me a bag of myrrh;
 he shall spend the night between my breasts.
 14 My brotherkin is to me a cluster of henna
 in vineyards of En-gaddi.
 15 Look, you are beautiful, my mate;
 look, you are beautiful;
 your eyes are doves.
 16 Look, you are beautiful, my brotherkin, and indeed lovely.
 As well, our couch is shaded;

17 our houses' beams are cedars;
 our coffered panels are cypresses.

2 I am a flower of the plain,
 a lily of the valleys.
 2 As a lily among brambles,
 so is my mate among the daughters.
 3 As an apple tree among the trees of the wood,
 so is my brotherkin among the sons.
 I yearned and sat in his shadow,
 and his fruit was sweet in my throat.
 4 Bring me into a house of wine;
^barray love over me^b.
 5 Support me with raisin-cakes;
 bolster me with apples,
 for I am wounded with love.
 6 His left hand will be under my head, and his right will embrace me.
 7 I have adjured you, O daughters of Ierusalem,
 by the powers and by the forces of the
 field
 that you do not stir up or awaken love
 until it wish!
 8 My brotherkin's voice!
 Look, he has come,
 leaping upon the mountains,
 bounding over the hills.
 9 My brotherkin is like the gazelle or a fawn of stags on the mountains of Baithel.
 Look, here he stands behind our wall,
 peering through the windows,
 peeping through the lattices.
 10 My brotherkin responds and says to me:
 "Arise, come, my mate,
 my fair one, my dove;
 11 for look, the winter is past;
 the rain has left; it went on its own.
 12 The flowers have appeared on the earth;
 pruning time has come;
 the turtledove's voice
 has been heard in our land.
 13 The fig tree has put forth its figs;
 the vines are in blossom;
 they have given forth fragrance.
 Arise, come, my mate,
 my fair one, my dove.
 14 And come, my dove, in the rock's shelter near the outer wall.
 Show me your face;
 let me hear your voice,
 for your voice is sweet,
 and your face is lovely." 15 Catch us foxes,
 little ones that ruin vineyards—
 and our vines are in blossom!

^aOr Until ^bI.e. array love (as a signal) over me; or array love (as an army) against me

16 My brotherkin is mine, and I am his,
 who pastures his flock among the lilies.
 17 Until the day breathes
 and the shadows stir,
 turn, my brotherkin; be like the gazelle or a fawn of stags on mountains with glens.

3 Upon my bed at night
 I sought him whom my soul loved;
 I sought him but found him not;
 I called him, but he answered me not.
 2 "I will rise now and go about in the city, in the market-places and in the streets^a,
 and I will seek him whom my soul loved."
 I sought him but found him not.
 3 The sentinels who go about in the city found me.
 "Have you not seen him whom my soul
 loved?"
 4 Scarcely had I passed from them until I found him whom my soul
 loved.
 I took hold of him and would not let him go until I brought him into my mother's
 house
 and into a chamber of her who conceived
 me.
 5 I have adjured you, O daughters of Ierousalem,
 by the powers and by the forces of the
 field,
 that you do not stir up or awaken love
 until it wish!
 6 Who is this coming up from the
 wilderness,
 like columns of smoke,
 perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,
 of all the perfumer's powders?
 7 Look, it is the couch of Salomon!
 Around it are sixty mighty men of Israel's mighty men, 8 all holding a sword and expert in war—
 a man, his sword at his thigh
 because of terror by night.
 9 King Salomon made himself a palanquin from Lebanon's trees.
 10 He made its posts^b silver, its back gold, its step purple;
 its interior was inlaid with stone,
 love^c from Ierousalem's daughters.
 11 Come out, and look at King Salomon,
 at the crown with which his mother crowned him
 on the day of his wedding and on the day of his heart's gladness.

4 Look, you are beautiful, my mate;
 look, you are beautiful!
 Your eyes are doves—
 apart from your taciturnity.
 Your hair is like flocks of goats
 that were revealed from Galaad.
 2 Your teeth are like flocks of shorn ewes
 that have come up from the washing,
 all of which are bearing twins,
 and not one among them is barren.
 3 Your lips are like a scarlet thread,
 and your speech is lovely.
 Your cheek is like a rind of pomegranate,
 apart from your taciturnity.
 4 Your neck is like Daud's tower, built into thalpioth^d;
 on it hang a thousand shields,
 all the mighty men's javelins.
 5 Your two breasts are like two fawns,
 twins of a gazelle,
 that feed among the lilies.
 6 Until the day breathes
 and the shadows stir,
 I will go on my own to the mountain of myrrh
 and to the hill of frankincense.
 7 You are altogether beautiful, my mate,
 and there is no flaw in you.
 8 Come here from Lebanon, O bride;
 come here from Lebanon.
 You shall come and pass through from the beginning of Faithfulness^f, from the heads of Sanir and Hermon,
 from lions' dens,
 from leopards' mountains.
 9 You heartened us, O my sister bride; you heartened us with one^h from your
 eyes,
 i in one, with an emplacement of your necks.ⁱ
 10 How beautiful your breasts have become,
 my sister bride!
 How beautiful your breasts have become,
 above wine,
 and your garments' fragrance, beyond all spices!
 11 Your lips distill honeycomb, O bride;
 honey and milk are under your
 tongue,
 and your garments' fragrance is like Lebanon's fragrance.
 12 A garden locked is my sister bride,
 a garden locked, a fountain sealed.
 13 Your scents^j are an orchard of pomegranates
 with fruit of fruit-trees, henna with nard, 14 nard and saffron,
 calamus and cinnamon,

^aOr squares ^bOr pillars ^cI.e. as a token of love ^dHeb = ? ^eLebanon = Ra ^fHeb = Amana ^gPossibly top ^hOr one look ⁱGk uncertain; perhaps with one turn, with a setting of your neck and throat ^jOr emissions with all ^awoods of frankincense^a, myrrh, aloth^b,

 with all chief perfumes—15 a garden fountain, a well of water, flowing and purling from Lebanon.

16 Awake, O north wind, and come, O south wind!
 Blow through my garden,
 and let my spices waft abroad.
 Let my brotherkin descend into his garden
 and eat the fruit of its fruit-trees.

5 I have come to my garden, my sister, my bride;
 I have gathered my myrrh with my spices;
 I have eaten my bread with my honey;
 I have drunk my wine with my milk.

Eat, mates, and drink,
 and be drunk, brothers and sisters.

2 I am sleeping, but my heart is awake.
 My brotherkin's voice!
 He is knocking on the door.
 "Open to me, my sister, my mate,
 my dove, my perfect one,
 for my head is wet with dew and my locks with drops of the night." 3 I had put off my tunic; how could I put it on again?
 I had bathed my feet; how could I soil
 them?
 4 My brotherkin extended his hand from the opening,
 and my abdomen was stirred for him.

5 I arose to open to my brotherkin;
 my hands dripped with myrrh,
 my fingers with wet myrrh,
 on the bolt's handles.

6 I opened to my brotherkin;
 my brotherkin had passed by.
 My soul went out when he spoke.
 I sought him but did not find him;
 I called him, but he answered me not.

7 The sentinels who make their rounds in the city found me;
 they beat me; they wounded me.
 Sentinels of the walls
 took away my light summer garment.

8 I have adjured you, O daughters of Ierusalem,
 by the powers and by the forces of the
 field;
 if you find my brotherkin, what will you tell
 him?
 That I have been wounded with love.

9 What is your brotherkin above a brotherkin,
 O fair one among women?

What is your brotherkin above a brotherkin,
 that you have thus adjured us?

10 My brotherkin is radiant and ruddy, selected from ten thousands.

11 His head is gold and phaz^c;
 his locks are fir trees, black as a raven.

12 His eyes are like doves beside brimming pools of water,
 bathed in milk,
 sitting beside brimming pools of water.

13 His cheeks are like saucers of spice, producing perfumes.
 His lips are lilies,
 distilling wet myrrh.

14 His arms are chased gold, set with tharsis^d.

His abdomen is an ivory tablet
 on a lapis lazuli stone.

15 His legs are marble pillars, founded upon golden bases.
 His appearance is like Lebanon, choice as cedars.

16 His throat is sweetnesses^e,
 and he is altogether an object of desire.
 This is my brotherkin, and this is my mate,
 O daughters of Ierusalem.

6 Where has your brotherkin gone,
 O fair one among women?
 Which way has your brotherkin turned his attention?—
 and we shall seek him with you!

2 My brotherkin has gone down to his garden,
 to saucers of spice,
 to pasture his flock in gardens and to gather lilies.

3 I am my brotherkin's, and my brotherkin is mine,
 he who pastures his flock among the lilies.

4 You are beautiful as Goodwill^f, my mate, comely as Ierusalem—
 as awesome a sight as womeng arrayed!

5 Turn away your eyes from me,
 for they make me fly!
 Your hair is like flocks of goats
 that have shown up from Galaad.

6 Your teeth are like flocks of shorn ewes
 that have come up from the washing;
 all of them bear twins,
 and not one among them is barren.

7 Your lips are like scarlet thread,
 and your speech is lovely.
 Your cheek is like a rind of pomegranate,
 apart from your taciturnity.

8 There are sixty queens and eighty concubines

^atrees of Lebanon = Ra ^bHeb = aloes ^cHeb = refined gold ^dHeb = a precious stone from Tarshish. ^ePossibly sweetness itself ^fOr goodwill; Heb = Tirzah ^gPossibly armies and young women without number.

 9 My dove, my perfect one, is the only one,
 the only one of her mother, outstanding to her that bore her.
 Daughters saw her and will call her happy;
 queens and concubines and they will praise her.
 10 Who is this peeping forth like the dawn, fair as the moon, outstanding as the sun—
 as awesome a sight as women^a arrayed?

11 I went down to a nut orchard to look upon products of the wadi, to see whether the vine had blossomed, whether the pomegranates were in
 bloom.
 There I will give you my breasts.
 12 My soul was not aware;
 it made me as Aminadab's chariots.

7 (6.13) Return, return, O Soulamite!
 Return, return, and we shall look upon
 you.

Why will you look upon the Soulamite?
^bShe who comes like dances of armies^b!

2(1) How graceful your steps in sandals have become,
 O daughter of Nadab!
 Your thighs' shapes are like necklaces,
 work of^c a master.
 3(2) Your navel is a chased bowl that never lacks mixed wine.
 Your belly is a heap of grain, hedged round with lilies.
 4(3) Your two breasts are like two fawns,
 twins of a gazelle.
 5(4) Your neck is like an ivory tower.
 Your eyes are like pools in Hesebon,
 by gates of a daughter of many^d.
 Your nostril is like a tower of Lebanon, watching the face of Damascus.
 6(5) Your head is upon you like Carmel, and the plaited hair of your head is like purple cloth;
 a king is bound ^eby retinues^e.
 7(6) How fair and pleasant you have become,
 O love, in your delights!
 8(7) This, your stature, is like the palm tree,
 and your breasts are like its clusters.
 9(8) I said I will climb in the palm tree and take hold of its heights.
 Your breasts shall surely be like clusters of the vine,
 and your nose's fragrance like apples, 10(9) and your larynx like good wine going to my brotherkin ^ffor straightness^f, satisfying lips and teeth.

11(10) I am my brotherkin's, and his attention is for me.
 12(11) Come, my brotherkin;
 let us go forth into the field;
 let us spend the night in the villages.
 13(12) Let us go out early to the vineyards;
 let us see whether the vine has bloomed;
 the blossom has bloomed;
 the pomegranates have bloomed.
 There I will give you my breasts.
 14(13) The mandrakes have given forth fragrance, and at our doors are all choice fruits—
 new as well as old, O my brotherkin,
 I have laid up for you.

8 Who might give you as my brotherkin, nursing at my mother's breasts?
 If I found you outside, I would kiss you,
 and indeed no one would despise me.
 2 I would lead you;
 I would bring you
 into my mother's house
 and into a chamber of her who conceived
 me.
 I would give you spiced wine to drink,
 juice of my pomegranates.
 3 His left hand would be under my head,
 and his right would embrace me.
 4 I adjure you, O daughters of Ierousalem, by the powers and the forces of the
 field—
 Why stir up or why awaken love
 until it wish?
 5 Who is this coming up, clad in white, leaning upon her brotherkin?
 Under an apple tree I awakened you.
 There your mother was in labor with
 you;
 there she who bore you was in labor with
 you.
 6 Set me as a seal upon your heart,
 as a seal upon your arm,
 for love is strong as death,
 zeal^g harsh as Hades.
 Its flashes are flashes of fire,
 its flames.
 7 Much water shall not be able to quench
 love,
 and rivers shall not overwhelm it.
 If a man offered for love all his livelihood,
 they would scorn him with scorn.
 8 We have a little sister,
 and she has no breasts.
 What should we do for our sister, on the day when she is spoken for?

^aPossibly armies ^bOr O you who come like dances of armies ^c+ the hands of = Ra ^dHeb = Bath-rabbim ^eGk uncertain; perhaps in passages ^fi.e. in a straight line ^gOr jealousy

- 9 If she is a wall,
let us build upon her battlements of
silver,
but if she is a door,
let us carve for her a board of cedar.
- 10 I am a wall,
and my breasts are like towers;
I was in his eyes
as one who finds peace.
- 11 Salomon had a vineyard at Beelamon;
he entrusted the vineyard to keepers;
a man was to bring for its fruit a thousand pieces of silver.
- 12 My vineyard, my own, is before me.
The thousand are ^afor Salomon^a,
and the two hundred for the keepers of his fruit.
- 13 O you who sit in the gardens, companions are listening to your voice;
make me hear it.
- 14 Flee, my brotherkin, and be like the gazelle
or the fawn of the stags upon mountains of spices!

I O B

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of Iob is based on the critical edition prepared by Joseph Ziegler (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum XI.4: Iob [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1982]). There are a few divergences from this edition, following suggestions made by A. Pietersma in his review of Iob and by P. Gentry in "Proposed Corrections to the Lemma of Ziegler's Edition," Appendix D in his The Asterisked Materials in the Greek Job. Departures from Ziegler are signaled in textual notes except for four of Gentry's five corrections to the presentation of the Origenian asterisk tradition (2.1d, 13a; 9.3b; 12.21b—27.19a is retained as Old Greek in NETS).

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General Character

Though the Hebrew text of Iob has, for the most part, been composed in poetry, it includes three sections in prose as well, namely, 1.1–2.13; 32.1–5 and 42.7–17. In the Greek, the entire book is in prose, even though arranged stichometrically, in the manuscript tradition. Ziegler reflects the Greek manuscripts, but NETS follows the NRSV, except when the Greek text demands otherwise.

The Old Greek (OG) Iob is a work of good literary quality. Absent are the usual "Hebraisms" that are the tell-tale signs of translation Greek in much of the Septuagint corpus. For example, at 1.5 we find the common construction $\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$ "and it happened" in the Hebrew text. This is commonly translated in the LXX by $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \epsilon\gamma\epsilon\upsilon\epsilon\tau\omicron$ "and it came to pass." Most modern English translations disregard this Hebraism, as does the NRSV. The OG translator is not satisfied with it either, choosing to begin the sentence with $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \omicron\varsigma$ "And when." Similarly, in the previous verse, 1.4, the Hebrew conjunction Υ (usually "and") + verb . . . Υ + verb . . . Υ + verb . . . Υ + verb is rendered by participle + $\delta\epsilon$ ("and") . . . verb . . . participle—the last two Hebrew verbs folded into a single participle. The participial constructions represent standard Greek style. The NRSV translation of v. 4 is "[And] his sons used to go and hold feasts . . . and they would send and invite"; that of NETS is "Now his sons used to gather . . . , and hold a feast . . . they used to take along their three sisters." Many other examples could be cited, but the point is that OG Iob stands as a clear foil to the interlinear paradigm of translation.

A cursory overview of the OG text of Iob reveals that it is substantially shorter than the MT, the form of the Hebrew text which appears to have been its parent text. This abbreviation increases as one reads through the book. Gray calculated that the proportion of omissions grows as follows: 4% until chapter 15; 16% of chapters 15–21; 25% of chapters 22–31; 35% of chapters 32–37; 16% of chapters 38–42 (lxxv; repeated in Dhorme, ccii–cciii). The shorter Greek text seems to be rooted in at least two characteristics of the Hebrew text. First, the meaning of the Hebrew is sometimes obscure; second, the argumentation in the book is repetitious. A third consideration may have made abbreviation acceptable: Iob may not have carried the same authority as other books of the Hebrew Scriptures. Abbreviation also extends to the "micro-level" where it can involve the reduction of two lines to one—something we might call paraphrasing.

It has sometimes been suggested that Greek Iob is based upon an equally shorter Hebrew parent text. However, on the basis of what we can establish about the translator's technique, i.e., his rather free, even paraphrastic approach, it seems more likely that the shorter text is to be attributed to the time of translation.

The usual categories of characterizing a translation fail us when we assess Iob. It is not just free or paraphrastic, it is also something of an epitome of the longer and often difficult original. OG Iob is one of a kind in the Septuagint corpus. We can typify it as among the least literal, both in its attitude toward abbreviating the parent text and in the way the translator worked with that portion of the text for which we have a translation.

While the text as a whole reveals conscious shortening, there are various additions made along the way. The major ones are: the diatribe of Iob's wife in 2.9a–d—though this may be a later addition

("probably," according to Fernández Marcos, 261, citing Heater, 31–36)—and 42.17α–εα, which is said to derive "from the Syriac book."

Another general characteristic of the translation consists of transferring passages from elsewhere in Iob or from other parts of the Septuagint into the translation. This practice was detected by Dhorme and Ziegler and has been the subject of a study by Heater, who calls it "the anaphoric translation technique." For example, 4.21a = Esa 40.24b; 22.2 = 21.22a; 22.28a = 8.6b; 34.13 was inspired by Ps 24.1; 34.15b; "[W]hence too he was formed" is a gloss that derives from Gen 3.19; 36.5a = 8.20a.

Finally, the translator's use of particles of all kinds should be noted. As Kitto says, "Greek is well stocked with little words, conjunctions that hunt in couples or in packs, whose sole function is to make the structure clear. They act, as it were, as signposts" (27). This seems to be the translator's intent in Iob, i.e., to give the rather loosely linked Hebrew text a connectedness. So the translation is heavily salted with particles: "and," "but," "now," "because," "for," "really?," "on the one hand . . . on the other," "however," "therefore," "rather," "again," "or" and others. None of these is more striking than the multi-particle οὐ μὴν δὲ ἀλλὰ "but; nonetheless; to the contrary" (2.5a; 5.8a; 12.6a; 13.3a; 17.10a; 21.17a; 27.7a; 33.1a; 34.36a). The interest in structure seems evident, for example, in chapter 9 where γάρ—commonly "for"—is added thirteen times: vv. 2b, 3a, 4a, 13a, 15a, 18a, 19a, 20a, 21a, 24a, 27a, 28b, 30a, in addition to its use as translation at vv. 32a, 35b, or at 22.5b–9 where each line begins with δέ "and; but," οὐδέ "but not; nor" (7a) or ἀλλὰ "but" (7b) to form a list and to add connectors to the Hebrew for vv. 7a and 9a. In short, unlike most other Septuagintal translators, Iob uses particles more in accord with standard Greek discourse.

Specific Comments on the Old Greek Translation

We must imagine the Hebrew text in front of the translator. It was an unvocalized text—that is, it had only the consonants—and there may have been no divisions between the words (on this issue: Tov, 117–121); there was no versification. The lack of vowel markings permitted the text to be vocalized, and therefore understood, in more than one way sometimes—though there was doubtless a tradition of vocalization. A different vocalization helps to explain some instances where the English translation of the Greek appears to be rather different from the NRSV. For example, at 24.18b נֹכַח was vocalized not as נֹכַח ("not") but as נֹכַח ("Let").

The translator was responsible for dividing the text into small segments according to sense. Sometimes this results in a somewhat different division than is reflected in the MT. For example, the words "with you" at 36.4b have been taken with v. 5 (paraphrased as "But know that"—so Dhorme).

Some letters of the Hebrew alphabet are easily confused in the manuscript tradition, and Greek Iob reflects this. Indeed, it might even be that the translator, aware of these confusions, bore them in mind as he tried out various possibilities for producing a translation. Numerous examples can be cited. First, in Hebrew manuscripts the ך (daleth) and ר (resh) can be confused because they look alike. For example, we find ר read as ך at 21.22b (so "murders" instead of "those that are on high"); 40.11a ("messengers" instead of "overflowings"); ך read as ר at 41.14b (NRSV 22b) ("runs" instead of "dances"). Second, the consonants י (yod) and ו (waw) can be confused: so we find ך for ו (twice) at 26.13a ("bars of" instead of "By his wind"). Third, ש (sin) and ש (shin) share the same consonant: so ש appears to have been read instead of ש at 41.22a (NRSV 30) ("sharp" rather than "potsherds").

Sometimes the translator re-orders the Hebrew consonants: for example, רבב for רבב (19.20a—where ר is also read for ר, therefore "rotted" instead of "cling"); possibly לכהם for לחם (39.4a[Greek 3a], "did you rear" rather than "become strong"); שכל for כשל (21.10b, "falter" instead of "miscarries"); מרר for מרר (41.1b[NRSV 9b], "what is said" instead of "the sight of it"). Indeed, the translator sometimes changes consonants: for example, ירפנו for ירפנו (32.13b, "[we] contributed it" instead of "[God] may vanquish him"); שרץ for שרץ (41.26b[NRSV 34b], "that are in the waters" instead of "that are proud"); תענה for תבנה (22.23a, "[you] humble yourself" rather than "you will be restored"). It seems that these changes result from a particular approach to the Hebrew text, one that goes to considerable lengths to make a certain sense of it, even to the extent of changing and rearranging letters of words to do so.

An awareness of these aspects of the translator's work helps one to understand why an English translation of the OG looks quite different from a translation of the Hebrew text.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL TEXT

OG Iob is about one-sixth shorter than the MT. That shorter text, without the fragments of Theodotion, is attested only in the Sahidic version and some Old Latin quotations. Except for these witnesses the entire textual tradition has been accommodated to the work of the third century CE text critic Origen in his massive project we call “the Hexapla.”

The designation “Hexapla” is given to a presumed six-columned book—only fragments are extant—in which Origen compared the Septuagint and several other translations with the traditional Hebrew text of his day. From the left, the six columns were: the Hebrew, the Hebrew in Greek transliteration, Aquila’s translation, Symmachus’ translation, the Septuagint, and Theodotion’s translation. The texts were reproduced word-by-word or phrase-by-phrase down the page and, by following the columns across, one could compare the texts at a glance. Origen’s primary interest was in the first and fifth columns, that is, the Hebrew and the Septuagint.

Now the Septuagint is not always of the same length as the Hebrew, and in the book of Iob that is dramatically the case. Where the OG is longer than the Hebrew, Origen marked what makes it longer with an obelus (÷) in front and a metobelus (∟) at the end; where the OG was shorter than the Hebrew, he added to it, typically from Theodotion, in order to make it the same length as the Hebrew and marked it with an asterisk (*) and a metobelus. (The translation we designate “Theodotion” is associated with the name of a translator or reviser who lived at the end of the second century CE. It is a literal translation and even includes some transliterations, as at Iob 37.12; 39.13.)

The consequences of Origen’s work on Iob are chiefly two: first, two entirely different translations are now intermingled; second, since the OG translator sometimes uses only one line to render two lines of Hebrew, the “ecclesiastical” text produces a translation where some lines of the Hebrew are represented twice, once in the OG and again in Theodotion. For example, the OG translator omitted 18.9a and translated only 18.9b, but Origen’s mechanical approach led him to add 18.9b from Theodotion. This means that 18.9b has two renderings in the ecclesiastical text, though 18.9a is not represented at all. Similarly, 23.14 was not part of the OG, but what Origen added from Theodotion is v. 15. As a result, v. 15 appears twice in the ecclesiastical text, in the OG as v. 15ab and from Theodotion under the asterisk as v. 15cd. There is no translation of v. 14.

Both Rahlfs’ provisional edition (1935) and Ziegler’s critical edition reproduce the text that Origen conflated, and the two translations are punctuated as if they were one translation. The NETS translation follows the OG text but, as an aid to readers, includes Theodotion, inserted into the appropriate places but not integrated. Not only have the intrusive fragments of text been duly marked, they also lack initial uppercase, as well as closing punctuation. The English translation of Theodotion’s work seeks to be more “literal” than that of OG Iob, reflecting the nature of its parent text.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF IOB

The Hebrew text of Iob presents such a level of difficulty in translation that those who work on it have often made recourse to the OG translation. This is reflected in the notes that accompany translations into English, including the NRSV. Therefore, readers of NETS Iob will find occasional points of contact between the NRSV and NETS that are due to the NRSV adopting an understanding of the Hebrew that is dependent upon the OG.

The NETS translation of Iob aspires to the same economy of expression that is true of the NRSV, which makes the translator’s interest in “connector words” all the more apparent.

Readers of NETS will often note a difference in the tense of verbs from what is found in the NRSV. Usually this has resulted from the rendering of the Hebrew prefixed conjugation into Greek by an aorist (“simple past”) tense. It appears that the translator understood these prefixed forms as preterites, i.e., as expressions of the simple past. Normally the aorist tense in NETS Iob is rendered by an English simple past, though at times a present perfect is used when the context seems to require it.

Gender Specific Language in NETS Iob

The NRSV usually accomplishes gender inclusivity by rendering masculine singular forms as plurals. The NETS Iob differs from the NRSV in this respect, for the following reason. The change the NRSV incorporates is most noticeable in passages that involve either “the life of a mortal” (e.g., 10.4–5; 14.5–6) or groups of people, usually the impious or wicked (the most extensive passage is 15.20–35). In the NRSV these all become plural for the sake of inclusivity. But in the former case, involving “the life of a mortal,” the remarks, on Iob’s lips, have “a person like me” sense and on his opponents’ “a person like you” sense, and the edge is taken away if one uses the plural. The same holds true for passages about the impious or wicked. Here the opponents and Iob argue back and forth. The fact that the opponents speak of the wicked in the singular might lead one to think that they do not have “the wicked” in general in view, but Iob; the same holds true when Iob responds using the singular: he has his immediate oppoment in view! In two passages Iob speaks of the wicked in the plural (12.5–6a; 21.7–18) and in those cases one might argue that he has his three friends in mind. So NETS Iob follows the OG in number to preserve “the bite” of the argument.

EDITORIAL DETAIL

Generally the translation has been divided into portions within chapters according to the NRSV; occasional divergences in this regard result from the translator’s abbreviation of the Hebrew text. So, for example, there is a division between 16.6 and 7, rather than between 16.5 and 6 as found in the NRSV.

Punctuation usually follows Ziegler’s edition, but not always, because Ziegler treats the ecclesiastical text as of one piece. The translation of Theodotion has also been punctuated, according to the NRSV, where the fragments are of sufficient length to make that possible.

There is a difference in versification among English translations, MT and OG as reflected in Ziegler at the end of chapter 40 and the beginning of chapter 41. I have followed Ziegler and MT but noted the versification of the NRSV.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Along with the standard Greek and Hebrew lexica and grammars the following works have played an active role in my work on NETS Iob: Georg Beer, Der Text des Buches Hiob (Marburg: N.G. Elwert’sche Verlagsbuchhandlung, 1897); Shaye J. D. Cohen, From the Maccabees to the Mishnah (LEC 7; Philadelphia: Westminster, 1987); Édouard Dhorme, A Commentary on the Book of Job (Tr. Harold Knight; Nashville: Nelson, 1984 [1967; French, 1926]); Samuel Rolles Driver and George Buchanan Gray, A Critical and Exegetical Commentary on The Book of Job (ICC; Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1921; reprint, 1986); Peter J. Gentry, The Askerisked Materials in the Greek Job (SBLSCS 38; Atlanta: Scholars Press, 1995); Natalio Fernández Marcos, “The Septuagint Reading of the Book of Job,” in The Book of Job (Ed. W. A. M. Beuken; BETL 114; Leuven: University Press/Peeters, 1994) 251–266; Homer Heater, Jr., A Septuagint Translation Technique in the Book of Job (CBQMS 11; Washington DC: Catholic Biblical Association of America, 1982); H. D. F. Kitto, The Greeks (Harmondsworth, Middlesex: Penguin, 1973 [1951; revised ed., 1957]); Albert Pietersma, Review of Iob. Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum, 11/4, ed. by Joseph Ziegler, in JBL 104 (1985) 305–311; Alfred Rahlfs, Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes (Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935); Emanuel Tov, The Text-Critical Use of the Septuagint in Biblical Research (2nd ed., revised and enlarged; Jerusalem Biblical Studies 8; Jerusalem: Simor Ltd., 1997).

Finally, it has been an experience full of insights to have had Albert Pietersma work closely with me on revising my translation of OG Iob for publication. The resulting translation is vastly improved and our extended conversation always stimulated my thinking about OG Iob, in connection with both its text and its message.

CLAUDE E. COX

1 There was a certain man in the land of Ausitis, whose name was Iob, and that man was genuine, blameless, righteous, religious, staying away from every evil thing. 2 Now there were born to him seven sons and three daughters. 3 And his livestock was: seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred she-donkeys at pasture; as well he had very many servants and extensive activities in the land, and that man was well-born among those of the east. 4 Now his sons used to gather with one another and hold a feast each day; they used take along their three sisters as well, to eat and drink with them. 5 And when the feast days had run their course, Iob used to send and purify them, rising early in the morning, and he used to offer a sacrifice on their behalf, according to their number, and one bull calf as a sin offering for their souls—for Iob said, “Perhaps my sons thought bad things in their mind toward God.” So this is what Iob would always do.

6 And when the set day came, then, look, the angels of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and the slanderer came with them. 7 And the Lord said to the slanderer, “Where have you come from?” And the slanderer answered the Lord, “I have come, after going round the earth and walking about what lies beneath heaven.” 8 And the Lord said to him, “Did you give thought to your disposition against my servant Iob—because there is no one of those on the earth like him, a man who is blameless, genuine, religious, staying away from every evil thing?” 9 Then the slanderer answered and said before the Lord, “Does Iob really worship the Lord for nothing? 10 Have you not put a fence around things external to him, both what is within his household as well as what is outside of all that belongs to him, all around? You blessed the works of his hands, and his livestock you increased on the earth. ¹¹But stretch out your hand, and touch all that he has; surely he will bless^a you to your face!" ¹²Then the Lord said to the slanderer, "Look, all that he has I am giving into your power, but do not touch him." So the slanderer went out from the Lord.

¹³ So it was, when it was the set day, Job's sons and daughters were drinking wine in their eldest brother's house. ¹⁴And, look, a messenger came to Job and said to him, "The yokes of oxen were plowing, and the she-donkeys were feeding beside them, ¹⁵and marauders came and carried them off, and they killed the servants with daggers, but when I alone escaped, I came to tell you." ¹⁶While he was still speaking, a further messenger came and said to Job, "Fire fell from heaven and burned up the sheep, and it likewise consumed the shepherds, and when I alone escaped, I came to tell you." ¹⁷While he was still speaking, a further messenger came and said to Job, "Horsemen formed three columns against us, and they encircled the camels and carried them off and killed the servants with daggers, but I alone escaped, and I came to tell you." ¹⁸While he was still speaking, another messenger came, saying to Job, "As your sons and daughters were eating and drinking at their elder brother's, ¹⁹suddenly a great wind came from the wilderness and struck the four corners of the house, and the house fell on your children, and they died, but I alone escaped, and I came to tell you."

²⁰ So Job arose, tore his clothes and shaved the hair of his head and fell on the ground and did obeisance and said, ²¹"I came naked from my mother's womb; naked also shall I return there; the Lord gave; the Lord has taken away; as it seemed good to the Lord, so it turned out; blessed be the name of the Lord."

²² In all these things that happened to him Job did not sin at all before the Lord, and he did not charge God with folly.

2 Now it happened, when it was the set day and the angels of God came to present themselves before the Lord, the slanderer also came among them. [¹*to present himself before the Lord*^b] ²And the Lord said to the slanderer, "Where are you coming from?" Then the slanderer said before the Lord, "I have come, after traversing what lies beneath heaven and walking about everything." ³Then the Lord said, "So did you notice my attendant Job—that there is no one of those on the earth like him, an innocent, genuine, blameless, religious man, staying away from all wrong? And he still maintains his innocence, though you said to destroy his possessions for no reason." ⁴Then the slanderer continued and said to the Lord, "Skin for skin; whatever a person has he will use to pay for his life. ⁵However, stretch out your hand, and touch his bones and his flesh; surely he will bless^a you to your face!" ⁶Then the Lord said to the slanderer, "Very well, I am handing him over to you; only spare his life."

⁷ So the slanderer went out from the Lord, and he struck Job with a grievous festering sore from his feet to his head. ⁸And he took a potsherd, so that he could scrape away the pus, and sat on the rubbish heap outside the city.

⁹ Then after a long time had passed, his wife said to him, "How long will you persist and say, ^{9a}'Look, I will hang on a little longer, while I wait for the hope of my deliverance?' ^{9b}For look, your legacy has vanished from the earth—sons and daughters, my womb's birth pangs and labors, for whom I wearied myself with hardships in vain. ^{9c}And you? You sit in the refuse of worms as you spend the night in the open air. ^{9d}As for me, I am one that wanders about and a hired servant—from place to place and house to house, waiting for when the sun will set, so I can rest from the distresses and griefs that now beset me. ^{9e}Now say some word to the Lord and die!" ¹⁰But Job looked up and said to her, "You have spoken like one of the foolish women. If we received the good things from the Lord's hand, shall we not bear the bad?" In all these things that happened to him Job did not sin at all with his lips before God.

¹¹ Now when his three friends heard of all the troubles that had come upon him, they came to him, each one from his own country—Eliphaz^c, the king of the Thaimanites, Baldad, the tyrant of the Sauchites, Sophar, the king of the Minites. And they came to him of one accord, to comfort and to visit with him. ¹²But when they saw him from a distance, they did not recognize him, and they cried out with a loud voice and wept; each of them tore his robe, and they sprinkled themselves with dust. ¹³They sat with him seven days, [¹³*and seven nights*] and none of them spoke, for they saw that the calamity was dire and very great.

3 After this Job opened his mouth and cursed his day^d, ²saying:

- ³ "May the day perish in which I was born, and the night in which they said, 'Look, a man-child!'"
- ⁴ May that day be darkness! And may the Lord above not seek it, or light come to it.
- ⁵ But may darkness and deathly shadow seize it. May gloom come upon it.
- ⁶ May that day and night be cursed; may darkness carry it away! May it not exist among the days of the year or be numbered among the days of the months.
- ⁷ Rather, may that night be anguish, and may gladness and joy not come upon it.

^aHeb = euphemism ^bOm = Zi ^cEliphaz = Zi ^dI.e. the day of his birth

8 Rather, may he who curses that day curse it^a—
 he who is about to subdue the great sea-monster.
 9 May the stars of that night be dark;
 may it remain so and not be lit up,
 and may it not see the morning-star rising—
 10 because it did not shut the gates of my mother's womb,
 for it would have put away trouble from my eyes.
 11 "For what reason did I not die in the womb or come forth from the belly and not perish at once?
 12 Why then did knees meet me?
 Why then did I suck breasts?
 13 Now I would have lain down quiet and in sleep would have been at rest, 14 with kings, counselors of the earth,
 who used to act proudly thanks to rapiers, 15 or with rulers, who had much gold,
 who had filled their houses with silver.
 16 Or why was I not like a premature birth that comes from a mother's womb or like infants that did not see the light?
 17 There the impious have kindled a terrible
 wrath;
 there the very weary have found rest for the body,
 18 and those of old, together, have not heard the voice of the tax-gatherer.
 19 Small and great are there, and the attendant who lived in fear of his master.
 20 "Why then is light given to those in bitterness,
 and life to souls in pain, 21 who long for death and do not find it, though they are digging for it as for treasures?
 22 Yet they would be very joyful,
 if they were successful.
 23 Death is rest for such a man,
 for God shut him in.
 24 For sighing comes before my food,
 and I cry, gripped by fear.
 25 For fear—which was my worry—came to
 me,
 and the fear I dreaded befell me.
 26 I was neither at peace, nor did I have quiet, nor was I at rest, but anger came to me."

4 Now Eliphaz^b the Thaimanite said in reply, 2" Have you often been addressed when in distress?
 But who can endure the force of your
 words?
 3 So what, if you instructed many and encouraged the hands of the weak

 one,
 4 lifted up the weak with your words and wrapped feeble knees in courage—5 but now distress has come upon you and touched you, and you acted in haste.
 6 Is your fear not based on a lack of sense, so too your hope and the innocence of your way?
 7 "Think now, who, being pure, perished, or when did the true perish root and all?
 8 For instance, I saw those who plow wrongs, and those who sow them reap torments
 for themselves.
 9 By the command of the Lord they will
 perish,
 and by the breath of his anger they will disappear.
 10 The strength of the lion and the voice of the lioness
 and the pride of dragons^c was
 extinguished;
 11 the ant lion perished for lack of food, and lions' whelps abandoned one another.
 12 But if there had been anything truthful in your words,
 nothing bad in them would have met
 you.
 "Will my ear not receive remarkable things
 from him^d?
 13 Now there was awe and a ringing sound in the night—
 an awe falling on mortals; 14 then shuddering fell upon me, and a trembling,
 and my bones shook mightily.
 15 And a spirit came upon my face, and my hair and flesh quivered.
 16 I stood up,
 and I did not recognize it.
 I looked, and there was no shape before my
 eyes,
 though I heard a breeze and a voice:
 17 "What? Can a mortal be pure before the Lord,
 or a man be blameless in his actions?" 18 Whether he believes charges against his servants, ^ewho knows^e, but he took note of any crookedness in his angels.
 19 But as for those that inhabit houses of clay—
 being their offspring, we ourselves too are of the same clay—
 he struck them like a moth!
 20 And so between morning and evening they ceased to exist;
 they perished, because they were not able to help themselves.

^ai.e. that night ^bEliphaz = Zi ^cOr fearsome creatures ^di.e. the Lord ^eLacking in Gk 21 That is, he breathed on them, and they

withered;
they perished, because they did not possess wisdom.

5 "But call, if anyone will respond to you or if you will see any of the holy angels.
2 To be sure, anger kills the fool,
and jealousy slays the one misled.
3 Now, I have seen fools taking root, but at once their way of living was devoured.
4 May their children be far from safety, and may they be derided at the doors of their inferiors,
and there will be no one to deliver them.
5 For what they gathered, the upright shall eat,
and they will not be excepted from harmful things;
may their strength be drained.
6 For hardship shall not come from the
earth,
nor will trouble sprout from mountains, 7 but a human being is born to hardship, whereas the vulture's young soar on high.

8 "Nonetheless, I will entreat the Lord, and I will call on the Lord, the master of all,
9 who does great and inscrutable things,
things both glorious and extraordinary,
without number,
10 who gives rain on the earth, sending water on what is under heaven, 11 who sets on high those that are lowly and lifts up those that are in ruin, 12 frustrating the schemes of the crafty—and their hands shall not produce what is genuine,
13 he who takes the wise in their cleverness—and he subverted the scheming of the wily.
14 Darkness will meet them in the daytime, and may they grope at noonday as in the night.
15 And may they perish in war, and may the powerless escape from the hand of the mighty.
16 So may the powerless have hope,
but the mouth of the unjust be shut.

17 "But happy is the one whom the Lord reproved,
and do not reject the admonition of the Almighty,
18 for he makes one suffer and restores again;
he struck, and his hands healed.
19 Six times he will deliver you from troubles, and the seventh time no harm shall touch you.
20 In famine he will rescue you from death,

and in war he will free you from a blade's
power.
21 He shall hide you from the scourge of the
tongue,
and you shall not fear harmful things that come.
22 At the unjust and lawless you shall laugh, and you shall not fear wild animals—23 for wild animals shall be at peace with
you.
24 Next, you shall know that your household will be at peace,
and the livelihood of your tent shall not fall short.
25 And you shall know that your descendants will be many,
and your offspring shall be as the grass of the field.
26 And you shall come to your grave like ripe grain,
harvested at the right time,
or as a heap on the threshing floor,
gathered in its season.
27 Look, these things we traced to be so.
These are the things we have heard,
but do know for yourself whether you have done anything."

6 Now Job said in reply:
2 "If someone really sets about to weigh ^awhat angers me^a
and to put my sorrows together in a balance,
3 then indeed they will be heavier than the sand of the seashore,
but as it seems, my words are careless.
4 For the arrows of the Lord are in my body;
their wrath drinks my blood;
when I begin to speak, they pierce me.
5 Why, will the wild ass bray for no reason?
Is it not rather looking for grain?
Yes, and will an ox break into lowing at its manger when it has food?
6 Can bread be eaten without salt?
And is there any taste in empty words?
7 So my life cannot cease, for I loathe my food like the smell of a lion.
8 "O that he were willing, and my request proceed,
and the Lord would grant my hope.
9 Let the Lord begin by wounding me,
but let him not kill me outright.
10 And may my city, whose walls I used to leap upon, be my grave—
I will not spare myself, for I did not belie the holy words of my
God.
11 For what is my strength, that I endure, or what is my lifespan, that my life sustains itself?

^aOr my anger

12 Is my strength the strength of stones, or is my flesh bronze?
13 In truth, did I not trust in him?
But help is far from me.
14 "Mercy has renounced me, and the visitation of the Lord has disregarded me.
15 My nearest kin did not look at me;
like a wadi running dry or like a wave they passed by me.
16 Those who held me in respect have now fallen on me like snow
or like solid ice.
17 Just as, melted, with heat coming on,
it was not recognized for what it was,
18 so I too was abandoned by all,
and I perished and became homeless.
19 Look at the roads of the Thaimanites, the paths of the Sabeanes, you who see so clearly.
20 They also will incur shame, who put their confidence in cities and
wealth.
21 But yet you too trod on me without
mercy;
so now that you have seen my hurt, be afraid!
22 What? Did I ask anything of you?
Or, am I in need of your strength 23 to save me from enemies or to rescue me from the hand of the powerful?
24 "Teach me, and I will shut up;
if I have gone wrong in any way, show me.
25 Rather, it seems that the words of one who is genuine are careless,
so I do not seek strength from you.
26 Not even your reproof with words will make me stop,
nor indeed will I endure the sound of what you say.
27 Fact is, you fall on an orphan and jump on your friend.
28 "But now that I have looked into your faces
I will not lie.
29 Do sit down, and may no wrong be done, and gather again with him who is just.
30 For there is nothing at all unjust on my
tongue—
or does my throat not endeavor
understanding?
7 "Is not the life of a human being on earth a trial,
and is not his life like that of a day-laborer?
2 Or like an attendant who fears his master and finds shadow,
or like a wage-earner waiting for his wages?
3 I too spent empty months in this way, and nights of pain have been apportioned to me.

4 If I lie down, I say, 'When will it be day?' But when I get up, again I say, 'When will it be evening?' And I am full of pain from evening until
morning.
5 As well, my body is defiled with the rot of worms,
and I dissolve, scraping away lumps of dirt with the pus.
6 Again, my life is lighter than talk,
and it has perished in an empty hope.
7 "Remember then that my life is a breath, and my eye will never come to see good
again—
[8 the eye of one who beholds me will not look around for me;
your eyes are upon me, and I am no more!] 9 like a cloud, cleared from the sky.
For if a mortal goes down to Hades,
he does not come up again, 10 and he shall never return to his house, nor does his place know him any more.
11 "That said, however, I will not be sparing with my mouth;
I will speak, though I am in anguish;
I will open up the bitterness of my soul,
though I am in dire straits.
12 Am I Sea or Dragon, that you placed a guard over me?
13 I said, 'My couch will comfort me,' and 'I will have a word with myself privately on my bed.'
14 You scare me with dreams and terrify me with visions.
15 You will release my soul from my spirit and my bones from death.
16 For I will not live forever, or I would be patient.
Let me alone, for my life is empty.
17 What then is a human being, that you made so much of him
or that you turn your attention to him, 18 or will visit him until the morning and scrutinize him until he goes to rest?
19 How long are you going to restrict me and not let go of me, until I swallow my spittle in pain?
20 If I did sin, what can I do to you, you knower of the mind of humans?
Why did you make me your accuser,
and why am I a burden on you?
21 Why did you not assign my lawlessness to oblivion
and my sin to purging?
But now I shall depart to the ground, and early in the morning I shall be no more."

8 Now Baldad the Sauchite said in reply:
2 "How long will you say these things?"

3 They are a wordy wind of your mouth!
 Will the Lord act unjustly when he judges, or will the maker of all things pervert
 what is right?
 4 If your children sinned before him, he sent them off by force of their
 lawlessness.
 5 But you, quickly approach the Lord Almighty in prayer.
 6 If you are pure and genuine, he will hear your entreaty
 and restore to you a righteous way of life.
 7 Then, though your first things be few,
 your last things will be unspeakably many.
 8 "For inquire of an earlier generation, and trace it out through a line of ancestors;
 9 for we are of yesterday and we know
 nothing,
 for our life is a shadow on the earth.
 10 Really, will they not teach you and declare and bring forth words from the heart?
 11 "Does papyrus grow without water, or sedge become tall without drink?
 12 While it is still on the root, it will in no way be harvested;
 no plant becomes dry, in preference to drinking!
 13 Such indeed will be the end of all who forget the Lord,
 for the hope of the impious shall perish.
 14 For his house will be uninhabited, and his tent will prove to be a spider's web.
 15 If he props up his house, it will not stand, and when he lays hold of it, it will not remain, 16 for he is languid beneath the sun and his shoot will spread forth out of his rottenness.
 17 He goes to sleep on a gathering of stones,
 and he will live among rubble.
 18 If it swallows him up, the place will deny
 him;
 you have not seen such things, 19 because such is the ruin of the impious, but from the soil something else will sprout up.
 20 "For the Lord will not reject the blameless
 person,
 but no gift will he accept from the
 impious.
 21 But he will fill the mouths of the sincere with laughter
 and their lips with confession, 22 but their enemies will clothe themselves with shame,
 and the way of life of the impious will be no more."

9 Now Job said in reply:
 2"Of a truth I know that it is so,
 for how can a mortal be right before the
 Lord?
 3 For if one wishes to go to law with him, ^ahe will not even answer him^a, lest he contest one charge of his out of a thousand.
 4 For he is clever in mind, both powerful and big—who, though being unyielding, has endured against him?—
 5 he who ages mountains, and they do not know it,
 who overturns them in anger, 6 who shakes what is under heaven from its foundations,
 and its pillars tremble, 7 who speaks to the sun, and it does not rise,
 and seals up the stars, 8 who alone stretched out the sky and walks on the sea as on dry ground, 9 who makes Pleiades and Venus and Arcturus and the chambers of the south,
 10 who does great and inscrutable things,
 things both glorious and extraordinary,
 without number.
 11 If he passed over me, I would certainly not see him,
 and if he went by me, I would not even
 know.
 12 If he takes away, who will put back?
 Or who will say to him, 'What did you do?'
 13 "For he has not turned away from anger;
 the sea-monsters under heaven were bowed down by him.
 14 But if he has me respond, he will surely judge my words with discernment.
 15 For if I am in the right, he will not listen to
 me;
 [15 ※I will entreat his judgment]
 16 and if I call and he responds, I am not going to believe that he has given ear to me.
 17 Would he really crush me with gloom?
 But he has made my wounds many without cause.
 18 For he does not let me get my breath,
 but he has filled me with bitterness.
 19 Because, for one thing, he really prevails by force,
 who then can withstand his judgment?
 20 For instance, should I be right, my mouth will turn out impious!
 And should I be blameless, I will prove to be perverse!
 21 For even if I acted impiously, I do not know it within myself—

^aUnder ※ = Zi

22 except that my life is being taken away.
 Therefore I said, 'Anger destroys the great and powerful,
 23 because the worthless do exceptionally well
 in death,
 but those in the right are laughed to scorn—
 24 for they have been given over into the hands of the wicked.'
 [24 he covers the faces of its judges, and if it is not he, who is it?] 25 "Now, my life is swifter than a runner;
 they^a fled away, and they saw nothing.
 26 Is any trace at all left of a way taken by ships or of an eagle flying in search of prey?
 27 For if in fact I say, 'I will forget about speaking,
 with my face bowed down, I will groan.
 28 I quiver in all my limbs, for I know you will not let me be
 innocent.
 29 But since I am impious, why have I not died?
 30 For if I wash myself with snow and cleanse myself with pure hands, 31 you have plunged me fully in filth,
 and my robe abhorred me.
 32 For you are not a mortal like me, with whom I would contend,
 that we should agree to come to trial.
 33 Would that there were an arbiter for us and an investigator
 and one to hear the case between us two.
 34 Let him remove the rod from me,
 and let not the fear of him distract me—35 then I will not be afraid, but I will speak;
 for as it is, I am baffled.

10 "Weary within,
 I will let loose my words upon him in groans;
 I will speak, tormented by the bitterness of
 my soul,
 2 and I will say to the Lord, Do not teach me to be impious,
 and why did you judge me like this?
 3 Does it seem good to you, if I be in the wrong,
 that you despise the work of your hands
 but favored the advice of the impious?
 4 Do you see as a mortal sees?
 [4 or will you see as a human sees?] 5 Is your life human,
 or your years those of a man?
 6 Because you sought out my lawlessness and tracked down my sins.
 7 For you know that I did not act impiously, but who is there to deliver from your
 hands?
 8 Your hands fashioned me and made me;
 then you did an about face and struck
 me.

9 Remember that you fashioned me as clay, and you are going to return me again to
 earth.
 10 Did you not pour me out like milk and curdle me like cheese?
 11 You clothed me with skin and flesh and knitted me together with bones and sinews.
 12 Then you granted me life and mercy,
 and your care preserved my spirit.
 13 Since you have these things in you, I know that you can do anything,
 and nothing is impossible for you.
 14 For two things: should I sin, you watch me, and you have not acquitted me of
 lawlessness.
 15 For if I be impious, alas!
 If I be righteous, I cannot lift up my
 head,
 for I am filled with disgrace.
 16 To wit, I am hunted like a lion for killing, and again, you make an about face and destroy me terribly.
 17 You renewed your scrutiny of me and treated me with great anger and brought trials on me.
 18 "Why then did you bring me out of the womb?
 And why did I not die and no eye see me and I be as if I had not been?
 For why was I not carried from the womb to the grave?
 20 Is not the length of my life short?
 Let me rest a little 21 before I go whence I will not return, to a land, dark and gloomy, 22 to a land of perpetual darkness, where there is no light
 and no glimpse of human life."

11 Now Sophar the Minite said in reply:
 2 "He who says much will also listen in turn,
 or does he who is eloquent think he is right?
 Blessed is the short-lived offspring of woman.
 3 Do not become talkative,
 for there is no one to contend with you.
 4 For example, do not say, 'I am pure in my actions
 and blameless before him.'
 5 In that case, how could the Lord speak to
 you?
 [5 and he will open his lips with you?] 6 Then he will disclose to you the power of
 wisdom,
 because it will be double what you have.
 And then you will know that what has come upon you from the Lord is equal to your sins.

^ai.e. the days of my life

7 "Can you find the Lord's footprint, or have you reached the limits that the Almighty made?
8 Heaven is high, and what will you do?
And there are deeper things than in Hades; what do you know?
9 Or are they not more extensive than the measure of the earth
or the breadth of the sea?
10 And if he overturns all that is,
who will say to him, 'What did you do?' 11 Indeed he knows the deeds of the lawless, and when he sees wrongs, he will not look aside.
12 On the other hand, a human keeps afloat with words,
and a mortal, born of woman, is like a desert ass.
13 "For if you have made your heart pure, and you lift up your hands toward him—14 if anything lawless is in your hands, put it far away from you,
and let no injustice lodge in your dwelling.
15 For in this way your face will shine again like pure water,
and you will put away defilement, and you shall not fear.
16 And you will forget trouble like a passing wave and not be terrified.
17 And your prayer will be as the morning star,
and at midday life will dawn for you.
18 You will be confident, because there is hope
for you;
as well, out of worry and care peace will appear clearly for you, 19 for you will be at rest, and there will be no one to fight you;
instead, many will do an about face and entreat your favor.
20 But deliverance will fail them,
for their hope is destruction, and the eyes of the impious will waste
away."

12 Now Job said in reply:
2 "So you alone are human beings;
surely wisdom will die with you.

3 For one thing, I too have a heart, just like
you.
4 A just and blameless man, you see, has become a laughingstock.
5 To be sure, he had been ordained to fall under others for a set time and that his houses be plundered by the lawless.
6 Nonetheless, let the wicked not trust that he will be guiltless—
as many as provoke the Lord—as if indeed there will be no scrutiny of
them.

7 "But, do ask the quadrupeds, if they should speak to you,
and the birds of the air, if they should declare to you,
8 and tell the earth in detail, if it should expound to you.
[8 *and the fish of the sea will explain to you.
9 *Who among all these did not know *that the hand of the Lord made these things?] 10 Is not the life of all living things in his
hand,
and the breath of every human being?
11 For it is the mind that discerns words
but the throat that tastes food.
12 Wisdom comes with much time, and knowledge with much living.
13 "With him^a are wisdom and power; counsel and understanding are his.
14 If he tears down, who can rebuild?
If he shuts out people, who can open?
15 If he withholds the water, he will dry up the
earth,
but if he lets it loose, he has destroyed it
completely.
16 With him are strength and power; knowledge and understanding are his.
17 Leading counselors away captive, he maddened earthly judges.
18 Seating kings upon thrones,
[18 *and he bound their loins with a belt?] 19 sending away priests captive, he overthrew earth's mighty ones.
20 Disrupting the lips of the faithful, he found out the understanding of elders
[21 *pouring dishonor on rulers?]
21 ^bbut healed the humble^b.
22 Revealing deep things out of darkness,
he brought death's shadow to light.
[23 *leading nations astray and destroying them, *scattering nations and guiding them?] 24 Changing the hearts of earthly rulers, he made them wander by a way that they did not know:
25 'May they grope in the dark without light, and may they wander about like a drunkard.'

13 "Look, my eye has seen these things, and my ear has heard them, 2 and I know what you too understand and am no less intelligent than you.
3 Nonetheless, I will speak to the Lord and argue my case before him, if he wishes.
4 But you are injurious physicians and healers of wrong things, all of you.
5 But oh that you would be quiet and wisdom be yours as a result.
6 Hear the reasoning of my mouth,
and give heed to the argument of my lips.

^ai.e. the Lord ^bUnder *? = Zi

7 Are you not speaking before the Lord and uttering deceit before him?
8 Really? Will you prevaricate?
Go ahead; become judges yourselves!
9 It would indeed be good, if he traced your footsteps;
for if, in doing everything you can, you will join yourselves to him, 10 he will convict you nonetheless.
And even if secretly you will show partiality, 11 will not his terrors distract you and fear from him assail you?
12 Your arrogance, however, will turn out to be like ashes,
and your body made of clay.
13 "Be quiet! so I may speak and be relieved of rage.
14 Having taken my flesh in my teeth,
I will put my life in my hand.
15 Though the Mighty One overpower me—inasmuch as he has begun—certainly I will speak and argue my case
before him.
16 And this for me will prove to be salvation,
for deceit cannot enter before him.
17 Hear, hear my words,
for I will declare, while you listen.
18 Look, I am near my trial;
I know that I will be shown to be in the right.
19 For who is there that will find fault with
me?
[¹⁹ because now I will be quiet and expire]
20 But you shall indulge me in two things:
[²⁰ then I will not hide myself from your face] 21 withdraw your hand from me, and let fear of you not terrify me.
22 Then you will call, and I will answer you, or you will speak, and I will give you a response.
23 How many are my sins and my acts of
lawlessness?
Teach me what they are.
24 Why do you hide from me and regard me your opponent?
25 Will you really be wary of one that is like a windblown leaf,
or do you oppose me, one like windborne grass?—
26 because you wrote harmful things against
me
and surrounded me with the sins of my
youth.
27 And you put my foot in a hobble and watched all my actions, and you reached to the bottoms of my
feet.
28 A worn out thing, like a skin, ^aI am^a,
or like a moth-eaten garment.

14 "For a mortal, born of woman, is short-lived and full of aggravation 2 or, like a flower that has bloomed, drops
off
and flees like a shadow and will not halt.
3 Of him did you not in fact take account and make him enter into judgment
before you?
4 For who can be pure from filth? None, not
one!
5 Even if his life on the earth be but one day
and his months be counted out to him, you have set a time, and he shall not go beyond it.
6 Depart from him, that he may have quiet and enjoy life, like a wage-earner!
7 "For there is hope for a tree;
for if it is cut down, it will sprout again,
and its branch will not fail.
8 For, if its root grow old in earth and the crown of its root die in a rock, 9 at the scent of water it will sprout and produce a crop like one newly planted.
10 But a man, once dead, is gone,
and a mortal, once fallen, is no more.
11 For a sea with time diminishes,
and a river, laid waste, is dried up, 12 but a person, once lying down, shall never rise again
until the sky become unstitched.
[¹² and they will not be roused out of their sleep]
13 O that you had kept me in Hades and had concealed me until your anger had ceased,
and you had set me a time, when you would remember me.
14 For, if a person died, then would live
again,
when he has completed the days of his
life,
I would endure until I would be born
again.
15 Presently you would call, and I would answer you—
only do not reject the works of your
hands.
16 But you tabulated my pursuits,
and not one of my sins will pass by you, 17 and you have sealed up my lawless acts in a pouch
and marked down if I had somehow transgressed inadvertently.
[¹⁸ *but even a falling mountain will crumble
away,
and a rock will be worn out of its place.
and roiling waters eroded the mound of earth,
and you destroyed human endurance*] 19

^aLacking in Gk

20 “You thrust him aside completely, and he was gone;
you set your face against him and sent him away.
21 And though his sons become many, he does not know,
and if they become few, he is not aware.
22 Ah, but his flesh suffered pain, and his soul grieved.”

15 Now Eliphaz^a the Thaimanite said in reply:

2 “Will a wise man give an answer of windy insight,
and did he satisfy the ache in his belly—3 arguing with statements that are beside the point,
with words that are of no benefit?
4 Have you not as well set aside fear and exhausted such statements before the Lord?
5 You are guilty by the statements of your
mouth
and did not discern statements of the mighty.
6 May your mouth refute you, and not I,
and your lips will testify against you.
7 “What? Were you the first of the human race to be born?
Or were you established before the dunes?
8 Did you hear the plan of the Lord,
and did wisdom reach only you?
9 For what do you know that we do not know?
Or what do you understand that we do not as well?
[¹⁰ *※both the old and aged man are among us,
※more advanced in days than your father!*] 11 You have been scourged for but few of your sins;
you have spoken wildly extravagantly.
12 What did your heart dare, or what did your eyes set themselves
upon,
13 that you burst forth in rage before the Lord and brought out such remarks from your
mouth?
14 For who, being mortal, can be blameless, or who can be in the right, born of
woman?
15 If he places no faith in his holy ones,
then heaven is not pure before him.
16 But aha, abominable and impure,
a man drinking injustices like a drink!
17 “But I will declare to you; hear me; indeed, what I have seen I will declare to
you—18 what sages will say
and did not hide from their ancestors; 19 to them alone the earth was given,

and no alien came upon them.
20 The entire life of the impious is spent in anxiety,
and the years given to the mighty are numbered.
21 And the dread of him is in his ears;
just when he thinks he is at peace, his destruction will come.
22 Let him not believe he will return from
darkness,
for he has already been consigned to a blade’s power;
23 moreover, he has been allocated as food for vultures,
and he knows within himself that he remains as a carcass.
And a dark day will whirl him around, 24 and distress and anguish will take hold of
him;
he will be like a general falling in the front rank.
25 Because he lifted his hands against the Lord and stiffened his neck against the Lord Almighty
and ran against him with insolence, [²⁶ ※with the thickness of the back of his shield,
²⁷ *※because he covered his face with his fat
※and made it a band on his thighbones!*] 28 then may he lodge in desolate cities and enter uninhabited houses, and what they prepared, others will carry
away.
29 Neither shall he ever become rich, nor shall his possessions last.
He shall not cast a shadow upon the
ground,
30 nor shall he escape darkness.
May the wind dry up his bud,
and may his blossom fall off.
31 Let him not believe that he will endure,
for emptiness will turn out to be his lot.
32 His stump will perish before its time,
and his branch will provide no cover.
33 But may he be picked like unripe grapes,
before his time,
and fall off, like an olive blossom.
34 For the testimony of the impious is death, and fire will burn the houses of bribe-takers.
35 And he will conceive sorrows,
and his lot will turn out to be emptiness, and his belly will carry deceit.”

16 Now Job said in reply:
2 “I have heard many such things; comforters of what’s worthless are you
all.

3 What? Is there any rhyme or reason to windy words?
[³ ※or what will provoke you, that you are answering!]
4 I also would talk as you do,

^aEliphaz = Zi

if your life were in fact in the place of mine;
 then I would jump at you with words and shake my head at you.
 5 But may there be strength in my mouth— then I shall not spare you the moving of my lips!
 6 For if I speak, I shall not aggravate my wound, but even if I remain silent, how shall I be wounded less?
 7 “But as it is, he has made me worn out, a fool, wasted away.
 [8 ✱and you took hold of me, which became a testimony;
✱and my lie rose up against me—
✱it answered back to my face!]
 9 Acting in wrath, he has thrown me down;
 he has gnashed his teeth at me;
 his brigands’ arrows fell on me.
 10 With darts from his eyes he dashed at me;
 he struck me on the cheek with something sharp,
 and they ran at me with one accord.
 11 For the Lord delivered me into the hands of the unjust and cast me to the impious.
 12 When I was at peace, he scattered me;
 he seized me by the hair and pulled it out;
 he set me up like a target.
 13 They surrounded me with spears, hurling them into my kidneys, without sparing;
 they poured out my gall on the ground.
 14 They threw me down, fall upon fall;
 they rushed at me powerfully.
 15 I sewed sackcloth upon my skin,
 and my strength was extinguished in dust.
 16 My belly is aflame from weeping, and there is a shadow on my eyelids.
 17 But there was nothing unjust in my hands,
 and my prayer was pure.
 18 “O earth, do not cover up the blood of my flesh, nor may there be a place for my cry.
 19 Even now, look, my witness is above,
 and my corroborator is on high.
 20 May my petition reach the Lord, and before him may my eye shed a tear.
 21 And may a man have proof before the Lord!
 [21 ✱and a son of man for his neighbor!]
 22 But the numbered years have come to an end, and I shall go the way by which I shall not return.

17 “I perish, being carried off by the wind, and I beg for burial and do not find it.
 2 I pray wearily, and what have I achieved?

3 No, strangers have stolen my possessions,
 [3 ✱who is this? Let him join hands with me.
 4 ✱Because you have hid their heart from intelligence, ✱therefore you shall not exalt them.
 5 ✱He will report evils to the party!]
 5 and my eyes have dissolved over my children.
 6 “And you have made me a byword among nations, and I have become a laughing-stock to them,
 7 for my eyes have turned to stone from anger;
 I am greatly besieged by all.
 8 Wonder at this has seized the truthful, and may the just rise up against the transgressor, 9 and the faithful hold to his own way,
 and may one with pure hands take courage.
 10 Nonetheless, you all keep pressing hard, [10 ✱and do come!]
 for I find nothing true in you.
 11 My days have passed in a roar,
 and my heartstrings were broken.
 [12 ✱they have made night into day;
✱light is near ^afrom before^a darkness!]
 13 For if I last, Hades is my house, and my bed lies spread in gloom.
 14 I called on death to be my father and decay to be my mother and sister.
 15 Where then is yet my hope?
 Shall I see my goods?
 16 Will they go down with me to Hades?”
 [16 ✱or shall we go down of one accord to the grave!]

18 Now Baldad the Sauchite said in reply:
 2 “How long before you stop?
 Hold back, so that we too can speak.
 3 Why have we, like quadrupeds, been silent before you?
 4 Anger has used you.
 What? If you die, will what is under heaven be uninhabited?
 Or will mountains be overthrown from their foundations?
 5 “Yes, the light of the impious will be put out,
 and their flame will not do well.
 6 His light is darkness in his dwelling, and his lamp will be put out on him.
 7 May those of least account chase down his possessions, and may his counsel trip him up.
 8 But his foot has been thrust into a snare;
 may he be entangled in a net,
 9 and may snares come upon him!

^aPossibly because of [9] he^a will strengthen those who thirst against him;

 10 his rope is hid in the ground, and the means of his capture upon paths.] 11 May pains destroy him on every side, and may many beset him in severe famine.
 12 But an extraordinary fall has been prepared for him—
 13 may the digits of his feet be devoured, and death will consume his maturity.
 14 And may healing be torn from his dwelling, and may duress take hold of him by royal charge.
 [15 it will encamp in his tent in his night;
his lovely things will be sown with brimstone; 16 his roots will be dried up beneath,
and his crop will fall off above.] 17 May mention of him perish from earth; [17 and he has no name before the face of the wider outside.] 18 may he^a drive him away from light into darkness.
 19 He will no longer be known among his
 people,
 nor will his house be preserved on what is under heaven;
 rather, others will live in what is his.
 20 The last groaned over him,
 and wonder seized the first.
 21 These are the houses of the unjust, and this is the place of those that do not know the Lord.”

19 Now Job said in reply:
 2 “How long will you make my soul weary
 and destroy me with words?
 3 Know only that the Lord treated me this
 way;
 you speak against me; shamelessly you press upon me.
 4 Yes indeed, I have truly erred, and error lodges with me—
 to have spoken a word that was not fitting,
 and my words err and are inappropriate.
 5 But alas, it is because you magnify yourselves against me
 and jump at me with reproach.
 6 Know then that it is the Lord who troubles
 me,
 and he raised up his stronghold against
 me.
 7 Look, I laugh at reproach, and I will not speak;
 I will cry out, and nowhere is there
 judgment.
 8 I am hemmed in all around and cannot get
 out;
 he has placed darkness upon my face.
 9 And he has stripped my glory from me and taken the crown from my head.

10 He totally isolated me, and I was gone, and he has cut down my hope like a tree.
 11 And he has dealt with me terribly in anger and has counted me as an enemy.
 12 And with one accord his gangs of brigands came against me;
 they encircled me on my paths, lying in ambush.
 13 “And my brothers turned away from me;
 they recognized strangers rather than me.
 And friends of mine became merciless.
 14 My nearest kin disowned me, and those who knew my name forgot
 me.
 15 As for neighbors next door and my servant girls—
 I became an alien to them.
 16 I called my attendant, and he did not respond;
 yet my mouth kept pleading.
 17 I also repeatedly implored my wife, and, using flattery, I kept summoning sons of my concubines, 18 but they rejected me for all time;
 when I rise, they talk against me.
 19 My acquaintances abhorred me,
 and those I had loved rose up against me.
 20 My flesh rotted under my skin,
 and my bones are held in my teeth.
 21 Pity me; pity me, O my friends, for it is the Lord’s hand that has touched
 me.
 22 But why do you pursue me just as the Lord does,
 and why are you not satisfied with my flesh?
 23 “For who would grant that my words be written
 and that they be put in a book forever [24 with an iron and lead pen.]
 24 or be carved in rock?
 25 To be sure, I know that he who is about to undo me on earth is everlasting.
 26 May my skin, which patiently endures these things, rise up;
 for these things have been accomplished
 on me by the Lord—27 things I am conscious of in myself, things my eye has seen and no other,
 and all of them have come to an end for me in my bosom.
 28 But even if you say, ‘What shall we say
 before him?’
 [28 and the root of the matter we will find in
him.]
 29 Do as well be afraid of a cover-up, for wrath will come upon the lawless, and then they will find out where their substance is.”

20 Now Sophar the Minite said in reply:
 2 "I did not suppose that you would counter these things so,
 and surely the rest of you have gained no better understanding than I—[3] *I will hear instruction of my shame,
 *and a spirit from understanding answers me.
 4 *Did you not know these things before now?] 4 not since mortals were placed on the
 earth!
 5 For the merriment of the impious ends in an extraordinary fall,
 and the enjoyment of transgressors in
 destruction,
 6 even if his gifts go up to heaven and his sacrifices touch the clouds.
 7 For just when he thinks he is firmly established,
 at that point he will be utterly
 destroyed,
 and those who saw him will say, 'Where is he?'
 8 Like a dream that has taken to flight, he shall not be found,
 but he has flown away like a nocturnal apparition!
 [9] *an eye caught a glimpse and will not continue,
 *and his place will observe him no longer.] 10 "May his inferiors do away with his sons, and his hands kindle pains.
 [11] *his bones were filled with his youth,
 *and it will lie down with him on a burial mound.
 12 *If evil is sweet in his mouth,
 *he will hide it under his tongue; 13 *he will not spare it and will not leave it behind *and will hold it in the middle of his throat.] 14 And he shall not be able to help himself.
 [14] *the venom of an asp is in his belly.] 15 "Wealth being gathered unjustly will be disgorged;
 a messenger will drag it out of his
 house.
 16 And may he suck the wrath of dragons, and may a snake's tongue kill him.
 17 May he not see the milk of pastures nor pasturage of honey and butter.
 18 Vainly and foolishly he has toiled for wealth of which he will not taste;
 it will be like something tough, unchewable, impossible to swallow.
 19 For he has broken down the houses of many who are powerless,
 and he has seized a dwelling, though he did not build it.
 20 "His possessions hold no security for him;
 [20] *in his desire he will not escape.
 21 *There is nothing left of his provisions.]
 21 therefore his goods will not flourish.

22 But just when he thinks he has fully satisfied himself, he will be afflicted,
 and every distress will come upon him.
 [23] *if somehow he would fill his belly.] 23 May he^a send on him fierce wrath;
 may he wash pains on him.
 24 And he shall not escape a blade's power;
 may a bronze bow wound him.
 25 Yes, may an arrow pass through his body, and may lightning bolts strut about in his dwellings.
 [25] *terrors upon him.]
 26 Then may utter darkness await him; unquenchable fire will devour him—
 and may a stranger afflict his house.
 27 And may heaven uncover his acts of
 lawlessness
 and earth rise up against him.
 28 May destruction drag his house to an end;
 may a day of anger come upon him.
 29 This is the portion of an impious person
 from the Lord,
 and possession of his things is from the Overseer."

21 Now Job said in reply:
 2 " Listen, listen to my words, lest this be your consolation for me.
 3 Lift me up, and I will speak;
 then you will not laugh me to scorn.
 4 What? My argument is not with a mortal, is it?
 Or, why should I not be angry?
 5 Look at me, and marvel, laying your hand on your cheek.
 6 For even when I remember, I am in haste,
 and pains seize my flesh.
 7 Why do the impious live on and grow old, even in wealth?
 8 Their progeny are according to their
 pleasure,
 and their children in their sight.
 9 Their houses prosper without any fear, and no scourge from the Lord is upon
 them.
 10 Their cow did not miscarry, and their pregnant one came through safely and did not falter.
 11 And they remain as ageless sheep, and their children play about when they take up the harp and lyre and make merry to the sound of a melody.
 12 And they finished their life in prosperity and lay down in the repose of Hades.
 14 But he^b says to the Lord, 'Stay away from
 me;
 I do not wish to know your ways.' [15] *what is the Sufficient One that we should be subject to him?

- 16 and what profit is there that we should approach him]
 For their good things were in their hands, but he^a does not regard the works of the
 impious.
- 17 “Nonetheless, the lamp of the impious shall also be put out,
 and destruction shall come upon them,
 and sharp pains shall seize them, because of anger.
- 18 And they shall be as chaff before the wind or as dust that the whirlwind has sucked
 up.
- 19 May his possessions fail his sons.
 [19 he^a will make payment back to him, and he will know]
- 20 May his eyes see his own slaughter, and may he not escape from the Lord.
- [21 because what is his desire in his house after him?
And the number of his months has been cut off]
- 22 Is it not the Lord who teaches
 understanding and knowledge?
 But he will discerningly judge murders.
- [23 he shall die in the strength of his sincerity, and wholly at ease and prosperous]
- 24 And ^bhis inwards are full of fat^b, and his marrow is being dispersed.
- 25 And he dies of bitterness of soul,
 not eating anything good.
- 26 But one and all, they lay down on the
 ground,
 and decay covered them.
- 27 “So I know you, that you daringly attack
 me.
- [28 because you will say, ‘Where is the house of the ruler?’
and ‘Where is the shelter of the coverts of the impious?’
- 29 Ask those who pass by the way,
and their signs you will not dismiss, 30 that the wicked obtains relief for the day of destruction;
they will be carried off to the day of his wrath.
- 31 Who will declare his way to his face,
and he acted, who will repay him?
- 32 And he has been carried away to the graves,
and he has watched over the bier.
- 33 The pebbles of the wadi were sweet to him,
and every mortal will follow after him,
and those before him are innumerable]
- 34 How then will you comfort me with emptiness?
 And I have no rest at all from you.”
- 22 Now Eliphaz^c the Thaimanite said in reply:
 2 “Is it not the Lord who teaches
 understanding and knowledge?
- 3 For what does it matter to the Lord
 if you were blameless in your actions?
- [3 or is it an advantage that you will make your way simple]
- 4 Though he makes an account of you, will he reprove you,
 and will he go to trial with you?
- 5 Is your evil not abundant, and are your sins not without number?
- 6 Yes, you used to take your brothers in pledge for no reason and took away the clothing of the naked.
- 7 Nor did you give water to the thirsty to
 drink
 but withheld a morsel from the hungry.
- 8 And you made favorites of some
 and settled them on the land, 9 but you sent away widows empty and mistreated orphans.
- 10 Therefore snares have encircled you,
 and an extraordinary conflict has hurried
 you.
- 11 The light has proved to be darkness for
 you,
 and water has covered you while you slept.
- 12 “Does not he who dwells on high observe,
 and has he not humbled those borne along by pride?
- [13 and you said, ‘What does the Strong One know?’
Will he judge down through the gloom?
 14 Clouds are his hiding-place, and he will not be seen, and he will pass through the circle of heaven.’
- 15 Will you keep the ageless way that unjust men trod
- 16 who were seized before their time?
Their foundations are a flooding river]
- 17 Those who say, ‘What will the Lord do to
 us?’
 or, ‘What will the Almighty bring against
 us?’ —
- 18 yet he it was who filled their houses with good things,
 though the counsel of the impious is far
 from him.
- 19 Those in the right laughed when they saw it,
 and the blameless mocked.
- [20 except their substance vanished,
and fire will consume what of theirs is left]
- 21 “Do be unyielding, if you would endure;
 then your fruit will prosper.
- 22 And accept an utterance from his mouth,
 and take up his words in your heart.
- 23 And if you turn and humble yourself before
 the Lord,
 you have put what is unjust far from your
 dwelling.

^ai.e. the Lord ^bas for his inwards, he is full of fat = Zi ^cEliphaz = Zi

[24] you will place on a mound in a rock and as though in a rock of^a a wadi of Ophir¹] 25 Therefore the Almighty will be your help from enemies,
 and he will render you pure as silver tried by fire.
 26 Then you will speak frankly before the Lord, looking up to heaven cheerfully.
 27 And when you pray to him, he will listen to
 you
 and give to you to pay your vows.
 28 Yes, he will restore to you a righteous way of
 life,
 and there will be light on your ways." [29] because he humbled him, and you will say,
 'He acted arrogantly.'
And he will save one bent forward with the
eyes;
 30 he will deliver the innocent and be preserved by your pure hands¹]

23 Job said in reply:
 2 "Yes, I do know that argumentation is out of my reach,
 and his hand has become heavy on my
 groaning.
 3 But who would then know that I might find
 him
 and come to a resolution?
 4 But oh that I could state my case before
 him
 and fill my mouth with arguments.
 5 Then I would know the words that he would say to me
 and perceive what he would declare to
 me.
 6 Even if he comes upon me with great
 strength,
 then he will not treat me with a threat;
 7 for truth and reproof are from him—but oh that he would bring my case to an end!
 8 "For I will go first and be no more,
 and what do I know about things at the end?
 [9] when he acted on the left, then I did not grasp
it;
on the right he will encircle me, and I will not see it¹]
 10 For he already knows my way and has discerningly judged me like gold.
 11 But I will go forth when he commands, for I have kept his ways and I will never turn aside.
 12 Nor shall I go away from what he commands,
 but I have treasured his words in my
 bosom.
 13 But if even he has so judged, who is there to contradict him?
 For what he has wanted he also has done.

15 Therefore I am in haste about him, and when I was admonished, I gave heed
 to him.
 [15] at this let me hasten from his presence;
I will^b observe, and I will be terrified of him¹] 16 But the Lord enfeebled my heart, and the Almighty hurried me.
 17 For I did not know that darkness would come upon me,
 but gloom has fallen as a covering before my face.

24 "But why did times escape the notice of the Lord,
 2 and the impious overstepped the limit,
 when they seized flock with shepherd?
 3 They led away the orphans' beast of burden
 and took the widow's ox in pledge.
 4 They turned aside the powerless from the righteous way.
 [4] the meek of the earth have hidden of one accord¹]
 5 And they proved to be like donkeys in a field,
 because of me doing their own thing.
 [5] the bread he had was sweet to the young¹]
 6 They reaped a field not their own before its
 time,
 but the powerless worked vineyards of the impious without pay or food.
 7 They made many go to sleep naked, without clothes,
 and took away the covering from their
 person.
 [8] they are wet with the showers of the mountains¹]
 8 Because they had no shelter, they surrounded themselves with rock.
 9 "They snatched the orphan from the breast and humiliated one that had fallen.
 10 And they had the naked sleep, unjustly, and took away the morsel of the hungry.
 11 They unjustly laid in wait in narrow places and did not know the righteous way.
 12 Those who cast them^c out of the city and their own houses,
 though the soul of the young groaned loudly—
 and he, why has he^d not paid these a visit?
 13 "While they were on earth, they did not even notice them,
 and they did not know the way of
 righteousness,
 nor did they travel its pathways.
 14 But when he knew their deeds, he handed them over to darkness.
 [14] and at night he will be like a thief.
 [15] And the eye of the adulterer watched for
 darkness,

*saying, 'No eye will observe me,'
 *and he placed a concealment of his face.
 16 *In the dark he dug through houses;
 *by day they sealed themselves up;
 *they did not know light, 17 *because with one accord the morning is death's shadow to them,
 *because he will recognize the troubles of
 death's shadow.
 18 *He is nimble on the face of the water!]
 18 "May their earthly portion be cursed, 19 and may their plants on earth appear
 withered,
 for they seized the orphans' armful.
 20 Then ^ahis sin was remembered^a,
 and he disappeared like a dewy mist,
 but may what he did be paid back to him,
 and may every unjust person be crushed
 like an incurable tree!
 21 "For he did not treat well the barren woman and had no pity on the weak woman.
 22 And in wrath he overthrew the powerless.
 Therefore, when he has risen up,
 he will not feel secure about his own life.
 23 When he is sickly, let him not hope to regain health;
 rather, he will fall by disease.
 24 For his loftiness harmed many,
 but he shriveled away like a mallow in
 the heat
 or as an ear of corn, fallen off the stalk of itself.
 25 But if it is not so, who is there to say that I speak what is false?"
 [25 *and will he place my words as nothing!]

25 Now Baldad the Sauchite said in reply:
 2 "Why, what preamble or fear is there
 with him,
 he who on high keeps making the entire
 earth?
 3 For would there be anyone who thinks there is respite for brigands?
 And upon whom will not come ambushes from him?
 4 For how can a mortal be right before the Lord?
 Or who, born of woman, could purify
 himself?
 5 If he instructs the moon, then it does not shine,
 and the stars are not pure before him.
 6 But alas, a human being is rot!"
 [6 *and a son of man is a worm!]

26 Now Job said in reply:
 2 "To whom are you devoted, or to whom are you about to provide help?
 Is it not to him who has much strength and a strong arm?

3 With whom have you taken counsel?
 Is it not with him who has all wisdom?
 Or whom will you follow?
 Is it not he who has the greatest
 power?
 4 To whom did you utter words?
 And whose breath is it that comes forth
 from you?
 [5 *will giants be brought forth
 *beneath the water and its neighbors?
 6 *Hades is naked before him,
 *and there is no covering for destruction.
 7 *Stretching out the north over nothing,
 *hanging the earth upon nothing.
 8 *Binding water in his clouds,
 *and the mass of cloud is not torn open under
 it.
 9 *He who holds firmly the face of the throne,
 *spreading over it his mass of cloud.
 10 *He circumscribed a decree on the face of the waters,
 *as far as the limit of light with darkness.
 11 *The pillars of heaven were spread wide *and were astonished from his rebuke!] 12 By force he calmed the sea, and by knowledge he struck down the sea-monster,
 13 and heaven's bars fear him, and by decree he put to death the rebellious dragon.
 [14 *look, these are parts of his way,
 *and at a droplet of a word we will give ear to
 him!]
 14 And the force of his thunder—who knows when it will act?"

27 Now Job, yet further to his preamble, said:
 2 "The Lord lives, who has judged me so,
 and the Almighty, who has embittered
 my soul—
 3 indeed, while my breath is still within me and a divine puff of air is what remains in my nostrils,
 4 my lips will not speak lawless things,
 nor will my soul ponder injustices.
 5 Far be it from me to declare that you are right, until I die,
 for I will not relinquish my innocence.
 6 But holding fast to righteousness, I will never let it go,
 for I am not conscious within myself of having done anything amiss.
 7 "Nonetheless, may my enemies be like the ruin of the impious,
 and those who rise up against me like the destruction of the transgressors.
 8 To be sure, what hope does the impious have that he hangs on?
 When he trusts in the Lord, will he be
 saved?
 9 Will the Lord listen to his petition?

^aOr sin remembered him

10 Or when distress comes upon him, does he have any confidence before him?
Or as he calls upon him, will he listen to
him?

11 Well then, I will declare to you what is in the Lord's hand;
what is with the Almighty, I will not falsify.

12 Look here, all of you know that you are piling nothing upon
nothing.

13 "This is the portion of an impious person
from the Lord,
and the possession of the powerful will come from the Almighty upon
them.

14 Now if his sons be many, they shall be for slaughter,
and if perchance they reach manhood,
they shall be beggars.

15 And those of his who survive will end in
death,
and no one will pity their widows.

16 If he gathers silver like dirt and prepares gold like clay, 17 all these the righteous will gain, and his money the truthful will possess.

18 And his house turned out like moths and like a spider's web.

19 Though he lies down rich, he will not in fact add to it.

[19] he opened his eyes, and he is not]

20 Pain came upon him like water, and gloom carried him off by night.

[21] burning wind will take him up, and he will depart,

and it will winnow him from his place.

22 And it will hurl at him and not spare;

he will flee in flight from its hand.

23 It will strike their hands against them and hiss him from his place]

28 "For silver has a place from which it comes,
and gold a place from where it is sifted.

2 For whereas iron comes out of the earth, copper is quarried like stone.

3 He imposed order on darkness,

[3] and he searches out every limit;

stone is darkness and death's shadow,

4 clefth of a wadi, away from dust]

4 and those of mortals who kept forgetting the righteous way became weak.

[5] as for the earth—out of it will come bread;

under it, it was turned about like fire.

6 Its stones are the place of lapis lazuli,

and its mound has gold.

7 The path—no bird has known it, and the vulture's eye has not glanced at it.

8 The sons of braggarts have not trodden it;

the lion has not passed over it.

9 He stretched out his hand with sharp rock]

9 And he overturned mountains from their roots

10 and broke whirlpools of rivers—

and my eye saw every precious thing.

11 And he uncovered rivers' depths and showed his own power to the light.

12 "But wisdom—where was it found?

And of what sort is the place of
knowledge?

13 No mortal knows its way, nor will it ever be discovered among

human beings.

[14] the deep said, 'It is not in me,' and the sea said, 'It is not with me.'

15 *He will not give a confinement in its place, and silver cannot be weighed in exchange for
it.*

16 And it cannot rank with the gold of Ophir, with precious onyx and lapis lazuli.

17 Gold and glass cannot equal it, nor is its exchange a gold vessel.

18 Celestial objects and gabis^a cannot be mentioned,

and draw wisdom above what is innermost.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia will not be equal to it; with pure gold it cannot be compared]

20 "But wisdom—where was it found?

And of what sort is the place of
knowledge?

21 It has escaped notice by any human,

[21] and it was hidden from birds of the air.

22 Destruction and death said]

22 but we have heard of its renown.

23 "God has established well its way,
and he himself knows its place,

24 for he observes all that is under heaven, since he knows all the earth contains, that which he made—

25 the weight of winds and the measures of
water!

26 When he had done so, ^bhe looked and ^b made a count;

[26] and a way^c in the shaking, noises;

27 then he saw it and declared it]

27 since he prepared them, he kept track of
them.

28 And he said to humankind, "Look, the worship of God is wisdom, and to stay away from evil is

knowledge."

29 Now Job, yet further to his preamble, said:
2 "Who might put me in a month of former days,

when God watched over me,

3 as when his lamp would shine over my
head,

when by his light I strode in darkness,

4 when I was pressing on my ways,
 when God would pay a visit to my house, 5 when I was very much a person of substance
 and my children were around me, 6 when my roads were flowing with butter and my hills flowed with milk!— 7 when I would go out early in the city and my seat was placed in the squares.
 8 When young men saw me, they hid,
 and the aged, all of them stood, 9 and prominent men stopped talking, putting a finger to their mouth.
 10 And those who heard counted me happy,
 [10] ✱and their tongues stuck to their throat.
 11 ✱Because the ear heard and pronounced me
happy.]
 11 and the eye that saw me averted its glance, 12 for I delivered the poor from the hand of the powerful,
 and the orphan, who had no helper, I helped,
 [13] ✱may the blessing of the one perishing come upon me.]
 13 and the widow's mouth blessed me.
 14 Yes, I put on righteousness and was clothed with justice like a cloak.
 15 I was the eye of the blind and the foot of the lame.
 16 It was I that was a father to the powerless, and a case I did not know I investigated.
 17 And I broke the molars of the unjust and tore prey from between their teeth.
 18 And I said, 'My manhood will see old age;
 I shall live a long while, like the trunk of a palm tree.'
 [19] ✱the root has opened out upon water,
✱and dew will lodge on my crop.
 20 ✱My glory is fresh with me,
✱and my bow will go in its^a hand.] 21 "When they heard me, they took heed and fell silent at my counsel.
 22 And they did not add to what I said but became overjoyed whenever I spoke to them.
 23 As thirsty earth welcomes the rain,
 so these welcomed what I said.
 24 If I smiled toward them, they would not believe it.
 [24] ✱and the light of my face did not fade.
 25 ✱I chose their way and sat as ruler,
✱and I used to encamp like a king among light-armed men,
✱as one comforting mourners.]

30 "But now they have laughed me to scorn;
 now the least of them reprove me in turn—[1] ✱whose fathers I used to disdain.] whom I did not deem worthy of my shepherd dogs!

[2] ✱indeed, the strength of their hands—what is it
to me?
✱Completion perished upon them.
 3 ✱In want and hunger, he was childless,
✱those who yesterday were fleeing an arid place, ✱dismay and misery,
 4 ✱those who break off saltwort at one making a sound.]
 4 Who indeed! Saltwort was their food, and they were without honor and disparaged, in want of everything
 good,
 who also chewed on tree roots out of great hunger.
 5 Thieves have risen up against me,
 6 whose houses were caves in the rocks,
 [7] ✱among pleasant sounds they will cry out.]
 7 who spent their lives under wild bushes—
 8 sons of fools and of people dishonored in
 name,
 and a reputation quenched from earth.
 9 "But now I am their lyre,
 and they have me as a byword;
 10 yes, they abhorred me, standing afar off, and they did not spare my face their spit.
 11 For he^b opened his quiver and harmed me, [11] ✱and they have cast off the restraint of my
presence.
 12 ✱On the right of offspring they rose up;
✱they stretched out their foot ✱and leveled out upon me paths of their
destruction.
 13 ✱My paths were erased.]
 13 for he took off my robe.
 14 He shot me down with his arrows;
 he has treated me as he wishes; I am a jumble of pain.
 15 My pains are returning;
 my hope has gone away like a puff of air,
 and my safety like a cloud.
 [16] ✱and now my soul will be poured out upon me.]
 16 "And days of pain seize me, 17 while at night my bones are inflamed, and my sinews are dissolved.
 18 With great force he took hold of my robe.
 [18] ✱he encircled me like the collar of my tunic.]
 19 "And you have treated me like clay;
 my lot is in dust and ashes.
 20 But I have cried to you, and you do not listen to me.
 [20] ✱they stood and observed me.]
 21 Yes, you fell upon me without mercy; with a strong hand you have scourged
 me,
 22 and you arrayed me in pains.
 [22] ✱and you cast me away from deliverance.]

23 You see, I know that death will crush me, for earth is home to every mortal.

24 “Oh that I might be able to lay hands on myself
or, at least, entreat another, and he will do this for me.

25 But I, I wept over every powerless person, and I groaned when I saw a man in dire straits.

26 But I, when I was intent on good, look, days of evil met me all the more.

[27 *※my belly boiled, and it will not be still;
※days of poverty outran me!*]

28 I have gone about, groaning without restraint,
and I have stood in the assembly, crying
out.

29 I have become a brother of sirens and a companion of ostriches.

30 As well, my skin has blackened greatly,
and my bones, from heat.

31 Yes, my lyre has been turned into mourning,
and my melody into weeping for me.

31 [*※I made a covenant with my eyes,
※and I will not take note of a virgin.
2 ※And what has God apportioned from above,
※and is there an inheritance of the Sufficient
One from on high?
3 ※Does not destruction belong to the unrighteous,
※and alienation to those who do lawlessness?
4 ※Will he not see my way,
※and all my steps be counted!*]

5 “But if I had walked with jesters and if too my foot hurried to deceit, 6 then may he^a place me in a just balance—
but the Lord knows my innocence.

7 If my foot has turned aside from the way and if too my heart followed my eye and if too I touched gifts with my
hands,
8 then may I sow and others eat, and may I become without root on
earth.

9 “If my heart followed another man’s wife,
if in fact I lay in wait at her doors, 10 then may my wife too be pleasing to
another,
and may my children be humiliated.

11 For a fit of passion is uncontrollable, namely, the defiling of a man’s wife; 12 for a fire is set burning in all parts, and wherever it has gone, it has destroyed root and branch.

13 “And if too I have disparaged the case of my male or female attendant
when they bring a complaint against me,

14 what then shall I do, if the Lord puts me under scrutiny?
And if too he pays a visit, what answer shall I give?

15 Just as I was conceived in the belly, were not they also?
Yes, we were conceived in the same cavity.

16 “But as for the powerless, what need they had—I did not miss it, and the eye of the widow I did not let waste away.

17 And if too I ate my morsel alone and did not share with the orphan, [18 *※because from my youth I nurtured like a father
※and from my mother’s womb I gave guidance!*]

19 and if too I overlooked a naked person, perishing,
and did not clothe him, 20 and as for the powerless, if they did not bless me—
yet their shoulders were warmed with the fleece of my lambs—

21 if I raised a hand against an orphan, confident that I have much help at my disposal,

22 then may my shoulder separate from its socket
and my arm be crushed from the elbow.

23 To be sure, fear of the Lord controlled me.
[23 *※and because of his load I shall not endure.
24 ※If I arrayed gold as my strength!*]

24 “And if too I trusted in a precious stone 25 and if too I rejoiced when much wealth accrued to me
and if too I placed my hand on things
without number—

26 indeed do I not see the shining sun setting, and the moon waning? For they do not have it in them.

[27 ※and if my heart was secretly enticed!]

27 And if too I placed my hand on my mouth and kissed it, 28 then may this too be reckoned to me as the greatest lawlessness,
because I played false before the Lord
Most High.

29 “And if too I was gratified at my enemies’
fall,
and my heart said, ‘Good!’—

30 then may my ear hear a curse against me; yes, then may I be gossiped about by my people as one afflicted.

31 And if too my female attendants often said, ‘Who might grant us to be filled with his flesh?’
though I was very kind—

32 and no stranger would lodge outside,

^aOr it, i.e. my foot but my door stood open to everyone that came,

 33 and if too, having sinned haplessly, I hid my
 sin—
 34 for I was not deterred by the populous multitude from speaking out before
 them—
 and if too I permitted the powerless to leave my door with empty pockets, [35 who might grant someone to hear me]]
 35 and if I had not feared the hand of the Lord, then the writ that I had against someone 36 I would have placed on my shoulders as a chaplet and read it aloud, 37 and if I did not tear it up and hand it back, having taken nothing from the debtor—38 “if at any time the land groaned over me and if too its furrows wept with one accord
 39 and if too I ate its strength alone, without payment,
 and if too I, in throwing it away, grieved
 the soul of the land’s owner, 40 then may nettles come forth to me instead of wheat,
 and a bramble instead of barley.”

And Iob ceased speaking.

32 Now too, his three friends gave up taking issue with Iob any longer, for Iob was righteous before them. ²But Elious the son of Barachiel, the Bouzite, of the kinfolk of Ram in the region of Ausitis, became angry, but he was very angry with Iob, because he declared himself in the right before the Lord. ³But he was very angry also with the three friends, because they were unable to give Iob counter-argument, and they made him out to be impious.
⁴Yet Elious waited to give an answer to Iob.

[⁴ because they are older than he in days.
⁵ And Elious saw that there was no answer
in the mouth of the three men, and his anger was inflamed.]

⁶ Now Elious the son of Barachiel, the Bouzite, stated in reply:

“I am rather young in age, but you are older;
 so I held my peace, being reticent to declare my own learning to you.
 7 But I said, ‘It is not time that speaks, and with many years they do not know
 wisdom.’
 8 Rather, there is a spirit in mortals, and it is a breath of the Almighty that teaches.
 9 It is not the long-lived that are wise, nor do the aged know discernment.
 10 So I said, ‘Hear me, and I will declare to you what I know.’ 11 “Give ear to my words,
 for I will speak, while you hear,

[¹¹ until you put words to the test.
¹² And I shall understand as far as you,
and look, there was no one that confuted Iob, that countered his words, among you.] 13 lest you say, ‘We discovered wisdom and contributed it to the Lord,’ 14 but you gave a person^b the occasion to utter such words!”
 [15 they were terrified, they answered no more;
they made words from them obsolete.
 16 I waited, for they did not speak;
because they stood still, they did not answer.]
 17 And Elious resumed and said:
 18 “I will speak again, for I am full of
 words;
 for my gastral spirit is killing me 19 and my belly is like a bound wineskin of new wine in ferment
 or like a burst bellows of a blacksmith.
 20 I will speak, that I may find relief when I open my lips,
 21 for I will not be in awe of a human being;
 to the contrary, I will have no regard for any mortal,
 22 for I do not know how to show respect;
 if that is not so, moths will also eat
 me!

33 “Nonetheless, O Iob, hear my words, and give ear to what I say.

² For look, I have opened my mouth, and my tongue has spoken.

³ My heart will be seen pure by my words, and the thought of my lips pure by my interpretation.

⁴ It is the divine spirit that has made me and the Almighty’s breath that teaches
 me.

⁵ Give me an answer to these things, if you can;
 wait, take a stand against me, and I against you.

⁶ You have been fashioned from clay, even as I am;
 we have been fashioned from the same thing.

⁷ No fear of me will send you spinning, nor will my hand be heavy on you.

[⁸ however, you spoke in my ears.]

⁸ “I have heard the sound of your words, that you say, ‘I am pure, since I have done
 no wrong,
 and I am blameless, for I did not act lawlessly.

¹⁰ But he found a basis for complaint against
 me
 and has reckoned me as an adversary, and he put my foot in the stocks and watched all my paths.’

12 "How then do you say, 'I am righteous, and he has paid no heed to me?'
 for he that is above mortals is everlasting.
 13 But you say, 'Why has he not heeded one word of my case?'
 14 For may the Lord speak just this once, and the second time, through a dream 15 or during reflection by night—as when a fearful dread falls on people, while they slumber on their bed.
 16 Then he lays bare the human mind;
 he frightened them with such scary apparitions, 17 to turn a person from injustice,
 and he saved his body from a fall.
 18 And he has spared his soul from death and from his falling in battle.
 19 Then again, he reposed him with sickness upon his bed,
 [19] and a great many of his bones grew stiff] 20 and he shall not be able to take any edible bit of food
 [20] and his soul will long for food]
 21 until his flesh rots and he shows his bones to be bare.
 22 Yes, his soul drew near to death,
 and his life was in Hades.
 23 If there be a thousand death-bearing angels, not one of them shall wound him;
 if he purpose with his heart to turn to the Lord
 and declare to a person his own fault
 and reveal his folly, 24 he^a will provide support so that he does not fall into death
 and renew his body like paint does a wall and fill his bones with marrow 25 and will make his flesh soft like an infant's and restore him full-grown among
 people.
 26 And when he makes vows to the Lord,
 they will also be acceptable to him, and he will enter with a pure look, with a declaration,
 and he^a will repay people with
 righteousness.
 27 After that, the same person will chastise himself, saying:
 'Given the kinds of things I was doing,
 he has not even tried me commensurate with my sin!
 [28] deliver my soul so that it may not go to corruption,
and my life shall see the light.
 29 Look, the Strong One works all these things,
three ways with a man]
 30 Rather, he delivered my soul from death, that my life may praise him in the
 light.'
 31 Give ear, O Iob, and keep hearing me."
 [31] be quiet! and I am he that will do the talking.
 32 If there are words, answer me;

speak, for I desire you to be justified.
 33 If not, you hear me;
be quiet! and I will teach you wisdom]

34 Now Elious resumed and said:
 2 "Hear me, you wise men;
 O you who know, give ear^b to what is good^b—[3] because the ear tries words and the throat tastes food.
 4 Let us choose judgment for ourselves;
let us know among ourselves what is good] 5 because Iob has said, 'I am righteous;
 the Lord dismissed my case
 6 and played false in my judgment, [6] my arrow is violent, though I am without
injustice.
 7 What man is like Iob,
drinking mockery like water]
 8 seeing that I have not sinned or acted impiously
 or shared a way with doers of lawless acts,
 to walk with the impious.' 9 For do not say, 'There will be no visitation of a man'—
 when there is visitation to him from the Lord!
 10 "Therefore, you intelligent of heart, hear me:
 far be it from me to act impiously before
 the Lord
 and before the Almighty, to pervert what
 is right.
 11 Rather, he repays a person according to what each of them does.
 [11] and in a man's path he will find him] 12 Now, do you think the Lord will do what is amiss?
 Or will the Almighty pervert justice, 13 he who created the earth?
 And who is it that sustains what is under heaven and all it contains?
 14 For if he should wish to confine and to keep his spirit with himself, 15 all flesh will die together, and every mortal return to dust, whence too he was formed.
 16 "But lest he rebuke you, hear these
 things;
 give ear to the sound of my words.
 17 Look then at him that hates lawless acts and destroys the wicked,
 since he is forever just.
 18 Impious is he who says to a king, 'You are acting lawlessly;—
 [18] to rulers, 'O most impious'] 19 he who felt no reticence before a person of worth
 nor knows how to accord honor to the prominent

so that their persons be respected.
 20 But crying out and begging, a man will prove to be of no use to them, for they used people lawlessly, when the powerless were being turned aside.
 21 "For he is one that views human deeds, and nothing of what they do has escaped
 him,
 22 nor will there be a place to hide for those that do lawless acts.
 [23 because he will not put upon a man any longer]]
 23 For the Lord observes all people—24 he who comprehends inscrutable things, things both glorious and extraordinary,
 without number,
 25 he who reveals their deeds [25 and he will turn night about, and they^a will be brought low]]
 26 and has extinguished the impious—yes, they were in plain view before him, 27 because they turned aside from God's law and did not recognize his requirements.
 [28 *to bring upon him the cry of the needy,
 and he will listen to the cry of the poor.*
 29 *And he will furnish quiet, and who can condemn?
 And he will hide his face, and who can behold
 him?
 Both against a nation and against a person
 together,
 30 making king a person, a pretender,
 due to the people's discontent.*
 31 *Because he that is saying to the Strong One,
 I have seized; I will not take a pledge;
 32 I will look apart from myself; do show me!
 If I have practiced injustice, I will not add.'*
 33 *Will he exact it from you?
 Because you will reject, because you will choose, and not I,
 and what you knew, speak*]] 34 "So, the intelligent of heart will say these
 things,
 and a wise man will have grasped what I
 said.
 35 But Job did not speak with intelligence, and his words were without
 knowledge.
 36 Nonetheless, learn O Job!
 No longer give a response as fools do, 37 lest we add to our sins and lawlessness be reckoned against us, while speaking many words before the Lord."

35 Now Elious resumed and said:
 2 "What is this you thought to be in dispute?"

Who are you that you said, 'I am in the right before the Lord?'
 3 Or will you say, 'What am I to do, if I sinned?'
 4 I will give an answer to you,
 as well as to your three friends.
 5 Look up to the sky, and see, and take a close look at the clouds, how high they are beyond you.
 6 If you sinned, what will you do?
 And if too you broke the law many times,
 what can you do?
 Now then, inasmuch as you are righteous,
 what will you concede to him
 [7 or what will he receive from your hand?
 8 *Your impiety belongs to a man the likes of
 you,
 and your righteousness to a son of man.*
 9 *Because of a multitude, the falsely accused will cry out;
 they will call for help because of the arm of many.*
 10 *And he did not say, 'Where is the God that made me']]
 10 He it is that appoints the watches of the night;
 11 he it is that sets me apart from earth's four-footed animals
 and from the birds of the air [12 there they will cry out, and he will not listen]]
 and from the insolence of the wicked.
 12 For the Lord does not wish to see wrongs,
 for he, the Almighty, is one that views those who perform lawless acts, and he will save me!
 But submit to judgment before him,
 if you can approve of him as he is."
 [15 *and now, because there is none that observes his anger
 and he did not know very well by transgression and Job opens his mouth vainly, in ignorance he makes words weighty*]]*

36 Now Elious added still more and said:
 2 "Wait for me a little longer so that I may teach you,
 for there is still more speech in me.
 3 Having fetched my knowledge from afar, yes, in my efforts I will speak what is
 just,
 4 in truth, and not unjust words;
 you understand wrongly!
 5 "But know that the Lord will not reject the
 innocent;
 [5 *powerful in strength of heart,
 6 he will never make alive the impious and will grant the judgment of the poor.*
 7 He will not remove his eyes from the righteous,

*and with kings on the throne,
 *and he will seat them in victory, and they will
 be exalted.
 8 *And if, having been bound with handcuffs,
 *they will be held in the cords of poverty, 9 *then he will declare to them their works *and their transgressions, that they will prevail[∧]]
 10 rather, he will listen to the righteous.
 [10 *and he said that they should turn from
 injustice.
 11 *If they hear and are subject,
 *they will complete their days in good things
 *and their years in splendor[∧]] 12 But the impious he does not deliver, because they do not wish to know the
 Lord
 and because, when they were being admonished,
 they were unreceptive.
 [13 *and hypocrites in heart will marshal wrath;
 *they will not shout, because he has bound
 them[∧]]
 14 "Well then, may their soul die in youth, and their life, being wounded by messengers^a, 15 because they afflicted the weak and powerless,
 but he^b will expose judgment against the meek.
 [16 *and besides, he enticed you out of the enemy's
 mouth,
 *a deep, an affusion beneath it,
 *and your table came down, full of fatness[∧]] 17 "Yes, justice will not be wanting for those in the right,
 18 but wrath will fall on the impious on account of the impiety of gifts they would receive for injustices.
 19 Let not your mind purposely turn you aside
 from the petition of the powerless when they are in distress.
 [19 *and all that strengthen might.
 20 *Do not draw out the night
 *so that peoples may go up in place of them[∧]] 21 Rather, be careful that you do no wrongs;
 [21 *for you chose for this one because of poverty.
 22 *See, the Strong One will prevail by his power[∧]]
 22 for who is a mighty one like him?
 23 And who is it that examines his works, or who is it that states, 'He has done
 injustice'?
 24 "Remember that his works are great,
 [24 *over which men ruled.
 25 *Every human saw in himself[∧]] 25 however many mortals are being wounded.

[26 *see, the Strong One is abundant, and we will not know him;
 *the number of his years is also boundless[∧]] 27 But to him raindrops are numbered, [27 *and they will be poured out by rain into a cloud.
 28 *Things grown old will flow[∧]] 28 and clouds cast a shadow on untold mortals.
 He appointed a time for cattle,
 and they know their schedule for rest.
 Is your mind not amazed at all these
 things,
 and does your heart not take leave of
 your body?
 [29 *even if he understands the spreading out of a cloud,
 *the proportions of his tent, 30 *look, he stretches out edo^c against him
 *and has covered the root-masses of the sea, 31 *for by them he will judge peoples;
 *he will give food to him that has strength.
 32 *He has covered light on his hands *and commanded concerning her^d in one that meets.
 33 *He will report his friend concerning it;
 *there is acquisition too concerning injustice.

37 * And at this my heart was troubled *and dropped from its place.
 2 *Hear a report in the anger of the Lord's
 wrath,
 *and a discourse will come out of his mouth.
 3 *Under all of heaven is his rule,
 *and his light is upon the wings of the earth.
 4 *Behind him a voice will cry out;
 *he will thunder with a voice of his insolence,
 *and he will not exchange them, because he will hear his voice.
 5 *The Strong One will thunder wondrous things with his voice[∧]]
 5 For he did great things that we did not know,
 6 instructing the snow, 'Come upon the
 earth!'
 [6 *and winter, rain^e and winter of rains of his dominance.
 7 *In the hand of every human he seals up[∧]] 7 so that every human being may know his own weakness.
 8 But the wild animals came in under shelter
 and were quiet upon their lair.
 9 From their chambers whirlwinds come,
 and cold from the peaks.
 [10 *and from the breath of the Strong One frost will give[∧]]
 10 And he steers the water as he wishes—[11 *and a cloud plasters over a choice
 thing;
 *his light will scatter the cloud.

12 And he will twist round the discs by theebulatho^a to their works—everything, whatsoever he command them] 12 these things have been instructed by him on
the earth.
[13 if for correction, if for his land, if for mercy, he will find him] 14 “Give ear to these things, O Iob; stand still, be warned of the Lord’s
power.
15 We know that God ordained his works,
when he made light out of darkness.
16 And he understands the division of the clouds
and the extraordinary falls of the wicked.
17 But your cloak is hot;
yet there is quiet on the earth.
[18 *solidifications are with him for things grown
old,
strong like an appearance of outpouring*] 19 Why? Teach me what we shall say to him, and let us cease talking so much.
20 Is book or scribe in attendance on me, that I stand and put a person to silence?
21 But the light is not visible to all, [21 radiant it is among things grown old] just as the light from him is upon the clouds.
22 From the north are clouds shining like
gold;
on these is great the glory and honor of the Almighty.
23 And we do not find another like him in
strength.
As for him that judges rightly, do you not think he pays heed?
24 Therefore humans will fear him;
yes, the wise in heart too will fear him.”

38 Now after Elious stopped his speech, the Lord said to Iob through a whirlwind and
clouds:

2 “Who is this that hides counsel from me but confines words in his heart and thinks to hide them from me?
3 Gird up your loins like a man,
and I will question you, but as for you,
just answer me!
4 “Where were you when I was laying the earth’s foundation?
Now tell me, if you are endowed with
understanding.
5 Who determined its measures, if you know?
Or who was it that stretched a line upon
it?
6 On what have its rings been fastened?
And who is he that cast a cornerstone upon it?
7 When the stars were born,

all my angels praised me with a loud
voice.

8 “Again, I shut up the sea with gates, when it quivered with eagerness, as it issued from its mother’s womb, 9 and I made the cloud its clothing,
and with mist I swaddled it; 10 yes, I prescribed bounds for it, setting bars and gates around it.
11 And I said to it, “Thus far you shall come,
and you shall not go beyond;
rather, your waves shall be broken up within you!”
12 “Indeed, was it in your time that I instructed the morning light
and that the morning star saw its post, 13 to take hold of earth’s wings,
to shake the impious off it?
14 Indeed, was it you that took clay soil and formed a living creature,
and, able to talk, set him on earth?
15 Again, did you remove the light from the
impious
and crush the arm of the proud?
16 “And did you go to the source of the sea and walk in the tracks of the deep?
17 Again, do the gates of death open to you out of fear,
and did the porters of Hades cower when they saw you?
18 Again, have you been advised of the breadth of what is under heaven?
Do tell me how much it is.
19 “As well, in what kind of land does the light dwell,
and of what kind is the place of
darkness?
20 Might you perhaps lead me to their borders?
And perhaps too you know their paths?
21 Thereby I know that you were born then,
and the number of your years is great!
22 “And have you gone to the storehouses of the snow,
and have you seen the storehouses of the hail?
23 But it is at your disposal for a time of
enemies,
for a day of war and battle.
24 And from where does the hoarfrost come,
or from where is the south wind dispersed to what is under heaven?
25 “And who prepared a course for the driving rain
and a way for the tumults?
[26 *to bring rain on land, where there is no
man,*

^aHeb = his guidance

27 *※wilderness, where there is no human in it,
 ※to feed the untrodden and uninhabited ※and to cause it to grow an effusion of greenery∟*

28 “Who is the rain’s father?
 And who is it that has given birth to the dew’s nuggets?
 29 And from whose womb does the ice come
 forth?
 And who has given birth to freezing rain
 in the sky
 30 that descends like flowing water?
 And who froze the face of the deep?

31 “And did you understand the bond of Pleiades,
 and did you open the barrier of Orion?
 [32 *※truly, will you open Mazouroth in its season,
 ※and the Evening Star with its luminous tail—will you lead them∟*] 33 And do you know heaven’s changes or the corresponding events under heaven?

34 “And will you summon a cloud by voice, and will it obey you with a violent burst of water?
 35 And will you send out thunderbolts—and will they go?
 And will they say to you, ‘What is it?’ 36 And who gave to women skill in weaving or knowledge of embroidery?
 37 And who is he that numbers the clouds in
 wisdom
 and inclined the sky to the earth?
 38 And dust has been poured out like soil, but I have cemented it, like a block to a stone.

39 “And will you hunt prey for the lions and satisfy the appetite of dragons?
 40 For they are in a state of fear in their lairs, and they crouch in the woods, lying in wait.
 41 And who prepared food for the raven?
 For its young have cried to the Lord as they wander about, searching for food.

39 [※if you knew the birthing season of the wild goats of the rock∟]

1 “And did you protect the birth pangs of the deer?
 2 And did you check off their months full of pregnancy,
 and did you relieve their birth pangs?
 3 And did you rear their young without fear?
 [3 *※will you send away their birth pangs?
 4 ※Their young will break forth;
 ※they will be multiplied with offspring;
 ※they will go forth and never return to them∟*]

5 “And who is he that let the wild ass go free,
 and its bonds—who loosed them?
 6 Yes, I made its home the wilderness,
 [6 ※and its coverts are the salt land∟]
 7 while it laughs to scorn the city’s crowds and hears not the chiding of the tax-gatherer.

[8 *※it will survey mountains as its pasture,
 ※and it searches after every green thing∟*]

9 “And will the unicorn be willing to be your slave
 or to lie down at your manger?
 10 And will you bind its yoke with straps, or will it draw your furrows in the plain?

11 Again, do you trust it, because its strength is great,
 and will you discharge to it your work?
 12 And will you believe that it will return your seed to you
 and bring it to your threshing floor?

[13 *※the wing of those that take delight neelasa^a,
 ※if it conceives asida^b and nessa^c.*

14 *※Because it will leave its eggs to the ground
 ※and warm them on the soil,
 15 ※and it forgot that a foot will scatter them
 ※and that wild animals of the field will trample
 them.*

16 *※It hardened its young so as not to be her own;
 ※in vain it labored without fear, 17 ※because God caused wisdom to be silent to
 her
 ※and did not give her a portion in
 understanding.*

18 *※At the right time it will lift up on high;
 ※it will laugh to scorn the horse and its rider∟*]

19 “Indeed, was it you that endowed the horse with power
 and clothed its neck with terror?
 20 And did you endow it with full armor and the majesty of its breast with courage?
 21 Pawing at the plain, it bears itself proudly, and it goes forth into the plain in
 strength.
 22 Meeting up with an arrow, it laughs in scorn and will never turn back from a blade.
 23 Upon it exult the bow and dagger, 24 and in rage it will stamp out the ground and will not steady itself until the trumpet sounds.
 25 But when the trumpet sounds, it says,
 ‘Good!’
 and from afar it scents battle with leap and cry.

26 “And is it by your understanding that the hawk stops still,

^aHeb = appears glad ^bHeb = stork ^cHeb = plumage

having spread its wings, motionless, eyeing what lies to the south?
 27 And is it at your decree that the eagle rises
 up
 and the vulture lodges, sitting on its brood?
 [28 on the crag of a rock and in secret]
 29 From there it searches for food, [29 from afar its eyes watch keenly] 30 and its young are drenched in blood, and, wherever there are carcasses, at once they are found.”

40 [and the Lord God answered Job and said:
 2 *“Will he turn away judgment with the Sufficient One?
 While reproving God will he answer it*]
 3 Now Job said in reply to the Lord:
 4 “Why do I yet contend—being rebuked even while confuting the Lord, hearing such things—when I am nothing?
 And I, what answer shall I give to these
 things?
 I will lay my hand on my mouth.
 5 I have spoken once, but I will not add to a second time.”

6 Now yet again the Lord said in reply to Job from the mass of cloud:
 7 “No, but gird up your loins like a man,
 and I will question you, but as for you,
 just answer me!
 8 Do not shrug off my judgment.
 And do you think I have dealt with you in any other way
 than that you might appear to be right?
 9 Do you have an arm like the Lord, or do you thunder with a voice like his?
 10 “Go ahead take on loftiness and power,
 and put on glory and honor.
 11 And send forth messengers in wrath and every insolent person humble.
 12 Yes, extinguish the proud, and at once make putrid the impious.
 13 And hide them outside together in the earth, and fill their faces with dishonor; 14 then I will acknowledge that your right hand can save.
 15 “But look now, you are familiar with ‘monsters’;
 they eat grass like cows.
 16 Look now, its strength is in its loins, and its power in its belly’s navel.
 17 It stood up its tail like a cypress, and its sinews have been interwoven.
 18 Its flanks are flanks of copper,
 and its spine is cast iron.
 19 “This is the chief of what the Lord created,
 made to be mocked at by his angels.

20 But when it went up on a steep mountain, it brought gladness to the quadrupeds in Tartarus^a.
 21 Under trees of every kind it lies down, by the papyrus and reed and sedge.
 22 And tall trees find themselves in its shade, with limbs, as do the chaste-tree’s branches.
 23 If there is a flood, it will never notice.
 [23 *it trusts that the Jordan will tumble into its
 mouth.*
 24 *Will he catch it in his eye;
 while bent back, will he pierce its nose*] 25(41.1) “And will you catch a dragon with a fish hook and put a halter around its nose?
 [26 if you will fasten a ring in its nostril]
 26 And will you pierce its lip with a ring?
 27 And will it address you with a petition, with a supplication, softly?
 28 And will it make a covenant with you, and will you take it as your perpetual
 slave?
 29 And will you play with it as with a bird, or tie it up like a sparrow for a child?
 30 And do nations feed on it, and do the Phoenician races divvy it up?
 31 And a whole fleet, gathered, cannot carry the mere skin of its tail.
 [31 and its head in fishermen’s boats]
 32 But you will lay a hand on it, though you remember the battle that is waging in its body,
 and let it happen no more!

41 ⁽⁹⁾ “Have you not seen it, and have you not marveled at what is said?
 2 Do you not fear because it has been prepared for me?
 For who is it that withstands me?
 3 Or who will withstand me and survive, if the entire earth beneath the sky is
 mine?
 [4 I will not be silent because of it, and a word of power, it will show mercy to its equal]
 5 “Who will uncover the front of what it is wearing?
 And who could enter the plate of its cuirass?
 6 Who will open the gates of its face?
 Fear is all around its teeth.
 7 Its inwards are bronze shields, and its ligament is like emery stone—[8 they cling, one to one] 8 and no puff of air will ever pass through
 it!
 [9 a man will cleave to his brother, they are bound and will never be drawn apart]
 10 Light shines forth at its sneezing,

^ai.e. the nether world and its eyes have the look of the morning star.

11 From its mouth proceed flaming torches, and fiery braziers are being cast forth.
12 From its nostrils proceeds smoke of a furnace burning with the fire of coals.
13 Its soul is coals,
and a flame proceeds from its mouth.
14 And in its neck lodges power; destruction runs before it.
15 And the flesh of its body cleaves together.
[15 * it will flow down on it; it will not be shaken.]
16 Its heart is solid like stone, and it stands like an unyielding anvil.
17 And when it turns, fear takes hold of the quadrupeds jumping upon the
earth.
18 If spears meet it, they will do nothing, [18 *raised spear and breastplate.] 19 for it regards iron as chaff and bronze as rotten wood.
20 A bronze bow will never wound it;
it regards a catapult as grass [21 *mallets were reckoned as stubble.] 21 and laughs to scorn the waving of a firebrand.
22 Its bed is sharp points, and all the sea's gold under it is like untold clay.
23 It makes the deep boil like a caldron and regards the sea as a pot of ointment and Tartarus^a of the deep as a captive.
[24 *it reckoned the deep for a promenade.] 25 There is nothing on earth like it, made to be mocked at by my angels.
26 Everything high it sees, and it is king over all that are in the waters."

42 Now Job said in reply to the Lord:
2 " I know that you can do anything,
and nothing is impossible for you.
3 For who is it that hides counsel from you, and being sparing with words thinks to hide them from you as well?
But who will tell me what I did not know, great and marvelous things that I did not understand?
4 Now hear me, Lord, that I too may speak;
then I will question you, and you, teach
me!
5 Whereas before I would hear an aural report
of you,
now, however, my eye has seen you;
6 therefore I disparaged myself and wasted
away,
and I regard myself as dust and ashes."

7 Now it happened, after the Lord spoke all these words to Job, that the Lord said to Eliphaz^b the Thaimanite: "You have sinned, and your two friends, for you have spoken nothing true in my presence, as has my attendant Job. ⁸Now then, take seven calves and seven rams, and go to my attendant Job, and he will make offerings for you, and Job, my attendant, will pray for you, [⁸*because only his face will I accept.] for, if not for him, I would have destroyed you; for what you spoke against my attendant Job is not true." ⁹Then Eliphaz^b the Thaimanite went, and Baldad the Sauchite and Sophar the Minite, and they did as the Lord instructed them, and he absolved them of their sin on Job's account.

10 And the Lord gave Job increase, and when he also prayed for the friends, he forgave them their sin, and the Lord gave Job twice as much as he had before so that he had double.

11 Now all his brothers and his sisters heard about all that had happened to him, and they came to him, and all, as many as had known him from the first. Now when they ate and drank with him, they comforted him and wondered at all that the Lord had brought upon him, and each gave him a lamb and a four-drachma weight of gold bullion. ¹²Yes, the Lord blessed the last years of Job more than the ones before, and his livestock was: fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, a thousand female donkeys at pasture. ¹³And there were born to him seven sons and three daughters, ¹⁴and he called the first Day and the second Cassia and the third Horn of Amaltheia. ¹⁵And there were not found women more excellent than Job's daughters beneath heaven, and their father gave them an inheritance along with their brothers.
^{16a}Now Job lived after his calamity one hundred and seventy years, ^{16b}and all the years he lived were two hundred and forty-eight years. [¹⁶*and Job saw his sons *and the sons of his sons, a fourth generation, ¹⁷*and Job died, old and full of days.] ^{17a}And it is written that he will rise again with those the Lord raises up. ^{17b}This man is interpreted from the Syri-ac book as living in the land of Ausitis, on the borders of Idumea and Arabia, and previously his name was Iobab; ^{17c}now he took an Arabian wife and fathered a son, whose name was Ennon, and he in turn had as father Zare, a son of the sons of Esau, and as mother Bosorra, so that he was the fifth from Abraam.^{17d}And these are the kings who reigned in Edom, which country he too ruled: first Balak the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dennaba, and after Balak, Iobab, who is called Job, and after him Hasom, who was a leader from the Thaimanite country, and after him Hadad son of Barad, who cut down Madiam in the plain of Moab, and the name of his city was Geththaim. ^{17e}Now the friends who came to him were: Eliphaz^b, of the sons of Esau, king of the Thaimanites, Baldad, the tyrant of the Sauchites, Sophar, the king of the Minites.

^ai.e. the nether world ^bEliphaz = Zi

WISDOM OF SALOMON

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of the Wisdom of Salomon (WisSal) is based on the edition of Joseph Ziegler, Sapientia Salomonis (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum XII.1, 2 [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1962 (durchgesehene Auflage, 1962)]). This fully-fledged critical edition is based primarily on the evidence of the major Greek witnesses, Codex Vaticanus (B) and Codex Sinaiticus (S), which Ziegler believed to be related, and Codex Alexandrinus (A), but it also draws on the evidence of all the other Greek witnesses and of the versions, particularly the Old Latin. This (the Old Latin) dates from the second half of the second century and is of particular importance because it is based on Greek manuscripts earlier than any still extant. In addition to Ziegler's edition, I have consulted the manual edition of the Septuagint edited by Alfred Rahlfs (Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes, 2 vols. [Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935]), which was used as the basis of the NRSV of the Wisdom of Salomon (Solomon).

I have diverged from the critical text established by Ziegler in only six cases. In two of these, Ziegler adopted into his text readings based on the evidence of the Old Latin: in 2.9 I read ἡμῶν, which is attested by most of the Greek witnesses, and not λειμῶν (= pratium of the Old Latin), and in 18.23 I read τὴν ὀργὴν, attested by all the Greek witnesses, and not τὴν ὀρμήν (= Old Latin impetum). In 12.5 I follow an old conjecture and read φονᾶς in place of φονέας. In 7.1 I read θνητός with B*-S, not θνητός ἄνθρωπος, and in 15.14 I read οἱ καταδυναστεύσαντες, which is attested by many Greek manuscripts and seems to be required by the sense, not καταδυναστεύσαντες. Finally, in 15.17 I read ἀνθ' ὧν with S and other Greek witnesses, not ὧν. In all six cases the reading I have adopted corresponds to that followed by the NRSV.

CHARACTER OF THE GREEK

There is widespread recognition that the WisSal was composed in Greek, and the few suggestions that have been made for composition in Hebrew or Aramaic and for translation into Greek have found little support. The book is an example of a protreptic work (προτρεπτικός λόγος), an exhortation to adopt a particular philosophy, and it deploys literary genres familiar from Hellenistic rhetorical texts including the diatribe (1.1–6.11 + 6.17–20; 11.15–15.19), the “problem” genre (6.12–16 + 6.21–10.21), and the comparison (σύγκρισις, 11.1–14 + 16.1–19.22). Correspondingly, as Reese in his important study of the literary style and vocabulary of WisSal has shown,¹ the book is written in a good Greek style and shows none of the characteristics of translation Greek. The author does adapt his style to the point that he makes use of parallelismus membrorum, which is a characteristic feature of Hebrew verse, but he also employs “the features of florid Greek rhetorical prose.”² The author uses a full range of Hellenistic stylistic devices, and this is evident particularly in his very frequent use of hyperbaton, both hyperbaton involving the separation of the article from its substantive and hyperbaton not linked to an article. A common type of the latter in Wisdom is the placing of a verb form between a noun and its modifier, e.g., παροῦσόν τε μιμοῦνται αὐτήν (4.2).³

The very frequent use of hyperbaton is obvious on even a casual reading of the Greek of the WisSal. But the rhetorical character of the Greek is likewise evident in the frequent occurrence of different types of wordplay, such as assonance and alliteration.⁴ The author also employs various figures of speech that are typical of Hellenistic Greek, of which the sorites of 6.17–20 is merely the best known example.

¹ J. M. Reese, Hellenistic Influence on the Book of Wisdom and its Consequences (Analecta Biblica 41; Rome: Biblical Institute Press, 1970) 3–31. The comments in the present section are heavily indebted to the treatment of the subject by Reese.

² Reese, Hellenistic Influence, 25–26.

³ Reese, Hellenistic Influence, 26–27.

⁴ Reese, Hellenistic Influence, 27–28.

The vocabulary of the WisSal is quite distinctive within the context of the Septuagint and reflects the Hellenistic milieu in which the book was composed, as Reese has demonstrated.⁵ On the one hand, the author uses a number of words familiar from the Septuagint but with their normal meaning in Greek. For example, the word ἀνάγκη occurs in 17.17 and 19.4 in the sense familiar from Greek of “necessity, fate,” but when it is used in the Septuagint in books translated from Hebrew, it always has the meaning “distress, anguish” (e.g., Ps 106[107].6). On the other hand, the author uses 335 words (out of a total vocabulary of 1734 different words) that do not occur in any other canonical book of the Septuagint, and Reese has shown that many of these are characteristic of Hellenistic religious, philosophical, ethical, and psychological vocabulary. The use of Hellenistic religious vocabulary in the WisSal is pervasive and includes such words⁶ as ἀπαύγασμα (“reflection,” 7.26) and πάρεδρος (“sitting by,” hence “throne-partner,” 9.4, cf. 6.14), both used to describe wisdom, or ἄνόνημα (“nameless,” 14.27) and ἄψυχος (“lifeless,” 13.17; 14.29), both used in the description of idols, or στεφανηφορούσα (“wearing a crown,” 4.2), used of the virtuous but childless believer. The use of Hellenistic philosophical vocabulary within the WisSal is illustrated by some of the terms applied to wisdom in 7.22–24, such as ἀκώλυτος (“unhindered”), and εὐεργετικός (“beneficent”), or by the words that describe Salomon’s relationship with wisdom, νύμφη (“bride,” 8.2) and ἐραστής (“enamored,” 8.2), which are not used in a metaphorical sense in the Septuagint. Examples of Hellenistic ethical vocabulary are to be found in the terms used for virtues and vices in WisSal, such as ἀνεξικακία (“longsuffering, forbearance,” 2.19) or ἐπιπορκία (“perjury,” 14.25, one of a whole list of vices in 14.25–26), and examples of psychological vocabulary are to be found in the terms used to describe the fear that gripped the lawless Egyptians (17.3–19), such as ἰδάλματα⁷ (“apparitions,” 17.3) or δέϊματα (“terrors,” 17.8), or in such terms as ἀπότομος (“stern, severe,” 5.20; 6.5; 11.10; 12.9; 18.15).

Finally it may be observed that the author quotes from the Septuagint in a number of places (cf. e.g., 2.12 and Esa 3.10; 11.22 and Esa 40.15; 16.22 and Ex 9.24).

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF THE WISDOM OF SALOMON

The translation for NETS of a book composed in Greek is manifestly a different kind of enterprise from the translation of a book composed in Hebrew and translated into Greek. The NRSV already provides a translation of the Greek text of WisSal and is based on a Greek text that differs to only a limited extent from the one used for the present translation. That there should, nonetheless, be a need for a NETS translation of WisSal different from that of the NRSV derives from the different aims of the two translations and from the different needs of the audiences at which they are directed. Thus whereas the NRSV “is intended for use in public reading and congregational worship, as well as in private study, instruction, and meditation,”⁸ NETS “is aimed primarily at . . . a biblically well-educated audience”⁹ and is intended in the first instance as an aid to scholarly study. With this in mind, I have tried to keep to the following principles for the translation of WisSal for NETS: (1) the general principle “as literal as possible, as free as necessary;” (2) consistency in English translation equivalents so far as is compatible with the meaning of the sentence being translated; (3) in the light of these two principles, the NRSV as the default translation. In addition, my aim has been to provide as clear a translation as possible and to err on the side of literalness, rather than to try to reproduce in English the rhetorical character of the Greek.

With regard to details, I have used gender-inclusive language except in passages where the cultural context seemed to require otherwise (e.g., 14.1, 8). In most such passages, the NRSV gives a similar translation but not in the case of the passage concerning the potter (15.7–13). I have usually translated ἄνθρωπος by “human being” or “mortal,” occasionally by other words, and have only translated it by “man” in the one passage (9.5) where the context required it.

EDITORIAL DETAIL

The chapter and verse divisions follow those given by Ziegler in the Göttingen edition of WisSal and correspond almost without exception to those given in the NRSV. But in one or two cases (e.g., 4.14–15) there are minor differences from the NRSV affecting the verse division.

⁵ The examples that follow are taken from Reese, Hellenistic Influence, 3–25.

⁶ Except where otherwise indicated, none of the following words occurs elsewhere in the Septuagint.

⁷ ἰδάλματα also occurs in Ier 27(50).39 with the meaning “phantoms.”

⁸ See the preface in the NRSV by B. M. Metzger addressed “To the Reader.”

⁹ See the preface by A. Pietersma and B. Wright addressed “To the Reader of NETS” in A. Pietersma, A New English Translation of the Septuagint: The Psalms (New York and Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2000) viii.

The division of the text into paragraphs also follows Ziegler's edition of WisSal, but differs in some respects from the arrangement of the text in the NRSV. However, I have not felt it necessary in all cases to follow Ziegler's punctuation of the Greek text.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

In addition to the NRSV and to standard grammars, lexa and concordances, I have consulted the translations by David Winston (The Wisdom of Solomon [AB 43; Garden City, New York: Doubleday, 1979]) and by S. Holmes ("The Wisdom of Solomon," in Charles I.518-568). I have also found it helpful on occasions to consult the Revised Version (the revision of the Apocrypha appeared in 1895) and the German translation by Johannes Fichtner (Weisheit Salomos [Handbuch zum Alten Testament: II.6; Tübingen J. C. B. Mohr Paul Siebeck, 1938]), which includes some brief notes on the Greek text.

MICHAEL A. KNIBB

-
- 1 Love righteousness, you who judge the earth;
think about the Lord in goodness,
and seek him with sincerity of heart;
2 because he is found by those who do not test him,
he reveals himself to those who do not distrust him.
3 For crooked thoughts separate from God, and his power, when it is tested, convicts the
foolish,
4 because wisdom will not enter a soul that plots evil
or reside in a body involved in sin.
5 For a holy and disciplined spirit will flee from deceit
and depart from senseless thoughts and be ashamed when unrighteousness approaches.
- 6 For wisdom is a kindly spirit, but it will not hold blasphemers free of the guilt of their words, because God is a witness of their inner feelings
and a true overseer of their hearts and a hearer of their tongues.
7 Because the spirit of the Lord fills the world
and that which holds all things together has knowledge of what is said, 8 therefore those who utter unrighteous things will not escape detection, and justice, when it convicts, will not pass them by.
9 For there will be an inquiry into the intrigues of the impious, and a report of their words will come to the Lord
to convict them of their lawless deeds, 10 because a zealous ear hears all things and the noise of grumbling is not hidden.
11 Beware then unprofitable grumbling, and keep your tongue from slander, because no word uttered in secret will go without effect,
and a mouth uttering falsehood destroys the
soul.
- 12 Do not zealously seek death by the error of your life
or bring destruction ^aon yourselves^a by the deeds of your hands, 13 because God did not make death nor does he delight in the destruction of the living.
14 For he created all things that they might exist,
and the generative forces of the world are wholesome,
and there is no destructive poison in them,
nor is the kingdom^b of Hades on earth.
15 For righteousness is immortal.
- 16 But the impious by their deeds and words summoned it;
considering it to be a friend, they wasted
away
and made a covenant with it, because they are worthy to belong to its party.
- 2 For they did not reason rightly and said
among themselves:
"Short and sorrowful is our life,
and there is no remedy ^dwhen a human being dies^d,
and no one is known who has returned^e
from Hades.
2 Because we ^fcame into being^f by chance and hereafter we shall be as though we had never existed,
because the breath in our nostrils is smoke and reason is a spark within the beating of our hearts,
3 when it is extinguished, the body will turn to ashes,

^aLacking in Gk ^bOr palace ^cI.e. death ^dOr at the end of a human being ^eOr been set free ^fOr were born and the spirit will be dispersed as thin air.

 4 And our name will be forgotten in time,
 and no one will remember our deeds;
 our life will pass away as the traces of a cloud
 and will be scattered as mist that is chased by the rays of the sun and weighed down by its heat.
 5 For our allotted time is the passing of a shadow,
 and there is no putting back of our death^a,
 because it has been sealed and no one turns it^b back.
 6 "Come, therefore, let us enjoy the good things that exist,
 and let us make good use of the creation as
 in youth;
 7 let us take our fill of costly wine and perfumes,
 and let no flower of spring pass us by.
 8 Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds before they are withered.
 9 Let no^cne of us^c be without share in our revelry;
 everywhere let us leave signs of enjoyment,
 because this is our portion and this our lot.
 10 Let us oppress the righteous poor man;
 let us not spare the widow nor have any regard for the hairs, gray with long years, of the old man.
 11 But let our strength be the standard of what righteousness is,
 for what is weak is proved to be useless.
 12 "Let us lie in wait for the righteous man, because he is inconvenient to us,
 and he opposes our actions and reproaches us for sins against the law and ascribes to us sins against our training.
 13 He professes to have divine knowledge and calls himself a child^d of the Lord; 14 he has become a reproof to us of our thoughts;
 (15) he is a burden to us even to see, 15 because his life is unlike that of others and his behavior is different.
 16 We are considered by him to be base, and he keeps distant from our ways as from uncleanness.
 He calls the last end of the righteous happy and boasts that God is his father.
 17 Let us see if his words are true, and let us test what will happen at the end of his life;
 18 for if the righteous man is a divine son, he will help him
 and will rescue him from the hand of those who oppose him.
 19 Let us afflict^e him with insult and torture, that we may learn how reasonable he is
 and may put his forbearance to the test.

20 Let us condemn him to a shameful death, for, according to his words, he will be watched over."
 21 Thus they reasoned, but they were led astray,
 for their wickedness blinded them, 22 and they did not know divine mysteries nor hoped for the wages of holiness nor recognized the reward for blameless souls.
 23 Because God created human beings for incorruption
 and made them the image of his own nature, 24 but through the envy of the devil death entered the world,
 and those who belong to his party experience it.
 3 But the souls of the righteous are in the hand
 of God,
 and no torment will ever touch them.
 2 In the eyes of the foolish they seemed to have died,
 and their departure was considered to be suffering,
 3 and their going from us to be destruction,
 but they are at peace.
 4 For even if in the sight of human beings
 they were punished,
 their hope is full of immortality, 5 and having been disciplined a little, they will be greatly benefited, because God tested them and found them worthy of himself;
 6 as gold in the furnace, he tested them, and as a sacrificial whole burnt offering, he accepted them.
 7 And in the time of their visitation they will shine out,
 and as sparks through the stubble, they will run about.
 8 They will judge nations and rule over
 peoples,
 and the Lord will be king over them for ever.
 9 Those who trust in him will understand
 truth,
 and the faithful will remain with him in
 love,
 because grace and mercy are upon his holy
 ones,
 and he watches over his chosen ones.
 10 But the impious will receive punishment in accordance with the way they reasoned,
 those who neglected the righteous person and revolted from the Lord—11 for the one who disdains wisdom and instruction is wretched—and their hope is vain, and their labors are unprofitable,

^aOr end ^bLacking in Gk ^c*meadow* = Zi ^dOr servant ^eOr test and their deeds useless;

 12 their wives are foolish, and their children
 evil;
 (13) their offspring accursed.
 13 Because blessed is the barren woman who is undefiled,
 she who has not known^a intercourse that involved transgression, for she will have fruit at the visitation of
 souls.
 14 And ^bblessed is ^bthe eunuch who has done no lawless deed with his hands nor thought evil things against the Lord, for special favor will be given^c him for his faithfulness,
 and a very delightful lot in the shrine of the Lord.
 15 For the fruit of good labors is renowned,
 and the root of understanding does not fail.
 16 But the children of adulterers will not reach maturity,
 and the offspring of unlawful intercourse
 will perish.
 17 Even if they live long, they will be held of no account,
 and finally their old age will be without
 honor;
 18 if they die early, they will have no hope nor comfort on the day of decision, 19 for the end of an unrighteous generation is grievous.

4 Better is childlessness with virtue,
 for in the memory of it^d is immortality, because it is recognized both by God and by
 human beings.
 2 When it is present, they imitate it,
 and they long for it when it has gone,
 and through all time it marches wearing the crown,
 having won the victory in the contest for the prizes that are undefiled.
 3 But the prolific brood of the impious will be of no use,
 and illegitimate seedlings from them will not strike deep root
 or take firm hold;
 4 for even if for a time they sprout ^eand produce^e branches, growing unstable, they will be shaken by the wind,
 and by the force of the winds uprooted.
 5 The branches will be broken off before they come to maturity,
 and their fruit will be useless,
 too unripe to eat and fit for nothing.
 6 For children born of unlawful intercourse are witness of evil against their parents ^fwhen they are examined^f.
 7 But the righteous, even if they die prematurely, will be at rest.

8 For an honored old age does not consist in length of time,
 nor is it measured by number of years, 9 but understanding is gray hair for human
 beings,
 and a spotless life is ripe old age.
 10 One who became well-pleasing to God was beloved,
 and, while living amongst sinners, was taken;
 11 he was seized in order that wickedness should not affect his understanding or guile deceive his soul.
 12 For the fascination of wickedness^g obscures
 the things that are good,
 and roving desire undermines an innocent
 mind.
 13 But being perfected in a short time, he fulfilled long years;
 14 for his soul was pleasing to the Lord, therefore he hastened^h from the midst of
 evil.
 (15) But the peoples saw and did not understand nor take such a thing to heart, 15 [that grace and mercy are upon his chosen
 ones
 and he watches over his holy ones.] 16 But the righteous who are dead will condemn the impious who are
 living,
 and youth that is quickly made perfect, the prolonged old age of the unrighteous,
 17 for they will see the endⁱ of the wise and will not understand what the Lord planned for them
 and for what he kept them safe.
 18 They will see and will be contemptuous, but the Lord will laugh them to scorn.
 19 And after this they will become dishonored corpses
 and an object of outrage amongst the dead
 for ever,
 (19) because he will dash them speechless to the ground
 and shake them from the foundations, and they will be left utterly dry and barren
 and will be in anguish,
 and the memory of them will perish.
 20 And they will come with dread at the reckoning of their sins, and their lawless deeds will convict them to their face.

5 Then the righteous will stand with great confidence
 in the presence of those who have afflicted
 them

^aOr had ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr shown ^dI.e. virtue ^eOr with ^fOr at their examination ^gOr worthlessness ^hOr hastened him ⁱOr death

2 and those who make light of their labors.
 When they see them^a, they will be troubled with terrible fear
 and will be amazed at the unexpected salvation ^aof the righteous^a.
 3 Repenting, they will say amongst themselves
 (and through distress of spirit will groan):
 4 "These are they whom we once held in derision
 and as a byword of reproach—we fools!
 We thought their life to be folly and their end^b to be without honor.
 5 How have they been counted amongst divine sons,
 and how^a is their lot amongst the holy
 ones?
 6 Surely we strayed from the way of truth, and the light of righteousness did not shine
 on us,
 and the sun did not rise on us.
 7 We were entangled in the thorns of lawlessness and destruction and journeyed through trackless wastes, but the way of the Lord we did not know.
 8 What has our arrogance profited us?
 And what good has our boasted wealth brought us?
 9 "All those things have passed away like a shadow
 and like a rumor that runs by, 10 like a ship that passes through the billowy
 water,
 of which, when it is has gone by, no trace
 can be found,
 no track of its keel in the billows, 11 or, as when a bird flies through the air,
 no evidence of its passage is found, but the light air, lashed by the beat of its pinions
 and pierced by its violent rush,
 is traversed ^cby the movement of its wings^c, and afterwards no sign of its coming is found there,
 12 or as, when an arrow is shot at a target, the air, thus cut through, immediately comes together
 so that no one knows its pathway, 13 so we, as soon as we were born, ceased to be,
 and we had no sign of virtue to show but were consumed in our wickedness." 14 Because the hope of the impious is as dust^d that is carried by the wind and as light frost that is driven away by a hurricane,
 and it is scattered like smoke by the wind and passes like the remembrance of a guest who stays for only one day.
 15 But the righteous live for ever,
 and in the Lord is their reward,

16 and the care of them with the Most High.
 Therefore they will receive a glorious crown and a beautiful diadem from the hand of
 the Lord,
 because with his right hand he will protect
 them
 and with his arm he will shield them.
 17 He will take his zeal as his whole armor and make creation his weapons ^efor vengeance on^e his^a enemies; 18 he will put on righteousness as a breastplate
 and wear impartial justice as a helmet;
 19 he will take holiness as an invincible shield 20 and will sharpen stern anger for a sword, and creation will fight with him against those without sense.
 21 Well-aimed shafts of lightning will fly out and from the clouds, as from a well-drawn bow, will leap to the target, 22 and hailstones full of wrath will be hurled as from a catapult;
 the water of the sea will rage against them,
 and rivers will overwhelm them relentlessly; 23 a mighty wind will rise against them and like a hurricane will winnow them
 away.
 And lawlessness will make the whole earth a desert,
 and evil-doing will overturn the thrones of
 rulers.
6 Hear therefore, you kings, and understand;
 2 learn, you judges of the ends of the earth;
 give ear, you that have dominion over multitudes
 and boast of many nations, 3 because your dominion was given you from
 the Lord
 and your dominance from the Most High.
 He will examine your deeds and inquire into your counsels, 4 because, being servants of his kingdom, you did not judge rightly or keep the law
 or walk according to the counsel of God.
 5 Terribly and swiftly he will come upon
 you,
 because a severe judgment falls on those in high places.
 6 For the least may be pardoned in mercy,
 but the mighty will be mightily tested, 7 for the Sovereign Lord of all will not give way to anyone
 or have regard for greatness, because he himself made small and great and takes thought for all alike,
 8 but a strict inquiry awaits^f the powerful.
 9 To you therefore, you princes, my words ^aare addressed^a,
 that you may learn wisdom and not fall into error.

^aLacking in Gk ^bOr death ^cOr as its wings move ^dOr chaff or thistledown ^eOr to repel ^fOr will come upon

- 10 For those who have observed holy things in holiness will be made holy, and those who have been taught them will find a defense.
- 11 Set your desire therefore on my words; long for them, and you will be instructed.
- 12 Wisdom is radiant and unfading and is easily discerned by those who love her and found by those who seek her; she anticipates those who set their desire on her to make herself known in advance.
- 14 Those who rise early for her will not have to labor, for they will find her sitting at their gates.
- 15 For to fix one's thought on her is perfect understanding, and those who lie awake on her account will quickly be free from care,
- 16 because she goes about seeking those worthy of her and graciously appears to them in their paths and meets them in every thought.
- 17 For ^aher true beginning is the desire for instruction^a, and concern for instruction is love ^bof her^b, and love ^bof her^b is keeping her laws, and paying attention to her^b laws is confirmation of incorruption,
- 19 and incorruption brings one near to God; so the desire for wisdom leads to a kingdom.
- 21 If therefore you take delight in thrones and scepters, you princes of peoples, honor wisdom that you may reign for ever.
- 22 What wisdom is and how she came into being I will declare, and I will hide no mysteries from you, but I will trace ^bher^b out ^cfrom her first beginning^c and bring knowledge of her into the open, and I shall not pass by the truth.
- 23 Nor indeed will I travel in the company of consumptive envy, because this can have no fellowship with wisdom.
- 24 A multitude of wise people is the salvation of the world, and a sensible king is the stability of a people.
- 25 Therefore be instructed by my words, and you will profit.
- 7 I myself also am mortal^d like everyone, and a descendant of the first-formed individual born on earth, and in the womb of a mother I was molded into flesh,
- 2 within the period of ten months being compacted of blood, from the seed of man and the pleasure that accompanies intercourse.
- 3 And I myself, when I was born, drew in the common air and fell upon the kindred earth, with the same first sound crying like everyone.
- 4 In swaddling clothes I was nursed, and with care.
- 5 For no king has had a different beginning of existence, but there is for all one entrance into life and the same way out.
- 7 Therefore I prayed, and understanding was given to me; I called ^bon God^b, and a spirit of wisdom came to me.
- 8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones, and wealth I considered nothing in comparison with her.
- 9 Neither did I compare any priceless gem to her, because all gold in her sight is a little sand, and silver will be counted as clay before her.
- 10 I loved her more than health and beauty and chose to have her rather than light, because the radiance from her never rests.
- 11 But all good things came to me together with her and in her hands uncounted wealth.
- 12 I rejoiced in them all because wisdom leads them, but I did not know that she was their mother.
- 13 I learned without guile, and I impart without grudging; I do not hide her wealth, for it is an unfailing treasure for human beings; those who get it obtain friendship with God, commended for the gifts that come from instruction.
- 15 May God grant to me to speak with judgment and to think thoughts worthy of what has been given ^bto me^b, because he himself is the guide even of wisdom and the corrector of the wise.
- 16 For both we and our words are in his hand, both all understanding and skill in crafts.
- 17 For he himself gave me an unerring knowledge of the things that exist, to know the constitution of the world and the activity of the elements,

^aOr her beginning is the true desire for instruction ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr from the beginning of creation ^da mortal man = Zi

18 the beginning and end and middle of times, the alterations of the solstices and the changes of the seasons, 19 the cycles of the year and the constellations of the stars, 20 the natures of animals and the tempers of wild animals,
the violent forces of spirits^a and the thoughts of human beings, the varieties of plants and the powers of
roots,
21 and all things, both what is secret and what is manifest, I learned, 22 for she that is the fashioner of all things taught me, namely^b wisdom.

For there is in her a spirit that is intelligent,
holy,
unique, of many parts, subtle,
free-moving, lucid, unpolluted, distinct, invulnerable, loving the good,
sharp,
23 unhindered, beneficent, loving towards humanity,
firm, unailing, free from care,
all-powerful, all-surveying and penetrating all spirits that are intelligent, pure, most subtle.
24 For wisdom moves more freely than any movement;
she pervades and penetrates all things
because of her pureness.
25 For she is a breath of the power of God and an emanation of the pure glory of the Almighty;
therefore nothing defiled gains entrance into
her.
26 For she is a reflection of eternal light and a spotless mirror of the activity of God and an image of his goodness.
27 Although she is one, she can do all things, and while remaining in herself, she renews
all things,
and in every generation she passes into holy
souls
and makes them^b friends of God and prophets;
28 for God loves nothing except the person who lives with wisdom, 29 for she is more beautiful than the sun and above every constellation of stars.
Compared with the light, she is found to be more radiant;
30 for this is succeeded by the night, but against wisdom wickedness does not prevail.

8 She reaches with might from one end ^bof the world^b to the other and orders all things well.
2 Her I loved and sought out from my youth,
and I sought to take her as my bride,

and I became enamored of her beauty.
3 She glorifies her^b noble birth by having a shared life with God,
and the Sovereign Lord of all loves her, 4 for she is an initiate in the knowledge of God
and chooses his works.
5 If riches are a desirable possession in life, what is richer than wisdom which makes all
things?
6 And if understanding is productive, who more than she is the fashioner of the things that exist?
7 And if anyone loves righteousness, the fruits of her labors are virtues, for she teaches self-control and
understanding,
righteousness and courage;
nothing is more useful in life than these for
human beings.
8 And if anyone longs for wide experience, she knows the things of old and infers the things to come;
she understands the subtleties of speech and the solutions of riddles;
she has foreknowledge of signs and wonders and the outcomes of seasons and times.
9 I determined then to take her to live with
me,
knowing that she would be a good counselor for me
and a comfort in cares and grief.
10 Because of her, I will have glory among the multitudes
and honor in the presence of elders, although I am young.
11 I will be found quick in judgment and in the sight of rulers will be admired.
12 When I am silent, they will wait, and when I speak, they will pay attention,
and if I talk at greater length,
they will place a hand on their mouth.
13 Because of her, I will have immortality and will leave behind an everlasting memorial for those who come after
me.
14 I will govern peoples,
and nations will be subject to me;
15 dread princes will fear me when they hear of me^b;
among the multitude I will show myself noble, and in war courageous.
16 When I enter my house, I will find rest with
her;
for companionship with her has no
bitterness,
and living with her no grief, rather gladness
and joy.
17 When I considered these things in myself and pondered in my heart that in kinship with wisdom is immortality and in friendship with her pure delight 18

and in the labors of her hands unfailing
 wealth
 and in training in intimate companionship with her understanding and great renown in ^aconversing with her^a, I went about seeking how I might take her to myself.

19 I was a naturally clever child,
 and I obtained a good soul as my lot, 20 or rather, being good, I entered an undefiled
 body.

21 But knowing that I would not otherwise gain possession ^bof her^b unless God gave her^b to me—
 and it was a mark of understanding to know in whose gift it was—
 I made supplication to the Lord and besought him,
 and with my whole heart I said,

9 “God of the fathers and Lord of mercy, who made all things by your word 2 and by your wisdom formed human beings
 to rule over the creatures that were made by
 you
 3 and to manage the world in holiness and
 righteousness
 and to pronounce judgment in uprightness of soul,
 4 give me wisdom that sits by you on your throne,
 and do not reject me from amongst your children^c,

5 because I am your servant and the son of your handmaid,
 a weak and short-lived man,
 with limited understanding of judgment and laws;
 6 for even if someone is perfect amongst
 human beings,
 if the wisdom that comes from you is absent, they will be considered to be nothing.

7 You preferred me as king of your people and judge of your sons and daughters; 8 you said that I should build a shrine on your holy mountain,
 an altar in the city of your encamping,
 a copy of the holy tent that you prepared beforehand from the beginning.

9 With you is wisdom, which knows your
 works
 and was present when you made the world and understands what is pleasing in your eyes
 and what is right according to your
 commandments.

10 Send her out from the holy heavens, and from your glorious throne send her,
 that, being present with me, she may labor ^bwith me^b

and that I may learn what is well-pleasing
 before you,
 11 for she knows all things and understands them^b
 and will guide me prudently in my actions and guard me with her glory.

12 Then my deeds will be acceptable, and I will judge your people justly and be worthy of the throne of my father.

13 For what human being can learn divine
 counsel?
 Or who can conceive what the Lord wills?
 14 For the thoughts of mortals are worthless,
 and our inventions liable to fail.

15 For a corruptible body burdens the soul, and the earthly tent weighs down a mind full of cares^d.

16 With difficulty we make inferences about what is on earth,
 and what is at hand we find with labor, but who has traced out what is in the heavens?
 17 Who has learned your counsel unless you gave wisdom
 and sent your holy spirit from on high?
 18 And thus the ways of those on earth were set
 right,
 and human beings were taught what is pleasing to you
 and were saved by wisdom.”

10 She carefully guarded the first-formed father of the world, when he alone was created,
 and delivered him from his own transgression;
 2 she gave him strength to rule over all things.

3 But when an unrighteous man departed from her in his anger,
 he perished through his^b fratricidal rage.

4 When because of him the earth was flooded, wisdom again saved it,
 piloting the righteous man by a worthless piece of wood.

5 She also, when nations, collaborating together in wickedness, were put to
 confusion,
 recognized the righteous man and preserved him blameless with God and kept him strong in the face of compassion for his child.

6 She rescued a righteous man, when the impious were perishing, as he fled from the fire descending on the Five Cities.

7 As testimony of their evil
 a smoking waste still remains,
 and plants bearing fruit ^ethat does not ripen^e,
 and^b a stele of salt standing as a monument to an unbelieving soul.

^aOr sharing her words ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr servants ^dOr thoughts ^eOr before it is ripe

8 For, having passed wisdom by,
they not only were hindered from recognizing the things that are
good,
but also left behind for human life a reminder of their folly in order that in the things in which they failed they would not be able to escape detection.

9 But wisdom rescued from troubles those who served her.

10 When a righteous man fled from his brother's anger,
she guided him on straight paths;
she showed him a divine kingdom and gave him knowledge of holy things;
she prospered him in his toils and increased the fruits of his labor.

11 When in their greed men were trying to prevail over him,
she stood by him and made him rich; 12 she carefully guarded him from his enemies, and from those who lay in wait for him she kept him safe;
and in his arduous contest she decided in his favor,
that he might learn that piety is more powerful than everything.

13 She did not abandon a righteous man who had been sold
but rescued him from sin;
14 she went down with him into the dungeon,
(14) and when he was in chains, she did not leave him
until she had brought him the scepter of a kingdom
and authority over those who ruled over
him.
Those who had found fault with him she showed to be false
and gave him everlasting glory.

15 A holy people and a blameless race
she rescued from a nation of oppressors; 16 she entered into the soul of the Lord's attendant
and withstood terrible kings with wonders and signs.

17 She paid to holy people a reward for their labors;
she guided them on a marvelous way and became a covering for them by day and a blaze of stars by night.

18 She led them across the Red Sea and brought them through deep water, 19 but their enemies she drowned, and from the bottom of the deep she cast
them up.

20 Therefore the righteous spoiled the
impious;
they sang hymns, O Lord, to your holy
name

and praised with one accord your hand that vindicated them,
21 because wisdom opened the mouth of the dumb
and made the tongues of infants articulate.

11 She prospered their actions by the hand of a holy prophet.

2 They journeyed through an uninhabited
wilderness
and in trackless places pitched their tents; 3 they withstood their adversaries and defended themselves against their
enemies.
4 They thirsted and called upon you,
and water was given them out of flinty rock,
and a remedy for their thirst out of hard
stone.

5 For through the very things by which their enemies were punished, they themselves were benefited in their need.
6 Instead of the perennial spring of a river, stirred up with defiled blood 7 in rebuke for the decree to kill the infants, you unexpectedly gave them abundant water, 8 having shown by their thirst at that time how you punished their opponents.

9 For when they were tested, although they were being disciplined in mercy, they learned how the impious, being judged in anger, were tormented.

10 For these you put to the test like a father giving a warning,
but the others you examined like a stern
king passing sentence.

11 Whether far away or near, they were alike
distressed,
12 for a double grief took hold of them, and a groaning at the memory of what had occurred.

13 For when they heard that through their own punishments
the others were being benefited, they took notice of the Lord.

14 For they mockingly disowned the one who long before had been cast out and exposed,
but at the end of events they marveled at
him,
having thirsted in a way not like the
righteous.

15 In return for their senseless and wicked thoughts
through which they were led astray to worship irrational reptiles and worthless vermin,
you sent on them a multitude of irrational creatures to take vengeance

16 in order that they might learn that a person is punished by the very things by which the person sins.

17 For your all-powerful hand, which created the world out of formless matter,

was not at a loss to send out on them a multitude of bears or bold lions 18 or newly-created unknown monsters, full of fury,
either breathing out blasts of fiery breath or belching forth smoke 19 or flashing terrible sparks from their eyes, which were able not only to wipe them out by the harm they did but even to destroy them by their terrifying appearance alone.
20 Even without these they could have fallen by a single breath,
being pursued by justice
and scattered by the breath of your power, but by measure and number and weight you ordered all things.

21 For it is always in your power to show great
strength,
and who can withstand the might of your arm?
22 Because the whole world before you is like a speck that tips the scales and like a drop of dew that falls on the ground in the morning.
23 You have mercy on all, because you can do
all things,
and you overlook the sins of human beings
that they may repent.
24 For you love all things that exist and detest none of the things that you have made,
for you would not have formed anything if you had hated it.
25 How would anything have endured if you had not willed it?
Or how would anything not called ^ainto existence^a by you have been preserved?
26 You spare all things, because they are yours, O Sovereign Lord, you who love
human beings.

12 For your incorruptible spirit is in all
things.

2 Therefore you reprove little by little those who fall into error, and by reminding them of the things through which they sin you warn
them
in order that, being freed from wickedness, they may believe in you, O Lord.
3 For even the ancient inhabitants of your holy land,
4 because you hated them for practicing the most detestable things—
deeds of sorcery and unholy rites, 5 merciless slaughters^b of children, sacrificial feasting on human flesh and blood—

those^a initiates from the midst of a pagan^a ceremony
6 and parents who murder helpless lives, you willed to destroy by the hands of our fathers
7 in order that the land that is the most precious of all before you might receive a worthy colony of servants^c
of God.
8 But even these you spared as being human
beings,
and you sent wasps as forerunners of your army
in order to destroy them little by little.
9 It was not that you were unable to give the impious into the hands of the righteous in battle
or to wipe them out at a stroke by terrible beasts or by your stern word, 10 but judging them little by little you gave them an opportunity to repent, though you were not unaware that their origin was evil
and their wickedness inborn and that their way of thinking would never change.
11 For they were an accursed race from the beginning,
and it was not through fear of anyone that you granted them pardon for the things in which they sinned.
12 For who will say, "What have you done?"
Or who will withstand your judgment?
Who will accuse you for the destruction of nations that you made?
Or who will come before you to plead as an advocate for unrighteous human
beings?
13 For neither is there any god beside you,
whose care is for all,
to whom you must prove that you did not act unjustly, 14 nor can any king or prince look you in the face concerning those whom you have punished.
15 But being righteous, you manage all things righteously,
considering it alien to your power to condemn anyone who does not deserve to be punished.
16 For your strength is the beginning of
righteousness,
and your sovereignty over all causes you to spare all.
17 For you show your strength when people doubt the completeness of your
power,
and you rebuke any insolence among those who know it.

^aLacking in Gk ^bslaughterers = Zi ^cOr children

- 18 Although you are sovereign in strength, you judge with fairness, and with great forbearance you govern us, for you have the power to prevail whenever you choose.
- 19 You taught your people by such acts as these that the righteous ought to be loving towards human beings, and you have made your sons hopeful, because you give repentance for sins.
- 20 For if you punished with such great care and indulgence the enemies of your servants^a and those deserving of death, giving them time and opportunity in which to free themselves from their wickedness,
- 21 with how great carefulness have you judged your sons to whose fathers you gave oaths and covenants of good promises!
- 22 While therefore you chastise us, you scourge our enemies ten thousand times more in order that, when we judge, we may think about your goodness and, when we are judged, we may look for mercy.
- 23 Hence those who lived unrighteously in a life of folly you tormented through their own abominations.
- 24 For they went far astray on the paths of error, taking as gods the most despised and loathsome of animals^b being deceived like foolish infants.
- 25 Therefore, as though to unreasoning children, you sent your judgment as a mockery.
- 26 But they, not taking warning from a playful rebuke, will experience the deserved divine judgment.
- 27 For ^cthrough those animals^c at which in their suffering they became incensed, which they had thought to be gods, being punished by means of them, they saw and recognized as the true God the one whom before they denied knowing; therefore the utmost condemnation came upon them.
- 13 For all human beings who were ignorant of God were foolish by nature, and from the good things that are seen they were unable to know the one who is, nor, though paying attention to his works, did they recognize the craftsman, but either fire or wind or swift air or the circle of the stars or turbulent water or ^dthe luminaries of heaven they thought to be gods that rule the world^d.
- 2 If it was through delight in their beauty that they took these things to be gods, let them know how much better than these is their Sovereign Lord, for the first author of beauty created them.
- 3 And if they^e were amazed at their power and working, let them perceive from them how much more powerful is the one who formed them.
- 4 For from the greatness and beauty of created things
- 5 is their Creator correspondingly discerned. But nevertheless little blame attaches to these,
- 6 for perhaps they go astray while seeking God and wishing to find him.
- 7 For being conversant with his works, they make their search and are persuaded by the sight, because the things that are seen are beautiful.
- 8 But again, not even they are to be pardoned;
- 9 for if they had the power to know so much that they could investigate the world, how is it that they did not more quickly find the Sovereign Lord of these things.
- 10 But wretched, with their hopes set on dead things, are those who designated as gods the work of human hands, gold and silver fashioned with skill, and representations of animals^f or useless stone, the work of an ancient hand.
- 11 If some carpenter saws down a tree that is easy to handle, skillfully strips off all its bark and, working it in an attractive way, forms a useful vessel that serves life's needs and uses up the cast-off pieces of his work for the preparation of his food and has his fill
- 12 and, taking a cast-off piece of wood from them,
- 13 a stick crooked and full of knots, carves it with care in his idle moments and shapes it with skill gained in leisure, it is this he forms into the image of a human being
- 14 or makes like some worthless animal^f, smearing it with vermilion and coloring it red with paint and smearing over every blemish in it,

^aOr children ^bOr living creatures ^cLacking in Gk ^dOr the luminaries of heaven, rulers of the world, they thought to be gods ^ei.e. people ^fOr living creatures

15 and having made for it a niche worthy of it, he sets it in a wall and secures it with iron.
 16 Thus he takes thought for it that it may not fall down,
 knowing that it is unable to help itself,
 for it is an image and has need of help.
 17 But when he prays about his possessions, his marriage and his children,
 he is not ashamed to address a lifeless object,
 (18) and for health he calls upon that which is
 weak;
 18 for life he prays to that which is dead;
 for aid he supplicates that which is utterly inexperienced;
 for a good^a journey that which cannot take a step;
 19 for means of livelihood and work and success with his hands, he asks strength of that which has no strength at all in its hands.

14 Again, one preparing for a voyage and about to travel over raging waves calls upon a piece of wood more fragile than the ship that carries him.
 2 For it was longing for gain that planned it^b, and wisdom the craftsman that built it, 3 but it is your providence, Father, that pilots it, because you have made a way in the sea and a safe path in the waves, 4 showing that you can save from everything so that even a person who lacks skill may put to sea.
 5 It is your will that the works of your wisdom should not be without effect; therefore human beings trust their lives even to the smallest piece of wood and passing through the billows on a raft come safely through.
 6 For even in the beginning, when arrogant giants were perishing, the hope of the world fled for refuge on a raft
 and, piloted by your hand, left to the world the seed of a new^a generation.
 7 For blessed is the wood through which righteousness comes,
 8 but the handmade idol^a is accursed, and the one who made it,
 because he worked it, and the corruptible thing was named a god.
 9 For equally hateful to God are the impious
 and their impiety,
 10 for what was done will be punished together with the one who did it.
 11 Therefore there will be a visitation also upon the idols of the nations, because, though part of the divine creation, they have become an
 abomination,

a stumbling-block for the lives of human
 beings
 and a trap for the feet of the foolish.
 12 For the invention of idols was the beginning of fornication,
 and the discovery of them the corruption of
 life.
 13 For they did not exist from the beginning, nor will they last forever.
 14 For through human conceit they entered the
 world,
 and because of this a speedy end was
 planned for them.
 15 For a father, tormented by untimely grief, having made an image of the child who had been quickly taken away, now honored as a god what was once a dead human being and handed on to his dependants mysteries and sacred rites.
 16 Then, when the impious custom had grown strong with time, it was kept as a
 law,
 and at the command of princes carved images were worshipped.
 17 When people could not honor them^c in their presence because they lived far
 off,
 they imagined their appearance from afar and made a visible image of the king whom they honored,
 that through diligence they might flatter the absent one as though present.
 18 But the ambition of the craftsman impelled even those who did not know ^athe king^a to a higher pitch of worship.
 19 For he, perhaps wishing to please his ruler, skillfully forced the likeness into a more beautiful form, 20 but the multitude, drawn by the charm of his work,
 now counted as an object of worship the one whom a little before had been honored as a human being.
 21 And this became a trap for human life, because people, enslaved either by misfortune or tyranny, bestowed on ^aobjects of^a stone and wood
 the incommunicable name.
 22 Then it was not enough to go astray concerning the knowledge of God, but though living in great strife through ignorance,
 they call such great evils peace.
 23 For whether performing ritual murders of children or secret mysteries or frenzied revels connected with strange laws,

^aLacking in Gk ^bI.e. the ship ^cI.e. princes

24 they no longer keep either their lives or their marriages pure, but they either kill one another by treachery or grieve one another by adultery.

25 And all things are an overwhelming confusion of blood and murder, theft and deceit, corruption, unfaithfulness, tumult, perjury,

26 turmoil of those who are good, forgetfulness of favors, defilement of souls, sexual perversion, disorder in marriages, adultery and debauchery.

27 For the worship of idols that may not be named is the beginning and cause and end of every evil.

28 For they either rave in a state of euphoria or prophecy lies or live unrighteously or readily commit perjury,

29 for because they trust in lifeless idols, when they swear wicked oaths, they expect to suffer no harm.

30 But on both accounts justice will pursue them:
because they thought wrongly about God through devoting themselves to idols and in deceit swore unrighteously through despising holiness.

31 For it is not the power of those by whom they swear, but justice for those who sin that always pursues the transgression of the unrighteous.

15 But you, our God, are kind and true, long-suffering and ordering all things with mercy.

2 For even if we sin, we are yours, knowing your might,
but knowing we are considered yours, we will not sin;
3 for to know you is perfect righteousness, and to recognize your might is the root of immortality.

4 For neither has the artful inventiveness of human beings led us astray, nor the fruitless toil of painters, a figure stained with varied colors, 5 whose appearance arouses yearning in fools so that they long for the unbreathing form of a dead image.

6 Lovers of evil things and worthy of such objects of hope are those who make or long for or worship them^a.

7 For a potter, laboriously kneading soft earth, molds each single article for our service, but out of the same clay he fashions both the vessels that serve clean uses and the contrary ones, all alike, but what shall be the use of each of them of either sort^a the worker in clay decides.

8 And, toiling perversely, he molds a futile god out of the same clay, he who a little before came into being out of the earth and after a short while returns whence he was taken,
when the soul, which was lent him is demanded back.

9 But his concern is not that his health is likely to fail or that his life is brief, but he sets himself up against goldsmiths and silversmiths and imitates molders of bronze and considers it a glorious thing that he molds counterfeits.

10 His heart is ashes, his hope cheaper than earth,
his life more ignoble than clay, 11 because he did not know the one who molded him and infused him with an active soul and breathed into him a life-giving^b spirit, 12 but he considered our life to be a game, and our existence a festival held for profit, for, he says, one must make money wherever one can, even by evil.

13 For this man more than any knows that he sins when, from earthly material, he makes fragile vessels and carved images.

14 But most foolish, and with lives more miserable than that of an infant, are all the enemies of your people who^c oppressed them,

15 because they even thought all the idols of the nations were gods, although they have neither the use of eyes for seeing nor nostrils for drawing breath nor ears to hear
nor fingers for feeling,
and their feet are of no use for walking.

16 For a human being made them,
and one whose spirit is borrowed molded them;
for no human has the power to mold a god like himself,

17 but, being mortal, he makes a dead thing with lawless hands, for he is better than the objects of his worship
d^din that^d he had life, but they never.

18 And they worship the most detestable animals^e;

^aLacking in Gk ^bOr living ^cOm = Zi ^dof which or of whom = Zi ^eOr living creatures

for, when compared for lack of intelligence, they are worse than all others, 19 nor, viewed as animals^a, are they beautiful so that one would desire them, but they have escaped both the approval of God and his blessing.

16 Therefore they were deservedly punished through similar creatures^b and were tormented by swarms of vermin.
2 Instead of which punishment you benefited
your people
and prepared quails for food,
a delicacy to satisfy the desire of appetite, 3 in order that those people^b, when they desired food,
might reject even the demands of appetite because of the hideousness of the creatures sent among them,
but these, by your people^b, having suffered want for a short time, might partake of delicacies.
4 For it was necessary that upon those who ruled as tyrants inescapable want should come
and that to these it should only be shown how their enemies were tormented.
5 For even when the terrible rage of wild animals came upon them and they were perishing through the bites of twisted snakes,
your anger did not continue to the end;
6 for a short while they were troubled as a warning,
possessing a symbol of salvation to remind them of the command of your law.
7 For the one who turned was not saved because of what was beheld,
but because of you, the savior of all.
8 And in this also you convinced our enemies that you are the one who rescues from every
evil.
9 For the bites of grasshoppers and flies killed
them,
and no remedy was found for their life, because they deserved to be punished by such animals^b, 10 but not even the teeth of venomous dragons conquered your sons,
for your mercy came to their help and healed them.
11 For they were stung to remind them of your oracles
and were quickly delivered in order that they might not fall into deep forgetfulness
and might not be distracted from your kindness.
12 For it was neither herb nor poultice that cured them,

but your word, O Lord, that heals all things.
13 For you have authority over life and death and you lead down to the gates of Hades and bring back up again.
14 A person kills in his wickedness but cannot bring back the departed spirit or set free the soul that has been taken.
15 To escape from your hand is impossible; 16 for the impious, denying that they knew you, were scourged by the strength of your arm, pursued by unusual rains and hail and relentless storms,
and utterly consumed by fire.
17 For, what was most unexpected, in water that quenches all things
the fire had still greater effect, for the world fights on behalf of the
righteous;
18 for at one time the flame was restrained, that it might not consume the creatures sent against the impious,
but that seeing this^b they might know that they were being pursued by divine
judgment;
19 at another time, even in the midst of water,
it burned beyond the power of fire, that it might destroy the produce of an unrighteous land.
20 Instead of which you fed your people with the food of angels
and untiringly supplied them from heaven with bread ready ^bto eat^b, able to meet every pleasure and suited to every task.
21 For your sustenance manifested your sweetness towards your children and, serving the desire of the one who took it,
^cwas transformed^c to what anyone wished.
22 But snow and ice survived the fire and did not melt,
that they might know that fire destroyed the fruits of their enemies, blazing in the hail
and flashing in the rains, 23 and again this fire^b, in order that the righteous might be fed, forgot even its own power.
24 For creation, serving you who made it, strains itself for punishment against the unrighteous
and relaxes in kindness on behalf of those who trust in you.
25 Therefore at that time also, changed into all forms^b, it served your all-nourishing bounty according to the wish of those who ^dwere in need^d
26 in order that your sons, whom you loved, O Lord, might learn

^aOr living creatures ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr transformed itself ^dOr made supplication that it is not the varieties^a of fruits that nourish human beings,

but your word preserves those who trust in
you.
27 For what was not destroyed by fire melted away when simply warmed by a faint ray of the sun
28 in order that it might be known that one must rise before the sun to give you thanks
and make petition to you at the dawning of the light;
29 for the hope of an ungrateful person will melt away like the winter's frost and will flow away like waste water.

17 For great are your judgments and hard to explain^b;
therefore uninstructed souls have gone
astray.
2 For when lawless people thought to oppress a holy nation,
they themselves lay as captives of darkness and prisoners of long night, shut in under their roofs, fugitives from eternal providence.
3 For thinking that in their secret sins they were unobserved
behind a dark veil of forgetfulness, they were scattered, terribly alarmed and greatly troubled by apparitions.
4 For not even the deep recess that held them protected them from fear, but sounds rushing down crashed all around them,
and dismal phantoms with gloomy faces appeared.
5 And no fire had force enough to give light, nor did the brilliant flames of the stars avail to illumine that horrible night.
6 Only a terrifying self-kindled burning mass glowed through to them, and becoming terrified, they considered the things that were seen to be worse than that sight that was not visible.
7 The delusions of their magic art were ineffective,
a contemptuous rebuke of their boasted intelligence.
8 For those who promised to drive away terrors and troubles from a sick soul were sick themselves with ridiculous fear.
9 For even if nothing disturbing frightened
them,
yet scared by the passing of vermin and the hissing of reptiles 10 they perished in trembling fear, refusing to look even at the dark haze,
which nowhere could be avoided.
11 For wickedness, ^ccondemning itself^c, testifies to its innate cowardice,

and when afflicted by conscience, it always exaggerates the difficulties.
12 For fear is nothing but a giving up of the help that comes from reason, 13 and inner expectation, being weaker, prefers ignorance of what causes the torment.
14 But they, throughout the night that was in reality powerless
and came upon them from the recesses of powerless Hades,
sleeping the same sleep, 15 now were plagued by monstrous phantoms, now were paralyzed by their souls'
surrender,
for sudden and unexpected fear poured over
them.
16 So then whoever was there fell down and was held bound, shut up in a prison without bars;
17 for whether they were farmers or shepherds or workers whose toils were in the
wilderness,
they were overtaken and awaited the inescapable fate;
18 for with one chain of darkness they were all bound.
(18) Whether it was a whistling wind or the melodious sound of birds in wide-spreading branches
or the rhythmic movement of violently rushing water
19 or the harsh crash of rocks hurled down or the unseen running of leaping animals or the sound of the most savage roaring beasts
or an echo reverberating from a hollow of
the mountains,
it paralyzed them with terror.
20 For the whole world shone with brilliant
light
and went about its work unhindered; 21 only over them heavy night was spread, an image of the darkness that was destined to receive them,
but still heavier than darkness were they to
themselves.

18 But for your holy ones there was very great
light.
They^d, hearing their voices but not seeing their form,
counted them happy, because they had not suffered,
2 and were thankful that they did not harm them^e though having previously been wronged,
and they begged their forgiveness for having been at variance with them.
3 In contrast you provided a burning pillar of fire
as a guide for an unknown journey,

^aOr production ^bOr describe ^cOr being condemned ^dI.e. their enemies ^eLacking in Gk

- a harmless sun for a glorious residence abroad.
- 4 But those deserved to be deprived of light and imprisoned in darkness who had kept your sons shut up, through whom the incorruptible light of the law was to be given to the world.
- 5 When they had resolved to kill the infants of the holy ones
and one child had been exposed and saved, in punishment you took away a multitude of their children
and destroyed them all together by a mighty flood.
- 6 That night was made known in advance to our fathers
in order that, having sure knowledge, they might rejoice in the oaths in which they had trusted.
- 7 The salvation of the righteous and the destruction of their enemies were expected by your people; 8 for by the same means by which you punished our opponents
you called us to yourself and glorified us.
- 9 For in secret holy children of good people offered sacrifices
and with one accord established the divine
law
that the holy ones should share alike
the same blessings and dangers, while already singing the praises of the fathers.
- 10 But the discordant cry of their enemies echoed back,
and the pitiable sound of lamentation for their children was spread abroad.
- 11 Slave with master were together punished with the same penalty,
and commoner suffered the same as king,
and together, from the same form of death, 12 they all
had corpses too many too count.
For the living were not sufficient even to bury them,
since in a single moment their most precious offspring had been destroyed.
- 13 For although they disbelieved everything because of their magical practices, at the destruction of their firstborn, they acknowledged your people to be a divine son.
- 14 For while peaceful silence enveloped all
things
and night was in the middle of its own swift course, 15 from heaven, from the royal throne, your all-powerful word
leapt as a stern warrior into the midst of the land marked for
destruction,
- 16 bearing your irrevocable command as a sharp rapier;
standing, it filled all things with death,
and while it touched heaven, it stood on the
earth.
- 17 Then at once apparitions in terrible dreams greatly troubled them,
and unexpected fears came upon them, 18 and one here and another there, hurled down half-dead,
revealed why they were dying; 19 for the dreams that disturbed them forewarned them of this,
that they might not perish without knowing why they suffered terribly.
- 20 But the experience of death touched the righteous also,
and a plague came upon the multitude in
the wilderness,
but the divine^a anger did not long continue.
- 21 For a blameless man hastened to act as their champion,
bringing the weapon of his own ministry,
prayer and propitiation by incense;
he withstood the wrath and set an end to the disaster,
showing that he was your attendant.
- 22 He overcame the bitter anger, not by bodily
strength,
nor by force of arms,
but by his^a word he subdued the chastiser, calling to mind the oaths and covenants given to the fathers.
- 23 For when the dead had already fallen on one another in heaps,
he intervened, held back the anger^b and cut off its way to the living.
- 24 For on his full-length robe the whole world was depicted^a,
and the glories of the fathers were engraved on the four rows of stones, and your majesty ^awas represented^a on the diadem on his head.
- 25 From these the destroyer withdrew; these he feared,
for merely the experience of anger was enough.
- 19 But merciless wrath assailed the impious until the end;
for he knew in advance what was to happen
in respect of them,
- 2 how, having given permission to be away
and having eagerly sent them on their way, they would change their minds and pursue
them.
- 3 For while they were still engaged in mourning
and were lamenting at the graves of the
dead,
they adopted another foolish plan

^aLacking in Gk ^battack or onrush = Zi

- and pursued as fugitives those whom, with urgent request, they had driven out.
- 4 For the fate they deserved drew them on to this end
and made them forget the things that had happened
in order that they might fill up the punishment that their torments still lacked
- 5 and that your people might experience an incredible journey,
but they themselves might find a strange
death.
- 6 For the whole creation was fashioned again
in its original nature, serving your commands
in order that your children^a might be kept unharméd.
- 7 The cloud was seen overshadowing the camp,
and dry land emerging out of what before
was water,
and an unhindered way out of the Red Sea,
and a grassy plain out of the violent surge,
- 8 through which those protected by your hand passed as one nation, after gazing on marvelous wonders.
- 9 For like horses they grazed ^bat large^b, and like lambs they skipped about,
praising you, O Lord, who rescued them.
- 10 For they still remembered the events of their sojourn in a foreign land, how instead of producing animals^c the earth brought forth gnats, and instead of fish the river vomited up a mass of frogs.
- 11 But later they also saw a new kind^d of birds, when, driven by desire, they asked for luxurious delicacies,
- 12 for, to comfort them, quails came up from the sea for them.
- 13 But the punishments did not come upon the sinners
without signs being given beforehand in the violence of the thunders,
- for they suffered justly for their wicked acts, for they practiced a more bitter hatred of strangers.
- 14 For others^e refused to welcome those who did not know them^b when they visited,
but these made slaves of guests who were their benefactors.
- 15 And not only so—but while there will be a visitation of some sort on the former,
since they received foreigners with hostility,
the latter afflicted with terrible hard labor those whom they had received with feasting and who had already shared the same rights.
- 16 They were stricken also with loss of sight—just as were those at the doors of the righteous man—
when, surrounded by thick darkness, each tried to find the way through their own doors.
- 17
- 18 For as on a harp the notes vary the nature of the rhythm,
while ^beach note^b always keeps to its sound,
so the elements changed places with one
another,
as may be accurately inferred from the sight of the things that happened.
- 19 For land animals were transformed into watery creatures,
and creatures that swim moved over to the
land;
- 20 fire even in water retained its normal
power,
and water forgot its fire-^{quenching} nature;
flames, on the contrary, did not consume the flesh of perishable creatures that walked among them,
nor did they melt the ice-like kind of heavenly food that melted easily.
- 21
- 22 For in all things, O Lord, you magnified your people and glorified them and did not disregard them, standing by them in every time and place.

^aOr servants ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr living creatures ^dOr production ^eI.e. the Sodomites

SIRACH

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The book of Sirach actually has three different titles, depending on the language of its transmission or the religious tradition that reads it. In Hebrew the book is known as The Wisdom of Joshua (Jesus) Ben Sira. In the Vulgate, the book is called Ecclesiasticus (the church's book). In the Jewish-Greek scriptures and for NETS, the title is that given above, Sirach. For Sirach, I have used the Göttingen edition of Joseph Ziegler (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Litterarum Göttingensis editum XII.2: Sapientia Iesu Filii Sirach [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1965]). In his critical text, Ziegler places verses from a later Greek recension (GKII; see below) in smaller typeface, and I have followed his judgments as to what constitutes GKII. As a result, I have punctuated the entire consecutive text, including the GKII. In some cases, if the reader skips over the GKII, the punctuation might not make the best English sense, since it relies on the presence of the additional verses. All the Greek manuscripts extant for Sirach contain a textual displacement in which the order of 30.25–33.13a and 33.13b–36.16a is reversed. Ziegler has placed the Greek in the correct order. The NRSV along with Patrick W. Skehan's and Alexander Di Lella's Anchor Bible commentary follow Ziegler in giving the text in its proper order. In the NETS translation, I have followed suit, and I give the chapter and verse numbers following the correct order with the chapter and verse numbers of the Greek in its displaced order in parentheses.

One feature of Ziegler's edition is the frequency of reconstructions of an original Greek text that nowhere exists in the Greek manuscript tradition. Usually Ziegler takes his cue from Alfred Rahlfs or Rudolph Smend in deciding that the entire Greek tradition is a corruption of a no-longer-extant Greek original. I have followed Ziegler in almost every case. For example, NETS for Sir 3.17 reads, "Child, in gentleness conduct your affairs, and you will be loved more than a person who gives," which reflects Ziegler's text, ὑπὲρ ἀνθρώπων δότην, instead of the majority of the Greek tradition, which reads ὑπὸ ἀνθρώπου δεκτοῦ "by an acceptable person." Ziegler has adopted this conjecture from Smend, who, based on the Hebrew texts and the Latin version, concluded that the Greek manuscript tradition preserved a corruption. The NRSV seems to depend here on the Greek manuscript tradition, although it has glossed the verse, apparently to wring some meaning out of it.

THE HEBREW AND GREEK TEXTS OF BEN SIRA

The textual situation of the Wisdom of Ben Sira, notably the often confused and fragmentary state of the Hebrew manuscripts, created some unique difficulties for this translation. Hebrew texts of Ben Sira are extant for about two-thirds of the book. Portions of chapters 39–44 survive in the Masada manuscript, which dates from the first century BCE. 2Q18 contains the remains of several lines, and 11QP^s^a preserves a number of verses from chapter 51. The most extensive extant Hebrew sections are found in the six fragmentary manuscripts (designated A–F) discovered in the Cairo Geniza. On occasion the contents of these manuscripts overlap, but more often only one manuscript preserves any given passage from Ben Sira in Hebrew. The Hebrew manuscripts do, however, seem, in their essentials, to preserve the Hebrew of Ben Sira but not without numerous mistakes, additions and corruptions. The ultimate effect of this situation on the NETS translation is simply to make comparison between the Hebrew and Greek for matters such as vocabulary consistency, lexical choice and other elements of translation technique much more difficult to isolate and characterize.

As a result of the Hebrew textual situation, I have had to approach the translation of this book more from the perspective of a book like 1 Makkabees, which was translated from Hebrew but for which no Hebrew survives into modernity. Part of the reason for this approach is the inconsistency of the translator for various aspects of his work. The practical impact on the reader is that my translation differs from the NRSV quite frequently, probably more than for those books that have the MT as a basis of comparison. Moreover, whereas the NRSV attempts to present the reader with, as much as possible, an Ur-Text of the book, NETS is interested solely in its Greek translation. The Hebrew texts become relevant only to the extent that the source text can arbitrate between competing readings and interpretations of the target text and can, furthermore, account for the kind of Greek found in the translation.

One additional matter that both the NETS translation of Ben Sira and the NRSV had to deal with was the presence of the later Greek recension. In the process of the textual transmission of the Greek, a number of proverbs were added to the book, and this recension is usually designated GKII. For the most part, the NRSV puts readings from this Greek recension in footnotes leaving in the main text only GKI (= OG), that is, the translation of the author's grandson, who rendered the Hebrew text into Greek. In the NETS translation, I have worked in analogous fashion both to Ziegler and to how NETS has handled similar cases elsewhere. GKII passages appear in the running text where they should be located. I have set them off by (a) marking them with square brackets at the beginning and end of each line and (b) by placing them in italics. Manuscript 248, one of the most important manuscript witnesses for GKII, contains an alternative prologue to the original translation, which Ziegler places in smaller typeface following the prologue of Ben Sira's grandson. The alternative prologue is not included in NETS. The decision to exclude it was based on several factors. First, it only appears in Ms 248 and in no other Greek text. Second, although of considerable importance, Ms 248 does not contain all of the GKII readings for Sirach. Consequently, this prologue was probably not intended to introduce any GKII "recension." Finally, according to Ziegler (66), the prologue stems from a work entitled Synopsis Scripturae Sacrae, falsely attributed to the Egyptian church father Athanasius.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

When one compares the Greek of the Prologue with that of the translation, one will see a tremendous difference between the two. The Prologue is written in good, literary style. The translation, on the other hand, looks to have been executed in a generally isomorphic manner, and it thus mirrors many aspects of its Hebrew source text. I hope that the qualitative difference between the Greek of the Prologue and the frequently unidiomatic, even awkward Greek of the translation will be readily apparent to the NETS reader. In general, the conclusions that I gave concerning the relationship between the Hebrew and Greek of Sirach in my 1989 study of translation technique (No Small Difference: Sirach's Relationship to Its Hebrew Parent Text [SBLSCS 26; Atlanta: Scholars, 1989]) still hold, it seems to me.

Here I make some general remarks about the Greek translation that illustrate its character. First, the isomorphic approach of the grandson to the process of translation means that he, like most of the translators of the LXX/OG corpus, does try to keep close to the Hebrew word order and, for the most part, he maintains a quantitative parity with his parent text. One finds in this translation, then, a number of aspects of the translation that suggest that the translator was working essentially in an interlinear way; that is, the Greek could be seen as a kind of "pony" to the Hebrew, since the translator often reproduces many aspects of the grammatical form of the Hebrew in the translation. In some cases, however, a perfectly acceptable feature of Greek might also serve the agenda of isomorphism. One example illustrates the case well. The Hebrew of Ben Sira uses several circumlocutions for possession, most of which involve some use of the dative. So, 3.22b reads in Hebrew (Ms A), עִסְקָא בְּסִתְרוֹתַי "You have no business with hidden things." Rather than take the clause as a whole and render the Hebrew idiom for possession, לְךָ, by using some standard Greek verb such as ἔχω, the translator simply follows the Hebrew word-for-word, οὐ γὰρ ἐστὶν σοι χρεῖα τῶν κρυπτῶν. While one might be tempted to translate this Greek with something like "For there is for you no need for hidden matters," Greek can also indicate possession through the use of a dative with the verb to be, the so-called dative of possession. As a result, according to NETS principles (see "TO THE READER OF NETS") normal Greek idiom means normal English idiom. Thus, I have translated cases like this one using the normal English verb "have," and 3.22 appears in NETS as "for you have no need of hidden matters."

Second, the translator's word-by-word approach to his work also means that various parts of speech get transferred from Hebrew directly into Greek. The result is that Hebrew participles generally become Greek participles; Hebrew prepositions become Greek prepositions, etc. The most common difficulty produced by this translational practice is that prepositions will oftentimes get used in ways that are foreign to their uses in standard Greek, and often they can be found in strange contexts. They frequently appear as part of an object complement to a verb for which they are not suited in standard Greek, or they get used in non-Greek contexts. ὑπέρ, for example, often renders the Hebrew preposition וְעַל in places where in Hebrew the preposition functions to indicate the comparative, even though it does not normally have that function in Greek. In 7.19 the Greek ἡ χάρις αὐτῆς ὑπὲρ τὸ χρυσοῦν "her grace is beyond gold" renders וְעַל הַפְּנִינִים "grace more than pearls." Other than the lexical shift from "pearls" to "gold," the translator has employed ὑπέρ in a context for which it is not normally used outside of the LXX/OG corpus.

Third, even though the translator worked in essentially a word-for-word manner, he does not exhibit a tendency to confine one Greek lexeme to the same Hebrew lexeme. So, for instance, the noun ἀγαλλίαμα “joy, exultation” renders three different Hebrew terms—שמחה (31.26), תפארה (6.31) and גיל (30.23). On the other side of the coin, one Hebrew word might have several different Greek equivalents. In fact, there is enough semantic differentiation that one can rarely reconstruct, on the basis of the existing Hebrew-Greek equivalences, what the Hebrew lexical items in the parent text were in those sections of Sirach where Hebrew does not survive. Illustrative is the Hebrew verb מנע, “withhold, hold back,” which is never rendered twice with the same word. The various Greek equivalents are: ἀντιλαμβάνω (12.7), ἀποκωλύω (7.33), ἀφυστέρεω (14.14), ἐμποδίζω (32.3), κωλύω (4.23), παρέλκω (4.3), στερέω (7.21) and συνέχω (14.4).

Within the translator’s general policy of isomorphism, there are occasionally times when he seems to engage in an interpretive move. In most cases, he is confronting a text that seems to baffle him. For example, in 49.2, part of the section about Josias (Josiah), the grandson apparently did not understand the clause על משובתינו כי נחל על משובתינו “for he was sickened/grieved at our apostasies.” Although the resulting Greek has an almost one-to-one correspondence with the Hebrew on a purely formal level, it looks like the translator recognized the root שוב in the word משובתינו as coming from the Hebrew verb meaning “return, turn back.” He thus interpreted the entire clause, probably on the basis of his identification of שוב, as ἀπὸς κατεστύθη ἐν ἐπιστροφῇ λαοῦ “He prospered in turning around the people.” The Greek, although it does not accurately translate the Hebrew, makes good contextual sense in a passage about Josiah.

Given the examples above, it should not be a surprise to note that the Greek does not contain a high number of calques or even thoroughly stereotyped renderings, although some cases do present difficulties for the NETS translator. One particularly interesting case is the Greek-Hebrew equivalence καύχημα – תפארה. The Greek translates the Hebrew five times (9.16; 10.22; 44.7; 45.8; 50.11) and the related noun καύχησις translates the Hebrew term once (31.10). Both Greek words indicate some kind of “boasting.” Yet, the primary lexical meaning of תפארה is “splendor, beauty, glory,” and only as a subsidiary meaning related to “glory” does the Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew lexicon list “boasting.” Even though the Greek-Hebrew equivalence seems fixed for the translator, there does not seem to be any warrant for ascribing the meaning of “splendor” or “beauty” to the two related Greek words. As far as Sirach is concerned, they retain their Greek meaning, and they are translated in NETS as “boast” and “boasting.”

The Greek representations of the Hebrew נפש present a more difficult case, particularly when it is used in Hebrew with a personal pronoun to mean “him/her/itself”—so, for instance, נפשו “himself.” The Greek translator usually prefers to give a rather awkward and wooden rendering into Greek, ψυχῇ αὐτοῦ, “his soul.” The Greek phrase, although it represents each element in the Hebrew phrase, does not normally mean “himself” in Greek, although the word ψυχή can have the sense of one’s “self.” Hence in the NETS translation of Sirach, I render this wooden representation of the Hebrew “his/her/their soul.” The translator did have at his disposal a perfectly good and idiomatic Greek word to indicate the reflexive, ἑαυτοῦ, which he, in fact, uses in 37.8c, where ἑαυτῶ translates נפשו. There are quite a number of individual instances of Hebraistic renderings such as this in the Greek translation and almost none take on the meaning of the Hebrew. They are simply overly wooden renderings. Sir 35.12 offers another prime example of a normal Hebrew idiom being rendered into a stilted and essentially meaningless Greek. Here בטוב עין “with generosity” becomes quite woodenly in Greek ἐν ἀγαθῷ ὀφθαλμῶ “with a good eye.”

Interestingly, one of the terms that is clearly a calque in almost the entirety of the Jewish-Greek translation corpus, διαθήκη “covenant” as a translation of ברית, is not one for the translator of Ben Sira, who uses the word for both ברית and חוק (in both technical and non-technical contexts). This situation presents some difficulty for the English translator. Ben Sira’s grandson has leveled the meanings of the two Hebrew words. He has used the same Greek for both Hebrew nouns, for which he intended the meaning “covenant,” and NETS reflects that meaning in all the cases of the Greek noun. In some cases, however, the use of διαθήκη changes the sense of the underlying Hebrew. Sirach 11.20 encourages the student to “stand by your agreement,” עמד בחוקך. The Greek στήθι ἐν διαθήκῃ σου “stand by your covenant” might suggest that the translator understood the Greek term in its usual sense of “testament,” or he simply uses the now technical Greek term in a non-technical context. In 42.2, however, διαθήκη as a translation of חוק seems more definitely to change the sense of the Hebrew parent text. As part of a list of things that should not cause shame for the student, the Hebrew has על יון וחוק “of the law of the Most High and of the statute.” The Greek, περὶ νόμου ὑψίστου καὶ διαθήκης “of the law of the Most High and covenant,” broadens the focus considerably—from some unspecified statute to the entirety of God's covenant with Israel. Finally, 44.20, in the section on Abraam (Abraham), διαθήκη renders both ברית and חוק, thus, at the least, masking the intention of the Hebrew original.

Hebrew (Ms B and Masada): ובא בברית עמו בבשרו כרת לו חוק

Translation: "And he [God] entered into a covenant with him; in his flesh he made for him a statute."¹

Greek: καὶ ἐγένετο ἐν διαθήκῃ μετ' αὐτοῦ ἐν σαρκὶ αὐτοῦ ἔστησεν διαθήκην

NETS: "and he entered in a covenant with him; in his flesh he established a covenant."

In this verse, the "statute" almost certainly means the law of circumcision for all of Abraam's descendants. The Greek, however, completely levels the semantic difference of the Hebrew between the "covenant" that God makes and the "statute" that God establishes "in his flesh."

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF SIRACH

Since elsewhere in the NETS corpus, the English translators have worked with the general dictum vis-à-vis the NRSV "Change what you must, and keep what you can," several specific comments on the relationship of NETS Sirach to the NRSV are in order. There are a number of ways that the NETS translation of Sirach differs routinely from that in the NRSV. Many of the differences between NETS and NRSV result from the different purposes of the translations. The NRSV intends to produce a faithful translation in nicely idiomatic and fluid English—a purpose it accomplishes well. Sirach, however, is also somewhat unique among the NRSV translations. The NRSV "Old Testament" is translated from Hebrew, the original language of the various books, into English, but the NRSV Sirach, because of its transmission history, is already, in large part, a translation of a translation. The NRSV cannot translate the Hebrew, because it is incomplete and the text is frequently corrupt, and the Greek, which it does translate for the most part, is itself a translation. This approach produces two results that affect the NETS translation. First, although it primarily relies on the Greek, the NRSV uses an eclectic approach to the text. That is, the translator is interested in using the best, most original text possible. For Sirach, that might mean a preference for the Latin or the Syriac or the Hebrew rather than for the Greek. In places where the NRSV relies on the Hebrew or one of the other daughter translations, NETS will almost certainly be different, since it translated the best Greek text available. Second, in giving a fluid English translation, the English of the NRSV necessarily in many cases erases the awkwardness of the Greek. NETS, which is more intent on reflecting the translationese character of the Greek, requires a different approach, and in many cases I attempt to retain the awkwardness of the Greek that the NRSV has smoothed over. Moreover, exegetical openness, that is, rendering the Greek text as carefully as possible for what it says, is deemed in and of itself a virtue.

My basic approach in the NETS translation of Sirach is to provide the English reader with as much information as possible about the character of the Greek and the relationship between the Hebrew (where it exists) and its Greek translation. Essentially, what this means for the reader of NETS is that my translation of Sirach is more independent of the NRSV than is the case for other NETS translations. The following paragraphs explain my approach to selected aspects of the NETS translation, and in these ways NETS will typically depart from the NRSV.

(a) For the most part, where possible, I have tried to represent the poetic form of the verses as much as possible. The Greek, by trying to represent the Hebrew word order, often reproduces the poetic structure of the Hebrew text. That is, if two Hebrew cola have the structure, verb-subject-object, subject-verb-object, the Greek will very often keep that order. I have tried to do the same in NETS where the rules of English permit and where no hardship for the reader results. This often results in an English word order different from NRSV. Thus, for example, NETS at 1.27, "For wisdom and education are the fear of the Lord, and his delight is fidelity and gentleness," differs from NRSV, "For the fear of the Lord is wisdom and discipline, fidelity and humility are his delight" because the Greek (which most likely represents the Hebrew word order) has the parallelism A:B:B':A', which I have kept in NETS. This procedure does not represent dissatisfaction with NRSV; I operate this way in order to provide the English reader of NETS as much information about the relationship between the Greek and Hebrew texts as possible.

(b) The reader of NETS will find that the vocabulary choices in many places differ from the NRSV. Although a high level of stereotyping does not characterize the translation of Sirach, the translator does seem to have a corpus of words that he uses consistently for particular Hebrew words. In such cases, I have maintained that consistency as much as possible in NETS. Sometimes the translator will maintain a high level of lexical consistency in individual poetic units. Where such consistency occurs, NETS is also consistent in its use of English vocabulary. On the other hand, where the NRSV uses the same English word for different Greek words in a poetic unit, I have used English synonyms to indicate to the reader that the Greek words are not the same.

¹ The NRSV here reads, "and entered into a covenant with him; he certified the covenant in his flesh," which seems to presuppose the Greek text.

(c) As I noted above, in many instances the Greek translator tries hard to maintain a one-for-one translation of the Hebrew. This technique produces several different results. Sometimes one encounters one word in Greek for one word in Hebrew. In those places where the Greek translator appears to be concerned about this type of lexical representation, I have tried to be as well. This usually means translating a single Greek word by a single English word. The translator, however, might also try to reproduce on a one-to-one basis the word order or even the grammatical form of the Hebrew. So, for example, the relationship between verbal tenses grates against the ear, or the lack of the definite article where one would expect it in standard Greek produces a strange sounding phrase. The resulting Greek is frequently stilted and awkward. In such cases I have tried as best I can within the bounds of acceptable English to represent in NETS the awkwardness of the Greek of Sirach. A couple of short examples will illustrate the nature of the case. In 13.22, the first stich of the verse uses the present tense to describe the help given to a rich person, πλουσίου σφαλέντος πολλοὶ ἀντιλήμτορες “when a rich person staggers, many are his helpers.” Yet, the second switches to the aorist, rendered into the past tense in English, ἐλάλησεν ἀπόρητα καὶ ἐδικαίωσαν αὐτόν “he spoke things not to be spoken, and they justified him.” With respect to the article, the Greek translation very frequently employs anarthrous nouns, which creates at best some ambiguity and at worst some real difficulty. So, for instance, in Simon II’s temple service described in chapter 50, we read καὶ αὐτὸς ἐστῶς παρ’ ἐσχάρᾳ βωμοῦ “when he stood by altar’s (or “an altar’s”) hearth.” It seems clear that the altar in the Jerusalem temple is intended, but the lack of the article here introduces some awkwardness and ambiguity that the definite article would have easily resolved.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Several resources proved of tremendous value in preparing this NETS translation. For the Hebrew text of Sirach, I consulted primarily Z. ben-Hayyim, The Book of Ben Sira: Text, Concordance and an Analysis of the Vocabulary (Jerusalem: Academy of the Hebrew Language and the Shrine of the Book, 1973) and P. C. Beentjes, The Book of Ben Sira in Hebrew (Leiden: Brill, 1997) in addition to many shorter studies on individual aspects of the Hebrew text. Besides the NRSV, the translation produced by Patrick W. Skehan and Alexander A. Di Lella for their Anchor Bible Commentary, The Wisdom of Ben Sira (AB 39; Garden City, NY: Doubleday, 1987) proved a valuable aid. I benefited enormously from their commentary as well. The commentary of M. H. Segal, ספר בן־סירה השלם (Jerusalem: Bialik Foundation, 1958) also provided numerous insights into the different textual traditions in which Sirach survives.

BENJAMIN G. WRIGHT

PROLOGUE

(1) Seeing that many and great things have been given to us through the Law and the Prophets and the others that followed them, for which reason it is necessary to commend Israel for education and wisdom, and whereas it is necessary that not only those who read them gain understanding, (5)but also that those who love learning be capable of service to outsiders, both when they speak and when they write, Iesus, my grandfather, since he had given himself increasingly both to the reading of the Law and the Prophets (10)and the other ancestral books and since he had acquired considerable proficiency in them, he too was led to compose something pertaining to education and wisdom in order that lovers of learning, when they come under their^a sway as well, might gain much more in living by the law.

(15) You are invited, therefore, to a reading with goodwill and attention, and to exercise forbearance in cases where we may be thought (20)to be insipid with regard to some expressions that have been the object of great care in rendering; for what was originally expressed in Hebrew does not have the same force when it is in fact rendered in another language. And not only in this case, but also in the case of the Law itself and the Prophets (25)and the rest of the books the difference is not small when these are expressed in their own language.

^aAntecedent unclear, referring either to his grandfather’s book or to education and wisdom

For in the thirty-eighth year, in the reign of Euergetes the king, when I had arrived in Egypt and stayed a while, when I had discovered an exemplar of no little education, ⁽³⁰⁾I myself too made it a most compulsory task to bring some speed and industry to the translating of this tome, meanwhile having contributed much sleeplessness and skill, with the aim of bringing the book to completion and to publish it also for those living abroad if they wish to become learned, preparing their character to live by the law.

1 All wisdom is from the Lord, and with him it exists forever.
2 Sand of seas and drops of rain and days of eternity—who shall enumerate?
3 The sky's height and earth's breadth and abyss and wisdom—who will track?
4 Before all things wisdom has been created, and understanding of prudence is from eternity.
[5 Wisdom's spring is God's word in the highest,
[and her journeys are everlasting
commandments.]
6 Wisdom's root—to whom was it revealed?
And her wondrous feats—who knew?
[7 Wisdom's skill—to whom was it manifested?
[And her great experience—who has understood it?]
8 One who is wise, greatly feared, seated upon his throne.
9 The Lord, he created her,
and he saw and enumerated her
and poured her out upon all his works, 10 among all flesh according to his giving,
and he furnished her abundantly to those who love him.
[Loving the Lord is esteemed wisdom,
[but to whomever he appears, he apportions her as a vision of himself.] 11 Fear of the Lord is reputation and boasting
and gladness and a garland of rejoicing.
12 Fear of the Lord will delight the heart, and it will give gladness and joy and
length of days.
[Fear of the Lord is a gift from the Lord,
[for he also establishes paths for love.] 13 For the one who fears the Lord, it will be well at the end,
and in the day of his death he will be blessed.
14 Wisdom's beginning is to fear the Lord, and with the faithful in the womb—she was created together with them.
15 Among human beings she built her nest as an eternal foundation,

and among their offspring she will be trusted.
16 Wisdom's fullness is to fear the Lord,
and she inebriates them with her fruits.
17 Their every house she will fill with desirable
things,
and the ^areception halls^a from her produce.
18 Wisdom's garland is fear of the Lord, sprouting peace and well-being for healing.
[And both are gifts of God for peace,
[and boasting creates space for those that love
him.]
19 [And he saw and enumerated her.] Skill and knowledge of understanding she rained down,
and the reputation of people who hold her fast she exalted.
20 Wisdom's root is to fear the Lord,
and her branches are length of days.
[²¹ The fear of the Lord repels sins,
[and when it endures, it will turn away all
wrath.]
22 Unjust anger can never be justified, for the weight of his^b anger is his^b downfall.
23 Until the right time a patient person will restrain himself,
and afterwards gladness will pay him
back.
24 Until the right time he will hide his words, and the lips of many will tell of his
discernment.
25 Among wisdom's treasures there is illustration of intelligence, but godliness is an abomination to a sinner.
26 If you desire wisdom, keep the
commandments,
and the Lord will furnish her abundantly
to you.
27 For wisdom and education are the fear of
the Lord,
and his delight is fidelity and gentleness.
28 Do not disobey the fear of the Lord, and do not approach him^c with a double
heart.
29 Do not be a hypocrite in the mouths of humankind,
and with your lips pay heed.
30 Do not exalt yourself, lest you fall and bring dishonor to your soul,
and the Lord will reveal your secrets, and in the midst of a gathering he will overthrow you,
because you did not approach in the fear of
the Lord
and your heart was full of deceit.

^aPerhaps storehouses ^bi.e. the person who suffers from it ^cOr it

2 Child, if you come to be subject to the Lord, prepare your soul for testing.

2 Set straight your heart, and be steadfast, and do not be hasty in a time of distress.

3 Cling to him, and do not stand aloof so that you may be strengthened at your end.

4 Anything that might happen to you accept, and in the vicissitudes of your humiliation be patient, 5 because with fire gold is tested, and acceptable people in the furnace of humiliation.
[*In sickness and in poverty have trust in
him.*]

6 Have faith in him, and he will support you, and make straight your ways, and hope in
him.

7 You who fear the Lord, wait for his mercy,
and do not turn away, lest you fall.

8 You who fear the Lord, have faith in him, and your wage will not be forfeited.

9 You who fear the Lord, hope for good
things
and for everlasting gladness and mercy, [*because his repayment is an everlasting gift
with joy.*]

10 Look to ancient generations, and see;
who had faith in the Lord and was put to
shame?
Or who has held fast to fear of him and was
forsaken?
Or who called upon him, and he^a despised him?

11 For compassionate and merciful is the Lord, and he forgives sins and saves in a time of affliction.

12 Woe to timid hearts and to slack hands and to a sinner when he treads on two paths.

13 Woe to a faint heart, because it does not have faith;
therefore it will not be sheltered.

14 Woe to you who have lost endurance.
And what will you do when the Lord makes his reckoning?

15 Those who fear the Lord will not disobey his words,
and those who love him will preserve his
ways.

16 Those who fear the Lord will seek his favor, and those who love him will be filled with the law.

17 Those who fear the Lord will prepare their hearts,
and before him they will humble their
souls.

18 We shall fall into the hands of the Lord and not into the hands of human beings!

For as his majesty is,
so also is his mercy.

3 Listen to a father's reproof, children, and act accordingly so that you may be safe.

2 For the Lord has glorified father over
children,
and he has confirmed a mother's judgment over sons.

3 He who honors father will atone for sins, 4 and like one who lays up treasure is he who glorifies his mother.

5 He who honors father will be gladdened by
children,
and in the day of his prayer he will be heard.

6 He who glorifies father will prolong his
days,
and he who listens to the Lord will give rest to his mother.

7 [He who fears the Lord will honor his father,] and among those who begot him he will act as a slave to masters^b.

8 By deed and word honor your father so that a blessing from him might come upon you.

9 For a father's blessing supports children's houses,
but a mother's curse uproots foundations.

10 Do not glorify yourself by your father's disgrace,
for you have no glory in a father's
disgrace.

11 For a person's repute comes from his father's honor,
and a mother in ill repute is a reproach to
children.

12 Child, support your father in old age, and do not grieve him during his life.

13 But if he fails in comprehension, excuse
him,
and do not dishonor him in the fullness of your strength.

14 For charity for a father will not be forgotten,
and it will be credited to you against sins.

15 In a day of affliction it will be remembered
of you;
as fair weather upon frost, so will your sins be dissolved.

16 Like a blasphemer is the one who neglects a
father,
and cursed by the Lord is the one who angers his mother.

17 Child, in gentleness conduct your affairs, and you will be loved more than a person who gives.

18 The greater you are, the more you should humble yourself,

^ai.e. the Lord ^bGk uncertain

- and before the Lord you will find favor.
 [19 Many are lofty and of repute,
[but to the meek he reveals his mysteries,] 20 because great is the dominance of the Lord and by the humble he is glorified.
 21 Things too difficult for you do not seek,
 and things too strong for you do not scrutinize.
 22 The things that have been prescribed for you, think about these,
 for you have no need of hidden matters.
 23 With matters greater than your affairs do not meddle,
 for things beyond human understanding
 have been shown to you.
 24 For their presumption has led many astray, and their evil fancy has diminished their
 understanding.
 [25 If you have no pupils, you will be at a loss for
light,]
[and when you want for knowledge, do not profess it.]
 26 A hard heart will fare badly at the end, and he who loves danger will perish in it.
 27 A hard heart will be weighed down by troubles,
 and the sinner will add sin to sins.
 28 For the misery of the arrogant there is no
 healing,
 because a plant of wickedness has taken root in him.
 29 The heart of the intelligent will think of an illustration,
 and a hearer's ear is the desire of the wise.
 30 A blazing fire water will extinguish,
 and charity will atone for sins.
 31 He who repays favors gives thought to what comes after,
 and at the moment of a fall he will find support.
- 4 Child, the life of the poor do not defraud,
 and do not put off needy eyes.
 2 A hungry soul do not grieve, and do not anger a man in his difficulty.
 3 An angry heart do not trouble, and do not delay giving to one in need.
 4 A suppliant in distress do not keep rejecting, and do not turn your face away from the poor.
 5 From one who begs do not turn away an eye,
 and do not give him occasion to curse
 you.
 6 For if one curses you in bitterness of his soul, the one who made him will hear his
 petition.
 7 Make yourself beloved to a gathering, and for a nobleman bow your head.
- 8 Incline your ear to the poor, and answer him peaceably with gentleness.
 9 Deliver the wronged from the hand of the wrongdoer,
 and do not be faint-hearted when you render judgment.
 10 Be like a father to orphans and instead of a husband to their mother,
 and you will be like a son of the Most
 High,
 and he will love you more than does your
 mother.
 11 Wisdom will exalt her sons and lays hold of those who seek her.
 12 He who loves her loses life, and those who turn to her early will be filled with gladness.
 13 He who holds her fast will inherit a reputation,
 and where he enters, the Lord blesses.
 14 Those who serve her will minister to one holy,
 and those who love her the Lord loves.
 15 He who obeys her will judge nations, and the one who gives heed to her will dwell in confidence.
 16 If he has faith, he will inherit her,
 and his descendants will be in possession ^aof her^a.
 17 Because at first she will travel with him though he twist and turn,
 fear and dread she will bring upon him,
 and she will torment him with her training until she has faith in his soul,
 and she will test him with her statutes.
 18 And again she will return straight back to him and will make him glad and will reveal to him her secrets.
 19 If he goes astray, she will abandon him and hand him over to the grip of his fall.
 20 Watch for an opportune time, and beware of
 evil,
 and about your soul do not be ashamed.
 21 For there is a shame that brings on sin, and there is a shame that is glory and favor.
 22 Do not receive a person against your soul, and do not feel embarrassment to your
 fall.
 23 Do not hinder speech in a time of need,
 [and do not hide your wisdom in comeliness.] 24 For by speech will wisdom be known, and education through a word of the
 tongue.
 25 Do not speak against the truth, and concerning your lack of education feel shame.

^aLacking in Gk

- 26 Do not be ashamed to acknowledge your
sins,
and do not try to force a river's flow.
- 27 Do not be subject to a foolish person,
and do not accept the person of a ruler.
- 28 Exert yourself to the death for the truth, and the Lord God will do battle for you.
- 29 Do not become rash with your tongue or sluggish and remiss in your deeds.
- 30 Do not be like a lion in your home, even conceiving vain fancies among your domestics.
- 31 Do not let your hand be extended to receive and withdrawn when paying back.
- 5 Do not be occupied with your money, and do not say, "I am self-sufficient."
- 2 Do not follow your soul and your strength, to walk in your heart's desires.
- 3 And do not say, "Who shall hold power over
me?"
For the Lord, when he punishes, will punish.
- 4 Do not say, "I sinned, and what has happened to me?"
For the Lord is longsuffering.
- 5 Do not become fearless concerning atonement,
to add sin upon sins.
- 6 And do not say, "His compassion is great;
it will atone for the multitude of my
sins";
for mercy and wrath are with him,
and upon sinners will his anger rest.
- 7 Do not wait to turn back to the Lord,
and do not postpone it day after day;
for suddenly the wrath of the Lord will go
forth,
and in the time of punishment you will
perish.
- 8 Do not be occupied with ill-gotten money, for it will not be of benefit in a day of
distress.
- 9 Do not winnow in every wind,
and do not go on every short cut;
thus is the double-tongued sinner.
- 10 Be firm in your understanding, and let your speech be one.
- 11 Be quick in your hearing, and with longsuffering utter a reply.
- 12 If you have understanding, answer your fellow,
but if not, let your hand be upon your
mouth.
- 13 Repute and dishonor are in speaking,
and a person's tongue is his downfall.
- 14 Do not be called a slanderer, and do not ambush with your tongue;
for upon the thief is shame and grievous condemnation upon the double-tongued.
- 15 In a great and a small matter do not remain ignorant.
- 6 And do not become an enemy instead of a friend,
for a bad name will inherit shame and
reproach;
thus is the double-tongued sinner.
- 2 Do not raise yourself up in your soul's deliberation,
lest your strength be seized as a bull ^{is} seized^a.
- 3 Your leaves you will devour, and your fruit
you will destroy,
and you will leave yourself like a withered tree.
- 4 An evil soul will destroy him who possesses it, and it will make him a laughingstock of
enemies.
- 5 A ^bsweet throat^b will multiply its friends,
and a well-speaking tongue will multiply courtesies.
- 6 Let those who are at peace with you be
many,
but let your advisors be one in a thousand.
- 7 If you acquire a friend, acquire him through testing,
and do not have faith in him hastily.
- 8 For there is a friend when it suits him,
and he will not remain in a day of
affliction.
- 9 And there is a friend who turns to enmity, and he will disclose strife to your
disgrace.
- 10 And there is a friend who is a table companion,
and he will not remain in a day of
affliction.
- 11 And among your goods he will be as you are,
and he will speak boldly to your
domestics.
- 12 If you are brought low, he will be against
you,
and he will hide himself from your face.
- 13 From your enemies, keep your distance, and with your friends pay heed.
- 14 A loyal friend is a sturdy shelter, and he who finds him has found a treasure.
- 15 A loyal friend is priceless,
and no one can weigh his worth.
- 16 A loyal friend is life's drug,
and those who fear the Lord will find
him.

^aLacking in Gk ^bPerhaps pleasant speech

17 He who fears the Lord directs his friendship aright,
because like him, so also is his fellow.

18 Child, from your youth welcome education, and until gray hairs you will find
wisdom.

19 Like him who plows and him who sows approach her,
and wait for her good fruits;
for in cultivation of her you will toil little,
and you will soon eat of her produce.

20 How harsh is wisdom to the uneducated, and the cowardly will not remain with
her.

21 Like a formidable stone of testing she will be upon him,
and he will not delay to cast her aside.

22 For wisdom is like her name, and she is not conspicuous to many.

23 Listen, child, and accept my opinion,
and do not reject my counsel.

24 Put your feet into her fetters, and into her collar, your neck.

25 Offer your shoulder, and carry her,
and do not be offended at her bonds.

26 With all your soul approach her,
and with all your might keep her ways.

27 Trace, and seek, and she will become known
to you,
and when you get a firm hold, do not let her go.

28 For in the end you will find her repose, and she will be changed into gladness for
you.

29 And her fetters will be a shelter of strength
for you,
and her collars a robe of glory.

30 For a golden ornament is upon her,
and her bonds are a blue thread.

31 You will wear her as a robe of glory, and you will put her on like a garland of joy.

32 If you are willing, child, you will be instructed,
and if you surrender your soul, you will be clever.

33 If you love to listen, you will receive, and if you incline your ear, you will be
wise.

34 Stand in a crowd of elders, and cling to their wisdom.

35 Be willing to listen to every godly discourse,
and do not let proverbs of understanding escape you.

36 If you see an intelligent person, turn to him early,
and let your foot wear out the thresholds of his doors.

37 Exercise your thought in the Lord's ordinances,
and on his commandments continually
meditate.

It is he who will make your heart firm, and the desire for wisdom will be given
to you.

7 Do not do evil things, and an evil will not overtake you.

2 Stay away from wrong, and it will turn away
from you.

3 Do not sow in the furrows of injustice, and you will not reap them^a sevenfold.

4 Do not seek from the Lord authority or from a king a seat of honor.

5 Do not assert righteousness before the Lord, and with a king do not display wisdom.

6 Do not seek to become a judge;
you might not have the strength to get rid
of injustice,
lest you have trepidation in the presence of one powerful,
and you shall erect an obstacle to your uprightness.

7 Do not sin against a city's multitude, and do not throw yourself down in a crowd.

8 Do not bind up a sin twice,
for in one you will not be innocent.

9 Do not say, "He will have regard for the multitude of my gifts, and when I bring a gift to the Most High God, he will accept it."

10 Do not be fainthearted in your prayer, and do not neglect to practice charity.

11 Do not deride a person when he is embittered in spirit,
for there is one who humbles and exalts.

12 Do not cultivate a lie against your brother or do the same to a friend.

13 Do not consent to concoct any lie, for the continuation of it results in no
good.

14 Do not babble in a great number of elders, and do not repeat a word in your prayer.

15 Do not hate toilsome labor and tillage created by the Most High.

16 Do not reckon yourself among the multitude of sinners;
remember that wrath will not delay.

17 Humble your soul greatly, because the punishment of the impious is fire and worm.

18 Do not exchange a friend for cash or a real brother for gold of Souphir.

19 Do not fail a wise and good wife,
for her grace is beyond gold.

^aProbable antecedent, evil things (7.1)

- 20 Do not abuse a domestic when he truly works or a laborer when he gives his soul.
- 21 Let your soul love an intelligent domestic;
do not deprive him of freedom.
- 22 Do you have cattle? Look after them, and if they are useful to you, let them remain with you.
- 23 Do you have children? Educate them, and bend their neck from youth.
- 24 Do you have daughters? Give heed to their body,
and do not brighten your face towards
them.
- 25 Give a daughter in marriage, and you will have completed a great task, and present her to an understanding
man.
- 26 Do you have a wife like your soul? Do not divorce her,
and do not entrust yourself to her when she is hated.
- 27 With your whole heart honor your father,
and a mother's birth pangs do not forget.
- 28 Remember that you were born through
them—
and how will you repay them what they have done for you?
- 29 With your whole soul, revere the Lord,
and admire his priests.
- 30 With your whole might, love him who made you,
and his ministers do not neglect.
- 31 Fear the Lord, and honor a priest, and give him his portion, as it has been commanded of you:
first fruits and ^aconcerning error^a and gift of forearms
and sacrifice of sanctification and first fruits of holy things.
- 32 And stretch out your hand to a poor person in order that your blessing may be complete.
- 33 The kindness of something given is before everyone alive,
and do not hinder kindness for a corpse.
- 34 Do not lag behind those who weep,
but mourn with those who mourn.
- 35 Do not hesitate to visit a sick person, for because of such deeds you will be loved.
- 36 In all your words, remember the end,
and you will not ever sin.
- 8 Do not contend with a powerful person, lest you fall into his hands.
- ² Do not quarrel with a rich person,
lest he counter your weight;
- for gold has ruined many
and has perverted hearts of kings.
- 3 Do not contend with a garrulous person, and do not heap wood on his fire.
- 4 Do not make fun of the uneducated, lest your ancestors be insulted.
- 5 Do not reproach a person when he is turning away from sin;
remember that we all are subject to rebuke.
- 6 Do not disdain a person in his old age,
for some of us, too, are growing old.
- 7 Do not rejoice over a corpse;
remember that we all pass away.
- 8 Do not disregard a discourse of the wise,
and turn to their proverbs,
because from them you will learn
instruction
and how to minister to noblemen.
- 9 Do not miss out on the discourse of the aged,
for even they themselves learned from
their fathers,
because from them you will learn
understanding
and how to give an answer in time of need.
- 10 Do not stoke a sinner's coals;
do not be set afire by the fire of his flame.
- 11 Do not vacate your seat before an insolent
person,
lest he sit down as an ambush to your
mouth.
- 12 Do not lend to a person stronger than you, and if you do lend, be as one who has lost.
- 13 Do not give surety beyond your ability, and if you do give surety, regard it as a paying back.
- 14 Do not go to law with a judge, for according to his status will they judge in his favor.
- 15 With a reckless person do not travel on the road,
lest your troubles weigh you down;
for he will travel as he wants to,
and by his folly you will perish as well.
- 16 With a quick-tempered person do not pick a fight,
and do not traverse the desert with him, because bloodshed is as nothing in his
eyes,
and where there is no help, he will cast you down.
- 17 With a foolish one do not consult,
for he cannot cover up a secret.
- 18 In the presence of a stranger do not do something secret,

^ai.e. a sin offering

- for you do not know what he will bring forth.
- 19 Do not expose your heart to any person, and do not let him return a favor to you.
- 9 Do not be jealous of the wife of your bosom, nor teach an evil lesson against yourself.
- 2 Do not give your soul to a woman, to let her trample upon your strength.
- 3 Do not meet with a female escort, lest you fall into her snares.
- 4 With a female strummer do not dally, lest you become caught in her endeavors.
- 5 Do not ogle a maiden, lest you be made to stumble in her rebukes.
- 6 Do not give your soul to whores, lest you lose your inheritance.
- 7 Do not look around in city alleyways, and in its deserted places do not wander.
- 8 Turn an eye from a shapely woman, and do not ogle beauty belonging to another; by a woman's beauty many have gone astray, and from it fondness flares up like a fire.
- 9 With a married woman do not sit down at all, and do not feast with her at wine, lest your soul incline to her and by your blood you slip into destruction.
- 10 Do not abandon an old friend, for the recent one is not his equal; a new friend is like new wine; if it ages, you will drink it with merriment.
- 11 Do not envy a sinner's good repute, for you do not know what his undoing will be.
- 12 Do not delight in the success of the impious; remember that they will not be deemed righteous until Hades^a.
- 13 Keep far from a person who has authority to kill, and you will not be apprehensive of the fear of death, and if you approach him^b, do not make a mistake, lest he take your life. Recognize that you are treading in the midst of snares, and you are walking about on a city's battlements.
- 14 According to your strength take stock of your fellow, and consult with the wise.
- 15 Let your discussion be with intelligent people, and all your exposition in the law of the Most High.
- 16 Let righteous men be your dinner companions, and let your boast be in the fear of the Lord.
- 17 In the hand of artisans a work will be praised, and the people's leader is wise by his word.
- 18 Feared in his city is a garrulous man, and he who is reckless in his speech will be hated.
- 10 A wise judge will educate his people, and the rule of an intelligent person will be orderly.
- 2 As the people's judge is, so also are his officials, and as the ruler of the city is, are all its inhabitants.
- 3 An uneducated king will destroy his people, and a city will be populated by the intelligence of its^b rulers.
- 4 In the Lord's hand is the governance of the earth, and he will raise up over it the person useful for the time.
- 5 In the Lord's hand is a man's success, and to a scribe's face he will add his reputation.
- 6 For every wrong do not be angry with your neighbor, and do not do anything with acts of insolence.
- 7 Hateful before the Lord and humans is pride, and to both injustice is wrong.
- 8 Dominion is transferred from nation to nation on account of injustice and insolence and money.
[For there is nothing more lawless than love of money;]
[for this person even makes his own soul a commodity.]
- 9 How can ^cearth and ashes^c behave arrogantly?— ^dbecause in life I hurled his entrails^d.
- 10 A long illness mocks a physician; today a king, and tomorrow he will die.
- 11 For when a person dies, he inherits creeping things and beasts and worms.
- 12 Pride's beginning for a human is to rebel against the Lord, ^ai.e. the grave ^bLacking in Gk ^ci.e. a human being ^dGk uncertain and against him who made him his heart rebels, 13 because pride's beginning is sin,

and he who clings to it will pour out
abomination.
Therefore the Lord brought on incredible attacks
and ruined him^a completely.
14 Thrones of rulers the Lord brought down, and he seated the gentle in their place.
15 Roots of nations the Lord plucked up, and he planted the humble in their place.
16 Lands of nations the Lord ruined, and he destroyed them as far as earth's foundations.
17 He removed some people and destroyed
them,
and he erased their memorial from
earth.
18 Pride was not created for human beings, nor violent anger for what is born of women.
19 What kind of offspring is honorable?
Human offspring.
What kind of offspring is honorable?
Those who fear the Lord.
What kind of offspring is dishonorable?
Human offspring.
What kind of offspring is dishonorable?
Those who transgress the
commandments.
20 In the midst of kin their leader is honorable,
and those who, in his eyes, fear the Lord.
[²¹ The beginning of acceptance is fear of the Lord, [but the beginning of rejection is obduracy and arrogance.]
22 Guest and stranger and poor person—their boast is fear of the Lord.
23 It is not right to dishonor an intelligent poor person,
and it is not proper to glorify a sinful
man.
24 Noble and judge and ruler will be glorified, but none of them is greater than he who fears the Lord.
25 Free persons will attend to a wise domestic,
and a knowledgeable man will not grumble.
26 Do not craftily perform your task, and do not extol yourself in your time of difficulty.
27 Superior is a person who works and excels in all things
to one who struts about extolling himself and lacks bread.
28 Child, in meekness give repute to your
soul,
and give it value according to its worth.

29 Him who errs against his own soul—who will vindicate?
And who will give repute to him who devalues his own life?
30 A poor person has repute because of his
knowledge,
and a rich person has repute because of his wealth.
31 He who has repute in poverty, how much more also in wealth?
And he who is held in disrepute in wealth, how much more also in poverty?

11 A humble person's wisdom will raise up his
head,
and it will seat him in the midst of nobles.
2 Do not praise a man for his good looks, and do not loathe a man for his appearance.
3 Small among flying creatures is a bee, and the origin of sweet things is its
produce.
4 Do not boast about the putting-on of
clothes,
and do not exalt yourself in a day of
glory,
because the works of the Lord are wonderful,
and his works are hidden among
humans.
5 Many tyrants have sat on the ground, but one not expected to was wearing a diadem.
6 Many dynasts have been utterly dishonored, and people of high repute have been given over into the hands of others.
7 Before you investigate, do not find fault;
reflect first, and then rebuke.
8 Before listening, do not answer, and in the middle of speaking, do not interrupt.
9 About a matter that is of no use to you, do not quarrel,
and in a trial of sinners, do not
deliberate.
10 Child, let not your actions entail many
things;
if you multiply them^a, you will not be held blameless,
and if you pursue, you will not overtake,
and you will not escape when you flee.
11 There exists one who toils and struggles and hurries
but is so much the more in want.
12 There exists one who is sluggish and in need of assistance,
lacking strength and abounding in poverty,

^aLacking in Gk

and the eyes of the Lord looked upon him for good,
and he restored him from his low estate
and raised up his head, and many marveled at him.

Good things and bad, life and death, poverty and wealth are from the Lord.
*[15 Wisdom and skill and knowledge of the law are
from the Lord,]
[affection and the ways of good works are
from him.]*

*[16 Error and darkness have been created with sinners,]
[and evil things grow old along with those who take pride in evil.]*

The Lord's gift remains with the pious, and his favor will bring success forever.

There exists one who becomes rich from his diligence and miserliness, and this is the portion of his recompense.

When he says, "I have found rest,
and now I will eat of my good things," even he does not know how time will pass
by,
and he will leave them to others and will die.

Stand by your covenant^a, and attend to it,
and in your work grow old.

Do not wonder at the works of a sinner, but have faith in the Lord, and continue your labor,
because it is easy in the eyes of the Lord quickly, suddenly, to make a needy person rich.

The Lord's blessing is in the wage of a pious
person,
and in a short time his good pleasure flourishes.

Do not say, "What is my need?
And what will be my good things from now on?"

Do not say, "I have enough, and what distress will I suffer from now
on?"

In a day of ^bprosperity, adversity^b is
forgotten,
and in a day of ^cadversity, prosperity^c will not be remembered,
because it is easy with the Lord in a day of
death
to give back to a person according to his ways.

An hour's misery engenders forgetfulness of
luxury,
and a person's end is a disclosure of his
deeds.

Before death call no one happy,
and in his children a man will be known.

29 Do not bring every person into your home, for many are the ambushes of the deceitful.

30 A decoy partridge in a cage, so is the heart of an arrogant person,
and like a spy he observes a downfall.

31 For he lies in ambush turning good things into bad,
and ^damong choice things he adds disgrace^d.

32 From a spark of fire coals are multiplied, and a sinful person lies in ambush for
blood.

33 Beware of a scoundrel—for he devises wicked things—
lest he deliver to you disgrace forever.

34 Welcome a stranger, and he will twist you around in confusion
and alienate you from your own.

12 If you do good, know for whom you do it, and there will be gratitude for your good
deeds.

2 Do good to a pious person, and you will find repayment,
and if not from him, then from the Most
High.

3 There is no good for him who persists in
evil
and for him who does not willingly offer charity.

4 Give to the pious person, but do not assist
the sinner.

5 Treat the humble well, and do not give to an impious person;
hold back loaves of bread, and do not give
to him,
lest by them he prevail over you;
for you will get twice as many bad things for all the good things that you might do
for him,

6 because also the Most High hated sinners, and on the impious he will render punishment.
[And he is keeping them for the day of their punishment.]

7 Give to the good person, and do not assist
the sinner.

8 The friend will not be punished in good
things,
and the enemy will not be hidden in evil
things.

9 In a man's good things, his enemies are in pain,
and in his evil things, a friend also will be separated.

10 Never trust your enemy;
for just as copper corrodes, so does his wickedness.

11 And if he is brought low and walks stooped,

^aOr agreement ^bOr good things, bad things ^cOr bad things, good things ^dPerhaps among chosen ones he sets disgrace ^eLacking in Gk

- trust your soul, and be on guard against him, and you shall be to him as one who wipes a mirror,
and you shall know that it was not completely tarnished.
- 12 Do not stand him next to you,
lest, having overthrown you, he stand in your place;
do not seat him at your right,
lest he seek your seat,
and at last you will understand my words and be pricked by my sayings.
- 13 Who will pity a charmer bitten by a snake, or all who approach wild beasts?— 14 so the one who goes near a man who sins and one who gets mixed up in his sins.
15 For a time he will remain with you,
and if you falter, he will not be steadfast.
16 With his lips the enemy will speak sweetly, and in his heart he will plan to throw you into a trench.
With his eyes the enemy will weep, and if he finds an opportunity, he will not be sated with blood.
- 17 If harm meets you, you will find him there ahead of you,
and pretending to help, he will trip your heel.
- 18 He will shake his head and clap his hands and whisper many things and alter his face.
- 13 He who touches pitch will become dirty, and he who associates with a proud person will become like him.
- 2 Do not lift what is too heavy for you, and do not associate with one stronger and richer than you.
How will a clay pot associate with a cauldron?
The former will strike against, and the former will be smashed.
- 3 A rich person did wrong, and he was angry to boot;
a poor person has been wronged, and he will plead.
- 4 If you are useful, he will work with you, and if you are in want, he will abandon
you.
- 5 If you have something^a, he will live with
you,
and he will clean you out, and he will not suffer.
- 6 He has need of you and will deceive you and will smile at you and will give you
hope;
he will speak nice things to you and say,
“What do you need?”
- 7 He will shame you with his foods until he cleans you out two or three times, and at last he will mock you;
after these things, he will see you and leave
you
and will shake his head at you.
- 8 Take care that you are not led astray,
and do not be humiliated by your folly.
- 9 When a powerful person invites you, be reserved,
and he will invite you so much more.
- 10 Do not be forward, lest you be rejected, and do not stand far off, lest you be forgotten.
- 11 Do not aim to speak as an equal with
him,
and do not put faith in his rather many
words;
for with much talk he will test you,
and as though smiling he will be examining you.
- 12 Merciless is he who does not guard words, and he will not spare you from doing bad and imprisonment.
- 13 Be on guard, and pay attention, because you are walking about with your own downfall.
- [¹⁴ When you hear them in your sleep, wake up.]
[In your entire life, love the Lord,]
[and call upon him for your deliverance.]
- 15 Every living thing loves what is like to it, and every person his fellow.
- 16 All flesh congregates according to kind,
and with one like himself will a man cleave.
- 17 What will a wolf have in common with a lamb?—
so is^a a sinner to a pious person.
- 18 What peace is there between a hyena and a dog?
And what peace between a rich person
and a needy person?
- 19 The prey of lions is onagers in the desert;
thus the poor are the fodder of the rich.
- 20 An abomination to a proud person is
humility;
thus an abomination to a rich person is a poor person.
- 21 When a rich person totters, he is supported by friends,
but when a humble person falls, he is pushed away by friends.
- 22 When a rich person staggers, many are his helpers;
he spoke things not to be spoken, and they justified him.
A humble person staggered, and in addition they rebuked him;
he uttered sense, and no place was given
to him.
- 23 A rich person spoke, and all kept silent,

^aLacking in Gk

and they exalted his word up to the clouds.
 A poor person spoke, and they said, "Who is this?"
 And if he should stumble, they will even overturn him.
 24 Wealth in which there is no sin is good, but in the mouths of an impious person poverty is wicked.
 25 A person's heart changes his face, whether for good things or bad.
 26 A heart's footstep in good things is a cheerful face, and the invention of illustrations is conversations along with toils.

14 Happy is the man who did not slip with his mouth and was not stabbed with the pain of sins.
 2 Happy the one whose soul has not condemned him^a and who has not lost his hope.
 3 For a petty man wealth is not good, and to a begrudging person—why is there money?
 4 He who constrains his appetite collects for others, and with his goods others will live luxuriously.
 5 He who is evil to himself, to whom will he be good? And he will never be gladdened by his money.
 6 There is none worse than he who begrudges himself, and this is repayment for his evil.
 7 Even if he acts well, he does it with forgetting, and in the end he reveals his evil.
 8 Wicked is the one who is grudging with the eye, when he turns away his^a face and overlooks souls.
 9 The eye of the greedy is not satisfied with a portion, and wicked injustice withers the soul.
 10 An evil eye is envious over bread, and it is lacking on his^b table.
 11 Child, even as you have, treat yourself well, and bring offerings to the Lord worthily.
 12 Remember that death will not tarry, and the covenant of Hades has not been shown to you.
 13 Before you die, treat a friend well, and, according to your strength, reach out, and give to him.
 14 Do not withdraw from a good day, and do not let a share of a good desire pass you by.

15 Will you not leave behind your toils to another and your toils to division by lot?
 16 Give, and take, and deceive your soul, because in Hades there is no seeking of luxury.
 17 All flesh becomes old like a garment, for the covenant of old is, "By death you shall die!"
 18 Like a sprouting leaf on a thickly leaved tree, some it sheds, but others it puts forth; so is a generation of flesh and blood, the one dies and the other is born.
 19 Every decaying deed ceases, and the one who does it will pass away with it.
 20 Happy is the man who will meditate on wisdom and who will converse with his understanding.
 21 He who considers her ways in his heart also will reflect on her obscurities.
 22 Go out after her like a tracker, and in her entranceways lie in wait!
 23 He who peers through her windows also will listen at her doorways.
 24 He who lodges near her house also will pitch a peg in her walls.
 25 He will set his tent ^caccording to her hand^c, and he will lodge in a lodging place of good things.
 26 He will place his children in her shelter, and under her boughs he will encamp.
 27 He will be sheltered by her from heat, and in her glory he will lodge.

15 He who fears the Lord will do it^d, and he who has a hold on the law will lay hold of her.
 2 And she will come to meet him like a mother, and like a woman of maidenhood, she will welcome him.
 3 She will feed him bread of understanding, and water of wisdom she will give him to drink.
 4 He will be propped up on her and will not ^elie down^e, and he will attend to her, and he will not be put to shame.
 5 And she will exalt him above his fellows, and in the midst of an assembly she will open his mouth.
 6 Gladness and a garland of rejoicing and an everlasting name will he inherit.
 7 Witless people will never lay hold of her, and sinful men will never see her.
 8 She is far from arrogance, and lying men will never remember her.
 9 A song of praise is not proper in the mouth of a sinner, ^aLacking in Gk ^bOr its ^cI.e. as she directs ^dAntecedent unclear ^eOr fall

- because it has not been apportioned by the Lord.
- 10 For in wisdom a song of praise will be uttered, and the Lord will make it prosper.
- 11 Do not say, "On account of the Lord I fell away," for what he hates, he will not do.
- 12 Do not say, "It was he who led me astray," for he has no need of a sinful man.
- 13 Every abomination the Lord hated, and it^a is not beloved to those who fear him.
- 14 It was he who from the beginning made humankind, and he left him in the hand of his deliberation.
- 15 If you want to, you shall preserve the commandments, and to keep faith is a matter of good pleasure.
- 16 He has set aside for you fire and water; to whichever you want, you shall stretch out your hand.
- 17 Before humans are life and death, and whichever one he desires will be given to him,
- 18 because great is the wisdom of the Lord; he is mighty in dominance and one who sees everything.
- 19 And his eyes are on those who fear him, and he will know every human deed.
- 20 He did not command anyone to be impious, and he did not give anyone leave to sin.
- 16 Do not desire a multitude of useless children, and do not be glad over impious sons.
- 2 If they multiply, do not be glad over them unless the fear of the Lord is with them.
- 3 Do not have faith in their life, and do not be intent on the multitude of them.
[For you will groan in untimely mourning,]
[and suddenly you will know of their end.]
- For better is one than a thousand, and to die childless rather than to have impious children.
- 4 For by one intelligent person a city will be peopled, but a tribe of lawless people will be left without^b.
- 5 Many such things has my eye seen, and more mighty things than these has my ear heard.
- 6 In a gathering of sinners a fire will blaze out, and in a disobedient nation wrath has blazed out.
- 7 He did not propitiate for the ancient giants, those who revolted in their strength.
- 8 He did not spare the neighbors of Lot whom he loathed on account of their arrogance.
- 9 He did not have mercy on a nation of destruction, those carried away by their sins.
[All these things he did to hard-hearted nations,]
[and by the multitude of his holy ones he was not entreated]
- 10 even so six hundred thousand foot soldiers, those assembled in their hardness of heart.
[In flogging, showing mercy, striking, healing,]
[the Lord watched closely with compassion and instruction.]
- 11 Even if there might be one stiff-necked person, it would be a wonder if he would go unpunished; for mercy and wrath are with him, a dynast of propitiations and pouring out wrath.
- 12 According to his great mercy, so also is his reproof; he will judge a man according to his deeds.
- 13 A sinner will not escape with booty, and the endurance of the pious will never fail.
- 14 He will make a place for every act of charity; each will get according to his deeds.
[15 The Lord hardened Pharaoh so that he did not know him]
[so that his actions might be known to what lies beneath the sky.]
- [16 To all creation is his mercy manifest,] [and his light and darkness he apportioned to Adam.]
- 17 Do not say, "I will be hidden from the Lord— and from on high who will remember me?" Among a great many people I will not be known; for what is my soul in an immeasurable creation?
- 18 Look, the sky and the sky of the sky, abyss and earth will totter at his visitation.
[The entire world, past and present, is in his will.]
- 19 At once the mountains and the foundations of the earth are being shaken together with trembling when he looks at them.
- 20 And to them the heart will give no thought—

^ai.e. abomination ^bi.e. without a city and his ways who has pondered?

 21 And a tempest there is, which person shall not see—
 and most of his deeds are in secret.
 22 Acts of justice who will announce, or who will await? For the covenant is far
 off.
 [And an examination for all is at the end.] 23 One who is lacking in heart thinks these
 things,
 and a foolish and misled man thinks foolish things.
 24 Listen to me, child, and learn knowledge,
 and to my words apply your heart.
 25 I will disclose instruction by fixed standard, and with accuracy I will declare
 knowledge.
 26 In the Lord's creation are his works from the beginning,
 and from the making of them he defined their portions.
 27 He put in order their tasks forever and their rule for their generations;
 they neither hungered, nor did they grow
 weary,
 and they did not abandon their tasks.
 28 Each one did not crowd its fellow, and they will not ever disobey his dictum.
 29 And after these things, the Lord looked upon the earth,
 and he filled it with his good things.
 30 With the soul of every living thing he covered its face,
 and into it is their return.

17 The Lord created a human being out of
 earth,
 and he returned him into it again.
 2 He gave them days in number and a fixed
 time,
 and he gave them authority over the things upon it.
 3 He clothed them in a strength like
 himself,
 and in his image he made them.
 4 He placed the fear of him^a upon all flesh, even to have dominion over beasts and
 birds.
 [5 They received use of the five faculties of the Lord,
 [*but, apportioning a sixth, he gave to them
 the gift of mind,*
 [and the seventh, reason, the interpreter of his faculties.]
 6 Deliberation and a tongue and eyes, ears and a heart for thinking he gave
 them.
 7 With knowledge of understanding he filled
 them,

and good things and bad he showed to
 them.
 8 He put the fear of him upon their hearts,
 to show them the majesty of his works.
 [He allowed that they boast of his wonders through ages.]
 10 And they shall praise a name of holiness 9 in order to recount the majesties of his works.
 11 He set before them knowledge, and a law of life he allotted to them [in order to be mindful that those who exist now are mortal.]
 12 A perpetual covenant he established with
 them,
 and his judgments he showed to them.
 13 Majesty of glory their eyes saw,
 and the glory of his voice their ear heard.
 14 And he said to them, "Be on guard against all wrong,"
 and he commanded each of them concerning his fellow.
 15 Their ways are before him always;
 they will not be hidden from his eyes.
 [16 Their ways from youth are upon evil things,
 [and they were not strong enough to make their hearts of flesh
 [rather than of stone.]
 17 [*For in the division of the nations of the entire
 earth,*
 for each nation he appointed a leader,
 and the Lord's portion is Israel, [18 whom, being the firstborn, he nurtures with instruction,
 [and allotting the light of love, he does not neglect him.]
 19 All of their works are before him like the
 sun,
 and his eyes are continually upon their
 ways.
 20 Their injustices were not hidden from him,
 and all their sins are before the Lord.
 [21 But the Lord, being kind and knowing his formation,
 [*neither neglected them nor forsook sparing
 them.*]
 22 A man's charity is like a signet with him, and a person's kindness he will preserve like the apple of his eye, [apportioning repentance to his sons and daughters.]
 23 After these things he will arise and repay
 them,
 and their repayment he will deliver upon their head.
 24 Except to those who repented he granted a return,
 and he exhorted those who were abandoning hope.
 25 Turn back to the Lord, and leave sins behind;

^ai.e. the first human

- petition in person, and minimize the offense.
- 26 Return to the Most High, and turn away from injustice, [for he will guide out of darkness into the light of health,] and intensely hate abomination.
- 27 Who will sing praises to the Most High in Hades instead of the living and those who give thanks?
- 28 From a corpse, since it does not exist, acknowledgement has perished;
a living and healthy person will praise the Lord.
- 29 How great is the charity of the Lord and his propitiation to those who turn back to him.
- 30 For not all things are able to be among humans, because a son of man is not immortal.
- 31 What is brighter than the sun? Even this thing fails.
And flesh and blood will ponder evil.
- 32 It is he who reviews the power of the sky's height, and all human beings are earth and ashes.
- 18 He who lives forever created everything in common.
- 2 The Lord alone will be justified,
[and there is no other beside him,]
[3 he who steers the world with the span of his hand,] [and all things obey his will,]
[for he is king of all things by his power,] [separating among them holy things from profane.]
- 4 He has permitted no one to announce his works—and who can search out his majestic deeds?
- 5 The power of his greatness who will enumerate?
And who will add to recount his mercies?
- 6 It is impossible to diminish or to increase them^a,
and it is impossible to search out the wonders of the Lord.
- 7 When a person finishes, then he is beginning, and when he stops, then he will be at a loss.
- 8 What is a human being, and what is his use?
What is his good, and what is his evil?
- 9 The number of a person's days is as many as a hundred years, [but indeterminable by all is the sleep of each one.]
- 10 Like a drop of water from the sea and a grain of sand, so are a few years in a day of eternity.
- 11 For this reason the Lord was longsuffering with them, and he poured out his mercy upon them.
- 12 He saw and knew their end, that it is grievous;
for this reason he multiplied his propitiation.
- 13 A person's mercy is upon his fellow,
but the mercy of the Lord is upon all flesh, when he corrects and instructs and teaches and turns as a shepherd does his flock.
- 14 He shows mercy to those who accept discipline and who hasten to his judgments.
- 15 Child, do not allow reproach among good deeds nor pain of words with every giving.
- 16 Does not dew mitigate scorching heat?
So better a word than a gift.
- 17 Look! Does not a word exceed a good gift?
And both are with a man who has been favored.
- 18 A foolish person will upbraid ungraciously,
and the giving of a grudging person melts eyes.
- 19 Before speaking, learn,
and before illness, take care of yourself.
- 20 Before judgment, examine yourself,
and in the hour of scrutiny you will find propitiation.
- 21 Before you fall ill, humble yourself,
and in a time of sinful actions demonstrate repentance.
- 22 Do not be hindered from repaying a vow appropriately, and do not wait until death to be vindicated.
- 23 Before making a vow, prepare yourself, and do not be like a person who tempts the Lord.
- 24 Be mindful of wrath in days of death and of a time of vengeance ^{bin} the turning away of a face^b.
- 25 Be mindful of a time of hunger in a time of plenty,
of poverty and want in days of wealth.
- 26 From morning until evening opportunity changes, and all things are swift^c before the Lord.
- 27 A wise person will be cautious in everything, and in days of sins he will take heed against error.
- 28 Every intelligent person recognized wisdom, and to him who finds her she^d will give acknowledgment.
- 29 Persons who are intelligent with words also became wise themselves, ^aLacking in Gk ^bOr when he turns away (his) face ^cPerhaps fleeting ^dPossibly he and they poured forth apt proverbs.

[Better is confidence in a single master] [than clinging with a dead heart to a dead one.]

SELF CONTROL

30 After your desires do not go, and from your appetites restrain yourself.
 31 If you furnish your soul with consent for desire,
 it will make you a laughingstock of your
 enemies.
 32 Do not be glad in great luxury;
 do not be made needy by its contact.
 33 Do not become poor by feasting out of borrowing,
 and you have nothing in your pocket.
[For you will be plotting against your own life.]

19 A drunken worker will not become rich, and he who despises few things will fall little by little.
 2 Wine and women will mislead intelligent men,
 and he who joins himself to prostitutes will be more reckless.
 3 Decay and worms will take possession of
 him,
 and a reckless soul will be carried off.
 4 He who trusts quickly is light in heart,
 and he who sins will do wrong to his soul.
 5 He who is gladdened by wickedness will be condemned,
*[but he who withstands pleasures crowns his
 life.]*
 6 [He who controls the tongue will live without strife,]
 and he who hates discussion will be lacking in heart.
 7 Never repeat a word,
 and nothing will be lacking to you.
 8 Among friend and foe do not describe, and unless it is a sin for you, do not disclose.
 9 Suppose he^a has heard you and kept watch
 on you
 and in time will hate you.
 10 Have you heard a word? Let it perish along with you.
 Be brave! It will never make you burst.
 11 From a word, a foolish person will go into labor pains,
 as does she who is giving birth from a babe to be born.
 12 An arrow stuck in a thigh of flesh, so is a word in the gut of a foolish
 person.
 13 Question a friend; perhaps he didn't,
 and if he did something, lest perchance he add.

14 Question your fellow; perhaps he didn't say,
 and if he has said, lest he repeat.
 15 Question a friend, for oftentimes it becomes slander,
 and do not believe every word.
 16 There exists one who slips, and it is not ^bfrom the soul^b—
 and who has not sinned with his
 tongue?
 17 Question your fellow before threatening, and give a place to the law of the Most
 High.
[¹⁸ Fear of the Lord is the beginning of acquisition,] [and wisdom secures affection from him.]
[¹⁹ Knowledge of the Lord's commandments is education for life,] [and those who do things pleasing to him will enjoy the fruits of the tree of immortality.]
 20 All wisdom is fear of the Lord, and in all wisdom there is doing of the
 law
[and knowledge of his omnipotence.] [²¹ When a domestic says to a master, "I will not do what pleases you,"] [if after these things he does, he angers him who supports him.]
 22 There is no wisdom that is knowledge of wickedness,
 and there is no prudence in advice of
 sinners.
 23 There is cleverness that is also an
 abomination,
 and there is a fool lacking in wisdom.
 24 Better is a fearful person inferior in intelligence
 than one superior in prudence and transgressing the law.
 25 There exists exact cleverness that is also unjust,
 and there is one who perverts a favor in order to produce a judgment, *[and he who deems righteous is wise in
 judgment.]*
 26 There is one who acts wickedly, bent down with blackness,
 and what is inside him is full of
 treachery.
 27 As he lowers face and feigns deafness,
 when no one observes, he will outrun you.
 28 And if by lack of strength he is prevented from sinning,
 if he finds opportunity, he will do evil.
 29 From appearance a man will be recognized,
 and from a meeting in person a rational person will be recognized.
 30 A man's clothing and a ^claughter of teeth^c and a person's gait will announce things about him.

^ai.e. friend or foe ^bi.e. intentional ^ci.e. toothy laugh

20 There is questioning that is not timely, and there is one who keeps silent, and he is prudent.

2 How good it is to question rather than to be angry.

3 And he who admits freely will be kept from disparagement.

4 A eunuch's desire to violate a girl—thus is he who makes judgments by force.

5 There exists a person who keeps silent, who is found to be wise,
and there is one who is hated from much talk.

6 There exists one who keeps silent, for he does not have an answer, and there is one who keeps silent, since he knows the proper time.

7 A wise person will be silent until a proper
time,
but the swaggerer and fool overstep a proper time.

8 He who is excessive with speech will be loathed,
and he who pretends to authority will be
hated.
*[How good that when one is rebuked, one shows repentance,]
[for thus shall you escape willful sinning.]*

9 A man has success in evil things, and there is a windfall resulting in loss.

10 There exists giving that will not profit you, and there exists giving of which the repayment is double.

11 There exists loss for the sake of reputation, and there exists a person who from a low estate raised his^a head.

12 There exists a person who buys much for a little
and pays for it seven times.

13 The wise person will make himself beloved in a few things,
but favors of foolish ones will be poured
out.

14 A gift of a fool will not profit you,
[and likewise also that of a grudging person on account of his compulsion,] for his eyes are many instead of one.

15 He will seldom give and reproach often, and he will open his mouth like a herald;
today he will lend and ask back
tomorrow;
such a person is hateful.

16 A foolish person says, "I do not have a friend,
and there is no gratitude for my good
deeds."
Those who eat his bread are mean in
tongue.

17 How often and how many will ridicule him?

*[For he has not received what he has with true feeling,]
[and what he does not have similarly is indifferent to him.]*

18 A slip on the ground rather than of the
tongue;
so the downfall of evil persons will come speedily.

19 An ungracious person, an untimely story, it will persist in the mouth of the
uneducated.

20 An illustration from the mouth of a foolish person will be rejected,
for he will not tell it at its proper time.

21 There exists a person who is prevented from sinning by indigence, and in his rest he will not be bewildered.

22 There exists a person who destroys his life through shame,
and he will destroy it due to a fool.

23 There exists a person who promises to a friend a favor out of shame and made him an enemy to no purpose.

24 A lie is an evil blemish on a person;
it will persist in the mouth of the
uneducated.

25 Preferable is a thief over one who persists in a lie,
but both will inherit destruction.

26 A lying person's character is dishonor, and his shame is constantly with him.

ILLUSTRATIVE SAYINGS

27 The wise person will apply himself in few
things,
and a prudent person will please nobles.

28 He who tills the soil will raise up his heap, and he who pleases nobles will atone for
injustice.

29 Friendly gift and presents^b blind the eyes of wise persons,
and like a muzzle on a mouth they turn away reproofs.

30 Hidden wisdom and unseen treasure, what profit is there in both?

31 Better is a person who hides his foolishness
than a person who hides his wisdom.

[³² *Better is implacable endurance in seeking the
Lord]
[than a spurious charioteer of one's own life.]*

21 Child, you sinned; do not add any longer, and concerning your former ones petition.

2 As from before a snake, flee from sin,
for if you approach, it will bite you;
it's teeth are lion's teeth,
destroying people's lives.

^aLacking in Gk ^bOr bribes

- 3 All lawlessness is like a two-edged sword;
for its wound there is no healing.
- 4 Consternation and insolence will desolate
wealth;
so an arrogant person's house will be uprooted.
- 5 A poor person's petition is from the mouth
to his^a ears,
and his judgment comes speedily.
- 6 One who hates reproof is in the footsteps of a sinner,
and he who fears the Lord will turn with
the heart.
- 7 Known from afar is he who is mighty in
tongue,
but he who is sensible knows when he makes a slip.
- 8 He who builds his house with others'
money
is like one who gathers his stones for a burial mound.
- 9 A gathering of the lawless is bundled flax,
and a flame of fire is their end.
- 10 A way of sinners is leveled out of stones, and at its end is a hole of Hades.
- 11 He who keeps the law gains mastery over the object of his thought, and consummation of the fear of the Lord is wisdom.
- 12 He who is not clever shall not be instructed,
but there is a cleverness that increases
bitterness.
- 13 A wise person's knowledge will increase like a flood,
and his counsel is like a spring of life.
- 14 The inward parts^b of a foolish person are like a broken vessel,
and he will not master any knowledge.
- 15 A wise word—if one who understands hears
it,
he will praise it and will add to it.
He who lives luxuriously heard and was displeased with it,
and he turned it aside behind his back.
- 16 A foolish person's explanation is like a burden on a journey,
but upon the lips of an intelligent person grace will be found.
- 17 The mouth of a prudent person will be sought in an assembly, and his words they will ponder in their^b
heart.
- 18 Like a house that has been razed, so is wisdom to a foolish person, and an ignorant person's knowledge is meaningless words.
- 19 On a thoughtless person's feet education is fetters,
and like manacles on one's right hand.
- 20 A foolish person raises his voice in laughter,
but a clever man will scarcely smile in silence.
- 21 Like a golden ornament is instruction to a prudent person,
and like a bracelet on the right arm.
- 22 A foolish person's foot is quick into a house, but an experienced person will feel restraint in front.
- 23 A fool peeks into a house from a door,
but an educated man will stand outside.
- 24 It is lack of education for a person to listen
at a door,
but a prudent person will be weighed down by dishonor.
- 25 Lips of strangers will tell tales with these
things,
but the words of prudent persons will be placed on a scale.
- 26 In the mouth of foolish persons is their
heart,
but in the heart of wise persons is their
mouth.
- 27 When an impious person curses the satan,
he curses his own soul.
- 28 He who whispers defiles his own soul, and he will be hated in a neighborhood.
- 22 A sluggard has been compared to a filthy
stone,
and everyone will hiss at his dishonor.
- 2 A sluggard has been compared to cow dung of dung hills;
everyone who picks it up will shake off his^b hand.
- 3 A father's shame is in engendering an ineducable son^b,
but a daughter is born at a loss.
- 4 A prudent daughter will obtain a husband of her own,
and she who is put to shame is as a grief for a begetter.
- 5 The impudent woman shames father and
husband,
and she will be held in dishonor by both
of them.
- 6 Untimely narration is music during
mourning,
but whips and instruction^c are wisdom at any time.
- [7 Children who have a rearing in a good life [will hide the lowly birth of their own begetters.]
- [8 Children who take pride in contempt and lack of instruction
[sully the good birth of their own family.]

^aI.e. God's ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr discipline

- 9 He who teaches a foolish person is one gluing together a potsherd, one arousing a sleeper out of a deep
sleep.
- 10 He who recounts to a foolish person is recounting to one who is drowsy, and at the conclusion he will say, "What
is it?"
- 11 Weep over a corpse, for he has left the
light,
and weep over a foolish person, for he has left understanding behind.
Weep sweetly over a corpse, because he died, but the life of the foolish person is a sorry plight beyond death.
- 12 Mourning for a corpse is for seven days, but for a foolish and impious person, it is all the days of his life.
- 13 Do not increase speech with a fool,
and do not go to an unintelligent person; [for when a person is without sense, he will bring to nothing everything of yours;]
keep away from him, lest you have trouble, and you will not be sullied by his shaking
off;
stay clear of him, and you will find rest,
and you will never be wearied by his
madness.
- 14 What will be heavier than lead?
And what name does he have but
"foolish person"?
- 15 Sand and salt and a lump of iron are easier to bear than an unintelligent
person.
- 16 A tie-beam fastened into a building will not be loosed by an earthquake;
so a heart firmly set upon a thought from counsel
will not be afraid at any time.
- 17 A heart fixed upon thoughtful
understanding
is like an engraved ornament on a smooth wall.
- 18 Pebbles lying on a high surface will never endure against a wind;
so a heart in dread at the thought of a foolish person
will never endure against any fear.
- 19 He who pricks an eye will draw down tears, and he who pricks a heart brings to light feelings.
- 20 He who throws a stone at birds scares them
off,
and he who insults a friend dissolves a
friendship.
- 21 If you draw a sword on a friend,
do not despair, for a way back is possible.
- 22 If you open your^a mouth against a friend, be not concerned, for reconciliation is possible—
with the exception of reproach and arrogance and revealing a secret and a treacherous blow—
in these cases any friend will flee.
- 23 Gain your fellow's trust in poverty so that in his prosperity you may be filled
as well;
in a time of distress stay with him so that in his inheritance you may be a joint heir.
[For one should not always despise the outline,] [nor is a rich person admirable when he has no purpose.]
- 24 Preceding a fire there are a furnace's vapor
and smoke;
so preceding bloodshed there are abuses.
- 25 I will not be ashamed to shelter a friend, and from before him I will never hide.
- 26 And if bad things will happen to me on his
account,
everyone who hears will guard against
him.
- 27 Who will grant a guard upon my
mouth
and a shrewd seal upon my lips, lest I fall because of them and my tongue destroy me?
- 23 O Lord, Father and Master of my life,
do not abandon me to their design,
and do not let me fall among them.
- 2 Who will set whips upon my thought and discipline of wisdom upon my
heart
so that they might not spare my faults of ignorance
and he shall not let their sins go?—
- 3 that my acts of ignorance may not be multiplied,
and my sins may increase,
and I will fall before my adversaries,
and my enemy will rejoice over me.
[Far from them is the hope of your mercy.]
- 4 O Lord, Father and God of my life, do not give me a lifting up of eyes,
and turn desire away from me.
- 5 Let not the belly's appetite and sexual intercourse seize me,
and do not give me over to a shameless
soul.
- DISCIPLINE OF THE MOUTH
- 7 Listen, children, to discipline of the
mouth,
and he who observes it will never be caught.
- 8 By his lips a sinner will be seized,

^aLacking in Gk

and an abusive person and an arrogant person will be made to stumble by them.

9 Do not accustom your mouth to an oath, and do not become used to the naming of the Holy One.

10 For just as a domestic who is constantly scrutinized will not be wanting for a bruise, so also he who swears and always speaks the name will never be cleansed from sin.

11 A man of many oaths will be full of lawlessness, and a scourge will not depart from his house; if he errs, his sin is upon him, and if he disregards it, he has sinned doubly, and if he swore in vain, he will not be justified, for his house will be full of distress.

12 There is a way of speaking that compares with death; let it not be found in the inheritance of Iakob; for all these things shall stand away from the pious, and they shall not wallow in sins.

13 Do not let your mouth become used to lewd want of education, for there is in it a word of sin.

14 Remember your father and mother, for you sit in council among nobles, lest you forget yourself before them and act foolishly by your habit, and you will wish that you were never born, and you will curse the day of your birth.

15 A person who is accustomed to words of reproach, in all his days, will never be instructed.

16 Two kinds multiply sins, and a third will bring on wrath. A hot temperament like a burning fire will never be quenched until it is consumed; a person who is sexually promiscuous with ^athe body of his flesh^a will never cease until a fire burns out.

17 To a sexually promiscuous person all bread is sweet; he will never grow weary until he dies.

18 There is a person who transgresses against his bed, saying in his soul, "Who will see me? Darkness surrounds me, and the walls will hide me, and no one will see me. Why am I discreet? The Most High will never remember my sins."

19 And people's eyes are his fear, and he was unaware that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter than the sun, as they look upon all the ways of human beings and as they look into obscure parts.

20 Before all things were created, they were known to him, so also after they were completed.

21 This one will be punished in the streets of the city, and when he did not suspect it, he will be seized.

22 So also a woman when she leaves her husband and presents an heir by another.

23 Now, first, she disobeyed the law of the Most High, and second, she committed a wrong against her husband, and third, she committed adultery by an illicit act and presented children by another man.

24 She herself shall be brought out into an assembly, and there will be a visitation on her children.

25 Her children will not spread out into a root, and her branches will not bear fruit.

26 She will leave behind her memory for a curse, and her reproach will not be blotted out.

27 And those who are left behind will know that nothing is better than fear of the Lord, and nothing is sweeter than to heed commandments of the Lord.

[²⁸ It is a great glory to follow God,] [and for you to be received by him is length of days.]

PRAISE OF WISDOM

24 Wisdom will praise her soul, and in the midst of her people she will boast.

2 In an assembly of the Most High she will open her mouth, and before his power she will boast.

3 "I came forth from the mouth of the Most High, and like a mist I covered earth.

4 I encamped in the heights, and my throne was in a pillar of cloud.

5 A circle of sky I encircled alone, and in the deep of abysses I walked.

6 In the waves of the sea and in all the earth and in every people and nation I led.

7 With all these I sought repose, and in whose inheritance I would settle.

^ai.e. his own flesh and blood

8 "Then the creator of all commanded me, and he who created me put down my
tent
and said, 'Encamp in Iakob, and in Israel let your inheritance be.' 9 Before the age, from the beginning, he created me,
and until the age I will never fail.
10 In a holy tent I ministered before him, and thus in Sion I was firmly set.
11 In a beloved city as well he put me
down,
and in Ierusalem was my authority.
12 And I took root among a glorified people, in the portion of the Lord is my inheritance.
13 "Like a cedar I was raised up in Lebanon, and like a cypress in the mountains of Aermon.
14 Like a palm I was raised up in Aiggada, and like rosebushes in Iericho,
like a good-looking olive tree in a plain,
and I was raised up like a plane tree.
15 Like cinnamon and camel's thorn for spices^a,
and like choice myrrh I gave forth a fragrance,
like galbanum and onycha and stacte and like the vapor of frankincense in a tent.
16 I, like a terebinth, spread out my
branches,
and my branches were branches of glory
and grace.
17 I, like a vine, budded forth favor, and my blossoms were the fruit of glory and wealth.
[18 I am a mother of love that is beautiful, and of reverence
[and of knowledge and of devout hope,]
[and I give it^b together with all my children;] [they are ever-generating, to those who are being picked by him.]
19 "Come to me, you who desire me, and from my produce be filled.
20 For the memory of me is sweet beyond
honey,
and the inheritance of me beyond a honeycomb of honey.
21 Those who eat me will hunger for more,
and those who drink me will thirst for
more.
22 He who obeys me will not be ashamed, and those who work with me will not
sin."
23 All these things are the book of the covenant of the Most High God,
a law that Moyses commanded us, an inheritance for the gatherings of Iakob.

[24 Do not cease to be strong in the Lord,]
*[and cling to him so that he might strengthen
you.]*
[The Lord Almighty alone is God,]
[and there is no savior beside him.]
25 It fills wisdom like Phison and like Tigris in days of new things^c.
26 It supplies understanding like Euphrates and like Jordan in days of harvest, 27 It shines forth education like light, like Geon in days of vintage.
28 The first man did not complete knowing her^d,
and so the last one did not track her out; 29 for her thought was filled from the sea,
and her counsel from the great abyss.
30 And I, like a canal from a river and a water channel, issued forth into an orchard.
31 I said, "I will water my garden, and I will drench my flower bed." And look! The canal turned into a river for
me,
and my river turned into a sea.
32 Still I will again make education enlighten like dawn,
and I will shine them^e forth to far off.
33 Still I will again pour out teaching like prophecy,
and I will leave it behind for generations of eternity.
34 See that I have not toiled for myself alone but for all who seek it^f out.

25 My soul found passion in three things, and these are beautiful before the Lord
and human beings:
harmony of brothers and friendship of fellows
and a wife and husband who accommodate each other.
2 But three kinds my soul hates, and I was offended at their life:
an arrogant poor person and a rich liar,
an old adulterer lacking in
understanding.
3 If in youth you have not gathered, how then in your old age could you
find?
4 How beautiful a thing is judgment in gray-haired women,
and to discover counsel in elderly men, 5 How beautiful is the wisdom of aged persons
and thought and counsel in venerable
persons.

^aPossibly of spices; + I gave off a fragrant smell = Ra. ^bI.e. love that is beautiful ^cI.e. spring ^dI.e. wisdom ^eAntecedent unclear ^fPossibly her

6 A garland of aged persons is great experience,
and their boast is fear of the Lord.

7 Nine suppositions I deem happy in my^a
heart.
and a tenth I will speak with my^a tongue:
a person who is glad over children, who lives and looks at the downfall of his enemies.

8 Happy is he who dwells with a sensible wife and who did not slip with the tongue and who did not become a slave to one unworthy of himself.

9 Happy is he who found prudence, and he who recounts to the ears of people who listen.

10 How great is he who finds wisdom, but there is none above him who fears
the Lord.

11 Fear of the Lord surpassed everything; he who possesses it—to whom shall he be compared?

[¹² *Fear of the Lord is the beginning of loving
him,*
*[but faith is the beginning of clinging to
him.]*

13 Any wound, and not a wound of the heart, and any wickedness, and not the wickedness of a woman;
14 any attack, and not the attack of those who
hate,
and any vengeance, and not the vengeance of enemies.

15 There is no head beyond a snake's head, and there is no anger beyond a woman's anger.

16 I shall be content to live with lion and dragon,
rather than to live with a wicked woman.

17 A woman's wickedness alters her appearance,
and it darkens her face like a bear.

18 Among his neighbors her husband will recline
and involuntarily groaned bitter things.

19 Any evil is small touching a woman's evil;
may a sinner's lot of befall her.

20 A sandy ascent for the feet of an elderly
man,
so is a garrulous woman to a quiet
husband.

21 Do not fall down upon a woman's beauty, and do not yearn after a woman.

22 Wrath and shamelessness and great disgrace is a wife
if she provides for her husband.

23 A dejected heart and a sullen face and a wound of the heart is a wicked wife;

slack hands and weakened knees are from a woman who does not make her husband happy.

24 From a woman is the beginning of sin, and because of her we all die.

25 Do not give water an outlet nor freedom of speech to a wicked wife.

26 If she does not walk ^baccording to your hands^b, ^ccut her off from your flesh.

26 Happy is the husband of a good wife,
and doubled is the number of his days.

2 A courageous wife gladdens her husband, and he will fulfill his years in peace.

3 A good wife is a good portion;
she will be given as a portion to the one who fears the Lord.

4 When rich or poor, a good heart,
at every moment a cheerful face!

5 Of three things was my heart wary,
and in the face of a fourth I was frightened:
a slander by a city, an assembly of a mob and false accusation, all miserable beyond death!

6 Pain of heart and sorrow is a woman who is a rival to a wife,
and a lash of a tongue is she who shares with everyone.

7 A chafing ox-yoke is a wicked wife;
he who holds her is like him who grasps
a scorpion.

8 A great wrath is a drunken wife, and her shameful conduct she will not hide.

9 A wife's fornication is in her eyes' haughty looks,
and it will be recognized in her eyelids.

10 Over a wanton daughter keep strict watch, otherwise when she discovers release for herself, she will use it,

11 After an impudent eye watch out, and do not be surprised if she does wrong to you.

12 When a traveler is thirsty, he will open his
mouth
and will drink from any water that is near;
she will sit opposite every staked^d
and she will open quiver to arrow.

13 A wife's charm will delight her husband, and her skill will put fat on his bones.

14 A gift from the Lord is a silent wife, and there is no exchange for her disciplined soul.

15 Charm upon charm is a modest wife, and there is no standard weight good enough for a self-controlled soul.

16 When the sun rises in the heights of the Lord—

^aLacking in Gk ^bI.e. as you direct ^cI.e. divorce her ^dI.e. membrum virile

- also a good wife's beauty, an ornament of her home.
- 17 When a lamp shines forth upon a holy lampstand—
also beauty of face upon stable age.
- 18 Golden pillars upon a silver base—
also beautiful legs upon well-balanced feet.
- [19 Child, preserve intact the prime of your adulthood,
[and do not give your strength to strangers.]
- [20 When you have sought out a fertile plot of an entire plain, [sow your own seed confident in your excellent descent.]
- [21 Thus, your offspring, surrounding you [and having the confidence of excellent descent, will become great.]
- [22 A hired woman will be regarded as equal to spittle, [but a married one will be regarded as a tower of death to those who use her^a.]
- [23 An impious woman will be given as a portion to a lawless man, [but a pious woman is given to him who fears the Lord.]
- [24 A shameless woman will exhaust dishonor, [but a decorous daughter will revere even her husband.]
- [25 A wanton wife will be regarded as a dog, [but she who has shame will fear the Lord.]
- [26 A woman who honors her own husband will appear wise to everyone, [but she who dishonors him with arrogance will be known to all as impious.]
[Happy is the husband of a good wife,
[for the number of his years will be double.]
- [27 A loud-mouthed and talkative wife
[like a trumpet of war will observe a rout, [and the soul of any person who lives in a manner like these]
[will lead his life in the confusions of war.]
- 28 By two things has my heart been grieved, and by a third anger came upon me:
a warrior wanting on account of indigence and intelligent men when they are treated contemptuously:
a person brought from righteousness to sin,
the Lord will prepare him for the sword.
- 29 A merchant will scarcely be delivered from wrongdoing, and a retailer will not be innocent of sin.
- 27 Many have sinned on account of cash,
and he who seeks to increase will avert an eye.
- 2 Between joints of stones a peg will be driven,
and between selling and buying sin will be wedged.
- 3 If one does not hold fast in fear of the Lord, quickly, with speed, his house will be overthrown.
- 4 With a shaking of a sieve, refuse remains—so a person's offal in his reasoning.
- 5 A kiln tests a potter's vessels, and a person's test is in his deliberation.
- 6 Its fruit brings to light a tree's cultivation—
so reasoning notions of a person's heart.
- 7 Before reasoning do not commend a man,
for this is the test of people.
- 8 If you pursue what is just, you will take hold and wear it like a full-length robe of glory.
- 9 Birds will nest with those like them,
and truth will come back to those who practice it.
- 10 A lion lies in wait for prey,
so sin for people who practice injustices.
- 11 The narrative of a pious person is always wisdom,
but the fool changes like the moon.
- 12 In the midst of unintelligent persons watch closely for occasion, but in the midst of thoughtful persons keep going.
- 13 The narrative of foolish persons is an offense,
and their laughter is in wantonness of sin.
- 14 Talk with much swearing will make the hair stand on end,
and their strife is a stopping up of ears.
- 15 A shedding of blood is the strife of the arrogant,
and their railing is miserable to hear.
- 16 He who reveals secrets has destroyed trust and will never find a friend for his soul.
- 17 Show a friend affection, and keep faith with him, but if you reveal his secrets, do not follow after him.
- 18 For just as a person ^bdestroyed his corpse^b,
so you destroyed your fellow's friendship.
- 19 And as you let a bird go free from your hand, so you let go of your fellow, and you will not catch him.
- 20 Do not pursue him, because he has withdrawn far off, ^aLacking in Gk ^bGk uncertain and he has escaped like a gazelle from a trap.

 21 Because it is possible to bind up a wound, there is also reconciliation for abuse, but he who revealed secrets was without hope.
 22 One who winks an eye devises evil things, and he who knows him will turn away from him.
 23 Before your eyes his mouth will be sweet, and at your words he will be amazed, but later he will distort his mouth, and with your words he will give offense.
 24 I hated many things, and I did not become like him, and the Lord will hate him.
 25 He who throws a stone high up throws on his head, and a treacherous blow will open up wounds.
 26 He who digs a hole will fall into it, and he who sets a trap will get caught in it.
 27 He who does wickedness—it will be rolled onto him, and he will never recognize whence it has come to him.
 28 Mocking and reproach belong to an arrogant person, and vengeance, like a lion, will lie in wait for him.
 29 Those who are glad at the fall of pious persons will get caught in a snare, and sorrow will consume them before their death.
 30 Ire and anger, these also are abominations, and a sinful man will have possession of them.

28 He who avenges will discover vengeance from the Lord, and when he observes carefully, he^a will carefully observe his sins.
 2 Forgive your neighbor a wrong, and then, when you petition, your sins will be pardoned.
 3 A person harbors wrath against a person—and will he seek healing from the Lord?
 4 Does he not have mercy on a person like himself and petition concerning his sins?
 5 His being flesh maintains ire—who will make atonement for his sins?
 6 Remember the end things, and cease to be at enmity; remember^b corruption and death, and cleave to the commandments.
 7 Remember commandments, and do not be irate with your fellow, and remember^b the covenant of the Most High, and overlook a mistake^c.

 8 Refrain from strife, and you will reduce sins, for a hot-tempered person will kindle strife
 9 and a sinful man will disturb friends, and among people at peace he will cast slander.
 10 In proportion to a fire's wood, so will it burn, and in proportion to the obstinacy of strife, it will increase; in proportion to a person's strength, will his anger be, and in proportion to his wealth, he will raise up his wrath.
 11 A quarrel being hastened kindles a fire, and strife in a hurry sheds blood.
 12 If you blow on a spark, it will flame up, and if you spit on it, it will be extinguished, and both will proceed out of your mouth.
 13 Curse a slanderous and double-tongued person, for he has destroyed many who are at peace.
 14 ^dA third tongue^d has shaken many and separated them from nation to nation and demolished strong cities and overturned the houses of nobles.
 15 ^dA third tongue^d has cast out courageous women and deprived them of their labors.
 16 He who pays heed to it will never find rest, nor will he encamp with quiet.
 17 A whip's blow produces a welt, but a tongue's blow will break bones.
 18 Many have fallen by a dagger's edge, but not like those who have fallen because of a tongue.
 19 Happy is the one protected from it, who has not endured in its anger, who has not dragged its yoke and with its fetters has not been bound.
 20 For its yoke is a yoke of iron, and its fetters are fetters of bronze.
 21 A wicked death is its death, and Hades is more advantageous than it.
 22 It will never prevail over pious persons, and in its flame they will not be burned.
 23 Those who forsake the Lord will fall into it, and in them it will burn, and it will never be extinguished; it will be sent after them like a lion, and like a leopard it will injure them.
 24a See! Fence your property with thorns, 25b and make for your mouth a door and a bolt.

^ai.e. the Lord ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr sin of ignorance ^dPossibly talk of a third party

24b Lock up your silver and gold, 25b and make for your words a balance and a weight.

26 Take heed lest you slip by it;
do not fall before one who lies in wait.

29 He who does mercy will lend to his fellow, and he who prevails with his hand keeps the commandments.

2 Lend to your fellow in his time of need, and again pay back your fellow at the proper time.

3 Firmly establish a word, and be trustworthy
with him,
and on every occasion you will find what you need.

4 Many regarded a loan as a windfall, and they caused trouble for those who helped them.

5 Until he receives it, he will kiss his hands, and about his fellow's money he lowers
his^a voice,
and at the moment for repayment he will delay for time
and will pay back words of apathy, and he will blame the time.

6 If he is capable, he will recover scarcely half,
and he will consider that as a windfall;
but if not, he has defrauded him of his
money,
and he has needlessly made him an
enemy;
curses and insults he will repay him,
and instead of glory he will repay him dishonor.

7 Many turned away not because of
wickedness;
they were wary of being defrauded needlessly.

8 Nevertheless, with a lowly person be patient,
and do not make him wait for charity.

9 On account of the commandment, assist a needy person,
and according to his need do not turn
him away empty.

10 Lose silver for the sake of a brother and a friend,
and do not let it corrode under the stone unto destruction.

11 Dispose of your treasure according to the commandments of the Most High,
and it will profit you more than gold.

12 Store up charity in your treasuries, and it will deliver you from every
affliction.

13 More than a shield of might and more than a spear of weight,
it will fight against your enemy on your behalf.

14 A good man will give surety for his fellow, and he who lost shame will abandon
him.

15 A guarantor's kindness do not forget,
for he gave his soul on your behalf.

16 A guarantor's goods a sinner will ruin, 17 and an ungrateful person will intentionally abandon one who rescues.

18 Surety destroyed many who were prosperous and tossed them about like a wave of the
sea;
powerful men it exiled,
and they wandered among foreign
nations.

19 A sinner will fall into surety, and as he pursues profit-taking, he will fall into lawsuits.

20 Assist your fellow according to your ability,
and take care for yourself that you do not fall.

21 Life's beginning is water and bread and clothing
and a house for hiding indecency.

22 Better is the life of a poor person under a shelter of rafters
than splendid foods among strangers.

23 With little or much have contentment, and you will never hear reproach for being a sojourner.

24 It is a miserable life going^a from house to
house,
and where you will be a sojourner, you shall not open your mouth.

25 You will entertain and provide drink for no
thanks,
and besides, you will hear bitter words such as these,

26 "Come here, sojourner; prepare a table, and if there is something in your hand, feed me."

27 "Go away, sojourner, because of good repute;
my brother came to me for a visit; I need
the house."

28 These are hard things for a person with pride,
criticism about being a sojourner and reproach from a money-lender.

CONCERNING CHILDREN

30 He who loves his son will persist in whipping him
so that he may be glad at his outcome.

2 He who instructs his son will profit by him, and among acquaintances he will boast
about him.

3 He who teaches his son will make his enemy envious,
and before friends he will exult in him.

^aLacking in Gk

4 His father passed away and is as though he did not die,
for he left behind him a person like
himself.

5 In his life he saw and was glad,
and at his end he was not grieved.

6 Against enemies he has left behind an avenger
and one who repays a kindness to friends.

7 When one cherishes a son, one will bind up his wounds,
and with every cry one's insides will be
troubled.

8 An unbroken horse turns out stubborn, and a son when given free reign turns out rash.

9 Coddle a child, and it will terrorize you;
play with him, and he will grieve you.

10 Do not laugh together with him, lest you suffer together,
and in the end you will gnash your teeth.

11 Do not give him license in his youth,
[and do not overlook his ignorances.]

12 [Bend his neck in youth.] Bruise his sides while he is an infant, lest, when he becomes stubborn, he will disobey you,
[and you will have distress of soul from him.]

13 Instruct your son, and work with him, lest by his disgraceful behavior you become offended.

14 Better a poor person healthy and strong in constitution
than a rich person scourged in his body.

15 Health and vigor are better than any gold, and a robust spirit than boundless worldly wealth.

CONCERNING FOODS

16 There is no wealth better than health of
body,
and there is no gladness beyond joy of
heart.

17 Better death than a bitter life, and eternal repose than chronic sickness.

18 Good things poured out on a mouth that is shut
are offerings of food set on a grave.

19 Of what use is a fruit offering to an idol?
For it will neither eat nor smell.

(20) So is he who is banished by the Lord.

20(21) Whoever sees with the eyes and groans is like a eunuch who embraces a maiden and groans.
[Thus is he who makes judgments by compulsion.]

21(22) Do not give your soul to grief, and do not afflict yourself by your design.

22(23) Gladness of heart is life for a person, and exultation is a man's length of days.

23(24) Deceive your soul, and comfort your heart, and remove grief far from you.

(25) For many has grief destroyed, and there is no advantage in it.

24(26) Jealousy and anger lessen days, and before the proper time anxiety brings old age.

25(27; 33.13b) A cheerful and good heart at meats will take care of its food.

31 (34).1 Wakefulness over wealth wastes away
flesh,
and anxiety about it removes sleep.

2 Anxiety over wakefulness will remove sleepiness,
and a severe illness will carry off sleep.

3 A rich person toiled at the accumulation of
money,
and in rest he fills himself with his delicacies.

4 A poor person toiled for a diminution of
life,
and in rest he becomes needy.

5 He who loves gold will not be justified, and he who pursues profits will be led astray by them.

6 Many were given over to ruin because of
gold,
and their destruction has happened in front of them.

7 It is a block for stumbling for those who are possessed by it,
and every fool will be taken captive by it.

8 Happy is a rich person who was found blameless
and who did not go after gold.

9 Who is he and shall we call him happy?
For he did wonders among his people.

10 Who has been tested by it and been made perfect?
And it will be as a boast for him.
Who was able to transgress and did not transgress,
and to do evil and did not do so?

11 Therefore his good things will be confirmed, and his acts of charity an assembly will
recount.

12 Were you seated at a great table?
Do not open your throat at it.

(13) And do not say, "Indeed how many are the things on it!"

13(14) Remember that a wicked eye is an evil thing.

(15) What was created more wicked than an eye?
Therefore it sends tears from a whole
face.

14(16) Do not extend a hand for whatever you see,

(17) and do not crowd for it at a bowl.

- 15(18) Consider the things of your fellow ^afrom yourself^a,
and about every matter be thoughtful.
- 16(19) Eat like a human being the things set before you,
and do not chomp, lest you be hated.
- 17(20) Be the first to stop, due to your training,
and do not be gluttonous, lest you give offense.
- 18(21) And if you sat among rather many,
do not extend your hand before they do.
- 19(22) For the person of education the little is as enough, and upon his bed he does not gasp for breath.
- 20(24) A sleep of health due to a moderate bowel!
He rose early and his soul with him.
- (23) The pain of sleeplessness and of nausea and colic are with the gluttonous man.
- 21(25) And if you were overpowered by foods, get up, and vomit a distance away, and you will have rest.
- 22(26) Listen, child, and do not scorn me,
and in the end you will acquire my words;
- (27) in all of your works be skillful,
and no illness will ever come upon you.
- 23(28) Lips will bless a person munificent with respect to bread, and trustworthy is the testimony to his fine quality.
- 24(29) The city will murmur about a wicked one for bread, and accurate is the testimony to his wickedness.
- 25(30) With wine do not be macho, for wine has destroyed many.
- 26(31) A furnace tests steel by dipping;
thus wine tests^b hearts in strife of the proud.
- 27(32) Equal to life is wine for human beings,
if you drink it in ^cits measure^c.
- (33) What is life to one who lacks wine?
- (35) And it was created from the beginning for gladness.
- 28(36) Joy of heart and gladness of soul is sufficient wine drunk at the proper time.
- 29(39) Bitterness of soul is much wine drunk amid provocation and stumbling.
- 30(40) Drunkenness increases a fool's temper for hurt, since it reduces strength and adds wounds.
- 31(41) At a banquet of wine do not reprove your fellow,
and do not scorn him in his gladness;
- (42) do not speak to him a word of reproach,
and do not distress him with demanding repayment.
- 32 (35)-1 They appointed you leader; do not exalt yourself;
be among them as one of them;
- (2) take thought for them, and then sit down.
- 2 And when you have performed all your service, recline
- (3) so that you may be merry on account of them, and due to your good conduct you might receive a garland.
- 3(4) Speak, O elderly person, for it is fitting for you,
(5) with accurate knowledge, and do not interrupt the music.
- 4(6) Where there is entertainment, do not pour out talk,
and do not be smart at an inopportune moment.
- 5(7) A ruby seal on a gold ornament is a concert of music at a banquet of wine.
- 6(8) An emerald seal in a gold setting is a melody of music with sweet wine.
- 7(10) Speak, O young person, if you have need, (11) only twice if you were asked;
- 8(12) Summarize your speech; in a few things there are many;
be as one who knows and at the same time one who is silent.
- 9(13) In the midst of nobles do not exercise authority, and where there are old men, do not prate about many things.
- 10(14) Before thunder lightning hastens, and goodwill will go before a modest person.
- 11(15) Awaken in time, and do not bring up the rear;
depart for home, and do not be idle.
- 12(16) There play, and do the things you desire,
and do not sin by arrogant speech.
- 13(17) And in addition, bless the one who made you and intoxicates you with his good things.
- 14(18) He who fears the Lord will accept instruction, and those who rise early will find approval.
- 15(19) He who seeks the law will be filled with it, and he who is hypocritical will stumble on it.
- 16(20) Those who fear the Lord will get a verdict, and they will kindle right acts like a light.
- 17(21) A sinful person will turn away reproof,
and according to his will, he will find a judgment.

^ai.e. put yourself in his place ^bLacking in Gk ^ci.e. moderation

- 18(22) A man of deliberation will never overlook a thought;
the stranger and the arrogant will not cower from fear.
- 19(24) Do nothing without deliberation, and do not feel regret when you have acted.
- 20(25) On a path of stumbling do not go, and do not stumble on rocky ground.
- 21 Do not trust an unexplored road, 22(26) and guard against your children.
- 23(27) In every deed trust your soul, for this as well is a means of keeping the commandments.
- 24(28) He who has faith in the law attends to the commandments, and he who trusts in the Lord will not suffer loss.

- 33 (36).1 No evil will befall him who fears the Lord, but in a test he will also be delivered in turn.
- 2 A wise man will not hate the law, but he who is hypocritical with it is like a boat in a storm.
- 3 An intelligent person will trust in a word, and the law for him is as trustworthy as an inquiry of the clear ones.
- (4) Prepare a speech, and so you will be heard; consolidate instruction, and reply.
- 5 The emotions of a foolish person are like a wheel of a wagon, and his argument is like a turning axle.
- 6 A ^ahorse for breeding^a is like a mocking friend; underneath anyone who sits on him, he whinnies.
- 7 Why is a day superior to a day, when all the light of a day of a year is from the sun?
- 8 By the Lord's knowledge they were marked off, and he made seasons and feasts different.
- 9(10) Some of them he exalted and hallowed, and some of them he established for a number of days.
- 10 And all human beings are from the ground, and out of earth Adam was created.
- 11 In fullness of knowledge the Lord marked them off and made their ways different.
- 12 Some of them he blessed and exalted, and some of them he hallowed and brought near to himself; some of them he cursed and brought low and turned them out of their position.
- 13 Like a potter's clay in his hand, (14) to fashion it according to his liking,

so are human beings in the hand of him who made them,
to repay them according to his judgment.

- 14(15) Good is opposite evil, and life is opposite death; so a sinner is opposite a pious person.
- 15 And so look at all of the works of the Most High,
two by two, one opposite the other one.
- 16 As a last one, it was I who kept vigil, (30.25) as one who gleaned after the grape-pickers.
- 17(25) By the blessing of the Lord I arrived first, and like one who picks grapes I filled a wine vat.
- 18(26) Consider that I have not labored for myself alone but for all those who seek instruction.
- 19(27) Listen to me, nobles of the people, and leaders of the assembly, give ear.
- 20(28) To son and wife, to brother and friend do not give authority over you in your lifetime, and do not give your property to another, lest you change your mind and ask for it.
- 21(29) While you are still alive and there is breath in you, do not exchange yourself with any flesh.
- 22(30) For it is better that your children ask of you than that you should look to the hands of your sons.
- 23(31) In all your works be one who excels; do not bring a stain on your reputation.
- 24(32) In the day of the completion of the days of your life and at the moment of death, distribute an inheritance.
- 25(33) Fodder and a rod and burdens for a donkey; bread and instruction and work for a domestic.
- 26(34) Work with instruction, and you will find rest; let loose his hands, and he will seek freedom.
- 27(35) A yoke and a thong will bow a neck, and for a wicked domestic there are racks and tortures.
- 28(36) Put him to work so that he might not be unoccupied,
- 29(37) for lack of work has taught much evil.
- 30(38) Set him to work as is fitting for him, and if he does not obey, make his fetters heavy.
And do not be excessive over any flesh, and without judgment do not do anything.
- 31(39) If you have a domestic, let him be like you, because with blood you acquired him;

if you have a domestic, treat him like a
brother,
because you will need him like your own
soul.
32(40) If you do him evil and he departs and runs
away,
33 on which road will you seek him?

34 (31).¹ A senseless man has empty and false hopes,
and dreams excite fools.
2 Like one who grasps a shadow and pursues
wind,
so is he who pays heed to dreams.
3 An appearance in dreams is ^athis against that^a,
a likeness of a face opposite a face.
4 Of an unclean thing what will become clean?
And of a false thing what will be true?
5 Divinations and omens and dreams are vain,
and as of a woman in labor the heart fantasizes.
6 Unless it has been sent from the Most High
by a visitation,
do not give your heart to them.
7 For dreams have deceived many,
and persons who hope in them have fallen.
8 Without falsehood the law will be accomplished,
and wisdom in a trustworthy mouth is completeness.
9 Since a man roamed, he knew many things, and he who is experienced will tell with
understanding.
10 He who had no experience knows few
things,
11 but he who has roamed will increase cleverness.
12 I have seen many things in my wandering, and more than my words is my
understanding.
13 Frequently I was in danger of death,
and I was saved because of these things.
14 The spirit of people who fear the Lord will
live,
15 for their hope is in the one who saves
them.
16 He who fears the Lord will be timid in
nothing,
and he will never be cowardly, because he^b is his hope.
17 Happy is the soul of one who fears the Lord.
18 Upon whom is he intent? And who is his support?
19 The eyes of the Lord are upon those who love him,
a shield of dominance and a support of
strength,

a shelter from the burning heat and shade
from midday,
a guard against stumbling and a help against falling,
20 one who uplifts the soul and enlightens
eyes,
gives healing of life and blessing.
21 When one sacrifices from someone unjust, it is a blameworthy offering, 22 and the gifts of lawless persons are not for approval.
23 The Most High is not pleased with the offerings of impious persons, nor by a multitude of sacrifices does he forgive sins.
24 One who slaughters a son in front of his father
is he who brings a sacrifice from the property of the needy.
25 Bread is life for the poor when they are destitute;
he who withholds it^c is a person of
blood.
26 One who murders his fellow is he who takes away a way of living, 27 and one who pours out blood is he who deprives the wages of a hired worker.
28 One builds, and one tears down—what did they gain more than hard labors?
29 One prays, and one curses—
to whose voice will the master listen?
30 When one bathes due to a corpse and when one touches it again—
what did he gain by his washing?
31 So is a person when he fasts for his sins and goes again and does the same
things;
who will listen to his prayer,
and what did he gain by humbling
himself?

35 (32).¹ He who keeps the Law multiplies offerings.
2 One who makes a sacrifice for deliverance is he who pays heed to the
commandments.
3 One who repays a kindness is one who offers the finest flour, 4 and he who does an act of charity is one who makes a sacrifice of praise.
5 A good pleasure to the Lord it is to withdraw from wickedness, and it is atonement to withdraw from
injustice.
6 Do not be seen empty in the presence of the Lord,
7 for all these things are for the sake of a commandment.

^aPossibly a reflection ^bI.e. God ^cI.e. life

8 An offering of a righteous person enriches the altar,
and its pleasing odor is before the Most High.

9 A righteous man's sacrifice is acceptable, and its memorial will not be forgotten.

10 With ^aa good eye^a glorify the Lord, and do not belittle the first fruit of your
hands.

11 With every act of giving brighten your face, and with gladness consecrate a tithe.

12 Give to the Most High according to his giving
and with ^aa good eye^a according to that found at hand,
13 because the Lord is the one who repays,
and he will repay you sevenfold.

14 Do not offer a bribe, for he will not accept
it,
15 and do not be intent on an unrighteous
sacrifice,
because the Lord is judge,
and with him there is no reputation of person^b.

16 He will not ^creceive a person^b against a poor person^c,
and he will listen to the petition of one who is wronged.

17 He will never ignore an orphan's supplication,
nor a widow, if she pours out speech.

18 Do not a widow's tears run down upon her cheek, 19 and is not her cry against the one who drew them down?

20 One who serves with goodwill will be accepted,
and his petition will reach to the clouds.

21 A humble person's prayer passed through the clouds,
and until it draws near, it will never relent,
and it will never desist until the Most High takes notice.

22 And he will adjudicate for righteous persons and will execute judgment.
And the Lord will never be slow, nor will he ever be patient regarding
them
until he crushes the loins of unmerciful
persons 23 and will repay vengeance upon the
nations,
until he removes the multitude of insolent
persons
and will shatter the scepters of unrighteous persons, 24 until he repays a person according to his
deeds
and the works of human beings
according to their notions, 25 until he judges the case of his people and will gladden them with his mercy.

26 Timely is his mercy in a time of distress,
as are clouds of rain in a time of drought.

36 ⁽³³⁾.¹ Have mercy on us, O Master, the god of all,
2 and cast the fear of you upon all the
nations.

3 Lift up your hand against foreign nations, and let them see your dominance.

4 Just as in their presence you have been made holy in us,
so in our presence may you be magnified
in them.

5 And let them know you, just as also we have known
that there is no god except you, O Lord.

6 Renew signs, and change wonders;
7 glorify hand and right arm.

8 Raise up anger, and pour out wrath;
9 destroy an adversary, and crush an enemy.

10 Hasten the time, and remember your determination,
and let them recount your mighty acts.

11 In wrath of fire let him who survives be consumed,
and may those who harm your people find destruction.

12 Crush the heads of hostile rulers who say, "There is no one except us!"
⁽³³⁾.¹³ Gather all the tribes of Iakob, ⁽³⁶⁾.¹⁶ and give them an inheritance, as from the beginning.

17 Have mercy on a people, O Lord, who have been called by your name, and on Israel, whom you likened to a first born.

18 Have pity on the city of your holy precinct, Ierousalem the place of your rest.

19 Fill Sion with a celebration of your mighty
acts,
and your shrine with your glory.

20 Give testimony to your creations in the beginning,
and raise up prophecies that were in your
name.

21 Give a reward to those who wait for you, and let your prophets be found trustworthy.

22 Hear, O Lord, a petition of your domestics according to your good will concerning
your people,
and all who are upon the earth will know that you are the Lord, the God of the ages.

23 Any food will the stomach eat, but there exists food finer than food.

24 The throat makes proof of foods from a hunt;
so an intelligent heart of false words.

25 A perverse heart will give grief,

^ai.e. generosity ^bOr face ^ci.e. favor anyone over the poor

- but an experienced person will pay him^a back.
- 26 A woman will accept any male, but there exists a daughter better than a daughter.
- 27 A woman's beauty brightens a face,
and it surpasses a person's every desire.
- 28 If mercy and gentleness are upon her
tongue,
her husband is not like the sons of
human beings.
- 29 He who acquires a wife makes a beginning of a possession,
a helper corresponding to him and a pillar of rest.
- 30 Where there is no fence, property will be plundered,
and where there is no wife, he will groan
as he wanders.
- 31 For who will trust an unencumbered robber as he bounds from city to city?— likewise a person who does not have a nest and who lodges wherever night falls.
- 37 Every friend will say, "I, too, have been a friend,"
but there is a friend who is a friend in name only.
- 2 Will not grief approach unto death, when companion and friend turns into an enemy?
- 3 O evil notion, how were you involved,
to cover the dry land with deceit?
- 4 A friend's companion delights in gladness, and in a time of distress he will be opposite.
- 5 A companion suffers together with a friend
for his stomach's sake, and in the face of battle he will take up a shield.
- 6 Do not forget a friend in your soul, and do not be unmindful of him in your
money.
- 7 Every counselor exalts advice,
but there is one who counsels for himself.
- 8 Against a counselor guard your soul,
and know beforehand what is his need,
for he, too, will give advice for himself—lest he cast a lot against you
- 9 and say to you, "Your way is fair," and he will stand aside to see what will happen to you.
- 10 Do not consult with him who views you with suspicion,
and from those who are envious of you hide deliberation:
- 11 with a woman about her rival and with a cowardly person about war, with a merchant about business and with one who buys about a sale, with a slanderer about gratitude
- and with an unmerciful person about generosity of heart,
with an idle person about any work and with an annual laborer about finishing,
with an idle domestic about a large task.
Do not pay heed to these for any advice.
- 12 But rather persevere with a pious man whom you know to be one who keeps
commandments,
who in his soul is like your soul,
and if you stumble, he will suffer with
you.
- 13 And stand by your heart's counsel, for there is nothing more faithful to you than it.
- 14 For a man's soul is accustomed to inform at times
more than seven sentinels sitting high up on a look-out.
- 15 And above all these, beseech the Most High
so that he may make straight your way in
truth.
- 16 The beginning of every deed is discourse, and before every action is counsel.
- 17 The track of change is the heart.
- 18 Four destinies appear,
good and evil, life and death,
and that which continually is lord over them is the tongue.
- 19 There exists a clever man who is an instructor of many,
and to his own soul he is useless.
- 20 There exists a person skilled in words who is
hated;
this one will be lacking any luxury.
- 21 For charm has not been granted to him by
the Lord,
because he is deprived of any wisdom.
- 22 There exists a person wise in his own soul, and the fruits of his good sense are ^bon the body^b.
- 23 A wise man will instruct his own people, and the fruits of his understanding are reliable.
- 24 A wise man will be full of blessing, and all who see him will deem him
happy.
- 25 A man's life is in a number of days,
and the days of Israel are without number.
- 26 The wise person among his people will inherit honor,
and his name will live forever.
- 27 Child, during your life test your soul, and see what is bad for it, and do not give^c to it.
- 28 For not everything confers benefit to everyone,

^aOr it; antecedent unclear ^bI.e. evident to all to see ^cI.e. what is bad

- and every soul is not pleased by everything.
- 29 Do not be greedy for every delicacy, and do not give yourself up to foods.
- 30 For in much food there is illness, and gluttony will bring one near to cholera.
- 31 Because of gluttony, many have died, but he who pays attention will add to life.
- 38 Honor a physician for his services, for indeed the Lord created him.
- 2 For healing is from the Most High, and he will receive a gift from a king.
- 3 A physician's skill will put up his head, and in the presence of nobles he will be admired.
- 4 The Lord created remedies out of the earth, and a prudent man will not ignore them.
- 5 Was not water made sweet from wood in order that his^a strength might be known?
- 6 And it was he that gave skill to human beings in order to be glorified in his marvelous deeds.
- 7 By them he^b cured and took away his^c pain.
- 8 He who prepares unguents will make a compound with them, and his works will never be finished, and peace from him is upon the surface of the earth.
- 9 Child, in your illness do not look elsewhere, but pray to the Lord, and he will heal you.
- 10 Withdraw from error, and direct your hands, and from all sin cleanse your heart.
- 11 Give a sweet-smell and a memorial of fine flour, and enrich an offering ^d. . . ^d.
- 12 And give a physician a place, for indeed the Lord created him, and do not let him withdraw from you, for indeed there is need of him.
- 13 There is a time when success is in their hands as well.
- 14 For they will also petition the Lord, that he might grant them success with rest and healing for the maintenance of life.
- 15 He who sins before him who made him, may he fall into a physician's hands.
- 16 Child, let your tears fall over a corpse, and as one suffering terribly begin a lament, but in accordance with his decision lay out his body, and do not neglect his^e burial.
- 17 Make the weeping bitter and the beating fervent, and make mourning according to his dignity, for one day and two ^ffor the purpose of slander, and be comforted for the sake of grief.
- 18 For from grief issues death, and grief of the heart will cripple strength.
- 19 In misery^g grief too endures, and a poor person's life is a curse of the heart.
- 20 Do not give your heart over to grief; withdraw from it, when you remember the end.
- 21 Do not forget, for there is no return, and him you will not benefit, and yourself you will harm.
- 22 Remember his judgment, because so is yours also. For me yesterday; for you today!
- 23 In the resting of the corpse, put to rest his memorial, and be comforted by it in the departure of his spirit.
- 24 A scribe's wisdom is in the opportunity for leisure, and he who does less business, it is he who will become wise.
- 25 How shall he who takes hold of a plow and boasts in the shaft of a goad become wise, when he drives cattle and is engaged in their tasks and his talk is about the offspring of bulls?
- 26 He will give his heart to producing furrows, and his sleeplessness is regarding fodder for heifers.
- 27 So every artisan and master-artisan, who keeps going by night as by day, those who cut signets of seals, and his patience is to diversify ornamentation; he will give his heart to making a painting lifelike, and his sleeplessness is to complete the work.
- 28 So a smith sitting near an anvil and examining closely works of iron; the vapor of the fire will melt his flesh, and with the heat of a furnace he will struggle; a hammer's sound will renew^h his ear, and his eyes are againstⁱ the pattern of the object; he will give his heart to completing works, and his sleeplessness is to decorate upon completion.

^aPossibly its ^bI.e. the physician ^cI.e. the patient ^dGk uncertain ^eOr its ^fPossibly to prevent ^gI.e. Perhaps a process of reasoning ^hPerhaps hit again and again ⁱPerhaps right on

29 So a potter sitting at his work and turning a wheel with his feet, who always lies down in anxiety about his
work,
and every work of his is taken into account.

30 With his arm he will mold clay and in front of his feet he will ^abend its strength^a;
he will give over his heart to completing the glazing^b,
and his sleeplessness is about cleaning
the kiln.

31 All of these relied on their hands, and each is skilled in his work.

32 Without them a city will not be inhabited, and they will neither sojourn nor walk about,
but they will not be sought for a council of the people.

33 And they will not ^cleap up^c in the assembly.
On the judge's seat they will not sit,
and disposition of a legal decision they will not understand,
and they will never shed light on instruction and judgment,
and in illustrations^d they will not be
found,

34 but they will support the foundation of an age,
and their need is in the execution of a craft.

Save for him who devotes his soul and who thinks about the law of the Most High!

39 He will seek out the wisdom of all the ancients,
and he will be occupied with prophecies.

2 He will preserve the narrative of famous
men,
and he will penetrate into the twists of illustrations.

3 He will seek out the obscurities of proverbs, and he will be engaged with the riddles of illustrations.

4 He will serve among nobles,
and he will appear in front of rulers.
He will travel in the land of foreign nations,
for he has tested the good and bad things in people.

5 He will devote his heart to rise early towards the Lord who made him, and he will petition in front of the Most
High,
and he will open his mouth in prayer,
and concerning his sins he will petition.

6 If the great Lord wants,

he will be filled with a spirit of
understanding.
He will pour forth words of his wisdom,
and in prayer he will acknowledge the
Lord.

7 He will direct counsel and knowledge, and on his hidden things he will think.

8 He will illuminate the instruction of his teaching,
and in the law of the Lord's covenant he will boast.

9 Many will praise his understanding, and it will never be blotted out;
his memorial will not depart, and his name will live for generations of
generations.

10 Nations will narrate his wisdom,
and an assembly will proclaim his praise.

11 If he abides, he will leave behind a name greater than a thousand,
and if he rests, it will be favorable for him.

12 Yet being so disposed, I will tell in detail, and I was filled like the full moon.

13 Listen to me, O devout sons, and blossom like a rose growing by a watery stream.

14 Like incense send out a sweet fragrance, and send forth a blossom like a lily.
Spread abroad a voice, and praise together,
and bless the Lord for all his works.

15 Give majesty to his name, and acknowledge with praise of him,
with songs on the lips and with cinyrase, and in this manner you will speak with acknowledgement.

16 "All the works of the Lord, that they are very
good,
and every ordinance will occur in its
time.

17 It is not possible to say, 'What is this? To what end is this?'
For everything will be sought out in its
time.
By his word water stood as a heap,
and by an utterance of his mouth, reservoirs of water.

18 By his ordinance is all good pleasure, and there is no one who will diminish his salvation.

19 The works of all flesh are before him, and it is not possible to hide from his
eyes.

20 From age to age he watched,
and nothing is a wonder before him.

21 It is not possible to say, 'What is this? To what end is this?'
For all things have been created for their uses.

22 "His blessing has covered over like a river,
and like a flood it has drenched dry land.

^aPossibly make it pliable ^bOr color wash ^ci.e. gain prominence ^dPossibly legal precedents ^e = Heb kinnor = lyre

23 Thus his anger will inherit nations as when he changed waters into salt
water.

24 His ways are straight for the devout;
so for the lawless there are pitfalls.

25 Good things have been created from the beginning for the good;
so for sinners, evil things.

26 The beginning of every necessity for a human being's life
is water and fire and iron and salt and fine wheat flour and milk and honey, blood of a grape and oil and clothing.

27 All these things belong to the pious for
good;
so for sinners they will be turned into
evil.

28 "There exist winds^a that have been created for vengeance,
and in their wrath they made firm their scourges;
at a time of consummation they will pour out strength,
and the wrath of him who made them
they will abate.

29 Fire and hail and famine and death,
all these have been created for vengeance.

30 Teeth of wild beasts and scorpions and vipers
and a sword taking vengeance on impious people for destruction.

31 In his commandment they will be
gladdened,
and they will be prepared for service on
the earth,
and at their times they will not transgress
a word."

32 Therefore from the beginning I was determined,
and I thought, and I left it in writing.

33 The works of the Lord, all are good,
and every need he will supply in its hour.

34 And it is not possible to say, "This is worse than this,"
for all things will be highly esteemed at a right time.

35 And now with a whole heart and mouth sing hymns,
and bless the name of the Lord.

40 A great engagement was created for every
person,
and a heavy yoke is on Adam's sons from the day of their exit from their mother's womb
until the day of return to the mother of
all:
2 their considerations and fear of heart—thought of apprehension, day of death.
3 From the one sitting on a splendid throne,

4 even to one humbled in earth and ashes,
from one wearing blue and a garland, even to the one clothed in coarse linen—5 there are wrath and envy and confusion and unrest
and fear of death and fury and strife.
Even at the moment of rest upon a bed,
sleep at night confuses his knowledge.

6 There is as little as nothing in rest, and he grows weary of that in his sleep as he does in the day,
having been troubled by a vision of his
heart,
like one who has escaped from before
war.

7 At the moment of his need, he awoke, even marveling at fear for nothing.

8 With all flesh, from human to animal, and upon sinners seven times more than these

9 are death and blood and strife and sword, calamities, famine and ruin and scourge.

10 For the lawless all these things were created,
and because of them the flood occurred.

11 Everything that is of earth reverts to the
earth,
and everything^b of water returns to the sea.

12 Every gift and injustice will be blotted out, but good faith will stand forever.

13 The money of the unjust will dry up like a river,
and like loud thunder in a rain storm
they will crash.

14 When he opens his^b hands, he will be glad;
so those who transgress will fail at the end.

15 The offspring of impious persons will not multiply branches,
and they are foul roots upon a sheer rock.

16 A reed by any water and river bank will be plucked up before any grass.

17 Kindness is like an orchard with blessings, but an act of charity will endure forever.

18 The life of a self-reliant and a hard-working person will be sweet,
and above both is he who finds a treasure.

19 Children and the building of a city firmly fix a name,
and above both is a wife considered
blameless.

20 Wine and music gladden a heart,
and above both is love of wisdom.

21 Flute and harp make sweet melodies, and above both is a pleasant tongue.

22 Grace and beauty the eye will desire, and above both are the first shoots of seed.

23 Friend and companion meet at the right moment,

^aOr spirits ^bLacking in Gk

- and above both is a wife with a husband.
 24 Brothers and aid are for a time of distress, and more than both an act of charity will rescue.
 25 Gold and silver make a foot firm, and above both counsel is highly esteemed.
 26 Money and strength will lift up a heart,
 and above both is fear of the Lord;
 there is no want in the fear of the Lord,
 and with it there is no reason to seek aid.
 27 Fear of the Lord is like an orchard of
 blessing,
 and more than any glory it covers him.
 28 Child, a life of begging do not live;
 it is better to die than to beg.
 29 When a man looks to a table belonging to
 another,
 his manner of living is not ^aby reckoning
 a life^a;
 he will pollute his soul with food belonging
 to others,
 but a man who is intelligent and who has been instructed will be on guard.
 30 In the mouth of a shameless person begging will be sweet,
 and in his belly a fire will burn.
- 41 O death, how bitter is the remembrance of
 you
 to a person at peace with his possessions, to a man undistracted and prospering in everything
 and still having strength to welcome a luxury.
 2 O death, your judgment is good to a person who is needy and lacking
 strength,
 who is in extreme old age and is anxious about everything
 and who is disobedient and has lost
 hope.
 3 Do not be wary of death's judgment;
 remember those before you and the last
 ones.
 4 This is the judgment from the Lord for all flesh—
 and why should you reject the good pleasure of the Most High?
 Whether ten or a hundred or a thousand years,
 in Hades there is no reproving of life.
 5 Abominable children are children of
 sinners,
 and living together in the enclaves of impious persons.
 6 The inheritance of the children of sinners
 will perish,
 and disgrace will continually be with their seed.
- 7 Children will blame an impious father, because on his account they will be reproached.
 8 Woe to you, impious men, who have forsaken the law of the Most
 High.
 9 [For if you multiply, it is for destruction,] and if you are born, you will be born for a curse,
 and if you die, you will be apportioned a curse.
 10 Everything that is from the earth will go back into the earth;
 so impious persons are from a curse to
 destruction.
 11 The grief of human beings is in their bodies, but a no-good name of sinners will be
 blotted out.
 12 Have regard for a name, for it will endure
 for you
 rather than a thousand great treasures of
 gold.
 13 Of a good life there is a number of days,
 but a good name will endure forever.
 14 Maintain instruction in peace, children, but hidden wisdom and invisible treasure—
 what profit is in either?
 15 Better is a person who conceals his foolishness
 than a person who conceals his wisdom.
 16 Therefore show respect for my judgment, for it is not good to guard against every
 shame,
 and not everything will be approved by all with confidence.
 17 Be ashamed
 before father and mother, of sexual immorality,
 and before leader and dynast, of falsehood,
 18 before judge and magistrate, of error, and before a gathering and people, of
 lawlessness,
 19 before partner and friend, of injustice, and before a place where you sojourn, of theft,
 before divine truth and covenant
 and before planting an elbow for bread, before damning in receiving and giving and before people who greet, of silence, before a look at a female escort 20 and before turning away from the face of a relative,
 before taking away a portion and a gift
 and before ogling a married woman, 21 before meddling with his servant girl—and do not come upon her bed—before friends, of words of reproach—and after giving, do not reproach,

^ai.e. a good life

42 before repeating a word of hearsay and before disclosing secret words, and you will be truly modest and finding favor before every human.

Do not be ashamed of these things, and do not ^areceive a face^a in order to
sin:

2 of the law of the Most High and covenant and of judgment so as to justify the
impious,

3 of an account of a partner or travelers and of giving an inheritance of others,

4 of accuracy with scale and weights and of acquiring much or little,

5 of profit from business of merchants and of much discipline of children and to draw blood from the side of a wicked domestic.

6 In the case of a wicked wife, a seal is excellent,
and where there are many hands, lock up.

7 Whatever you hand over—by number and weight
and giving or receiving—put everything in writing.

8 ^bDo not be ashamed^b of discipline for the stupid and foolish
and for the aged guilty of sexual immorality,
and you will have truly been trained and will have been approved before every living person.

9 A daughter is a hidden sleeplessness to a
father,
and anxiety about her takes away sleep—
in her youth, lest she become past her prime,
and having married, lest she be hated,
in virginity, lest she be defiled and she become pregnant in her father's
house,
being with a man^c, lest she transgress,
and having married, lest she be barren.

11 Over a wanton daughter keep strict guard, lest she make you a laughingstock to
enemies,
common talk in the city and summoned by
the people,
and she shame you in a multitude of
many.

12 Do not look at any person in terms of beauty,
and in the midst of women do not
deliberate.

13 For from garments proceeds a moth,
and from a woman, woman's wickedness.

14 Better the wickedness of a man than a well-doing woman
and a woman bringing shame to the point of reproach.

15 I will indeed remember the works of the Lord, and what I have seen, I will narrate;
by the words of the Lord are his works, [and judgment happens by his good will.]

16 The shining sun looked down upon
everything,
and its work is full of the glory of the Lord.

17 He did not permit the holy ones of the Lord to recount all his wonders that the Lord the Almighty established so that the universe might stand firm in
his glory.

18 Abyss and heart he searched out, and he considered their wonderful feats;
for the Most High knew all knowledge,
and he saw into the sign of the age, relating the things that passed and the things that will be
and revealing tracks of hidden things.

20 No thought eluded him,
and not one word was hidden from him.

21 He set in order the splendors of his
wisdom;
since he is one before the age and forever,
he was neither added to nor diminished,
and he needed no one as a counselor.

22 How desirable are all his works, and they are like a spark to behold.

23 All these things live, and they remain forever,
in all functions, and all obey.

24 Everything is in pairs, one opposite one,
and he did not make anything deficient.

25 One firmed up the good things of the other—
and who will be filled when he sees his
glory?

43 Exultation of height, firmament of elegance,
the form of the sky in a vision of glory!

2 The sun in an appearance proclaiming in
going out,
a wondrous object, a work of the Most
High!

3 At its noontide, it parches land—and before its burning heat who will endure?

4 When one blows a furnace in works of burning heat,
threefold is the sun when it burns up
mountains.
When it breathes out fiery vapors and when it shines forth rays, it blinds
eyes.

5 Great is the Lord who made it, and at his words it hastened on its journey.

6 And the moon stands in its season, a proclamation of times and an everlasting sign.

^aI.e. show partiality ^bLacking in Gk ^cOr husband

7 From the moon is a sign for a feast, a luminary that wanes upon completion.

8 A month is according to its name, increasing marvelously in changing,
an object on high for armies, shining in the firmament of the sky.

9 The glory of the stars is the beauty of the sky,
an ornament giving light in the heights of
the Lord.

10 By words of the Holy One they will stand according to decree,
and they will never fail in their watches.

11 See the rainbow, and bless him who made it exceedingly beautiful in its brightness.

12 It ringed the sky in a circle of glory;
the hands of the Most High stretched it
out.

13 By his ordinance he urges on snow and speeds the lightnings of his judgment.

14 Therefore storehouses were opened,
and clouds flew out like birds.

15 In his majesty he made clouds strong,
and stones of hail were broken apart.

17a The voice of his thunder caused the earth to be in travail,

16 and at his appearance mountains will be shaken.

By his will the south wind will blow, also a storm from the north and a whirlwind.

17b Like birds flying down he sprinkles snow, and like a locust alighting is its descent.

18 An eye will marvel at the beauty of its whiteness,
and a heart will be amazed by its rain.

19 And frost, like salt, he pours upon the earth, and when it freezes, points of thorns occur.

20 A cold north wind will blow,
and ice will freeze on water;
upon every gathering of water it will settle,
and like a breastplate the water will put it
on.

21 He will consume mountains and will burn up wilderness,
and he will extinguish grass like fire.

22 A mist hastens healing for all things;
a dew that comes out will refresh from
the heat.

23 By his reasoning he abated the abyss,
and he planted islands in it.

24 Those who sail the sea describe its danger, and we marvel at the reports of our ears.

25 The incredible and amazing works are
there,
a variety of every living thing, a creation of sea monsters.

26 Because of him, his messenger succeeds, and by his word all things hold together.

27 Many things we might say, and we would never arrive,
and the consummation of words is "He is the all."

28 Where shall we find the strength to glorify?
For he is the great one, beyond all of his
works.

29 Awesome is the Lord and very great,
and marvelous is his dominance.

30 Glorify the Lord, and exalt him as much as you can, for he will surpass even still,
and exalt him, and increase in strength;
do not grow weary, for you will never arrive.

31 Who has seen him and will describe him?
And who will magnify him as he is?

32 Many things hidden are greater than these,
for few of his works we have seen.

33 For the Lord made all things,
and to the pious he gave wisdom.

A HYMN TO THE FATHERS

44 Let us now praise famous men and our fathers by descent.

2 The Lord created much glory,
his majesty from eternity.

3 When they ruled in their kingdoms, men also became noteworthy through
power;
when they counseled with their
intelligence,
when they announced through prophecies,

4 when they led people by deliberations and with understanding of a people's scribal art—
wise words there are in their
instruction—

5 when they searched out musical tunes and set out verses in writing—

6 rich men well endowed with strength, being at peace in their dwelling-places—

7 all of these were glorified in generations and in their days were a boast.

8 There were some of them who left behind a
name
so that their praises might be told in detail.

9 And of others there is no memorial, and they perished as though they had not existed,
and they became as those who had not been born,
and their children after them.

10 These, on the other hand, were men of compassion,
whose righteous deeds were not
forgotten.

11 With their seed it will remain;
a good inheritance is their offspring.

12 In the covenants their seed stood,
and their children for their sake.

13 Forever will their seed remain, and their glory will not be blotted out.

 14 Their bodies were buried in peace,
 and their name lives for generations.
 15 Peoples will recount their wisdom, and an assembly will proclaim their praise.
 16 Henoah pleased God, and he was changed,
 an example of repentance for generations.
 17 Noe was found perfect, righteous;
 in a time of anger he became an exchange;
 because of him, there was a remnant for the
 earth,
 when a flood occurred.
 18 Covenants of eternity were added to him lest all flesh be blotted out by a flood.
 19 Abraam was a great father of a multitude of
 nations,
 and no blemish was found on his glory, 20 who kept the law of the Most High,
 and he entered in a covenant with him;
 in his flesh he established a covenant,
 and in a trial he was found faithful.
 21 Therefore he^a established by means of an oath with him
 that nations would be blessed by his
 seed,
 that he would multiply him as the dust of
 the earth
 and like the stars to exalt his seed and to give them an inheritance from sea to
 sea
 and from the river to the end of the earth.
 22 And with Isaak he likewise established, on account of Abraam his father.
 A blessing for all humankind and a covenant
 23 he put down upon the head of Iakob;
 he acknowledged him with his blessings,
 and he gave to him by an inheritance,
 and he divided his portions,
 and he allotted among twelve tribes.
 And he brought out of him a man of mercy,
 who found favor in the eyes of all flesh, 45 who was loved by God and human beings, Moyses, whose memorial is accompanied by blessings.
 2 He made him equal to the glory of holy
 ones,
 and he made him great by terror for
 enemies.
 3 By his words he hastened signs;
 he^a glorified him in front of kings;
 he gave him commands for his people,
 and he showed him his glory.
 4 In faithfulness and meekness he consecrated
 him;
 he chose him out of all flesh.

5 He caused him to hear his voice, and he led him into the deep darkness, and he gave him commandments face-to-
 face,
 a law of life and knowledge, to teach Iakob a covenant
 and Israel his judgments.
 6 He exalted Aaron, a holy person like him^b,
 his brother from the tribe of Leui.
 7 He established him as an everlasting covenant^d
 and gave him a priesthood of the people;
 he pronounced him happy with decorum,
 and he girded him with a cloak of glory.
 8 He clothed him with perfection of boasting, and he crowned him with the implements of strength, breeches and a full-length robe and shoulder-strap.
 9 And he encircled him with pomegranates, with very many golden bells all around,
 to send forth a sound at his steps,
 to make an audible sound in the shrine
 for a memorial for the sons of his people, 10 with the sacred vestment, with gold and blue
 and purple, a work of an embroiderer, with the oracle of judgment, for manifestations of truth, 11 with twisted scarlet, a work of an artisan, with costly stones of an engraved seal
 in a setting of gold, a work of a jeweler, for a memorial in inscribed writing according to the number of the tribes of Israel,
 12 a crown of gold upon a turban,
 a carving of a seal of holiness,
 a boast of honor, a work of strength, objects of desire for the eyes, adorned.
 13 Before him such beautiful things did not exist.
 Until eternity, no alien put them on except his sons alone
 and his descendants in perpetuity.
 14 His sacrifices shall be wholly burned, twice each day continually.
 15 Moyses filled his hands and anointed him with holy oil;
 it became for him an everlasting covenant and in his seed for the days of the sky, to minister to him^a and at the same time to be a priest
 and to bless his people in the name.
 16 He chose him out of everyone alive to offer a fruit sacrifice to the Lord, incense and a pleasing odor for a memorial,
 to make atonement for the people.
 17 By his commandments he gave him authority in covenants of judgments, to teach Iakob the testimonies and with his law to enlighten Israel.

^aI.e. God ^bI.e. Moyses ^cPossibly established with him an everlasting covenant ^dGk is plural

- 18 Strangers conspired against him, and they envied him in the wilderness,
the men with Dathan and Abiron and the gathering of Kore in wrath and
anger.
- 19 The Lord saw and was not well pleased, and they were destroyed by wrath of
anger;
he performed wonders among them,
to consume them in the fire of his flame.
- 20 And he added glory to Aaron, and he gave him an inheritance;
the first fruits of first products he allotted to
him;
bread with the first things he prepared in
abundance.
- 21 For also they shall eat sacrifices of the Lord, which he gave both to him and to his
seed.
- 22 But in the land of the people he will have no inheritance,
and he has no portion for him among
the people,
for he^a is your portion and inheritance.
- 23 And Phinees son of Eleazar is third in
glory,
since he was zealous in the fear of the Lord
and since he stood firm in the turning of the
people,
in the goodness of the eagerness of his
soul;
he also made atonement for Israel.
- 24 Therefore there was established with him a covenant of peace
to be in charge of holy things and of his
people
so that he and his seed might have the magnificence of the priesthood
forever.
- 25 Also a covenant with Daud son of Iessai from the tribe of Iouda, an inheritance of the king for son from son only;
Aaron's inheritance is also for his seed.
- 26 May he^a grant to you^b wisdom in your
heart,
to judge his people in righteousness
so that their good things might not vanish and their glory be to their generations.
- 46 Mighty in war was Iesus son of Naue and a successor of Moyses in prophecies, who was, like his name,
great for the salvation of his^c elect, to take vengeance on enemies when stirred up,
so that he might give Israel an
inheritance.
- 2 How he was glorified when he lifted up his
hands
and when he extended a sword against cities!
- 3 Who before him stood so?
For it was he who led the wars of the Lord.
- 4 Was it not by his hand that the sun was shackled,
and one day became as two?
- 5 He called upon the Most High, mighty one, when enemies pressed him all around,
and the great Lord heard him with stones of hail of mighty power.
- 6 He rushed down upon a nation in battle, and on a slope he destroyed those who resisted
so that nations might know his armament, because their battle was against the Lord,
for indeed he followed after a mighty
one.
- 7 And in the days of Moyses he did mercy,
he and Chaleb son of Iephonne, to oppose an assembly,
to restrain people from sin
and to still grumbling of wickedness.
- 8 And these were the two that escaped out of the six hundred thousand infantry to lead them^d into an inheritance, into a land flowing with milk and honey.
- 9 And the Lord gave Chaleb strength, and until old age it remained with him so that he went up to the height of the land and his seed obtained an inheritance in order that all the sons of Israel might see that it is good to walk behind the Lord.
- 11 And the judges, each with his own name, whose heart did not commit fornication and who did not turn away from the Lord, may their memorial be for blessings.
- 12 May their bones sprout anew out of their plot
and their name be traded;
may it^e be renowned ^famong the sons of humankind.
- 13 Having received glory of human beings, beloved by his Lord was Samouel^f;
a prophet of the Lord, he established a kingdom
and anointed rulers over his people.
- 14 By the law of the Lord he judged a gathering,
and the Lord watched over Iakob.
- 15 By his faithfulness he was made accurate as a prophet,
and the trustworthiness of his vision was known in his words.
- 16 And he called upon the Lord, a mighty one,
when his enemies pressed all around,

^aI.e. God ^bGk is plural ^cI.e. God's ^dI.e. the Israelites ^eI.e. their plot ^fPerhaps among the sons of humankind, having received glory of human beings. Beloved by his Lord was Samouel with an offering of a suckling lamb.

 17 And the Lord thundered from the sky, and with a great sound he made his voice
 heard.
 18 And he wiped out leaders of the Tyrians and all rulers of the Phylistiim.
 19 And before the time of eternal sleep he bore witness
 before the Lord and his anointed one,
 "No property, not even a pair shoes, have I taken from any flesh."
 And no person accused him.
 20 And after he fell asleep, he prophesied, and he showed the king his end,
 and he raised up his voice out of the
 ground
 in prophecy to blot out the lawlessness of
 the people.

47 And after this one Nathan rose up to prophecy in the days of Daudid.
 2 Just as fat set apart from deliverance^a,
 so was Daudid from Israel's sons.
 3 He played with lions as with young goats and with bears as with lambs of the flocks.
 4 In his youth, did he not kill a giant and take away reproach from the people by raising his hand with a sling's stone and by striking down the arrogance of Goliath?
 5 For he called upon the Lord, the Most
 High,
 and he gave strength by his right arm,
 to remove a person able in war,
 to exalt his people's horn.
 6 So among the tens of thousands they glorified him,
 and they praised him with blessings of
 the Lord
 by bringing to him a diadem of glory.
 7 For he wiped out enemies all around,
 and he treated with contempt the Phylistiim, his adversaries, and he broke their horn until this day.
 8 In every deed of his he gave acknowledgement
 to the Holy One, the Most High, with a word of glory;
 with his whole heart he sang hymns,
 and he loved him who made him.
 9 He established harp-singers before the altar also to make sweet melodies with their ringing sounds,
 [and every day they will praise with their songs.]
 10 He gave dignity at the feasts, and he arranged seasons until completion,
 when they were praising his holy name,
 and from early morning the holy precinct was resounding.

11 The Lord took away his sins, and he exalted his horn forever,
 and he gave him a covenant of kings and a throne of glory in Israel.
 12 After this one arose a knowledgeable son, and because of him^b, he lodged in spaciousness.
 13 Salomon reigned in days of peace, to whom God gave rest all around so that he might establish a house to his^c
 name
 and prepare a holy precinct forever.
 14 How wise were you in your youth, and you were filled like a river with
 understanding.
 15 Your soul covered the earth, and you were full with illustrations of riddles.
 16 To far-off islands did your name reach,
 and you were beloved in your peace.
 17 For songs and proverbs and illustrations and for explanations countries marveled at
 you.
 18 In the name of the Lord God, who is called God of Israel,
 you gathered gold like tin and amassed silver like lead.
 19 You bent your flanks for women, and you were brought into subjection by
 your body.
 20 You gave disgrace on your glory,
 and you defiled your seed,
 to bring wrath upon your children and to cause bewilderment by your folly so that sovereignty became divided, and a disobedient kingdom originates from Ephraim.
 22 But the Lord will never abandon his mercy and never caused any of his words to
 perish,
 and he will never blot out the descendants of his chosen one,
 and he will never take away the seed of the one who loved him,
 and he gave a remnant to Iakob,
 and to Daudid a root out of him.
 23 And Salomon rested with his fathers, and he left behind himself some of his
 seed,
 folly of the people and one lacking
 understanding,
 Roboam, who caused the people to revolt
 because of his plan,
 and Ieroboam son of Nabat, who made Israel sin,
 also gave Ephraim a path of sin.
 24 And their sins multiplied greatly to remove them from their land.
 25 And they sought out every wickedness until vengeance came upon them.

^aI.e. an offering of deliverance ^bI.e. Daudid ^cI.e. God's

48 And Elias rose up, a prophet like fire, and his word was burning like a torch, 2 who brought a famine upon them and by his zeal made them few.
 3 By a word of the Lord he shut up the sky;
 he thus brought down fire three times.
 4 How you were glorified, Elias, in your wondrous deeds!
 And who will boast as you can?
 5 He who raised a corpse from death and out of Hades by a word of the Most High.
 6 He who brought down kings to destruction and those who had been glorified from their bed.
 7 He who heard a rebuke at Sina and at Choreb judgments of vengeance.
 8 He who anointed kings for the purpose of retribution
 and prophets as successors after him.
 9 He who was taken up in a whirlwind of fire
 and in a chariot of fiery horses.
 10 He who was recorded ready for the times,
 to calm anger before wrath,
 to turn the heart of a father to a son and to restore the tribes of Iakob.
 11 Happy are those who saw you and those fallen asleep in loving^a,
 for we too shall live by life.
 12 It was Elias who was enveloped in a whirlwind,
 and Elisaie was filled with his spirit,
 and in his days he did not tremble before any ruler,
 and no one oppressed him.
 13 No word surpassed him,
 and in sleep^b his body prophesied.
 14 In his life he performed wonders, and in death his deeds were marvelous.
 15 In all these things, the people did not repent,
 and they did not withdraw from their
 sins
 until they were carried off from their land and they were scattered in all the earth.
 And the people were left few in number,
 and a ruler in the house of Daudid.
 16 Some of them did what was pleasing,
 but others multiplied sins.
 17 Hezekias fortified his city, and he brought water into its midst;
 he tunneled a rock with iron,
 and he built wells for water.
 18 In his days Sennacherim came up, and he sent Rapsakes and departed, and he raised up his hand against Sion and made great boasts in his arrogance.
 19 Then their hearts and hands were shaken, and they were in travail like women in labor.

 20 And they called upon the Lord who is merciful,
 spreading out their hands to him.
 And the Holy One quickly heard them from
 the sky,
 and he redeemed them by the hand of Esaias.
 21 He struck down the camp of the Assyrians, and his holy angel wiped them out.
 22 For Hezekias did what was pleasing to the Lord,
 and he prevailed in the ways of Daudid,
 his father,
 which Esaias the prophet commanded;
 he was great and reliable in his vision.
 23 In his days the sun stepped back,
 and he added to life for the king.
 24 By his great spirit he showed what would be,
 forever,
 and he comforted those who mourned in Sion.
 25 And to eternity he showed the things that will be
 and the hidden things before they even
 happened.

49 Iosias's memorial becomes a compounding of incense, prepared^c by the work of a perfumer;
 like honey in every mouth it will be sweet,
 and like music at a banquet of wine.
 2 He prospered in turning around the
 people,
 and he removed abominations of
 lawlessness.
 3 He directed his heart toward the Lord;
 in days of lawless people he strengthened piety.
 4 Except for Daudid and Hezekias and Iosias, all committed error,
 for they abandoned the law of the Most High;
 the kings of Iouda failed, 5 for they gave their horn^d to others and their glory to a foreign nation.
 6 They set fire to the chosen city of the holy sanctuary
 and made desolate its streets ^eby the hand^e of Ieremias.
 7 For they mistreated him, and he was hallowed a prophet in the
 womb,
 to uproot and to ruin and to destroy,
 likewise to build and to plant.
 8 There was Iezekiel who saw a vision of
 glory
 that he^f showed to him upon the chariot of Cheroubin.

^aPossibly + you ^bI.e. death ^cI.e. memorial ^dI.e. power ^ePerhaps because ^fI.e. God

9 Indeed he^a remembered his enemies in a thunderstorm,
and to do good to those who make straight their ways.

10 And may the bones of the twelve prophets sprout anew out of their place, for they comforted Iakob and they redeemed them in confidence of hope.

11 How are we to magnify Zorobabel?
He too was like a signet on the right
hand,
12 so Iesous son of Iosedek, who, in their days, built a house and raised a holy shrine to the Lord, prepared for everlasting glory.

13 And the memorial of Neemias is lasting, he who raised our walls, which had
fallen,
and set up gates and bars
and raised up our buildings.

14 No one was created on the earth such as Henoch,
for he too was taken up from the earth.

15 Nor has there been born a man like Ioseph, a leader of brothers, a support of the
people,
and they watched over his bones.

16 Sem and Seth were glorified among human
beings,
and above every living thing in creation was Adam.

50 Simon son of Onias was the great priest, he who in his life repaired a house and in his days fortified a shrine.

2 And by him the height of the courtyard was founded,
a high retaining structure of the temple enclosure.

3 In his days a cistern for water was quarried,
a reservoir like the circumference of a sea.

4 He who gave heed to his people out of calamity
and strengthened the city in a siege, 5 how he was glorified as he spun around the shrine,
as he exited from the house of the veil.

6 Like a morning star in the midst of a
cloud,
like the full moon in the days of a feast, 7 like the sun shining on the shrine of the Most High,
like the rainbow gleaming in clouds of
glory,
8 like a blossom of roses in days of ^bnew things^b,
like lilies at exits of water,

like a new shoot of Lebanon in days of summer,

9 like fire and incense in a fire-pan,
like a gold vessel of beaten metal,
adorned with every precious stone, 10 like an olive tree sprouting forth fruit and like a cypress towering in the clouds.

11 When he put on a robe of glory and when he put on himself with the perfection of a boast,
in ascending the holy altar, he glorified the enclosure of the holy precinct.

12 But as he received portions from priests'
hands
and when he stood by the altar's^c hearth, all around him was a garland of brothers
like a growth of cedars on Lebanon, and they surrounded him like trunks of palm trees.

13 And all Aaron's sons were in their glory, and the Lord's offering was in their hands
before the entire assembly of Israel, 14 and as he was ministering a conclusion upon the altars^c,
to arrange an offering for the Most High,
the Almighty,

15 he stretched out his hand to a libation bowl and made a libation of grape blood;
he poured at the foundations of the altar
an odor of fragrance to the Most High, the King of All.

16 Then the sons of Aaron cheered; they sounded on trumpets of beaten metal;
they made heard a great sound
as a memorial before the Most High.

17 Then all the people hurried with one accord,
and they fell face down on the ground,
to do obeisance to their Lord,
the Almighty, God Most High.

18 And the harp-singers sang praises with their voices;
a melody was made sweet with a full tone.

19 And the people ^dpetitioned the Lord Most High^d
with prayer before the Merciful One until the Lord's arrangement was completed
and they finished his ministrations.

20 Then as he descended, he raised up his
hands
over the entire assembly of Israel's sons, to give a blessing of the Lord from his lips
and to boast in his name.

21 And they repeated an act of obeisance, to receive the blessing from the Most
High.

^aI.e. God ^bI.e. spring ^cGk = bōmos ^dPossibly of the Lord Most High petitioned

22 And now bless the God of all things, him who does great things everywhere,
 him who exalts our days from the womb
 and does with us according to his mercy.
 23 May he give us gladness of heart, that there also be peace in our days
 in Israel according to the days of the age.
 24 May he entrust with us his mercy,
 and in our days let him redeem us.
 25 My soul was offended at two nations,
 and the third is not a nation:
 26 those who settled on Mount Samaria and Phylistim
 and the foolish people who live in Sikima.

27 Instruction of understanding and knowledge
 I have inscribed in this book, Iesous son of Sirach, Eleazar the Hierosolymite,
 who poured forth wisdom from his heart.
 28 Happy is he who is engaged in these things, and when he has placed them on his heart, he will be wise.
 29 For if he does them, he will have strength for anything,
 because his route is the fear of the Lord,
 [and to the pious he gave wisdom.]

[Blessed be the Lord forever. May it be; may it be.]

A PRAYER OF IESOUS SON OF SIRACH

51 I will acknowledge you, O Lord and King, and I will praise you as God my Savior.

I acknowledge your name,
 2 because you have been my protector and
 helper,
 and you have redeemed my body from
 destruction
 and from a trap of a slanderous tongue, from lips that fabricate a lie, and against those who stand by you have been a help, and you have 3 redeemed me,
 according to an abundance of mercy and
 your name,
 from nooses prepared for food,
 from the hand of persons seeking my
 soul,
 from rather many troubles, which I had,
 4 from a choking of a pyre all around and from the midst of fire, which I did not kindle,
 5 from the deep of Hades' belly and from an unclean tongue and a lying
 word
 6 and a missile of a tongue of an unrighteous
 person.
 My soul drew near to death,
 and my life was on the brink of Hades below.
 7 They surrounded me on every side,

and there was no one who helped;
 I looked for assistance from human beings,
 and there was none.
 8 And I remembered your mercy, O Lord, and your beneficence from of old,
 because you raise up those who wait for you and you save them from the hand of wicked persons.
 9 And I raised up my supplication from the
 earth,
 and I begged for deliverance from
 death.
 10 I called upon the Lord, Father of my lord,
 not to forsake me in days of affliction, in a time of helplessness from acts of arrogance.
 11 "I will praise your name continually, and I will sing hymns with acknowledgement."
 And my petition was heard, 12 for you saved me from destruction and delivered me from an evil time.
 For this reason I will acknowledge and
 praise you,
 and I will bless the name of the Lord.
 13 When I was still young, before I wandered,
 I sought wisdom plainly in my prayer.
 14 Before the shrine I asked for her,
 and until the final things I will seek her.
 15 When the grape was putting out flowers to the point of ripening,
 my heart was glad in her;
 my foot stepped in rectitude;
 from my youth I would track her.
 16 I inclined my ear a little, and I received, and I found for myself much instruction.
 17 I made progress in her;
 to him who gives me wisdom I will give
 glory.
 18 For I intended to practice her,
 and I sought the good, and I will never
 be ashamed.
 19 My soul has grappled with her,
 and in the performance of the law I was exacting.
 I spread out my hands on high,
 and I thought about ignorance of her.
 20 I directed my soul to her,
 and in purification I found her.
 I acquired a heart with her from the beginning.
 For this reason I will never be forsaken, 21 and my belly was stirred to seek her out;
 for this reason I gained a good possession.
 22 The Lord gave a tongue to me as my wage,
 and with it I will praise him.

- 23 Draw near to me, you who are
uneducated,
and lodge in a house of instruction.
- 24 Why are you still lacking in these things, and your souls thirst greatly?
- 25 I opened my mouth, and I said,
"Acquire for yourselves without money.
- 26 Place your neck under a yoke,
and let your soul receive instruction.
It is near to find it."
- 27 See with your eyes that I labored little,
and I found for myself much rest.
- 28 Partake of instruction with a great sum of
silver,
and you will acquire much gold by it.
- 29 May your soul be glad in his mercy, and may you never be ashamed in his praise.
- 30 Accomplish your work in good time,
and he will give your wage in his time.

PSALMS OF SALOMON

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

Since no critical edition of the Psalms of Solomon's (PsSal) Greek text is available at the present time, the NETS translation is based on the edition of Alfred Rahlfs (Septuaginta. Id est Vetus Testamentum graece iuxta LXX interpretes, 2 vols. [Stuttgart: Württembergische Bibelanstalt, 1935]). Rahlfs's text is, for the most part, a reprint of the edition of Oscar von Gebhardt (Die Psalmen Salomo's zum ersten Male mit Benutzung der Athoshandschriften und des Codex Casanatensis [Leipzig: J. C. Hinrichs, 1895]). Rahlfs frequently incorporated many of von Gebhardt's conjectural emendations, which are referred to in Rahlfs' text by the siglum "Gebh." The remaining conjectural emendations included in Rahlfs' Greek text are largely derived from the edition of Henry B. Swete (The Psalms of Solomon with the Greek Fragments of the Book of Enoch [Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1899]) and are indicated in Rahlfs' notes by the siglum "Sw." This book is basically a reprint of Swete's earlier edition of the Greek text of PsSal (The Old Testament in Greek According to the Septuagint [vol. 3; Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1894] 765–787), but it incorporates readings from three new manuscripts that were included in von Gebhardt's text. In one instance (17.32), Rahlfs adopted the suggestion first proposed in 1870 by A. Carrière (De Psalterio Salomonis disquisitionem historico-criticam scripsit [Strasbourg]) that $\chi\rho\iota\sigma\tau\acute{o}\varsigma$ $\kappa\upsilon\rho\iota\omicron\varsigma$, which is preserved in all of PsSal's manuscripts, should be emended to $\chi\rho\iota\sigma\tau\acute{o}\varsigma$ $\kappa\upsilon\rho\iota\omicron\upsilon$. All departures from Rahlfs' text are indicated in the notes to the present translation.

Since the publication of Rahlfs' edition of the LXX, three new Greek manuscripts of PsSal have been discovered (MSS 655, 659, and 3004). These manuscripts contain no major textual variants. Robert Hann has prepared a full listing of all readings from PsSal's eleven Greek manuscripts (The Manuscript History of the Psalms of Solomon [SBLSCS 13; Chico: Scholars Press, 1982]). Robert Wright has recently completed the first critical edition of PsSal that includes these newly discovered manuscripts along with all the Syriac witnesses (The Psalms of Solomon: A Critical Edition of the Greek Text [New York: T & T Clark/Continuum, forthcoming]). Wright's eclectic text, despite his incorporation of readings from all eleven Greek manuscripts, is for the most part similar to Rahlfs' text. Rahlfs' edition, despite the discovery of additional manuscripts, is still the best edition of the Greek text currently available to use as the basis for the NETS of PsSal.

Unfortunately, PsSal lacks a Hebrew text. This makes it difficult to determine precisely how the translator adhered to the Hebrew Vorlage. PsSal is also extant in five Syriac manuscripts, none of which preserves the entire composition. The Syriac version contains several Greek loanwords and differs from the Greek in only sixty-two, approximately 10%, of PsSal's verses. Because it is largely a literal reproduction of the Greek, most scholars believe that the Syriac version was made from the Greek translation and not from the Hebrew Vorlage. The Syriac is, therefore, of minimal value for understanding the relationship between the Greek and PsSal's lost Hebrew Vorlage. In several places where the Greek text is difficult to understand, the Syriac translation gravitates toward Greek MS 253, which preserves the earliest form of PsSal's Greek text. The Syriac version and this particular Greek manuscript appear to stem from a common textual ancestor. In passages where the Greek is difficult, however, the Syriac translator frequently sought to smooth them. While it may contain some passages that likely reflect the Old Greek more accurately than our surviving Greek textual witnesses, the Syriac is nevertheless problematic for understanding the Greek text, since it frequently represents what its translator thought the Greek text meant. W. Baars ("Psalms of Solomon," in The Old Testament in Syriac According to the Peshitta Version [Part 4, Fascicle 6; Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1972] 1–27) has prepared a critical edition of the Syriac translation. Because the Syriac version essentially supports Rahlfs' Greek text, no readings from the Syriac have been included in the present translation.

TITLE OF THE BOOK

The title ascribes the collection to King Salomon, who was famous as a writer of poems and proverbs (3 Rgns 5.12 [MT 5.12; NRSV 4.32]). The attribution likely derives from the phrase "son of David" in 17.21, apparently thought by some scribe to mean Salomon. Superscripts of individual psalms too are generally thought to be secondary. Whether they were already in the translator's Hebrew source text is not at all clear.

Some manuscripts title the collection "Psalms of Salomon," whereas others give the name as "Solomon." In manuscript 253 (XI/XII CE), which contains the best and earliest text, has "Solomon" in the title, but "Salomon" in all but three of the superscripts. Other Greek manuscripts vary widely. The earliest attestation to a title is in Codex Alexandrinus (V CE), which reads (ΨΑΛΜΟΙ ΣΟΛΟΜΩΝΤΟΣ). Since this listing is nearly five centuries later than PsSal's presumed first century BCE date of composition, it does not resolve the debate over the correct spelling of the name. The spelling of Codex Alexandrinus appears in many later Christian canon lists, such as those of Pseudo-Athanasius (early VI CE) and Nicephorus (IX CE), suggesting that "Solomon" was the preferred spelling during the Christian period. Although Rahlfs' text consistently uses the spelling "Salomon" for the superscripts, he titled the collection "Psalms of Solomon." Because the LXX of Reigns uses the spelling "Salomon," this was likely the spelling used in the Old Greek—if indeed it had any title at all—and is used throughout NETS of PsSal.

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

Because we do not possess PsSal's Hebrew Vorlage, it is difficult to attempt to reconstruct its original text. It is, moreover, impossible to determine with any certainty whether the Greek translator remained faithful to the original text or sometimes expanded or paraphrased the Hebrew. In some instances the Greek translator may have improperly vocalized his Hebrew text or closely adhered to Hebrew syntax, which sometimes resulted in an awkward style.

In keeping with the philosophy of NETS, the present English translation of PsSal has attempted to focus on the Greek translator's intent rather than on the perception of the original audience. In other words, the English has tried to adhere to the NRSV's maxim to be "as literal as possible, as free as necessary." Where the Greek translator likely did not understand the original Hebrew, or possibly mistranslated what was likely the Vorlage, the English translation seeks to convey the ambiguity of the Greek.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF THE PSALMS OF SALOMON

Because there is no Hebrew text of PsSal to compare with the Greek, it is difficult to comment in detail on the Greek translator's methods. PsSal's relatively limited Greek vocabulary suggests that the translator rarely departed from a fixed list of Hebrew-Greek equivalents. It appears that the translator frequently used the same word, such as ὁσίος and ἔλεος, to represent a given Hebrew word even in instances when another Greek word would have been more appropriate. This lexical stereotyping often resulted in a rather stilted translation, which in many cases likely reflects the appearance of the Hebrew Vorlage. PsSal's Greek text also contains renderings in which the translator apparently attempted to express the meaning of the Hebrew at the expense of achieving a clear Greek reading. In some instances, such as ἀνάξις (18.5) and ἀνάληψις (4.18), the exact Hebrew to Greek equivalent is uncertain. There is some evidence that later Christian scribes introduced errors into the text. In 17.32, for example, the original genitive κυρίου was likely erroneously rendered as a nominative by a later Christian scribe resulting in two anarthrous nominatives (χριστὸς κύριος). This same reading is also found in the LXX of Lam 4.20. These examples likely reflect messianizing changes that were later made to the LXX in the Christian era. In the absence of PsSal's Hebrew Vorlage, it is impossible to know for certain how extensively later scribes altered its original text.

In several places it appears that PsSal's translator has either confused the Hebrew consonants or misunderstood Hebrew grammar. In 2.25, for example, the translator apparently misread an original לְהַמְרִיךְ ("to change, turn") as לְאָמַר ("to say"). Likewise, in 2.26 the text reads τὴν ὑβρίον αὐτοῦ ("his insolence"). The Greek translator may have misread "his body," גִּוְהוֹ (possibly written גִּוְהוֹ), as גִּוְהוֹ. In other instances, the text apparently reflects the translator's mistaken understanding of the Hebrew syntax. In 4.12, for example, the Greek ἐν ταύτῃ is feminine and likely presupposes a specific antecedent. The Hebrew Vorlage was likely הַכֵּן, which was intended as a marker of general reference and meant "in this manner." The translator, however, did not render this by a corresponding Greek neuter pronoun but slavishly rendered it as a feminine, thereby creating a problematic Greek text with no clear antecedent, although it perhaps refers to ἐπιθυμία. The Greek text of PsSal frequently changes tenses without any clear change implied in the action of the verbs (3.7–8a; 17.6b–9). These examples suggest that the translator did not fully understand the Hebrew Vorlage. In such cases where the translator likely misunderstood the Hebrew, the present translation seeks to reproduce the ambiguity of the Greek text.

The superscripts in PsSal are of unknown date and provenance. They are frequently difficult to translate because their words and expressions are often used without any context and frequently do not relate to the accompanying text. The punctuation, content, and orthography of these titles vary in the manuscript tradition. I have simply followed Rahlfs' text, but have at times deviated from his punctuation.

The present translation has attempted to follow the gender-inclusive language of the NRSV. Inclusive third-person plurals have been introduced only when allowed by the Greek. In some passages gender specific language has been introduced when it is clear that the Greek translator understood the Hebrew to be gender specific. When, for example, the Greek word ἀνὴρ appears to be gender specific, it is so translated. If the translator's pronouns seem to refer to a specific man (4.1–5, 13.5), the English is also rendered in gender specific language.

EDITORIAL POLICY

There is no standard versification of the Psalms of Solomon. The present translation follows Rahlfs' numbering. Because Rahlfs' punctuation reflects his personal decision, I have on occasion departed from it. I have consulted photographs of all eleven of PsSal's surviving Greek manuscripts in preparing the NETS translation. These have at times assisted in determining the punctuation of the text.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

In translating PsSal for NETS, I have benefited from other English translations, especially those of H. E. Ryle and M. R. James (The Psalms of the Pharisees, Commonly Called the Psalms of Solomon [Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1891]), G. B. Gray ("The Psalms of Solomon," in Charles 2, 625–52), R. B. Wright, ("The Psalms of Solomon," in The Old Testament Pseudepigrapha [ed. J. H. Charlesworth; vol. 2; Garden City: Doubleday, 1985] 639–670), and S. P. Brock ("The Psalms of Solomon," in The Apocryphal Old Testament [ed. H. F. D. Sparks; Oxford: Clarendon, 1984]) 649–682). Apart from the standard Greek grammars and lexica, the notes to Gebhardt's Greek text, as well as the linguistic comments of M. Delcours ("Psaumes de Salomon," in Dictionnaire de la Bible: Supplément [ed. L. Pirot and A. Robert; Paris: Letouzey & Ané, 1979] 214–245) and J. Viteau (Les Psaumes de Salomon: Introduction, texte grec et traduction, avec les principales variantes de la version syriaque par François Martin [Paris: Letouzey et Ané, 1911] were particularly helpful in preparing the NETS translation. The exegetical article of J. Begrich ("Der Text der Psalmen Salomos," ZNW 38 [1939] 131–162) was especially helpful in understanding the complex relationship between PsSal's Syriac and Greek texts and offered some valuable insights into the meaning of several difficult Greek passages.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Albert Pietersma generously devoted much time to reviewing earlier drafts of this translation. His probing questions and suggestions greatly improved my work. Any errors in this translation are entirely my own. I am also thankful to Robert B. Wright, who kindly provided me with an advance copy of his forthcoming critical Greek text and color photographs of all the Psalms of Solomon's Greek and Syriac manuscripts.

KENNETH ATKINSON

Psalm 1

1 I cried to the Lord when I was completely distressed,
to God when sinners attacked.
2 Suddenly the cry of war was heard before
me:
he^a will listen to me, for I was full of
righteousness.
3 I thought in my heart that I was full of
righteousness,
when I prospered and had become rich
in children.
4 Their wealth was spread over the whole
earth,
and their glory to the end of the earth.
5 They were exalted to the stars;
they said they would not fall.
6 But they became insolent in their prosperity,
and they did not bring.
7 Their sins were in secret,
and I had no knowledge of them.
8 Their acts lawlessness surpassed those of the nations before them;
they profaned with profanity the sanctuary of the Lord.

Psalm 2

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon. Concerning Ierousalem.

1 When the sinner became proud, he struck down fortified walls
with a battering-ram,
and you did not prevent him.
2 Foreign nations went up to your altar;
in pride they trampled it with their sandals,
3 because the sons of Ierousalem had defiled
the sanctuary of the Lord, had profaned the gifts of God with acts of
lawlessness.
4 Because of these things he said, "Cast them^b far from me;
I take no pleasure in them."
5 The beauty of her glory was despised before
God;
it was completely dishonored.
6 The sons and daughters were in harsh
captivity,
their neck in a seal, with a mark among
the nations.
7 According to their sins he dealt with them, for he abandoned them into the hands of those who prevail.
8 He^c turned away his face from pitying them, young and old and their children once
again,

for they did evil once again in not listening.
9 And heaven was weighed down, and the earth detested them, because no person upon it had done
what they did.
10 And the earth shall know all your righteous judgments, O God.
11 They set the sons of Ierousalem to be mocked because of the prostitutes in her;
everyone passing by would enter before
the sun.
12 They used to mock with their acts of lawlessness, as they themselves used to do;
before the sun they paraded their injustices.
13 And the daughters of Ierousalem were profane according to your judgment, because they had defiled themselves with a confusion of mingling^d.
14 I am troubled in my entrails and my inward parts over these things.
15 I will justify you, O God, in uprightness of
heart,
for in your judgments is your righteousness, O God.
16 For you have repaid the sinners according to their works,
and according to their sins, which were very wicked.
17 You have exposed their sins, that your judgment might be evident;
you have wiped out their memorial from
the earth.
18 God is a righteous judge, and he will not marvel at a person.
19 For the nations reviled Ierousalem, trampling her down;
he dragged down her beauty from the throne of glory.
20 She put on sackcloth instead of beautiful
clothing,
a rope around her head instead of a crown.
21 She removed the headdress of glory, which God had set upon her;
in dishonor her beauty was cast upon the
ground.
22 And I saw and entreated the face of the Lord and said:
Long enough, Lord, has your hand been heavy on Ierousalem
in bringing the nations upon her.
23 For they mocked and spared not, in wrath and fierce anger,
and they will be brought to an end,
unless you, Lord,

^aPr I said = Ra ^bI.e. gifts ^cPr for = Ra ^dPossibly unnatural intercourse rebuke them in your wrath.

 24 For it was not out of zeal that they acted,
 but out of the desire of the soul, so as to pour out their wrath upon us in plunder.
 25 Do not delay, O God, to repay them on their heads,
 to declare^a in dishonor the arrogance of the dragon.
 26 And I did not wait long until God showed me his insolence,
 pierced, on the mountains of Egypt, more than the least despised on land and
 sea.
 27 His body, carried about on the waves in great insolence,
 and there was no one to bury,
 for he had rejected him in dishonor.
 28 He did not consider that he was a human,
 nor did he consider the hereafter.
 29 He said, "I will be lord of earth and sea," and he did not recognize that God is great,
 mighty in his great strength.
 30 He is king over the heavens,
 also judging kings and authorities.
 31 It is he who raises me up to glory and puts the arrogant to sleep for everlasting destruction in dishonor, because they did not know him.
 32 And now see, the nobles of the earth, the judgment of the Lord;
 for he is a great and righteous king;
 judging what is under heaven.
 33 Bless God, you who fear the Lord with
 understanding,
 for the pity of the Lord is upon those who fear him with judgment, 34 to separate between righteous and sinner, to repay the sinners forever according to their works
 35 and to have pity on the righteous, ^bfrom the humiliation of the sinner^b, and to repay the sinner for what he has done to the righteous.
 36 For the Lord is kind to those who call on him with endurance,
 treating his devout according to his pity, setting them continuously before him in
 strength.
 37 Blessed is the Lord forever before his slaves.

Psalm 3

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon. Concerning the righteous.

1 Why do you sleep, soul, and do not bless
 the Lord?
 Play a new hymn to God, who is worthy to be praised.

^aOr to say ^bOr delivering him from the humiliation of the sinner

2 Play, and be fully awake in wakefulness^c for
 him,
 for a good melody to God is from a good
 heart.
 3 The righteous remember the Lord at all times,
 with confession and justification, the Lord's judgments.
 4 The righteous does not despise being disciplined by the Lord;
 his good will is always before the Lord.
 5 The righteous stumbled and justified the Lord;
 he fell and watches what God will do for
 him;
 he eagerly watches whence his salvation will come.
 6 The truth of the righteous is from their divine savior;
 in the house of the righteous sin upon sin does not lodge^d.
 7 The righteous always searches his house, to remove his injustice in transgression.
 8 He made atonement for sins of ignorance by fasting and humiliation of his
 soul,
 and the Lord cleanses every devout man and his house.
 9 The sinner stumbled, and he curses his life, the day of his birth and his mother's birth pangs.
 10 He has added sin upon sin in his lifetime;
 he fell, because his fall is evil, and he shall not rise up.
 11 The destruction of the sinner is forever, and he will not be remembered, when he visits the righteous.
 12 This is the portion of sinners forever, but those who fear the Lord shall rise to everlasting life,
 and their life is in the light of the Lord and shall never end.

Psalm 4

Discourse of Salomon. Pertaining to the men-pleasers.

1 Why do you sit, profaner, in the council of the devout,
 and your heart is far removed from the Lord,
 provoking with transgressions of the law
 the God of Israel?
 2 Extravagant in speech, extravagant in appearance above everyone, the person harsh in speech in condemning sinners in judgment.

^cOr vigilance ^dPossibly find a home

- 3 And his hand is the first upon him as if in zeal, and he himself is guilty of various sins and self-indulgence.
- 4 His eyes are upon every woman without distinction;
his tongue is false when he makes a contract with an oath.
- 5 At night and in secret he sins as though unseen;
with his eyes he speaks to every woman^a in evil assignation^a;
he is quick to enter every house cheerfully as though innocent.
- 6 May God remove those who live in hypocrisy with the devout, with corruption of his flesh and his life with poverty.
- 7 May God reveal the works of men, of men-pleasers, his works with derision and contempt.
- 8 And may the devout justify the judgment of their God, when sinners are removed from the presence of the righteous,
the man-pleaser who speaks the law with deceit.
- 9 And their eyes are upon a^b stable house of a man^b, as a serpent to destroy each other's wisdom with words of those who transgress the law.
- 10 His words are deceptions to accomplish his desire for injustice;
he did not cease until he had succeeded in scattering them as orphans.
- 11 He devastated a house on account of his desire for transgressing the law;
he deceived with words, because there is no one who sees and judges.
- 12 At this^c he was filled with transgressing the law, and his eyes are upon another house, to destroy it with clamorous words.
- 13 His soul, like Hades, is not satisfied with all these things.
- 14 May his portion, O Lord, be dishonored before you;
may his going out be with groaning, and his coming in with a curse.
- 15 May his life be in anguish and poverty and anxiety, O Lord;
may his sleep be with grief, and his waking with anxiety.
- 16 May sleep be taken from his temples at night;
may he fail dishonorably in all the work of his hands.
- 17 May he enter his house empty-handed,
and may his house lack everything with which he might satisfy his soul.
- 18 May his old age be spent in loneliness without children right up to his being taken up.
- 19 May the flesh of the men-pleasers be scattered by wild beasts, and may the bones of the transgressors of the law lie before the sun in dishonor.
- 20 May ravens peck out the eyes of hypocrites, for they have devastated many houses of men in dishonor,
and they scattered them in desire.
- 21 And they have not remembered God,
and they did not fear God in all these things,
and they provoked and angered God.
- 22 May he remove them from the earth, because with pretense they have deceived the souls of the innocent.
- 23 Happy are those who fear the Lord in their innocence;
the Lord will save them from deceitful men and sinners,
and he will save us from every stumbling block of the transgressor of the law.
- 24 May God remove those who arrogantly do all injustice;
for the Lord our God is a great and mighty judge in righteousness.
- 25 May your pity, O Lord, be upon all those who love you.

Psalm 5

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon.

- 1 O Lord God, I will praise your name with joy in the midst of those who have knowledge of your righteous judgments.
- 2 For you are kind and merciful, the refuge of the poor;
when I cry out to you, do not pass me by in silence.
- 3 For no one will take booty from a strong man, and who shall take of all that you have made, unless you give it?
- 4 For man and his portion are before you in the balance;
he cannot increase it beyond^d your judgment^d, O God.
- 5 When we are distressed we will call upon you for help, ^aPossibly about illicit affairs ^bOr a peaceful man's house ^cAntecedent unclear; possibly desire ^dPerhaps what you have prescribed and you will not turn back our petition, because you are our God.

6 Make not your hand heavy upon us, lest, from distress, we sin.

7 And if you do not return us, we will not stay
away,
but we will come to you.

8 For if I hunger, I will cry to you, O God,
and you will give to me.

9 You feed the birds and the fish, when you give rain to wildernesses that green grass may spring up.

10 You have provided fodder in the wilderness for every living thing, and if they hunger, they will lift their face
to you.

11 You feed kings and rulers and peoples,
O God,
and who is the hope of the poor and needy, unless it be you, O Lord?

12 And you will listen—for who is kind and forgiving but you?—
making glad the soul of the humble by opening your hand in pity.

13 Man's kindness is grudgingly, and
tomorrow,
and if he repeat it without complaining,
you would even marvel at this.

14 But your gift is great in kindness, and rich, and he whose hope is in you will ^anot be sparing with a gift^a.

15 Your pity, O Lord, is upon the whole earth in kindness.

16 Happy is the man whom God remembers ^bin due proportion to sufficiency^b;
if man has too much, he sins.

17 Sufficient is a moderate provision with
righteousness,
and in this is the blessing of the Lord for abundance with righteousness.

18 May those who fear the Lord rejoice in good
things,
and your kindness be upon Israel in your
kingdom.

19 Blessed is the glory of the Lord, for he is our king.

Psalm 6

In hope. Pertaining to Salomon.

1 Happy is the man whose heart is prepared to call on the name of the Lord;
when he remembers the name of the Lord, he will be saved.

2 His ways are directed by the Lord, and the works of his hands are protected by the Lord, his God.

3 His soul will not be disturbed with the sight of evil dreams;

when he crosses rivers and when the seas swell, he will not be terrified.

4 He arose from his sleep and blessed the name of the Lord.
In firmness of heart he sang a hymn to the name of his God.

5 And he entreated the face of the Lord for his entire household,
and the Lord listened to the prayer of everyone in fear of God.

6 And the Lord fulfills every request of the soul that hopes in him.
Blessed is the Lord who works pity for those who love him in truth.

Psalm 7

Pertaining to Salomon. Of returning.

1 Remove not your dwelling from us, O God, lest they attack us, those who hated us
without cause.

2 For you have rejected them, O God;
let their foot not trample upon the inheritance of your holy precinct.

3 Discipline us by your will,
and do not give us to the nations.

4 For if you send death,
you will command it concerning us.

5 For you are full of pity, and you will not be angry enough to destroy us completely.

6 While your name dwells in our midst, we shall find pity,
and no nation will prevail against us.

7 For you are our protector, and we shall call upon you, and you will hearken to us;

8 For you will have compassion upon the race of Israel forever,
and you will not reject it,
and we are under your yoke forever,
and the whip of your discipline.

10 And you will direct us in the time of your help,
showing pity to the house of Iakob on the day you promised them.

Psalm 8

Pertaining to Salomon. Regarding victory.

1 My ear heard distress and the sound of
war,
the sound of a trumpet announcing slaughter and destruction.

2 The sound of many people is like that of an exceedingly great wind, like a hurricane with mighty fire sweeping through the wilderness.

3 And I said in my heart,
"Where, then, will God judge him?"

^aPerhaps give generously ^bPerhaps and provides for his needs in moderation

- 4 I heard a sound in Ierousalem, city of a holy precinct.
 5 My lower back was crushed from the report;
 my knees weakened; my heart was afraid;
 my bones were shaken like flax.
 6 I said, "They will direct their ways in righteousness."
 7 I considered the judgments of God since the creation of heaven and earth;
 I justified God in his judgments from eternity.
 8 God exposed their sins before the sun;
 all the earth knew the righteous judgments of God.
 9 In secret places under the earth were their transgressions of the law ^ain provocation^a;
 they committed incest, son with mother and father with daughter.
 10 They committed adultery, every man with his neighbor's wife.
 They concluded compacts by oath with one another concerning these things.
 11 They would plunder the sanctuary of God, as though there was no heir who redeems.
 12 They would trample the altar of the Lord because^b of all kinds of uncleanness, and with menstrual blood they defiled the sacrifices as if they were profane meat.
 13 They left no sin, which they did not do more than the nations.
 14 Therefore God mixed for them a spirit of confusion;
 he gave them a cup of undiluted wine to drink,
 that they might become drunk.
 15 He brought him from the end of the earth, who strikes mightily;
 he declared war against Ierousalem and her land.
 16 The rulers of the land met him with joy;
 they said to him, "Welcome is your way; come, enter in peace." 17 They leveled the rough roads before his entry;
 they opened the gates to Ierousalem; they crowned her walls.
 18 He entered, as a father the house of his sons, with peace;
 he set down his feet with great security.
 19 He captured her towered strongholds and the wall of Ierousalem, for God led him with security while they went astray.
- 20 He killed their rulers and everyone wise in counsel;
 he poured out the blood of the inhabitants of Ierousalem like the water of uncleanness.
 21 He led away their sons and daughters whom they had begotten in defilement.
 22 They did according to their uncleanness, just as their fathers;
 they defiled Ierousalem and the things that had been sanctified to the name of God.
 23 God was justified in his judgments among the nations of the earth, and the devout of God are like lambs innocent in their midst.
 24 Worthy to be praised is the Lord who judges all the earth in his righteousness.
 25 See, O God, you have shown us your judgment in your righteousness;
 our eyes have seen your judgments, O God.
 26 We have justified your name that is honored forever, for you are the God of righteousness, judging Israel with discipline.
 27 Turn, O God, your pity upon us, and have compassion upon us.
 28 Gather together the dispersion of Israel with pity and kindness, for your faithfulness is with us.
 29 And we stiffened our neck,
 and you are the one who disciplines us.
 30 Overlook us not, our God, lest the nations swallow us up, as though there were no redeemer.
 31 And you are our God from the beginning, and upon you is our hope, O Lord.
 32 And we shall not depart from you, for your judgments upon us are kind.
 33 Upon us and our children is your good will forever;
 O Lord, our savior, we shall never more be shaken.
 34 Worthy to be praised is the Lord for his judgments by the mouth of devout ones, and blessed is Israel by the Lord forever.

Psalm 9

Pertaining to Salomon. Regarding rebuke.

- 1 When Israel was led away in exile to a foreign land,
 when they fell away from the Lord who redeemed them,
 they were expelled from the inheritance,
 which the Lord had given them.

^aPossibly committed in provocation ^bOr as a result

2 The dispersion of Israel was among every nation, according to the word of God, that you may be justified, O God, in your righteousness
by reason of our acts of lawlessness;
for you are a righteous judge over all the peoples of the earth.

3 For none that does injustice shall be hidden from your knowledge, and the righteous acts of your devout are before you, O Lord, and where shall a human being hide himself from your knowledge, O God?

4 Our works are in the choosing and power of our soul, to do righteousness or injustice in the works of our hands,
and in your righteousness you visit human beings.

5 The one who practices righteousness stores up life for himself with the Lord, and the one who practices injustice is responsible for the destruction of his own soul, for the judgments of the Lord are in righteousness for each man and household.

6 To whom will you show kindness, O God, if not to them that call upon the Lord?
You will cleanse a soul from sins ^awhen he will confess,
when he acknowledges^a;
for shame is upon us and our faces on account of all these things.

7 And to whom will you forgive sins, except to those who have sinned?
You shall bless the righteous and not ^bstraighten them for the sins they have committed^b, and your kindness is upon sinners in repentance.

8 And now, you are our God, and we are the people whom you have loved.
Look, and be compassionate, O God of Israel, for we are yours, and remove not your pity from us, lest they attack us.

9 And you chose the offspring of Abraam above all the nations, and you placed your name upon us, O Lord,
and you will not reject us forever.

10 You made a covenant with our fathers concerning us, and we shall hope in you when we return our souls toward you.

11 The mercy of the Lord is upon the house of Israel forever and ever.

Psalm 10

Among hymns. Pertaining to Salomon.

1 Happy is the man whom the Lord remembers with reproving and who is fenced^c from the evil road by a whip, that he may be cleansed from sin, that it may not increase.

2 He who prepares his back for lashes shall be cleansed, for the Lord is kind to those who endure discipline.

3 For he will straighten the ways of the righteous and will not turn them aside by discipline, and the pity of the Lord is upon those who love him in truth.

4 And the Lord will remember his slaves in pity, for the testimony is in the law of the everlasting covenant, the testimony of the Lord for the ways of humankind at his visitation.

5 Our Lord is righteous and devout in his judgments forever, and Israel shall praise the name of the Lord with joy.

6 And the devout shall acknowledge in the assembly of the people, and God will show pity upon the poor to the joy of Israel.

7 For God is kind and full of pity forever, and the congregations of Israel shall glorify the name of the Lord.

8 The salvation of the Lord is upon the house of Israel for everlasting joy.

Psalm 11

Pertaining to Salomon. Regarding expectation.

1 Trumpet in Sion with a signal trumpet to summon the holy ones;
proclaim in Ierusalem the voice of one who brings good news;
for the God of Israel has shown pity in his visitation of them.

2 Stand upon a high place, O Ierusalem, and behold your children, from the east and the west, gathered together once again by the Lord.

3 From the north they come in the joy of their God;
from the islands far away God has gathered them.

^aPossibly when confession and acknowledgment is made ^bPossibly guide them in situations when they have sinned ^cPossibly restrained

4 He has leveled high mountains into level ground for them;
the hills fled at their approach.
5 The woods shaded them as they passed
by;
God caused every tree of fragrance to spring up for them, 6 that Israel might pass by at the visitation of their God's glory.
7 Put on, O Ierousalem, the garments of your
glory;
prepare the robe of your sanctity^a,
for God has spoken good concerning Israel forever and ever.
8 May the Lord do what he has spoken concerning Israel and Ierousalem;
may the Lord raise up Israel by his glorious name.
9 The pity of the Lord is upon Israel forever
and ever.

Psalm 12

Pertaining to Salomon. Against the tongue of the transgressors of the law.

1 O Lord, deliver my soul from the man who is a transgressor of the law and
wicked,
from the tongue that transgresses the law and is slanderous
and that speaks lies and deceits.
2 The words of the tongue of the wicked man are twisted in many ways, like fire among a people which burns up its beauty.
3 His sojourn—to set on fire households with a lying tongue—
to cut down trees of joy that sets the transgressors of the law on fire, to confound households in warfare by means of slanderous lips.
4 May God remove far from the innocent the lips
of the transgressors of the law with anxiety,
and may the bones of slanderers be scattered
far from those who fear the Lord; may the slanderous tongue perish in flaming fire far from the devout.
5 May the Lord preserve the quiet soul that hates the unjust,
and may the Lord direct the man who makes peace at home.
6 The salvation of the Lord is upon Israel his servant forever,
and may the sinners perish altogether
from the presence of the Lord, and may the devout of the Lord inherit the promises of the Lord.

Psalm 13

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon. Comfort for
the righteous.

1 The right hand of the Lord covered me;
the right hand of the Lord spared us.
2 The arm of the Lord saved us from the sword that passes through,
from famine and the death of sinners.
3 Evil wild animals rushed upon them;
with their teeth they tore their flesh, and with their molars they crushed their
bones.
4 But from all these things the Lord delivered
us.
5 The pious man was troubled on account of his transgressions, lest he should be taken away along with
the sinners.
6 For the destruction of the sinner is terrible, but not one of all these things shall touch
the righteous.
7 For not the same is the discipline of the righteous in ignorance
and the destruction of the sinners.
8 The righteous is disciplined with distinctness
so that the sinner may not rejoice over
the righteous.
9 For he will admonish the righteous as a beloved son,
and his discipline is as that of a firstborn.
10 For the Lord will spare his devout and will wipe away their transgressions with discipline.
11 For the life of the righteous is forever, but sinners shall be taken away into
destruction,
and their memorial shall never be
found.
12 But the pity of the Lord is upon the devout,
and his pity is upon those who fear him.

Psalm 14

A Hymn. Pertaining to Salomon.

1 Faithful is the Lord to those who love him
in truth,
to those who endure his discipline, 2 to those who walk in the righteousness of his ordinances,
in the law which he commanded us that we might live.
3 The devout of the Lord shall live by it
forever;
the orchard of the Lord, the trees of life,
are his devout.
4 Their planting is rooted forever;
they shall not be pulled up all the days of
heaven;

^aPossibly holy precinct

5 for the portion and the inheritance of God is Israel.

6 But not so are the sinners and transgressors
of the law,
who loved a day in the companionship of their sin.

7 Their desire was for the briefness of
corruption,
and they have not remembered God.

8 For the ways of human beings are known before him at all times, and he knows the storerooms^a of the heart before they come to pass.

9 Therefore their inheritance is Hades and darkness and destruction, and they shall not be found in the day when the righteous obtain pity.

10 But the devout of the Lord shall inherit life with joy.

Psalm 15

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon. With an Ode.

1 When I was in distress, I called upon the name of the Lord;
I hoped for the help of the God of Iakob
and was saved,
for you are the hope and the refuge of the
poor, O God.

2 For who, O God, is strong except to confess to you in truth?
And wherein is a person mighty except in confessing to your name?

3 A new melody with an ode in gladness of
heart,
the fruit of the lips with the tuned instrument of the tongue, the first fruit of the lips from a devout and righteous heart—

4 he who does these things shall never be shaken by evil;
the flame of fire and the wrath against the unrighteous shall not touch him,

5 when it goes forth from the face of the Lord against sinners,
to destroy all the substance of sinners;

6 For the mark of God is upon the righteous for salvation.

7 Famine and sword and death shall be far from the righteous;
for they shall flee from the devout as those pursued by war,

8 but they shall pursue sinners and overtake
them,
and those who do lawlessness shall not escape the judgment of the Lord;

9 they shall be overtaken by those experienced in war,
for the mark of destruction is upon their forehead.

10 And the inheritance of sinners is destruction and darkness,
and their acts of lawlessness shall pursue them to Hades below.

11 Their inheritance shall not be found for
their children,
for sins shall lay waste the houses of
sinners.

12 And sinners shall perish forever in the day of the Lord's judgment, when God visits the earth with his
judgment.

13 But those who fear the Lord shall find mercy on it^b,
and they shall live by the mercy of their
God,
but sinners shall perish forever and anon.

Psalm 16

A Hymn. Pertaining to Salomon. Regarding help for the devout.

1 When my soul slumbered, away from the Lord, I slipped for a short time, in the lethargy of those that sleep far from God.

2 For a short time my soul was poured out to
death,
close to the gates of Hades with the
sinner,

3 when my soul separated from the Lord, God of Israel,
except that the Lord helped me with his pity forever.

4 He pricked me, like a goad for a horse, that I might awaken unto him;
my savior and protector at all times saved
me.

5 I will acknowledge [to] you, O God, for you helped me to salvation, and you did not count me with sinners for destruction.

6 Remove not your pity from me, O God, nor your remembrance from my heart until death.

7 Rule over me^c, O God, from wicked sin and from every evil woman who causes the foolish to stumble.

8 And let not the beauty of a woman who transgresses the law deceive me, nor of anything that is subject to useless
sin.

9 Direct the works of my hands in your place, and guard my steps in your remembrance.

10 Protect my tongue and my lips with words of truth;
anger and unreasoning wrath put far
from me.

11 Grumbling and faint-heartedness in affliction keep far from me,

^aPossibly secret rooms ^bI.e. the earth ^cPerhaps hold me back

- when, if I sin, you discipline me to return
me.
- 12 Support my soul with goodwill and
cheerfulness;
when you strengthen my soul, what is given will be sufficient for me.
- 13 For if you do not give strength,
who will endure discipline in poverty?
- 14 When a soul is rebuked in the hand of his
corruption,
your testing is in his flesh and in the affliction of poverty.
- 15 If the righteous endures in all these, he shall receive pity from the Lord.

Psalm 17

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon. With an Ode.
Pertaining to the king.

- 1 O Lord, you are our king forever and ever, for in you, O God, shall our soul boast.
- 2 And how long is the time of a person's life
upon the earth?
According to his time and his hope upon
him.
- 3 But we will hope in God our savior;
for the might of our God is forever with pity,
and the kingdom of our God is forever
over the nations in judgment.
- 4 You, O Lord, you chose Daud king over Israel,
and you swore to him concerning his offspring forever,
that his palace would never fail before
you.
- 5 And, because of our sins, sinners rose up against us;
they attacked us and thrust us out, to whom you did not promise;
they took possession by force, and they did not glorify your honorable
name.
- 6 They set up in glory a palace corresponding to their loftiness;
they laid waste the throne of Daud in arrogance leading to change.
- 7 But you, O God, will overthrow them and will remove their offspring from the
earth,
when there rises up against them a person
that is foreign to our race.
- 8 According to their sins you will repay them,
O God,
that it may befall them according to their
works.
- 9 God showed them no pity;
he has sought out their offspring and let not one of them go free.
- 10 Faithful is the Lord in all his judgments, which he performs on the earth.
- 11 The lawless one laid waste our land so that no one inhabited it;
they destroyed young and old and their children together.
- 12 In the wrath of his beauty he expelled them to the west,
and the rulers of the land to derision, and did not spare them.
- 13 Being an alien the enemy acted arrogantly, and his heart was estranged from our God.
- 14 And all things that he did in Ierousalem were just as the nations do in their strong cities.
- 15 And the sons of the covenant surpassed them in the midst of motley
nations;
there was no one among them who practiced pity and truth in Ierousalem.
- 16 Those who loved the congregations of the devout fled from them,
as sparrows were scattered from their nest.
- 17 They wandered in wildernesses that their souls be saved from evil, and their saved soul was precious in the eyes of those who sojourned
abroad.
- 18 They were scattered over the whole earth by lawless men,
for heaven withheld the rain from falling on
the earth.
- 19 Everlasting springs out of abysses were held back from high mountains, for there was none among them who did righteousness and justice.
- 20 From their ruler and the lowest of the people they were in every sin;
the king was in transgression of the law,
and the judge in disobedience,
and the people in sin.
- 21 See, O Lord, and raise up for them their king, the son of Daud,
at the time which you chose, O God, to rule over Israel your servant.
- 22 And gird him with strength to shatter in pieces unrighteous rulers, to purify Ierousalem from nations that trample her down in destruction,
- 23 in wisdom of righteousness, to drive out sinners from the inheritance, to smash the arrogance of the sinner like a potter's vessel,
- 24 to shatter all their substance with an iron rod,
to destroy the lawless nations by the word of his mouth,
- 25 that, by his threat, nations flee from his
presence,
and to reprove sinners with the thought of their hearts.
- 26 And he shall gather a holy people whom he shall lead in righteousness,

- and he shall judge the tribes of the
people
that has been sanctified by the Lord, his
God.
- 27 And he shall not allow injustice to lodge in their midst any longer, nor shall there dwell with them any person who knows evil;
for he shall know them, that all are their God's sons.
- 28 And he shall distribute them according to their tribes upon the land, and no resident alien and alien shall sojourn among them any longer.
- 29 He shall judge peoples and nations in the wisdom of his righteousness.
Interlude on strings
- 30 And he shall have the peoples of the nations to be subject to him under his yoke,
and he shall glorify the Lord in the mark^a
of all the earth,
and he shall purify Ierousalem in holiness
as it was at the beginning
- 31 so that nations may come from the end of the earth to see his glory, bringing as gifts her sons who are exhausted,
and to see the glory of the Lord with which God has glorified her.
- 32 And he shall be a righteous king, taught by God, over them,
and there shall be no injustice in his days in
their midst,
for all shall be holy, and their king the anointed of the Lord.
- 33 For he shall not put his hope in horse and rider and bow,
nor shall he multiply for himself gold and silver for war,
nor shall he gather hopes from a multitude of people for the day of war.
- 34 The Lord himself is his king, the hope of him who is strong through hope in
God,
and he shall have pity on all the nations
before him in fear.
- 35 For he shall strike the earth with the word of his mouth forever;
he shall bless the people of the Lord in wisdom with joy.
- 36 And he himself shall be pure from sin so that he may rule a great people, that he may rebuke rulers and remove sinners by the strength of his word.
- 37 And he shall not weaken in his days,
relying^b on his God;
for God has made him strong in the holy spirit
- and wise in the counsel of understanding with strength and righteousness.
- 38 And the blessing of the Lord shall be with him in strength,
and he shall not weaken.
- 39 His hope shall be in the Lord, and who can prevail against him?
- 40 He shall be strong in his works and mighty in fear of God,
shepherding the flock of the Lord faithfully and righteously, and he shall not let any among them become weak in their pasture.
- 41 And he shall lead all of them in equity, and there shall be no arrogance among
them,
that any one of them should be oppressed.
- 42 This is the majesty of the king of Israel, which God knew,
to raise him up over the house of Israel to discipline it.
- 43 His words will be more refined than costly gold, the finest.
In the congregations he will discerningly judge the tribes of a sanctified people;
his words are as words of the holy in the midst of sanctified peoples.
- 44 Happy are those who shall live in those days, to see the good things of Israel that God shall accomplish in the congregation of the tribes.
- 45 May God hasten his pity upon Israel;
may he deliver us from the uncleanness of profane enemies.
- 46 The Lord himself is our king forever and ever.

Psalm 18

A Psalm. Pertaining to Salomon. Again of the anointed of the Lord.

- 1 O Lord, your pity is over the works of your hands forever;
your goodness is over Israel with a rich
gift.
- 2 When your eyes gaze upon them, then none of them shall be in want;
your ears listen to the hopeful petition of the poor.
- 3 Your judgments are over the whole earth with pity,
and your love is upon the offspring of Abraam, the sons of Israel.
- 4 Your discipline is upon us as on a firstborn,
an only son,
to turn back the obedient soul from ignorant stupidity.
- 5 May God cleanse Israel for the day of pity with blessing,

^aPerhaps sight ^bLacking in Greek for the day of election when he brings up his anointed one.

 6 Happy are those who shall live in those days,
 to see the good things of the Lord, which he will perform for the coming generation.
 7 Under the rod of discipline of the Lord's anointed in fear of his God, in wisdom of spirit and of righteousness and strength,
 8 to direct a man in works of righteousness in fear of God,
 to establish them all before the Lord—9 a good generation in fear of God in the days of pity.

Interlude on strings

10 Great is our God, and glorious, dwelling in the highest,
 who appointed the lights in their course for the determining of seasons from day to day,
 and they did not turn aside from the path
 you commanded them.
 11 Their path each day is in the fear of God, from the day God created them and
 forever.
 12 And they have not wandered since the day
 he created them;
 since the generations of old they have not turned aside from their paths, except when God commanded them through the injunction of his slaves.

THE TWELVE PROPHETS

TO THE READER

EDITION OF THE GREEK TEXT

The NETS translation of the Book of the Twelve Prophets is based on the edition of Joseph Ziegler (Septuaginta: Vetus Testamentum Graecum Auctoritate Academiae Scientiarum Gottingensis editum XIII: Duodecim prophetae [2nd. ed.; Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1967]).

For initial aspiration of Greek words (primarily names), I have relied on the edition of H. B. Swete, The Old Testament in Greek according to the Septuagint (vol 3; Cambridge: University Press, 1894).

TRANSLATION PROFILE OF THE GREEK

General Character

The Greek rendition of the Hebrew Minor Prophets is typical translation Greek. For this reason, the English translation is often less than idiomatic English. Difficulties in the translation, both in content and style, are caused by difficulties in the Greek.

As for the faithfulness of the translation to the original, if we use the Masoretic Text (= MT) as a standard, the Greek is sometimes distant from the base text and sometimes close to it. Hosee, for example, is quite different from the MT in many verses. The first three chapters of Michaias are also quite different. Naoum usually corresponds to the MT in sense, but not word for word or clause for clause. Habbakoum deviates considerably from the traditional Hebrew.

Amos, on the other hand, is quite close to the traditional Hebrew, in spite of the translator's apparent lack of some vocabulary. Joel is also close to the traditional Hebrew. Ionas is perhaps closest to the traditional Hebrew among the Twelve. Abdias, Sophonias, Haggaios, Zacharias and Malachias are all reasonably close to the MT.

There are reasons why some passages within these twelve Greek books vary from the MT: (1) The Hebrew text used by the translator sometimes appears to have been corrupt and difficult to render. For this reason, the translator sometimes rendered his text according to its general meaning, not according to the exact wording of the Hebrew. (2) The Hebrew parent text read by the translator sometimes actually differed from the MT, or the translator, for some reason, misconstrued the Hebrew in such a way as to view it differently from the MT. Although both these reasons, on occasion, are valid, one should probably not look to a different parent text as the cause for most differences. Emanuel Tov put the situation into correct perspective when he wrote, "Although there are thousands of differences between [MT] and the translations, only a fraction of them was created by a divergence between [MT] and the Vorlage of the translation. Most of the differences were created by other factors that are not related to the Hebrew Vorlage." (Textual Criticism of the Hebrew Bible [Minneapolis: Fortress Press, 1992] 123).

In order to present a clearer picture of how the Greek Minor Prophets differ from the MT, I give below a partial outline, characterizing the Greek text as it is compared to the MT.

Literalness in Rendering

Sometimes the Greek is a very literal representation of the Hebrew, to the point of being un-Greek. An example is Am 4.7. The MT reads וְחַלְקָהּ אֲשֶׁר לֹא תִמְטִיר עָלֶיהָ "and the field on which it did not rain" (NRSV). The Greek renders this, καὶ μερίς, ἐφ' ἧν οὐ βρέξω ἐπ' αὐτήν, "and a part which I will not rain on." The translator captures the meaning of the Hebrew idiom עַל יָדָה . . . אֲשֶׁר but bungles his translation by rendering this idiom twice, making the Greek correspond quantitatively to the Hebrew at the end of the clause.

Another example is Am 5.5. The MT reads, וּבֹאֵר שְׁבַע לֹא תַעֲבְרוּ, "Do not cross over to Beer-sheba." The Greek translates, καὶ ἐπὶ τὸ φρέαρ τοῦ ὄρκου μὴ διαβαίνετε, "And stop crossing over to the well of the oath." As we will see, the literal rendition of Beer-sheba in this passage is possibly due to a general ignorance of place names on the part of the translator. (The correct rendering of this same place name in 8.14 is perhaps caused by a corrector or correctors who worked, haphazardly at best, on the Greek text after its initial rendition. For more on this, see below.) In some instances, the translator of the Minor Prophets seems to have had a limited knowledge of both Palestinian geography and the Hebrew language in general.

Translational Freedom

One should not assume that literalness is the most characteristic style of the translator. Normally, the translator shows a creative freedom that allows him considerable elasticity in his work. Sometimes he is very free but at other times very literal probably for the same reason—ignorance of what the Hebrew means. Thus the Hebrew of Mich 1.14 reads, “Therefore you shall give parting gifts to Moresheth-gath; the houses of Achzib shall be a deception to the kings of Israel” (NRSV). The translator renders this, “Therefore you shall give worthless houses—ones being dispatched—as far as the inheritance of Geth. It became meaningless to the kings of Israel.” Such striking differences between the Greek and the Hebrew may suggest a variant Hebrew parent text behind the Greek. In my judgment, however, this is not necessarily the case. The Greek translator may have employed his creative freedom in this instance to render a difficult passage.

In his quest for a clear text, the translator shows few qualms in making textual adjustments. He often uses what could be called tricks of the trade to make the text understandable, changing plurals to singulars and singulars to plurals, passives to actives and, though less frequently, actives to passives. He feels free to alter the wording in other ways. In Am 1.3 the Hebrew reads, “because they have threshed Gilead with threshing sledges of iron” (NRSV). The Greek renders, “because they were sawing pregnant women of those in Galaad asunder with iron saws.” The general statement “threshed Gilead” is made into a more specific crime, perhaps more understandable to the translator and his readers, though the end result was basically the same. There is no way to predict when such variations will occur. The text is altered whenever the translator sees the need.

Interpretational Difference

Some variations between the Hebrew and the Greek are caused by the Hebrew having more than one meaning. In Hos 10.13 the MT reads, “You have plowed (חָרַשׁוּ) wickedness, you have reaped injustice” (NRSV). The word חָרַשׁ can mean either “to plow” or “to be silent.” The Greek translator, apparently wishing to employ the sense of “silence,” rendered, “Why did you pass over impiety in silence (παρεσιωπήσατε) and reap its injustice?”

In Am 1.8 the MT reads, “I will cut off the inhabitants from Ashdod, and the one who holds the scepter (מַטְעָן) from Ashkelon” (NRSV). The word מַטְעָן can mean either “scepter/rod” or “tribe.” The Greek translator, wishing to employ the latter meaning, renders, “I will utterly destroy inhabitants from Azotus, and a tribe (φυλή) shall be removed from Ascalon.”

In Soph 1.11 the MT reads, “For all the people of Canaan have perished” (נִדְמָה). The word נִדְמָה can mean either “to perish” or “to be like.” Wishing to use the latter meaning, the Greek translator renders the passage, “because all the people were made like [ὡμοιωθή] Chanaan.”

Differences in Hebrew Vocalization

It is well known that manuscripts of the Hebrew Bible sometimes vary from each other because of differences in vocalization. This is true for manuscripts within the MT tradition as well as for manuscripts among the Dead Sea Scrolls, which differ from the MT sometimes by use of consonantal vowels or matares lectionis. The principle is also to be seen in the second column of Origen’s Hexapla in which the Hebrew text of Scripture is recorded in Greek transliteration. It is not surprising, then, to see that a number of differences between the Greek Minor Prophets and the MT are due to variant vocalizations. Here are some examples:

In Mich 7.18 the MT reads, “He does not retain his anger forever” (NRSV). The Greek renders, “And he did not retain his anger for a witness.” The difference is apparently caused by the translator vocalizing לְעֵד as ‘for a witness’ instead of ‘forever.’ In Hab 3.5 the MT reads, “Before him went pestilence” (NRSV). The Greek translates, “A report shall proceed before him.” The variation appears to go back to the translator vocalizing דְּבַר as “report/word” rather than as “pestilence.” In Hag 1.11 the MT reads, “And I have called for a drought on the land” (NRSV). The Greek translates, “And I will bring a sword on the land.” The variation appears to go back to the translator vocalizing חֶרֶב “sword” rather than as “drought.” In Zach 9.10 the MT reads, “his dominion shall be from sea to sea” (NRSV). The Greek translates, “he shall reign over the waters as far as the sea.” The variation suggests a vocalization of מֵיַם עַד יַם as “waters as far as the sea” rather than as “from sea to sea.”

Differences in Hebrew Consonantal Text

There are some variations between the Greek and the MT that go back to the translator reading different consonants from those that appear in the MT. He either read a Hebrew text variant to the MT or he misread the Hebrew. It is not always easy to determine which of these actually occurred.

Several variations occur involving the interchange of daleth (ד) and resh (ר), look-alike letters that notoriously were confused by ancient scribes. In Hos 9.2, for example, the MT reads, "shall feed them" (יִרְעֵם). The Greek translates, "know them" (ἐγνώσασαυτοὺς), apparently reading יִדְעֵם. In Am 4.5 the MT reads, "thank offering" (תִּוְדָה). The Greek translates, "law" (νόμον), a reflection of the Hebrew word תּוֹרָה. In Soph 3.9 the MT reads, "pure" (בְּרוּרָה). The Greek renders, "in its generation" (εἰς γενεὸν αὐτῆς), a reflection of בְּדוֹרָה.

Sometimes a metathesis of Hebrew letters is involved. An example is Zach 12.10. There the MT reads, "they have pierced" (דָּקְרוּ). The Greek translates, "they have danced" (κατωχῆσαντο). The Greek appears to go back to דָּקְרוּ. Another example is Am 2.16. The MT reads, "And the stout of heart" (וְאִמְנוּ לִבּוֹ). The Greek translates, "And shall find his heart" (καὶ εὕρησει τὴν καρδίαν αὐτοῦ). The Greek appears to be a reading of וְאִמְנוּ rather than וְאִמְנוּ.

Other variations between the Greek and the traditional Hebrew are traceable to a different consonantal text. In Zach 5.1 the Hebrew reads, "Again I looked up and saw a flying scroll" (NRSV). The Greek reads, "And I turned and lifted my eyes and saw and behold, a flying sickle." The Greek reflects the word בָּגֵל "sickle" rather than מַגֵּל "scroll." In Na 1.3 the MT reads, "His way is in whirlwind." The Greek reads, "His way is in consummation." The Greek translator possibly read בְּסוּפָה rather than בְּסוּפָה as found in the MT. In Mich 5.4(3) the MT reads, "and he shall feed" (וְרָעָה). The Greek renders this, "and he shall see and tend." The translator appears to have rendered וְרָעָה וְרָאָה, a doublet based on look-alike Hebrew words, one with aleph, the other with ayin.

In none of these instances is there any assurance that the Septuagint translator actually had before him a different parent text from the MT. In haste and carelessness, he may have misread the Hebrew, construing it into the type of text now reflected by the Greek.

Longer or Shorter Text

Sometimes the Greek differs from the MT by reading a longer or shorter text. In Hos 13.4 the MT reads, "I am the Lord your God from the land of Egypt." The Greek includes these words plus others in the middle: "I am the Lord your God who makes heaven firm and creates earth, whose hands created all the host of the sky. And I did not display them for you to follow after them. And I brought you up from the land of Egypt." Conceivably, the MT represents an ancient scribal omission caused by a scribe whose eyes jumped from "I am the Lord your God," to "from the land of Egypt," leaving out the intervening words.

The converse is true in Hag 2.4b–5. The MT reads, "for I am with you, says the LORD of hosts, according to the promise that I made you when you came out of Egypt. My spirit abides among you; do not fear" (NRSV). This time the Greek has a shorter text. It reads, "for I am with you, says the Lord Almighty, and my spirit is present among you; have courage." Conceivably, the short reading of the Greek was caused by the translator's eyes jumping from the words, "for I am with you, says the Lord of host," to the parallel phrase, "my spirit is present among you," leaving out the intervening words.

Unfamiliarity with Names

The Greek translator of the Minor Prophets was lacking in his knowledge of place names. In Hos 5.8; 9.9; 10.9, instead of "Gibeah" he renders "hill(s)." In Hos 5.8 "Ramah" becomes "high places." In Am 2.2 "Kerioth" becomes "its cities." In Zach 12.11 "as the mourning for Hadad-rimmon in the plain of Megiddo," becomes "like the mourning for a pomegranate orchard cut down in the plain." Occasionally, the translator inserts place names where the Hebrew lacks them. In Soph 3.3 the MT reads, "its judges are evening wolves"; the Greek translates, "its judges are like wolves of Arabia." The translator was also ignorant of personal names. In Zach 6.10 the MT reads, "from Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah." The Greek renders this, "from the rulers and from its useful people and from those who are familiar with it."

The Translator's Perspective

Occasionally it appears that the Greek differs from the MT because of a changed historical or theological perspective on the part of the translator. In Am 6.1 the MT reads, "Alas for those who are at ease in Zion" (NRSV). When the Minor Prophets were rendered into Greek, the religious and political climate in Jerusalem had changed from that of the eighth century, so the warning becomes, "Alas for those who count Zion as nothing."

Again, in Zach 13.2 the MT reads, “and also I will remove from the land the prophets (הַנְּבִיאִים) and the unclean spirit.” The Septuagint translator, apparently finding the removal of the prophets from the land an unsavory idea, renders the passage, “also I will remove from the land the pseudo-prophets (ψευδοπροφήτας) and the unclean spirit.”

In Hag 2.9 the MT reads, “The latter splendor of this house shall be greater than the former, says the LORD of hosts; and in this place I will give prosperity, says the LORD of hosts” (NRSV). The Septuagint renders these words, then adds, “even peace of mind for a possession to everyone who creates, to raise up this shrine.” The addition is perhaps due to the heightened perspective of the translator regarding what sort of prosperity the prophet has in mind and to whom it is to be given.

Unity of the Greek Translation

Based upon style variation, some have questioned the unity of the translation of this part of the Greek Bible. In the Schweich Lectures of 1920, H. St. John Thackeray (The Septuagint and Jewish Worship [London: British Academy, 1921]) asserted the unity of the Greek of the Minor Prophets, suggesting that it was done by one translator who was probably to be identified with the translator of Ezekiel (Ezekiel) chapters 28–39 (Thackeray’s Ez β section). Three years later, Johannes Herrmann and Friedrich Baumgärtel (Beiträge zur Entstehungsgeschichte der Septuaginta [Berlin: W. Kohlhammer, 1923]) took exception to Thackeray’s assertion, arguing that the Greek Minor Prophets had been done by two translators, the first rendering Hosea, Amos, Micah, Joel, Obadiah and Jonah, the second rendering Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi. Nahum, positioned between the two sections, appeared to belong to both sections and could not be assigned exclusively to either.

In 1934, Joseph Ziegler (Die Einheit der Septuaginta zum Zwölfprophetenbuch [Braunsberg, 1934]) challenged the conclusions of Herrmann and Baumgärtel. Ziegler emphasized the similarities between the two sections in the Greek Minor Prophets and argued that the variations in style do not necessarily imply different translators. He explained the variations on the basis of a versatile translator who felt no urgency to use the same correspondent consistently for a given Hebrew word or phrase.

Two years later, Sherman Johnson (“The Septuagint Translators of Amos” [Unpublished Doctoral Dissertation, University of Chicago, 1936]), in an elaborate investigation of the linguistic style of the Greek Amos, concluded that the translation divided itself into three groups, i.e., chapters 1–4, 5–6, and 7–9. For him the differences between these groups were sufficient to demand a hypothesis of a different translator for chapters 5–6 which separated themselves radically from the rest of the work.

In 1970, I suggested that the Greek Amos was rendered by two translators, one who did sections A (1.1–8.11) and C (9.11–15) and another who did section B (8.12–9.10) (“Some Notes on the Septuagint of Amos,” VT 20 [1970] 108–112). Among other things, I argued that the variation in the renditions of the place name באר שבע (τὸ φρέαρ τοῦ ὄρκου “the well of the oath” in Am 5.5; Βηρσαβέε “Bersabee” in Am 8.14) bore the stamp of different translators.

T. Muraoka (“Is the Septuagint Amos VIII 12–IX 10 a Separate Unit?” VT 20 [1970] 496–500) explained the differences in style in Amos on the basis of context and the versatility of the translator, a position similar to Ziegler’s, whose study Muraoka considered to be of prime importance for the issue.

In 1976, Emanuel Tov argued that the Greek Minor Prophets was so similar to Jeremiah α’ (chapters 1–28) and Ezekiel that the same translator (or perhaps a group of translators) was responsible for all three (The Septuagint Translation of Jeremiah and Baruch [Harvard Semitic Monographs; Missoula: Scholars Press, 1976] 149). Tov hinted again at this conclusion in 1981 in his text critical work on the Septuagint (The Text-Critical Use of the Septuagint in Biblical Research [Jerusalem: Simor, 1981] 48).

In 1988, C. Robert Harrison, Jr., reviewed the issue and concluded that those who argue for one translator for the Minor Prophets, or for one group of translators, use flawed logic in their methodologies. He concluded, “In light of these facts, the uncritical assumption of translational unity within the collection which comprises the twelve minor prophets must be rejected . . . Some evidence is contradictory; perhaps a quite complicated redactional history may emerge for the Septuagint translations of the Minor Prophets” (“The Unity of the Minor Prophets in the Septuagint: A Reexamination of the Question,” BIOSCS 21 [1988] 55–72 [quotation from p. 71]).

The issue is difficult since there are some anomalies in style within the Greek Minor Prophets that appear to go beyond the versatility of one translator. A case in point is the divine epithet “. . . of hosts.” In Hosea and Amos (Hos 12.5; Am 3.13; 4.13; 5.27; 9.5) the phrase is always rendered, “the Almighty” (ὁ παντοκράτωρ), employing the article, while generally elsewhere it is rendered, “Almighty” (παντοκράτωρ). Exceptions are Na 3.5 and Soph 2.10 where “the Almighty” (ὁ παντοκράτωρ / τον παντοκράτορα) occurs. In each of these instances, however, variant readings also occur.

In my revised judgment, although the differences in style within the Greek Minor Prophets are sometimes striking, they do not necessarily suggest that more than one translator was at work. An exception is Habbakoum 3, in which the text found in a small number of manuscripts appears to be a different translation (in some respects) from the majority text; see further below. Leaving aside this one exception, I doubt that a complicated redactional history is necessary to understand the nature of the Greek Minor Prophets. The stylistic differences can be explained by the assumption that a corrector went through the original document, perhaps soon after it was finished, and made some revision. In his haste, the corrector did a haphazard job, leaving the text as it now exists with some stylistic inconsistencies.

VARIANT TRANSLATIONS OF HABBAKOUM 3

The Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible occasionally exists in more than one rendition or recension. Examples are the A and B texts of the Book of Judges and the B/A and S texts of Tobit. Similarly Habbakoum 3 exists in two versions, one represented by the majority text, the other by a small group of manuscripts: codd. V ll-86-407 (according to Ziegler's notation). This minority version is otherwise known as the Barberini text of Habbakoum 3. A number of scholars consider the Barberini text to predate the version of the Old Greek found in the majority manuscripts. A few scholars believe that it dates after the Old Greek. Since Ziegler's edition includes both texts, NETS has followed suit.

THE NETS TRANSLATION OF THE TWELVE

In the English translation I have attempted to be faithful to the Greek without deviating radically from the NRSV. My success in this endeavor will have to be judged by my readers. When the Greek and the Hebrew diverge, I have always chosen to remain faithful to the Greek. The end result is a mixture of styles, sometimes NRSV-like, but often different from the NRSV.

In order to bring out word echoes from the Greek to the English and to set the appropriate mood for the prophets, I have established a number of default translations for Greek words and Greek roots, especially for those that have a strong moral or ethical tone. Thus δίκαιος and cognates are rendered by "just/justice" (not "righteous/righteousness"); ἀδικία is rendered by "injustice," ἀσέβεια by "impiety," ἀνομία by "lawlessness."

I have given special attention to gender, rendering gender-inclusive words gender-inclusive, and gender-specific words gender-specific. Thus ἄνθρωπος is rendered "person/someone"; τέκνον is rendered "child." On the other hand, ἀνὴρ is translated "man/male"; υἱός "son." In a few instances, words that are usually taken as masculine are designated in Greek as feminine. In Hos 2.8; 13.1; Soph 1.4 "Baal" is preceded by the feminine article, thus: τῆ / τῆς Βααλ. I have rendered this by, "the goddess Baal." In Mich 7.8, 10 "my adversary" has a feminine ending and is preceded by a feminine article, thus ἡ ἐχθρά μου. In both instances I have rendered the phrase by "my lady adversary."

A few special words and phrases need some explanation. The word ἀλλόφυλος has consistently been rendered by "allophyles" in NETS. Though used to gloss "Philistines," it does not actually mean "Philistines" and has therefore been given a generic sense. The Greek construction of the participle plus the finite verb of the same root, standing for the Hebrew infinitive absolute plus the finite verb of the same root, is rendered here emphatically, not intensively. Thus for Mich 2.12 συναγόμενος συναχθήσεται Ιακωβ . . . ἐκδεχόμενος ἐκδέξομαι τοὺς καταλοίπους τοῦ Ἰσραηλ is translated, "When Iakob is being gathered, he will be gathered . . . Receiving I will receive those remaining of Israel." The important name, Judah, in Am 2.4 passim (יהודה - Ιουδα) appears always to be inflected and is thus rendered "Ioudas" throughout.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

In addition to the standard grammars and lexica, I have benefited much from the lexicon of the Greek Minor Prophets prepared by T. Muraoka, A Greek-English Lexicon of the Septuagint. Twelve Prophets (Louvain: Peeters, 1993). I have consulted on occasion the earlier English translations of Thomson and Brenton with benefit. My students in Greek and Hebrew throughout the years have indirectly contributed much to my understanding of the Greek Minor Prophets.

GEORGE E. HOWARD

HOSEE

1 A word of the Lord that came to Hosee the son of Beeri in the days of Kings Ozias and Ioatham and Achaz and Hezekias of Ioudas and in the days of King Ieroboam son of Ioas of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of the Lord in Hosee. And the Lord said to Hosee, "Go, take for yourself a wife of whoredom and children of whoredom, for the land in committing whoredom will commit whoredom from behind the Lord."

3 And he went and took Gomer daughter of Debelaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.

4 And the Lord said to him, "Call his name Iezrael, for in yet a little while I will also avenge the blood of Iezrael on the house of Ieou, and I will turn away the kingdom of the house of Israel. 5 And it shall be on that day, I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Iezrael."

6 And she conceived again and bore a daughter. And he said to him, "Call her name Not Pitied, for I will not any longer have pity on the house of Israel, but setting myself in opposition, I will oppose them. 7 But I will have pity on the sons of Ioudas, and I will save them by the Lord, their God, and I will not save them by bow or by sword or by war or by chariots or by horses or by horsemen."

8 And she weaned Not Pitied and conceived again and bore a son. 9 And he said, "Call his name Not My People, for you are not my people and I am not your 'I am.'"

10 And the number of the sons of Israel was like the sand of the sea, which shall not be measured nor numbered, and it shall be, in the place where it was said to them, "You are not my people," they too shall be called, "sons of a living god." 11 And the sons of Ioudas and the sons of Israel shall be gathered together, and they shall set up for themselves one realm, and they shall go up from the land, for great shall be the day of Iezrael.

2 Say to your brother, My People, and to your sister, Pitied.

2 Contend against your mother, contend —for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband— and I will put away her whoring from before me and her adultery from between her breasts,

3 that I might strip her naked and restore her as the day of her birth, and I will make her like a wilderness and render her as a parched land and kill her with thirst.

4 And upon her children also I will have no pity, because they are children of whoredom.

5 For their mother played the whore; she who bore them acted shamefully. For she said, "I will go after my lovers, who give me my bread and my water and my clothes and my linen cloth and my oil and all the things proper for me."

6 Therefore, behold, I am hedging up her way with thorns and will build up her ways, and she will not find her path.

7 And she shall pursue her lovers and not overtake them, and she shall seek them and shall not find them.

And she shall say, "I will go and return to my former husband, for it was well with me then rather than now."

8 And she did not know that I had given her the grain and the wine and the oil and had multiplied silver to her.

But she made the silver and the gold for the goddess Baal.

9 Therefore I will return and carry off my grain in its time and my wine in its season, and I will take away my garments and my linen cloth, that she may not cover her shame.

10 And now I will uncover her impurity before her lovers, and no one shall rescue her out of my hand.

11 And I will turn away all her mirth, her feasts and her new moons and her sabbaths and all her public assemblies.

12 And I will annihilate her vine and her fig trees of which she said,

"These are my pay, which my lovers have given to me."

And I will make them a witness, and the beasts of the field and the birds of the sky and the things that creep upon the earth shall devour them.

13 And I will avenge the days of the Baalim on her, when she used to sacrifice to them and put on her earrings and her necklaces and go after her lovers and forgot me, says the Lord.

14 Therefore, behold, I will deceive her and bring her down into the wilderness and speak to her heart.

15 And from there I will give her her estates and the valley of Achor, to open up her understanding.

And there she will be brought low as in the days of her infancy and as in the days of her coming up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be on that day, says the Lord, she will call me "My husband" and no longer call me "Baalim." 17 And I will remove the names of the Baalim from her mouth, and their names will be remembered no more. ¹⁸And I will make for them a covenant on that day with the animals of the field and with the birds of the sky and with the creeping things of the ground, and I will break bow and sword and war from the land, and I will make you dwell in hope. ¹⁹And I will betroth you to myself forever, and I will betroth you to myself in justice and in judgment and in mercy and in compassion. ²⁰And I will betroth you to myself in faithfulness, and you shall know the Lord.

²¹ And it shall be on that day, says the Lord,
I will give heed to heaven,
and it shall give heed to the earth, ²² and the earth shall hear the grain and the wine and the oil,
and they will give heed to Iezrael, ²³ and I will sow her for myself in the land.
And I will have pity on Not Pitied, and I will say to Not My People, "You are my people,"
and he shall say, "You are the Lord my
God."

3 And the Lord said to me, "Go again, and love a woman who loves evil things and is an adulteress, just as God loves the sons of Israel, but they turn their attention to foreign gods, and they like cakes with raisins." ²So I hired her to myself for fifteen pieces of silver and a gomora^a of barley and a nebel^b of wine. ³And I said to her, "For many days you will sit with me, and you will not play the whore, nor will you be with a man, and I will be with you." ⁴For the sons of Israel shall sit many days without king and without ruler and without sacrifice and without altar and without priestly office and without ^cclear ones^c. ⁵And after these things, the sons of Israel shall return and seek the Lord their God and Daud their king, and they shall stand in awe at the Lord and his good things in the last days.

4 Hear a word of the Lord, O sons of Israel, for the Lord has a dispute with the inhabitants of the land.
For there is no truthfulness or mercy or knowledge of God in the land.
² Imprecation and lying and murder and stealing and adultery are poured out upon the land,
and they mix blood with blood.
³ Therefore the land shall mourn with all those who inhabit it, with the animals of the field and with the reptiles of the earth
and with the birds of the air;
even the fish of the sea shall fail,
⁴ that no one either go to law or accuse.
But my people will be like a priest being contradicted.
⁵ And you shall be weak by day, and the prophet also shall be weak with
you.

I have made your mother like night.
⁶ My people have become like one who lacks
knowledge;
because you have rejected knowledge,
I also will reject you from being a priest
to me.
And you forgot the law of your God;
I also will forget your children.
⁷ According to their multitude,
thus they sinned against me.
I will turn their glory into dishonor.
⁸ They will feed on the sins of my people, and they will receive their souls with their injustices.
⁹ And it shall be as the people, so also the priest,
and I will avenge on him his ways
and repay him for his designs.
¹⁰ And they shall eat and not be satisfied;
they have played the whore and shall not prosper,
for they forsook the Lord to cherish ¹¹whoredom.

And the heart of my people has received wine and intoxicating drink.
¹² They would consult counselors, and with his rods they would report to
him.
They were led astray by a spirit of whoredom,
and they played the whore from their
God.
¹³ They were offering sacrifice on the tops of
the mountains
and were sacrificing upon the hills, under an oak and a white poplar and a thickly shading tree,
because shelter is a good thing.

Therefore your daughters will play the whore,
and your daughters-in-law will commit adultery.
¹⁴ And I will not take an interest in your daughters when they play the whore nor in your daughters-in-law when they commit adultery,
for the men themselves were associating with whores
and were sacrificing with initiates, and the people, not understanding, embraced a whore.
¹⁵ But you, O Israel,
stop being ignorant,
and you, O Ioudas, stop going to Galgala, and stop going up to the house of On,
and stop swearing by the living Lord.
¹⁶ For like a frenzied heifer,
Israel went into a frenzy.

^aHeb 1 homer = 220 liters ^bHeb = skin ^cPossibly explaining devices

Now the Lord will feed them like a lamb in a broad place.

17 Ephraim, an associate of idols, placed stumbling blocks against himself.

18 He chose Chananites; fornicating they committed fornication.
They loved dishonor because of its^a insolence.

19 You are a gust of wind in its^a wings, and they will be ashamed because of their altars.

5 Hear this, O priests!
And give heed, O house of Israel!
And give ear, O house of the king!
For the judgment pertains to you, because you have become a snare to the lookout
and like a net stretched over Itabyrion, which the game hunters firmly set.
But I am one that disciplines you.

2 I knew Ephraim,
and Israel is not far from me;
for now Ephraim has gone after whores;
Israel has been defiled.

4 Their deliberations did not grant them to turn to their God, because a spirit of whoredom is within
them,
and they did not know the Lord.

5 And Israel's pride will be brought low against him,
and Israel and Ephraim will become weak
in their injustices.
And Ioudas also will become weak with
them.

6 With sheep and calves they shall go to seek the Lord,
and they will not find him,
because he has turned away from them, 7 because they abandoned the Lord, because foreign children were born to
them.
Now the rust will devour them and their allotments.

8 Trumpet with the trumpet on the hills;
make a blast on the high places;
announce in the house of On:
Benjamin became amazed.

9 Ephraim has become an annihilation in the days of reproof;
among the tribes of Israel,
I have demonstrated things that are sure.

10 The rulers of Ioudas have become like those who remove landmarks;
on them I will pour out my onslaught like water.

11 Ephraim has overpowered his opponent; he has trampled judgment,
because he began to go after the vain
things.

12 And I am like confusion to Ephraim and like a goad to the house of Ioudas.

13 And Ephraim saw his sickness, and Ioudas his pain.
And Ephraim went to the Assyrians and sent ambassadors to King Iarim.
And he was not able to cure you,
and pain will not desist from you.

14 For I am like a panther to Ephraim and like a lion to the house of Ioudas.
And I will plunder and go and take,
and no one will rescue.

15 I will go and return to my place until they are annihilated, and they will seek my face.

6 ^(5.15) In their distress they will approach me early, saying,
^(6.1) "Let us go and return to the Lord our God, because it is he who has torn, and he will heal us;
he will strike down, and he will bind us
up.

2 After two days he will make us healthy;
on the third day we will rise up and live before him

3 and have knowledge. We will press on to know the Lord;
we will find him ready as dawn, and he will come to us like the early and the latter rain to the earth."

4 What shall I do with you, O Ephraim?
What shall I do with you, O Ioudas?
Your mercy is like a morning cloud and like morning dew when it goes
away.

5 Therefore I cut off your prophets;
I killed them by the words of my mouth,
and my judgment will go forth as light.

6 For I want mercy and not sacrifice, and knowledge of God rather than whole
burnt offerings.

7 But they are like a person transgressing a covenant;
there he despised me.

8 Galaad is a city working vain things, stirring up water.

9 And your strength is that of a man, a brigand;
priests have hidden the way;
they have murdered Sikima,
because they did lawlessness.

10 In the house of Israel I saw a horrible
thing:
Ephraim's whoredom there; Israel has been defiled,
⁽¹¹⁾ and Ioudas. ¹¹Begin to reap for yourself when I return the captivity of my people,

^ai.e. dishonor

7¹ when I heal Israel.
 And the injustice of Ephraim will be revealed,
 and the wickedness of Samaria,
 because they have performed lies.
 And a thief will come in to him,
 a bandit plundering in his way, 2 that they might sing together like those who sing together with their heart.
 I have remembered all their wickedness.
 Now their deliberations have surrounded
 them;
 they came before my face.
 3 They made kings glad by their wickedness, and rulers by their lies.
 4 They are all adulterers, like an oven being heated by a flame for the baking of rest^a, from the kneading of dough until it is leavened.
 5 As for the days of our kings
 —the rulers began to be enraged with wine;
 he stretched out his hand with pestilent
 persons.
 6 For their hearts were fired up like an oven as they broke into pieces;
 all night long Ephraim was filled with
 sleep;
 morning came; he was fired up like a flame of fire.
 7 All were heated like an oven,
 and they devoured their judges.
 All their kings have fallen;
 none among them was calling upon me.
 8 Ephraim was mixing himself with the peoples.
 Ephraim has become a loaf not turned.
 9 Foreigners have devoured his strength,
 but he did not know it,
 and gray hairs have sprouted on him,
 but he did not know it.
 10 And Israel's pride will be humbled against
 him;
 yet they have not returned to the Lord
 their God
 and have not sought him in all this.
 11 And Ephraim was like a dove, silly without heart^b;
 he would call upon Egypt, and they went to the Assyrians.
 12 As they go, I will cast my net over them;
 I will bring them down like the birds of the air;
 I will discipline them by the report of their affliction.
 13 Woe to them, for they have run away from
 me!
 Wretched are they, because they have acted impiously against me.
 But I redeemed them,
 and they spoke lies against me.

14 And their hearts did not call out to me;
 rather, they kept wailing upon their beds;
 they were gashing themselves for grain and
 wine.
 15 They were trained through me, and I strengthened their arms,
 and they devised evil things against me.
 16 They have turned aside to nothing;
 they became like a tightly stretched bow;
 their rulers shall fall by the sword
 because of their undisciplined tongue.
 This will be their contempt in the land of Egypt.

8 Into their bosom like earth^c,
 like an eagle over the house of the Lord, because they transgressed my covenant and acted impiously against my law.
 2 They will clamor for me,
 "O God we have known you."
 3 Because Israel has spurned good things, they have pursued an enemy.
 4 They made a king for themselves, and not through me;
 they ruled and did not inform me.
 They made their silver and gold into idols
 for themselves,
 that they might be destroyed utterly.
 5 Get rid of your bull calf, O Samaria;
 my anger was provoked against them.
 How long will they be incapable of purification⁶ in Israel?
 And an artisan made it,
 and it is not a god.
 For your bull calf, O Samaria, was a deceiver.
 7 Because they sowed things blasted by the wind,
 their destruction shall also await them—
 a sheaf unable to produce meal, and even if it should do so,
 foreigners will devour it.
 8 Israel was swallowed up;
 now they have come to be among the
 nations
 as a useless vessel,
 9 because they went up to the Assyrians.
 Ephraim sprouted anew by himself; they loved gifts.
 10 Therefore they will be delivered up among
 the nations.
 Now I will take them in,
 and they will abate, for a little while,
 from anointing king and rulers.
 11 ^dBecause Ephraim multiplied altars, beloved altars became sins to him^d.
 12 I shall engrave for him a multitude, even his precepts;

^aHeb = sabbath bread ^bOr sense ^cOr soil ^dPerhaps Because Ephraim multiplied altars to expiate sins, they became to him beloved altars

- the beloved altars were reckoned as foreign.
- 13 Therefore, if they offer a sacrifice and eat flesh,
the Lord will not accept these things.
Now he will remember their injustices and punish their sins;
they have returned to Egypt and will eat unclean things among the Assyrians.
- 14 And Israel has forgotten his Maker and built sacred precincts,
and Ioudas has multiplied walled cities,
and I will send a fire into his cities,
and it shall devour their foundations.
- 9 Stop rejoicing, O Israel!
And stop exulting as the peoples do, for you have played the whore from your
God.
You have loved gifts on every threshing floor of grain.
- 2 Threshing floor and wine vat did not know
them,
and the wine deceived them.
- 3 They did not settle in the land of the Lord;
Ephraim settled in Egypt,
and among the Assyrians they shall eat unclean things.
- 4 They made no libation of wine to the Lord,
and they did not please him.
Their sacrifices are to them like bread of grief;
all who eat them shall be defiled,
for their loaves for their souls shall not enter the house of the Lord.
- 5 What will you do on the day of a public festival
and on the day of the feast of the Lord?
6 Therefore, behold, they go from the wretchedness of Egypt,
and Memphis will receive them,
and Machmas will bury them.
Destruction will inherit their silver;
thorns shall be in their encampments.
- 7 The days of punishment have come;
the days of your recompense have come,
and Israel will be afflicted
as the deranged prophet,
as the spirit-crazed person.
Your madness has increased by the multitude of your injustices.
- 8 Ephraim is a watcher with God, a prophet,
a twisted snare upon all his ways.
They firmly pitched madness in the house of God.
- 9 They were corrupted
according to the days of the hill;
he will remember their injustice;
he will punish their sins.
- 10 Like grapes in a wilderness
I found Israel.
And like an early watchman in a fig tree
I saw their fathers.
They came to Beel-phegor
and were shamefully estranged, and the detestable became like the
beloved.
- 11 Ephraim flew away like a bird.
Their glories are from childbirth and birth pang and conception.
- 12 For even if they bring up their children,
they will be bereaved of people.
For also woe is to them,
my flesh from them.
- 13 Ephraim, as I saw, presented their children for prey
—even Ephraim—to lead out his children for piercing.
- 14 Give them, O Lord
—what will you give them?
Give them a childless womb and dry breasts.
- 15 All their evils are at Galgal, because there I came to hate them.
Because of the wickedness of their deeds,
I will drive them out of my house.
I will not add to love them;
all their rulers are disobedient.
- 16 Ephraim has suffered;
he has dried up at his roots;
he shall no longer bear fruit.
For even if they give birth,
I will kill the objects of desire of their
womb.
- 17 Because they have not listened to him,
God will reject them,
and they shall become wanderers among
the nations.
- 10 Israel is a well-growing vine; fruit thrives on it.
According to the multitude of its fruits,
he increased altars;
according to the good things of his land,
they built steles.
- 2 It divided their hearts.
Now they will be annihilated;
he will break down their altars;
their steles will suffer distress.
- 3 For now they will say, “We have no king,
for we did not fear the Lord,
but the king—what will he do for us?”
- 4 Uttering words,
false excuses, he will make a covenant;
judgment will spring up like grass upon a dry clot of a field.
- 5 The inhabitants of Samaria will dwell near the bull calf of the house of On,

- because his people mourned for him.
 And as they provoked him, they will rejoice over his glory,
 for it had been deported from him.
- 6 And they carried him wrapped to the Assyrians
 as friendly gifts to King Iarim.
 Ephraim will accept with a gift,
 and Israel will be shamed by his counsel.
- 7 Samaria threw out her king like firewood upon the face of the water.
- 8 And altars^a of On, the sins of Israel, shall be destroyed.
 Thorns and thistles shall grow up on their altars.
 And they shall say to the mountains, Cover
 us,
 and to the hills, Fall on us.
- 9 From which time the hills were, Israel has sinned;
 there they stood.
 A war will not overtake them in the hill,
 against the children of injustice.
- 10 I have come to discipline them, and peoples shall be gathered against
 them,
 as they are disciplined for their double
 injustice.
- 11 Ephraim is a heifer taught to love
 contention.
 So I shall come against the fairest part of her neck;
 I shall mount Ephraim;
 I shall pass over Ioudas in silence
 —Iakob will prevail over him.
- 12 Sow for yourselves unto justice;
 reap unto the fruit of life;
 enlighten yourselves with the light of
 knowledge.
 Seek the Lord
 until the produce of justice comes to you.
- 13 Why did you pass over impiety in silence and reap its injustice, ate a false fruit?
 Because you hoped in your chariots,
 in the multitude of your force!
- 14 And ruin shall rise up against your people, and all your walled places shall
 disappear,
 as the ruler Salaman from the house of Ierobaal, in the days of battle, dashed a mother to the ground with her
 children.
- 15 Thus will I do to you, O house of Israel, because of your evil deeds.
- 11 At dawn they were cast out;
 Israel's king was cast out.
- (1) For Israel was an infant, and I loved him,
 and out of Egypt I recalled his children.
- 2 As I recalled them,
 so they went from me;
 they kept sacrificing to the Baalim and offering incense to carved idols.
- 3 And it was I who bound the feet of Ephraim,
 took him upon my arm;
 and they did not know that I had healed
 them.
- 4 Amidst the ruin of people,
 I stretched them out with the bands of my love.
 And I will be to them like a person slapping his cheeks.
 And I will watch him attentively;
 I will prevail with him.
- 5 Ephraim settled in Egypt,
 and Assour himself was his king,
 because they did not want to return.
- 6 And the sword was weak in his cities and ceased to work in his hands.
 And they shall eat ^bfrom their schemes^b
- 7 And his people are hanging from his dwelling place,
 and God will be angered at his precious
 things
 and will not lift him up.
- 8 How am I to deal with you, O Ephraim?
 Shall I shield you, O Israel?
 How am I to deal with you?
 Shall I make you like Adama and like Seboim?
 My heart was changed together;
 my sense of regret was disturbed.
- 9 I will not do according to the anger of my
 wrath;
 I will not abandon Ephraim to be wiped
 out;
 for I am divine and not human, holy in your midst,
 and I will not enter into a city.
- 10 I will go after the Lord;
 he will roar like a lion.
 Because he will growl,
 even the children of waters shall be amazed.
- 11 And they shall be amazed like a bird from Egypt
 and like a dove from the land of the Assyrians,
 and I will restore them to their homes,
 says the Lord.
- 12 Ephraim has surrounded me with a lie, and the house of Israel and Ioudas with
 impiety;

^aGk = bōmos ^bOr from the fruit of their schemes

now God has come to know them, and the holy people shall be called God's.

- 12 Ephraim is an evil wind;
he pursued hot wind all day long.
He multiplied empty and vain things, and he made a covenant with the Assyrians
and would trade oil to Egypt.
- 2 And the Lord has a judgment against Ioudas,
to punish Iakob according to his ways,
and he will repay him according to his
deeds.
- 3 In the womb he kicked his brother with the heel
and in his struggles prevailed against
God.
- 4 And he prevailed with an angel and predominated.
They wept and implored me;
they found me in the house of On,
and there ^aa word^a was spoken to him.
- 5 But the Lord God the Almighty shall be his memorial.
- 6 And as for you, you shall return by your
God.
Guard mercy and judgment,
and hope continually for your God.
- 7 In his hand Chanaan is a yoke of injustice;
he has loved to oppress.
- 8 And Ephraim said, "But I am rich;
I have found relief for myself."
None of the fruits of his toil will be available to him, because of the injustice with which he sinned.
- 9 But I the Lord, your God, brought you up from the land of Egypt; I will make you live in tents again,
as the day of the feast.
- 10 And I will speak to the prophets,
and it was I who multiplied visions, and ^bI was made similar by the hand of the prophets^b.
- 11 If Galaad is nothing, then the rulers offering sacrifices in Galgal were false, and their altars like stone heaps on a parched patch of a field.
- 12 And Iakob withdrew to the plain of Syria, and Israel was subject because of a wife,
and because of a wife he kept watch.
- 13 And through a prophet the Lord brought Israel up from Egypt,
and through a prophet he was guarded.
- 14 Ephraim became angry and provoked, and his blood shall be poured out upon
him,

and the Lord shall pay him back for his
reproach.

- 13 According to report, Ephraim himself received statutes in Israel, and he established them for the goddess Baal and died.
- 2 And they added to sin and made a cast image for themselves from their silver according to the likeness of idols,
works of artisans produced for them.
"Sacrifice people," they say,
"for calves have perished."
- 3 Therefore they shall be like a morning mist and like an early dew that goes away, like dust that swirls from the threshing floor
and like a hazy swarm of grasshoppers.
- 4 But I am the Lord your God who makes heaven firm and creates earth, whose hands created all the host of the sky.
And I did not display them for you to follow after them.
And I brought you up from the land of Egypt,
and you shall know no God but me,
and apart from me there is no one that saves.
- 5 It was I who tended you in the wilderness,
in an uninhabitable land,
according to their feedings.
And they were satisfied to satiety, and their hearts were exalted;
therefore, they forgot me.
- 7 And I will become like a panther to them and like a leopard according to the way of the Assyrians.
- 8 I will meet them like a famished bear and rend the closing of their heart.
And whelps of the thicket will devour them
there;
wild animals of the field will tear them to pieces.
- 9 In your destruction, O Israel, who will help you?
Where is this king of yours?
And let him save you in all your cities.
Let him judge you who said,
"Give me a king and a ruler."
- 11 And I gave you a king in my anger and sustained in my wrath ^{12a}a gathering of injustice.
- (12) As for Ephraim,
his sin is hidden.
- 13 Pains as of one in childbirth will come to
him.
This son is without sense,

^aLacking in Gk ^bPerhaps I have been portrayed symbolically by the prophets ^ci.e. are no longer available for he will not withstand in the crushing of children.

14 I shall rescue them from the hand of Hades and shall redeem them from Death.
O Death, where is your sentence?
O Hades, where is your goad?
Comfort is hidden from my eyes.

15 For this one will make a division among brothers;
the Lord will bring a hot wind from the wilderness against him, and it will dry up his aquifers; it will drain his fountains.
It will cause his land to wither, and all his desirable vessels.

14 ^(13.16) Samaria will be annihilated, because she rose up against her God; they shall fall by the sword, and their nurslings shall be dashed to the ground, and their pregnant ones ripped open.

^{2(14.1)} Return, O Israel, to the Lord your God, for you have been weakened by your injustices.

³⁽²⁾ Take words with you, and return to the Lord your God; speak to him, that you not receive injustice but that you receive good things, and, "We will return the fruit of our lips.

⁴⁽³⁾ Assour shall not save us; we will not mount on horses; let us no longer say, 'Our gods,' to the works of our hands. 'He who is within you will pity the orphan.' "

⁵⁽⁴⁾ I will heal their settlements; I will love them openly, for my anger has turned from them.

⁶⁽⁵⁾ I will be like dew to Israel; he shall blossom like a lily and strike his roots like Lebanon.

⁷⁽⁶⁾ His branches shall go forth, and he shall be like a fruitful olive tree, and his fragrance like that of Lebanon.

⁸⁽⁷⁾ They shall return and sit beneath his shelter; they shall live and be intoxicated on grain, and his memory will blossom like the vine, like the wine of Lebanon.

⁹⁽⁸⁾ As for Ephraim—what is there any longer between him and idols?
It is I who humbled him, and it is I who will strengthen him.
I am like a leafy juniper tree; your fruit has been found from me.

¹⁰⁽⁹⁾ Who is wise and will understand these things, or prudent and will comprehend them?
For the ways of the Lord are upright, and the just will walk in them, but the impious will be weak in them.

AMOS

1 Words of Amos that came in Nakkarim out of Thekoue, which he saw concerning Ierou-salem in the days of King Ozias of Ioudas and in the days of King Ieroboam son of Ioas of Israel, two years before the earthquake. ²And he said:
The Lord uttered sounds from Sion and gave his voice from Ierousalem, and the pastures of the shepherds mourned, and the top of Carmel dried up.

³ And the Lord said:
For three impious acts of Damascus, and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a him, because they were sawing pregnant women of those in Galaad asunder with iron saws.

⁴ And I will send forth a fire on the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the foundations of the son of Hader.

⁵ And I will break the gate bars of Damascus and utterly destroy inhabitants from the plain of On, and I will cut to pieces a tribe from the men of Charran, and the important people of Syria will be taken captive, says the Lord.

⁶ This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of Gaza, and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a them, because of their capturing a captivity of Salomon, to shut them up in Idumea.

⁷ And I will send forth a fire against the walls of Gaza, and it shall devour its foundations.

⁸ And I will utterly destroy inhabitants from Azotus, and a tribe shall be removed from Ascalon, and I will bring my hand against Akkaron, and those remaining of the allophyles shall perish, says the Lord.

⁹ This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of Tyre,

^aPerhaps I will not let . . . go unpunished

- and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a
it,
because they shut up a captivity of Salomon in Idumea
and did not remember a covenant of brothers.
- 10 And I will send forth a fire against the walls of Tyre,
and it shall devour its foundations.
- 11 This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of Idumea,
and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a
them,
because they pursued his brother with a sword
and he spoiled a womb upon the ground and seized his shivering fright for a testimony
and kept his onslaught ^bunto victory^b.
- 12 And I will send forth a fire on Thaiman, and it shall devour the foundations of its
walls.
- 13 This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of the sons of Ammon,
and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a
him,
because they were ripping up the pregnant women of the Galaadites in order to enlarge their borders.
- 14 And I will kindle a fire against the walls of Rabba,
and it shall devour its foundations,
with a cry on the day of battle, and it will be shaken on the day of its
destruction.
- 15 And its kings shall go into captivity,
their priests and their rulers together,
says the Lord.
- 2 This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of Moab,
and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a
him,
because they burned to lime
the bones of the king of Idumea.
- 2 And I will send forth a fire against Moab, and it shall devour the foundations of its
cities,
and Moab shall die in debility, with shouting and with the sound of a trumpet.
- 3 And I will utterly destroy a judge from it and kill all its rulers with him,
says the Lord
- 4 This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of the sons of Ioudas,
and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a
him,
- because they rejected the law of the Lord and did not keep his ordinances, and their vain things which they made,
which their fathers followed after, led them astray.
- 5 And I will send forth a fire against Ioudas, and it shall devour the foundations of Ierusalem.
- 6 This is what the Lord says:
For three impious acts of Israel,
and for four, ^aI will not turn away from^a
him,
because they sold the just for silver and the needy for the sake of sandals—
- 7 things that tread on the dust of the earth, and they were buffeting the heads of
the poor,
and they turned aside the way of the humble,
and a son and his father were going to the same female servant
in order to profane the name of their
God.
- 8 And binding their garments with cords, they were making curtains beside the altar,
and in the house of their God they were drinking
wine obtained through extortion.
- 9 But I removed the Amorrite from before
them,
whose height was as the height of a cedar,
and who was as strong as an oak,
and I removed his fruit above and his roots beneath.
- 10 Also I brought you up out of the land of Egypt
and led you around for forty years in the
wilderness,
to inherit the land of the Amorrites.
- 11 And I took some of your sons to be prophets
and some of your youths for consecration.
Is this not so, O sons of Israel?
says the Lord.
- 12 But you were making the consecrated ones drink wine
and were commanding the prophets, saying, "You shall not prophesy."
- 13 Therefore, behold, I roll under you like a wagon full of straw is rolled.
- 14 And flight shall perish from the runner, and the strong shall not retain his
strength,
and the fighter shall not save his soul,

^aPerhaps I will not let . . . go unpunished ^bPerhaps forever

15 and the archer shall not stand, and he who is swift on his feet shall not
escape,
nor shall the horseman save his soul 16 and shall find his heart in acts of dominance;
the naked shall pursue on that day,
says the Lord.

3 Hear this word that the Lord has spoken against you, O house of Israel, and against the whole tribe that I brought up out of the land of Egypt, saying,

2 Only you have I known of all the tribes of the earth;
therefore I will avenge upon you all your sins.
3 Will two in any way walk together unless they be acquainted with each other?
4 Will a lion roar from its thicket,
when it has no prey?
Will a whelp utter its voice from his den at
all,
if he has caught nothing?
5 Will a bird fall upon the ground without a fowler?
Will a snare on the ground spring without catching something?
6 Will a trumpet sound in a city, and the people not be terrified?
Will there be evil in a city,
which the Lord did not do?
7 For the Lord God will not do a thing unless he reveals instruction to his slaves the prophets.
8 A lion will roar,
and who will not fear?
The Lord God has spoken,
and who will not prophesy?

9 Proclaim to the districts among the Assyrians,
and to the districts of Egypt, and say,
"Assemble on the mountain of Samaria, and see many marvels in its midst and oppression within it." 10 And it^a was unaware of what would be before it, says the Lord, those who store up injustice and wretchedness in their districts.
11 Therefore this is what the Lord God says: Tyre and your land round about shall be made desolate,
and he shall bring down your might out
of you,
and your districts shall be plundered.

12 This is what the Lord says: As when the shepherd pulls from the mouth of the lion two legs or a lobe of an ear, so shall the sons of Israel be pulled out, those who live in Samaria before a tribe and in Damascus as priests.

13 Hear, and testify to the house of Iakob, says the Lord God the Almighty: 14 For in the day when I take vengeance on the impious acts of Israel against him, I will also take vengeance against the altars of Baithel,
and the horns of the altar shall be demolished
and fall to the ground.
15 I will demolish the house encircled by columns onto the summer
house,
and the houses of ivory shall perish,
and many other houses shall be added,
says the Lord.

4 Hear this word, you heifers of Basanitis, who are in the mountain of Samaria, who oppress the poor and trample the
needy,
who say to their lords, "Give to us that we might drink."
2 The Lord swears by his holy ones:
For behold, days are coming upon you,
and they shall take you with weapons, and fiery pests shall cast those with you into cauldrons heated from underneath.
3 And you shall be carried out naked before each other,
and you shall be flung out into Mount Remman,
says the Lord.
4 You came to Baithel and committed
lawlessness,
and in Galgala you multiplied to commit
impiety,
and you brought your sacrifices in the
morning,
your tithes on the third day.
5 They read the law outside and called for confessions.
Announce that the sons of Israel have loved these things,
says the Lord God.
6 And I will give you an aching of the teeth in all your cities,
and lack of bread in all your places,
and you did not return to me,
says the Lord.

7 I also withheld the rain from you three months before the harvest, and I will rain on one city,
and on one city I will not rain;
one part will be rained upon,
and a part which I will not rain on will wither,

^aPossibly Samaria

- 8 and two or three cities will come together to one city
to drink water and will not be satisfied;
even so you did not return to me,
says the Lord.
- 9 I struck you with fever and jaundice;
you multiplied your gardens;
the caterpillar devoured your vineyards and fig yards and olive yards;
even so you did not return to me,
says the Lord.
- 10 I sent you death in the way of Egypt, and I killed your young men with the
sword,
along with the captivity of your horses,
and I brought up your camps with fire in your wrath;
even so you did not return to me,
says the Lord.
- 11 I overthrew you
as God overthrew Sodoma and Gomorrah,
and you were like a firebrand snatched from the fire;
even so you did not return to me,
says the Lord.
- 12 Therefore, thus I will do to you, O Israel,
but because I will do thus to you,
prepare to call upon your God, O Israel.
- 13 For behold, I am the one who makes the thunder strong and creates a wind and announces his anointed to humans, makes dawn and mist
and treads on the heights of the earth—
the Lord God the Almighty is his name!
- 5 Hear this word of the Lord that I take up over you in lamentation, O house of Israel:
2 She has fallen, no more to rise,
the maiden Israel;
she slipped upon her land;
there is no one to raise her up.
- 3 For this is what the Lord says:
The city out of which a thousand were going
forth,
there shall be left a hundred,
and out of which a hundred were going
forth,
there shall be left ten to the house of Israel.
- 4 For this is what the Lord says to the house
of Israel:
Seek me, and you shall live,
and stop seeking Baithel,
and stop entering Galgala, and stop crossing over to the well of the oath,
- because Galgala, taken captive, will be taken captive,
and Baithel shall be as not existing.
- 6 Seek the Lord, and live, lest the house of Ioseph should flame up like fire,
and it will devour him, and there will be no one to quench for the house of Israel.
- 7 The Lord is the one who makes judgment on high
and has established justice on earth, 8 who makes all things and transforms and turns the shadow of death into the morning
and darkens day into night, who calls to the water of the sea and pours it out upon the face of the
earth—
the Lord God the Almighty is his name—9 who dispenses destruction against strength and brings misery to the fortress.
- 10 They have hated the one who reproves in the gates
and have despised holy speech.
- 11 Therefore, because you were buffeting the
poor
and have taken from them choice gifts,
you have built houses of hewn stone,
but you shall not live in them;
you have planted desirable vineyards, but you shall not drink the wine from
them.
- 12 For I have known your many impious acts
—your sins are mighty—trampling the just, taking rewards and turning aside the needy in the gates.
- 13 Therefore the prudent will keep silent in that time,
for it is an evil time.
- 14 Seek the good thing and not the evil thing,
that you may live,
and so the Lord God the Almighty will be
with you,
just as you have said, 15 “We have hated evil things and loved the
good things.”
Restore judgment in the gates, that the Lord God the Almighty might have mercy on the remnant of Ioseph.
- 16 Therefore this is what the Lord God the Almighty says:
In all the streets there shall be wailing,
and in all the roads it shall be said, Alas!
Alas!
The farmer shall be called to mourning and lamentation and to those knowing a dirge;
17 in all the roads there shall be wailing,

for I will pass through the midst of you,
 said the Lord.

18 Woe, you who desire the day of the Lord!
 Why is this the day of the Lord to you?
 And it is darkness, not light, 19 as if someone should flee from a lion,
 and a bear attacks him, or he should leap into his house, place his hands on the wall,
 and a snake should bite him.
 20 Is not the day of the Lord darkness and not
 light,
 and gloom with no brightness in it?

21 I have hated, I have despised your feasts, and I will not smell at your festivals.
 22 For if you should bring to me your whole burnt offerings and sacrifices,
 I will not accept them,
 and your conspicuous acts for deliverance^a
 I will not look upon.
 23 Take away from me the noise of your
 songs;
 I will not listen to a strumming of your instruments.
 24 And judgment will roll down like water,
 and justice like an unfordable wadi.

25 Surely you did not bring me victims and sacrifices forty years, O house of Israel?
 26 You even took up the tent of Moloch and the star of your god Raiphan, models of them which you made for yourselves.
 27 And I will deport you beyond Damascus, says the Lord—God the Almighty is his name.

6 Alas for those who count Sion as nothing and for those who trust in the mountain of Samaria.
 They have harvested the rule of the
 nations
 and entered for themselves.
 2 Cross over, O house of Israel, all of you, and
 see,
 and from there pass on to Hemath Rabba,
 and go down to Geth of allophyles, the most excellent ones of all these kingdoms.
 See^b if their borders are greater than your borders.
 3 Those who pray for an evil day, who draw near and hold fast to false sabbaths,
 4 who sleep on beds of ivory and live lewdly on their couches and eat kids from the flocks and suckling calves from the midst of the herds,

5 who applaud at the sound of the instruments—
 since they considered them as permanent and not as fleeting—6 who drink thoroughly filtered wine and anoint themselves with the finest oils, they were not even suffering anything
 over the ruin of Ioseph.
 7 Therefore they shall now be captives of the powerful from the beginning, and the neighing of horses shall be removed from Ephraim.

8 Because the Lord has sworn by himself:
 For I abhor all the pride of Iakob
 and have hated his lands.
 And I will remove a city with all who inhabit it.

9 And it shall be, if ten men are left in one house, they shall also die—and the remaining ones shall be left—¹⁰and the members of their household shall take them and forcibly bring their bones out of the house, and he^c will say to those in charge of the house, "Might there still be one with you?" And he^c will say, "No more." And he will say,
 "Silence, so as not to name the name of the Lord!"

11 For behold, the Lord commands, and he shall strike the great house with bruises
 and the little house with lacerations.
 12 Will horses pursue on rocks?
 Will they be silent among mares?
 Because you have turned judgment into
 wrath
 and the fruit of justice into bitterness, you who are glad at no word, 13 who say, "Did we not have horns in our
 strength?"

14 For behold, I am raising up against you a nation,
 O house of Israel,
 and they shall oppress you, that you may not enter Hemath
 and as far as the wadi of the west.

7 Thus the Lord showed me and behold, an early offspring of grasshoppers coming, and behold, one locust larva, Gog the king. ²And it will be, if they finish to devour the grass of the land—and I said,
 "O Lord, O Lord, be gracious.
 Who will raise up Iakob,
 because he is very small?
 3 Repent, O Lord, at this."
 "Even this shall not be," says the Lord.

4 Thus the Lord showed me, and behold, the Lord called for a sentence by fire. And it devoured the voluminous deep and devoured the portion.
⁵And I said,

^aPerhaps offering for deliverance ^bLacking in Gk ^cPossibly one

- “O Lord, O Lord, do cease!
Who will raise up Iakob,
because he is very small?
6 Repent, O Lord, at this.”
“Even this shall not come about,” says
the Lord.
- 7 Thus the Lord showed me, and behold, one that stood on an adamantine wall, and adamant was in his hand. 8 And the Lord said to me, “Amos, what do you see?” And I said, “Adamant.” And the Lord said to me,
“Behold, I am inserting adamant in the midst of my people, Israel.
I will no longer add to pass them by,
9 and altars^a of laughter shall be annihilated, and the mystic rites of Israel shall be laid waste,
and I will rise against the house of Ieroboam with a sword.”
- 10 And Amasias, the priest of Baithel, sent to King Ieroboam of Israel, saying, “Amos is conducting seditious meetings against you in the midst of the house of Israel. The land shall not be able to bear all his words. 11 For this is what Amos says, ‘Ieroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led captive from his
land.’ ”
- 12 And Amasias said to Amos, “You that see, go, betake you to the land of Ioudas, and live there, and you shall prophesy there, 13 but do no longer add to prophesy at Baithel, for it is the king’s holy precinct and it is the house of the kingdom.”
- 14 And Amos answered and said to Amasias, “I was no prophet nor a prophet’s son, but I was a goatherd and a scratcher of sycamore figs, 15 and the Lord took me from the sheep, and the Lord said to me, ‘Go, prophesy against my people, Israel.’ 16 “And now, hear a word of the Lord.
You say, ‘Do not prophesy against Israel, and you shall not incite a mob against the house of Iakob.’
- 17 Therefore this is what the Lord says, ‘Your wife shall become a whore in the
city,
and your sons and your daughters shall
fall by the sword,
and your land shall be measured by line,
and you yourself shall die in an unclean
land,
and Israel shall be led captive from its
land.’ ”
- 8 Thus the Lord showed me, and behold, a fowler’s basket. And he said, “What do you see, Amos?” And I said, “A fowler’s basket.” 2 And the Lord said to me,
“The end has come upon my people Israel;
I will no longer add to pass them by,
3 and the compartments of the shrine shall wail in that day,” says the Lord;
- “the fallen one shall be numerous in every place.
I will inflict silence.”
- 4 Do hear this, you who rub out the needy in the morning
and oppress the poor from the land, 5 who say, “When will the month pass and we will do business, and the sabbaths,
and we will open storehouses,
to make a measure small, to enlarge weights
and to make the balance unfair, 6 to acquire the poor with silver and the humble for sandals, and we will trade in every kind of
produce?”
- 7 The Lord swears by the pride of Iakob:
If all your deeds shall be forgotten successfully!
- 8 And due to this shall not the land be troubled
and everyone mourn who lives in it and consumption rise up like a river
and sink like the river of Egypt?
- 9 And it will come to pass on that day, says
the Lord,
and the sun will go down at noon, and the light will become dark upon the earth in the daytime.
- 10 And I will turn your feasts into mourning and all your songs into lamentation.
And I will bring sackcloth on every loin and baldness on every head.
And I will make him^b like the mourning for a loved one
and those with him^b like a day of suffering.
- 11 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord,
and I will send a famine on the land,
not a famine of bread or a thirst for water, but a famine of hearing a word of the Lord.
- 12 And the waters will be shaken as far as the
sea,
and from north to east they shall run to
and fro,
seeking the word of the Lord,
and they shall not find it.
- 13 In that day, the beautiful maidens and the young men
shall faint for thirst, 14 those who swear by the atonement of Samaria,
and say, “Your god lives, O Dan,” and, “Your god lives, O Bersabee”— and they shall fall and never rise again.

9 I saw the Lord standing on the altar, and he said:

Strike the propitiatory, and the gateways shall be shaken,
and cut through the heads of all,
and those who are left I will kill with the sword;
not one of them fleeing shall escape, and not one of them attempting to return safe will come through safely.

2 If they be buried in Hades, from there my hand shall draw them up;
even if they ascend to heaven,
from there I will bring them down.

3 If they hide on the top of Carmel, from there I will search out and take them;
even if they sink from my eyes to the depths of the sea,
there I will command the dragon, and it shall bite them.

4 Even if they go into captivity in front of their enemies, there I will command the sword, and it shall kill them, and I will fix my eyes on them for harm and not for good.

5 And the Lord God the Almighty, who touches the earth and shakes it,
and all who inhabit it will mourn,
and its consummation will rise up like a river
and sink like the river of Egypt;

6 who builds his ascent to heaven and founds his promise upon the earth, who calls for the water of the sea and pours it out upon the face of the earth—
the Lord God the Almighty is his name.

7 Are you not like sons of Ethiopians to me,
O sons of Israel? says the Lord.
Did I not bring Israel up from the land of Egypt and the allophyles from Cappadocia and the Syrians from a hole?

8 Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the kingdom of sinners, and I will remove it from the face of the earth—except that I will not utterly remove the house of Iakob,
says the Lord.

9 For behold, I am commanding, and I will winnow the house of Israel among all the nations as one winnows with a winnowing-fan, and ^anothing crushed^a shall fall to the ground.

10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, "Evil shall not draw near or be against us."

11 On that day I will raise up the tent of Dauid that is fallen and rebuild its ruins
and raise up its destruction, and rebuild it as the days of old

12 in order that those remaining of humans and^b all the nations upon whom my name has been called might seek out me^c,
says the Lord who does these things.

13 Behold days are coming, says the Lord,
and the grain harvest shall overtake the vintage,
and the grape shall ripen at seedtime,
and the mountains shall drip sweetness,
and all the hills shall be thickly grown.

14 And I will return the captivity of my people Israel, and they shall build the annihilated cities and inhabit them,
and they shall plant vineyards and drink their wine,
and they shall plant gardens and eat their fruit.

15 And I will plant them upon their land, and they shall never again be plucked from their land that I have given them,
says the Lord God the Almighty.

MICHAIAS

1 And a word of the Lord came to Michaias, the Morasthi, in the days of Kings Ioatham and Achaz and Hezekias of Ioudas, regarding the things that he saw concerning Samaria and concerning Ierousalem.

2 Hear words, you people, and let the earth pay attention, and all those in it, and the Lord shall be a witness against^d you,
the Lord from his holy house.

3 For behold, the Lord is coming out of his place and will come down and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountains will quake under him, and the valleys will melt like wax from before the fire and like water being carried in a descent.

5 All this is for the impiety of Iakob and for the sin of the house of Israel.
What is the impiety of Iakob?
Is it not Samaria?
And what is the sin of the house of Ioudas?
Surely it is Ierousalem?

^aPerhaps no crushed grain ^bOr even ^cLacking in Gk ^dOr among

6 And I will make Samaria an orchard-guard's shed in the field
and a planting of a vineyard.
And I will pull down her stones into a chasm,
and her foundations I will uncover.

7 And all her carved images they shall cut to pieces,
and all her wages they shall burn with
fire,
and all her idols I will make an annihilation.
For from the wages of whoredom she gathered them,
and from the wages of whoredom she brought them together.

8 For this she shall lament and wail;
she shall go unshod and naked;
she shall make lamentation like that of dragons
and mourning like that of the daughters of Sirens.

9 Because her blow has taken hold, for it has come as far as Ioudas and has reached as far as the gate of my
people,
as far as Ierousalem.

10 Do not consider yourselves great, you in Geth;
do not rebuild out of a house a laughingstock, you in Akim;
besprinkle your laughingstock with soil.

11 Though she inhabits her cities well, inhabiting Sennaan did not come out to mourn
a house next to her;
she shall receive a painful blow from you.

12 Who made a beginning of good things for her who dwells in pain?
Because bad things have come down from
the Lord
to the gates of Ierousalem:
noise of chariots and of horsemen.
She who dwells in Lachis,
she is the originator of sin
for daughter Sion,
because in you were found
the impious acts of Israel.

14 Therefore you shall give worthless houses—ones being dispatched—
as far as the inheritance of Geth.
It^a became meaningless to the kings of Israel.

15 Until I lead the heirs to you,
O inheritance inhabiting [Lachis], the glory of daughter Israel will come as far as Odollam.

16 Shave, and cut your hair for your pampered children;
broaden your widowhood like an eagle,
because they were taken captive from you.

2 They came devising troubles and working out evil deeds on their beds.
And as soon as it was day, they would execute them,
for they did not lift their hands to God.

2 And they would covet fields and plunder orphans
and oppress households, and they would plunder a man and his house, a man and his inheritance.

3 Therefore this is what the Lord says:
Behold, I am devising evil against this tribe from which you shall not remove your necks
nor walk upright suddenly,
because it is an evil time.

4 On that day a parable shall be taken up
against you,
and a dirge will be wailed with a tune,
saying, "We suffered misery in misery;
a portion of my people was measured by a line,
and there was none to prevent him from turning away.
Our fields were parceled out." Therefore you will have no one to cast the line by lot
in the assembly of the Lord.

6 "Stop weeping with tears, nor let them shed tears over these
matters,
for he will not repel reproaches."

7 One says, "The house of Iakob provoked the spirit of the Lord."
If these are his practices,
are not his words good with him,
and have they not proceeded upright?

8 And previously, my people resisted in hostility;
contrary to his peace they stripped off his skin
to remove hope in the crushing of war.

9 Therefore, leaders of my people shall be cast
out
of their homes of luxury.
On account of their evil practices, they have been expelled.
Draw near to the everlasting mountains.

10 Arise, and go,
because this rest is not for you,
due to uncleanness.
You were corrupted with corruption;
you were pursued without anyone pursuing.

11 A spirit established a lie; it dripped on you as wine and intoxicating drink.
And it shall be that from the drop of this
people,
12 when Iakob is being gathered, he will be gathered together with all.
Receiving I will receive those remaining
of Israel;

^aPerhaps Geth

I will establish their return at the same time.
 Like sheep in affliction, like a flock in the midst of their stall, they shall leap away from people.
 13 They have cut through the breach before
 them,
 and they passed through the gate
 and went out through it.
 And their king went out before them,
 but the Lord shall lead them.

3 And he will say:
 Do hear this, you progenitors of the house of Iakob
 and you that are left of the house of Israel!
 Should you not know judgment—2 you who hate the good things and seek the evil things,
 who snatch their skin from them,
 and their flesh from their bones?
 3 As they devoured the flesh of my people and flayed their skin off them and crushed their bones and cut them in pieces like meat in a cauldron,
 like flesh in a cauldron.

4 Thus they will cry to the Lord, and he will not listen to them,
 and he will turn his face from them at that
 time,
 because they did evil against them^a in their practices.

5 This is what the Lord says against the prophets who lead my people
 astray,
 who bite with their teeth
 and announce peace to him^a,
 and nothing has been given into their
 mouth;
 they have raised up war against him^a.
 6 Therefore, it shall be night to you without vision
 and darkness to you without divination.
 The sun shall go down upon the prophets,
 and the day shall be dark over them;
 7 those who see dreams shall be disgraced,
 and the diviners shall be mocked;
 they shall all speak against them,
 for no one will listen to them.
 8 Otherwise I will replenish strength in the spirit of the Lord,
 and of judgment and of dominance to declare to Iakob his impious acts and to Israel his sins.

9 Do hear this, you leaders of the house of Iakob
 and you that are left of the house of Israel,

who abhor judgment
 and pervert the upright things, 10 who build Sion with blood and Ierousalem with injustice!
 11 Her leaders were judging for gifts, and her priests were giving answer for a wage,
 and her prophets were divining for
 money,
 and they were relying on the Lord, saying, "Is the Lord not with^b us?
 No harm shall come upon us."
 12 Therefore, on your account Sion shall be plowed as a field, and Ierousalem shall become like a gardenwatcher's hut,
 and the mountain of the house shall become a grove of a thicket.

4 And it shall be in the last days, the mountain of the Lord shall be manifest,
 prepared on the tops of the mountains,
 and it shall be elevated beyond the hills.
 And peoples shall hasten to it,
 2 and many nations shall come and say:
 "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord
 and to the house of the God of Iakob, and they will show us his way,
 and we will walk in his paths." Because out of Sion shall go forth a law, and a word of the Lord from Ierousalem.

3 And he shall judge between many peoples and shall reprove strong nations far
 away,
 and they shall cut their swords into plows
 and their spears into sickles, and nation shall no longer lift up sword against nation,
 and they shall learn war no more, 4 and each one shall rest under his vine, and each under his fig tree,
 and no one shall make them afraid, for the mouth of the Lord Almighty has spoken this.

5 Because all the peoples will walk,
 each in its own way,
 but we will walk in the name of the Lord,
 our God,
 forever and anon.

6 In that day, says the Lord,
 I will assemble her who is shattered, and I will welcome her who is rejected
 and those whom I drove away.
 7 And I will make her who is shattered a remnant,
 and her who is driven away a strong
 nation,

^ai.e. the people ^bOr among

- and the Lord will reign over them in Mount Sion
from now and forever.
- 8 And you, O dusty tower of the flock, daughter Sion,
to you it shall come,
and the former dominion, a kingdom out of Babylon,
shall enter daughter Ierousalem.
- 9 And now why did you know harm?
You did not have a king, did you?
Or did your counsel perish, because pangs subdued you like one in labor?
- 10 Suffer pain, and be courageous, and draw near, O daughter Sion,
like one in labor,
for now you shall go forth from the city
and tent in the plain,
and you shall come as far as Babylon.
From there he will rescue you, and from there the Lord your God will redeem you
from the hand of your enemies.
- 11 And now many nations have assembled against you,
those who say, "We shall rejoice, and our eyes shall behold Sion."
- 12 They too did not know
the thought of the Lord,
and they did not understand his plan,
that he has gathered them as sheaves of a threshing floor.
- 13 Arise, and thresh them,
O daughter Sion,
because I will make your horns iron and your hoofs I will make bronze, and you shall dissolve many peoples and shall devote their multitude to the Lord
and their strength to the Lord of the whole earth.
- 5 Now a daughter will be blocked with a blockage;
he set up a siege against us;
with a rod they shall strike the tribes of Israel
upon the cheek.
- 2 And you, O Bethleem, house of Ephratha, are very few in number to be among the thousands of Ioudas;
one from you shall come forth for me
to become a ruler in Israel, and his goings forth are from of old,
from days of yore.
- 3 Therefore he shall give them up until the
time
- when she who is in labor shall bring
forth,
and the rest of their brothers shall return to the sons of Israel.
- 4 And he shall stand and see and tend his flock in the strength of the Lord.
And they shall exist in the glory of the name of the Lord their God, for now he shall be great to the ends of the earth,
and this shall be peace.
- 5 When Assour comes against our land and when he treads upon our country, seven shepherds shall also be raised up
against him,
and eight stings of people.
- 6 And they shall tend Assour with a sword and the land of Nebrod with her ditch;
and he shall rescue us^a from Assour,
when he comes against our land and when he treads upon our borders.
- 7 And the remnant of Iakob among the
nations,
in the midst of many peoples,
shall be like dew falling from the Lord and like lambs in the grass that none among sons of man may assemble or resist.
- 8 And the remnant of Iakob among the
nations,
in the midst of many peoples,
shall be like a lion among animals in the forest
and like a whelp among flocks of
sheep,
as when it passes through and, having made a selection,
snatches away, and there is none to deliver.
- 9 Your hand shall be exalted over those who oppress you,
and all your enemies shall be utterly
destroyed.
- 10 It shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord,
I will utterly destroy your horses from among you
and will demolish your chariots, and I will utterly destroy the cities of your
land
and remove all your strongholds, and I will remove your sorceries from your
hands,
and there will be no speakers of apothegms among you,
and I will destroy your carved images and your steles from among you, and you shall do obeisance no more to the works of your hands,

^aLacking in Gk

14 and I will cut off your sacred groves from among you
and annihilate your cities.
15 And in anger and wrath I will execute vengeance
on the nations, due to the fact they did not listen.

6 Do hear a word of the Lord. The Lord said: Rise, plead your case before the
mountains,
and let the hills hear your voice.
2 Hear, you peoples, the judgment of the Lord,
and you chasms, foundations of the
earth,
because the Lord has a case against his
people,
and he will dispute with Israel.

3 "O my people, what have I done to you?
Or how did I sadden or how did I annoy you? Answer me!
4 For I brought you up from the land of Egypt and redeemed you from a house of slavery,
and I sent before you Moyses and Aaron and Mariam.
5 O my people, do remember what King Balak of Moab planned against you and what Balaam son of Beor answered
him
from the reeds as far as Galgal, that the justice of the Lord might be known."

6 "With what should I lay hold of the Lord;
shall I lay claim to my God Most High?
Shall I lay hold of him with whole burnt offerings,
with calves a year old?
7 Will the Lord receive favorably among thousands of rams
or among ten thousands of swollen streams?
Should I give my firstborns for impious acts, the fruit of my belly for the sin of my
soul?"
8 Has it been told to you, O man, what is
good
or what the Lord seeks from you, but to do judgment and to love mercy and to be ready to walk with the Lord, your God?

9 The voice of the Lord will be invoked for the city,
and he shall save those who fear his
name.
Hear, O tribe, and who shall adorn a city?
10 Will a fire and a lawless person's house [treasuring up] lawless treasure and a measure of pride—injustice?

11 Shall the lawless be justified by a pair of scales,
or deceitful weights by a bag?
12 From these they filled their wealth with
impiety.
And her inhabitants were speaking lies,
and their tongue was exalted in their
mouth.
13 And I will begin to strike you down;
I will annihilate you because of your sins.
14 You shall eat, and you shall not be satisfied.
And it shall grow dark within you,
and you shall swim away and shall not
escape.
And as many as shall escape shall be delivered over to the sword.
15 You shall sow, and you shall not reap;
you shall press the olive and shall not anoint yourself with oil,
and even wine you shall not drink, and the precepts of my people shall be annihilated,
16 and all the works of the house of Achaab.
And you walked in their counsels, that I might give you over to annihilation and her inhabitants to hissing, and you shall receive reproaches of
peoples.

7 Woe is me, because I have become like one gathering stubble at the harvest and like grape gleanings at the vintage, when there is no cluster to eat the firstlings.
Woe is me, O soul,
2 because the devout has perished from the
land,
and there is none among people who is upright;
all give a judgment for^a blood;
they afflict, each his neighbor, with
affliction.
3 They prepare their hands for evil;
the ruler requests, and the judge has spoken peaceful words;
it is what pleases his soul.
And I will take away their good things like a moth eating and crawling on a rod in the day of your watching.
[Woe, woe,] your vengeance has come;
now their weeping shall come.
4 Put no trust in friends,
and do not hope in leaders;
guard yourself against your bedmate,
so as to communicate anything to her;
5 for a son dishonors a father, a daughter shall rise up against her
mother,
6 a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;

^ai.e. aiming at the enemies of a man are the men in his house.

7 But as for me, I will look to the Lord;
I will wait for God my savior;
my God will hear me.

8 Stop rejoicing over me, O my lady adversary, because I have fallen and I shall rise,
for though I shall sit in darkness,
the Lord shall give me light.

9 I will endure the wrath of the Lord —because I sinned against him—until he justifies my sentence, and he will accomplish my judgment and will bring me out into the light;
I will see his justice.

10 And my lady adversary will see and will be covered with shame, she who says to me, "Where is the Lord
your God?"
My eyes shall look upon her;
now she shall become an object to be trampled
like clay in the streets during a day of daubing of brick.

That day will be your erasure,
and that day will rub out your precepts.

12 And your cities shall come to a leveling and a dividing [of the Assyrians], and your strong cities to a dividing from Tyre as far as a river—a day of water and confusion.

13 The earth will become an annihilation with its inhabitants, for the fruits of their doings.

14 Shepherd your people with your rod,
the sheep of your possession, tenting alone in a forest
in the midst of Carmel;
they shall feed in Basanitis and Galaaditis as the days of old.

15 And as in the days of your exit from Egypt, you shall see marvelous things.

16 Nations shall see and be ashamed of all their might;
they shall lay their hands on their mouth;
their ears shall be deafened;
they shall lick dust like a snake,
as they trail dirt;
they shall be confounded in their enclosure;
they shall be amazed at the Lord, your God,
and shall be afraid of you.

18 Who is god like you, removing injustices and passing over impieties
for the remnant of his possession?
And he did not retain his anger for a witness,
because he is one that desires mercy.

19 He will turn and have compassion upon us;
he will sink our injustices and cast all our sins

into the depths of the sea.

20 You will give truth to Iakob, mercy to Abraam,
as you swore to our fathers
in former days.

IOEL

1 A word of the Lord that came to Ioel the son of Bathouel.

2 Hear this, O elders;
give ear, all you that inhabit the land!
Have such things happened in your days or in the days of your fathers?

3 Tell your children of them, and your children their children,
and their children to another generation.

4 The leavings of the caterpillar the grasshopper has devoured, and the leavings of the grasshopper
the locust larva has devoured, and the leavings of the locust larva
the rust has devoured.

5 Sober up, drunkards, from their wine and weep;
wail, all you who drink wine unto intoxication,
because happiness has been removed from your mouth, and joy.

6 Because a nation has come up against my
land,
powerful and innumerable;
its teeth are lion's teeth,
and its molars those of a whelp.

7 It has set my vine for annihilation and my fig trees for breaking;
searching it has searched it out and thrown
it down;
its branches have turned white.

8 Lament for me more than a bride dressed in sackcloth
for the husband of her youth.

9 Sacrifice and libation are removed from the house of the Lord.
Mourn, O priests,
that minister to the altar,
because the plains have suffered misery.
Let the land mourn,
because the grain has suffered misery;
the wine has dried up;
the oil has been diminished.

11 The farmers have dried up.
Wail, O farms,
over the wheat and barley,
for the harvest of the field is ruined.

12 The vine has dried up, and the fig trees have become few.
Pomegranate and palm and apple

- even all the trees of the field have dried
up,
because the sons of men
have put joy to shame.
- 13 Gird yourselves, and mourn, you priests;
lament, you that minister to the altar.
Enter, sleep in sackcloth,
when you minister to God,
because sacrifice and libation have failed from the house of your God.
- 14 Sanctify a fast;
proclaim a service;
gather all the elders
who inhabit the land
into the house of your God,
and cry out earnestly to the Lord.
- 15 Alas! Alas! Alas for the day, because the day of the Lord is near,
and it will come like misery from misery.
- 16 The food has been utterly destroyed before our eyes,
happiness and joy
from the house of our God.
- 17 Heifers have jumped up at their mangers;
storehouses have been annihilated;
wine presses have been razed to the
ground,
because the grain has dried up.
- 18 How shall we store anything in them?
The herds of cattle have wept,
because there has been no pasture for them;
even the flocks of sheep have been
annihilated.
- 19 To you, O Lord, I will shout, because fire has destroyed the seasonable things of the wilderness
and a flame has kindled all the trees of the field.
- 20 Even the animals of the plain have looked up to you,
because courses of water have dried up and fire has devoured
the seasonable things of the wilderness.
- 2 Trumpet with a trumpet in Sion; make proclamation on my holy
mountain!
And let all the inhabitants of the land be confounded,
for the day of the Lord has come, because it is near—
- 2 a day of darkness and gloom,
a day of cloud and mist!
Like dawn, a numerous and mighty people shall pour onto the mountains;
their like has not been from of old,
and after him there shall not be added throughout the years for generations of generations.
- 3 In front of him there is a consuming fire,
and a kindled flame behind him;
the land before him is like an orchard of
delight,
but a plain of annihilation behind him,
and no one shall escape him.
- 4 Their appearance is like the appearance of horses,
and like horsemen so they shall pursue.
- 5 Like the noise of chariots they shall leap on the tops of the
mountains,
and like the noise of a flame of fire devouring stubble
and like a numerous and mighty people being drawn up for battle.
- 6 Before him peoples will be crushed;
every face will be like the soot of an earthen pot.
- 7 Like fighters they will run, and like men of battle they will scale the
walls.
And each will go by his own way
and not turn from their paths.
- 8 And no one will stand aloof from his brother;
weighed down by their own weapons,
they shall go,
and they shall fall by their arrows
and not come to an end.
- 9 They shall seize the city
and run upon the walls;
they will scale the houses and enter through windows like thieves.
- 10 The earth shall be disturbed before them,
and the sky shall be shaken.
The sun and the moon shall grow dark,
and the stars shall shed their brightness.
- 11 The Lord shall give forth his voice
before his force,
because exceedingly large is his encampment,
because strong are the actions of his
words.
For great is the day of the Lord, great and exceedingly remarkable,
and who shall be sufficient for it?
- 12 Even now, says the Lord, your God, return to me with all your heart, with fasting and with weeping and with
mourning,
and rend your hearts and not your
clothing.
- And return to the Lord, your God,
for he is merciful and compassionate, patient and very beneficent and repenting concerning evils.
- 14 Who knows whether he will turn and repent and leave a blessing behind him, a sacrifice and a libation
for the Lord, your God?

- 15 Trumpet with the trumpet in Zion;
sanctify a fast;
proclaim a service;
- 16 gather the people.
Sanctify an assembly;
welcome the aged;
gather the infants sucking the breast.
Let the bridegroom come from his bedroom,
and the bride from her chamber.
- 17 Between the foundation and the altar, the priests who minister to the Lord shall weep and say,
"Spare your people, O Lord, and do not subject your inheritance to the reproach
of being ruled over by nations, lest they say among the nations:
'Where is their God?' "
- 18 And the Lord became jealous for his land and spared his people.
- 19 And the Lord answered and said to his
people:
Behold I am sending you
grain and wine and oil,
and you will be satisfied with them, and I will no more give you over to reproach among the nations.
- 20 And I will chase from you the one from the north
and banish him to a parched land, and I will annihilate his front in the first sea
and his rear in the last sea, and his decay will go up, and his foul smell will go up,
because he magnified his works.
- 21 Courage, O land,
rejoice, and be happy,
because the Lord has done great things!
- 22 Courage, you animals of the plain, because the plains of the wilderness have blossomed,
because a tree has borne its fruit;
a vine and fig tree have yielded their
strength.
- 23 And you children of Zion, rejoice, and be happy in the Lord, your
God,
for he has given you food for justice,
and he shall send you the early and later rain as before.
- 24 The threshing floors shall be full of grain, and the vats shall overflow with wine and
oil.
- 25 And I will repay you for the years that the grasshopper devoured, and the locust larva and the rust and the caterpillar,
my great force, which I sent against you.
- 26 And eating you shall eat and be satisfied and praise the name of the Lord your
God
in regard to the marvelous things he has done with you.
And my people shall never again be put to
shame.
- 27 You shall know that I am in the midst of Israel,
and I am the Lord your God, and there is none other but me.
And my people shall never again be put to
shame.
- 28 And it shall be after these things,
I will pour out of my spirit on all flesh,
and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy,
and your old men shall dream dreams,
and your young men shall see visions.
- 29 Even on the male and female slaves,
in those days, I will pour out of my spirit.
- 30 I will give portents in the sky and on earth:
blood and fire and the vapor of smoke. ³¹The sun shall be turned to darkness, and the moon to blood, before the great and notable day of the Lord comes. ³²And it shall be, everyone who calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved, because in Mount Sion and in Jerusalem there shall be one who escapes, as the Lord has said, and people who have good news announced to them, whom the Lord has called.
- 3 For, behold, in those days and at that time, when I return the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, ²I will also gather all the nations and bring them down to the valley of Josaphat and hold a disputation with them there, on account of my people and my heritage Israel, who were dispersed among the nations. And they have divided my land ³and have cast lots for my people, and they gave the boys to whores and would sell the girls for wine and would drink.
- ⁴ And what are you to me, O Tyre and Sidon
